fortified the Title of Ifrael by many argu-the foundation of solomon's Temple, there gan the war; and being threngthened by roaldus findeth Jephta's 300. years to be but God, overthrew them: and did not onely 266. years, to wit, 18. of Josua, 40. of Othobeat them out of the Plains, but forc't them niel, 80. of Aod and Samgar, 40. of Debora, 40. with and Abel of the vineyards, Cities ex- 22. of Jair: But Jephta (faith Beroaldus) Id facilisms prest heretofore in the description of the putteth or proposeth a certain number for merocerto Holy Land. After which victory it is said, that an uncertain: Sic ut dicat annum agi prope Prointerio he performed the vain vow which he made, trecentesimum, ex quo nullus litem ea de remoto facrifice the first living creature he in- verit Israeli; so he speaketh (faith he) as countred, coming out of his houle to meet meaning that then it was about or well-nigh the him; which happened to be his own daugh- three hundred year, fince Ifrael possessed those ter, and onely childe, who with all patience Countries, no man making question of their submitted her self, and onely desired two right. Codoman on the contrary finds more moneths time to bewail her Virginity on the years than Jephta named by 65, to wit, 265. Mountains of Gilead; because in her the whereof 71. were spent in Israels captivity, at issues of her Father ended: but the other several times, of which (as Codoman thinkopinion, that she was not offered, is more pro- eth Jephta forbare to repeat the whole sum. bable, which Borheus and others prove tuffi- or any great part, left the Ammonites should have justly objected, that 71. of those years After these things the children of Ifrael, the Ifraelites were in captivity, and vasials to of the Tribe of Ephraim, either envious of their neighbour Princes, and therefore Jephia's victory, or otherwise making way knowing that to name three hundred years. to their future calamity, and to the most it was enough for prescription, he omitted

To justifie this account of 265, years, befides the 71. years of captivity or affliction. contested with Gideon. Jephra hereupon to be added to Beroaldus his 266, he addeth inforced to defend himself against their fu- also 28. years more, and so maketh up the ry, in the incounter flew of them 42000. fum of 365. These 28. years he findeth which so weakened the body of the Land, out thus: twenty years he gives to the as the Philistims had an easie conquest of Seniors between Josua and Othoniel: and them all not long after. Jephta, after he had where Beroaldus alloweth eighteen years to judged Ifrael six years, died: to whom suc- Josua his government, Codeman accounts ceeded Ibzan, who ruled seven years: after that his rule lasted 26. according to Johim Elon was their Judge ten years: in all fephus; whereas Saint Agustine and Eusebiwhich time Ifrael had peace. Eusebius finds us give him 27. Melanthon 32. The not Elon, whom he calleth Adon, for in the truth is, that this addition of 28. years, is Septuagint, approved in his time, this Judge far more doubtful than the other of 71. But though we admit not of this addition, yet by accounting of some part of the years of affliction ( to wit 34. years of the 71.) if we add them to the 266. years fayes that Ifrael had then possess the East of Beroaldus, which reckoneth none of fide of Jordan 300. years) to speak somewhat these, we have the just number of 300. years, Neither is it strange that Jephta should leave out more than half of the years of afflinologers: there being found three places of ction: seeing, as it is already said, the Am-Scriptures touching this point, feeming re- monites might except against the 71. years, dispute between Jephta and Ammon, for the a good part of them, the Israelites had no which is in the first of Kings. Jephta here opinion, making those 300. years rememchallengeth the possession of Gilead for 300. bred by Jephra, to be 306. which odd years, years: S. Paul giveth to the Judger, as it feems, faith he, Jephta omitteth. But because the from the end of Tofua to the last of Heli,450. | years of every Judge, as they reigned, years. In the first of Kings it is taught, that cannot make up the number of 306. but from the departing of Ifrael out of Eg.pt, to do onely compound 266. therefore doth which Alofes front in the Defarts of Arabia lites had conquered Sehon and Og, the right Petrea; which forty years of Moses added of possession which they had, passed to Ifrael; to the number which Beroaldus fundeth of and fo Jephta might fay, that they had pof-

266, make indeed 306. Luthers judgment herein: for in the dispute rest of the possession of the two Kings, schon between Jephta and Ammon for the Land of and og, whose right the Ifraelites had by the Gilead, it is written in the person of Ammon, law of conquest. in these words : Because Ifrael took my Land, ginning of this account is to be referred to doth the better to approve the times from the time of the taking: which Jephta's answer the egression out of Egypt to the building of also confirmeth in these words: When Israel the Temple, which in the first of Kings 6. is Judg 11. dwelt in Heshbon, and in her Towns, and in faid to be 480. years. Aroer, and in her Towns, and in all the Cities | Now for a fruch as Saint Paul (as it feems) victories and possessions.

eleventh Chapter of Judges, in our translati- ved by the affinity of those two Greek on in these words: But when Israel came up words, whereof the one signifieth 300. and from Egypt, &c. and therefore Moses his 40. the other 400. wrote Tetracosiois, for Triacoyears (ashe thinks) are to be accounted, fiois; 400. years for 300. years; and 450.for which make the number of 305. years: and 350. This he seeketh to strengthen by mathers; to whom also I leave to judge, whe- ther and Beza begin at Moses death, he takes ther we may not begin the 480. years, from his account from the death of Josua, and fed it, Sehon and Og had dispossessed Moab ring all Sampsons time, they were Lords over it.

Luther add to this number the whole time; and Ammon thereof: fo that when the Ilraefelled those Countries 300. years, reckoning But I fee nothing in the Text to warrant 266, years of their own possession, and the

The fecond place disputed is this of Saint Readily when they came up from Egypt, from Arnon Paul, Act. 13 that from the end of Josua, to the 14 of 74 when they came up from Egypt, from Almost thingstoring the class of possible that the class of the clas it is plain, that the time is not to be account- befides the letter (as I find his opinion cited thost a. ed from Moses departure out of Egypt : but by Functius Krentzhemius, and Beza) for 1 Bere in its from the time that the Land was posses. For have not read his Commentaries. For he ac- ons upon it is faid. Quia cepit Ifrael terram meam, Behold counteth from the death of Mofes, to the last the 13. et Ifrael took my Land: and therefore the be- year of Heli, but 357. years: and this he

that are by the coast of Arnon 300. years : why finds 450. years from the death of Josuato did ye not then recover them in that flace ? to the last of Heli , and leaves but thirty years as this place speaks it directly, that Ifrael had for Saul and Samuel, who governed 40. for inhabited and dwelt in the Cities of Gilead David who ruled 40. and for Solomon who 300. years: and therefore to account the wore the Crown three whole years ere that times from the hopes or intents that Ifrael the foundation of the Temple was laid; had to polies it, it seemeth somewhat strain- therefore Luther takes it, that there was ered to me: for we do not use to reckon the rour in the Scribe, who wrote out this piece time of our conquests in France, from our of Scripture of Saint Paul: to wit, Then af-Princes intents or purposes, but from their terward he gave unto them Judges about 450. 4#63:00 years, unto the time of Samuel the Pro-Junius nevertheless likes the opinion of phet: the words [then afterward] being Luther, and fayes, that this time of 300. years clearly referred to the death, or after the hath reference, and is to take beginning from death of Josua, as shall be hereafter proved. the first of Jephta's narration: when he But where Saint Luke, rehearling the words makes a brief repetition of Moses whole of Saint Paul, wrote 350. years (saith Luther) journey: to wit, at the fixteenth Verse of the the Scribe in the transcription being deceinot onely the time in which Ifrael possest Gi- ny arguments: to which opinion Beza in his lead, according to the Text, and Jephra's own great annotations adhereth. A contrary words: of which I leave the judgment to o- judgment to this hath Codoman: where Luthe deliverance out of Egypt to the Temple, from thence to the beginning of samuel he even from the first departure out of Egypt, makes 430. years: to wit, of the Judges (not and yet find a more probable reconciliation reckoning sampsons years) 319, and of years of Saint Pauls and Jephta's account with this of servitude and affliction under stran-reckoning than any of those that as yet have been signified. For first, touching Jephi's three hundred years of possession the East three hundred years of possession the East thing the formula it is to be remembed. fide of Jordan, it is to be remembred, that in which the Philiftims are faid to have for a good while before the Ifraelites posses, oppressed Ifrael. For it is plain, that du- July 10.

CHAP. XIII.

which make as before 450. according to bont 450. years, &c. and therefore to rec-

Saint Paul. Neither would it breed any kon from the death of Mofes, is wide of Saint fua and Othoniel should be denied. For they nience of any weight in opinion of Codoman which deny these years, and make Othoni- touching this place in the Ads, is, that it

Tofina, as in the beginning of this reckoning, 1 Reg. 6.11. For if indeed there were spent they have 20. years less than Codoman, so of the Judges ) in the number of Samplons tween the beginning of the Ifraelites jourhims oppressing the Israelites, they have 20. the Temple by Solomon. To this difficulty

a-part from Sampsons 20. but Codoman , as the beginning , but in the ending of their half of the forty of the Philistims oppressi- 25. years after the beginning of Othomiels inforce) that the Philistims in any Inter- of which we have already spoken, make 397.

Sampson was their Judge; and so the rec- the 3. of Solomon, we shall have the just sum koning will come to 450. years between the of 480. years. Neither is it hard, faith he, that though we admit not of an Inter-regnum of be understood egressions non incipients, sed the seniors between Josua and Othoniel: For, finite, the year of their coming out of Egypt if the times of their affliction be summed, (for so it is in the original) or the year after they make 111. years, to which if we add they came out of Egypt, may well be under-have the just fum of 450. And this com- thence, that is, after they had ended their putation either one way or other, may feem wandring from thence. For fo we find that to be much more probable, than theirs that things which were done forty years after correct the Text, although we should ad- they had set foot out of Egypt, are said to mit of their correction thereof, and read have been done in their going out of Egypt; with them 350. for 450. For whereas they as Pfal. 114. When Ifrael came out of Egypt, conceive that this time of 350. years, is to Jordan was driven back. And Dent. 4.45, of Moser: certainly the place of Saint Paul | when they came out of Egypt. And thus far it

If ael, So then of the Judges, besides the 111. doth evidently teach the contrary, though years of fervitude, Codoman reckoneth it be received for true that there was viti-(as I have faid ) 319, years, which two um feriptoris in the rest. For these be fums put together, make 430. years And Saint Pauls words: And about the time of whereas Saint Paul nameth 450. years, he forty years, God suffered their manners in the finds 20. years to make up Saint Paul's num- wilderness: and be destroyed seven Nations ber, to have been spent after the death of in the Land of Canaan, and divided their Josea by the Seniors, before the Captivity Land to them by let. Then afterward be gave of Culban, or the election of Othoniel: unto them Judges about 450. years, unto the or capital, of the electron of channel. The or Samuel the Prophet. So as first in according to Saint Paul. To approve this the eighteenth verse he speaketh of Moses, time of the Elders, he citeth two places of and of his years spent in the Wilderness Scriptures, namely the 24. of Josua, and the then in the nineteenth verse he cometh fecond of Judges, in each of which places it unto the acts of Josua; which were, that is written, that Ifrael Jerved the Lord all the he destroyed seven Nations in the Land of dayes of Jossa. So as to these times by lot. In the twentieth Verse it follow-of the Elders, Codoman giveth 20. years, cth, Then afterward he gave them Judges a- Jos 14.1, great difficulty in this opinion, if here alto the 20. years of the seniors between Jo- standing can pierce it. The onely inconveels 40, to begin presently upon the death of seems irreconcileable with the account.

toward the end of it (when they reckon beginning of Samuel, certainly there must the years of affliction apart from the years needs be much more than 480. years be-years, and of the forty years of the Phili- neying from Egypt, and the foundation of years more than Codoman. For they rec- Codoman answereth, that these 480 years, kon these 40. years of oppression all of them I Reg. 6.1. must begin to be reckoned, not in is faid, makes Sampsons 20. to be the one journeying from Egypt, which he makes to be ons; fo that if the 20. years of the Seniors government; from whence if we cast the be not allowed to Codoman, then he may years of the Judges, with the years of servireckon (as the letter of the Text feems to tude (which fums, according to his account, regnum, before Sampson judged Ifrael, vexed years) and so to these years add the 40. of the Ifraelites 40. years, besides the 20. while samuel, and Saul, and the 40. of David, and end of Josua, and the beginning of Samuel, the annus egressionis, I Kings 6. 1. should the years of the Judges, which are 339. we flood for the year after they were come out begin immediately, or soon after the death These are the testimonies which Moses spake

it feems we may very well agree with Codo- by Moses, and the stopping of Jordan, they man, for the interpretation of the ab exitu, might indeed be properly laid to have been, to be as much as quum exivissent, or ab exitu when Israel came out of Egypt: like as we finito: for if Junius, Deut. 4.45. do well fay that King Edward the tirit was crowned read quum exivissent, for in exitu, as it seems when he came out of the Holy Land, for so that herein he doth well, why may not we all journies with their accidents commonly alfo, to avoid contradiction in the Scritake name from the place either whence or pture, expound ab exitu to be, postquam exitation with the they tend. But I think that he can

Othoniel. To this Codoman answereth, that Indeed most unproper it were to give date then it had no end, till when all the Tribes unto actions commenced long after, from an then it mad no can, any which all the characteristic state of the control of the Danites at length seated themselves, as it is Palestina did win Scotland, or died at Carlile. Judg. 18.1 declared, Judg. 18. For doubtless to this How may we then believe that enterprize time the Expedition may most conveniently performed so many years after the division be referred. And thus without any great of the Land(which followed the conqueft at inconvenience to him appearing, doth Codo- the journies end) should be said to have man reconcile the account of Jephra, and of been at the time of the departure out of E-Saint Paul, with that in the first of Kings, c. 6. gypt? Or who will not think it most strange, Now whereas it is faid, that the Expedition | that the most notable account of time, serof the Danites was when there was no King | ving as the onely guide for certain ages in in Ifrael: to this Codoman answereth, that it facred Chronology, should not take name is not necessary that we should suppose that and beginning from that illustrious delive-Othoniel lived all those 40. years of rest, of rance out of Egypt, rehearsed often by God which judg. 3.11. so that by the 25. year himself among the principal of his benefits after his victory, either he might have been to Israel, whereof the very day and moneth dead, or at least, as Gideon did, he might have are recorded in Scripture (as likewise are refused all Soveraignty, and so either way it the year and moneth wherein it expired) might truly be said that at this time (to wit, and the form of the year upon that occasion the 25. year after Othoniels victory) there changed; but should have reference to the have not otherwise found any interpretati- indeed rather by him placed in such a year, on, maintaining them as absolutely true, in because it best stood with his interpretation fuch manner as they found, and are fet down. fo to have it, than for any certainty or likeli-But seeing that he wanteth all help of autho- hood of the thing it self. rity, we may justly suspect the supposition whereupon his opinion is grounded; it be- as affirm, that the Apostle S. Paul did not ing fuch as the consent of many Authors herein labour to set down the course of time would hardly fuffice to make very probable. For who hath told Codoman, that the purpole but onely to flew that God, who good in his own eyes?

CHAP. XIII find no fuch phrase of speech in Scripture as The next point to be cleared, is how their limiteth a journey by an accident, or faith by journeying should be said not to have had converting the proposition, when Jordan end until the 25 year after the victory of was turning back, Israel came out of Egypt. was no King in Ifrael. This opinion of Codo- furprizing of a Town by fix hundred men, man, if it vvere as confonant to other Chrothat robbed a Chappel by the way, and stole nologers, grounding their opinions on the from thence Idols to be their guides, as not plain Text, vwhere it is indisputable, as it is going to work in Gods Name? For this acin it felf round enough and coherent, might cident whereupon Codoman buildeth, hath perhaps be received as good: especially either no time given to it, or a time far diffeconfidering, that the speeches of S. Paul rent from that which he supposeth, and is Wherefore we may best agree with such conquest of Laish, by the Tribe of Dan, was had chosen Israel to be his people, delivered performed in the five and twentieth year of them out of bondage, and ruled them by Othoniel? Or what other probability hath Judges and Prophets unto the time of Saul, he than his own conjecture, to shew that did raise up our Lord Jesus Christ out of the Othoniel did so renounce the office of a seed of David the King, in whose succession Judge after five and twenty years, that it the Crown was established, and promise might then be truly faid there was no King made of a Kingdom that should have no end. in Israel, but every man did that which was Now in rehearing briefly thus much which tended as a Preface to the declaration fol-Now concerning the rehearfal of the Law lowing (wherein he sheweth Christ to have

tion of times (the Hiltory being so well from the departure out of Egypt, unto the known and beleived of the Jews to whom he building of Solomous Temple, not omitting preached) that he spake as it were at large the very moneth it self.

CHAP. XIII.

reign of Saul: whereas it is manifest that dox, I leave it to the decision of the judicithose years vvere divided between Saul and ous Reader. Samuel, yea, that far the greater part of them | And now to proceed in our story. To the vvere spent under the government of the time of Jephta are referred the death of Prophet, howsoever they are here included Herenles, the rape of Helen by Paris, and the in the reign of the King. As for those that provisions which her husband Menelaus, with fo much cunning for fake the general reigning then in Sparta, and his brother Aopinion, when it favoureth not fuch exposi- gamennon King of Mycens, made for her retion as they bring out of a good mind, to covery. Others refer this rape of Helen to help where the need is not over-great; I the fourth year of Ibzan: from which time, had rather commend their diligence, than if the war of Troy (as they suppose) did follow their example. The vvords of S. Paul not begin till the third of Ailon or Elon, yet vvere sufficiently justified by Beroaldus, as the Greeks had six years to prepare themhaving reference to a common opinion a- selves: the rule holding not true in this War, mong the Scribes in those days, that the III. Longa praparatio belli celerem affert vittoriyears of servitude vvere to be reckoned a- am; That a long preparation begets a speedy Part from the 339. years ascribed to the villory: for the Greeks consumed ten years Judges; vvhich account the Apostle vvould in the attempt; and Troy, as it seems, was not in this place stand to contradict, but ra- entred, fackt, and burnt in the third year of ther chose to speak as the vulgar, qualifying Habdon. it with a quali, where he faith, quali quadringentis & quinquaginta annis ; As it were in the fixt year of Habdon, Eneas arrived in four hundred and fifty years. But Codoman Italy. Habdon in the eighth year of his rule, being not thus contented, would needs have died, after he had been the Father of 400 it be so indeed, and therefore dis-joyns the sons, and 30. grand-children. And whereas members to make the account even. In fo it is supposed, that the 40. years of Israels doing he dasheth himself against a notable oppression by the Philistims (of which Judg. Text, whereupon all Authors have builded, 13. v. 1.) took beginning from the ninth been the true Messias) the Apostle was so (as well they might and ought) that purfar from labouring to make an exact calcula- posely and precisely doth cast up the years of the 40. years confumed in the Wilder- Now (as commonly the first apprehensines, whereof no man doubted, saying, that one are strongest) having already given God suffered their manners in the Wilder- faith to his own interpretation of S. Paul, he ness about 40. years. In like manner he thinketh it more needful to find some new proceeded, faying, that from the division of exposition for that which is of it self most the Land unto the dayes of Samuel the Pro- plain, and to examine his own conjecture upphet, in whose time they required to have a on a place that is full of controversie. Thus King, there passed about 45c. years. Nei- by expounding after a strange Method, that ther did he stand to tell them, that an hun- which is manifest by that which is obscure. dred and eleven years of bondage menti- he loseth himself in those years wherein oned in this middle while, were by exact before him never man vvalked. Surely if computation to be included within the 339. one should urge him to give reason of these years of the Judges: for this had been an new opinions, he must needs answer, that impertinent digreffion from the argument Othoniel could not govern above 25. years, which he had in hand. Wherefore it is not because then was the taking of Laish; at a work so needful as laborious, to search which time there was no King in Ifrael; That out of this place that which the Apostle the Danites must need have taken Laish at did not here intend to teach, when the sum that time, because else we could not reckon of 480. years is so expresly and purposely backwards from the soundation of the Temple to any action that might be termed Now that the words of S. Paul (if there the coming of Ifrael out of Egypt, vvithout beno fault in the copy through error of some excluding the years of servitude; And that Scribe) are not so curiously to be examined the years of servitude must needs be incluin matter of Chronology, but must be taken, ded, for that otherwise he himself should as having reference to the memory and ap- have spent his time vainly, in seeking to pleaprehension of the vulgar, it is evident by his fure S. Paul with an exposition. Whether this ascribing in the same place 40. years to the ground be strong enough to uphold a Para-

Three years after Troy taken, which was

CHAP. XIV

year of Jair, and ended with the last of Hab- Philistims with so powerful an Army for their don: I fee no reason for that opinion. For own deliverance, than against their own Epbraim had had little cause of quarrel a- brethren the Israelites ? but Ammen being gainst gehta, for not calling them to war overthrown, it feemed at that time, that they over Jordan, if the Philiftims had held them feared no other enemy. And therefore these in servitude in their own territories; and if 40 years must either be supplied elsewhere, Ephraim could have brought 42000, armed as in the time of Sampson, and afterward: men into the field, it is not likely that they or elfe they must be referred to the Interwere then opprest: and had it been true regnum between the death of Habdon, and that they were, who will doubt but that the deliverance of Ifrael by Sampson, such as they would rather have fought against the it was.

CHAP. XIV.

Of the War of Troy.

of the Genealogie of the Kings of Troy, with a note touching the ancient Poets, how they have observed historical truth.

◆He War at Troy, with other stories hereupon depending (because the ruine of this City, by most Chronologers is found in the time of Habdon Judge of Israel, whom in the last place I have mentioned) I rather choose here to treat of in one entire narration, beginning with the lineal descent of their Princes, than to break the ftory into peices by rehearling a-part in divers years, the divertity of occurrents.

The Hiltory of the ancient Kings of Troy is uncertain, in regard both of their original, and of their continuance. It is commonly held that Tencer and Dardanus were the two Founders of that Kingdom. This is the opinion of Virgil: which if he (as Reineccius thinks ) took from Berofus, it is the more probable: if Annius borrowed it of him, then it rests upon the authority of Virgil, who faith thus:

Creta Jovis magni medio jacet infula Ponto: Mons Idaus ubi & gentis cunabula nostra. Centum Vrbes habitant magnas , uberrima regna:

Maximus unde Pater (si ritè audita recordor ) Teuerus Rhæteas primum est advectus ad

Optavitque locum regno. Nondum Ilium &

arces. Pergamea steterant: habitabant vallibus imis.

Hinc Mater cultrix Cybele, Corybaniaque æra, Idaumque nemus.

In the main Sea the Ile of Creete doth lie: Where Jove was born, thence is our pro-

There is a mount Ida: there in fruitful Land An hundred great and goodly Cities stand. Thence (if I follow not mistaken fame)

Teucer the eldest of our grand-fires came To the Rhætean shores: and reigned there, Ere yet fair Ilion was built, and ere The Towers of Troy: their dwelling place they fought In lowest Vales. Hence Cybels rites were brought:

Hence Corybantian Cymbals did remove; And hence the name of our Idean grove.

Thus it feemeth by Virgil, who followed furely good authority, that Teucer first gave name to that Countrey, wherein he reigned ere Troy was built by Dardanus : of which Dardanus in the same book he speaks thus:

Est locus, Hesperiam Grait cognomine dicunt: Terra antiqua, potens armis atque ubere glebæ. Oenotrii coluere viri; nunc fama minores Italiam dixisse, ducis de nomine gentem. Hæ nobis propriæ sedes : hinc Dardanus ortus :

Jasinsque Pater, genus à quo principe nostrum.

Hesperia the Gracians call the place: An ancient fruitful Land, a warlike race, Oenotrians opnotrians held it: now the later progeny (in this did follow, feeing it no way concer-This feat belongs to us; hence Dardanus, suruncos ita fere senes, hic ortus ad agris Dardanus Ideus Phrygie penetravit ad urbes, Threiciamque Samum, que nunc Samothracia Hinc illum Coryti Tyrrhena ab sede profectum. Aurea nunc solio stellantis regia celi Accipit, Oc.

Some old Aruncans, I remember well, (Though time have made the fame obscure) would tell

Of Dardanus, how born in Italy, From hence he into Phrygia did file. And leaving Tuscaine (where he earst had

With Corrtus did fail to Samothrace; But now inthronized he fits on high. In golden Palace of the starry Sky.

cerning Tencer, whereas Halicarnasseur makes | vvith making any narrow learth into these him an Athenian , I find none that follow fabulous Antiquities, but fet down the Pedihim in the same opinion. Virgil(as is before gree according to the general fame; allowflewed ) reported him to be of Crete, whose ing to Teneer fuch Parents as Diodorus gives, authority is the more to be regarded, because because others giving him none, and carryhe had good means to fund the truth, which ling the line of Dardanus in manner followit is probable that he carefully fought, and ling.

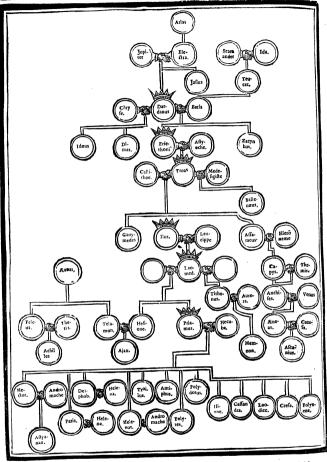

Gives it their Captains name, & calls it Italy; ned Angustus (whom other-whiles he did flatter) whether Tencer were of Crete or no. 1. nec came the Author of your stock, Jassus. Reineceius doth rather embrace the opinion of Diedorus, & others that think him a Phrygian, by which report he was the Son of Auss: equidem memini (fama eft obscurior | scamander and Ida, Lord of the Country. not founder of the City; and his Daughter or Neece Batia was the second wife of Dardanus founder of Troy. Reineccius further thinks that Atlas reigned in Samothracia, and gave his daughter Electra to Corytus, or Coritus: and that these were parents to Chryse, > wife; and the common Tradition of Poets makes Dardanus the fon of Electra by Jupiter, which Electra was the daughter of Atlas. and wife to Coritus King of Hetruria, to whom the bare fastus. Annius out of his Berosus finds the name of Camboblascon, to whom he gives the addition of Corytus, as a Title of dignity, making him Father of Dardanus and Talius; and further telling us very particularly of the faction between these Brethren, which grew to fuch a heat, that finally Dardanus killed his Brother, and first wife to Dardanus. Virgil holds othertherefore fled into Somothrace. The obscu-But contrary to this, and so many Authors, rity of the History gives leave to Annius of approving and confirming it, Reineccies faying what he lift. I, that love not to use thinks that these names, Troes, Teueri, & Thra- such liberty, will forbear to determine any ces, are derived from Tiras or Thiras the fon thing herein. But if Dardanus were the Son of Japhet: and that the Dardanians, Mylians, of Jupiter, it must have been of some elder and Ascanians, mixt with the Trojans, were Jupiter than the Father of those that lived Germane Nations, descended from Africana, about the war of Troy. So it is likewise prothe fon of Gomer: of whom the Country, bable that Atlas the Father of Eledra was ra-Lake, and River of Ascanius in Asia took ther an Italian than an African, which also name. That Afhkenaz gave name to those is the opinion of Boccace. For (as hath often Door, I 4. places and people, it is not unlikely: nei- been faid ) there were many Jupiters, and cate de ther is it unlikely, that the Acanii, Dardani, many of almost every name of gods; but it gen. and many others, did in after-times pass into was the custome to ascribe to some one the Europe: that the name of Tencer came of Ty- acts of the rest, with all belonging to them. ras, the conjecture is formewhat hard. Con- Therefore I will not greatly trouble my self of the Trajan Kingdom, with the length of e- elsewhere done. And first for the destruction very Kings reign, I have chosen good Authors of Troy, which was of greater note than any to be my guides, that in a Hiftory, where- accident befalling that City whilft it ftood, on depends the most ancient computation it is reckoned by Diodorus to be 780. years of times among the Greeks, I might not fol-more ancient then the beginning of the low incertainties, ill cohering with the con- ninty fourth Olympiad. Whereas therefore

CHAP. XIV.

Concerning the beginning & continuance | fent of Writers, and general paffage of things that is, 408. years event between the deltru- the most renowned. frion of Troy, and the first institution of those games by Iphitus, if the authority of Diodorus by general confent of all Greece, was the last be good proof, who elsewhere tels us, that war of Troy, which hath been famous even to the return of the Heraclida, which was 80. this day, for the numbers of Princes and valivears after the fall of Trof, was 328. years be- ant Commanders there affembled, the great fore the first Olympiad.

Hercunto agrees the authority of Dionypart the firs Halicarnaffens, who placing the foundati- great City 5 and the may Colonies planted in tum is easily collected by necessary inference mer, whose Verfes have given immortality to out of divers other places in the same book. the action, which might else perhaps have Hereunto doth Eusebius, reckoning exclu- been buried in oblivion; among other worprofessions fively agree: and Eratosthenes (as is cited by thy deeds, done both before and fince that 66. Alex. Clemens Alexandrinus ) makes up out of many time. For it is true which Horace faith: stown lib. particulars, the fame total fum, vvanting, but one year, as reckoning likewife exclutively.

The other collections of divers Writers that are cited by Clemens in the same place, do neither cohere any vvay, nor depend upon any collateral Hiftory, by which they Many by valour have deserv'd renown may be verified.

The destruction of Troy being in the year before the Olympiads four hundred & eight: we must seek the continuance of that from the beginning to the end out of Eufebius, who memorable accident in the due year.

no good form of a year ; but rather to make doubtful.

371. did pass between the beginning of the I narration of the actions which were memochambiads, and the first year of the 94. it is rable, and acknowledged by all Writers. manifest that the remainder of 780, years, whereof this destruction of Troy was one of

The first enterprise that was undertaken battails fought with variable fuccessthe long endurance of the fiege; the deftruction of that on of Rome in the first of the seventh Olympi- fundry countries, as well by the remainder ad, that is, four and twenty years after the of the Trojans, as by the victorious Greeks beginning of those games, accounts it 432. after their unfortunate return. All which later then the fall of Troy. Solinus in express things, with enumerable circumstances of ewords, makes the inflitution of the Olympiads special note, have been delivered unto poby Iphitus, vvhom he calleth Iphiclus, 480. Iterity, by the excellent wits of many Wriyears later than the destruction of Troy. The ters, especially by the Poems of that great Ho-

> Vixere fortes ante Agamemnona Multi, sed omnes illacrymabiles Urgentur, ignotiq; longa Nocle: carent quia vate sacro.

Ere Agamemnon; yet lie all opprest Under long night unwept for and unknown: For with no facred Poet were they bleft.

Yet so it is, that whilft these Writers have leads us from Dardanus on-wards, through with strange fables, or (to speak the best of the reigns of four Kings, by the space of two them) with Allegories far strained, gone ahundred and five and twenty years, and after bout to enlarge the commendations of those of Priamus, with whom also at length it en- noble undertakers: they have both drawn ded. As for the time which passed under into suspition that great vertue which they Lagnedon, we are fain to do as others have fought to adorn, and filled after-ages with done before us, and take it upon trust from almost as much ignorance of the History, as Annius his Authors; believing Manetho fo admiration of the persons. Wherefore it is much the rather, for that in his account of expedient that we feek for the knowledge of the former Kings reigns, and of Priamus, he fuch actions, in Histories; learning their quais found to agree with Eufebins, which may lities who did manage them, of Poets, in give us leave to think that Annius hath not whose works are both profit and delight; herein corrupted him. But in this point we yet fmall profit to those which are delighted need not to be very ferupulous: for feeing otherwise: but such as can interpret their fathat no Hiltory or account of time depends bles, or separate them from the naked truth, upon the reign of the former Kings, but only shall finde matter in Poems, not unworthy to upon the ruins of the City under Priamus, it be regarded of Historians. For those things may suffice that we are careful to place that excepted which are gathered out of Homer, there is very little, and not without much True it is, that some objections appearing disagreement of Authors, written of this weighty, may be alledged in maintenance of great war. All Writers consent with Homer, different computations, which with the an- that the rape of Helen by Paris the fon of fwers I purposely omit, as not willing to dif- Priamus, was the cause of taking Arms: but pute of those years, wherein the Greeks knew how he was hereunto emboddened, it is 354

fides for the War.

people opposed to all the World; and that expedition. even then when as the Greeks had not yet Thus did all Greece, either as bound by one common name among themselves. O- oath, or led by reputation and power of the thers with more probability say, that the two brethren, Agamemnon, and Menelaus; rape of Helen was to procure the redelivery or desirous to partake of the profit and hoof Hesione, King Priamus his sister, taken for- nour in that great enterprise; take Arms afeems) was a cruel man, feeing his own ion abouts: but the vessels were not great: for it

Greeks, as Herodotus discourseth; but all people were accustomed to steal Women and Cattel, if they could by ftrong hand or of the rape of Helen : and firength of both power get them: and having ftoln them, either to fell them away in some far Country, or keep them to their own use. So did TErodotus fetcheth the cause of this rape Theseus and Pirythons attempt Proserpina; from very far; faying, That whereas the and fo did Thefens (long before Paris) ravish Phonecians had ravished Io, and carried her Helen. And these practices, as it appears in into Egypt, the Greek, to be revenged on the Thursdides, were so common, that none Barbarians, did first ravish Europa, whom durit inhabite neer unto the Sca, for fear of they brought out of Phanicia into Creta, and pyracy, which was accounted a trade of life afterward Medaa, whom they fetcht from no less lawful than merchandise : vvhere-Colchos, denying to restore her to her father, fore Tyndarens, the father of Helen, consitill such time as they might be satisfied for dering the beauty of his daughter, and the the rape of Io. By these deeds of the Greeks, rape which Theseus had made, caused all Paris (as the same Herodotus affirms) was her Wooers, who were most of the prinemboldened to do the like; not fearing such cipal men in Greece, to bind themselves by revenge as enfued. But all this narration folemn oath, that if the vvere taken from her feems frivolous. For what had the King of husband, they should with all their might colchos to do with the injury of the Phani- help to recover her. This done he gave free cians? Or how could the Greeks, as in re- choice of a husband to his daughter, who venge of Io, plead any quarrel against him, chose Menelaus brother to Agamemnon. So that never had heard the name of Phanici- the cause which drew the Greeks unto Troy ans? Thucydides, a writer of unquestionable in revenge of Helens rape, vvas partly the fincerity, maketh it plain, that the name of oath which so many Princes had made un-Barbarians was not used at all in Homers to her Father Tyndareus. Hereunto the great time, which was long after the War of Trop: power of Agamemnon vvas not a little help-and that the Greeks themselves were not ing: for Agamemnon, besides his great Dothen called all by one name, Hellenes, as af minions in Peloponnesus, vvas Lord of many terwards. So that it were unreasonable to Islands: he was also rich in money, and therethink, that they should have sought revenge fore the Arcadians vvere vvell contented to upon all Nations, as barbarous, for the injury follow his pay, whom he embarked for Troy received by one: or that all people elfe in his own thips, which were more than any should have esteemed of the Greeks, as of a other of the Greek Princes brought to that of the Grecians journey, and Embassage to Troy, and of Helena's being detained in Egypt, and of the facrificing of Iphigenia.

merly by Hercules, and given to Telamon, gainft the Trojans. The Greeks Fleet was This may have been true: for Telamon (as it (by Homers account) 1200. fayl, or there-Tencer durst not come in his fight, after the was not then the manner to build ships with war of Trog, but fled into Cyprus, onely be- decks; only they used (as Thucydides faith) cause his brother Ajax (which Tencer could small ships, meet for robbing on the Sea; not remedy) had flain himself. Yet, were it the least of which carried fifty men, the fo, that Hessone was ill entreated by Telamon, greatest 120. every man (except Captains) it was not therefore likely that Priamus her being both a Mariner and a Souldier. By brother would feek to take her from her this proportion it appears that the Grecian husband, with whom the had lived about Army confilted of 100000. men or therethirty years, and to whom she had born chil- about. This was the greatest Army that dren which were to succeed in his Domini- ever was raised out of Greece: and the greaton. Whereupon I think that Paris had no ness of this Army doth well declare the regard either to the rape of Europa, Medaa, strength and power of Troy, which ten whole or Hesione, but was meerly incited by Venus, years did stand out against such forces: yet that is, by his lust, to do that which in were the Trojans vvhich inhabited the City, those daies was very common. For not only not the tenth part of this number, as Aga-Greeks from Barbarians, and Barbarians from memnon faid in the second of Homers Iliads; ny and strong. For all Phrygia, Lycia, Milfia, laus might have put into any port in Greece, and the greatest part of Afathe less, took and there have remained with good enterpart with the Trojans. The Anagons also tainment, until such time as the Wind had brought them fuccour. And Rhefus out of come about, and ferved for his Navigation. Thrace, and Memnon out of Affria (though One great argument Herodotus brings to fome think out of Ethiopia came to their contirm the faying of the Egiptian Priefts; defence.

W Herefore the Greeks, unwilling to be compounded by treaty fent Menelaus and Ulsses Embassadours to Troy: who demanded Helen, and the goods were taken with her Trojans made hereunto it is uncertain, Herodotus from the report of the Egyptian Pricits, makes it very probable, that Helen was taken from Paris before his return to Troy. The fum of his discourse is this.

Paris in his return with Helena, being driven by foul weather unto the coast of Egypt. was accused for the rape of Helen by some bondmen of his, that had taken Sanctuary. Proteus then King of Egypt, finding the accufation true by examination, detained Helen, and the goods taken with her, till her hufband should require them: dismissing Paris a stranger. When therefore the Greeks detaken, they perceived indeed she had not the whole Nation of Poets (except Euripides) fourth of his Odysjes, Homer speaks of Meneduring any ftorm, than to commit himself to Thraspmides; Obsses, Amestheus the son of Y y 2 Petreus, but their followers and aids were very ma- any Haven in the Greek Seas: whereas Menc-

which is, that if Helen had been at Troy, it had been utter madness for Priamus to see so many miferies befall him, during the war, and fo many of his fons tlain for the pleafure of one, who neither was heir to the Kingdom ( for Hectorwas elder) nor equal in vertue to many of the rest. Besides, it may feem that Lucian fpake not more pleafantly then truly, when he faid that Helen, at the war of Troy, was alcome to tryal of arms, if things might most as old as Queen Hecuba, considering that the had been ravished by Theseus the companion of Hercules, who took Troy when Priamus was very young; and confidering further, that out of Menelaus his house. What answer the the was lifter to Castor and Pollux (the and Pollux being faid by some to have been twins) who failed with the Argonauts, having Telamon the father of Ajax in their company, before the time that Helione was taken on whom Telamon begat Ajax, that was a principal commander in the Trojan war. But whether it were so that the Trojans could not, or would not restore Helen, so it was that the Embassadours returned ill contented, and not very well entreated, for there wanted not some that advised to have them flain. The Greeks hereupon incensed, made all haste towards Troy:at which time Calchas (whom some say to without further punishment, because he was have been a Runagate Trojan, though no such thing be found in Homer) filled the Captains, manding Helen, had answer, that she was in and all the Hoast with many troublesome an-Egypt, they thought themselves deluded, and fivers and divinations. For he would have Athereupon made the war, which ended with gamemnons daughter facrificed to appeale the ruine of Troy. But when after the City Diana, whose anger, he said, vvithstood their passage. Whether the young Lady were facribeen there, they returned home, fending Me- fized, or whether (as some vvrite) the goddess nelans to ask his wife of Protens. Homer, and vvas contented with a Hind, it is not needful here to be disputed of. Sure it is, that the mavary from this History, thinking it a matter lice of the Devil, which vvaits for all oppormore magnificent, and more graceful to their tunities, is never more importunate, then Poems, for the retaining of a fair Lady, than vvhere mens ignorance is most. Calchas also that they endured all by force, because it lay told the Greeks, that the taking of Troy was not in their power to deliver her. Yet in the impossible, till some fatall impediments were removed: and that till ten years were past, laus his being in Egypt, before he returned the Town should hold out against them. All home to Sparta; which voyage it were not which not with standing, the Greeks proceeded eafily believed that he made for pleasure, and in their enterprise, under the command of Aif he were driven thither by contrary Winds, gamennon; vvho was accompanied with his much more may we think that Paris was Brother Menelaus: Achilles the most valiant of likely to have been driven thither by foul all the Greek, his friend Patroclus, and his Tu-Weather. For Paris immediately upon the tor Phanix, Ajax and Tencer, the lons of Telarape committed, was enforced to fly, taking mon ; Idomeneus, and his companion Merifuch Winds as he could get, and rather enmedes the fon of Tydens, a man of fingular came into the field, the tenth year, for he courage; the wife and learned Palamedes, knew none of them; and therefore fitting, up-Afalaphus, and Jalmenus, the fons of Mars, on an high tower (as Homer tels) he learnwho had failed with the Argonauts; Phi-ed their names of Helen: which though it is How I. lottetes also the son of Paan, who had the ar-like to be a fiction, yet could it not at all have liet. rows of Hercules, without which Calchas been supposed that he should be ignorant faid, that the City could not be taken, Ajax of them, if they had shewed themselves bethe fon of Oileus, Peneleus, Theas, Fumelus, fore the town fo many years together. Be-Tylandrus, Euripilus, Athamas, Sthenelus, tween these relations of Thucidides and Hero-Tlepolemus the fon of Hercules; Podalyrius, dieus, the difference is not much, the one and Machon, the sons of Asculapius; Epens, saying, that a few of the Greeks remained in who is faid to have made the wooden the Camp before Troy, whilest the rest made Horse, by which the town was taken; and purveyance by land and by sea: the others Protesilans, who first leapt on shore, neglecting that the whole army did spend the time in the Oracle that threatned death to him that wasting the Sea-coasts. Neither do the landed first.

356

5. IV.

Of the Ads of the Græcians at the fiege.

tertainment, as might easily perswade them that Summer, in which Troy was taken great to think that the war would be more than booties were brought into the Camp, and one years work. For in the first encounter, a great pestilence arose among the Greek: they lost Protessians, whom Hestor slew, and which Homer saith, that Apollo sent in revenge many others, without any great harm done to of his Priests daughter, whom Agamemnon the Trojans: fave only that by their numbers had refused to let go, for any ransome: but of men, they wan ground enough to incamp Heraclides interpreting the place, faith, that themselves in, as appeareth in Thucydides. by Apollo was meant the Sun, who raised The principal impediment which the Greeks pestilent Fogs, by which the army was infound, was want of victuals, which grew up- fected, being lodged in a moorish piece of on them by reason of their multitude, and the ground. And it might well be that the camp fmalness of their vessels, wherein they could was over-pestered with those, who had been not carry necessaries for such an Army. Here- abroad, and now were lodged all close toupon they were compelled to fend fome part gether: having also grounded their ships of their men, to labour the ground in Cherro- within the fortifications. ness:others to rob upon the Sea for the relief of the Camp. Thus was the war protracted tion between Agamemnon and Achilles anine whole years, and either nothing done, bout the booty, whereof Agamemnon, as Geor if any skirmishes were, yet could the town neral, having first chosen for his part a captive receive little loss by them, having equal woman, and Achilles in the second place chonumbers to maintain the field against such sen for himself another, then Ajax, Ulysses, and Greeks as continued the fiege, and a more fafe fo the rest of the chief Captains in order: retrait if the enemy got the better.

Wherefore Ovid faith, That from the near when it should be subverted.

Petrons, Captain of the Athenians; Dio- Priamus made, when the Greek Princes Poets greatly disagree from these authors: for they make report of many towns and Ilands wasted, and the people carried into Captivity; in which actions Achilles was employed, whom the army could not well, nor would have spared, if any service of importance had been to be performed before the Hese, and many other of less note, City. Howsoever it was, this is agreed by arriving at Troy, found such sharp en- general consent, that in the beginning of

About the same time arose much contenwhen the South-sayer Calchas had willed that Agamemnons woman should be restored to first year, till the tenth, there was no fighting her father Apollo's Priest, that so the pestilence at all, and Heraclide commends as very might cease, then did Agamemnon greatly credible, the report of Herodicus, that the rage, and ay, that he alone would not lose his Greeks did not lye before Troy the first nine part of the spoile, but would either take that years: but onely did bear up and down the which had been given to Achilles, or that Seas, exercifing their men, and inriching which had fallen to Ajax, or to Olyffes. Herethemselves, and so by wasting the enemies upon Achilles defied him, but was fain to sufcountry did block up the Town, unto which fer all patiently, as not able to hold his Conthey returned not, untill the fatall time drew cubine by strong hand, nor to revenge her losse otherwise than by refusing to fight, or This is confirmed by the enquiry which to fend forth his Captains. But the Greeks, encouraged encouraged by their Captains, presented of theirs, which drave up and down the field. themselves before the City without him as they were directed by the Captains, who

and his Troops. great fuccours, all the neighbour Countries their Javelins, and then alighting, fought on having fent them aid: partly drawn to that foot, with fwords and battle-axes, retiring War by their Commanders who affilted Pri- into the ranks of footmen, or elfe returning amus for money, wherewith he abounded to their Chariots when they found cause, when the War began (as appears by his and so began again with a new dart as they words in Homer,) or for love of himself and could get it, if their old were lost or broken. his fons, or hope of marriage with some of his Their arms defensive were helmets, breastmany and fair Daughters; partly also (as we plates, boots of brass, or other mettal, and may well ghesse) incited by the wrongs re-shields commonly of leather plated over. the Greeks was almost desperate.

forth Achilles Troops, relieving the weary very defirous, that he might revenge the Greeks with a fresh supply. Agamemnon, Di- death of Patroclus his dear friend. omedes, Vlyffes, and the rest of the Princes though fore wounded, yet were driven to self unto Achilles, not only restoring his conput on armour, and with help of Patroclus, cubine Brises, but giving him very great repelled the Trojans very hardly. For in that gifts, and excusing former matters as well as fight Patroclus was lost, and his body, with he might. In the next battel achilles did so much comtention recovered by his friends, behave himself, that he did not only put the was brought back into the Camp: the armour Trojans to the worst, but also slew the valiof Achilles which he had put on, being torn and Hector, whom (if Homer may herein be from him by Hellor. It was the manner of believed ) he chased three times about the those Wars, having flain a man, to striphim, Wals of Troy. But great question may be and hale away his body, not reftoring it made of Homer's truth in this narration. For viithout ransome, if he vvere one of marke, it is not likely that Hellor would stay alone Of the vulgar little reckoning was made: without the City ( as Fiomer doth report of for they fought all on foot, flightly armed, him) when all the Trojans were fled into it: and commonly followed the fuccess of their nor that he could leap over the Rivers of Captains; who rode not upon horses, but | Xanthus and Simois, as he must have done in in Chariots, drawn by two or three horses, that flight: nor that the Trojans, perceiving which were guided by some trusty followers Hetter in such an extremity, would have for-by the fwiftness of their horses, prefenting The Trojans were now relieved with themselves where need required, threw first ceived of the Greeks when they wasted the The offensive were swords and battel-axes Countries adjoyning unto Tray. So that at hand; and stones, arrows or darts when when Hellor issued out of the Town, he was they fought at any distance. The use of little inferiour to his enemies in numbers of their Chariots (belides the swiftness) was to men, or quality of their Leaders. The prinkeep them from weariness, whereto the cipal Captains in the Tojam Army, were leaders were much subject, because of their Hedor, Park, Deiphobus, Helenus, and the o armour, which the strongest and stoutest ther fons of Priamus: Eneas, Antenor, and ware heaviest, also that from them they his fons, Polydamas, Sarpedon, Glancus, Asius, might throw their Javelins downwards, with and the fons of Panthus, besides Rhesus, who the more violence. Of which Weapon I find was flain the first night of his arrival; Mem- not that any carried more than one or two non, Queen Penthesslea, and others who came into the field: wherefore they were often towards the end of the War. Between these driven to return to their tents for a new one and the Greeks were many battels fought: when the old was gone. Likewise of arthe greatest of which were, that at the tomb mours they had little change or none; eveof King Ilus upon the Plain: and another at ry man (speaking of the chief) carried his the very trenches of the Camp, wherein He- own compleat, of which if any piece were Hor brake through the fortifications of the loft or broken, he was driven to repair it Greeks, and began to fire their ships; at with the like, if he had any fitting, taken which time Ajax, the fon of Telamon, with from some Captain whom he had slain, and his brother Teneer, were in a manner the on-ftripped; or elfe to borrow of them that ly men of note that remaining unwounded, had by such means gotten some to spare. made head against Hedor, when the state of Whereas therefore Achilles had lost his armour which Hettor (as is faid before) had Another battel (for fo Antiquity cals it) taken from the body of Patroclus, he was or rather the same renewed, was fought by fain to await the making of new, ere he Patroclus, who having obtained leave, drew could enter the fight: whereof he became

At this time Agamemnon reconciled him-

born to open some of their gates and let him by which means they who were shut into it, in. But this is reported only to grace Achil- must have perished for hunger, if they had les, who having (by what means foever) not by ifluing forth unfeafonably discovered flain the noble Hedor, did not only carry a- the invention. Whereas further it is faid, way his dead body, as the custome then was, that this Horse was so high and great, that it revenged; for he was shortly after slain many principal men was altogether needless, ple of Apollo, whither he came to have mar- surprising of any gate by them was now to ried Polyxens the daughter of Priamus, with no purpose. vyhom he vvas too far in love, having flain John Baptifta Gramay in his History of Afo many of her brethren; and his body was sia, discourting of this War, saith that the ransomed (as Lycophron faith) at the self-Greeks did both batter the Wals with a fame rate that Hellors was by him fold for. Wooden Engine, and were also let into the Not long after this, Penthesilea Queen of the City by Antenor, at the Scean gate: the Amazons arrived at Troy, who after some Townsmen sleeping and drinking without rhus the fon of Achilles.

Of the taking of Troy, the wooden Horse, the the reliques of Troy.

by night, as all Writers agree: but whether ctory in most points to these two Authors. by the Treason of Aneas and Antenor; or without once taking notice of the oppositiby a wooden Horse, as the Poets, and com- on, which they having served in that War mon Fame (which followed the Poets) have made against the common report, had it not delivered, it is uncertain. Some write that been that either those books were even in upon one of the gates of Troy, called Scea, those, times thought frivolous, or else conwas the Image of a Horse, and that the Greeks tained no such repugnancy to the other Auentring by that gate, gave occasion to the thors as now is found in them. report, that the City was taken by an artificial Horfe. It may well be that with some in this War, which Dares and Dylin say to wooden Engine, which they called a Horie, have been above 600000. on the Trojan but boring holes in his feet, and thrufting could not be brought into the I own through leathern though into them, tyed him to his any of the gates, and that therefore the Tro-Chariot, and dragging him shamefully about jans were fain to pull down a part of their the field, felling the dead body to his father | Wall to make way for it, through which Priamus for a very great ransome. But his breach the Greeks did afterwards enter; it cruelty and covetouiness were not long unis hereby manifest, that the inclosing of so with an arrow by Paris, as Homer fayes in confidering that without their help there the Scean Gare; or as others, in the Tem- was way sufficient for the Army, so that the proof given of her Valour, was tlain by Pyr- fear or care, because the fleet of the Grecians had hoifted fail, and was gone the day before to the Ile of Tenedos, thereby to bring the Trojans into fecurity. That the City was betrayed, the Books of Dares and Dydis must prove, which whether we now have the Book of Dares and Dyctis, the Colonies of Jame that were by them written, it may be suspected; for surely they who have made mention of these Writers in ancient times, Finally, after the death of many Worthy would not, as they did, have followed the Persons on each side, the City was taken reports of Homer and others quite contradi-they either did batter the Wals as the Ro- fide, and more then 800000. of the Greeks, mans in after-times used to do with the it is a report meerly fabulous; for as much Ram: or scaled the Wals upon the sudden, as the whole Fleet of the Greeks was reckoand so took the City. As for the hiding of ned by Homer, who extolled their Army and men in the hollow body of a wooden Horse, deeds as much as he could, to be somewhat it had been a desperate adventure, and ser less than 1200. fail, and the Army therein ving to no purpose. For either the Trojans transported over the Greek seas, not much might have perceived the deceit, and slain above 100000. men, according to the rate all those Princes of Greece, that were inclo- formerly mentioned. But it is the common fed in it (which also by such as maintain this fashion of men to extol the deeds of their report they are faid to have thought upon:) Ancients: for which cause both Homer magor they might have left it a few dayes with niffed the Captains of the Greek, that ferved in the War, and Virgil with others were as fhould the very first day both conclude upon the bringing it into the Town, and break Trojans and their City, from which the Rollingth War and their City, from which the Rollingth War and their City, from which the Rollingth War and their City, from which the Rollingth War and their City, from which the Rollingth War and their City, from which the Rollingth War and their City, from which the Rollingth War and their City, from which the Rollingth War and their City, from which the Rollingth War and their City, from which the Rollingth War and the Captains of the Greek, that ferved in the War, and Virgil with others were as followed the war and the Captains of the Greek, that ferved in the War, and Virgil with others were as followed the Captains of the Greek, that ferved in the War, and Virgil with others were as followed the Captains of the Greek, that ferved in the War, and Virgil with others were as followed the Captains of the Greek, that ferved in the War, and Virgil with others were as followed the Captains of the Greek, that ferved in the War, and Virgil with others were as followed the Captains of the Greek, that ferved in the War, and Virgil with others were as followed the Captains of the Greek, that ferved in the War, and Virgil with others were as followed the Captains of the Greek, that the Captains of the Greek that the Captains of the Greek that the Captains of the Greek that the Captains of the Greek that the Captains of the Greek that the Captains of the Greek that the Captains of the Cap down their Wals upon the sudden to do it:) mans descended. Yea the Athenians long after in the War which Xerxes the Persian agreeing. For (besides other quarrels a-King made against all Greece, did not for- rising upon the division of the booty, and hear to vaunt of the great cunning which the like occasions) at the time when they Muchicus the fon of Peteus had shewed in should have set fail, Agamemnon and his bromuthalling the Grecian Army before Troy: ther fell out, the one being desirous to dewhereupon, as if it had been amatter of part immediately, theother to flay and demute confequence, they were fo proud form fome facrifices to Minerus. Hereupon that they refused to yeeld unto Gelon King, they fell to hot words, half the Fleet remainof almost all Sicily, the Admiralty of their ing with Agamemnon, the rest of them sailed Seas, notwithstanding that he promised to to the Isle of Tenedos; where when they arbring 200. good fighting ships, and 30000 rived, they could not agree among themmen for their defence. The like vanity possessed many other Ci- non; others were dispersed, each holding ties of Greece, and many Nations in these his own course. But the whole Fleet was or in most probability, came of the Trojans, Idomeneus and Philostetes, who nevertheless, were the Albanes in Italy; and from them the as Virgil tels, were driven foon after to seek Romans, brought into that Country by Ane- new feats: Idomeneus among the Salentines, os: the Venetians first seated in Padna, and and Philostetes at Petilia in Italy. Agamemthe Country adjoyning, by Antenor: the non likewise returned home, but was forth-Chaonians planted in Epirus by Helenus, the with sain by his Wife, and by the Adulterer fon of King Priamus. To which Hellani- Egyftus, who for a while after usurped his cus addeth, that the Posterity of Hellor did Kingdome. Menelaus wandring long upon assemble such of the Trojans as were left, and the Seas, came into Egypt, either with Hereigned over them about Trey.

6. VI.

returning from Troy.

on the Trojans. For Thucydides notes, that some of the Locrians were driven into Aby reason of their long abode at the siege, frick, others into Italy, all the East part under several Commanders, not very well Inter-regnum for certain years, succeeded.

felves, but some returned back to Agamemparts of the World, which have striven to fore vexed with tempests: for Pallas (as bring their descent from some of the Princes Homer saith) would not be perswaded in that warred at Troy: all difficulties or un- hafte.

359

likelihoods in such their Pedegree notwith- They who returned fafe were Nestor and standing. But those Nations which indeed, Pyrrhus, whom Orestes afterwards slew: also len, or (as may rather feem ) to fetch her. Ulysses, after ten years, having lost all his company, got home in poor estate, with much ado recovering the mastership of his own house. All the rest either perished by of the diftresses and dispersions of the Greeks the way, or were driven into exile, and fain to feek out new habitations.

Ajax the fon of Oileus was drowned; Ten-Oncerning the Greeks, they tasted as cerfied into Cyprus; Diomedes to King Daumuch mifery as they had brought up- nus, who was Lord of the Japiges in Apulia; they found many alterations when they re- whereof was called Magna Gracia, by reason turned: fo that many were driven by their of fo many Towns which the Greeks were borderers from their ancient feats: many driven to erect upon that Coast. Finally, it were expelled their Countries by faction: appears in Homer, that the Grecian Ladies, some were slain anon after their arrival: o- whose Husbands had been at the War of thers were debarred from the Soveraignty | Troy, were wont to call it, The place where among the people, by fuch as had stayed at the Greeks suffered milery, and the unlucky home. The cause of all which may seem City not to be mentioned. And thus much to have been the dispersion of the Army, for Troy, and those that warred there: the which, weakned much by the calamities of overthrow of which City, as hath been faid, that long War, was of little force to repel happened in the time of Habdon Judge of injuries, being divided into so many pieces Israel, whom Sampson, after a vacancy or CHAP. XV.

Of Sampion, Ely, and Samuel.

6. I.

of Sampson.

HE birth and acts of Sampson Juda, to besiege Sampson, in the rock or these things I gather out of that Stery. First, sear of their revenge; though he was no that the Angel of God forbad the Wife of looner loofened, but he gave them another Wine or ftrong drink, or to cat any unclean bone of an Affe.

Laftly, being made blind, and a prisoner because those strong liquors hindered the by the treason of his Wife, he was content read, or at least will not believe this pre- truly said of Seneca; Patientia sape lasa vercept: the most part forbearing nor drinks, titur in surorem; Patience often wounded is nor meats, how strong or unclean soever, converted into fury: neither is it at any time filling themselves with all forts of Wines, and so much wounded by pain and loss, as by dewith artificial drinks far more forcible: by rifion and contumely. reason whereof so many wretched feeble bodies are born into the World, and the races of God refused the facrifice which Manoah would have offered him, commanding him to present it unto the Lord: and therefore The Story of Eli the Priest, who suchole that professe divination by the help of ceeded sampson, is written in the be-Angels, to whom also they sacrifice, may af-suredly know that they are devils who ac-deftruction of his house, for the wickedness ceive no worship that is proper to God.

of the able and ftrong men in effect decayed.

by his Wives, to wit, by their importunity buling the Sacrifice, and prophaning and poland deceitful tears: by the first he lost but a luting the holy places: though Levi Ben part of his goods; by the second his life. Gerson, to extenuate this filthy offence of Quem nulla vis superare potuit, voluptes ever- forcing the woman by the sons of Eli, hatha iii: Whom no force could over-master, Vo- contrary opinior. In this time therefore it Inpluonfiels overturned.

are written at large in the 13. mountain of Etam, using these Words: 14.15. and 16. of Judges; and Knowest not thou that the Philistims are Rulers therefore I shall not need to over us? Oc. After which they bound him, make a repetition thereof. But and delivered him unto the Philistims, for Monoah the Mother of Sampson, to drink overthrow, and slew 1000. with the jawftrength, and as it were wither and fhrink to end his own life, to be avenged of his enethe child in the mothers womb. Though mics, when he pulled down the pillars of this were even the counsel of God himself, the house at the Feast whereto they sent for and delivered by his Angel, yet it seemeth sampson, to deride him; till which time he that many Women of this age have not bare his affliction with patience: but it was

Secondly, it is to be noted, that the Angel of Eli, and of the Ark taken; and of Dagons fall, and the fending back of the Ark.

cept thereof, and not good Angels, who re- of his fons, which he suppressed not, neither did he punish them according to their de-1 Sen :-Thirdly, this Sampson was twice betrayed ferts: whose sins were horrible, bothin a-11 pleased God to east the Israelites under the Fourthly, we may note, that he did not in fwords of the Philiftims; of whom there peall deliver Ifrael from the oppression of the rithed in the first encounter 4000, and in the Philistims; though in some forthe revenged, second battel 30000. sootmen; among and defended them: for notwithstanding whom the sons of Elbeing slain, their father that he had slain 3c. of them in his first attempt, burnt their Cern in harvestrime, and from his chair, brake his neck. He was the given them a great overthrow inftantly uplift that obtained the High-Prietthood of on it: yet so much did Irael search the Philitheother than the son of Aarm, befirms, as they affembled acce, men out of fore whose time it continued successively in the race of Fleazar the eldest brother of men in their ears (to wit, the hearing of the Hhamar: for Aaron was the first, Eleazar the Gospel preached) how should it profit them by fecond, Phinees the fon of Eleanar the third, hanging it about their necks? For it was net-Ability the fon of Phinees the fourth, his fon ther the wood of the Ark, nor the wood of reput the fift, Czi the fin of Bocci the fixt, but the reverence of the Father, that gave the one for a memory of his Co-time.

divers Hebrew Authorshave conceived. In the race of Ithamar the Pricfthood conti- his blood on the other for redemption, that nucd after Eli, to the time of Salomon, who could or can profit them and us, either in this cast out Abiathar, and established Sadock life or after it. and Achimaas and their fuccessors. The Ark was in this battel taken by the Philiftims, ed, carried the Ark of God with them to A-For as David witnesseth, God greatly abbor- zotus, and set it up in the house of Dagon tivity, &c.

the offences of the Priefts and people: so did er nor understanding in the presence of 1600,56 they did, they were then victorious. For af- fent him into the world, that all the Oracles, ter the captivity they had no Ark at all, nor wherein the Devil derided and betrayed

Words: If I plate pind javour in the cycle of the great an alteration: yet finds he none out Lord, he will bring me again: if not, let him do great an alteration: yet finds he none out to me as seemeth good in his eyes. in Troy, the City should never be overturned: became speechless.

The Philistims returning with the greatest of God which Ifrael brought into the field, victory and glory which ever they obtain-red Ifrael, fo that he forfook the habitation their Idol: but that night the Idol fell out of shilo: even the Tabernacle where he dwelt of his place, from above to the ground, and among men, and delivered his power into cap- lay under the Ark. The morning following they took it up, and set it again in his Now as it pleased God at this time, that place. And it sell the second time, and the the Ark whereby himself was represented head brake from the body, and the hands thould fall in the hands of the Heathen, for from the arms, shewing that it had nor pow-

he permit the Chaldeans to destroy the Tem- God; for the head fell off, which is the seat ple built by Salomon; the Romans to over- of reason and knowledge, and the hands throw the second Temple; and the Turks to (by which we execute strength) were sunoverthrow the Christian Churches in Asia dred from the arms. For God and the devil and Europe. And had not the Ifraelites put inhabit not in one house, nor in one heart. more confidence in the facrament, or repre- And if this Idol could not endure the reprefentation, which was the Ark, than in God fentation of the true God, it is not to be himself, they would have observed his Laws, marvelled, that at such time as it pleased him and ferved him onely: which whenfoever to cover his onely begotten with flesh, and in the times of the Macchabees: and yet for mortal men, lost power, speech and operatitheir piety it pleased God to make that Fa- on at the instant. For when that true light mily as victorious as any that guarded them- which never had beginning of brightness, selves by the sign in stead of the substance. brake through the clouds of a Virgins body, And that the Ark was not made to the end shining upon the earth which had been long to be carried into the field as an enfign, Da- obscured by Idolatry, all those foul and stinkvid witnessed when he fled from Absalon. ing vapours vanished. Plutarch rehearseth a For when the Priests would have carried memorable accident in that age concerning the Ark with him; he forbad it, and caused the death of the great god Pan, as he stileth it to be turned into the City, using these him; where (as ignorant of the true cause) he words: If I shall find favour in the eyes of the searcheth his brains for many reasons of so but frivolous. For not only this old Devil did The Trojans believed that while their then die as he supposed, but all the rest, as Palladium or the image of Minerva was kept Apollo, Jupiter, Diana, and the whole rabble fo did the Christians in the last fatal battel Now while the Philistims triumphed after against saladine carry into the field, as they this victory, God strook them with the were made believe, the very Cross whereon grievous disease of the Hemorrhoides, of Christ died; and yet they lost the battel, which they perished in great numbers. For it their bodies, and the wood. But Chrysoftome is written, that the Lord destroyed them. It was upon Saint Matthew (if that be his work) gi-therefore by general confent ordered, that veth a good judgment, fpeaking of those the Ark should be removed from Azotus to that wore a part of Saint John's Gospel a- Gath or Geth, another of the five great Cibout their necks, for an annulet or preservaties of the Philistims; to prove, as it seemeth, tive: Si tibi ca non prosunt in auribus, quomodo whether this disease were fallen on them by proderunt in collo? If those words do not profit accident, or by the hand of God immediatly ceived by them, the plague was yet more ed to Ekron. After which, God spared not his grievous and mortal. For the hand of the own people the Bethshemites, in that they pre-Lord was against this City with a very great fumed to look in the Ark. And because they destruction, and he fnote the men of the City knew God and his commandements, and had be flain thereby; For there was a deftrudi- Abinadab; where it is written that it remainend, by the advice of their Priests, the Prin- son, until David brought it to Hierusalem, vice by strong hand. Wherefore confessing | jearim. the power of the God of Ifrael to be almighty, and that their own Idols were subject thereunto, they agreed to offer a fin-offering, using these words; so ye shall give glory to the God of Ifrael, that he may take his hand from you, and from your gods, and from your land. And what can be a more excellent witnessing, than where an enemy doth approve our cause? according to Aristotle; he was yet a child, became now Judge and Pulchrum est testimonium quo nostra probantur Governour of Israel. He was descended of feen his miracles by Daniel. ing imbraced, and the golden Hamorrhoides, ther Elcana a Levite, was called an Ephrawherefoever; much less when they were left among you.

1 500,5.9. but when it was brought to Gath and re-1 ces of the Philistims perceived, they returnboth small and great, &c. And being not yet been taught accordingly; he strook them fatisfied, they of Gath fent the Ark to Ekron more grievously than he did the heathen: or Accaron, a third City of the Philistims: for there perished of them fifty thousand and but they also felt the same smart, and cryed seventy. From hence the Ark was carried to out, that themselves and their people should Kiriath-jearim, and placed in the house of on and death throughout all the City. In the ed twenty years in the charge of Eleazar his ces of the Philistims did not onely resolve Now whereas it is said, that in the mean to return the Ark, but to offer gifts unto the while the Ark was in Nob, Miffa, and Galga- & 1 China God of Ifrael, remembring the plague which la, it was the Tabernacle, which was at this 12 had fallen on the Egyptians, when their time severed from the Ark, or at least, it is sent hearts were hardned to hold the people of was for the (a) present occasion brought to 11/18:1 God from their inheritance, and from his fer- these places, and anon returned to Kiriath. In the ma of Samuel, and of his Government.

6. III.

Hefe Tragedies overpast and ended, ab hostibus. So did Pharao confess the living the family of (b) Chore or Korach. For Levi (b) com God, when he was plagued in Egypt: and had three fons; Gerson, Cheath, and Merari; 6.11. Nabuchadonofor and Darius, when they had Cheath had Amram and Izaar; of Amram came Mofes and Aaron; of Izaar, Chore; This counsel therefore of the Priests be- and of the family of Chore, Samuel. His faand the golden Mice prepared, they caused tean; not that the Levites had any proper (c) Which and the golden ance prepared, they cannot take the was of (c) Mount Region two milch kine to be chofen, fuch as had not inheritance, but because he was of (c) Mount Region been yoaked, and a new Cart or Carriage to Ephraim, like as Jesse, David's father was call whether the was called the way of the was the way of the be framed: but they durst not drive or di- led an Ephratan, because born at Ephrata, appeareth rect it to any place certain, thereby to make or Bethkem. Hannah his mother being long julistic tryal whether it were indeed the hand of fruitless, obtained him of God by prayers diffinition God that had strucken them. For if the Ark and tears: it being an exceeding shame to we read of God were carried towards Bethshemesh, the Jewish women to be called barren, in gath in and into the territory of Ifrael, then they respect of the bleffing of God, both to Abra- Bendlette. should resolve that from God onely came ham, that his seed should multiply as the mofthstand the storm their late destruction. For the Philistims Stars of Heaven, and the fands of the Sea; Epirals knew that the milch Kine which drew the as in the beginning to Adam, Increase and which Ark, could not be forced from their Calves, multiply, cand in Deuteronomy the feventh, in the but that they would have followed them. There shall be neither male nor female barren gea 3(1):

to themselves, would they travel a contrary | Samuel was no sooner born, but that his Ephral, way. For in the darkeft night in the world, mother, according to her former vow, dedi-which in if calves be removed from their dams, the cated him to God, and his fervice; to which kine will follow them through woods and she delivered him even from the dug. For whence defars by the foot, till they find them. But as the first-born of all that were called Naza. Pfi.1314 the kine travelled directly towards Bethflee rites, might be redeemed till they were five puties sh mesh: and when they came into the fields years old for five sheekles, and between five lo, which thereof to wit of one John of the fame City, years and twenty; for twenty sheekles: to was interest they frond fill there, which when the Direct they found fill there which when the Direct they found fill the same which when the Direct they found fill the same which when the Direct they found fill the same which when the Direct they found fill the same which when the Direct they found fill the same which when the Direct they was a same which will be same which we will be same with the same which we will be same when the same which we will be same with the same which we will be same with the same which we will be same with the same which we will be same with the same which we will be same with the same will be same will be same with the same will be same with the same will be same they flood still there; which when the Prin- was it not required by the Law, that any of Ephrain.

the race of the Levites thould be called to the Philiftims were in view. But God being ferve about the Tabernacle, till they were moved with Samuel's prayers (as he was by tive and twenty years old.

CHAP. XVI.

CHAP. XV.

Writers of holy Scriptures, to whom usually pell to disperse and beat down the Army of this name of a Prophet was given, and yet the Philistims, according to the prophecie of did Mojes account himself such a one; as in Hanna, Samuel's Mother, The Lords adversathe 18. of Deuteronomic, The Lord thy God rics shall be destroyed, and out of Heaven shall be will raife up unto thee a Prophet like unto me, thunder upon them, &c. Tolephus affirms, that er. But he is diftinguished from those that a part of the Philiftims were swallowed with preceded him, vyhowere called Seers; as an earthquake: and that Samuel himselfled before time in Ifrael, when a man went to feek the Ifraelites in the profecution of their vian univer of God, thus he stake; Come and Ctory. After which Samuel erected a Monu-Li us go to the Seer: for be that is now called ment in memory of this happy success, oba Prophet, was in old time called a Seer. And tained by the miraculous hand of God, although it pleased God to appear by his which Josephus called Lapidem fortem: Sa-Angels to Moses, as before to Abraham, Isaac, muel, Ebenezer, or the stone of affistance: and and Jacob; yet in the time of Eli, there was then following the opportunity and advanno manifelt vilion; not that God had alto-tage of the victory, the Ifraelites recovered gether withdrawn his grace from Ifrael: but divers Cities of their own formerly loft, and as the Chaldean Paraphraft hath it, those re- held long in the possession of the Philistims, velations before samuelstime, vvere mere who for a long time after did not offer any See in this clouded and obscure. The places wherein invasion or revenge. And the better to atid: Samuel judged vvere Matipa or Mitipa, feat- tend their purpoles, and to withftand any of kees all all the paragraphics at once 5 having the Philiftims towards the the same in the beginning of Samuel's government, West and Sca-coast, the Canaanite toward was facts gathered their Army, and marched towards the North and East, and the Idumite on the the City: at vvhose approach the Ifraclites South. The estate being thus settled, Samuel waters and thrucken with fear, and with the memory of for the eafe of the people gave audience and the former flaughters and fervitude; bejudgment in divers places by turns, as hath peached, fought samuel to pray to God for them; who benothing vvas * then performing his facrifice vvhen answered

those of Moses, when Israel fought against Saint Peter reckons in the Ads the Pro- the Amalekites at the first entrance into Aration Samuel, who was the first of the bia.) it pleased him with thunder and temed on a hill in Benjamin near Juda: also Gil- their attempts, the Ifraelites made peace with "Land gal and Bethel, of which we have spoken the Amorites, or Canaanites, which lay on their backs, and to the North of them, that The Philistims taking knowledge of the they might not be assaulted from divers parts

363

CHAP. XVI. Of SAUL.

§. I. Of the deliberation to change the Government into a Kingdom.

affairs on his sons, Joel and Abijah, who Elders of Israael observed, and saw that judged the people at Beersbeba, a City, the Samuel as a natural man (though a Provery utmost towards the South of Judea. phet ) could not so well discern the er-And as the place was inconvenient and far rours of his own, they prayed him to away, so were themselves no less removed consent to their change of government, from the justice and vertue of their Fa- and to make them a King, by whom they

Ut when age now began to over-the more it swalloweth, the more it dritake Samuel and that he was not eth, and defireth, finding tafte in nothing able to undergo the burthen of but gain; to recover which, they fet the so careful a government he put off Law at a price, and sold Justice and Judgfrom himself the weight of the ment to the best Chapmen. Which when the ther: For the thirst of covereousness, might be judged as other Nations were; choice of a King.

Ego autem

who might also lead them to the War, and read therein all the dayes of his life; that he defend them against their enemies. For after may learn to fear the Lord his God, and to keep the ill and lamentable facees which followed the rule of Eli his fons, when those of sa-ed the rule of Eli his fons, when those of Sa-emel by their first blossomes promised to in his Kingdom, he and his sons. But to take vield fruit no less bitter, they faw no way to away any other mans field, fay they, is conput the government from out his race, trary to the Laws of God, in the same book whom they fo much reverenced, but by the written. For it is faid, That which is just and pages right shalt thou follow , that thou mayft live. In a cause of so great consequence and al- Now if it be not permitted to carry away teration, Samuel fought counsel from God: grapes more than thou canst eat out of awhich furely he did not for the citablishing nother mans vineyard, but fordidden by of his own Sons; who being as they were, God: it is much less lawful to take the vine-Date: God would not have approved his election. yard it felf from the owner, and give it to a-14. Now as it appears by the Text, this speech nother. Neither are the words of the Text or motion displeasing him he used his best ar- (say they) such as do warrant the Kings of If- Loss. guments to dehort them: which when he rael, or make it proper unto them, to take at perceived to be over-feeble, he delivered will any thing from their vallals. For it is not unto them from Gods revelation, the incon- faid that it shall be lawful for the King, or the veniences and miseries which thould befal King may do this or that: but it is written, them. And yet, all which he fore-shewed that the King will take your sons : and again, was not intolerable, but fuch as hath been This shall be the manner of the King that born, and is fo fill, by free confent of the fubjects towards their Princes. For first he makes them know that the King will use cause it is accountable to God onely) will their fons in his own service to make them do in the future. And hereof we find the first his Horse-men, Chariotters, and Foot-men; example in Achab, who took from Naboth which is not onely not grievous, but by the both his Vineyard and his life, contrary to Vassals of all Kings, according to their birth the trust which God had put in him, of goand condition, defired: it being very agree- verning well his people. For God commandable to subjects of the best quality to com- ed, That his people should be judged with rightemand for the King in his Wars; and to till our judgment. Wherefore, though the King the ground no less proper and appertaining had offered unto Naboth composition, as a to those that are thereto bred and brought Vineyard of better value, or the worth in up: fo are likewife the effices of women-money, which he refused: yet because he was fervants to drefs meat, to bake bread, and falfly accused, and unjustly condemned the like. But whereas immediately it is (though by colour of law,) how grievoully · threatned, He will take your Fields and your Achab was punished by God, the Scriptures Vineyards, and your best Olive trees, and give tell us. Neither was it a plea fufficient for Athem to his fervants; with other oppressi- chab against the all-righteous God, to say ons: this hath given, and gives daily occasi-that it was done without his consent, and by on to fuch as would be ruled by their own the Elders of Ifrael. For God had not then discretion, to affirm that samuel describeth left his people to the Elders but to the King, here unto them the power of a King govern- who is called a living Law, even as David teed by his own affections, and not a King that fifficth of himfelf: Fosuisti me in caput gentifeareth God. But others upon further exa-um: For this of S. Augustine is very true: Simumination construe this Text far otherwise, as lata innocentia, non est innocentia: simulata teaching us what Subjects ought with pati- equitas non est equitas: sed duplicatur peccatum ence to bear at their Soveraigns hand. The in quo est iniquitas & simulatio; Feigned innoformer opinion is grounded fust upon that cence, and feigned equity, are neither the one place of Deuteronomy, where God fore shew- nor the other: but the fault or offence is there eth this change of government from Judges doubled, in which there is both iniquity and difto Kings; and after he had forbidden many fimulation. Such in effect is their disputation, things unto the Kings, as many wives, covet- who think this place to contain the descripousness, and the like, he commandeth that tion of a Tyrant. But the arguments on the the Kings which were to raign over Ifrael, contrary fide, as they are many and forcible, fhould write the Law of Deuteronomie, or fo are they well known to all; being excelcause it to be written: and to shew how lently handled in that Princely discourse of greatly the King should honour the Law, The true Law of free Monarchies: which he addeth, It fhall be with him, and he shall Treatise I may not presume to abridge, much less here to insert. Only thus much I will fay that if practice do show the greatness of authority, even the best Kings of Juda and Ifrael were not so tyed by any laws, but that they did whatfoever they pleafed in the greatest things; and commanded some of their own Princes, and of their own brethren to be flain without any trial of law, on of a King, till fuch time as he was therein being fometime by Prophets reprehended, directed by God: who foretold him the fometime not. For though David confessed day before, that he would present unto him his offence for the death of Uriah, yet so- a man of the Land of Benjamin, whom he lomen killing his elder brother and others, commanded Samuel to ancient. So Samuel change of government it was not onely fore- miles) and Saul also having wandred divers told by Moles in Deuteronomie, but perceidayes to feek his fathers Alles, at length, by ved by Jacob in this Scripture; The Scepter the advice of his servant, travelled towards shall not depart from Juda, &c. It was also Ramath to find a Seer or Prophet, hoping promised by God to Abraham for a blefling: For it was not onely assured that his issues sind his beasts. In which journey it pleased should in number equal the stars in heaven, God(who doth many times order the greatbut that Kings should proceed of him: Which | cft things by the simplest passages and perstate sceing it is framed from the pattern of sons) to elect sanl, who sought an As and not his fole rule, who is Lord of the Universal ; a kingdom: like as formerly it had pleased all other governments, hath been by many judicious men handled and proved, I shall not need to over-paint that which is garnished with better colours already, than I own territories, or recover some parts there- ing in Gods everlasting Kingdom. of formerly loft. The Canaanites dwelt in the best vallies of the Country. The Ammo- prepared a banquet for the King, whom he nites held much of Gilead over Jordan; the expected, and stayed his arrival at the gate. Philiftims the Sea-coasts; and the Jebusites Not long after came Saul, whom God shew-Hiernfalem it felf; till Davids time : all which ed to Samuel, and made him know that it was that King did not onely conquer and effa- the fame whom he had foretold him of, that blith, but he mastered and subjected all the he should rule the people of God. Saul findneighbour Nations and Kings, and made ing Samuel in the gate, but knowing him not, them his tributaries and valids. But whether though a Prophet and Judge of Ifrael, much it were for that the Israelites were moved less knowing the Honour which attended by those reasons, which allure the most of all him, asked Samuel in what part of the City Nations to live under a Monarch, or whe- the Seer dwelt; Samuel answered, that himther by this means they fought to be cleared | felf was the man he fought, and prayed saul 15mg. from the fons of Samnel, they became deaf to go before him to the high place, where to all the perswasions and threats which sa- | samuel setting him according to his degree, muel used, infilting upon this point, that they above all that were invited, conferred with would have a King both to judge them and him afterwards of the affairs of the kingdom, defend them: whereunto when samuel had and of Gods graces to be bestowed on him, warrant from God to confent, he fent every and the morning following annointed him man to his own City and abiding.

CHAP. XVI

CHAP. XVI.

§. II.

of the election of Saul.

A Feer that Samuel had difinified the affembly at Mizpah, he forbare the electithe same was not imputed to him as any went unto Ramath Sophim, to make a feast for the entertainment of Saul (whom yet he That the state of Ifrael should receive this knew not, but knew the truth of Gods profrom him to be told what way to take, to and the excellencie thereof in respect of him to call Moses, while he fed the sheep of Jethro; and after to make choice of David the youngest of eight sons, and by the Scri- 1 Sam. 16: ptures called a little one, who was then keeping of beafts; and changed his sheepanlay on.

In the time of the Judges every man hath

The time of the Judges every man hath

The most victorious King of Juda and Ifrael, observed what civil war Ifrael had: what So John and James were taken from casting outragious flaughters they committed upon their nets, to become fishers of men, and hoeach other: in what milerable fervitude noured with the titles of Apollles: a dignithey lived for many years: and when it fa- ty that died not in the grave, as all worldly red best with them, they did but defend their Honours do; but permanent and everlast-

When Samuel was entred into Ramath, he King of Ifrael.

After this he told him all that should hanpen him in the way homeward, that two men CHAP. XVI who should tell him that his Asses were not by chance, but by Gods ordinance, who found, and that his Fathers cares were gave Samuel former knowledge of his elechanged from the fear of lefing his beafts, to ction: from which election saul withdrew doubt the loss of his fon: that he thould himself in modelty, as both Josephus con-King elected and favoured by God.

than, Abias, Elias, Elisaus, Flay, Jeremy, and the no notice. charl in reft; for these Prophets, faith S. Chryfoftome, Omnia tempora percurrunt, præterita, præsentia, o futura: but they were of those of whom S. Paul speaketh I Cor. 14. 14. who inriched with spiritual gifts, expounded the Scriptures and the Law.

yet knew nothing of his election: neither that Nahas King of the Ammonites prepared did Saul acquaint his own Uncle therewith, to befiege Jabes Gilead: which nation fince when he asked him what had past between the great overthrow given them by Jephta, him and samuel: for either he thought his never durst attempt any thing upon the Ifoffate not yet affured, or else that it might be raelites, till the beginning of Sant his sule. dangerous for him to reveal it, till he were And although the Ammonites did always at-The trim confirmed by general confent. When the tend upon the advantage of time, to recover mimintle Tribes were affembled at Mizpeth, the gene- those Territories which first the Amorite, and omments ral opinion is, that he was chosen by lot, then Ifrael disposses them of; which they within the when he asked the counsel of the Lord. But first, they knew that there were many of the pedo: 1, the casting of lots was not only much used a Israelites that did not willingly submit themthere is mong the Jews, but by many others, if not felves to this new King: fecondly, they were was da- by all nations. The Land of promife was di- remembred that the Philiftims had not long plicuum: vided by lot: God commanded lots to be before flain 34cco. of their men of War:and placed in cast on the two Goats, which should be facri- besides had used great care and policy that the peace ficed and which turned off a figure of Christs they should have no Smiths to make them agains the suffering, and our deliverance, for whose swords or spears : neither was it long before, fhould encounter him by Rabels Sepulchre, in like fort fell the Kingdom of Liraci on Saul, then meet three other men in the plain of Ta- firue it, and as it may be gathered by his bor; then a company of Prophets: and that former answers to Samuel, when he acknowhe should be partaker of Gods Spirit, and ledged himself the least of the least Tribe. prophecy with them: and that thereby his But Samuel inlightened by God, found where condition and disposition should be changed Sanl was hidden, and brought him among from the vulgar, into that which became a the people, and he was taller than all the rest by the shoulders. And Samuel made them But the Prophets here spoken of, men in- know that he was the chosen King of Ifrael. dued with spiritual gifts, were not of the first whereupon all the multitude saluted him and most reverenced number, who by divine King, and prayed for him; yet some there revelation foretold things to come, repre- were that envied his glory ( as in all effates hended without fear the errors of their Kings there are fuch ) who did not acknowledge and wrought miracles, of which number were him by offering him presents, as the manner Moses, Joshua, Samuel, and after them Gad, Na- was, of whom Saul, to avoyd sedition, took

s. III.

of the establishing of Saul by his first victory.

At Minpeth Samuel assembled the people, that he might present auto them, who as Chimhi thinks by the answer of * Vrim and made the ground of their invasion in Jephta's Thummim: that is, by the answer of the time, yet they never perswaded themselves Pricit, wearing that millery upon his breast of more advantage then at this present. For Feator garments the Jess also cast lots. Cieere, Plan-that of the Beth homessites, and places adjoyn-the High the High the High the homessites have remembed into these partitions by the hand of God more the High Prieklitis tus, Paufanius, and others, have remembred ing, there perifhed by the hand of God more plain that divers forts of lots, used by the Romans, Gre-than 5000. and therefore in these respects, they were cians, and other Nations: as in the division even occasion it self invited them to inlarge not the not the rections of grounds or honours; and in things to be their Dominions upon their borderers: Jabes Gilead being one of the nearest. Besides it may any thing. underraken: the two nrit kinos were called of lead being one of the hearest being one of the hea made by the first three all may be reduced, all were imboldened against Jabes Gilcad, in regarding see which kinds, howfoever they may feem see which kinds, howfoever they may feem spect of their weaknes: fince the Israelites Table 1. Exo. 38.1. Annual and a series of them, for not joyn-cie dedi- chanceful, are yet ordered and directed by destroyed a great part of them, for not joyn-our Paul God: as in the Properbs: The lot is cast into the in Mest. m Meg. 15 Lap, Lut the whole disposition is of the Lord. And which time they did not only flaughter the Senjamites: and therefore they were not like- felf forbidden and refifted their resolutions. by to have been increased to any great num-Such is the condition of worldly men, as they hers and if they had recovered themselves of are violent lovers of the prosperous, and base this great calamity, yet the Ammonite might Vassals of the time that flourisheth; and as thatter himself with the opinion, that Ifrael, despightful and cruel without cause against having for long time been disarmed by the those, whom any misadventure, or other Philiftims, was not apt to fuccour those whom worldly accident hath thrown down. they had so deeply wounded and destroyed. But contrariwife, when the tidings came ed the people to meet at Gilgal, where Saul to Sanlof their danger, and that the Ammo- was now a third time acknowledged, and, nites would give them no other condition to as some Commenters affirm, anointed King: right eyes, by which they should be utterly the assembly, containing precepts, and a redilabled for the War, as elsewhere hath hearfal of his own Justice, during the beginbeen spoken: Saul, both to value himself in ning of his government to that day, after Saul his first years reign, and because perchance had now reigned one year beforehe was estahe was descended of one of those 400. Maids blished in Gilgal, or Galgala, he strengthned taken from the Gileadites, and given to the himself with a good guard of 3000. chosen Benjamites, gave order to affemble the forces men, of which he affigned 1000, to attend on of Ifrael, hewing a yoak of Oxen into pieces, Jonathan his son at Gibeah, the City of his naand fending them by messengers over all the tivity: the rest he kept about his own person coasts, protesting thus : That whosever came in Micmas, and in the Hill of Bethel. not forth after Saul, and after Samuel; fo fould his Oxen be ferved: threatning the people by their goods, and not by their lives at the first. Seven days had Saulto assem- of Sauls disobedience in his proceedings in the ble an Armie, by reason that the Gileadites had obtained the respite of these seven days to give Nahas the Ammonite an answer: Tonathan with his small Army or Regiment who, could they have obtained any reafonable condition, were contented to have I that attended him, taking a time of adsevered themselves from Israel, and to be- vantage, surprized a Garrison of Philistims: comeVassals and Tributaries to the Heathen. the same, as some think, which Saul past by, In the mean while Saul affembled the forces when he came from Rama, when he was first which repaired unto him at Bezec, near anointed by Samuel, which they think to Jordan, that he might readily pass the river; have been Cariath-jearint: because a place which done, he might in one day with a where the Philistims had a Garrison. I Sam: 15411. speedy march arrive at Jabes, under the Hills 10. is called the hill of God, which they unan answer to those of Jabes, that they should with his thousand followers. Howsoever, by men and male children, but took from them would have flain all those Ifraelites that murtheir young women, and gave them to the mured against his election, had not him-

After the Army removed, Samuel fummon- 1 Sam,: 1. ransome themselves, but by pulling out their and here Samuel used an exhortation to all 1 547 11.

§. 1 V.

Wars with the Philistims and Amalekites, which caused his final rejection.

derstand of Cariath-jearim:but Junius under-The army by Saul led, confifting of three stands this Garrison to have been at Gebab in hundred and thirty thousand, he returned Benjamin near Gibba, where Jonathan abode assure themselves of succour by the next this it appeareth that the Philistims held some day at noon. For, as it feemeth, Saul march- strong places, both in the times of Samuel, and ed away in the latter part of the day, & went of Sanl, within the Territory of Ifrael: and on all night; for in the morning watch he now being greatly inraged by this surprize, furprized the army of Nahas the Ammonite. they affembled thirty thousand armed Cha-And to the end that he might let on them riots, and fix thouland Horse, wherewith they t sam. 13. on all sides, he divided his forces into three invaded Judea, and incamped at Machines 5. parts, putting them to the sword untill the or Michman, a City of Benjamin in the direct heat of the day, and the weariness of Sauls way from Samaria to Hierufalem, and in the troop inforced them to give over the pur-middest of the Land between the Sea and fuit. Now the Ammonites were become the Jordan. With this sudden invasion the Ifmore careless and secure, in that those of raelites were strucken in so great a sear, as Jabes promifed the next morning to render | some of them hid themselves in the caves of themselves and their City to their mercy. the Mountains; others fled over Jordan After this happy fuccels, the people were fo into Gad and Gilead: Saul himself with some far in love with their new King, that they 2000. men of ordinary, and many other peo-

ments:others expound the word obtulit, in this fled from him before Samuel arrived. place, by obtulit per Sacerdotem, and so make With this small troop he held himself to the sin of Saul not to have been any intrusion his own City of Gibeah, as a place of more into the Priests office, but first a disobedience strength, and better assured unto him, than to Gods Commandment, in not staying ac-Gilgal was. Neither is it obscure how it should cording to the appointment, I Sam. 10. 8. fe-come to pass that the Philistims should thus condly, a defidence or mistrust in Gods help, disarm the most part of the Israelites, howand too great relying upon the strength of the people, whose departing from him he done against them. For the victories of same could not bear patiently; and lastly, a Con-muel were not got by sword or spear, but by tempt of the holy Prophet Samuel, and of the thunder from Heaven; and when these crastshelp which the prayers of fo godly a man men were once rooted out of the Cities of might procure him. But whatfoever was his Ifrael, no marvel if they could not in a 1 Sam 13, fin, not with standing his excuses, he was by Sa- short peace under Samuel be replanted amuel reprehended most storply, in terms ungain. For this tyranny of the Philistims is fitting his estate, had not extraordinary war- to be understood, rather of the precedent rant been given to samuel so to do, from times, than under samuel: and yet under God himself; at which time also Samuel fear- him is to be thought that by their crafts they ed not to let him know, that the Kingdom proceeded in the policy, not fuffering their men, if there had not now been any iron with stones, and with a sling it was that Daweapon to defend themselves withall, save vid himself slew the Gyant Goliab. onely in the hand of Saul and Jonathan his While the State of Israel stood in these hard fon. But howsoever, all the rest of the peoterms, the Philistims having parted their ple were formerly disarmed by the Philistims, army into three troops, that they might spoil and all those crasts men carried out of and destroy many parts at once, Jonathan, the land that made weapons: there being strengthened by God, and followed with left unto the Ifraelites onely files to sharpen his Esquire only, called a mountain, whereon & amend such stuff as served for the Plough, a company of Philistims were lodged: the and for nought clee: yet that they had rest of their army (as may be gathered by in.

ple, staid at Galgala in Benjamin, not far fome kind of arms, it is manifest, or else they trom the pallage of Joshua when he led Ifrael durst not have attempted upon the Phi. over Jordan. Here Saul by Samuels appoint- listims as they did. And it is not said in the ment was to attend the comming of Samuel Text that there was not any fword in all feven days:but when the last day was in part Ifrael, but onely that there was not any found fpent, and that Saul percieved his forces to amongst those 600, fouldiers which staydiminish greatly, he presumed (as some ex- ed with Saul after Samuels departure: and pound the place, 1 Sam. 13.9.) to exercise it seemeth that when Samuel had sharply rethe office which appertained not unto him, prehended Saul, that his own guards for 15m; and to offer a burnt offering, and a peace of fook him, having but 600. remaining of his 16 fering unto God, contrary to the Ecclesistical 3000, ordinary fouldiers, and of all the rest Laws of the Hebrews, and Gods Command-should be conferred to another (a man after Artificers to teach the Ifraelites, and so even Versit. Gods own heart ) both from Saul and his to the times of Saul kept them from having any store of armour. The same policy did After this, Samuel and Saul returned to Gi- Nebuchodonofor use after his Conquest in jubeah, where Saul, when he had taken view dea: Dionisus in Sicily & many other Princes of his army, found it to confift of 600. men : else-where in all ages. But these lost weapons for the most were fled from him and feat-tered, yea and among those that staid, there was not any that had either sword or spear, ed. The rest of their defences were such as but Sanl and his son Jonathan onely. For the philips had not left them any Smith in all Israel, that made weapons; besides, they that came to Saul, came hastily, and left stones in slings: and that these were the nafuch weapons and armour as they had be-tural weapons, and the first of all nations, it is hind them in their garrisons: for if they had manifest; and so in the first of Chronicles the had none at all, it might be much doubted 12. Chapter, it is written of those that came how Saul should be able the year before, or to succour David against Saul, while he lurkin some part of this very year, to succour Ja- ed at Siklag, That they were weaponed with bes Gilead with 300. and thirty thousand bowes, and could use the right and the left hand

CHAP. XVI. the fucces) being encamped in the plain ad-1 the living God. Therefore did Samuel now joyning. And though he were discovered a second time make him know that God before he came to the hill top, and in a kind would cast him from his royal estate, towhich two of them ten thousand.

Saul had bound the people by an oath not to bootless intreaties perswaded to stay a while take food till the evening, yet his fon Jona- with Saul) did cut Agag in pieces before the than, being infeebled with extream labour Lord in Gilgal, and foon after he departed to and emptines, tasted a drop of honey in his Ramath, and came no more to see Saul until the passage: for which Saul his father would have day of his death. put him to death, had not the people delivered him from his cruelty. The late miraculous victory of Saul and

Philistims remembrance their former overthrow, likewise miraculous in the daies of Samuel; so that for some space of time they held themselves quiet. In the mean while God commanded him to choose a King Saul being now greatly encouraged, under- for Ifrael, among the fons of Ishai: which Satook by turns all his bordering enemies; muel (doubting the violent hand of Saul) namely, the Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, feared in a fort to perform, till it pleased Mose time: he not with standing did not only spare the life of Agag, but reserved the mind of man for his preservation. Neibest of the beasts, and spoil of the Country, ther did the all-powerful God (who made with precence to offer them in facrifice to and could destroy the world in an instant) of derifion, called up by his enemies: yet he he was raifed when he was of base condition, so behaved himself, as with the affistance of and, as the Text hath it, little in his own eyes. God he flew 20. of the first Philistims that And though the offence was great in Sant he encountered. Whereupon the next com- for not obeying the voice of God by Samuel, panies taking the alarm, and being ignorant had there been no former precept to that of the cause, fled away amazed altogether. effect: yet seeing saul could not be igno-In which confusion, fear, and jealousie, they rant how severely it pleased God to enjoyn flaughtered one another in stead of enemies: the Israelites to revenge themselves upon manginered one another in read of that Nation, he was in all unexcufable. For pent, 15. their party, because they seared to be spoi- God had commanded that the Ifraelites 1e. led by them, took the advantage of their should put out the remembrance of Amalec from destruction, and slew of them in great num- under beaven. For the cruelty which the prebers. And laftly, Saul himself taking know-decessors of this Agag used against the Ifraeledge of the rout and disorder, together lites, especially on those which were overwith those Ifraelites that shrouded them- wearied faint fick, and aged people, was now selves in Mount Ephraim, set upon them, and to be revenged on him, and his Nation, above obtained (contrary to all hope and expecta- 400. years afterward; and now he was to tion) a most happy and glorious victory over pay the debt of blood, which his forefathers them. Here was that prophetic in Deuterone- borrowed from the innocent: himfelf having my fulfilled by Jonathan, That one of those also sinned in the same kind, as these words which feared God. Should kill a thousand, and of Samuel witness: As thy sword hath made other women childless, so shall thy mother be This done, the small Army of Ifrael made childless among other women; at which time 1 san. 15. retreat from the pursuit. And although Samuel himself (after he had been by many 33.

Jonathan, feems to have reduced unto the of the occurrents between the rejection of Saul and his death.

and the Arabians of Zobab, against all which God to direct him, how he might avoid both he prevailed. He then assembled all the for- the suspition, and the danger. And if samuel ces he could make, to wit, 210000 men, and knew that it was no way derogating from receiving the commandement of God by Sa- the providence of God, that by his cautious muel, he invaded Amalec, wasting and de- care and wisdom he sought to avoid the instroying all that part of Arabia Petraa, and conveniences or dangers of this life: then do the Defart belonging to the Amalekites, from these men mistake the nature of his divine Havilab towards Tigris unto Shur, which ordinance, who neglecting the reason that bordereth Egypt; in which war he took A-God hath given them, do no otherwise avoid gag their King prisoner. But whereas he was the perils and dangers thereof, than as men instructed by Samuel to follow this Nation stupified in the opinion of fate or destiny, without compassion, because they first of all neglecting either to beg counsel at Gods attempted Ifrael, when they left Ægpt in hands by prayer, or to exercise that wildom disdain here to instruct samuel, to avoid the strong Giant, fearing neither God nor Man, fury of Saul, by the accustomed cautious undertook to defie the whole Hoste of Ifrael.

provoking them with despightful words, to waies of the world. Of the fons of Isai, Samuel, by God di-appoint a Champion that might fight with rected, made choice of David, the youngest, him hand to hand; oftering condition, that having refused Eliab, the first born: who the party vanquished in Champion, should though he were a man of a comely person & hold it self as overcome in groß, and become great firength; yet unto such outward ap- vassal unto the other. This gave occasion to pearance, the Lord had no respect. For as it young David, whom Samuel by Gods apt sem 10 is written, God feeth not as man feeth, oc. but pointment had annointed, to make a famous the Lord beholdeth the heart. He also refu-entrance into publique notice of the people. fing the other fix brethren, made choice of For no man durft expose himself to encounone whom his father had altogether negle-dred, and left in the field to attend his flock; ter the great strength of Goliab, until David (sent by his father of an errand to the Camp) for of him the Lord faid to Samuel, Arife and accepted the combat, and obtained the vianoint him, for this is he: which done, Samuel Ctory, without other arms, offensive or defendeparted and went to Ramath. Neither was five, than a fling, wherewith he overthrew it long after this that Saul began to feek the that haughty Giant, and after with his own life of David: in which bloody mind he con-Sword strook off his head. Hereupon the tinued till he died, overcome in battel by Philistims, who should have yielded themselves as subjects to the Conquerour, accor-

The Philistims having well considered (as ding to the covenant on their own side proit feems) the increase of saul his power pounded, fied without stay; and were pursuthrough many victories by him obtained, ed and flaughtered even to their own gates. whilst they had sitten still and forborn to By this victory the Philistims were not so give impediment to his prosperous courses, broken, that either any of their Towns were thought it good to make new trial of their loft, or their people discouraged from infestfortune, as justly feating that the wrongs, ing the Territories of Ifrael. But David, by which they had done to Ifrael, might be rewhom God had wrought this victory, fell paied with advantage, it ever opportunity into the grievous indignation of his Master should serve their often injured neighbours saul, through the honour purchased by his against them, as lately it had done against well-deserving. For after such time as the spi-Moah, Ammon, and the rest of their ancient rit of God departed from Saul, and came upenemies. Now for the quality of their Souldi- on David, he then became a cruel Tyrant, 1 sant ers, and all warlike provisions, the Philistims faithless, and irreligious. Because the High 13. had reason to think themselves equal, if not Priest Abimelech fed David in his necessity superiour to Ifrael. The success of their for- with hallowed bread, and armed him with a mer wars had, for the most part, been agree- sword of his own conquest, taken from Goliable to their own wishes: as for late disasters, ab; Saul not only by his wicked Edomite Doeg they might, according to humane wisdom, murthered this Abimelech and 85. Priests of impute them to second causes; as to a tempest Nob, but also he destroyed the City, and hapning by chance, and to a militaken alarm, mote with the edge of the fword both man and the whereby their Army, possessed with a need-woman, both child and suckling, both Ox and less fear, had fallen to rout. Having therefore Ass, and sheep. And he that had compasmustered their forces, and taken the field, sion on Agag the Amalekite, who was an eencamping so neer to the Army, which King nemy to God and his people, and also spa-Saul drew forth against them that they could red and preserved the best of his Cattel, not easily depart without the trial of a bat-contrary to the Commandement and Orditel, each part kept their ground of advan-nance of God, both by Moses and Samuel, tage for a while, not joyning in groß, but had not now any mercy in store for the maintaining some skirmishes, as refusing both innocent, for the Lords servants, the Priests of them to pass the Valley that lay between of Israel. Yea, he would have slain his own 15a their Camps. Just causes of fear they had on son Jonathan, for pitying and pleading Daboth fides; especially the Philistims, whose vids innocency; as also once before for talate attempts had been confounded by the sting the honey, when his fainting for hunger angry hand of God. Upon this occasion per-made him forget his fathers unreasonable haps it was, that they fought to decide the commination. The companions of cruelty are matter by single combat, as willing to try in breach of faith towards men, and implety one mans person, whether any stroak from towards God. The former he shewed in deheaven were to be feared. Goliah of Gath, a nying David his daughter, whom he had

CHAP. XVI

promifed

promifed him; and again in taking her away | are who place before him Latinus Silvius, as from him to whom he had given her: also brother to Posthumus, calling him the fifth saul quickly enfued. bouring Nations; crusht the Syrians, and their adherents; broken the strength of the of whom all men have read that have read Amalekites; and greatly wasted the power Poets. Promethens begat Deucalion; and Eand pride of the Philistims.

§. VI.

of fuch as lived with Samuel and Saul ; of Hellen, and Hercules, and of their iffues : upon occasion of the Dores, with the Heraclida, entring Peloponnesus about this time.

IN the second year of Samuel, according to ving first inhabited fundry parts of Thessaly, Fuschius, was David born: after Codoman, did afterward feat themselves about Parnaflater, and in the ninth year : after Bunting, in fus, and finally became Lords of the Counthe tenth. For David, faithhe, was thirty tries about Lacedamon: Xuthus the eldeft fon years old when he began to reign: whence of Hellen, being banished by his brethren, it followeth, that he vvas born in the tenth for having diverted from them to his own of the forty years, which are given to samuel use some part of their Fathers goods, came and Saul, About the eleventh year of Samuel, to Athens: where marrying the Daughter of Aneas Silvius the fon of Postbumus began King Eritheus, he begat on her two sons, in that when as David had twice spared his from Aness, and fourth King of Alba, wherelife in the Territory of Ziph, and Saultwice of I will not frand to dispute. In the eleventh fworn to do him no hurt, and confetled his of Samuel, Dereilas fate in the Throne of Allyerrours, yet he fought still to destroy him, by | ria, being the one and thirtieth King; he ruall the means he could. His impiety towards led that Empire forty years. In this age of Sa-God he showed, in that he sought counsel of muel the Dores obtained reloponness, and at the Witch of Endor, which was the last pre- once with the Heraclida, who then led and parative for his destruction. For whereas commanded the Nation, possess a great part when he fought counsel from God, he had thereof, 328. years before the first Olympiad, been alwaies victorious: from the Oracle of according to todorus and Eratofthenes. For the Devil this fuccels followed, that both all Greece was anciently possessed by three himself, and his three sons, with his nearest Tribes or Kindreds, viz the Ionians, Dorians, and faithful servants, were all slaughtered by and Aolians: at length it was called Hellas, the Philistims: his body with the bodies of and the people Hellenes, of Hellen the son of his fons (as a spectacle of shame and disho- Eeucalion, Lord of the Country of Pthiotis nour ) were hung over the vvalls of Bethsan ; in Theffaly. But before the time of this Hellen. and there had remained till they had found yea, and long after, Greece had no name comburial in the bowels of ravenous birds, had mon to all the Inhabitants, neither were the not the grateful Gileadites of Jabes from people called Hellenes, till fuch time as parttheir carcasses thence, and interred them. This ly by trading in all parts of the Land, partly vvasthe end of Saul, after he had governed by the Plantation of many Colonies, and fun-Ifrael, together with Samuel, 40. years, and dry great victories obtained, the issues of by himself after Samuel 20. years, according Hellen had reduced much of the Country comp. to Cedrenus, Theorhilus, and Josephus. But yet it under their obedience, calling themselves 6. Though, feemeth to me, that after the death of Samuel, generally by one name, and yet every seve-16.1. Saul did not rule very long: For in the be- ral Nationalter some one of the posterity of ginning of the 25.chapter, it is vvritten, that Hellen, who had raigned over it. And be-Samuel died; and in the rest of the same cause this is the farthest antiquity of Greece, chapter, the pallages are written of David, it will not be amils to recount the Pedegree

of the History of the World.

Nabal, and Abigail, after which the death of of her first planters. Japetus (as the Poets fable) was the fon of An exceeding valiant man he was, and Heaven and Earth, so accounted, either begave a fair entrance to all those victories cause the names of his Parents had in the vehich David afterward obtained: for he Greek tongue such signification: or perhaps had beaten the Ammonites with their neigh- for his knowledge in Astronomy & Philosophy. Japetus begat Prometheus, and Ephimetheus:

pimetheus, Pyrrha; Deucalion and his wife Pyrrha reigned in Theffaly, which was then called Pyrrba (as Cretenlis Rhianus affirmeth) of Pyrrha the Queen. In Deucalions time was that great floud, of which we have spoken elfewhere. Deucation begat Hellen: whose fons were Xuthus, Dorus, and Æolus: of Dorus and Æglus the Dores and Æglians had name. The Æoles inhabited Bæo'ia. The Dores hahis reign over the Latines in Alba, who go- Achaus and Ion. Of these two, Achaus, for a verned that State one and thirty years. There flaughter by him committed, fled into Pelaponnesus: Aaa 2

ponnesus: and seating himself in Laconia,

of his Grand-father in Theffalie. Eumolpus the Thracian invaded Attica, did Erymanthus in Arcadia: the fifth was the obtain a great Victory, and thereby fuch cleaning of Angias his Oxe-Itall in one day, love and honour of the people, that they which he performed by turning the River committed the ordering of their State into Alphens into it: the fixt was the chafing away his hands. He divided the Citizens into of the Birds from the Lake Stymphalis the Tribes, appointing every one to some occu- seventh was the setching a Bull from Crete: pation, or good course of life. When the the eighth was the taking of the Mares which than to contend with him. So Ion married berns from Hell. The Mythological interpre-Helice, and built a Town called by his Wives tation of these I purposely omit, as both oname in Figialia, where he and his posterity ver-long to be here set down, and no less reigned long, and (though no obliterating perplexed than the labours themselves. For the old name) gave to that Land denomina- fome by Hercules understand Fortitude . tion. But in after times the Dores affifting Prudence, and Constancy, interpreting the the Nephews of Hercules, invaded Pelopon- Monsters, Vices. Others make Hercules the nefus, and overcomming the Acheans, pof- Sun, and his travels to be the twelve fignes fifled Laconia, and all those parts which the of the Zodiac. There are others who apply Achei, had formerly occupied. Hereupon his Works historically to their own conthe Achai driven to feek a new feat, came ceits; as well assured, that the exposition unto the Iones, desiring to inhabit Agialia, cannot have more unlikelihood, than the with them, and alleged in vain, that Ion and fables. That he took Elis, Pylus, O Echalia, Acheus had been brethren. When this re- and other Towns, being affifted by such as quest could not be obtained, they sought by either admired his vertues, or were beholdthe fon of orestes, in that War. Thus were the Iones driven out of Pelo-

ed thefe 12. great labours.

CHAP. XVI First he slew the Nemaan Lyon: secondgave name to that region: from whence (as ly, he flew the ferpent Hydra, which had nine fome write) he afterwards departed; and heads, whereof one being cut off, two grew levying an Army, recovered the Kingdom in the place: the third was the overtaking a very fwift Hart : the fourth was the taking Ion being General for the Alberians when of a wild Bore alive, which hanted mount people multiplied, he planted Colonies in Sy- Diomedes King of Thrace fed with humane cionia, then called Agialos or Agialia: In flesh: the ninth was to fetcha Girdle of the which Country Solinus then reigning, Queen of the Amazons: the three last were, thought it fafer to give his Daughter Helice to fetch Gerion's Beeves from Gades; the in marriage to Ion , and make him his Heir, golden Apples of the Hesperides ; and Cer-

force to expel the Ionians, which they per- ing unto him; Also that he flew many formed; but they loft their King Tifamenes, Theeves and Tyrants, I take to be truely written, without addition of Poetical vanity. His travels through most part of the ponnesus, and compelled to remove into At- World, are, or may seem, borrowed from tica, from whence after a while they failed Hercules Libycus. But fure it is that many into Afia, and peopled the Western coast Cities of Greece were greatly bound to him: thereof; on which they built twelve Cities, for that he (bending all his endeavours to inhabited by them, even to this day, at the the common good ) delivered the Land least without any universal or memorable from much oppression. But after his death, transmigration. This expedition of the Iones no City of Greece (Athens excepted) requiinto Asia hath been mentioned of all which ted the vertue and deserts of Hercules, with have written of that Age, and is commonly | constant | pretection of his Children , perseplaced 140. years after the War of Troy, and cuted by the King Eurystheus. This Euryst-60. years after the descent of the Heraclida heus was Son of Sthenelus, and grand-child into Peloponnesus. These Heraclida were they of Perseus; he reigned in Mycena, the of whom the Kings of Sparta iffued; which mightiest City then in Greece. He it was race held that Kingdom about 700. years. that imposed those hard tasks upon Hercules, Of their Father Hercules many strange things who was bound to obey him (as Poets reare delivered unto us by the Poets, of which | port) for expiation of that Murther, which some are like to have been true, others per- in his madness he had committed upon his haps must be allegorically understood. But own children; but as others say, because he

the most approved Writersthink that there was his Subject and Servant: wherefore were many called Hercules , all whose ex- there are who commend Eursstheus for emploits were by the Greeks ascribed to the ploying the strength of Hercules to so good fon of Alemena, who is said to have perform- a purpose. But it is so generally agreed by the best Writers, that Hercules was also of the flock of Perseus, and holden in great of Berosus his Anamaon, who gave name to Fund jealousie by Eurystens because of his vertue, that people. But this Functions imagineth it can be which appeared more and more in the dan- Homer the Poet to have been long after these perous fervices, wherein he was imployed, times, rathly framing his Ara according to tred Euryftens. Idolaus the brothers fon of Homer, because blind men follow a guide, side. back. When the Peloponnesians understood ter Troy taken, about 260. years: and about that Eurystheus was slain, they took Atreus 250. years before the building of Rome; the Son of Pelops to their King: for he was making him to have flourished about the rich, mighty, and favoured of the People. time of Jehosaphat King of Juda. But Clemens Against him the Heraclida marched under Alexandrinus & Tatianus above named, men-Highlus, the fon of Hercules. But to avoid tion Authors that make him much antienter. effusion of bloud, it was agreed, that Hyllus The difference of which Authors in this should fight with Echenus King of the Tegea- point is not unworthy the Readers confidete, a people of Arcadia, who assisted Atreus; ration, that by this one instance he may with condition, that if Hyllus were Victor, ghesse of the difficulty, and so pardon the errours in the computations of ancient time: he should peaceably enjoy what he challenged as his right: otherwife the Heracli- feeing in fuch diversity of opinions a man de should not enter Peloponnesus in an hundred years. In that combat Hyllus was tlain, and the Heraclide compelled to forbear their Country, till the third generation: at which time they returned under Ariftodemus (as the best authority doth shew, planted in that Country, as is before flew death of Euryftheus four generations.

CHAP. XVI.

6. VII.

of Homer and Hefiod, and many changes in the World, that happened about this Age.

A Poet Homer lived, as many of the best nian plantations, came to visit him, near 240.

io that he grew great in reputation and (a) Architochus in the tract, or rather frag-(a) This nower through all Greece; and had by man ment de temporibus; and makes seven more set out ny Wives and Concubines above threefcore of this name to have flourished in divers Ci- with Bere-Children. These Children Eurystheus would ties in Greece. Whence, perhaps, sprang firs and o fin have got into his power, when Hercules the diversity of opinions, both of the time, at Built, was dead: but they fied unto Ceyx King of and of the native City of Homer. According and after with Fort Teracinia, and from him (for he durif not to this Archilochus, Functins finds Homer a Annia withfrand Eurstheus ) to Athens. The Athe- bout the time of Manafe King of Juda, and his Comnisms not only gave them entertainment, Numa of Rome. He was called Melefigenes ment at but lent them aid, wherewith they encountred Eurysteus. Idolaus the orothersion of Homer, because blind their londway guide, water, f. Hercules, who had affilted him in many of which fignification among others, is in the 147, plahis travels, was Captain of the Heraclida. It Verb busgliv: for this Homer in his later time cent Hois faid of him, that being dead he obtained was blind. * Clemens Alexandrinus recites merin the leave of Pluto to live again till he might re- many different opinions touching the questi- ration in venge the injuries done by Eurystheus: whom on of the time when Homer lived. So also the time when he had flain in battel, he died again. (b) Aulus Gellius, and Tatianus Affrius in his serange It feems to me, that whereas he had led Co- Oration ad gentes. Paterculus reckons that tum, 45. lonies into Sicily, and abode there a long Homer flourished 950. years before the Con- (b) Noc. time forgotten: he came again into Greece [ulfhip of Marcus Vinutius: which Mercator e. 11, item. to affift his Coufins, and afterwards returned cafteth up in the Worlds year 3046, and af-6.17.6.11.

may hardly find out what to follow. For Crates the Grammarian (as Clemens Alexandrinus reports ) gave being to Homer about 80. years after Troy taken, near the time that the Heraclida returned into Peloponnesus: and * Eratoftenes after Troy 100. years. Theo. * As both though tome have faid, that they came un-der the conduct of his Children) and failed into Phrygia for the War of Troy. Eu. Affr. 11. brought with them the Dores whom they phorion makes him contemporary with Gy- porthis oges, who began to reign in the 18. Olympiad Pinion Reed, having expelled the Achai, over whom (which was 45. years after Rome was built) Phil. 43. the illue of Pelops had reigned after the and sofibins faith, that he was 90. years be-Rosindife. fore the first Olympiad: which he seeks to temporum. prove by the times of Charillus and his fon com. in Nicander. Philechorus placeth him 180. af Archilog. ter Troy: Ariftarchus 140, in the time of the feating of the Colonies in Ionia. Apollodorus affirms that he lived while Agefilans governed Lacedamon; and that Lycurgus in his Bout this time that excellent learned | young years, about 100. years after the Io-Chronologers affirm. He was by race of the years after Troy taken. Herodotus finds Ho- Her. in st-Meones, descended (as Functius imagineth) mer flourishing 622. years before Xerxes en- 14 Ho. terprife fome place him in the time of samuel, and came in his head so to do. others in the end of David, and others in o- It seemeth that Senyes, or, after Macrobither Ages. In his Evangelical Preparation, us, Senemires ruled Egypt at this time: for where out of Tatianus Ajyrius he citeth fun- Tanephersobris was his Successiour, who predry opinions touching the time when Homer ceded Vaplires, Father in law to Solomon. lived, he reckoneth many other Greek Wri- About the end of Sauls government, or Orpheus, Musaus, Thamyras, Amphion, and merians invaded Asia, Latinus Sylvius then tic 1.3.6 elder, it is also much disputed. Aulus Gelli- years before David's time) there were many imag. 1.1. certain which of these learned Fablers was the Latines: in the South part of Greece, Chron caff first born: but he finds that they lived toge- those of Lacedamon, Corinth, and the Achai. I. I. annal, ther some certain years, wherein he con- In Arabia, Syria, Soba, and Damascus, the firms himself by an Epigram, written upon a Adads made themselves Princes, of which Trevit, and left by Hefiod in Helicon.

(a) This the Silvii reigned in Alba, about (a) 140. raelites having now altered the Form of Goand reads in the time of Acastus the son of Pelias, King of all those neighbouring Nations, who by sanfor it. of Thessay. For my self, I am not much trou-enterchange of times had subjected the Jucir, a bled when this Poet lived; neither would deans, corrupted their Religion, and held rud. clem I offend the Reader with these opinions, but them under in a most abject and grievous terprife against the Greetans: which Bero-, haps containing some great mystery. In dealdus accounteth at 102, years after the Tro-vision whereof Lucian feigning himself to jan War. Eusebius scems to make him to have been in Hell, and to have spoken with have been about the time of Joas King of Ju- Homer, there asked him the cause why he beda, 124. years before Rome built: though gan his book with that word: who answeelsewhere in his Chronology he notes that red, That he began in that fort, because it ters more ancient than Homer; as Linus, in the beginning of Davids time, according to the color of the Philammon, Fpimenides, Phemius, Aristaus, to Cassiodorus, the Amazones with the Cym-china ruling in Italy. And befides the overthrow Now whether Homer or Hesiodus were the of that Famous State of Troy (which fell 102. us reports that Philochorus and Xenophanes other changes in the middle part of the affirm, that Homer preceded Hefiod: and on World, not only by reason of those Northern the contrary, that I uc. Accius the Poet, and Nations: but there fprung up somewhat Ephorus the Historian, make Hesiod of an el-nearly together, fix Kingdoms into greatder time than Homer. Varro leaves it un ness, not before erected. In Italy that of

there were ten Kings, which began and end-Cornelius Nepos reports that they both ed with the Kings of Ifrael in effect : and lived 160. years before Rome built : while somewhat before these, the State of the Ifyears after the fall of Troy. (b) Enthymenes vernment, began to flourish under Kings, of finds them both 200. years after Troy taken, which David, in a few years, became mafter Alex. Strong, only to shew the uncertainty, and disagree- slavery; to wit, the Edumaans, Moabites, ment of Historians, aswel in this particular, Ammonites, Midianites, Itureans, and the as in all other questions and dispute of time. rest of the Arabians, with the Philistims, Je-For, the curiofity of this mans age is no less busites, Gesburites, Macathites; all which acridiculous, than the inquisition why he be-knowledged David for their Soveraign Lord, gan his Iliads with the word Menin, as per- and paid him tribute.

CHAP. XVII. Of DAVID.

6. I.

of Davids eftate in the time of Saul.

HE hazzards which David ran | Goliab in the view of both Armies, whereby into while he was yet only de- he became known to Saul, and so highly affigned King, and lived as a fected of Jonathan the fon of Saul, that he private man, expecting the loved him as his own foul: Infomuch as when Empire, were very many. The Saul fought to perswade his son that David first personal act of Fame, was his killing of would assuredly be the ruine of his house, he pleaded his caule; Jonathan could ne- himself, he was forc'd to counterfeit both wearied from the care of David's life, and 'fured among the Philiftims, he covered himwell doing. It was not long after this fignal felf in the Cave of Adullam: and after conhim a place of command among the men of profecute him.

more good to the Musician than to the King. gain: which he did. Saul having failed in such open attempts, This Army of the Philistims commanded gave unto David the command over 1000. by Achis, encountred Sanl at Gilboa, in which Souldiers to confront the Philiftims withall. he and his three fons were flain. The newes, For he durst not trust him as before, about with Saul's Crown and Bracelets, were his person, fearing his revenge. Now the brought to David at Siglag, in his return promifed him his Daughter Merab to Wife: man of the same Nation, who avowed but having married her to Adriel, he gave (though fallly) that himself at Saul's request to David his younger Daughter Michol, but had flain him. David, because he had accuwith a condition, to prefent him with an fed himself, made no scruple to cause him to hundred foreskins of the Philistims: hoping be flain at the instant: and the sooner, berather (in respect of the valour of that Nati- cause the probabilities gave strong evidence on ) that the Philistims would take David's withal. Otherwise it followeth not that evehead, than he their foreskins. This hope ry man ought to be believed of himfelf to his practifed with Jonathan , and afterwards crimine , nift approbatio alia instruit religiowith his own hands attempted his life, but nem cognoscentis. The prisoners confession his purposes were still frustrated. After all must not be taken for an evidence of the crime, this he fought to murther him in his own unless some other proof inform the conscience house, but Michol his Wife delivered him. of the Judge. For a man may contess those So David fought Samuelat Ramab, and being things of himself, that the Judge by exa-15en 19, pursued by Saul, fled thence unto Nob in mination may know to be impossible. But Eenjamin, to Abimeleck, then to Achir the because it is otherwise determined in the

and effate, and offered him violence when Philliflim, Prince of Geth: where to obscure ne periore in course, forcid, nor ever fimplicity and distraction. But being ill af- 1 seg. 21, act of David, but that Saul became exceed- veying such of his Kinstolks as were not fit to ing jealous of him, though he were become follow him, into Moab, he hid himself in the as his houthold fervant, and his Equire, or defarts of Ziph, M.son, and the Hils of Engad-Armour-bearer. Saul being vexed with an di, where he cut of the lap of Sauls garment, evil spirit, was advited to procure some cun- and spared his life: as he did a second time ning Mulician to play before him upon the in the defart of Ziph, after his pallage with Haro; whereby it was thought that he Nabal and Abigail. After which he repaired 1 512 29. might find case; which came to pass ac- to Achis of Geth the second time, and was cordingly. He entertained David for this kindly entertained, in regard of the hatred Jungen, in purpole, and began to favour him, giving with which his Mafter Saul was known to via. War. But the jealous Tyrant foon waxed Of Achis David obtained * Siglag in Sime - It feemweary of his good affection, and fought to on, pretending to invade Judga: but he ethits kill David, being thereunt moved only bent his forces another way, and frook the sense of his Veryor. This office I will be the bent his forces another way, and frook the ver obthrough envy of his Vertue. This paffion Amalehites, with other enemies of Ifrael, let-tained through envy of his vertue. In spanious amazenes, with other channes of a state of the fifth brake forth in the midft of his raving ting none live to complain upon him. Achie siglar ill time, this time, fit, at which time he threw a fpear at David supposing that David had drawn bloud of or itis that was then playing on his Harp to do his own Nation, thought himself aftured of faid in the

him : and therefore preparing to invade of Sam. column Cenforinus remembreth one Afelepius a Ifrael, fummoneth David to affilt him, who therefore Physician, who practifed the curing of the diffembling his intent, seemeth very willing assessment Frenzy, by the like Musick: and tempered thereto. But the rest of the Philistim Prin-uncothe thereby those diseases which grew from past-ccs knowing his valour, and doubting his king of thereby those diseases which grew from pal-ics knowing his variour, and doubting his angle of fion. That Pythagoras did also the like by disposition, liked not his company, and this day. such a kind of harmony, Seneca, in his third therefore he withdrew himself to Siglag. book of Anger witneffeth. But the madness At his return he found the Town burnt, his of Saul came from the cause of causes: and two Wives, with the Wives and Children of was thereby incurable, howfoever it fome- his people, taken by the Amalekites: Heretimes left him, and yielded unto that Musick, upon his followers mutined, but God gave which God had ordained to be a mean of him comfort, and assurance to recover all a-better to cover his hatred towards him, he from being victorious over Amaleck, by a 25cm.1. failing, when as now David's Victories be- own prejudice. For it is held in the law; con- 10 F. de gat new fears and jealousies in Saul, he felsio reorum non habenda oft pro explorato qualities.

strength of Ifrael also fell, could not but stir so many of Benjamin, and as many of Juda: up forrow, and move compassion in the heart whose force and valour was so equal, as there of David.

to attempt nothing at the present, lest by so stered Abner (who, as Afabel perswaded himdoing they should enforce their disegreeing self, had by being overthrown, and slying aenemies to a necessary reconciliation; but way, lost his courage) yet here it fell out Endels rather to permit that the one part should true, That the race is not to the swift. victors, and the vanquished, would become find it written in the fecond of Samuel. a prey to the violence of fuch as had beaten the fecond Chapter; though in the beginning them, when their forces were united.

made by Abner for Isboseth.

fon of Jonathan lived. Against this Abner doth not certainly appear. and Ishofeth, David made a defensive war, till Abner past Jordan, and entred the border of Juda; at which time he fent Joab with fuch forces as he had, to relift Abner: Isboscth remaining in Gilead, and David in Hebron. The armies encountred each title de cultodia reorum l. si confessius, & in membred by Herodotus, 300.being chosen of cap, de ponis l. qui sententiam, therefore doth, each Nation, of which number three persons the Gloss reconcile these two places in this were only left unflain. The like tryal by a far fort: si quis in judicio sponte de seiplo constitute au les number was performed by the Horatii teatur, & possea maneat in consessione, id est and Curiatii, sorthe Romans and Latines. The fatis. If any man in judgement lo confess of same challenge Goliab the Philistim made, himself, of his own accord, and after doth per- whom David lew: a custom very antient. Edfevere in his confession, it is enough. That ward the third offered the like tryal in his David greatly bewailed Saul, it is not im- own person to the French King; and Francis probable; for death cutteth afunder all com- the French King to Charles the Emperour. petition: and the lamentable end that befel There were twelve chosen of each part, in this him being a King, with whom in effect the war of David with the house of Saul, to wit, furvived not any one to challenge the victo-The victory which the Philistims had got-ry. But the quarrel staid not here, for the Arten, was so great, that some Towns of the If- my of Juda prest Abuer in gross, and brake raelites, even beyond the river of Jordan, him. Three hundred and fixty men of Abners were abandoned by the Inhabitants, and left companions were flain, and but twenty of Juunto the enemy, who took possession of them da; whereof Asabel the brother of Joah without any relistance made. Wherefore it was one: who when he would needs pursue may feem strange, that a Nation so warlike Abner, and by Abners perswasions could and ambitious as were the Philistims, did not not be moved to quit him, he was forced to follow their fortune with all diligence, and turn upon him, wounded him to death with feek to make the Conquest entire. Most like the stroak of his spear. For though Asabel 1 Son & it feems, that the civil war immediately were an excellent foot-man, and, as it is breaking out between David and the house written in the Text as light as a wild Roe, and of Saul, wherein Juda was divided from as Josephus reporteth, contended not onely the rest of Isreal, gave them hope of an easie with men, but with horses; and hoped to victory over both; and thereby caused them have gotten great same if he could have maconfume the other, by which means both the That this civil war lasted two years, we rafe to of the third it is again made probable, that this contention dured longer; and therefore the matter resteth still in dispute, and fome of the Rabbines conceive that Isbo-Of the beginning of Davids reign, and the mar feth had then reigned two years, when this was written, the War as yet continuing a longer time. For Abner held for the party of Fter the death of Saul, Abner, who com- Is boseth after this, and till such time as there manded for Saul in the War, fought to grew jealousie between him and Isboseth for advance Ishofeth ( or Jehoftus, according Sauls Concubine: neither did the death of to Tosephus) though he had no right to the Isboseth instantly follow; but how long after Kingdom of Ijrael: for Mephiboseth the first the murther of Abner it happened, the same

CHAP. XVII

> 9. III. Of the death of Abner flain by Joab, and of Isboseth by Rechab and Baanah.

other near Gibeon, where it feemeth that Abner made the offer to try the quarrel by the hands of Grant the could not hands of Grant the could not hands of a few; like to that combate be- endure a companion in Davids Favour, tween the Laced amonians and the Argives, re- and in the commandment of his forces; by

CHAP. XVII. which he was grown to powerfull, as David fame reward that the Amalekite lately did, forbare to call him to account: for thus for pretending to have flain Saul. Libofeth, bemuch he conscileth of himself; I am this ing dead, all the Elders of Israel repaired to day weak, and these men, the Sons of Zer- David at Hebron, where he was the third and asy wash, be too hard for me. In this fort Da last time anointed by general consent. vid complained after Abners death; and to make it clear that he hated this face of 6. IV. Toab, he followed him with this publike imof the flourishing time of Davids Kingdom, the precation; Let the blood fall on the head of Joah, and on all his fathers house: and let them he subject to ulcers, to the leprosic, to lameness, to the foord, and to poverty, &c. For could any thing have withstood the ordinance of God, this murther committed by Joab might greatly have indengered Davids estate, Ab- upon the Jebustes, who in derision of his ner being the mouth and trust of all the rest force, and confident in the strength of of the Tribes, not yet reconciled. This mift the place (as is thought) manned their chance therefore David openly bewailed, fo walls with the blind and lame of their Cithat all Ifrael perceived him to be innocent ty; which David foon after entred, all of that fact. The place which Abner held, their other forces notwithstanding. For habeing general of the men of war, was of ving mastered the fort of Zion (which was were fain to give them great respect, as hath Lord of Hiernsalem, without any great danbeen already shewed more at large. This ger, expelling thence the Jebusties, who had office Joab held in the army of Juda, and held it from the foundation, to the times of thought himself worthy to hold the place en- Moses and Joshua, and after them almost 400. tire, if once his Lord might obtain the whole years. There are who expound this place.o-Kingdom. For he was near to David in therwife: Except thou take away the blind and kindred, and had been partaker of all his the lame, thou shalt not come inhither. For adversity; wherefore he did not think it somethink that it was meant by the Idols of meet, that an old enemy should in reward the Jebusites: others, that it had reference to of new benefits, be made his partner. In-the Covenant made long before with Isaac, deed he was by nature so jealous of his dig- and Jacob: the one blind by nature and nity and place, that he afterward flew A- age, the other made lame by wrestling with maja his own kiniman, and the Kings, up- the Angel, and that therefore till those on the same quarrel, taking it in high disdain (that is, till that Covenant) be broken, David to fee him joyned with himself as captain of ought not to molest them. But for my self, the host of Juda; much less could he brook I take it, with Josephus, that they armed their a superiour; and such a one as had slain walls with certain impotent people at first, his brother, and been beaten himself, in in scorn of Davids attempt. For they that battel. But howfoever Joab did hate or def- had held their City about 400, years against pile Abner, David esteemed highly of him all the children of Israel, Joshua, the Judges, as of a Prince, and a great man in Ifrael, ex- and sanl, did not doubt but to defend it alculing the overlight by which he might feem fo against David. to have perished, by affirming that he dyed When he had now possess himself of the ve-: San 3. Not like a fool, nor a man vanquished, But as ry heart and Center of the Kingdom, and tors, aman falleth before wicked men, so (faith he) received congratulatory Embassadours and didest thou fall. And certainly it is no error presents from Hiram King of Tyre: he enterof wit, nor want of valour and vertue in him, tained divers other concubines, and married whom a stronger hand destroyed unawares, moe wives, by whom he had ten sons in Je-taking of Jerusalem, with two overthrows given to the Philistims , and the conduction of the Ark to the City of David. W Hen David was now established in the Kingdom, his first enterprise was fuch importance, that the Kings themselves afterward the City of David ) he became & Sam. 3:

or whom subtilty in free trust bringeth to rufalem, and by his former wives, he had six consussion. For all under the Sun are subject in Hebron where he reigned 7. years.

to worldly miseries and misadventures. How- The Philistims hearing that David was now soever Isboseth meant to have dealt with anointed King, as well of Juda as of Ifrael, Abner, yet when he heard of his death, he they thought to try him in the beginning, bedespaired greatly of his estate, and with him fore he was fully warm in his seat. And being all Israel were possest with great fear: in so encountred by David at two several times in much as two of Isbofeths own Captains, the Valley of Rephaim, or of the Giants, they 2 Sam. 5. Rechab and Baanah, murthered Isboscib, and were at both times overthrown. After which presenting his head to David, received the he called the place Baalperazim. Then

Then David allembled 30000, choice Ifraelites to conduct the Ark of God from the house of Abinadab in Gibea to the City of Da- The overthrow of the Philistims and Moabites vid; which business was interrupted by the death of Vzzah the fon of Abinadah, COon after this David overthrew the Phiwhom the Lord flew for prefuming to Diffims, which made them altogether touch the Ark, though it were with intent to powerless, and unable to make any invasion flay it from taking harm, when it was fla- upon Ifrael in haft. For it is written. Actices, mufick, dances, and all figus of joyful-nefs, in which David himself gladly bare a the bridle of bondage out of the hand of the Phipart. Hercupon Michol derided him for liftims. The Latin of Junius giveth another ruines the conceived that the fonot Island which Plan in his first book, and chap. 13. built this his greatnes: together with the This exposition is made plain, and consumed many new wives and concubines imbraced in the first of chro. the 18. which the remained barren to her death.

a nan, at the hand of man and beaft. The to the Philistims. wars which David had made overe just, and After this he gave them four other overthe bloud therein thed v as of the enemies throws: but the war of the Moabites and Aof God, and his ( ure he wet for this cause rabians came between. In the first of which it was not permitted the his hands should he was indangered by Ishbi-benob, the head by it appears how greatly those Princes de- which make nine pound three quarters of ed by our Saviour unto the peace-makers.

Lord to accept a Temple of Davids founding, of the Philistims was at Gob, a place neer that should be established in his seed.

CHAP. XVII

ken. But after three years it was with great cepit franum Amgaris e manu Philithao : san folemnity brought into the City with facri- rum; which place our English Geneva 11 dancing before the Ark, and afterward told and a better fence; for by that bridle of him in scorn, That he was uncovered as a fool Amgar was meant the strong City of Gaib. in the eys of the maidens his fervants, namely, or Geth, and so the Geneva hath it in the that he forgat his regal digency both in ap- marginal note. This City of Gath was the parel and behaviour, and mixed himselfa- same which was afterward Dio-Cesarea, set mong the base multitude dancing as fools on the frontier of Palastina, at the entrance do in the ways and freets: not that the dif- into Judea and Ephraim. From thence they liked Davids be an jour (a. I take it) though made their incurtions, and thereinto their rethe made it the colour of her derifion; but treat in all their invalions, which being taken rather the aboundant gricfe, which this by David and demolished, there was left no spectacle stirred up, beholding the glory of such frontier town of equal strength to the her husband to whom the was delivered last. Philistims on that part. The hill whereon Geth Tambala ly by force, and remembring the milerable or Gath stood, the Hebrews call Amma, where saids end of her father and brethren, out of whose of and of the word Gar is made Amgar, of the sea fince his possession of Jerusalem, made her There was no nation bordering the Jews break out in those despiteful tearms, for that so greatly afflicted them as the Philihich she remained barrento her death. fims did, who before the time of Sant l'entries done, David consulted with the Pro-the end they might not sharpen any weapon phet Nathan for the building of the Tem- against them ) did not leave one Smith in ple or house of God, but was forbidden it, lall their Cities and Villages of that kind, but because he was a man of yvar, and had shed inforced them to come down into their terblood. So greatly doth the Lord and King ritory, for all iron work whatfoever they of all deteft homicide; having threatned, not needed; fo as the Ifraelites till this time of tsents in vain, that he would require the blood of David, were feldom free from paying tribute lay the foundation of that holy temple, here- of whose spear weighed 300, thekles of brass ceive themselves, who think by bloud-shed & our poizes: at which time Abishai succoured terrer of their wars, to make themselves in David, and slew the Philistim, vvhercupon greatness like to the Almighty, which is a dam- the Counsellours and Captains of David nable pride; not caring to imitate his mercy (lest the light of Israel might by his loss be and goodness, or feek the bleffedness promit- quenched) wowed that he should not thenceforth hazzard himfelf in any battell. The Now although it was not pleafing to the second and third encounter and overthrow yet was his religious intent so well accepted, Gefar, and the last at Gath or Geth. And bethat hereupon he received both a confirmating now better affured of the Philistims by tion of the Kingdom to him and his heirs, and the taking of Geth, he invaded Moah, trom that happy promife of the everlasting Throne whom notwithstanding in his adversity he fought fuccour, and left his parents with him intrust. But whether it were the same King , or no, it is not known.

refer the Reader.

§. V I.
The war which David made upon the Syrians.

the passages of the mountains upon him at those of Hadadezer were golden shields.

Again, seeing David was either to pass through a part of Arabia the defart, or by the tulate his establishment in his fathers Kingplains of Palmyrena, his Army confifting of dom: for David, in the time of his afflictitootmen, for the most, if not all: He had now both Horse and Chariots good store to carry his provisions through those uncultived pla-ces, by which he was to have marched before he could have reached Enphrates, or any part baroully, and contemptuously (by curtaithereof. But we find that David returned to ling their beards, and their garments) as he Jerusalem, after he had twice overthrown thereby drew a War upon himself, which his border, as afore is faid.

The King of Syria, Damascena, and of Damascus, whereof that region is so called, hea-The Rabbines feign that Moab flew those ring that Hadadezer was overthrown by the kinsfolks of David, which lived under his Ifraelites, fearing his own estate, and the loss protection in Sauls time; but questionless of his own countrey which adjoyned to Sy-Droid well knew how that Nation had been ria Zoba of Hadadezer, fent for an Army of Aalwaies enemies to Ifrael, and took all the oc- ramites or Syrians to his fuccour: but thefe, casions to vex them that were offered. And as it appeareth, came too late for Hadad zer, he also remembred that in the 23. of Deut. and too soon for themselves: for there pe-God commanded Ifrael, not to feek the peace rished of those supplies 22000. This King of or prosperity of the Moabites; which David Damaseus, Josephus (out of Nicholaus an anwell observed, for he destroyed two parts tient Historian) calleth Adad, who was also of of the people, leaving a third to till the the fame name and family as allothole other ground. This victory obtained, he led his Adads were: which now began to grow up Army by the border of Ammon towards sy- in greatness, and so continued for tendefris Zobah, the region of Hadadezer the fon of cents, till they were extinguished by the Af-Reliab King thereof. The place is fet down in Sprians, as is thewed heretofore. David having the description of the holy Land: to which I now reduced Damaseus under his obedience, left a garrifon therein, ashe did in Edom:having also fackt the adjoyning Cities of Betah, and Berathi, belonging to Hadadezer, of which Cities Ptolomy calleth Betab, Tanba: and Berathi he nameth Barathena, Tohu or 2 Sam, 8. Thoi, whose country of Hamath joyned to A-T is written in the Text: David mote also dadezer (as in the description of the holv Hadadezer, &c. as he went to recover his Land the Reader may perceive) fent his fon border at the river Euphrates. Now whe- Joram to congratulate this fuccels of David: ther the words ( as he went to recover his partly because he had war with Hadadezer.& border) be referred to David or Hadadezer, partly because he seared David now victoriit is not agreed upon. Junius thinks that the Ous. He also presented David with vessels of article (he) hath relation to David, who find- gold, filver, and brafs; all which, together ing Tohu opprest by Hadadezer, overthrew with the goldenshields of the Aramites, and the one, and fuccoured the other. But the the best of all the spoiles of other Nations, ancient and most received opinion, that this David dedicated unto God at his return. recovery hath reference to the Syrian, is Junius translated the words (Clipeos aureos) more probable. For if David had intended by Ombones, as if all the parts of the Targets any fuch enterprize towards Euphrates, he were not of gold, but the boiles only. The was in far better case to have proceeded af- septuagint call them bracelets: Aquila, golden ter his victory than before: feeing that (Ha- chains. But because Roboam made shields of dadezer being taken) he had now left no e- brassin place of these of Hadadezer, at such nemy on his back, either to pursue him, to time as Shicab the Egyptian fack'd the Temple take victuals and supplies from him, or to of Jernfalem, it may be gathered thereby that

This done, David sent Embassadours to : Sam. 1. Hanum King of the Ammonites, to congraon under Saul, had been relieved by Nahalb, the father of Hanum. But this Mmthe Syrian Army, not bending his course to- neither his own strength, nor all the ayds wards the river Euphrates, but feeking to e- purchased, could put off or sustain. For stablish his purchases already made. Where- notwithstanding that he had waged three by it may appear, that it was the Syrian, and and thirty thousand Souldiers of the Anot King David, that was going to enlarge malekites, and their confederates; to wit, of the vaffals of Hadadezer twenty thousand, Bbb2

CHAP. XVII.

the N ah (for which he difburfed a thousand talents State. True of filver) yet all these great Armies, toge-Trace aid there with the firength of the Ammonites and Mesopotamians, from the party and conin teat. were by To th and his brother Abifhai eafily federacy of Animon: He fent out Toah the 3.14. broken and put to ruine: and that without Lievtenant of his Armies to forrage and deany great loss or flaughter at that time. And stroy their territory, and to besiege Rabbah, it is written that when the Aramites fled, the afterward Philadelphia, which after a while near oal ammonites also retraited into their Cities, the Israelites mastered and possest. The the one holding themselves within the walls, Kings Crown which weighed a talent of from to, the other in their defarts adjoyning, till gold, garnished with precious stones, David Joab was returned to Hierufalem.

fed his Army, afiembled his forces again, and City. And though David stayed at Jerusafent all the Companies that he could levy lem, following the war of Uriah his wife, till out of Mesopotamia; who under the com- such time as the City was brought to extremand of Shobach palled Euphrates, and in-mity, and ready to be entred: yet Joab in camped at Helam, on the South fide thereof. honour of David forbare the last assault, and the day of the ableft men of Ifrael, and the people he used extream rigour (if we about 10 fembled all the ableft men of Ifrael). narched toward the Sprian Army in Palmy- may fo call it being exercised against heamake near rend, not yet entred into Arabia; to wit, at then Idolaters,) for some of them he tare the foords Helam, a place no less distant from Damascus, with harrows, some he sawed as funder, others towards the North-east, than Jerusalem was he cast into burning kills, in which he baked = Sam. 10. towards the South-west. Now David (speak-tyle and brick. ing humanely ) might with the more confidence go on towards Euphrates ( which was the fartheit-off journey that ever he had ) because he was now Lord of Damascus, which lay in the midway. He also possest of Davids troubles in his reign, and of his See c. 18. himself of * Thadmor or Palmyrena , which Salomon afterward ftrongly fortified; and this City was but one dayes journey from Helam, and the river Emphrates. So had he visited and of Meschab and the tob thirteen thousand poverified, even to the last end of that

David having now beaten the Arabians fet on his own head, and carried away with Hadadezer hearing that Joab had difmil- him the rest of the riches and spoil of the forces.

6. VII.

two sase retraits, the one to Thadmor, and the of our former miseries, and many times of next from thence to Damascus. In this en-God himself the giver of all goodness; so counter between David and the Sprians, did these changes, in the fortune and state of they lost 40000 horsemen, and 700 charithis good King, change also the zealous care ots, together with shobach General of their which formerly he had to please God in the Army. The Chronicles call these 40000, precise observation of his Laws and Com-Souldier footmen, and fo Junius converts it, mandements: For having now no dangerand so is it very probable. For the Army of ous apparent enemy (against whom he was Ifrael confifting of footmen, could hardly wont to ask counsel from the Lord) he have flaughtered 40000 horsemen, except began to be advised by his own humane atthey quitted their horse and fought on foot. fections and vain desires: For he was not So are the chariots taken in this battel num- onely fatisfied to take Vriab's wife from bred at 7000 in the first of Chronicles the him, and touse her by stealth; but he inninth; in which number, as I conceive, all brodered his adultery with Vriab's flaugh-15m. the Souldiers that served in them, with the ter, giving order to his trusty servant Josh to 15 conductors, are included: fo as there dyed marshal him in the front or point of those of the Syrians in this war against David, be- Israelites, which gave an assault upon the fore he fore't them to tribute, 100000. foot- suburbs of Rabba, when there was not as yet men, besides all their horsemen and waggon- any possibility of prevailing. And that which ers, and besides all those that Joab slew, could no less displease God than the rest, he when they fled at the first encounter, was content that many others of his best sertogether with the Ammonites before Rab- vants and fouldiers should perish together bah. Notwithstanding all which, the A- with Oriah, hoping thereby to cover his pardads in following ages gathered strength ticular ill intent against him. After which he again, and afflicted the Kings of Juda began by degrees to fall from the highest of often: but the Kings of Ifrael they im- happiness, and his dayes then to come were filled with joyes and woes interchangeable, 1 ned by the Lord as a punishment of Davids his troden-down forrows began again to fin.

he by the roots (as he hoped ) gave him an the first were but 200 men: which he carharveft of many cares and discontent-ried with him from Jerusalem to Hebron, prements. And if it had pleafed GOD to tending, though impioutly the performance take the witness of Davids own mouth a- of a vow to God. There when Achitophel regainst him, as David himself did against the paired unto him, and many troops of people imalekite, which pretended to have tlain from all places, he proclaimed himfelf King, s withe had then appeared as worthy of re- and was by the people ( whose hearts God prehendion as the other was of the death he had turned from their lawful Prince ) acforfered. For when Nathan the Prophet cepted foreadily, that David doubting to propounded unto him his own errour in the be fer upon on the fudden, durft not trust perion of another, to wit, of him that took himself in his own City of Jerusalem, nor in the poor mans theep that had none elfe, the any other walled town for fear of furprife : bereaver being Lord of many; He then but incamped in the fields and defarts with vewed it to the living Lord, that fuch a one some 600, of his guard, and sew else. The thould die the death. And hercof, although Priests he left in Terusalem with the Ark of is pleased God to pardon David for his life, God, from whom he defired to be advertiwhich remiffion the Prophet Nathan pro- fed of those things that chanced 5 to whom rounced; yet he delivered him Gods ju- he directed Hufbai his trufty friend, and ferfice together with his mercy in the tenour vant, praying him to make himfelf in all his following; Now therefore the fword shall ne- outward actions and counsels of Absaloms cer depart from thy house, &c. because thou hast party and confederacy, thereby the better taken his wife to be thy wife, and haft flain to discover unto him the purposes of Achi-Uriah with the (word of the children of Am- tophel, a revolting Counfellour, whose pramon. Soon after this, David loft the child ctices he greatly doubted. And now when of adultery which he begot on Bersheba. Set treason was in fashion, Ziba also sought to becondly, his own fon Ammon, being in love tray his matter Mephibofeth the fon of Jonawith his half fifter Thamar, by the advice of than: And shimei of the house of saul (the his coufin-german the fon of Shimeak Davids fire of whose hatred Davids prosperity had he had performed, he thruft her from him in holding himself upon the advantage of a a careless and despiteful manner. Two years mountain side, cast itones at David, and most after which foul and incestuous act, Absalom despightfully curled him to his face : but caused him to be murthered at the feast of David attending no private revenges forbad his sheep-shearing: not perchance in re- Abishai to pursue him for the present, yet venge of Thamars ravishment alone; but left him among others in the roll of his rehaving it in his heart to usurp the Kingdom, venge to his fon Salomon. Absalom being now in which, because he could not in any fort be possest of Jernjalem, was advised by Achitoaffured of Ammon, he thought his affairs phel to use his fathers concubines in some greatly advanced by his destruction. So the such publick place, as all Israel might affure one brother having ravished his own fifter, themselves, that he was irreconcilable to his and then despised her; the other after a long stather: whereof being perswaded, they drunken, and then flaughtered him, which and his cause, without tear of being given up done, he fled away, and lived under the fafe- upon a reconciliation between them. This guard of Talmai King of Cessiar, near Da- salvage and impieus (though crasty coumascus, who was his grandfather by the mo- sel) Achitophel indeed urged for his own rether but a heathen King. Thirdly, when Ab- spect, as scaring that this rebellion might falom by the invention of Joab (but chiefly take end to his destruction, who most of all because of the great affection of David to- other inflamed Absalom against his father. wards his fon) was brought again, first to the And now was it fulfilled that Nathan had difather, feeking by the pretence of common thy wives before thine eyes, and give them unto justice, and by lowly and familiar manner to thy neighbour, and he shall be with thy wives hing, and those perils which he had pulled The company which Abfalom gathered at 2 cars, tel brother, possess there by force: which when smothered, but his adversity illightned) 2 Sounds diffembled malice first made his own brother would then resolvedly adhere to Absalom 15000 15000 Sen. 14. Kings favour, and then to his presence; he rectly foretold David: I mill raise up evil a- 2 Sime 12 began instantly to practise against David his gainst thee out of thine own house, and will take "11. all men, and by detracting from his fathers e- in the fight of the Sun : for their diddleft it quity, to win unto himself a popular reputa- feeretly, but I will do this thing before all thrack, tion. Here began the great affliction threat- and before the Sun. He also gave advice to

Abfalom , that himself with an Army of peared also by the sequel that Josh affected sea at

had not Hufbai Davids faithful fervant given advantage offered. counter-advice, and swayed it: perswading Hereof, together with news of the victo-Abfalom that it was fitter and more fafe for ry, when knowledge was brought to David, lowed, disposed of his own estate, and then compence. Whereupon Joab presenting for sook both the party and the care of Abhimself before David, perswaded him to dispose the party and the care of Abhimself before David, perswaded him to dispose the party and the care of Abhimself before David, perswaded him to dispose the party and the care of Abhimself before David, perswaded him to dispose the party and the care of Abhimself before David, perswaded him to dispose the party and the care of Abhimself before David, perswaded him to dispose the party and the care of Abhimself before David, perswaded him to dispose the party and the care of Abhimself before David, perswaded him to dispose the party and the care of Abhimself before David, perswaded him to dispose the party and the care of Abhimself before David, perswaded him to dispose the party and the care of Abhimself before David, perswaded him to dispose the party and the care of Abhimself before David, perswaded him to dispose the party and the care of Abhimself before David, perswaded him to dispose the party and the care of Abhimself before David, perswaded him to dispose the party and the care of Abhimself before David, perswaded him to dispose the party and the care of Abhimself before David, perswaded him to dispose the party and the care of Abhimself before David, perswaded him to dispose the party and the p

David being advertised of this enterprize thew himself to the Army. For first, he told falom, and of his own life. against him, marched away all night, and past him that he had discountenanced his faith-Jordan , policiling himself of Alabanaim in tul servants, who had that day preserved his the Tribe of Gad: the same wherein Ibo- life; inferring that nothing could be more feth himself in the war against David after dangerous to a King, than not onely not to Sauls death seated himself. To which place acknowledge so great a love and constancy there repaired unto him slobi the ion of in his people, who being but few in number, Nabash the Ammonite, whom David loved, did yet resolvedly expose themselves to the same which Jojephus calleth shiphar, great perils for his sake: but on the con-And though it be greatly diffuted, what this trary, grieve and lament at their good fuc-skobi was, yet the most general and proba-cess. For, no doubt, they might all have Hanum, whom David for his fathers take e- rate. Secondly, he urged, that it was gene-

In the mean time both the King and Absa- Lastly, he used this prevalent argument, low prepared to fight; Ablalom made Ama. That if the King came not out and shewed that Absalom hung by the hair of his head had given him, and which Joab now enjoyon a tree, when he could not perswade the ed. For David doubted, that if Amaja were messenger to return and kill him, he himself not satisfied he might draw from him a great with his own servants dispatcht him. It appart of the strength of Ifrael, now under his

2. San 17, 12000, men might be employed at the in- Adonijab whom he atterward acknowledgfrant for the furprizing of David; which ed David yet living; and fearing the dispohad willingly been imbraced by Abfalom, fition of Abfalom, he imbraced the prefeat

him with all the strength of Ifrael to pursue he mourned and sorrowed, not onely as a his father, than by such a troop, which Da- man that had lost a son, but as one that had risk valour and those of his attendants out-lived all his worldly joys, and seen evemight either indanger or refift. This delay ry delight of life interred. For he fo hid in Abfalom, and advantage of time gained himself from his people, as those which hoby David, was indeed, after God, the lofs of ped for honour and reward after fo great a the one, and delivery of the other. Where- victory, covered themselves also in the City, upon Achitophel rightly fearing (by the oc- as if they had committed the greatest offencasion fore-shewed) the success which fol- ces, and had rather deserved death than resemble his forrow for the present, and to ble opinion makes him a second brother to bought their peace of Absalom at an easie stablished in the Kingdom, after Hamms o- rally believed that he loved his enemies, and verthrow: in thankfulness whereof he rehated his friends; and that he witnessed by lieved David in this his extremity. There this his mourning, that he had not any recame also to Davids assistance Machin of spect of his Princes, and others his faithful Lodobar, Guardian in former times to Me- fervants, but would more have joyed if they phiboleth, and among others Barzillai the Gi- had all perished, and Absalom lived, than in leadite, who willingly fed David and all his the victory by their faithfulness and approved valour gotten.

fa Commander of the Army of Israel, the himself publickly to his men of war, that fame place which Joak held with David; an they would all that very night abandon office next the King himself, like unto that, him, and return: concluding with this fearful of the Maiors of the Palace anciently in threatning, And that will be worfe unto thee : sea. !! France. David, perswaded by his company, than all the evil that fell on thee from thy stayed in Mahanaim, and disposed the forces youth hitherto. By these over-bold and arrohe had to Joab, Abifh.ai, and Ittai, giving them gant speeches (though perchance uttered charge in the hearing of all that illued out with a good intent) Josh raifed David from of the port of Makanaim, that they should his bed of forrow, and brought him to the fpare the life of Abfalom. But Joab, belides gates of the City among the people, whom that he was very cruel by nature, remem- he assured of his love and assection, especialbred that Absalom had lately disposed of his ly Amasa, who commanded the Army of Abgovernment to Amaja, and therefore the vi- Jalom, to whom he promifed the office of ctory being obtained, and news brought him Lievtenantship; the same which Absalom commandment,

This done, the King marched towards judge humanely to rid himself of sauls line. fins done, and homeward, vyhere in his passage he by whom he and his might, aswell in the prepardoned shimei, who had lately reviled fent as in the future, be greatly moletted to his face : but this remission was but and indangered; onely he spared Maphiboresembles appeared afterward. He also ac- sheth the son of Jonathan, both for the love cepted of Mephibosheth his excuse, whom Zi- he bare to his father, and for his oath and vow to God.

Li had fallly accused and betrayed. He also intreated Barzillai the Gileadite, Now whereas it is written in the Text. his late liberal hoft, to follow him to Jeruja- The King took the two fors of Rilpah , whom : San :1; 1.07 that he might reward his service done she bare unto Saul, and the five sons of Michol him; who excusing himself by his age, ap- the daughter of Saul, whom the bare to Adriel. mointed his fon Chimham to attend the King. and delivered them to the Gibeonites: Janius At Gilgal on this fide fordan, all the calls this Michol the fifter of her that was Tribes affembled, and after some contention Davids wife, the whom Saul married to Phalwhich of them ought to have most interest tiel: but Michol here named, had Adviet in David, the Army brake, and David return- to her hulband; the same which is named do Jerufalem. But sheba the son of Bichri, Merab in the first of samuel the eighteenth, a Evijamite, of the faction of the house of who was first promised to David when he s.ul; finding fome discontent among the slew Goliab in the Valley Raphaim: and Maclites, withdrew them from David, as because it is written that Michol loved Dafrom a stranger in whom they had no inte-vid, which perchance Merab did not, wherest, and it seemeth that many of the people ther David had any humane respect in the of the out Tribes, and in effect of all but Ju-delivery of her children, it is onely known da, bare still a good affection to the islues of to God.

their first King. David imployed his recon- Now where the Geneva nameth Michal ciled Captain Amasa, to give him content- for Merab the wife of Adriel: the better tranment, and to witness his trust, as also because slation were out of the Hebrew word here he conceived that Amasa had interest in used, having an eclipsisor defect, and signistthose revolts of Ifrael more than Joab had. eth, as I am informed, one of the same kin-He received commandement from David dred, as in the 19. verse of the same one and to affemble the Army within three dayes, twentieth chapter it is faid of Goliab, whose which he foreslowed : but being onward fear was weighty as a Weavers beam, when as on his way, Abilhai, Joabs brother, was fent by the same eclips it must be understood after him, with Davids guard and best Soul- by the brother of Goliah; Goliah himself bediers, whom also Joab accompanied: and ing formerly slain.

overtaking Amala near Gibeon, pretending to imbrace him, gave him a wound, secured the house of David, leaving no head whereof he fell dead, being no less jealous unto rebellion: so did he strengthen both of Amasa than he was of Abner, whom he the King and Nation against forreign enemurdered in the fame manner, and out of the fame impatient ambition.

This done, ders, the like of whom, for number and quahe pursued sheba; and finding him inclosed lity, that people of Israel is not known to in Abel, assaulted the City with that fury, have had at any time before or after. Thirthat the Citizens by the perswasions of a ty Captains of thousands there were, all men wise woman there inhabiting, cut off sheba of mark, and great reputation in war. his head, and flung it to Josh over the walls: Over these vvere six Collonels, vvhose vawhich done, he retreated his Army to Jeru- lour was so extraordinary, that it might be falen, and commanded, as before, all the vvell held as miraculous. These Collonels Hoaft of Ifrael.

had some difference of place and honour, The next act of David, was the delivery which seemeth to have been given upon of Sauls fons or kinsmen to the Gibeonites, meer consideration of their vertue. For Abiwhom those Citizens hung up in revenge of flat the brother of foab, who in the war atheir fathers cruelty. David had know- gainst the Ammonites and Aramites was Lievledge from the Oracle of God, that a famine tenant, and commanded half the army, could which had continued on the land three not attain to the honour of the first rank but years, came by reason of Saul and his house, was fain to rest contented with being printo wit, for the flaughter of the Gibeonites : cipal of the three Collonels of the fecond and therefore he willingly yielded to give order, notwithstanding his nearness of blood them this satisfaction, both because he had unto the King, the flourishing estate of his warrant from God himself, as also, if we may own house, and his vvell approved services.

2 Sea 17, 12003, men might be employed at the in- Adom/ab whom he atterward acknowledghad not Hulbai Davids faithful fervant given advantage offered. counter-advice, and fwayed it: perfivasling Hereof, together with news of the victo-Abfalon that it was futer and more fate for ry, when knowledge was brought to David. him with all the firength of Ifrael to purfue he mourned and forrowed, not onely as a cafion fore-shewed) the success which folces, and had rather deserved death than re-falom, and of his own life.

fa Commander of the Army of Ifrael, the himself publickly to his men of war, that

Absalom , that himlelf with an Army of peared allo by the sequel that Joab affected 1500 to frant for the furprising of David; which ed.David yet living; and fearing the dispohad willingly been imbraced by Abfalom, fition of Abfalom, he imbraced the prefent his father, than by such a troop, which Da-man that had lost a son, but as one that had wids valour and those of his attendants out-lived all his worldly joys, and seen evemight either indanger or relift. This delay ry delight of life interred. For he fo hid in Absalom, and advantage of time gained himself from his people, as those which hoby David, was indeed, after God, the loss of ped for honour and reward after so great a the one, and delivery of the other. Where- victory, covered themselves also in the City, upon Achitophel rightly fearing (by the oc- as if they had committed the greatest offenlowed, disposed of his own estate, and then compence. Whereupon Joab presenting forfook both the party and the care of Ab- himfelf before David, perswaded him to diffemble his forrow for the prefent, and to David being advertised of this enterprize thew himself to the Army. For first, he told against him, marched away all night, and past him that he had discountenanced his faith-Jordan , policifing himself of Mahanaim in stul fervants, who had that day preferved his the Tribe of Gad: the same wherein tho- life; inferring that nothing could be more feth himself in the war against David after dangerous to a King, than not onely not to Sauls death feated himself. To which place acknowledge fo great a love and constancy there repaired unto him skohi the ion of in his people, who being but few in number, Nahafb the Ammonite, whom David loved, did yet resolvedly expose themselves to the same which Josephus calleth Shiphar, great petils for his sake: but on the con-And though it be greatly disputed, what this trary, grieve and lament at their good success was, yet the most general and probable opinion makes him a second brother to bought their peace of Abjalom at an easie Hamin, whom David for his fathers take e- rate. Secondly, he urged, that it was genestablished in the Kingdom, after Hanums o- rally believed, that he loved his enemies, and verthrow: in thankfulness whereof he re- hated his friends; and that he witneffed by lieved David in this his extremity. There this his mourning, that he had not any recame also to Davids assistance Machin of spect of his Princes, and others his faithful Lodobar, Guardian in former times to Me- fervants, but would more have joyed if they phiboleth, and among others Barzallai the Gi- had all perished, and Abjalom lived, than in leadite, who willingly fed David and all his the victory by their faithfulness and approved valour gotten.

In the mean time both the King and Absa- Lastly, he used this prevalent argument, low prepared to fight; Abjalow made Ama. That if the King came not out and shewed fame place which Josb held with David; an they would all that very night abandon office next the King himfelf, like unto that him, and return: concluding with this fearful of the Maiors of the Palace anciently in threatning, And that will be worfe unto thee seams France. David, perswaded by his company, than all the evil that fell on thee from thy stayed in Mahanaim, and disposed the forces youth kitherto. By these over-bold and arrohe had to Joab, Abifh.ii, and Ittai, giving them gant speeches (though perchance uttered charge in the hearing of all that iffued out with a good intent) Joab raifed David from of the port of Mikanaim, that they should his bed of forrow, and brought him to the spare the life of Absalom. But Joab, besides gates of the City among the people, whom that he was very cruel by nature, remem- he affured of his love and affection, especialbred that Abfalom had lately disposed of his ly Amasa, who commanded the Army of Abgovernment to Amasa, and therefore the vi- salom, to whom he promised the office of ctory being obtained, and news brought him Lievtenantship; the fame which Absalom that Absalom hung by the hair of his head had given him, and which Joab now enjoyon a tree, when he could not perfinade the ed. For David doubted, that if Amasa were messienger to return and kill him, he himself not satisfied he might draw from him a great with his own servants dispatcht him. It appart of the strength of Israel, now under his commandment.

CHAP. XVII. ha had fallly accused and betraved.

his late liberal hoft, to follow him to Jerusa- The King took the two fons of Rilpah , whom : Sen : 1; that he might reward his service done the bare unto Saul, and the five fons of Michol him; who excusing himself by his age, ap- the daughter of Saul, whom she bare to Adrick, many who care to first to attend the King. and delivered them to the Gibeonites: Tunius At Gileal on this fide fordan, all the calls this Atichol the fifter of her that was Tribes allembled, and after some contention Davids wife, she whom Saul married to Phalwhich of them ought to have most interest tiel: but Atichol here named, had Adriel in David, the Army brake, and David return- to her husband; the same which is named ed to Jerufalem. But sheba the son of Bickri, Merab in the first of samuel the eighteenth, a Benjamite, of the faction of the house of who was first promised to David when he sul; finding some discontent among the slew Goliah in the Valley Raphaim: and finelites, withdrew them from David, as because it is written that Michel loved Dafrom a stranger in whom they had no inte- vid, which perchance Merab did not, wherest, and it seemeth that many of the people ther David had any humane respect in the of the out Tribes, and in effect of all but  $g_{ij}$ . da, bare still a good affection to the issues of to God. their first King. David imployed his recon- Now where the Geneva nameth Michol ciled Captain Amafa, to give him content- for Merab the wife of Adriel: the better tranment, and to witness histrust, as also because flation were out of the Hebrew word here he conceived that Amasa had interest in used, having an eclipsion defect, and signifithose revolts of Ifrael more than Joab had. eth, as I am informed, one of the same kin-He received commandement from David dred, as in the 19. verse of the same one and to affemble the Army within three dayes, twenticth chapter it is faid of Goliab, whose which he foreflowed: but being onward spear was weighty as a Weavers beam, when as on his way, Abilhai, Joubs brother, was fent by the same eclipsis it must be understood after him, with Davids guard and best Soul- by the brother of Goliah; Goliah himself bediers, whom also Joab accompanied: and ing formerly slain. overtaking Amasa near Gibean, pretend. As by the death of Sants children God ing to imbrace him, gave him a wound, secured the house of David, seaving no head whereof he fell dead, being no less jealous unto rebellion : fo did he strengthen both of Amasa than he was of Abner, whom he the King and Nation against forreign encmurdered in the same manner, and out of mics by the valour of many brave Commanthe fame impatient ambition. This done, ders, the like of whom, for number and quahe purfued Sheba; and finding him inclosed lity, that people of Ifrael is not known to in Abel, affaulted the City with that fury, have had at any time before or after. Thirthat the Citizens by the perswasions of a ty Captains of thousands there were, all men wife woman there inhabiting, cut off sheba of mark, and great reputation in war. his head, and flung it to Josh over the walls: Over these vvere ix Collonels, vvhose vawhich done, he retreated his Army to Jern- lour was so extraordinary, that it might be of falon, and commanded, as before, all the vvell held as miraculous. These Collonels

Hoast of Ifrael.

This done, the King marched towards judge humanely, to rid himlelf of Studs line, And homeward, where in his passage he by whom he and his might, aswell in the prepurdoned shimei, who had lately reviled fent as in the future, be greatly moleited on to his face : but this remission was but and indangered; onely he spared Maphibothe radian appeared afterward. He also ac- fleth the son of Jonathan, both for the love certed of Akphibosheth his excuse, whom Zi- he bare to his father, and for his oath and vow to God.

He also intreated Barzillai the Gileadite, Now whereas it is written in the Text, had some difference of place and honour, The next act of David, was the delivery which feemeth to have been given upon of Sauls fons or kinsmen to the Gibeonites, meer consideration of their vertue. For Abiwhom those Citizens hung up in revenge of fai the brother of foab, who in the war atheir fathers cruelty. David had know- gainst the Ammonites and Aramites was Lievledge from the Oracle of God, that a famine tenant, and commanded half the army, could which had continued on the land three not attain to the honour of the first rank, but years, came by reason of Saul and his house, was fain to rest contented with being printo wit, for the flaughter of the Gibeonites : cipal of the three Collonels of the fecond and therefore he willingly yielded to give order, notwithstanding his nearness of blood them this satisfaction, both because he had unto the King, the slourishing estate of his warrant from God himself, as also, if we may own house, and his well approved services.

CHAP. XVII

Companies belonging to them, may feem to respect of persons, of which there perished 70. have been such as were continually retain-thousand. And hereby he hath taught all ed, or at the least kept in readiness for any that live, that it is better to fall into the hands occasion, considering that the numbers of God than of men; whereof he giveth this which were mustered and drawn out, if need divine reason, For his mercies are great. required, into the field, very far exceeded thirty thouland, yea, or thirty times as many. They were most of them such as had followed the King in Saul's time, and been of the last acts of David; Adonijahs faction; hardned with his advertities. Others there the revenge upon Joah and Shimei. were very many, and principal men in their feveral Tribes, that repaired unto him after the death of Sant; but these Captains and Land past the acts and knowledge of Wo-Collonels (who with Joab, that was Gene-men, he was yet advised to lie in the arms of ral of all the Kings Forces, make up the a young and well-complexioned Maiden, number of 37.) were the special men of to keep him warm. In this his weak estate War, and reckoned as David's Worthies of body, when he was in a manner bed-rid, The long reign of David, asit is known to Adonijah his eldeft son (Ammon and Absalone have confumed many of these excellent men being now dead ) having drawn unto his of War, so may it probably be ghessed to party that invincible, renowned and seared have wasted the most of those whose deaths Joab, with Abiathar the Priest, began maniwe find no where mentioned. For the fons lieftly to prepare for his establishment in the of Zervia, who had been too hard for Da-Kingdom after his Father. For being the vid, were worn away, and only Joab left in eldeft now living of David's fons, and a man the beginning of salomon, who wanted his of goodly personage, Salomon yet young, extremity. Divid, it is gathered, that he had reigned Thomas, and others suppose) he presumed to now 33. years or thereabouts, when the po- carry the matter without reliftance. Herefterity of Saul was rooted out, so that he en- of when David had knowledge by Berfabe joyed about leven years of entire quiet and the Mother of Salomon, who did put him in fecurity, wherein it pleafed God to remove mind of his faithful promife, that Salomon, all impediments that might have troubled her fon should reign after him ( Nathan the the fuccession of Salomon in his Fathers Prophet affirming the same thing unto the Throne. In this time also David having esta- King, and seconding her report of Adonijah blished all things in Jud. and Ifrael, and the his presumption) the King calling unto him borders thereof, he again displeased God by Zadoc the Priest, Nathan the Prophet, and power: in which he employed Joab, with charge and commission to anoint Salomon, thousand. God only, and left himself subject to that intentions to good effect, he summoned a

All these Collonel and Captains, with the cruel disease, which hath no compassion or brother Abiliai to stand by his side in his last and born of a Mother formerly attainted with adultery, for which her name was o-By the actions forepassed in the time of mitted by Saint Matthew (as Beda, Hugo, numbring the people, as in oftentation of his Benajah the Captain of his Guard, gave other Captains of his Army, who after nine and to fet him on the Mule whereon himself moneths and twenty dayes travel, returned used to ride in his greatest state: which with the account and register of all the peo-done, Salomon attended, and strongly guardple, able and fit to bear Arms, and they a-led by the ordinary and choice men of War, mounted to the number of thirteen hundred the Cherethites, and Pelethites, shewed himthousand, besides I evi and Benjamin, where- self to the people. These tidings being re-2 5am. 24 of in Juda and the Cities thereof, five hun-ported to Adonijah, he presently abandoned dred thousand, and in Ifrael eight hundred his affistants, and for the safety of his life, he held by the horns of the Altar, whom for the For this, when by the Prophet Gad he present Salomon pardoned. After this, Da-181651 was offered from God the choice of three vid had remaining two especial cares, wherepunishments, whereof he might submit him- of he was defirous to discharge his thoughts; self to which he pleased; to wit, seven years the one concerning the peace of the Land, Famine; three moneths War, wherein he which might be disturbed by some Rethould be unprosperous in all attempts, and bellion against Salomon ; the other conbe chased by his enemies; or a general pe-cerning the building of the Temple, which fillence to last three dayes: David made he fought by all means to advance, and choice to bow himself under the hand of make the business publick. To bring these Parliament,

Ifrael, the Princes of the several Tribes, all of his Wars, with incomparable valour and the Captains and Officers, with all the might fidelity, faving that he faftened himself to Aty, and men of power; who did repair un- donijab (his mafter yet living) and thereby

10 Terusalem. fignified his purpole of building the Temple, thewing how the Lord had approved the whereof he hath enforced other men to taffe, motion. Herein he took occasion to lay open and suffer the same violence which himself his own title to the Crown, thewing that the had unjuffly strooken others withal. oni gla-Kingdom was by Gods ordinance due to the dio percentit, gladio peribit: for he had bereav-Tribe of Juda (as Jacob in his blefting pro- ed Abner and Am. Ja of their lives, having aphetically bequeathed it ) and that God gainst the one the pretence only of his brohimself was pleased to make choice of him a- thers flaughter, whom Above had flain in the mong all his Fathers fons. In like manner he time of War, and could not avoid him: afaid that God himself had appointed salo- gainst the other but a meer jealousie of his mon by name to be his Succetiour; where- growing great in the favour of David. And upon he earnestly charged both the people though Josh affured himself that Almer and and his fon to conform themselves unto all Amaja being dead, there was none left either that God had commanded, and particular- to equal him, or furplant him, yet God (dely to go forward in this Work of the Lords riding the policies of wicked men) raifed up house, which Salomon was chosen to build. Benhajab the son of Jekojadab, to pull him Then produced he the pattern of the Work, from the Sanctuary and to cut him in peeces.

according to the form which God himself For David giveth this cause to Salomon apreparations, he exhorted all others to a vo- Floath of Ifrael, and flied bloud of battel in luntary contribution.

whereashe himself had given three thousand which Joab made manifest by the untimely talents of gold, and feven thousand of filver, setting up of Adonijah, David yet living. they added unto it seven thousand of gold, Some other offence Joah had committed aand ten thouland of filver, befides brafs, iron, gainst David, of which in these words he put and Jewels, heartily rejoycing in the ad- his fon Salomon in mind; Thou knowest also finess being so well dispatched, a solemn Now whether this were meant by the killing Fealt with great facrifice was made, at which of Abfalom, contrary to the Kings defire, or time salomon was again anointed King, and by the proud words used to him when he received fealty of all the Princes and people mourned in Mahanaim for Abfalom; or whethe mighty words; Take beed to the charge mafters cannot mis them, or that they dare his judgments, and his testimonies, as it is deserving great honour and respect. written in the Law of Moses, &c. to the per- He also gave order to Salomon to rid himformance of which GOD fastned the success self-felf of shimei, who not long before had cast tion, and prosperity of his islues. For this stones at David, and curfed him to his face. a. done (faith GOD himleif) Thou fielt not And albeit by reason of his oath and proof Ifrael.

ab; who out of doubt had ferved David Hence it feemeth that King Henry the fe-

Parliament, confifting of all the Princes of from the first asiault of Jerufalem to the last vexed him in his feeble age. But as God hath In this Assembly the King frood up, and never left cruelty unrevenged, so was it his will that Joab thould drink of the same cup, had appointed; and fo laying open his own gainft Josh, that he flew the Captains of the 1 Fire 2. peace; and to this apparent and just cause, it The Kings proposition was so well appissnot improbable but that David remembred proved by the Princes and people, that the ill affection of Joab towards Salomon, vancement of lo religious a Work. This bu- what Joab the fon of Serviah did to me, &c. 1 King. 2. of the Land, and of all the Princes his bre- ther it were the publishing of Davids letter thren, the fons of King David. Salomon be- unto him for the killing of Uriah, thereby to ing thus established King, his Father David disgrace Salomon as descended of such a moanding himself even in the hands of death, ther, the Scriptures are filent. True it is, that irit exhorted his fon to exercise the same those great men of War do oftentimes becourage and ftrength of mind, which him- have themselves exceeding insolently toselfhad done in all his attempts: and to the wards their Princes, both in respect of their end that a happy end might follow the be- fervice done, as also because they flatter ginning of all his enterprizes, he uttered themselves with an opinion, that either their of the Lord thy God, to walk in his wayes, and not offend them. But this kind of pride hath keep his statutes, and his commandements, and overthrown many a worthy man otherwise mant one of thy Posterity to fit upon the Throne mile David spaced Shimei all the time him- 1 King 2. felf lived, yet being dust and in the grave, Secondly, he advised him concerning Je- he slew him by the hand of Salomon his son.

386

violent hands to be laid upon him.

yeeld unto Salemon any fuch great profit or others, this opinion (faith he) Loce Evangeliaffurance as he hoped for. For he found a ca salvatoris ipfus refutatur, ubi ait qued infe young Adad of Idumas, and Resin of Danaf- David in spiritu Christum dixerit esse sunn cus to vex hira: who, as the Scriptures wit- Dominum, quoniam Pfalmus 109. sie incipit. nes, were emboldened to enterprize upon Dixit Dominus Domino meo, Sede à dextris 1 King 11 Salomon, hearing that David flept with his meis, &c. The voyce of the Gospel refutes Fathers, and that Joab the Captain of the this opinion, where it faith, that David him-Hoast was dead. Now when David had felf in the spirit called Christ his Lord; bereigned in all forty years, to wit, in Hebron cause the 109. Psalm begins thus: The Lord 7. years , and in Jerusalem three and thirty, Said unto my Lord , Sit thou at my right hand.

exceeding ftrong. For his internal gifts and pattern to all the Kings and Princes that fuegraces, he fo far exceeded all other men, as ceeded him. putting his humane frailty apart, he was His Story, and all his particular actions. faid by God himself to be a man according were written by the Prophets, Samuel, Nato his own heart. The Pfalms which he than, and Gad, as it is in the first of Chron.20. wrote, witness his piety, and his excellent verf. 19. For the several parts of the books learning: of whom Hierome to Paulinus: of Samuel which intreat chiefly of David, David Simonides noster, Pindarus, & Alex- were, as it seems, written by these three hous , Flaccus , quoque Catullus , & Serenus, ly men. Christum lyra personat, & in dechachordo Plalthan all the rest.

The book of the Pfalms, faith Gheat, was the year 2991. divided, ordered and diffinguished by Eze-Lias: but whether all the Pfalms were written by David, it is diverfly disputed. For Athanin Athanasius, Cyprian, Lyranus, and others con-Sympp. ceive divers Authors answering the titles of mer Epsil. the feveral Pfalms, as Mojes, Salomon, and it is treatures were exceeding great. For  $y_{nij} = y_{nij} =$ Pfalms were composed by David himself, Chronicles, that he left Salomon for the buildnamely, those which are intituled ipfins Da- ing of the Temple a hundred thousand tavid. For the 50, and the 72, with the ten lents of gold, and a thousand thousand tathat follow, are bestowed on Asaph the son lents of filver, and of brass and iron passing of Barachia, eleven other on the fons of Ko- all weight, which is more than any King in rath; and eleven are ascribed to Moses, to the World pottest besides himself, and his wit, the 89, and the ten following, and so son, to whom he left it. For it amounteth to they are intituled in the old Hebrew Copies, three thousand three hundred thirty and though the Vulgar and Septuagint (three three cart-load, and a third of a cart-load of excepted) ftile them otherwife. The fuppo- filver, allowing two thousand weight of filfed nine Authors of these Psalms which Da- ver, or fix thousand pound sterling to every CHAP. XVII venth of England had his pattern, when he fingers) Afaph, Ethan-Eziachi, Fman-Eziaira, Vices gave order to Henry the Eighth to execute Idithum, and the three fons of Chore. But S. Sunta Pool as foon as himself was buried, having Chrysoftome makes David the sole Author of made promite to the King of Spain, when he all the Pfalms, and fo doth S. Augustine, readelivered Pool unto him, that while he lived fening in this manner: Although (faith he) he would never put him to death, nor fuffer feme there are that aferibe those Pfalms on 14. ly to David, which are over-written infins And yet did not the execution of Joab Lavid, and the rest inituled instanced to died.

For his person, he was of small stature, but by Christ and the Apostles, and he was as a Constantine Manasses hath an opinion, that care terio ab inferis suscitat resurgentem : David the Trojans during the time of the siege 7 in is (faith he) our Simonides, Pindarus, Alexus, fought for fuccour from David, and that he Areas Horace, Catullus and Serenus, he playeth stayed Neuter in that War. But it seemeth ourse Christ on his Harp, and on a ten-stringed Pal- that Manasses did miscast the time 'twixt Da-Guthis ter he raifeth him up rifing from the dead. And vid and the Trojan War. For it is generally to living being both a King and a Prophet, he fore- received that Troy fell between the times of no Lorentz telleth Christ more lightsomly and lively Abdon and Sampson Judges of Israel, about list the Worlds year 2848, and David died in

s. IX. of the treasures of David and Salomon.

vid wrote not, Sixt. Senensis nameth as fol- cart-lead, besides threescore and seventeen loweth; Salomon, A ofes, (whem Aben Ezra, millions of French Crowns, or of our mocentry to Hierome, maketh one of David's my twenty three millions and a thouland pound: a matter, but for the reftimony of sheld, both before and after Davids time. For pear, fixing that the Judges had not any dervants, to be rulers over his cattel. We make may fover aign power to make read of Ozzia, that he loved husbandry, but when they went to the wars they shad much cattel, and plough men, and drefher pollowed by such voluntaries as the fers of Vines: likewife we read it in all keyed tibes by turns give them feeing alfo Greek Poets, that the wealth of the ancient that head who was of a mean parentage, and Kings did specially consist in their Herds paperually wexted and invaded by the Phi- and Flocks; whereof it were needles to calld ran in all likelihood gather cite Augeas and Admetus, or any other for and the parameter all his Territories be-examples, the rule holding true in all. Now h, caseeding nerrow, and thereof the bet- concerning David it is not unlikely, but repart policities his enemies.

have David within the space of not very ma- by him in all forts of gainful protestions, as av years, might amais up such mighty treat the ancient Romans in like manner used their three. For though parlimony be ir felf a flaves. ment revenue, yet needs there must have To these profits (besides the tributes and been some other great means. It seems that impolitions, which doubtless were great, he made the untermedt projet of all that he and besides the innumerable presents which had, that was profitable. Enjebius in his y-had, and laft chapter de Proparatione Evan-rily fent him, by John and others ) we may school cloth the words of Empolemus, who add the great spoiles which hee found reported that David, among other prepara- in the Cities and Countries which he conthat for the Temple, built a Navy in Mela- quered: also the head money which was ms, Orgas Villalpandus corrects it, Achanis) a gathered per legem capitationis; By the law city of drabia, and from thence fent men to of capitation, or head money, every man rich og in gold in the Hand Orphe, which orte- or poor paying half a fiele of the Sanftuahas thinks was Ophir, though Eupolemus in ry, which is about as much as fourteen this place of Eufebins ( erring perhaps in this pence, and fo in all it amounted to a woncircumftance) faith that this fland was in the drous fum in that Kingdom: wherein one red Sea: from whence, faith this Fupolemus, thousand thousand five hundred and feventhey brought gold into Jury, Pineda L., de Re- ty thousand fighting men were numbred by bus Salomonis, c.1. thinks that David did this! Joab. Now although this law of capitation way also enrich himself, and citeth his testi-be thought by some very learned, not to mony of Eupolemus: and yet certainly David have been perpetual ( which opinion of had many other ways to gather riches which theirs nevertheless they confess is against land doubtless he gained by conquest from the Hebrew expositions) yet David upon culton of enriching themselves by husband-oblations, which defrayed the dayly exdry and cattel the ancient Kingsevery where pences, & maintained the Priefts & Levites) pound: a matter, exceeding all beliefe. For we read of Pharaoh, that he spake to Joseph con ar. that any rights were left him, it doth not to appoint some of his brethren, or of their 16 246. that those captives which were not imploy-1 creiore it were not amis to consider ed in husbandry, were many of them used the Canaanites and Philiftims, befides those this occasion is not unlikely to have put it in fruitiil vallies near Jordan in Irschonith and practife. And by these means might hee be Lafan, and the best of Syria, and other coun-able to leave these huge treasures to Salotries bordering the Ifraelites. These demains mon. Yet it may seem that of this great belike he kept in his own hands, and with mass of gold and filver left by David, the leaft his infinite number of captives, which he part was his own in private; and fo will it took in his wars, which were not able to re- appear the lefs wonderfull that he left fo deem themselves, husbanded those grounds much. Of his own liberality we find, that for his greatest advantage. For it is written hee gave to the building of the Temple 1 Chro. 17. that Jakonathan was over his treat three thouland talents of gold, and seven fures in the field, in the villages, in the cities, thousand talents of filver: a great fum, but in the towns; that Exti was over the labour holding a very small proportion to the other. ers that tilled his ground, Simei over the Wherefore we are to confider, that the vineyards, and Sabdi over the store of the treasures of the Sanctuary it self were exwine; EastHanan over the olive trees, and ecceding great, as needs they must have been Josh over the store of the oyle: also that he having received continual energale, withhad herdf-men that had charge over his cat- out any loss or diminution ever since the time tel, both in the high lands and in the plains, of Muses and Joshuah. The revenues of the over his Sheep, Camels and Affes. And this Sanctuary (betides all manner of tithes and were partly raifed out of the head mony be- obtained in War, to maintain the house of fore mentioned; partly out of the spoils the Lord : the like whereof may be well pre-North at gotten in War. For all the booty was di-fumed of the former Judges and Captains of vided into two parts, whereof the Souldiers other Ages. Certain it is, that the Conquest had one, and the people which remained at of David brought into the Land far greater home, had the other half; whereby all the abundance of riches, than any former Vi-Country received benefit of the Victory, ctories had purchased, those of Joshua pervet fo , that the Souldiers had a far greater haps excepted: but these vast summes of an proportion than the rest, as being fewer, hundred thousand Talents of filver, may and therefore receiving more for every fin- feem rather to have been made up, by the

Lords tribute, which was one in filty, of that than to have been the meer fruits of his own which the people received, and one in five indultry. thousand of them for flaves, and the Con-turns from the East India, which greatly ingregation had other fixteen thouland; but creafed his ftore. For his thips performed out of the fixteen thousand given to the Ar- that Voyage every three years, and he began my, were exempted two and thirty for the that trade in the two and twentieth year of Lords tribute; Out of the peoples number his reign, and ruled forty years. Befides were taken three hundred and twenty. By this, all Judga and Ifrael were now mastered this means, the leffer that the Army was to his hands; all the Arabians his borderers, which had exposed it self to danger, the the sprians of Zobah, of Damascena, of Paling at home were fain to undergo more than Hittites who with the Perizites, Hivites, Jeordinary travel in domestical assairs, did busites, and other races of the Canaanites, receive by fo much the greater portion. Eur were not as yet extinguished though subthe Lordstribute was alwayes certain, yea jected. many times it was increased, either by some and filver, and other mettals found in Jerico, 40. years reign, and 70. years of life, dyed were conferrated unto God; or by thank- in a good age, full of dayes, riches, and hofulnels of the Rulers and people, as when nour, and was buried in the City of David. It after the Victory obtained against the Atidi- is written by Josephus that there was hid in anites without the loss of one man, all Jewels, David's Tomb a marvellous quantity of trea-Bracelets, Earerings, and the like, were of-fures, infomuch as Hyrcanus (who first of the fered up, as voluntary prefents. times oppressed, and tredden down by other dred years after, drew thence three thou-Nations, yet were not the l. treasures robbed fand Talents, to rid himself of Antiochus then or spoiled; for the enemies never gat pof- belieging Jerufalem; and afterward Herod session of the Tabernacle that was in shilo. opening another Cell, had also an exceed-Wherefore it cannot otherwise be, than that ing mals of gold and filver therein. And it the wealth of the Sanctuary must have been was an antient custome to bury treasure exceeding great; as containing above one with the dead. So the Peruvians and other hundredth part of all the mony and other Americans did the like, which being discogoods found by the Inaclites in the whole vered by the Spaniards, they inriched them-Land of Canaan; and of all that was purcha- felves by nothing so much in their first Con-26.78. fed by fo many Victories, as they obtained quest. That Salomon did bury so much treaagainst the berdering Nations. For that this fure in his Fathers grave, it would hardly be Samuel, had used to dedicate of the spoils were it notwithal considered that his want addition of his winnings and liberality, to Out of this purchase was deducted the the treasures laid up in many former Ages, hundred, of that which was given to the Now concerning the riches of Salomon, it ATSe Souldiers; namely, one hundred and one is more manifest how he gathered them; for 772 thousand part of the whole booty. So in the he received of yearly revenues with his trispoil of Midian, thirty two thousand Wo-butes 666. Talents of gold, besides the Cumen being taken, the Army had fixteen fromes of Spices. He had also fix rich Re-14 greater profit had every Souldier but when mirena, of Ituraa; all of Idunaa, Moab, and it consisted of many hands, they who remain- An.mon, paid him tribute; as likewise did the 10.115

Into this flourishing estate was the King - 1 Clinia. special commandement, as when all the gold, dom of Ifrael reduced by David, who after is. Chaimanai, or race of Macchabees, called Jeles Now how foever the Ifractites were many himself King) one thousand and three hun-smiles, treafury was not defrauded of the due por-tion, it is evident; feeing that before the time with which he was fain to burthen the peoof David and his Lieutenant Josh, it is re-corded that Sauland Aincr, and before them got otherwife, or which were left unto him:

David the Scriptures have no mention, but 100, who is faid to have ruled that part of Haonly the Sepulchres of the Kings of Juda, as 'h lifty years. And about his fourteenth year of an honourable place of burial. Yet the Coderns the last King of the Athenians died to FORTIME MONUMENTS of these Kings, as (by relation of whom succeeded the first Prince of those, the Duke of Olica) they remained within who being called after Medon, Medontida, the thirty years, and are like to remain [til], without regal name governed Athens during are able to make report credible of the cost their life. bestowed upon them.

CHAP. XVII.

of the Philistims, whom David absolutely mawith David.

cipalities, namely, Azotus or Afdod, Gaza or was himself forthwith cut in pieces. 154. 6. Aczaph, Afcaion, Geth or Gath, and Accar n. It feemeth that Cassoim was the first founder thers account but the 30, began to rule that of this Nation, because of his kindred on ci Empire, about the 13. year of David, and ther hand, the Canaanites and the Fgyptians. held it 38. years.

The first King of these Philistims , which

lech which loved Sara, Abraham's Wife.

was turned into Ariffocratical. For they are were after called Helots. it is assistant shamed rances of the punjams, in the lost from the scales came the levels howforever Achis be named King of Gath, the World slave. For when that Nation illuing lame to whom Davis in Saul's time.

lars in this place.

of mony grew from such magnificent im-! There lived at once with David, the third ployments. Particularly of the Sepulchre of of the Silvii King of Alba, called Latinus Silvi-

The reasons which moved the Athenians to change their government, were not drawn from any inconvenience found in the rule of foveraingty, but in honour of codrus only. For when the Gracians of Doris, a region flered: and of fundry other contemporaries between Phocis, and the mountain of Octa, fought counfel from the Oracle, for their fuccess in the Wars against the Athenians, it was F the Philistims, whose pride David was the first that absolutely mastered, in prevail and become Lords of that State, when this conclusion of David's time somewhat they could obtain any Victory against the Nation, and yet preferve the Athenian King They descended of Castoim, who, accord- living. Codrus by some intelligence being ining to Isdor and Tolephus, was one of the fons formed of this answer withdrew himself from 48 17 of Milraim, and was furnamed Philiftim, as his own Forces, and putting on the habit of a Flan was furnamed Edom, and Jacob Ifrael, common fouldier, entred the Camp of the There were of them five Cities or petty Prin- Dorians, and killing the first he encountred,

Eupales the 31. King of Affyria, which o-

Near the fame time began Ixion the fethe Scriptures have named, was that Abime- cond King of the Heraclida, the fon of Furiftbenes in Corinib; and Agisthe second of the The second Abimelech lived at once with Heraclida in Lacedamon: in honour of which Isac, to whom Isac repaired in the time of Agis, his successours were called Agida, for Famine, Abimilech then residing at Gerar, in many years after. He restored the Laconithe border of Idumea; which Abimelech ans to their former liberty: he overcame funcied Isace his Wife, as his Father had done the Citizens of Helos in Laconia, who had refused to pay him tribute: he condemned After Abimelech the second, the Philistims them and theirs to perpetual flavery; where-Kings are not remembred in the Scriptures, of it came, that all the Messenians, whom at till David's time: perhaps the government length they brought into the like bondage,

In like fort from the Schwi came the fame to whom David fled, and who again out of Sarmatia, now called Ruffia, had feized upon the Country of Illyria, and made it their After him we read of another Achis vvho own by conquest, their victory pleased them lived with Salomon, to whom Shimei travel- fo highly, that thereupon they called themled to fetch back his fugitive fervant, what felves by a new name, slavos, which is in their time the feeking of his lervant was the lofs language Ghorious. But in after times (that of his life. Jeremy the Prophet speaketh of warmer Climate having thawed their Northe Kings of Palastin or Philistim. Amos thern hardiness, and not ripened their Wits) nameth the King of Ascalon: Zacharias, a when they were trodden down, and made King of Gaza. The reft of the Wars of the lervants with their neighbours, the Italians Thisfirms are remembred in the Catalogue which kept many of them in bondage, began of the Judges, of Saul and David, and there- to call all their bondmen slaves, using the fore I shall not need to collect the particu- word as a name of reproach: in which sence it is now current through many Countries.

CHAP. XVIII.

third bing of sparta, and fomewhat later a- In the 21. of David, was the City of Magnefia bota the 23. year of David, and fay that A- in Afia the lefs founded, the same which is their ans was the fourth King of this race, feated upon the river Maander, where & civio the same whom Figshins calls Labotes, and gave the great overthrow to Antiochus. In icts him in the 13. year of Salomon. In the teath year of Achefiratus, Androclus Afia bred, whereof Lucan: the third ion of Codrus, attitted by the Iones.

ning of the lile of samos to his Territory, was flain by the Carrans, whose Country he About the same time Cama in Campana usurped. He was buried (faith Pansarias) in was built by the Inhabitants of Chahar in one of the gates of Fibelus called Magnetes, Eubaa, according to Servius, with whom noth to Ionia: and that his posterity govern- crates.

habited their places in that Land: though bout 45. years. clide 100, years.

built, which had in length 425, foot, and 220. years. Some writers make it probable, that in breadth, full sined with 127 pillars of mar- the Æolians, led by Graus the grand nephew renowned by being one of the first that re- mon began the work of the Temple. But it ceived the Christian faith, of which Timothy is a familiar errour in Josephus, to misreekon was Bilhop; to whom, and to the Ephelians, times, which in this point he doth to strange-Saint Paul wrote his Epiftle so entituled. The ly, as if he knew not how at all to to cast any other City possest by Androclus in Holis, was accompt. For it is manifest, that Hiram sent also universally spoken of by reason of sy- Messengers, and Cedars unto David, soon afbilla, furnamed Frythrea, who lived 740 years ter his taking of Jerusalem, which was in the before Christ was born. S. Augustine avoweth beginning of David's reign over Ifrael, when whose Epistles to Salomon, and his to Vaphres, Scriptures make it plainly manifest.

Other Chronologers make this Agis, the are remembred by Eufebius out of Polemon. this Territory are the best horses of the leiler built I plagus in Caria, who after the adjoy- Et Magnetis equis, Minya gens cognita remis.

CHAP. XVII.

his armed Statua being let over him. Strabo Strabo joyneth the Cumaans of Acolis, laying reports that after Androclus had subdued that to the one of these people the govern- some the Ionians (the next Province to Ephefus on ment was given, with condition that the othe feacoast of Asia the less he enlarged his ther should give name to the City. Of this Dominions upon the Aoles, which joy- Cuma was Ephores the famous scholar of 16ed the Cities of Libejus and Erythra by the Eulebius and Calfieder find the building of name of Ballirde in Strabo his own time. Of Carthage at this time, to wit, in the 31, year the expedition of the lones how they came of David, but much miltaken. For the father the expedition of the tones now they came of Dido was Metinos the fon of Badezor, See the hither out of Peloponnejus, I have speken of Dido was Metinos the fon of Badezor, in this 17. already upon occasion of the return of the brother to Jezabel, who married Achab King 160 mell Heraclida into Peloponnesus, wherein, with of Israel; and between the death of Lavid, the Dores, they expelled the Achai, and in- and the first of Achab, there were wasted a-

this of the lones succeeded that of the Hera- In this time also Acastus lived, the second of the Athenian Princes after Codrus, of the to The City of Epbelis became exceeding fa-which there were thirteen in descent before minus.

3. 6-12. mous: first, for the Temple of Diana therein the State changed into a Magistracy of ten succession. ble, of 7c foot high: whereof 27, were most of orestes, possess the City and Illand of The curiously graven, and all the rest of choice bes about this time. In the 32, 3ear of David, 463 o marble politht, the work being first set out Hiram began to reign in Tyre, according to on the by Ctefipkon of Gnoffos. Secondly, it became Josephus, who faith in his twelfth year Solo-11 that a Roman Proconful thewed him in an as yet he had reigeed onely feven years in ancient Greek copy certain verses of this Pro- Hebron over the house of Juda. Wherefore phetels, which began (as S. Augustine changed it must neces be that Hiram had reigthem into Latine) in these words: Jesus Chri- ned above 30. years before Salomon; unles 1500,500 flus Dei Filins, Salvator; Jesus Christ son of more credit should be given to those Tyrian records which are cited by Josephus, than to About the time that Joab belieged Rabba the plain words of Scripture contradicting in Atoab, Vaphres began to govern in Agypt, them. For, that it was the same Hiram which the same that was father in law to salomon lived both with David and with Salomon, the

CHAP. XVIII.

Of SALOMON.

of the establishing of Salomon: of birth-right, and the cause of Adonijah's death, and of Salomons wildom.

(ALOMON, who was brought up un-ference to this purpose of Adonijab to marry der the Prophet Nathan, began to with her that was alwaies prefent with Dareign over Juda and Ifrael, in the year vid in his later daies, and who belike kness of the world 2991. He was called all that was past, for the conveying of the Salomon by the appointment of God: Kingdom to Salomon. There may be divers he was also called Jediddia, or Theophilus by further occasions; as either that he would learn fuch things by her as might be for the Nathan, because the Lord loved him. Hiram King of Tyre after Salomons anoin- advantage of his ambition, or that he would ting, dispatched Embassadors towards him, perswade her to forge some strange tale congratulating his establishment: a custom about David's last Testament, or any thing between Princes very ancient. Whence we else that might prejudice the title of saleread that David did in like fort falute Ha. mon. 1510,10, num King of the Ammonites, after his obtaining the Kingdom.

after David's death, he caused his brother of the Jews were so absolute, as they did dom of Salomon, this motion of Adonijahs, ceffary to confirm, or that the refulal of the was a demonstration of a new treason. For people had authority to frustrate the elder they which had been Concubines to a King, brothers right to the Kingdom, it no where might not after be touched but by a King: appears in the stories of the fems. It is said fathers Concubines as a part of the Royaltie. Calgal: that is, they acknowledged and esta-And David after that wrong, determining to blithed him. For that he was King long betouch them no more, did not give them to lore, no man can doubt. In like manner elleany other, but flut them up, and they remaiss where the phrase of choosing or making ned widowed until their death. And this it their King, is to be expounded: as where in feems was the depth of Isbesheths quarrel a- the prohibition, that they should not make bine. And some fignification of this custom bim King whom the Lord shall chuse. may feem too in the words of God by Nathan But to proceed with the acts of Salomon: to David; I have given thee thy Masters house, at the same time that he put Adonijah to and thy Masters wives. And in the words of death, he rid himself allo of Fo.: b, and three

As for the right of an elder brother which 15 Kington Adonijab pretended, though generally it The beginning of Salomon was in blood, agreed both with the law of Nations, and though his reign were peaceable. For foon with the cuftoms of the Jews: yet the Kings Adonijab to be flain by Benaiab the fon of therein, in all else what they pleafed. Some Deat. 2:. Jebojada, taking occasion from Adonijah his examples also they had (though not of Kings) 15, Filian desiring by Bersheba, that the young maid which taught them to use this paternal au-exola ag-Abihag (which lay in Cavid's bosome in his later daies, to keep him warm) might be given to him. Whatfoever he pretended, it was Reuben, and giving the birth-right (which doraum: ven to him. Whatloever ne pretended, it was incremen, and giving the orthogonal which are no orthogonal was his elder brother, was twice as much as any portion of the orthogonal propriets and provided in the control of the orthogonal was twice as much as any portion of the orthogonal was twice as much as a supplier was twice as the orthogonal was and fought the Kingdom contrary to the ther brethren) to Joseph: of whom he made mogeniowill of David, whom God inclined towards two Tribes. And that it was generally ac-10th salomon. And yet it is faid that a word is c- knowledged that this power was in David, @10.39. nough to the wife, and he that fees but the lit appeareth by the words of Berfale and Na-034 claw may know whether it be a Lion or no: than to David, and of Jonathan to Aslonijah. 1 figer, leave may know whether it be a Lion or no: than to David, and of Jonathan to Aslonijah. fo it may feem that to the quick-fighted wif- For, as for popular election, that it was ne- 27:

15 m 14. Whence Achitophel wished Absolom to take his indeed that the people made Saul King at 1.4. gainst Abner, for having his fathers Concu-themselves a King, it is said, Thou shalt make new, 17.

Saul upbraiding Jonathan, that he had cho-years after of Shimer, as David had advised fen David to the shame of the makedness of him: he displaced also the Priest Abiathar, Samao. his Mother. Hereupon perhaps was fome re- who took part with Adenijah against him :

ther he spared his life. And thus being esta- thall build an house for my Name. of Laphres King of Egypt to Wife: for fo En- beginning of the fourth year of his reign, at Gebius out of Eupolemus calls him. He offer which time also he prepared his fiect at Flionred a thousand sacrifices at Gibeon, where gabar to trade for gold in the East Indice God appearing unto him in a dream bad him, that nothing might be wanting to supply ask what he would at his hands: Salomon the charge of so great a work. For, that the choofeth Wildom, which pleased God. And God Temple was in building, while his fleets faid unto him, Because thou hast asked this were passing to and fro, it is manifest. For thing, and haft not asked for thy felf long life, the pillars of the Temple were made of the neither halt thou asked riches for thy felf, nor Almaggim trees brought from ophir. Of this halt asked the life of thine enemies, bihold, I most glorious building, of all the particulars have done according to thy mords: by which (whereof the form and example was given the coveting after long life in respect of our radas, Azorius, Villalpandus, Pineda, & others, felves, cannot but proceed of felf-love, which to whom I refer the Reader. is the root of all impiety: the defire of pri- For the cutting and iquaring of the Cevate riches is an affection of covetoufness, dars which ferved that building, Salomon which God abhorreth; to affect revenge, is employed 30 thousand Carpenters, to thouas much as to take the fivord out of Gods fand every month by course: he also used 8c. hand, and to diffrust his justice. And in that thousand Masons in the Mountain, and 70. it pleafed God to make salomon know that thousand labourers that bare burdens, which his enemies, it could not but put him in mind lites, befides three thousand three hundred of his brothers flaughter, for which he had mafters of his work; fo as he paid and emnot any warrant either from David, or from ployed in all, one hundred eighty three thouthe Law of God; but because Salomon defired fand and three hundred men; in which num-Wisdom onely, which taught him both to ber the sidonians, which were far more skilobey God, and to rule men, it pleased God ful in howing timber than the Ifraelites, may to give him vvithall that vvhich he defired (as I think) be included. For Hiram caused not. And I have also given thee (faith God) his servants to bring down the Cedars and that which thou hast not asked both riches and Firres from Libanon to the sea, and thence Lonour. This gift of Wildom our Commen- fent them in raffs to Joppe, or the next port tators firetch to almost all kinds of learning: to Jerusalem. For in the second of Chronicles but that it comprehended the knowledge the fecond Chapter, it is plain, that all but of the nature of plants and living creatures, the thirty thousand Carpenters, and the othe Scripture teltifieth; though no doubt ver-feers, were strangers, and as it seemeth , Kinge 4, the chief excellency of Salomons wildom, the valials of Hiram, and of Vaphres King of yvas in the knowledge of governing his Egypt. In recompence of this Timber and Kingdom: whence as it were for an exam- Stone, Salomon gave Hiram twenty thou- 1 First 5. 1 King 3.9 ple of his visidom, the Scripture telleth how fand measures of Wheat, & twenty measures the foon he judged the controversie between the of pure Oyl yearly. Enfebius out of Enpale-

of Salomons building and glory.

of his materials for the Kings Palace and the Scias me & Deo magno David patris mei reg-Temple of God: for the building whereof num accepiffe, cumque mihi pater pracepit temhe had received a double charge, one from plum Dev, qui tertam creavit, condere, ut etiam his father David, and another from God. For ad te feriberem pracepit : Scribo igiter, peto like as it is written of David, that He called a te ut artifices atque fabros ad adificandum Salomon kis fen, and charged him to build a Templum Dei mittere velis.

1 Kengers, but in respect of his office, and that he fol- house for the Lord of Ifrael: fo doth Toftatus Telles lowed David in all his afhictions and because give the force of a divine precept to these in 1 Grand he had born the Ark of God before his Fa- words, Behold, a fon is born unto thee. O.c. He bliffied in his Kingdom, he took the daughter. He began the work of the Temple in the 18-16 we may inform our felves, what delires are by God himfelf) many learned men have most pleasing to God, and what not. For written; as Salmeron, Montanus, Ribera, Bar- : o

it liked him, that he had not asked the life of it is conceived, he selected out of the Profe-18/18/56

Extrem entred into league with Hiram REx Salomon Suroni, Tyri, Sydonis, atque King of Tyre, from whom he had much Rehamicia regi, Amico paterno faluem. King mus in the ninth book of his preparation, the last Chapter, hath left us a Copy of 8alomons Letter to Suron ( which was the same as Haram and Hiram ) King of Tyre, in these

In Salomon to King Surou, of Tyre, Ay-minth books, neither is it is a den, and Phanitta King, and my fathers, eighth book and feech street man fondeth greeting. Jou may understand Antiquities: it before a vice to be that I have received of the great God of my wome of the Myrham. It is a large my factor of the Myrham of the Myrha per commanded me to build a Temple to Gud other after them, income that recovering gink created beaven and earth, be command- it grew common, and was more to mend I also that I should write to jour I write there- perfens in respect of the great a more tak the to you, and beforeb you, that you would be to to which was honoured by the money ple ved to fend me Artificers and Corporter via the lib noble qualities, a machine via column Lend the Temple of God.

CHAY. XVIII.

al nos redeant.

To King Salomon greeting: When I read ings, and could not attend the war, the neur Letters , I gave God thanks who hath m- entreated his father in law to rid live der a Tyrian, born of a Jewish woman, aman mans fuccessor did tack Jerusalem it ich. Men. admirable in building. You will be careful that | Salomon also built Megiddo in Munic, on between the one and the other.

and was answered as from Hiram.

ous in Enfebius, in the last chapter of that called Chabul.

The life mis lating for Africales finithing and de lieution of the To which the King suron made this anjuer. Temple and house of the Lord tale ... The differmalem with a trobbe w Stron, Tyri, Sydonis, & Fleniciae Rex, Salopained Holor which had been a monitoring function. Lealis Interis, gratuo has tropolis of the Camamates, because it is 13 Deo, qui tibi regnum patris tradidit : 65 time : to did he Gaza of the 1/109 alles in guman feribis fabros, ministrofq; ad conden- built berethon, Gerar, and the Man or much dum Templam effe tibi mittendos, mili ad to tion of Jerufalem. For Pharacles and millio leminum od aginta, & Architectum 13- ber eventrof Salaman) came tweet a constant sum Leminem ex matre Judau, virum in re- of I phraim, and took Germ All the lase the in architecture mirabilem. Curabis igitur ut Constantes yet held, and par the same the necessiris non geant, & Templo Der condito, tword, and barm their Civ. Plan Territory he gave salomons Vent. for a donry. And it is probable that been the Sulfation Cliron of Tyre, Sydon and Phanicia King, was then buffed in his magnificent buildfidled you in your fathers kingdom. And be- these neighbours, which the ack accounted. cante you write that Carpenters and Workmon But he thereby taught the in the verto ver maybe fent to build Gods Temple , I have jent those parts again before they will be they you fourfrore thousand men, and a Master-buil- and in his fon Rehoboams time Siethele this all necessaries be provided for them; and when this fide forden, and Balah in Dan : also the Temple of God is built, that they come home Thadmor, which may be either Prolomes Thamoren in the defart of Juda, or (as Jay thus on L. thinks palmira in the detail of Syria, which is the The Copies of these Letters were extant Palmyra, because it stood on the stanost borin Josephus time, as himself affirmeth, and to der of Salomons dominion to the Northeast befeen (faith he) Tam in noftris quamin 19 of Libonis, and was of David, conquest viorum annalibus, as well in our own, as in the when he wan Damafeus it may is can that Sa-Tyrian annals. But he delivereth them tome- lomon therefore befrowed thereen the most what in different terms, as the Reader may coft, and fortified it with the best Art that find in his Antiquities. But were this inter- that age had. Josephus calls this place The 191 ac. course between Salomon and Hiram either damora, by which name (laith he given by by meflage or by writing, it is fomewhat o- s.domon, the Sprians as yet call it. Therein therwife delivered in the Scriptures, than ci- in his book of Hebrew places, calls it Therwhite, ther Eupolemus or Josephus fet it down, but meth. In after-times, when it was rebuilt by fo, that in fubstance there is little difference Adrian the Emperour, it was honoured with his name and called Adrianopolis. In respect The like Letter in effect Salomon is faid of this great charge of building, Salomon to have written to Laphres King of Feppt, raised tribute through all his Dominions, besides an hundred and twenty talents of But whereas some Commenters upon Sa- gold received from Hirams servants; Salalomon, find that Hiram King of Tire, and Va- mon offered Hiram twenty towns in or near phres King of Egypt, gave Salomon the title the upper Galilee, but because they froed in of Rex magnus, and cite Enpolemon in Enje- an untruitful and mariff ground, timam reline, I do not find any fuch addition of mag- fused them, and therefore was the territory two harlots.

Ddd

Further, he made a journey into spria Zobah, clared in the first book.

394

palages about Affrick.

ners and Pilots, the Tyrians being of all o- Africk, that so they might be long a coming ther the most expert seamen. From this part home. et Arabia which at this time belonged to. For the direct way to Gades (which if Sa-Felom, and was conquered by David, did the lomon and the Ifraelites knew not, the Tri-

The return which was made by these and unladen their ships. Ships amounted to four hundred and twen- Eut this direct course they could not hold ty talents, but in the second of Chronicles the (faith Pineda) because the huge Island of At-30. talents went in expence for the charge and affa, being swallowed up in the Atlan-

These towns as it is supposed, lay in Gali-! My opinion of the land of Ophir, that it is lee of the Gentiles. Non quod Gentes ibi habi- not Peru in America (as divers have thought) c & 6.2. tarent: jed quia jub ditione regis Gentilis but a Countrey in the Enft-Indies; withing erat. Not that it mus people by the Gentiles (faith teme reason why at those times they could be a a Nancherus) but beeaufe it was under the rule not make more speedy return to Jerufalen manie. of a King that was a Gentile. How foever it from the Enfi-Indies, than in three years 3011. were, it is true that & alemen in the 21 year and that Tharfis in Scripture is divers times fortified those places which Hiram retused, taken for the Ocean, hath been already de-

and eftablished his tributes; the infrand last Only it remaineth that I should speak war(if in that expedition he were driven to formewhat of Fineda his strange conceits, fight) that he made in person in all his life, who being a Spaniard of Ectica, would fain He then visited the border of all his Domi- have Gades er Calis-malis, in old times calnions, passing from Thadmor to the North led Tartepn:, which is the Southwest corner of Palmyrena, and so to the Defarts of Idu- of that Province, to be the Tharsis from man, from whence he visited Fziongaber and whence Salemon fetcht his gold; for no o-Floth the uttermost place of the South of all ther reason, as it seems, but for love of his his Territories, bordering to the Red ica: own Countrey, and because of some affinity which Cities I have described in the Story of of sound between Tharsis and Tartesius. For whereas ir may feem ftrange that it thould be three years ere they that took ship in the Red fea, should return from the East-Indies to Terujalem, this hath been in part answered of Salemons fending to ophir, and of some already. And further the intelligent may feeming contradictions about Salemons ri- conceive of fundry lets, in the digging and ches, and of Pineda's conceit of two firance refining of the metal, and in their other traffick, and in their land-carriages between Terutalem and the Red sea, and perhaps also Fre Salomon prepared his Fleet of flips elfewhere: fo that we have no need to make for India, with whem Hiram joyned in Salomons men to go many thousand miles that voyage, and furnified him with Mari- out of their way to Gades, round about all

Fleet pals to the I off-India, which was not ans which went with them could not have far eli, namely, to ophir, one of the Itlands been ignorant of) was along the Mediterof the Molneca's, a place exceeding rich, ran fea, and fo (befides many wonderful inin gold: witness the Spaniards, who not-conveniences, and terrible navigation in withfunding all the abundance which they rounding Africa) they should have escaped gather in Pern, do yet plant in those Illands the troubleseme land-carriage between Jeof the East at Manilia, and recover a great rufalem and the Red sea, through dry, defart, quantity from thence, and with less labour and the thievish Countreys: and within 30. than they do in any one part of Feru, or new miles of Jerufalem at Joppe, or some other haven in Salomons own Country, have laden eighth, it is written 450, talents: whereof lantis, in largeness greater than all Africk of the Fleet and wages of men; and 42c, ta tick Ocean, hindred Salomons thips from lents, which makes five and twenty hundred paffing through the straits of Gibralian: for and twenty thousand Crowns, came clear, this he alledgeth Plato in Timeo. But that And thus must those two places be reconcithis calamity happened about Salomons led. As for the place 1 Reg. 10. 14. which time, or that thereby the straits of Gades speaketh of fix hundred fixty and fix talents were filled with mud, and made unpassable, of gold; that fum, as I take it, is of other that there could be no coming to Gades by r. ccipts of Salomons which were yearly, and the Mediterran fea; or that this indraught which came to him belides those profits from where the sea runneth most violently, and most easily scoureth his channel, should be CHAP. XVIII. hip-being in the Red fea, should neglect the of those thirty and eight Fgyptian Kings golden Mines in the East Indies (which were which succeeded Meneus the Founder of thele parts no less quantity of gold (the after Salomon, Pharaoh Necho flew Jofies King fmall territory which he there possesieth of "uda.

The same Fineda hath another strange in garrisons sourteen thousand Chariots, and confidered) than in Peru. paliage round about all Africa, which elletwelve thouland horfemen; that he spent where he dreams of: supposing whereas Jo- in Court every day thirty measures of fine thower, threelcore measures of the city of Cilicia, was flower, threelcore measures of wheat, one hundred sheep, besides stags and fallow Deer, bugles and fowl; sour thousand stalls dayes fwimming above twelve thousand of horses he had for his Chariots and other English niles along the Mediterran seas, and uses, and for the twelve thousand horsemen forthrough the straights of Gader, and along of his guard. For, the ten thousand stalls in therer (though much the worfe) way to thousand stalls or teems, and in every teem Naire. This conceit he grounds onely upten horses, as Junius and the Geneva underon the ambiguity of the word suph, which stand it. He was faid to be wifer than any oftentimes is an Epitheton of the Red fea (as man, yea than were Ethan the Ezrabite, if we should call it mare algojum, the sea full than Heman, Chalcal, or than Darda; to of weeds) for the Red sca. But in Jonas which Junius addeth a fift, to wit, Exrack. 6.2.5. it is generally taken in the proper For the General maketh Ethan an Exabite by fignification for weeds, and not as Fineda Nation. Josephu, writes them, Athan, Ain this place he forgets; Miracula non funt Book. multiplicanda. And again, Non funt miracula gratis danda, nec pro arbitrio nova fingenda. Miracles are not to be multiplied without neeglity, nor delivered without cause, nor feigned of the fall of Salomon, and how long he lived.

proceed with our story of Salomon. questions; those are set down at large in ed his heart after other gods, as Asteroth filled with mud, and not also the great Ocean | the Text. But herein Josephus is greatly main like manner, where this huge fland is fup-flaken, who calls this Queen of saha Nicau-766. eas. 2. poicd to have frood; or that salomons les, the fueceflor (faith he out of Herodolm) 1, 1. infinitely better and nearer to the Red fea, Memphis; adding, that after this Egyptian, than any in Spain) to feek gold at Cadyz by and the father in law of Salomon, the name the way of compassing Africa; it is most ri- of Pharaeh was left off in Egypt. For as it is diculous to imagine. For the Spaniard him-elfewhere proved that the Queen was of A-1 Keg. dictions to magnie. cor the spaniaro mine left, rabia, not of Festi and Ethiopia; fowere color fell that hath also the rich Feru in the West, rabia, not of Festi and Ethiopia; fowere colors. fortilieth in the Faft-Indies, and inhabites there other Pharaobs after the father in law se. fome part thereof, as in Manilia, finding in of Salomon. Yea, above three hundred years for east It is also written of Salomon, that he kept all the huge feas round about Africa, caft up, the first of Kings the fourth, are to be taken Jones upon the shore of the Red sea, that to but for so many horses, whence in the second 1 King. 47 he might have perhaps some fix miles the of Chronicles the ninth, it is written but four 3h. would have it , who in this place against his man, Chalceus and Donan the fous of Hemon. own rule (which elfewhere he giveth us) He spake three thousand Proverbs, and his supposeth strange miracles without any Songs were one thousand and five, whereof need. For this long voyage of the Whale, ti-cither the most part perished in the Captinithed in three dayes, is a greater miracle, vity of Babylon, or elfe because many acts of than the very prefervation of Jones in the Salomons were written and kept among the belly of the Whale: and therefore feeing publick Records of Civil causes, and not there is no necessity of this miracle, we fend Ecclesiastical, therefore they were not it back unto him, keeping his own rule, which thought necessary to be inserted into Gods his dreams, which (were he not otherwife very learned and judicious) might be to had he no fearcity of women. For thought unworthy the mentioning. But to belides his leven hundred Wives, he kept three hundred Concubines, and (forgetting The Queen of saba's coming from far to that God had commanded that none of Salomon (as feems, from Arabia Falix, and his people should accompany the daughnot, as some think, from Ethiopia) and her ters of Idolaters) he took Wives out of tich presents, and Salomons reciprocal mag. Egypt, Edom, Moab, Ammon, Zidon and Heth: niscence, and his resolving of her disficult and when he fell a doting, his Wivesturn276 of the Zidonians , Milrom or Molech of the gainst the Aramtes, whereinhe brought all Arimonites and Chemoft of Moab.

11 1 tare

Idumes. Rezin of Damafeus, and by Jerobe- the next years work, wherein he did cut off m his own fervant, and one of the mafters all means of fuccour from the Ammonites; of his works, who by the ordinance of God all spria. Moab, and Idumea being now at his tare from his fon Roboum, ten of the twelve, own devotion. By this reckoning it must parts of all the territory he had. Deus dum have been the 20, year of Davids reign, and in secretores animadvertit, aliorum peccatis about the tiftieth of his lite, in which he utitur.qu.e iple non fecit: God punishing fin- tent forth Joab to befrege Rabba, and finishners, which the fins of others, which he himfelf ed the war of Ammon: wherein also fell long peace) were few memorable actions by other half he felt great forrow, by the expehim performed, excepting his buildings with Ctation, execution, and fad remembrance of other works of magnificence, and that great that heavy judgment laid upon him by God Indian voyage already mentioned. Forty for his foul and bloody offence. years he reigned; how many he lived, it is Now very manifest it is, that in the year not written, and must therefore be found after the death of that child which was beonly by conjecture. The most likely way to gotten in adultery, Salomon was born, who gheis at the truth in this case is, by consider- must needs therefore have been nineteen ing the actions of David before and after years old or thereabout when he began to Salomons birth, whereby we may best make reign at the deccase of his father, as being cftimation of the years which they confu- begotten in the 21, year of his fathers reign, med, and consequently learn the true, or who reigned in all forty. most likely year of his nativity. Seven years This account hath also good coherence David reigned in Hebron: in his eighth year with the following times of David, as may he took Jerusalem, and warred with the Phi- be collected out of ensuing Actions: for listims, who also troubled him in the year fol-\* 1. lowing. The bringing home of the Ark Ammon; three years ere his father pardonfeems to have been in the tenth year of ed him, and two years more ere he came into David, and his intention to build the Tem- the Kings presence. After this he prepared ple in the year enfuing, at which time he had horses and men, and laid the foundation of fufficient leisure, living in rest. After this he his rebellion, which seems to have been one had wars with the Philistims, Moabites, A- years work. So the rebellion it felf, with all ramites, and Edomites, which must needs that happened thereupon, as the Commotion have held him five years, confidering the made by sheba, the death of Amafa, and the Aramites of Damasco raised war against him, rest, may well seem to have been in the 30. after such time as he had beaten Hadadezer; year of Davids reign. and that in every of these wars, he had the Whether the three years of famine should entire victory. Neither is it likely, that be reckoned apart from the last years of these services occupied any longer time, be- war with the Philistims, or consounded with cause in those dayes and places there were them, it were more hard than needful to no wintering camps in use, but at convenient conjecture. Plain enough it is, that in the ten featens of the year Kings went forth to war, remaining years of David there was time dispatching all with violence, rather than sufficient, and to spare, both for the three with temporizing; as maintaining their years of famine, for four years of war, and Armies, partly upon the spoil of the enemies, for numbring the people, with the pestilence country, partly upon the private provision ensuing; as also for his own last infirmity, which every fouldier made for himself. The and disposing of the Kingdom. Yet indeed 17. year of David, in which he took Mephi- it feems that the war with the Philiftims was befreth the fon of Jonathan into his Court, but one years work, and ended in three or appeareth to have passed away in quiet; four fights, of which the two or three former and the year following to have begun the were at Gob or Nob near unto Gezer, and the war with Ammen ; but somewhat late in the last at Gath. This war the Philistims underend of Summer perhaps, it came to tryal of took, as it feemeth, upon confidence gathera battel (for Joah after the victory, return- ed out of the tumults in Ifrael, and perhaps the tributaries of Hadadezer under his own These things God punished by Adad of allegeance, appears manifestly to have been out the matter of Vriahs wife. So one half In the reign of Salomon (as in times of of Davids reign was very prosperous : in the ed immediately to gerusalem) the causes and emboldened by Davids old age: for he preparations for that war, taking up all the fainted now in the battel, and was after-Summer. Davids personal expedition a- wards hindered by his men from expeling himfelf unto danger any more. So  $\mathit{David}$  had  $_{1}$  vanity of humane nature  $\circ$  in the third  $\circ$  he fix or fever years of reft, in which time it is fingeth as it were the Epithalamion of likely that many of his great men of War Christ and his Church. For the Book inti-Zervia.

for nineteen years of age might well agree quentiam: The Stile of the Fook of widom. with either of these two speeches.

that he was but eleven years old when he nineteenth Book, and twentieth Chapter of hegan to reign. Of thele Rabbi Salomon the City of God, that the Author of that erms the first Author, whom other of great Book hath a direct foretelling of the passion learning and judgment have herein follow- of Christ in these words: Circumveniamus that which is faid of Absaloms rebellion, that circumvent the rightcous, for he is unpleasing it was after forty years, which they under- to us he is contrary to our doings, be checketh frood as years of Davids reign. But whereas us for offending against the Law, he makes his tion. Some indeed have in favour of this lecting help from God by prayer, repaired opinion, construed the words of Josephus, as thither for their recoveries. if they included all the years of Salomon's Of Salomons Books of Invocations, and life. But by fuch reckoning he should have Inchantments to cure diseases, and expel ebeen 40, years old at his Fathers death; and vil spirits, Josephus hath written at large, confequently should have been born long though (as I conceive) rather out of his before his Father had won Jerusalem; which own invention, or from some uncertain reis a manifest untruth. Wherefore the 40 years port, than truly. remembred in Abfaloms rebellion, may either Davids first anointment, and the trouble which God brought upon him for his wick- Vefpafian, and many others, which I will not edness, or perhaps be read (according to stand to examine. Josephus, Theodoret, and the Latine translation ) four years; which passed between the return of Absalom to Ferusalem, and his breaking out.

ş. V.

of Salomons livitings.

and correcteth manners; in the second, the which he was more liberal to this king, than

dyel (being of his own age) whereby the tuled, The Wildom of Salemon ( which forting spirit of Adonijah found little suc- some give unto Salomon, and some make the cour in the broken party of Joab the fon of elder Philo the Author thereof) Hierome and many others of the best learned make At this time it might both truly be faid by us think it was not salomon that wrote it. Devid to Salomon, Then art a mije man; and stylus libri fapientia (faith thereme) qui Grantian by Salomon to God. I am but a joung child; Salomonis inferibitur, Gracian redelet elawhich is aferihed to Salomon, favoureth of the Nevertheless there are some that gather Gracian eloquence; and of the same opinion out of Salomons profeshing himfelf a child, was S. Angulline, and yet he confesion in the ed : grounding themselves perhaps upon justum, quoniam instravis est nobis, Oc. Let se se : Rehoboam the fon of Salomon was 41. years boult to have the knowledge of God, and he old when he began to reign, it would follow calleth himself the son of the Lord, Oc. and hereby that his father had begotten him, fo doth the course of all the following words being himfelf but a child of nine or ten point directly at Christ. The Books of Feyears old; the difference between their elefaftes, Proverbs and Cantica Conficerum, years one, the universet section ( who Rabbi Moses kimeli ascribeth to My the grafter reigned 40. years) were but eleven years Prophet. Suidas and Cedrenus report, that e. old when hisreign began. To avoid this in- Salomon wrote of the remedies of all difeaconvenience, Josephus allows &c. years of fes, and graved the same on the fides of the Relater in reign to Salomon; a report fo difagreeing Porch of the Temple, which (they fay) Eze-Julius. with the Scriptures, that it needs no confuta- chias pulled down, because the people, neg-

He also speaketh of one Fliazarus, who feem to have reference to the space between by the root in Salomon's ring dispossest divers persons of evil spirits in the pictence of

Certainly, fo strange an example of humane frailty hath never been read of as this King: who having received Wildom frem God himfelf, in honour of whom, and for his onely fervice, he built the first and most glorious Temple of the world: he that was made King of Ifrael and Judea, not by the law of Nature, but by the love of God, and became the wifest, richest, and happiest of all Kings, did in the end, by the periwasion Here remain of Salemons Works, the of a few weak and wretched Idolatrous Here remain of Salemons Works, the of a few weath and Proverby the Preacher, and the Song of Women, forget and forfake the Lord of all products, of salomon. In the first he teacheth good life, the world, and the giver of all goodness, of

396 of the Zidonians, Mileom or Molech of the gainft the Aramites, wherein he brought all

Ammonites and Chemoft of Moab. Idumes. Rezin of Damafeus, and by Jerobo- the next years work, wherein he did cut off on his own fervant, and one of the mafters all means of fuccour from the Ammonites; of his works, who by the ordinance of God all Syria, Moab, and Idumea being now at his tare from his fon Roboam, ten of the twelve own devotion. By this reckoning it must parts of all the territory he had. Deus dum have been the 20, year of Davids reign, and in receasores animadvertit, alionum peccatin about the fiftieth of his life, in which he nitur que ipse non fecit: God punishing fin- sent forth Joab to besiege Rabba, and finishners, which the fins of others, which he himself ed the war of Anmon: wherein also fell

Indian voyage already mentioned. Forty for his foul and bloody offence. years he reigned; how many he lived, it is Now very manifest it is, that in the year oftimation of the years which they confu- begotten in the 21. year of his fathers reign, med, and consequently learn the true, or who reigned in all forty. most likely year of his nativity. Seven years This account hath also good coherence * King 1. lowing. The bringing home of the Ark Ammon; three years ere his father pardon-

Aramites of Damasco raised war against him, rest, may well seem to have been in the 30. 2 Sum, 11, after such time as he had beaten Hadadezer; year of Davids reign. and that in every of these wars, he had the Whether the three years of famine should not written, and must therefore be found after the death of that child which was beonly by conjecture. The most likely way to gotten in adultery, Salomon was born, who ghes at the truth in this case is, by consider must needs therefore have been nineteen ing the actions of David before and after years old or thereabout when he began to Salomons birth, whereby we may best make reign at the decease of his father, as being

the tributaries of Hadadezer under his own These things God punished by Adad of allegeance, appears manifestly to have been out the matter of Vriahs wife. So one half In the reign of Salomon (as in times of of Davids reign was very prosperous : in the long peace) were few memorable actions by other half he felt great forrow, by the expehim performed, excepting his buildings with station, execution, and sad remembrance of other works of magnificence, and that great that heavy judgment laid upon him by God

David reigned in Hebron: in his eighth year with the following times of David, as may he took Jerusalem, and warred with the Phi- be collected out of ensuing Actions: for listims, who also troubled him in the year fol- two years passed erc Absalom ilew his brother feems to have been in the tenth year of ed him, and two years more ere he came into David, and his intention to build the Temple in the year enfuing, at which time he had horses and men, and laid the foundation of fufficient leisure, living in rest. After this he his rebellion, which seems to have been one had wars with the Philistims, Moabites, A- years work. So the rebellion it self, with all ramites, and Edomites, which must needs that happened thereupon, as the Commotion have held him five years, confidering the made by Sheba, the death of Amafa, and the entire victory. Neither is it likely, that be reckoned apart from the last years of these services occupied any longer time, be- war with the Philistims, or consounded with cause in those dayes and places there were them, it were more hard than needful to no wintering camps in use, but at convenient conjecture. Plain enough it is, that in the ten featons of the year Kings went forth to war, remaining years of David there was time dispatching all with violence, rather than sufficient, and to spare, both for the three with temporizing; as maintaining their years of samine, for four years of war, and Armics, partly upon the spoil of the enemies for numbring the people, with the peltilence country, partly upon the private provision ensuing; as also for his own last infirmity, which every fouldier made for himfelf. The and difpofing of the Kingdom. Yet indeed 17. year of David, in which he took Methi- it feems that the war with the Philistims was befieth the fon of Jonathan into his Court, but one years work, and ended in three or appeareth to have passed away in quiet; four fights, of which the two or three former and the year following to have begun the were at Gob or Nob near unto Gezer, and the war with Ammen ; but somewhat late in the last at Gath. This war the Philistims underend of Summer perhaps, it came to tryal of took, as it feemeth, upon confidence gathera battel (for Joab after the victory, return- ed out of the tumults in Ifrael, and perhaps ed immediately to jerusalem) the causes and emboldened by Davids old age: for he preparations for that war, taking up all the fainted now in the battel, and was after-Summer. Davids personal expedition a- wards hindered by his men from expeding fix or feven years of reft, in which time it is likely that many of his great men of War Chrift and his Church. For the Book intidved (being of his own age) whereby the tuled, The Wisdom of Salemon ( which foring spirit of Adonijah found little suc- some give unto Salomon, and some make the cour in the broken party of Joab the fon of elder Philo the Author thereof) Hierome

by Salomon to God, I am but a young child; Salomonis inferibitur, Gracam redulet elowith either of these two speeches.

out of Salomons profeshing himself a child, was S. Angulline, and yet he consesseth in the that he was but eleven years old when he nineteenth Book, and twentieth Chapter of began to reign. Of thele Rabbi Salomon the City of God, that the Author of that seems the first Author, whom other of great Book hath a direct foretelling of the passion learning and judgment have herein follow- of Christ in these words: Circumvenianus it was after forty years, which they under- to us be is contrary to our doings, he checketh frood as years of Davids reign. But whereas us for offending against the Law, he makes his tion. Some indeed have in favour of this lecting help from God by prayer, repaired opinion, construed the words of Josephus, as thither for their recoveries. if they included all the years of Salomon's Of Salomons Books of Invocations, and life. But by such reckoning he should have Inchantments to cure diseases, and expel ebeen 40. years old at his Fathers death; and vil spirits, Josephus hath written at large, consequently should have been born long though (as I conceive) rather out of his before his Father had won Jerusalem; which own invention, or from some uncertain reis a manifest untruth. Wherefore the 40. years port, than truly. remembred in Absaloms rebellion, may either edness, or perhaps be read (according to stand to examine. Josephus, Theodoret, and the Latine translatibreaking out.

of Salomons Writings.

salomon. In the first he teacheth good life, the world, and the giver of all goodness, of and correcteth manners; in the second, the which he was more liberal to this King, than himself unto danger any more. So David had I vanity of humane nature; in the third, he and many others of the best learned make At this time it might both truly be faid by us think it was not salomon that wrote it. At this time it might both truly be failed by its till a fe was not succeed the Wer. et . Devidto Salomon, Thou art a wife man; and Stylus libri sapientiae (faith Hierome) and Complement for nineteen years of age might well agree quentiam; The Stile of the Book of wildom. which is afcribed to Salomon, favoureth of the Nevertheless there are some that gather Gracian eloquence; and of the same opinion ed: grounding themselves perhaps upon justim, quoniam insuavis est nobis, &c. Let us sq. i that which is faid of Abfaloms rebellion, that circumvent the right cous, for be is unplealing Rekoloam the fon of Salomon was 41. years bouft to have the knowledge of God, and he eld when he began to reign, it would follow calleth himself the son of the Lord, Sec. and hereby that his father had begotten him, fo doth the course of all the following words being himself but a child of nine or ten point directly at Christ. The Books of Ecyears old; the difference between their clesiastes, Proverbs and Cantica Canticerum, ages being no greater, if Salomen ( who Rabbi Moses Kimchi ascribeth to Thy the s. see fel. reigned 40. years) were but eleven years Prophet. Suidas and Cedrenus report, that 6: old when his reign began. To avoid this in- Salomon wrote of the remedies of all diseaconvenience, Tolephus allows 8c. years of fes, and graved the same on the sides of the Reinett. in reign to Salomon; a report so disagreeing Porch of the Temple, which (they say) Eze- Jule Hift. with the Scriptures, that it needs no confuta- chias pulled down, because the people, neg-

He also speaketh of one Fliazarus, who feem to have reference to the space between by the root in Salomon's ring dispossest di-Davids first anointment, and the trouble vers persons of evil spirits in the presence of which God brought upon him for his wick- Vefpafian, and many others, which I will not

Certainly, fo ftrange an example of huon) four years; which passed between the mane frailty hath never been read of as this return of Absalom to Fernsalem, and his King: who having received Wildom from God himself, in honour of whom, and for his onely service, he built the first and most glorious Temple of the world: he that was made King of Ifrael and Judea, not by the law of Nature, but by the love of God, and became the wifest, richest, and happiest of all Kings, did in the end, by the periwasion Here remain of Salomons Works, the of a few weak and wretched Idolatrous Proverby, the Preacher, and the Song of Women, forget and forfake the Lord of all to any that ever the world had. Of whom of Hiram and the reign of Bozorius. filed thy posterity, and hast brought wrath upon he did. thy children, and felt forrow for thy folly, cap. 27.

6. VI. of the Contemporaries of Salomon.

PEar the beginning of Salomons reign, time as Selostris was carried out to take the Agesslans the third of the Heraclide in air, cast his head continually back upon the Corinth; Labotes in Lacedamon; and foon two foremost wheels next him; which seafter Silvius Alba, the fourth of the Silvii, lostris perceiving, asked him what he found fwaved those Kingdoms: Laosthenes then worthy the admiration in that motion: to governing Assyria, Agastus and Archippus the whom the captive King answered, That in fecond and third Princes after Codrus, ruling those he beheld the instability of all worldthe Athenians.

fome Kings omitted between the death part of the Egyptian Kings preceding.

Syratides writeth in this manner: Salomon | Taphres being dead, about the twentieth reigned in a peaceable time, and was glorious, of Salomon, Sefac or Shiftak (as our English for God made all quiet round about, that he Geneva terms him began to govern in Egypt, wright build a house to his Name, and prepare being the same with him whom Diodorus the Sandhary for ever; How wife wast thou calleth Sosachis; Josephus, Susac; Cedrenus, in thy youth, and was filled with understand-Sussignms; Eustins in the colume of the whole earth, and hath filled it with grave and Hebrems, Susac. Josephus in the eighth of his dark sentences. Thy name went abroad in the Antiquities, reproveth it as an errour in He-lles, and for thy peace thou mast beloved, Sec. rodotus, that he ascribeth the Acts of susac net, and for the peace from majo veneral, or treatment, that he alterior the rets of shife but thus he concludeth: Thou didft bow they to Sefoftris, which perchance Herodotti logus to Women, and maft overcome by the bomight have done by comparison, accounting dy; thou didft stain thine honour, and hast described in Sefac another Sefoftris, for the great things

CHAP. XIX.

Of the great acts and vertues of King Sefostris. I have spoken already in the story of the Egyptian Princes: onely in this he was reproved, that he caused four of his captive Kings to draw his Caroch, when he was difposed to be seen, and to ride in triumph: one of which four, faith Futropius, at such ly things; for that both the lowest part of In the fix and twentieth of Salomons the wheel was suddenly carried about, and reign, Hiram of Tyre dyed, to whom Balia- became the highest, and the upmost part was firms fucceeded, and reigned seventeen years, as suddenly turned downward, and under after Mercators account; who reckons the all: which when Sefoftris had judicioully milky in time of his rule by the age of his fons. Jose-weighed, he difmissed those Princes, and all 19. phus gives him fewer years. Theophilus other from the like servitude in the suture. Antiochenus against Antolicus finds Bozo- Of this Sesoftris, and that he could not be tarius the next after Hiram, if there be not ken for sefac, I have spoken at large in that

CHAP. XIX.

Of Salomons Successors until the end of Jehosaphat.

5. I.

of Rehoboam his beginnings; the defection of the ten Tribes, and Jeroboams Idolatry.

attended a while the return of Jeroboam as than feared: whereof he took three dayes yet in Egypt, since he fled thither, fearing sa- to deliberate before his answer; of whom lomon. After his arrival the people pre-therefore it could not be faid as of David,

Fhoboam the Son of Salomon by fented a Petition to Rekoboam, to be ea-Nahama an Ammonitess, now fed of those great Tributes laid on them forty years old , succeeded his by his Father. Sic enim firmius ei fore Imten Tribes of Iffeel were aftembled: who affired, if he defired rather to be beloved that he was wifer than all his Teachers. For time Jerobaam the new King fortified seckem as of himself he knew not how to resolve, on this side, and Pennel on the other side of fo had he not the judgement to differ of Jordan; and fearing that the Union and ex-Couniels, which is the very test of wisdom ercise of one Religion would also joyn the in Princes, and in all men elfe. But not peoples hearts again to the Houle of Di-withtanding that he had consulted with vid, and having in all likelihood also prothole grave and advised men, that served his mised the Fesptians to follow their Idolatry, Fathers, who perfived him by all means he fet up two Calves of gold for the chiltather, who periwaded min by all means he is up two salves of gold for the emitto fatisfie the multitude: he was transported and of the all to worship, implously persuato home the monitories, he was trainported to a fraction wanting, improving period ted by his familiars and favourites, not ding them that those were the Gods, or at onely to continue on the backs of his subjects least by these he represented those Gods thole burdens which greatly crusht them; which delivered them out of Feypt, and rebut (vaunting fallly of greatness exceeding fusing the service of the Levites, he made his fathers) he threatned in sharp, or rather in terrible terms, to lay yet heavier, and that by banishing the Levites which served more unsupportable loads on them. But as David and Solomon through all Ifrael, Jerois appeared in the fuccess, those younger boam greatly enriched himself: as taking into advilers greatly miftook the nature of fe- his hands all those Cities which were given verity, which without the temper of elementhem by Moses and Joshua, for as it is written, cy is no other than crucky it felf: they al- The Lewites left their fuburbs, and their poto were ignorant that it ought to be used for Fisting, and came to Juda. O.e. This irreligious the help, and not for the harm of fubjects, policy of Jeroboam ( which was the founda-For what is the ftrength of a King left by tion of an Idolatry that never could be roohis people? and what cords or fetters have ever latted long, but those which have been ted out, was by Prophecy and Miraeles twifted and forged by love onely? His wit- impugned fufficiently when it first began; less parafites could well judge of the Kings but the affections maintaining it, were fo difposition and being well learned therein strong, that neither Prophecy nor Miracle though ignorant in all things elfe, it fuf-could make them yelld. Jeroboam could not 1848-13 ficed and enabled them sufficiently for the be moved now by the Authority of Abia, places they held. But this answer of Rebobo- who from the Lord had first promised unto am did not a little advance Jeroboams de- him the Kingdom; nor by the withering of chiab of his future advancement, these the Altar, which also clave asunder according Kings threats (changing the peoples love to the fign, which the man of God had into fury) confirmed and gave courage to his given him by the commandment of God, hopes, For he was no fooner arrived, than who again recovered and cured him of elected King of Ifrael: the people cryed out, that defect; yet he continued as obstinate Profes. What portion have we in David? wee an Idolater as before, for he held it the fafest Perfection have no inheritance in the Son of Islan. Now course in policy to proceed as he had begun. though themselves, even all the Tribes This implous invention of Jerobaam, who of Ifrael, had confented to Davids anoint- forfook God, and the Religion of his foreing at Hebron the second time, acknowledge- fathers, by God and his Ministers taught ing that they were his bones and his flethyet; them, was by a modern Historian compared now after the manner of rebels, they for with the policies of late Ages; observing gat both the bands of nature, and their du-well the practice of his Nation, being an uones. Whereupon the Aing allrighted, 11/19/1982 junctionally devine & humana violan-his own hand as he ftretched it over the ty to God; and, as all alienate refolved hearts Italian born. Sie qui hodie (faith he) politici do, they served themselves for the present, vocantur, oppopria commoda presentes; nitimpudent excuses. And now over-late, litates sibit tanquam ultimum sinem constituent, and after-time, Reboboam sent Adoram, one causam quam vocant status in capite omnium of the Taxers of the people, a man most ponunt: pro ipfatuenda, promovenda, conferhateful to all his Subjects, to pacify them: vanda, amplianda, nihil non faciendum putant. whom they instantly beat to death with siminria proximo irroganda sinstitue honestaftones. Whereupon the King affrighted, tifq-leges subvertenda freligio ipsapessindanda covered Jernsalem, where preparing to in- da, nihil intentatum, nil per sas nesasgerelinvade Ifrael, with an hundred and fourfcore quendum cenfent; cuncta ruant, omma percant, thousand chosen men, shimei in the per-mini ad iplot, modo id, quod è re fine effe shi person of God commanding to the contrary, all shadent, obtineant, as si nullus sit qui talia curet, was stayed for the present. In the mean castigareve possit Deus: So they who are now to any that ever the world had. Of whom of Hiram and the reign of Bozorius. filed thy posterity, and hast brought wrath upon he did. thy children, and felt forrow for thy folly, cap. 27.

6. VI. of the Contemporaries of Salomon.

Aeeilaus the third of the Heraclide in air, cast his head continually back upon the Corinth; Labotes in Lacedamon; and foon two foremost wheels next him; which seafter Silvins Alba, the fourth of the Silvii, fostris perceiving, asked him what he found fwayed those Kingdoms: Laosthenes then worthy the admiration in that motion : to governing Asspria, Agastus and Archippus the whom the captive King answered, That in fecond and third Princes after Codrus, ruling those he beheld the instability of all worldthe Athenians.

reign, Hiram of Tyre dyed, to whom Balia-firm succeeded, and reigned seventeen years, as suddenly turned downward, and under fome Kings omitted between the death part of the Egyptian Kings preceding.

Stracides writeth in this manner: Salomon | Vaphres being dead, about the twentieth reiened in a peaceable time, and was glorious, of Salomon, Sefac or Shifhak (as our English for God made all quiet round about, that he Geneva terms him began to govern in Egypt, wight build a house to his Name, and prepare being the same with him whom Diodorus the Sanctuary for ever; How wife wast thou calleth Sosachis; Josephus, Susac; Cedrenus, in thy youth, and mast filled with understand- Sussinus; Eusteins in the colume of the ing, as with a floud? Thy mind covered the Egyptian Kings, Smendes; and in that of the whole earth, and kath filled it with grave and Hebrews, Sufac. Josephus in the eighth of his dark sentences. Thy name went abroad in the Antiquities, reproveth it as an errour in Heles, and for thy peace thou mass beloved, &c. rodotus, that he ascribeth the Acts of susabut thus he concludest: Thou didl bow thy to Sessifis, which perchance Herodotus loyns to Women, and mass overcome by thy bomight have done by comparison, accounting dy; thou didft ftain thine honour, and haft de- sefac another sefoftris, for the great things

Of the great acts and vertues of King Sefostris. I have spoken already in the story of the Egyptian Princes: onely in this he was reproved, that he caused four of his captive Kings to draw his Caroch, when he was difposed to be seen, and to ride in triumph: one of which four, faith Entropius, at fuch TEar the beginning of Salomons reign, time as Selostris was carried out to take the ly things; for that both the lowest part of In the fix and twentieth of Salomons the wheel was fuddenly carried about, and after Mercators account; who reckons the all: which when Sefoftris had judicioully Hill. vid. time of his rule by the age of his fons. Jose-weighed, he dismissed those Princes, and all 1.17. phus gives him fewer years. Theophilus other from the like servitude in the suture. Antiochenus against Antolicus finds Bozo- Of this Sesoftris, and that he could not be tarius the next after Hiram, if there be not ken for sefac, I have spoken at large in that

CHAP. XIX.

Of Salomons Successors until the end of Jehosaphat.

6. I.

Of Rehoboam his beginnings; the defection of the ten Tribes, and Jeroboams Idolatry.

lomon. After his arrival the people pre- therefore it could not be faid as of David,

Fhoboam the Son of Salomon by fented a Petition to Rekoboam, to be ea-Nahama an Ammonitess, now sed of those great Tributes laid on them forty years old , succeeded his by his Father. Sic enim firmius ei fore Im-Father Salomon, and was an-perium, si amari mallet quam meini; so nointed at sichem, where the should his Empire (saith Josephus) be more at ten Tribes of Israel were assembled: who assured, if he desired rather to be beloved attended a while the return of Jeroboam as than feared: whereof he took three dayes yet in Egypt, since he fled thither, fearing Sa- to deliberate before his answer; of whom as of himself he knew not how to resolve, on this side, and Pennel on the other side of fo had he not the judgement to differ of Jordan; and fearing that the Union and ex-Countels; which is the very test of wisdom ercise of one Religion would also joyn the in Princes, and in all men elie. But not peoples hearts again to the House of Dawithfranding that he had confulted with vid, and having in all likelihood also prothose grave and advised men, that served his miled the Fesptians to follow their Idolatry, Father, who perfwaded him by all means he fet up two Calves of gold for the chilto fatisfie the multitude: he was transpor- dren of Ifrael to worship, impiously persuated by his familiars and favourites, not ding them that those were the Gods, or at onely to continue on the backs of his subjects least by these he represented those Gods those burdens which greatly crushe them 5 which delivered them out of Fesps, and rebut (vaunting fallly of greatness exceeding fusing the service of the Levites, he made his fathers) he threatned in sharp, or rather in terrible terms, to lay yet heavier, and 'that by banishing the Levites which ferved more unsupportable loads on them. But as Earth and Solomon through all Ifract, Jerois appeared in the fuccess, those younger born greatly enriched himself: as taking into adviters greatly mistook the nature of se-hishands all those Cities which were given verity, which without the temper of elementh them by Mafes and Joffma, for as it is written, cy is no other than cruelty it felf, they al- The Levites left their fuburbs, and their pof-To were ignorant that it ought to be used for fellow, and came to Juda. O.c. This irreligious the help, and not for the harm of fubjects, policy of Jeroboam ( which was the founda-For what is the strength of a King left by tion of an Idolatry that never could be roohis people? and what cords or fetters have ted out, untill Ifrael for it was rooted out of ever lafted long, but those which have been the Land ) was by Prophecy and Miracles twifted and forged by love onely? His wit- impugned fufficiently when it first began 5 less parafites could well judge of the Kings but the affections maintaining it, were fo disposition and being well learned therein strong, that neither Prophecy nor Miracle was stayed for the present. In the mean castingareve possis Deus: So they who are now that he was wifer than all his Teachers. For time Jeroboam the new King fortified seekem though ignorant in all things elfe, it fut- could make them yeild. Jerohaam could not 1848-13 ficed and enabled them sufficiently for the be moved now by the Authority of Abia, places they held. But this answer of Rebobe- who from the Lord had first promised unto am did not a little advance feroboams defigns. For being foretold by the Prophet A- his own hand as he firetched it over the ebiab of his future advancement, these the Altar, which also clave afunder according Kings threats (changing the peoples love to the fign, which the man of God had into fury) confirmed and gave courage to his given him by the commandment of God, hopes, For he was no fooner arrived, than who again recovered and cured him of elected King of Ifrael: the people cryed out, that defect; yet he continued as oblitinate Posts. What portion have we in David? wee have no inheritance in the Son of Islan. Now course in policy to proceed as he had begun. though themselves, even all the Tribes This implieus invention of Jerobaam, who of Ifrael, had confented to Davids anointing at Hebron the second time, acknowledgeing that they were his bones and his fleshiyer them, was by a modern Historian compared now after the manner of rebels, they for- with the policies of late Ages; observing gat both the bands of nature, and their du-well the practice of his Nation, being an ty to God; and a all alienate refolved hearts Italian born. Sie qui hodie (faith he) politice do, they served themselves for the present, vocantur, o propria commoda prasentes; ntiwithimpudent excuses. And now over-late, litates sibi tanquam ultimum finem constituent, and after-time, Reboboam sent Adoram, one causam quam vocant status in capite omnium of the Taxers of the people, a man most ponunt: pro ipfatuenda, promovenda, conferhateful to all his Subjects, to pacify them: vanda, amplianda, nihil non faciendum putant. whom they instantly beat to death with Siminria proximo irroganda sinstitue honestastones. Whereupon the King affrighted, tisgilegersubvertenda streligu ipsa pessiundanda got him from Sichem with all speed, and re- |i denig omnia jura droina & humana violancovered Jerusalem, where preparing to in-da, nibil intentatum, nil per six nesasga; relin-vade Israel, with an hundred and sourceore quendum censent; cunstarnant, omnia percant, thouland chosen men, Shimei in the per- nihil ad ipfor, modo id, quod è re sua esse sibi perfon of God commanding to the contrary, all fuadent obtineant, ac fi nullus fit qui talia curet,

. "A politicion are pounding to themselves as come enemies to the Judeans. So as by those re and refert profit we wont to alledge the cafe wit, change of Religion, and invitation of of that feefooth, as the principal point to be re- forraign force. Jerahoam hoped to hatle girded: for the good of the flate, for advan- himself in the feat of Mouel, whom yet the cime preserving, or encrealing of the thate, they powerful God for his Idolatry in few years of juffire and konefty, if Religion it fell muft go places, affured his cleate, forlook the law of to mrack, yearf all rights of God and man might the living God, and made high Places, and be riplated they will try all courses be it right be Images and Groves, on every high Hill, and it promothey will do any thingslet all goto ruine under every green Tice. what care they, so long as they may have what And therefore in the fifth year of his reign. they would as who (bould fay, there were no God Sefac or Shifbac before fpoken of being now had tower to correct them.

first it had done to bring in this vile Idola- Hoste besides Foot-men, which lessely numtry of the ten Tribes. Upon this ground Ama- bers at four hundred thousand. This Army 2/4 the Prieft of Eachel counfelled the Pro- was compounded of four Nations: Egyptotic Amos not to probable at Bathel. Fam. phet Amos not to prophefie at Bethel; For ans, Lubauns, Succeans, and Cufites. The (faith he ) it is the Kings Court. Upon this Lubeans were Lybeans the next bordering ground even Jehn that had massacred the Region to Fgypt, on the Westfide. The Lu-Priefts of Back, in zeal for the Lord, yet beans were of Petrea, and of the defait Amurdered him. Softrongly doth the painted the red Sea, in 22. degrees from the line vizor of wife proceeding delude even those Northward, about fix hundred English miles that know the foul face of impiety lurking from the best & Maritimate part of Fgypt; and under it: and behold the wretched ends that rherefore I do not think that the Executes or very great examples.

6. H. of Rehoboam his impiety; for which he was the Troglodita. punished by Sefac: of his end, and Contemporaries.

on the other fide, having now little hope to fures) the golden shields which Salomon had to whom Jeroboam had not only fastned him- foolishness of the people. self, but withall invited them to invade Ju- From this time forward the King of Egypt dan: laying perchance before them the un- claimed the foveraignty of Judea, and held countable Riches of David and Salomon, the Jews as their Tributaries : Sesac, as it which might now be eafily had, feeing ten feems, rendring up to Reboboam his places of the twelve Tribes were revolted, and be- on that condition. So much may be gathered settinal end and he to their own commodi- two waies (of late years often trodden) to think that they may do anything If they mean after rooted out, with all his. Rehabeauthing to open it their neighbour, to overtuen all large ving also, as he thought by fortifying divers is that would offer to meddle in fuch matters, or King of Fgypt, and with whom, as well Adad of Idumaa, as Feroboam, were familiar, and his Indeed this allegation of raggione del fla- inftruments; entred Juda: with twelve to. did ferve as well to uphold, as at the thouland Chariots, and three core thouland It is would not in any wife depart from that poli-tique fin of Jeroboam the fon of Nebat, which Afa King of Juda. The Succeans according : com made Ifrael to fine It was reason of state to Junius his opinion, were of Succoth, which a line that perswaded the last French King Hen- fignifieth Tents: he doth suppose that they ry the fourth to change his Religion, yet the were the Treglodita, mentioned often in the Elect Protestants whom he forsook, obeyed him, my, Ptolemy, and other Authors. The Trobut some of the Papilts whom he followed, glodites inhabited not far from the banks of the have ever followed it, whereof Jehn, and all Success were those Troglodise, but rather those Co. the the Kings of Ifrael had, and were themselves : Arabians which Ptolemy calls Arabes Agyptii, Ichtliyophagy, which possess that part of Egypt behind the mountains called Alabastrini, and the red Sea, far nearer Egypt and readier to be levied than those removed Savages of

With this great and powerful Army Sefac invaded Judaa, and ( besides many other strong Cities ) wan Jerusalem it self, of which WHile Jeroboam was occupied in fet and of the Temple, and Kings house, he took ting up his new Religion, Reboboam the spoyle, carrying away (besides other trearecover the Provinces loft, strengthened made, in imitation of those which David rethe principal places remaining with all en- covered from Adadezer, in the Syrian war: deavour : for he fortified and victualled fif- these Rehoboam supplyed with Targets of teen Cities of Juda and Benjamin: not that brais, which were fit enough to guard a King he feared Jeroboam alone, but the Egyptians, of his quality, whom syracides calleth, The the deliverance of Juda after their humilia- of his acts were written by Eldo the Prophet tion he doth notwithstanding leave them as some part of his Fathers were. under the yoke of Egypt, in these words, Negerthelefs they (to wit, the Judeans) field be the fins of Salomon in his fon Rekoboum: his fervants, that is, the fervants of Sclac.

CHAP. XIX.

holeam reigned twelve years, and his losses daughter Salomon had married, thereby the received by sefac, notwithstanding, he con- better to assure his estate, which while he sertinued the war against Jeroboam all his life ved God, was by God affured against all and time. After his death Jerobosim governed if the greatest neighbouring Kings, and when racl four years, rished with that of Nathan, and the rest.

vernours for life after Codrus, governed in hundred thouland; God giving spirit, cou-Athens. Abdastrartus, or Abstrartus, in Tyre- rage, and invention, when and where it Dorifibus the lift of the Heraclida in Sparta, pleaseth him. And as in those times the cauaccording to Eusebius (others make him the les were exprest, why it pleased God to pufixt) and Priminas the fourth in Corinth. Over nish both Kings and their people; the same the Latines reigned Silvius Alba Silvius Atys, being both before, and at the instant delithe fourth and the fift of the Silvii.

usurped the Kingdom twelve years.

Toward his latter times Periciades, or Pythe son of Balcastartus, recovered the Kingdom of Tyre from the Ulurpers.

of the great battel between Jeroboam and Abia, with a Corollarie of the examples of Gods judgments.

third of the Adads of Syria, as may be gaties; howfoever the wife men of the World thered out of the 2. of Chron. he reigned but raise these effects no higher than to second out of the word of God, where premiting three years, and then died : the particulars

Here we see how it pleased God to punish first, by an Idolator and Traytor: and then After this overthrow and dilhonour, Re- by the successor of that Fgptian, whose he forfook him, it was torn afunder by his Rehoboam lived 58.years, and reigned 17. meanest Vasials. Not that the Father wanhis ftory was written at large by Shemejah ted ftrength to defend him from the Egyptiand Hiddon the Prophets, but the fame pe- an Sefac; For the fon abijah was able to leavy four hundred thouland men and with With Kehoboam, Archippus, and Tersip- the same number he overthrew eight hunrns, the third and fourth Archantes or Go-dred thousand If raelites, and flew of them five vered by Prophets: fo the same just God, About the 12. of Rehoboam, Abdastrartus vyho liveth and governeth all things for e-King of Tire was murthered by his Nurfes ver, doth in these our times give victory, fons, or foster-brethren, the elder of which courage, and discourage, raise, and throw down Kings, Ettates, Cities, and Nations, for the same offences which were committed of rithiades, began to govern Affria, the 34. old, and are committed in the present: for King thereof: and not long after Aftarus, which reason, in these and other the affictions of Ifrael, alwaies the causes are set down, that they might be as presidents to fucceeding ages. They were punished with famine in David's time for three years, For Saul and his bloody Loufe, &c. And David 2 Sam. 1: $ towards his latter end suffered all sorts of affiictions, and forrows in effect, for Vriab. Salomon had ten Tribes of twelve torn from his fon for his Idolatry. Rehoboum was A Bijab the fon of Rehoboum, inherited spoiled of his Riches and Honour by Sesac of Egypt, because the people of Juda made He raised an Army of four hundred thou-Images, High places, and Groves oc. and find with which the invested fundamental through the first of the second states of the first of the second states of the s fand, with which he invaded Jeroboam, because they suffered sodomites in the who encountered him with a double num-land. Herboam was punished in himself ber of eight hundred thousand: Both Ar-and his posterity, for the golden Calves mies joyned near to the Mount Ephraim, that he erected. Joram had all his fons flain where Jeroboam was utterly overthrown, by the Philiftims, and his very bowelstorn and the ftrength of Ifrael broken: for there out of his body by an excoriating flix, fell of that fide five hundred thouland; the greatest overthrow that ever was given or jezzabel were slain, the blood of one, the received of those Nations. Abijab being now body of the other eaten with dogs, for master of the field, recovered Bethel, Jessa nab, and Ephron. Soonaster which discon. So also hath God punished the same, and formed the state of the siture, Jeroboam died : who reigned in all 22. Lee like sins in all after times, and in these years, Abijah, the better to ftrengthen him- our daies by the fame famine, plagues, vvar, felf, entred into league with Hessen, the loss, vexation, death, sickness and calami-

to work every alteration that happeneth.

6. IV. of Afa and his Contemporaries.

time he established the Church of God, eced in number; for God spake it of Ismael, breaking down the alters dedicated to that he would make him fruitful, and muitiftrange gods, with their images, cutting ply him exceedingly, that he should beget I chro it, down their groves, and taking away their twelve Princes, Oc. high places. He also spared not his own me- Baasha a King of Israel began to reign in ther, who was an Idolatres, but depoing her the third of Aja, and fearing the greatness of and out it. Fre and fortherd many states, saturating of symmetric factor manager, and other places, providing (as provident to juy) with him against  $\Delta f_{03}$  and to the end Kings do) for the troubles of war in the least oblock him up, he fortified Kama, which fure of peace. For not long after he was in- lieth in the way from Terufalem toward savaded by Zerah, who then commanded all the maria. Arabians bordering Judaa, and with fuch a This war began according to the letter multitude entred the territory of Afi, as (for of the Scriptures in the 36. year of Afa his any thing that I have read were never aftem-reign: but because in the first of Kings the bled of that Nation, entire before or fince: 16. it is faid that Bualba died in the 26. year a chro. 14. For it is written, that there came against the of Afa; therefore could not Baafba beginthis Indeans, Zerab of Athiopia, with an holt of war in the 35. of Afa his reign, but in the 35.

ten hundred thousand, and three hundred year of the division of Juda and Israel, for so Chariots, which Afa encountered with an many years it was from the first of Rehobo-Army of five hundred and fourfcore thou- am, who reigned, 17. years, to the 16. of Afa.

have*proved already, and were it but the Zerah, being yet fresh in mind, which length between Athropia and Judaa, and might well have emboldened the men of book e. the ftrong flourishing Regions of Egypt in- Juda, and assuch disheartened the enemies. f.a. the strong flourillang Regions of Egypt has a fact t eagler, and fuch other accidents, which, as not unknown Æthiopians. And if it be obbeing next their eves and eares feem to them jected that these defart countries can hardly yeild a million of men fit for the wars. Ianiwer, that it is as like that Arabia Petraa, and the Defart, which compals two parts of the holy Land, thould veild ten hundred thoufand as that two Tribes of the twelve should arm five hundred and fourfcore thousand. O Abijab facceeded Afa, who enjoyed Belides, it answered to the promise of God peace for his first ten years, in which to Abraham, that these Nations should ex-

from her regency, brake her Idol, frampt it, Afa after his great victory, entertained Ben-ideal, and burnt it. He also fortified many Cities, hadad King of Syria of the race of Adadezer, w.

fand levyed out of those two Tribesor Juda It may seem strange, that Asa being able and Benjamin, which obeyed him, and with to bring into the field an Army of five hunwhich he overthrew this fearful multitude, dred and fourfcore thousand good Souldiand had the spoyle both of their Cities and ers, did not casily drive away Baasha, and defeat him of his purposes, the victories of Abia That this Zerah was not an Athiopian, I against Jeroboam, and of Afa himself against ftrangers to pass through them) it were suf- Circumstances, omitted in the Text, which ficient to make it appear how foolish the o- caused Asi to fight at this time with money. pinion is, that these invaders were Athiopi- It may be that the imployment of so many ans, But in that the Scriptures acknowledge hundred thousands of hands, in the late ferthat Gerar was belonging to Zerah, and the vice against Zerah, had caused many mens Cities thereabouts were spoyled by the Ju- private businelles to lye undispatched, where drant, in following their victory, as places be by the people being now intentive to the longing to Zerah, and that all men know that culture of their lands and other trades, might Gerar standeth upon the torrent of Lefor, be unwilling to stir against the Israelites, which David past over when he surprized the choosing rather to wink at apparent incon-Amalekites or Arabians; this proveth fuf-venience, which the building of Kama would ficiently, that Zerab was leader of the Arabi- bring upon them in after-times. Such backans, and that Gerar was a frontier town stans wardness of the people might have deterred 2 Chrs 14 ding on the uttermost South-border of all Asia from adventuring himself with the least Judea, from all parts of Athiopia fix hun- part of his forces, and committing the fucceis Judga, from all parts of Attaopatic must refer of the forces and communing the fluctor dred miles. Allo the fpoyles which Allo tool, into the hands of God. Howfoever, it were, as the eartel, camels, and fixes where of the facilitied five throutand, fixes them to be Arabians adjoying, and not far off, and seem against Basefina, whose employments Berbadad the Spean against Basefina, whose employments Berbadad that all the seem of the first seem against Basefina, whose employments Berbadad that seem of the force of the forces and communing the first were discussed in the first seem of the forces and communing the first were discussed in the first were discussed in the first seem of the forces and communing the first were discussed in the first were di brind readily accepted, and brake off con- [Family] it procured unto him a peaceable tederacy with Basha. For the Ifraelites were end; an honourable testimony of the peohis horderers and next neighbours, whom ples love, by their general mourning and laneither himself ( after his invasion ) nor his mentation at his death, and (wherein he was accediors after him ever gave over, till they most happy ) the favourable approbation of had made themselves masters of that King- God himself.

After the loss of this good fon the ungodly don. So Benhadad being now entred into Nithalim, without reliftance, he fpoiled divers principal Cities thereof, and inferced creature, so conscious of his vile unthankful-Bus flat to quit Rama, and to leave the fame to ness to God, that he durst not fuffer his own Afa, with all the materials which he had name to be used in consulting with an holy brought thither, to fortifie the fame : which Prophet, affured of the ruine hanging over done, Benhadad, who loved neither party, him and his, yea of Gods extream hatred; being loden with the spoiles of Ifeael, and the yet forbearing to destroy those accursed Itreatures of Juda, returned to Damafeus. dols that wrought his confusion. So loath he After this, when Hanani the Prophet repre- was to forfake his worldly wisdom, when the hended Asa, in that he now relyed on the world was ready to forsake him, and all befrength of Syria, and did not reft himfelt on longing to him, his hateful memory excenthe favour and aftiffance of God, he not only ted.

reigned 41. years. There lived with Asa, Agesslaus the fixt of his Kingdom one whole year. He did not the Heraclide, and Back the fift King of the alter his fathers courses, neither did God alfame race in Corinth, of whom his fuccessors' ter his sentence. It seems that he little seared were afterward called Bacida. Aftartus, and the judgements denounced against his fa-Astarimus were Kings in Tyre. Astarimus thers house: for as a Prince that was secure took revenge on his brother Phelletes, for of his own estate, he armed all Israel against the murther of Ithohalus Priest of the god-the Philistims, and belieged one of their des Astarta, whom Salomon in dotage wor-Towns. There (whether it were so, that the thipped. Atys and Capys ruled the Latines: people were offended with his ill fuccess, Firithiades and Ophrateus the Assyrians : and recalled to mind their grievous loss of Terfippus and Phorbas the Athenians: Chemmis five hundred thousand under Jeroboam, reigned in Egypt; who dying in the 36, year counting it an unlucky family to the Nation; of Ma, left Cheops his successour, that reigned or whether by some particular indiscretion, fifty fix years, even to the 16. of Jour.

caused Hanani to be imprisoned, but he be-of the great alteration falling out in the ten Tribes during the reign of Afa.

might have reduced the ten Tribes unto continuing in the same form of Idolatry their former allegeance to the house of Da- which Jereboam had begun. Wherefore he vid, if the wisdom of God had not other-received the same sentence from God that boam had, in his later daies, the fentence of executed upon him also in the same fort. heavy vengeance laid uponit, by the mouth He began to infelt Afa, by fortifying Ra-Nadab the fon of Jeroboam, reioned in the gan to burden and oppress his people, and second and third years of Asa, which are recwas therefore strucken with the grievous koned as two years, though indeed his faraines of the gout in his feet, wherewith af- thers laft year of two and twenty did run 10316 ter he had been two years continually tor- along (how far is uncertain) with the fecond mented, he gave up the ghost when he had of Afa, whose third year was the first of Baa- 1 gieg 15, (ba, fo that perhaps this Nadab enjoyed not 25.

he exasperated them)slain he was by Baasha, whom the Army did willingly accept for King in his fread. Bassha was no sooner proclaimed King, than he began to take order with the house of Jeroboam, that none of them might molest him, putting all of them, without mercy, to the fword. That he did N the reign of Asa the Kingdom of Israel this for private respects, and not in regard felt great and violent commorions, which of Gods will to have it fo, it is evident by his wife determined. The wickedness of Jero- had been laid upon Jeroboam; which was of Ahia, the same Prophet which had fore- mah; but was diverted from thence by the told the division of Ifrael, for the sin of Salo-Syrian Benhadad, who did wast his Counwon, and his reign over the ten Tribes. One try, destroying all the Land of Nepthalim. fon Jeroboam had among others, in whom Four and twenty years he reigned, and then only God found formuch piety, as (though it dying, left the Crown to Ela his fon, who enfufficed not to with-hold his wrath from that joyed it, as Nadab the fon of Jeroboam had done, two years current, perhaps not one compleat.

tila was as much an Idolater as his father: and withall a riotous person. He sent an Army against Gibbethon, the same town of A conjecture of the causes bindering the re-uthe Pr. liftims, before which Nadab the fon of icroboam perished; but he are at home the whilft, feafting and drinking with his Minions, whereby he gave such advantage! against himself, as was not neglected. Zimri, A Ifrael in those times, may justly wonder an ambitious man, remaining with the King how it came to pass, that either the whole at Tirza, finding his Mafter to diffolute, Nation, wearied with the calamities already and his behaviour so contemptible, con- suffered under these unfortunate Princes, ceived hope of the like fortune as Baasha had and with the present civil wars, did not refound, by doing as Baasha had done. Where-turn to their ancient Kings, and re-unite fore he did fet upon Ela in his drunkenness, themselves with the mighty Tribes of Juda and flew him. Prefently upon which fact, and Benjamin, or that Zimri and Tibni, with hettiled himself King of Israel: and began their oppressed factions, did not call in Asa, his reign with massacring all the house of Ba- but rather chose the one to endure a defasha; extending his cruelty not onely to his perate necessity of yeilding, or burning children, and kinsfolk, but unto all his friends himself, the other to languish away as a in Terza. These news were quickly blown man forsaken; than to have recourse unto to the Camp at Gibbethon, where they were a remedy, 60 fure, 60 ready, and 60 honor welcommed according to Zimri his ex-nourable. To fay that GOD was pleapectation. For the Souldiers in stead of sed to have it so, were a true, but an idle proclaiming him King, proclaimed him Trai- answer (for his secret will is the cause of all tor: and being led by Omni, whom they fa-things) unless it could be proved 5 that he luted King, they (quitting the fiege of Gib-had forbidden Asa to deal in that business, bethon) presented themselves before Tirza; as he forbad Rehoboam to force the rebelwhich in flort space they may seem to have lious people to obedience. That the reforced. Zimri wanting strength to defend straint laid by God upon Rekoboam, did only the City, not courage to keep himfelf from bind his hands from attempting the suppresfalling alive into his enemies hands, did fet fion of that prefent infurrection, it appears fire on the Palace, confuming it and himfelf by the War continued between Ifrael and together to affices. Seven daies he is faid to Juda, fo many years following: wherein have reigned: accounting (as is most like- Abia so far prevailed, that he wan a great 1 King 16, by to the time that Omri was proclaimed in battail, and recovered some Towns belongthe Camp. For Zimri was also an Idolater, ling to the other Tribes, which he annexed Walking in the way of Jeroboam; and there- to his own Dominion. Wherefore we may fore is likely to have had more time where-boldly look into the fecond causes moin to declare himself, than the reign of se- ving the People and Leaders of the ten ven daies, and those consumed partly in Tribes, to suffer any thing under new upmurthering the friends of Baasha, partly in starts, rather than to cast their eyes upon feeking to have defended his own life. After that Royal house of David, from which the death of Ela, there arose another King the succession of five Kings in lineal deto oppose the faction of Omri; whereby it scent, had taken away all imputation, that may frem, that Zimri had made his party might formerly have been laid upon the firrong, as being able to fet up a new head, who doubtless would never have appeared, Omri had prevented his Competitors in if there had not been ready to his hand, making peace with Asa, were a conjecture some strength, not unlikely to resist and more bold than probable. For Omri was Omri, held out, I do not find; onely it ap- alone to prove, that Asa, being a godly concurrent.

s. VI.

nion of Ifrael with Juda, which might have been effected by theje troubles.

Ny man that shall consider the state of vanquish the Army which maintained Omri. not onely an Idolater, but did worse than all 1 King 16. How long this Tibni, the new competitor of that were before him; which as it might ferve 25. pears that his fide was decayed, and so he King, would not adhere to him, so the course died, leaving no other Successor than his which he professed to take at the very first, of revenging the massacre committed upon the famly and friends of Baasha (Asa his mortal enemy) gives manifest reason, why Zimri, who had wrought that great execution, mediatly choose Teroboam in his stead, as a lany. man likely to afford that liberty unto them, The like and much more barbarous exefor which he had contended in their behalf, cution, to wit, without law, Jehoram did up-Neither were they (asit feems) herein alto- on his brethren, and upon fundry of his gether deceived. For his affectation of po- greatest men; as also Joash did so put to pularity appears in his building of decayed death Zachariah the fon of Jehojada, who had ced to a more temperate method than Jero- to God it could not. hours ever meant to do. And surely he that The murther of the Prophets is continualshall take pains to look into those examples ly ascribed to Jezabel, an impudent Woman, should more justly than he have expected which are extant of the different courses. the friendship of Juda in that quarrel, held by the Kings of Ifrael and Juda, in ad-Wherefore in fearching out the reason of ministration of justice, will find it most prothis backwardness in the ten Tribes (which bable, that upon this ground it was that the was fuch, that they may feem to have never ten Tribes continued to averle from the line thought upon the matter) to submit them- of David; as to think all adversity more tofelves to their true Princes; it were not a- lerable, than the weighty Scepter of that mils to examine the causes moving the peo- house. For the death of Josh and skimei was ple to revenge the death of Ela, anidle indeed by them deserved; yet in that they drunkard rather than of Nadab the fon of fuffered it without form of judgment, they Jeroboam, who followed the Wars in person, suffered like unto men innocent. The death as a man of spirit and courage. Surely it is of Adamijah was both without judgment, and apparent, that the very first defection of the without any crime objected, other than the ten Tribes, was (if we look upon humane Kings jealousie: out of which by the same reason)occasioned by desire of breaking that rule of arbitrary justice (under which it may heavy yoke of bondage wherewith salomon be supposed that many were cast away he had galled their necks. Their defire was to would have flain Jeroboam (if he could have have a King that should not oppress them; caught him) before he had yet committed not to have no King at all. And therefore any offence; as appears by his confident rewhen the arrogant folly of Reboloum had turn out of Fgypt, like one that was known caused them to renounce him, they did im- to have endured wrong, having not offered

Towers, and in the institution of his new de- made him King, even in the court of the house a choase vifed Idolatry; where he told the people, of the Lord: and Manasses did shed innocent that it was too much for them to travel so far blond exceeding much, 11ll he replenished served. as to Jerusalem. But whether it were so, that salem from corner to corner: and this was his moderation, being voluntary, began to imputed to him as another fault; besides his a Kinn. 12? cease, towards the latter end of his reign, sin, wherewith he made Juda to sin. Contrariand in the reign of his son, when long time wife, among the Kings of Israel we find no of possession had confirmed histitle, which monument of such arbitrary proceeding, unat the first was only good by courtesic of the less perhaps the words of Jehoram the son of people: or whether the people (as often Ahab (which were but words) may be taken happens in fuch cases) were more offended for an instance, when he said, God do so to me, by some prerogatives of a King, that he still and more also, if the head of Elisha the son of retained in his own hands, than pleased with Shaphat shall stand on him this day: whereby his remission of other burdens, it is clearly it is not plain whether he meant to kill him apparent, that the whole Army of all Ifrael without more ado, or to have him condemjoyned with Baasha, taking in good part the ned as a false Prophet, that had made them death of Nadab, and eradication of Jerobo- hold out against the Aramites, till they were fain to eat their own children; which he Now the reign of Baalha himself, was (for thought a sufficient argument to prove, that ought that remaineth in writing of it) eve- it was not Gods purpose to deliver them. ry way unfortunate; his labour and cost at The death of Nabath sheweth rather the li-Kama was cast away; the other side of his berty which the Israelites enjoyed, than any Kingdom harried by the Syrians; neither peremptory execution of the Kings will. For did he win that one Town of Gibbethon Naboth did not fear to stand upon his own from the Philistims, but left that busines to right, though Abab were even sick for anger; his son, who likewise appears an unprofita- neither was he for that cause put to death, as ble fluggard. Wherefore it must needs be, upon commandement, but made away by that the favour of the people toward the conspiracy, the matter being handled after a house of Baasha grew from his good form of judicial form, which might give fatisfaction Civil Government, which happily he redu- to the people, ignorant of the device, though and not unto the King her husband. Neither their quarrel. And certainly (howfoever all is it certain, that there was no Law made that the Law calstreason, be interpreted, as whereby their lives were taken from them; tending finally to the Kings destruction) in but certain it is, that the people being Ido- those treasonable insurrections of the vulgar, laters, were both pleafed with their death, which have here most prevailed, the surv of and laboured in the execution. So that the the multitude hath quenched it felf with the doings of the Kings of Juda (fuch as are regi- bloud of some great Officers; no such reftred prove them to use a more absolute ma- bellions, howsoever wicked and barbarous ner of command, than the Kings of the ten otherwise, thirsing after the ruine of their Tribes. Neither do their fufferings witness natural Soveraign, but rather forbearing the the contrary. For of those which reigned o- advantages gotten upon his Royal person: ver Juda, from the division of the Kingdom, which if any man impute unto gress ignoto the captivity of the ten Tribes, three rance, another may more charitably, and I were flain by the people, and two were de- think, more truely, ascribe to a reverent afnied a burial amongst their Ancestors. Yea, fection. Wherefore that Fable of Briareus. the death of Ahazia and his brethren, flain who, being loofened by Pallas, did with his by Jehn, with the destruction of all that 100 hands give affistance to Jupiter, when Royal feed of Athalia, did not (for ought all the rest of the gods conspired against that we can read ) ftir up in the people any him, is very fitly expounded by Sir Francis fuch thirst of revenge, as might by the sud- Bacon, as signifying that Monarchies need denness and uniformity testifie the affection not to tear any curbing of their absoluteness to be general, and proceeding from a loving by mighty fubjects, as long as by wifedom remembrance of their Princes: unless we they keep the hearts of the people, who will should think that the death of Albalia, after be sure to come in on their side. Though feven years reign, were occasioned rather by indeed the Story might very well have born the memory of her ill purchasing, than by the same interpretation, as it is rehearsed by the present sense of her tyrannical abusing Homer, who tels us that Pallas was one of the the government, whereon the had feifed. On conspiracy, and that Thetis alone did marre the other fide, fuch of the Kings of Ifrael as all their practice, by loosening Eriarew. For perished by treason ( which were seven of a good Form of Government sufficeth by a the twenty) were all flain by conspiracy of self to retain the people, not only without the great men, who aspired by treason to the assistance of a laborious Wit, but even a-Crown: the people being fo far from cm- gainst all devices of the greatest and shrewdbruing their hands in the bloud of their So- eft Politicians: every Sheriffe and Constaveraigns, that (after Nadab) they did never ble, being sooner able to arme the multitude, forbear to revenge the death of their Kings, in the Kings behalf, than any over-weening when it lay in their power; nor approve Rebel, how mighty foever, can against him. the good fuccess of treason, unless fear compelled them. So that the death of two Kings, ing feldome found in Juda, makes it very being throughly revenged upon other two, likely, that the rule it self of government namely the death of Ela and Zacharia, upon there was fuch, as neither gave occasion of Zimri and Shallum, who traiteroully got and contentment unto the subjects, nor of confiusurped, for a little while, their places; on- dence in their good affection to the Kings. ly three of the seven remain, whose ends Upon which reasons it may seem that the how the people took, it may be doubtful, multitude was kept usually disarmed. Foro-Though indeed it is precisely said of the therwise it would have been almost impossiflaughter committed on Abab's children by ble, that Athalia the fifter of Ahab, a stranger Jehu, that the people durst not fight with to the Royal bloud of Juda, should by the king to him that did it, because they were exceeding-only authority of a Queen-mother have de-ly affraid: and the same sear might be in stroyed all the seed of David, and usuped them at the death of Peka, whose History the Kingdome very near 7. years, without ( as others of that time ) is curforily passed, finding any resistance. Yea when Jekojada over. The like may be pronounced, and the high Priest had agreed with the Captains more absolutely, of the Kings of England, and principal men of the Land to set up fo-

that never any of them perished by fury of ash their lawful King, whereunto the whole the people, but by treason of such as did Nation were generally well affected, he fucceed them; neither was there any mo- was fain to give to these Captains and their tive urging to forcibly the death of King Ed-men, the spears and the shields that were King mard and King Richard when they were in Davids, and were in the house of the Lord. prison, as fear lest the people should stir in But we need not enter into such particulars. dience to their Princes to be a part of their Surely, whereas it is written that when news duty toward God, would endure much was brought to Jehofaphar that Moah and more with patience, than they which had Ammon were entred his Territory to the Kings of their own choice or admittion, Welt of Jord m, and that their numbers were holding the Crown by a more uncertain many, he teared (to wit) the multitude, in tenure.

ction of their fix first Kings, which died in manned. Lam therefore of opinion, referheavy yoke.

of Ifrael, died himself after one and forty ward commanded and multered by zimashah, eighth King over the ten Tribes.

VII.
 Of Jehosaphat and kis contemporaries.

Teligious and happy, he deftroyed all crs had under him the Groves, Altars, and high places dedication. This mighty Prince, not with funding his had filver, from the other sheep and goats to marry Athalia, this Achab's Dauglace. to the number of fifteen thousand and four fourfeore thousand, and Amasia of two hun- who promised him Victory. But Jekosaphan thele in Benjamin, of those that bare shields, which we call Targetiers, and of Archers under Eliada, two hundred thousand, and under the commandement of Jehozabad a hundred and fourscore thousand: which numbred together make eleven hundred and fixty thousand, all which are faid to have waited upon the King, befides his Garrifons.

That Juda and Benjamin, a Territory not

Queftionless, the Tribes which thought obe- they amounted to three hundred thousand, is not likely that he would have feared even And this, in my opinion, was the reason, the Army of Xerxer, if he could have brought why the ten Tribes did never feek to return into the field 11, hundred and 10, thousand to their ancient Lords: but after the deftru- lighting men, leaving all his throng Cailes the reign of Afa, admitted a feventh of a new, ring my felf to better judgment) that these Family, rather than they would confubject numbers specified in the second of Chronicles themselves with those of Juda and Benja- the 17. distributed to several Leaders, were min, under a more honourable, but more not all at one time, but that the 300, thoufand under Alnah, and the 200, and four-So Afa having feen the death of 7. Kings feore thousand under Jehohanam, were afteryears reign, leaving Jehosaphat his son to Eliad, and Jehosabad : for the gross and total deal with Abab the fon of Omri, who was the is not in that place fet down, as it was under the other Kings formerly named. Again, as the aids which Jehofaphar brought to Ahab did not thew that he was a Prince of extraordinary power, fo the Modules and Animonites which he feared, could never make the one half of these numbers, which he that TEhofaphat, who succeeded Afa, was a Prince commanded least among Jelofathat's Lead-

ted to Idolatry, and fent Teachers to all greatness, yet he joyned in friendling with places and people wanting inftruction; he shab King of tirael, who had married that recovered the tribute due unto him by the wicked Woman Jezakel. Him Jokejaphar Arabians and Philiftims: from the one he vilited at Samaria, and caused his ion juranz

Ahab perfivaded Jekofaphat to atilichim hundred. The numbers of men of War were in the War against the syrians, who held more than admirable; for it is written that the City of Ramoth Gilead from him, and Adnah had the command of three hundred called together four hundred of his Prothousand, Jehohanam of two hundred and phets, or Baalites, to fore-tel the success: dred thousand; also that he had, besides believed nothing at all in those diviners, but resolved first of all to conferre with some one Prophet of the Lord God of Ifrael. Hereupon Achab made answer that he had one called atichaiah, but he hated that Prophet, because he alwayes fore-told of cvil, and never of any good towards him. Yee Michaiab was lent for to the King; but by the year the mellenger prayed him to confent with the rest of the Prophets, and to promuch exceeding the County of Kent, should mise Victory unto them, as they did. But muster eleven hundred and fixty thousand Michaiah spake the truth, and repeated his fighting men, it is very strange, and the number far greater than it was found upon any Coel asked who shall perforde Ahab, that be other view. Joab in David's time found may go up and fall at Ramoth Cilcad? to five hundred thousand : Rehoboam found whom a spirit that stood before the Lord but an hundred and fourfcore thousand: A- answered, that he would enter into his Probia four hundred and eight thousand: Asa phots, and be in them a false spirit to defive hundred and fourfcore thousand: Ama- lude. For as it is said by Christ: Non enters zis inrolled all that could bear axors, and vos eftis qui loquimini, fed spiritus patricac-Lin Prophets of Baal, or Satan, incourage Achab prize was overthrown. to his destruction. And as P. Martyr upon Yet he taketh part with Jehoram, the brothis place well observeth, these evil spirits ther of Ochazias, against the Moabites, with are minitters of Gods vengeance, and are which Kings of Juda and Ifrael, the Edomites used as the hangmen and tormentors, which joyn their Forces, not forgetting, it seems, Princes fometime imploy, For as it pleaseth that the Moabites, affissed by the Ammonites, God by his good Angels, to fave and deliver had not long before destroyed their Army. from destruction, of which the Scriptures The Moabites, Subjects to David and Salehave many examples: fo on the contrary, it mon, forfaking the Kings of Juda, gave themis by the evil that he punisheth and destroy-selves for vasials to Jeroboam, and so they cth; both which are faid to perform the continued to his successors till the death of A-Will of their Creator, licet non codem animo. chab:but ]ehosaphat,notwithstanding the Ido-Ecclessificus remembreth a second sort of latry of his Colleague, yet as it seemeth he malignant natures, but they are every-was drawn into this War, both to be avenged where visible. There are spirits, saith he, of the Moabites for their desection from Juda created for vengeance, which in their rigour to Ifrael, as also because they had lately joynlay on fure strokes. In the time of destructi- ed themselves with the Syrians against Joseph on they shew forth their power, and accom-phat, and thirdly, to punish their double replish the wrath of him that made them.

phets, whose spirit he discovered, was stroken tion; for we find that both Moab, Ammon and by Zidkiah one of Baal's Prophets, and by Edom were all in the field together at Engad-Achab himself committed to prison : where di against Jehosaphat : But whether they had he appointed him to be reserved and fed then declared themselves against Jehosaphat, with bread of affliction till he returned in it is not certain; for in the 2. of Chron. 11. peace. But Michaidh, not fearing to reply, verf. 8. it is written, that in the time of Jehoanswered, If thou return in peace, the Lord ram the son of Jehosaphat, Edom rebelled: and hath not fooken by me. Nevertheles Achab therefore it seemeth to me that the Edomites, went on in that War, and was wounded to when they were flain by Moab and Ammon, death. Jehosaphat returned to Jerusalem, not finding themselves satisfied in such conwhere he was reprehended by Jehn the Pro- ditions as they required, offered to return phet for aflitting an idolatrous Prince, and from them, and to joyn themselves with the

2 Chro 18 one that hated God. joyned with the Moabites, Ammonites and I- in the 2. of Chron. the 20. and as plain c. 21. dumeans to invade Judea: who pass Jordan v. 8. that they were not declared, nor had and encamp at Engaldi; and when Jehofa- made them a King, till Jehofaphar's death. phat gathered his Army, the Prophet Jaha- Now in the passage of these Kings towards ziel fore-told him of the Victory, which Moab, whether it were by the extraordinary should be obtained without any bloud-shed heat of the year, or whether the Idumeans of his part and so when Jehosphat approached, this Assembly of Nations, the Ammonites of Juda and Israel, with intent to infeeble 2 Chro. 10. on the Idumeans, and brake them utterly: their Parthian expeditions; and had in all frauding joyn with Ochazias, the fon of A-chab, in preparing a Fleet to fend to Ophir,

The miferable iffue of this With the order of the chab, in preparing a Fleet to fend to Ophir, hoping of the like return which Salomon Moab burnt his fon, or the fon of the King the logaritum in colis. It is not you that speak, had: but as Eleizer the Prophet fore-told but the Spirit of your Father speaks in you: him his thips perished, and were broken in fo in a contrary kind did the devil in the the port of Fzion Gaber, and so that enter-10-41

bellion who first forsook juda, and now Ifrael. Now Michaias having by this his revelati- Both Kings refolved to pass by the way of on greatly displeased the King, and the Pro- Idumea, thereby the better to assure that Na-

Army of Juda. For, that they were numbred After this the Aramites or Camascens, among the enemies of Jekosaphat, it is plain and Moabites, disagreeing with the Idume- them for want of Water; true it is, that they ans, and quarrelling for some causes among suffered the same, if not a greater thirst than themselves, those of Ammon and Moab set up- the Armies of Crassus and M. Antonius did in which done, they also invaded each other; likelihood utterly perished, had not Elisha in which broil Jehosaphat arriving, took the taught them to cut trenches whereinto the fivil of them all without any loss of his part, water sprang, by which not only gehosaphat as it was fore-told and promifed by God. and his Army, but Jehoram King of Ifrael an Notwithstanding this Victory, Jehosaphat, Idolater was relieved: the great mercy and forgetting that he was formerly reprehended goodness of God having ever been prone to for affiffing an ido arrous King, did not with- fave the evil for the good, whereas he never

The miserable issue of this War, and how our City. I have already written in the life Albans in Italy; of the latter the river Tiof Jehoram among the Kings of Ifrael. Jehofa- ber (tormerly Albula) took name. phat reigned 25, years and died; he was bu- In Jehofaphats time also ruled Mecades or ried in the valley of Jehosaphat, and a part of Mezades in Athens: Agelas or Agesilans in Cothe Pyramis fet over his grave is yet to be rinth; and Archilaus of the same race of the large by Jehn the fon of Hanani. There lived with Jehosaphat, Ophratenes in Jehoram the Israelites.

of Edom, for facrifice, on the rampire of his Affyria, Capetus, and Tiberinus Kines of the

but, in feen, faith Brothard. His acts are written at Heraclidae the feventh in Lacedemon. Bade-

CHAP. XX.

Of Jehoram the fon of Jehosaphar, and Ahazia.

That Jehoram was made King fundry times.

the full power and execution of the royal prove.

is evident that his fon did not reign alone a league offentive and defentive between like regard is to be had in accounting the their own in quiet.

Ehoram the fon of Jehofaphat King of confounded with the years of their fuccessors Juda began to reign at thirty two years or foregoers and must therefore be found by of age, and lived until he was forty comparing their times with the years of those years old, being eight years a King: others, with whom they did begin and end. but of these eight years, which Jeho- It were perhaps a thing less needful than ram is faid to have reigned, four are to be curious, to enquire into the reasons moving reckened in the life of his father, who going JeboJaphat either to aflume unto him his flor to the Syrian war with Abab, left this Jebo- as partner in the Kingdom, whilft he was ram King in his stead, as Abab did his son A- able himself to command both in peace and bezia. This appears by the feveral begin- in war, the like having never been done by nings, which are given in Scripture to the anyof his progenitors, or having once (in the progenitor of the is faid to have begun his reign, in the feven- wife to defer the confirmation of it, until four teenth year of Tehosaphat. Tehoram the bro- or five years were palled. Yet forasauch as ther of Ahazia succeeded him in the 2. year to enter into the examination of these pas-Kin 17 of Jehoram the son of Jehosaphat King of Juda; sages, may be a mean to find some light, that is in the next year after that Jehoram of whereby we may more clearly discover the 1 King 3. Juda was defigned King by his father; it be- causes of much extraordinary business enfuing (as we find elsewhere) the eighteenth year ing, I hold it not amiss to make such conjeof Jeholaphat himself, who went with the Is- cture, as the circumstances of the story briefly raelites against Moab; Hereby it appears that handled in the Scriptures may feem to ap-office was retained still by Jehosaphat, who We are therefore to consider, that this governed absolutely by himself not commu-King Jehosaphat was the first of Kehoboams nicating the rule with his fon. But in the fifth illue that ever entred into any streight league 1810. 1. 1940 of Jehoram King of Ifrael, which was the with the Kings of the ten Tribes. All that two and twentieth of Jehofaphat, the old reigned in Juda before him, had with much King took unto him, as partner in the go- labour and long war, tired themselves in vernment, this his eldeft fon, who was at that vain, making small profit of the greatest adtime 32. years old, his father being 57. Now vantages that could be wished. Wherefore forasmuch as Jehosaphat reigned 25. years, it Jehosaphat thought it the wisest way, to make till the eighth of Joram King of Ifrael. The Ifrael and Juda, whereby each might enjoy times of other Kings of Juda and Ifrael, who This confederacy made by a religious King, chross, did not alwaies reign precifely folong as the with one that did hate the Lord, could not which it bare letter of the Text may feem at first to long prosper, as not issuing from the true root affirm: but their years were sometimes com- and fountain of all wisdom: yet as a piece of pleat, fometimes onely current, fometimes found policy, doubtless it wanted not air pretences

Снар. ХХ.

by likely to arile, with mutual fortification mean and unworthy perfonsin compartion of of both those Kingdoms, against the uncir- him, and of his children, which were begotcumcifed Nations their ancient enemies, ten upon the daughter and fifter of two great This apparent benefit, being to ineffimable a Kings, not upon base wemen, and meer subjewell, that it might not calify be loft, but jects. The Court of Akab, and his famous vicontinue as hereditary from father to fon, it ctories obtained against the Syrian Benhadad was thought a very good course to have it were matter sufficient to make an insolent confirmed by some ture bond of affinity, and man think highly of himself, as being allied thereupon was Athalia the daughter of Omri, fo honourably, who could otherwise have and fifter of Akab King of Ifract, given in found in his heart well enough, to despite all marriage to Jeheram, who was fon and heir his brethren, as being the eldeft, and heir apapparent to the King of Juda. This Lady parent to the Crown, where already he was of a masculine spirit, and had learned to had, in a manner, the policition. much of Queen Jezabel her brothers wife. How foon his vices brake out, or how that the durft undertake and could throughly perform a great deal more in Jerufalem, religion, it cannot certainly be known. Like than the other knew how to compas in 84 enough it is, that some smoke, out of the marit. She was indeed a five-brand ordai-hidden fire, did very foon make his fathers ned by God to confume a great part of the eyes to water; who thereupon caused the nobleft houses in Juda, and perhaps of those young man to know himself better, by makmen or their children, whole worldly wif-ing him fall back into rank among his dom, regardles of Gods pleasure, had younger brethren. And surely the doings of brought her in-

Juda and Ifrael did adventure equally, but the good King was fain to make his progress the profit of the victory flieuld have redoun-round about the Land, reclaiming the ded wholly to Abab: as godly Princes very people unto the service of God, and appointfriends, who being ill affected to God himfelf bour, if the religion taught & Grongly maincannot be well allected to his fervants. Be tained by Afa, and by himfelf, had not fuffered fore their fetting forth, Abab defigned, as alteration, and the courfe of Juffice been per-King, his son Abasiab; not so much perhaps verted, by the power of such as had born auin regard of the uncertain events of war thority. But the necessity that then was ofre-(for none of his predecediors had ever done formation, appears by the charge which the the like, upon the like occasions) nor as fear-King did give to the Judges, and by his coming the threatnings of the prophet Michain million given to one of the Priests in fa-(for he despised them) as inviting Jehosaphar ritual causes, and to the Steward of his wherein he prevailed.

house of Achab.

often, in making his fon Jehoram King.

large. Much vain matter flie was able to pro- appearing substantial, were wanting. Jehoduce, whereby to make her husband think ram of Ifrael held the same correspondency pretences of much common good there-that his brethren and kindred were but Jehosaphat about the same time, argue no smal The first fruits of this great league, was diffemper of the whole country, through the Syrian war at Ramoth Gilead, wherein the milgovernment of his ungodly fon. For by his own example, to take the same course, house in temporal matters, to be general over-feers.

This was not till after the death of Ahazia the fon of Abab; but how long after it is uncertain. For Jehoram the brother of Ahazia Probable conjectures of the motives inducing began his reign ( as hath been already nothe old king Jehosaphat to change his purpose ted) in the eighteenth of Jehosaphat, which was then accounted the second of Jehoram, Jehosaphat's fon, though afterward this Jeho-Any arguments do very strongly prove ram of Juda had another first and second year, even in his fathers time, before he led by his wife, especially for his forfaking reigned alone, as the best Chronologers and the religion of his godly Ancestors, and fol- Expositors of the holy Text agree. So he conlowing the abominable superstitions of the tinued in private estate, until the two and twentieth of his fathers reign, at which time, That the was a woman of intollerable though the occasions inducing his restitupride, and abhorring to live a private life, the tion to former dignity are not let down, yet whole course of her actions witnesseth at we may not think, that motives thereto, made tife of it.He drew the Judeans into the for company many great men of the Land, war of Maab, at which time it might well be, such belike as either had taken their part, that the young Prince of Juda was again or- when the Tyrant fought their lives, or had dained King by his father, as in the syrian been appointed Rulers of the Country. damed rang by his latter, as in the systam when Jekoram was depeled from his governther to think, that the preparations for the ment; in which office they, without forbeaenterprize against Moab did not occupy so ring to do justice, could hardly avoid the much time, as from the eighteenth of Jekofa- doing of many things derogatory to their plat, in which year that Nation rebeiled a- young Mafter; which if he would now call gainst Ifrael unto his two and twentieth; yet treaton, faying that he was then King, whothe daily negotiations between the two durft fay the contrary? Kings of Juda and Ifrael, and the affinity be- After this Jehoram took upon him, as berween them contracted in the person of fe- ing now Lord alone to make invasions in horam might offer some good occasions there- Religion, wherein he was not contented, as unto. Neither isit certain how the behaviour other Idolatrous Princes, to give way and of the younger fons, in their elder brothers fafe conduct unto Superfition and Idolatry, diffrace, might cause their father to put him nor to provoke and encourage the people in possession for fear of tumult after his to that fin, whereto it is wonderful that deaths or the deep diffigulation of Jekoram they were to much addicted, having such himself might win the good opinion both of knowledge of God, and of his detecting that his Father and Brethen; it being a thing above all other fins; but he used compulusual in mischievous fell natures, to be as ab- sion, and was (if not the very first) the first ject and servile in time of adversity, as info- that is registred, to have set up irreligion by lent and bloody upon advantage. This is force. manifest, that being repossessed of his former estate, he demeaned himself in such wise to- ing what he listed, the Edomites his Tributaward his brethren, as caused their tather to ries rebelled against him abroad; and haenable them, not only with store of silver and ving hitherto since David's time, been govergold, and of precious things, (which kind of ned by a Vice-Roy, did now make unto liberality other Kings doubtless had used themselves a King. Against these Jehoram in if it might have been, by unwonted means, with which he obtained victory in the field, against unwonted perils.

6. III.

The doings of Jehoram when he reigned alone and the rebellion of Edom and Libna.

their brother, then had he them without even in ferusalem it self. any more adoe; if they stood upon their | The freedom of the Edomites, though purguard, then were they Traytors, and foun-chased somewhat dearly, encouraged Libin the very beginning. Howfoever it was, ling enemies to Juda, and therefore so unlike-

with Jekofiphat that his father had done; and they were all taken and flain, and with them

Whilft he was thus bufied at home, in dounto their younger fons) but with the cu- person made an expedition, taking along flody of ftrong Cities in Juda, to affure them, with him his Princes, and all his Chariots; compelling the Rebels to fly into their places of advantage, whereof he forced no one, but went away contented with the honour that he had gotten in beating and killing fome of those whom he should have subdued, and kept his fervants. Now began the prophecy of Ilase to take effect wherein he foretold that Efau in process of time should break the yoke of Jacob. For after this the Edo-Dut all this providence availed nothing; mites could never be reclaimed by any of Dior an higher providence had otherwise the Kings of Juda, but held their own so determined of the fequel. When once the well, that when, after many civil and forrein good old man, their Father, was dead, the wars, the Jews by fundry Nations had been younger fons of Jehosaphat found strong Ci- brought low; Antipater the Edomite, with ties, a weak defence, against the power of Herod his son, and others of that race followhimunto whom the Citizens were obedient. ing them, became Lords of the Jews, in the If they came in upon the summons of a King decrepit age of Ifrael, and reigned as Kings, able to hold out against him, who besides na, a great City within Juda, which in the his own power, was able to bring the forces time of Joshua had a peculiar King, to rebel of the Ifraelitish Kingdom against them; so against jehoram, and set it self in liberty. that the apparent likelihood of their final Libna food in the confines of Benjamin and overthrow, fufficed to make all forfake them of Dan far from the affiftance of any bordernued a free state. The rebellion of it against might have been dreadful unto others. Jehoram, was, Because he had forfaken the , com at Lord God of his Fathers; which I take to have not only been the first and remote cause, but even the next and immediate reason, moving of the miseries falling upon Jehoram, and of the inhabitants to do as they did: for it was a Town of the Levites; who must needs be driven into great extremities, when a religion, contrary to Gods Law, had not onely any impression of Gods displeasure in feme allowance to countenance it by the the mind of the wicked Prince a Prophecy King but compulfive authority to force unto in writing was delivered to him, which (according to the trust reposed in them) neg- heaven to St. Giles. het in ducharging their duties, likely it is that he meant to be even with them, & make threatning Epistle, the accomplishment of the them now to feel, as many Princes of the prophecy was as terrible as the fentence.

ches.

ly it was to have maintained it felf in liber- But it feems that of those great numbers ty, that it may feem frrange how it could e- which his father could have levied, there scape from utter destruction, or at the least were not many which Jehoram could well from some terrible vengeance, most likely trust; and therefore perhaps he thought it an to have been taken by their powerful, ruel, easier loss to let one Town goe, then to put and throughly incented Lord. The Ifrae-weapons into their hands, who were more lite held fuch good intelligence at that time likely to follow the example of Libna, than with Juda, that he would not have accepted to punish it. So desperate is the condition of the Town, had it offered it felf unto him: Tyrants, who thinking it a greater happiness neither do we read that it fought how to to be feared than to be loved, are fain themcalt it felf into a new subjection, but conti- selves to stand in fear of those, by whom they

his death.

it all that were unwilling. As for the use of threatned both his people, his children, his the Temple at Jerusalem (which, being de- wives, and his wen body. Hereby likewise it vout men, they might fear to lose by this re-bellion ) it was never denied to those of the Gods servants; in as much as the Prophets ten revolted Tribes by any of the Religious durft not reprove him to his face, as they had Kings, who rather invited the Ifraelites this done many of his predeceffors, both good ther, and gave them kind entertainment: un- and evil Kings; but were fain to denounce der Idolaters they must have been without Gods judgements against him by letters, keeit, whether they lived free, or in subjection. ping themselves close and far from him. This Yet it feems that private reasons were not Epistle is said to have been sent unto him wanting, which might move them rather to from Elias the Prophet. But Elias was tran- 1 climit do than suffer that which was unwarranta-flated, and Elizeus prophesied in his stead in ble. For in the general visitation before rebefore this time, even in the daies of Jebofa 1861.

membered wherein Tebofahhar reformed his labet. Wherefore it may be about 1861. membred, wherein Jehosaphat reformed his phat. Wherefore it may be that Elias left this kingdom, the good old King appointing new prophecy in writing behind him, or that (as Governours, and giving them effectial fome conjecture) the errour of one letter in charge to do justice without respect of per-fors, used these words; The Lewiter shall be for Elizeus. Indeed any thing may rather be officers before you; Be of good courage, and do believed than the Tradition held by some it, and the Lord shall be with the good. By these of the Jewish Rabbins, that Elias from heaven phrases, it seems, that he encouraged them did send this Epistle; a tate somewhat like against the more powerful, than just proceet to the fable of our Ladies letters, devised by dings of his fon; whom if the Levites did Erasmus, or of the Verse that was sent from

But whosoever was the Authour of this land had done, his heavy indignation. How For the Philistims and Arabians brake into it happened that Libna was not hereupon Judea, and took the Kingshouse, wherein destroyed, yea, that it was not (for ought that they found all, or many of his children, and we can read) so much as belieged or mole- wives, all which they slew, or carried away, Sted,may justly seem very strange. And the with great part of his goods. These philimere strange it is in regard of the mighty strains which Jehosaphat was able to raise, with the strains which Jehosaphat was able to raise, with the make any offensive warre till now; being fufficient to have over-whelmed any for they were by him almost consumed, and one Town, and buried it under the earth, had lost the best of their Towns, mainwhich they might well in one moneth have taining themselves in the rest of their small cast into it with shovels, by ordinary approa- territories, by defensive arms, to which they снар. ХІХ. were constrained at Gibbethon by the Ifrae- | was fo large and populous: and therefore hes. The Arabians were likely to have been having done what spoil they could, withthen, as they are now, a naked people, all drew themselves with such purchase as they horsemen, and ill appointed; their Country were able safely to conveigh away. effording no other furniture, than fuch as The flaughter committed by Tekn on the

of the History of the World.

might make them fitter to rob and spoil in two and sorty brethren of Ahazia, or (as they the open fields, than to offend ftrong Cities, are called eliewhere) fo many of his brothers fuch as were thick fet in Juda. True it is, that fons, and the cruel mailacre wherein all the men as were than a set of the world then known, under the tyranny of Athalia, following in a very short space of time, destroying within two years after this invasion of the fome, and building other fome very ftately Philistims and Arabians, make it seem proba-Cities. But it must be considered, that this ble, that the sons of Jehoram were not all was when they had learned of the Romans flain at once, but that rather the first murthe Art of War; and that the provisions ther began in his own time, and was seconwhich they found, together with the Arts ded by many other heavy blows, wherewith which they learned, in one subdued Pro- his house was incessantly striken, until it was vince,did make them able and skilful in purin a manner quite hewed down. fuing their conquest, and going on into Regi- After these calamities, the hand of God ons far removed from them. At this day ha- was extended against the body of this wicving loft in effect all that they had gotten, ked King, smiting him with a grievous dissuch of them as live in Arabia it self are good case in his bowels, which lest him not until horsemen, but ill appointed; very danger- his guts fell out, and his wretched soul deous to passengers, but unable to deal with parted from his miserable carkass. The good Souldiers, as riding stark naked, and people of the Land, as they had small cause rather trusting in the swiftness of their horses of comfort in his life, so had they not the than in any other means of refiftance, where good manners to pretend forrow for his they are well opposed. And such, or little death; wherefore he was denied a place of better, may they seem to have been, that better, may they seem to have been, that fooled Judea in the time of Jehoran. For their Country was alwayes barren and denin the Kingdom, who was guided by the fart, wanting manual Arts whereby to supply fame spirits that had been his Fathers evil the naturals with furniture: neither are these Angels. Athalia had other matters to troubands named as chief in that action, but ra- ble her head, than the pompous interring of ther adherents of the Philiftims. Out of this a dead hufband. She vvas thinking how we may infer, that one half, yea, or one quartor provide for the future, to maintain her terof the numbers found in the least muster own greatness, to retain her favourites in of Juda and Benjamin under Jehosaphat their authority, and to place about her (wherein were inrolled three hundred and Son fuch Counsellours of the house of Ahab , 2 chros. eighty thousand fighting men ) had been e- as vvere fittest for her turn. Wherefore 14.4.

by the policy of the Philistims.

nough to have driven away far greater for- fhe thought it unscasonable to make much ces than these enemies are likely to have a-dce about a thing of nothing, and offend brought into the field, had not the people the peoples eyes, with a ftately funeral of been unable to deal with them, for lack of a man by them detefted: but rather chose weapons, which were now kept from them to let the blame of things patied be laid upby their Princes jealousie, as in Saul's time on the dead, than to procure an ill opinion of her felf and hers, which it now did con-It may feem that the house of the King cern her to avoid. Such is the quality of which these invaders took, was not his Palace vvicked instigators, having made greedy in ferusalem, but rather some other house of use of bad imployments, to charge, not only his abroad in the Country, where his wives vith his own vices, but with their faults aland children at that time lay for their recre- fo, the man vvhose evil inclinations their finiation: because we read not that they did ster counsels have made worse, vohen once fack the City, or spoil the Temple, which he is gone, and can profit them no longer. would have invited them as a more commo- The death of Jehoram fell out indeed in a budious booty, had they got possession thereof. sie time; when his friend and cousin the Isra-Yet perhaps they took Jerusalem it self by elite, who had the same name, was entangled surprize, the people being disarmed, and the in a difficult War against the Aramite; and Kings guard too weak to keep them out; yet therefore could have no better leafure to had not the courage to hold it, because it help Athalia, in setting of things according to her own mind, than he had (perhaps Coulin the Ifraelite against Rameth Gilead. through the same hinderance) to help her which they wan, but not without blows; for the stiffance of the men of Juda, for the ta- which escaped not unwounded. king in of Kamoth Gilead, where they had The Town being won, was manned

they were very fairly intreated. thought good to handle the more particu-with more quiet he might attend the curing larly (purfuing the examination of all occur-of his wounds; and Abazia returned to Jerences as far as the circumstances remembred |rusalem.It seems that he was but newly come in holy Scripture would guide me by their home (for he reigned in all feantly eneyear, directions ) to the end that it might more whereof the former expedition, with the plainly appear, how the corrupted affections preparations for it, had taken up a great of men, impugning the revealed will of God, part) when he did make a new journey, as it accomplish nevertheless his hidden purpose, were for good manners sake to visit the King and without miraculous means, confound of Israel, who lay fore of his wounds. Belike themselves in the sceming-wise devices of Athalia was brewing some new plots, which their own folly: as likewise to the end that his presence would have hindered, and all men might learn to fubmit their judge- therefore fought every occasion to thrust ments to the ordinance of God, rather than him abroad: for otherwise it was but a vain to think, that they may fafely dispense with piece of work so to leave his kingdom, hahis commandements, and follow the prudent ving no other business than by way of comconceits which worldly wisdom distateth plement to go see one whom he had seen yeunto them. For in such kind of unhappy subtilities, it is manifest that *athalia* was able to ved at this time to put in execution that heafurnith both her Husband and her Son; but vy judgement, which he had laid by the the islue of them partly hath appeared al- mouth of Elias the Prophet upon the house ready, and partly will appear, in that which of Ahab. And hereupon at this time had he immediatly followeth.

the King of Ifrael.

in the twelfth year of Jehoram the son of der and examine. Abab King of Ifrael, and reigned but one year. Touching his age, it is a point of much more difficulty than importance to know it: vet hath it bred much disputation, whereof How Ahazia perished with the house of Ahab: I fee no more probable conclusion than that of Torniellus, alledging the Edition of the Septuagint at Rome, Anno Domini 1588.

The whole Army of Ifrael, with all the which faith that he was twenty years old in the beginning of his kingdom; and the Anlead, a Disciple of Elizem the Prophet came Septuagint at Rome, Anno Domini 1588. notations thereupon, which cite other Co- in among the Captains that were fitting topies, that do give him two years more. Like gether; who calling out among them Jehn, enough he is to have been young: for he was a principal man, took him apart, and anointgoverned by his Mother, and her Ministers, ed him King over Israel, rehearing unto him who gave him counsel, by which he perished. the Prophecy of Elias against the house of In matter of Religion he altered none of his Ahab, and letting him understand that it was fathers courses. In matter of State he like- the pleasure of God to make him executiowife upheld the league made with the house ner of that sentence. The fashion of the Mefof Ahab. He was much bussed in doing little, senger was such as bred in the Captains a de-husband, when he was diffrested by the Thi- the Aramtes fought fo well, that the King of lition: Yea, rather he needed and craved Ifrael was fain to adventure his own perion.

not sped so well the last time, that they strengly, in expectation of some attempt should willingly run thither again, unless likely to be made by HazaelKing of Aram: which done, Jekoram King of Ifrael with-The acts of this wicked man I have drew himself to the City of Jezrael, where disposed not onely the concurrence of all other things, which in mans eyes might feem to have been accidental, but the very thoughts and affections of fuch persons, as intended §. V. and affections of fuch persons, as intended of the reign of Ahazia, and his business with nothing less than the fulfilling of his high pleasure. Of these Athalia doubtless was one; whose mischievous purposes it will Chazias, or Akazia, the son of Jehoram shortly be needful, for explanation of some and Athalia, began his reign over Juda, difficulties arising, that we diligently considerable to the constant of the consta and kow that Family was destroyed by Jehu.

and that with ill success. He accompanied his fire to know the errand, which Jehn thought CHAP: XIX. meet to let them know, as doubting wheel tidings were brought in, that the watchman When he had acquainted them vvith the coming. These news were not very troubleperform it.

than Gods. visit the King.

now the prophecy of Elias might be forgot- but that he was arrefted by a Wound, which ten, or no otherwise remembred, than as an held him till death did seize upon him. unlikely tale by them that beheld the maje-

which was already atchieved, and the Queen-mother dreffing her felf in the bravest manner to some down amongst them; Apoplithegme that should express her brave

ther they had over-heard all the talk or no. had from a Tower discovered a company vyhole matter, they made no delay, but some for the Army that lay in Ramoth Gileforthwith proclaimed him King. For the ad, to be ready against all attempts of the Prophecy of Elias vvas vveil known among Aramites, was likely enough to be discharthem, neither durft any one oppose himself ged upon some notice taken that the enemy against him, that was by God ordained to would not, or could not stir. Onely the King fent out an Horse-man to know what the Telm, who had upon the fudden this great matter was, and to bring him word. The mefhonour thrown upon him, vvas not flow to fenger coming to Jehn, and asking whether put himself in pottession of it, but used the all were well, was retained by him, who infirst heat of their affections, vvho joyned tended to give the King as little warning as with him, in fetting on foot the buliness might be. The feeming negligence of this which nearly concerned him, and was not fellow in not returning with an answer, tobe fore-flowed, being no more his own might argue the matter to be of small importance : yet the King to be fatisfied, fent out The first care vvas that no news of the re- another that should bring him vvord how volt might be carried to Jezreel, vvhereby all vvent; and he vvas likewise detained by the King might have had vvarning either to Jehn. These dumb shews bred some suspicion fight or fleeithis being foreseen, he marched in Jeboram, vvhom the Watchman certified fwiftly away, to take the Court vvhile it vvas of all that happened. And now the company yet fecure. King Jehoram vvas now fo vvell drew fo near, that they might, though not recovered of his Wounds, that he could en- perfectly, be discerned, and notice taken of dure to ride abroad, for vyhich cause it Jehn himself by the surious manner of his feems that there vvas much tealting, and joy marching. Wherefore the King that vvas made, especially by Queen Jezabel, who kept loth to discover any vveaknes, caused his her state so well, that the brethren of Abazia Chariot to be made ready, and issued forth coming thither at this time, did make it as with Abazia King of Juda in his company, well their errand to falute the Queen, as to whose presence added majesty to his train, when strength to relist, or expedition to flee. Certain it is, that fince the rebellion of had been more needful. This could not be Mosh against If-sel, the house of Abab did done so hastily, but that Jehn was come even never formuch flourish as at this time. Seventy to the towns end, and there they mer each Princes of the bloud Royal there were that other in the field of Naboth. Jehorani began lived in Samaria; Jehoram the son of Queen to salute Jehu with terms of peace, but re-Jezabel had won Ramoth Gilead, which his ceiving a bitter answer, his heart failed him, Father had attempted in vain, with loss of so that crying out upon the treason to his his life; and he won it by valiant fight, where-in he received wounds, of which the danger But Jehn foon overtook him with an arrow, was now paft, but the honour likely to con-wherewith he ftruck him dead, and threw tinue. The amity was fo great between Ifrael his carkafs into that field, which, purchased and Juda, that it might suffice to daunt all with the bloud of the rightful owner, was to their common enemies, leaving no hope of be watered with the bloud of the unjust fucces to any rebellious enterprizer; so that possessor. Neither did Abazia escape so well,

The Kings Palace was joyning to the flical face of the Court, wherein fo great a wall, by the gate of the City, where fexabel ritend as the King of Juda was entertained, and forty Princes of his blood expected. In the middest of this security, whilest Now it was high time for her to call to God these great Estates were (perhaps) either for mercy, whose judgment, pronounced aconsulting about profecution of their in- gainft her long before, had overtaken her, tents, first against the Aramites, and then a- when she least expected it. But she full of ingainst Moal, Edom, and other rebels and ene- dignation and proud thoughts, made her felf mics: or elfe were triumphing in joy of that ready in all hafte, and painted her face, ho-

CHAP. XXI.

might make him odious for ever. Little did in the eyes of men; of men that confidered the think upon the hungry dogs that were not the judgments of God that had been deordained to devour her, whose paunches the nounced against her. fibium, with which the beforeared her eyes, So perithed this accurled woman by the would more offend, than the foolding lan-rude hands of her own fervants, at the comcourse wherewith the armed her tongue mandment of her greatest enemy, that was could trouble the ears of him that had her yesterday her subject, but now her Lord; and in his power. As John drew near, the opened the perithed milerably, ftrugling in vain with her window, and looking out upon him, be- base grooms, who contumeliously did hale gan to put him in mind of Zimri, that had not and thrust her, whilest her insulting enemy long enjoyed the fruits of his treason, and sate on horse-back, adding indignity to her murther of the King his Master. This was in grief by scornful beholding the shameful meer humane valuation froutly spoken, but manner of her fall, and trampling her body was indeed a part of miserable folly; as are under foot. Her dead carkass that was left all things, howfoever laudable, if they have without the Walls, was devoured by dogs, an ill relation to God the Lord of all. Her own and her very memory vvas odious. Thus the Eunuchs that frood by and heard her, were vengeance of God rewarded her Idolatry, not affected fo much as with any compassion murther, and oppression, with slow, but sure of her fortune; nach less was her enemy payment, and full interest. daunted with her proud ipirit. When Jehn Ahazia King of Juda fleeing a-pace from faw that the did use the little remainder of Jehn, was overtaken by the way where he her life in seeking to vex him, he made her lurked; and receiving his deadly Wound prefently to understand her own estate, by in the Kingdom of Samaria, was suffered to deeds and not by words. He only called to get him gone (which he did in all hafte) and her fervants to know which of them would leek his burial in his own Kingdom: and this be on his fide, and foon found them ready to favour he obtained for his Grand-fathers offer their fervice before the very face of fake, not for his Fathers nor his own. He died their proud Lady. Hereupon he commanded at Megiddo, and was thence carried to Jeruthem to calt her down head-long: which im- falem, where he was enterred with his Ancemediately they performed, without all re- stors, having reigned about one year. gard of her greatness and citate, wherein she foiring and brand him with fuch a repreach as had a few hours before shined so gloriously

CHAP. XXI.

Of Athalia; and whose son he was that succeeded her.

§. I.
Of Athalia's usurping the Kingdom, and what pretences she might forge.

Athalia upon the death of her they faw or heard.

fon have given occation to divers opinions

Yet ambition, how violent foever it be, is concerning the Pedigree of Joas, who reign-feldom or never fo shameless as to refuse the ed shortly after. For Athalia being thus dis-commodity of goodly pretences offering poiled of her son under whose name she had themselves; but rather scrapes together all ruled at her pleasure, did forthwith lay hold that will any way serve to colour her proupon all the Princes of the blood, and flew ceedings. Wherefore it were not abfurd for them, that fo the might occupy the Royal us to think, that Athalia, when the faw the Throne her felf, and reign as Queen, rather Princes of the Royal bloud, all of them in a than live a Subject. She had before-hand put manner, flain by her hufband, and afterwards into great place, and made Counsellors unto his own children destroyed by the Philistims.

Fter the death of Ahazia, it is very likely; and as likely it is that the great faid that his house was not able execution done by Jehoram, upon the Printo retain the Kingdom: which ces, and many of the Nobility, had made the Note, and the proceedings of people tame, and fearful to ftir, whatfoever her fon, such as were fittest for her purpose, and ready at all times to execute her will: ducing by artificial practice, into fair likelithat she kept a strong guard about her, it is hoods, those possibilities wherewith her hus-

hands bad fortune had prefented her. Not, vyomen yyas young and unable to relift. We without great flew of reason, either by her plainly find that the Brethren or Nephews own mouth, or by some trusty creature of hers of Ahazia, to the number of two and forty: might she give him to understand, how need- vvere sent to the Court of Ifrael, only to saful it were to take the best order whilst as yet lute the children of the King, and the chilhe might, for fear of the worst that might dren of the Queen. The flender occasion happen. If the iffue of David, which now remained only in his family, should by any acci-ther viith the quality of these persons (bedent fail (as wofull experience had already ing in effect all the stock of Tekoram that the wed what might after come to pass) the could be grown to any strength ) makes it people of Juda were not unlikely to choose a very suspicious, that their entertainment King of some new stock, a popular seditious in jezabels house would onely have been man peradventure, one that to countenance more formall, but little differing in subhis own unworthiness, would not care what stance, from that which they found at the afpersions he laid upon that Royal house, hand of Jehn. He that looks into the courwhich was fallen down. And who could affure less held both before and after by thefe two him, that fome ambitious spirit, fore-feeing Queens, will find cause enough to think what might be gotten thereby, did not alrea- no lefs. Of fuch as have afoired unto Lorddy contrive the destruction of him, and all his ships not belonging to them, and thrust feed? Wherefore it were the wifest way to out the right Heirs by pretence of Testadefign by his authority, not only his successor, ments, that had no other validity than the but also the reversioner, and so to provide, sword of such as claimed by them could give, that the Crown might never be subject to any Histories of late, yea of many Ages, afford rifling, but remain in the disposition of them plentiful examples: and the rule of Salocould not retain it.

Such perswasions being urged, and ear- a King might shed his brothers blood, was neftly followed by the importunate follicita- proved by Salomon upon Adonia; that he tion of her that governed his affections, were might alien the Crown from his natural able to make the jealous Tyrant think, that Heirs, David had given proof; but these had the onely way to frustrate all devices of such, good ground of their doings. They which to uphold the first and eldest.

happen, whilest her husbands issue by other seeming security.

that loved him belt, if the worst that might mon is true: Is there any thing whereof one be feared comming to pals, his own posterity may (ay, Behold, this is new? It hath been al- Eccles, 13 ready in the old time that was before us. That as gaped after a change, was to make her heir follow examples that please them, will negthe last and youngest of his house, whom it lest the reasons of those examples, if they most concerned, as being the QueenMother, please them not, and rest contented with the practice, as more willing by shewing what If Athalia took no such course as this in her they may doe, than acknowledging why Sahusbands time, yet might she do it in her sons. lomon slew his brother that had begun one com. 12. For Ahazia (befides that he was wholly ruled rebellion, and was entring into another. Je- 13: by his mother ) vvas not likely to take much horam flew all his brethren, which were better care for the security of his half-brethren, or than he: David purchased the Kingdom and their children; as accounting his Fathers o- might the more freely dispose of it, yet he disther wives, in respect of his own-born-Mo- posed of it as the Lord appointed: if Jehother, little better than Concubines, and their ram, who had lost much and gotten nothing, children basely begotten. But if this mischie- thought that he might alien the remainder vous woman forgat her felf so far in her wick- at his pleasure; or if Abazia sought to cut off ed policy, that the loft all opportunity which the fuccession of his brethren, or of their the vycakness of her husband and son did af- issue; either of these was to be answered ford of procuring unto her felf some seeming with the words which Jehojada the Priest u-Title; yet could the afterwards feign fome fed afterwards, in declaring the title of Joafts: fuch matter, as boldly she might: being sure Echold, the Kings son must reign; as the Lord that none vould ask to see her evidence, bath said of the son of David. Wherefore for fear of being fent to learn the certainty though I hold it very probable, that Athalia of her son or husband in another World. did pretend some title, whatsoever it might But I rather think that she took order for be, to the Crown of Juda; yet it is most cerher affairs before-hand. For though the tain that the had thereunto no right at all, had no reason to suspect or sear the sudden but only got it by treachery, murder, and death of her fon, yet it was the wifest yvay open violence, and so she held it six whole to provide betimes against all that might years, and a part of the seventh, in good

Ggg

Hopp

CHAP. XXI.

. could not molest Athalia.

likely to defire being an enemy to her whole the means of holding it. House. But he was occupied at the first in This ingratitude of Jehn drew terrible venestablishing himself, rooting out the poster grance of God upon Israel, whereof Hazael rity of Abab, and reforming somewhat in King of Damascus was the executioner. The Religion: afterwards in wars against the cruelty of this barbarous Prince we may find monuments of that impicty.

ferve; he would needs help to piece out Gods reposed all their confidence. providence with his own circumspection; doing therein like a foolish greedy gamester, who by frealing a needless Card to affure himfelf of vyinning a frake forfeits his whole test. He had questionless displeased many, by that which he did against Baal; and many more he thould oftend by taking from them was that Idolatry of Jeroboam. Yet all thefe, how many foever they were, had never How John front his time in Ifract, fo that he once thought upon making him King, if God. whom (to retain them) he now forfook. had not given him the Crown, when more IN all this time Ichu did never goe about difficulties appeared in the way of getting to diffurb her; which in reason he was it, than could at any time after be found in

Aramites, wherein he was fo far overcharg- in the Prophecy of Elizeus, who fore-told it, ed . that hardly he could retain his own, faying: Their strong Cities shalt thou fet on : King 3. much less attempt upon others. Of the line fire; and their young men fialt thou flay with so of Abab there were seventy living in S. m.z. the fword, and fialt dall their Infants against ria, out of which number John by letter ad-the slower, and final table their momen with vised the Citizens to set up some one as child. So did not only the wickedness of A-King, and to prepare themselves to fight in bab cause the ruine of his whole house, but his defence. Hereby might they gather how the obstinate Idolatry of the people bring a confident he was; which they well under-lamentable mifery upon all the Land. For frood to proceed from greater power about the fury of Hazaels victory was not quenchhim, than they could gather to refult him. ed with the destruction of a few towns, nor Wherefore they took example by the two wearied with one invalion; but he smote Kings whom he had flain, and being excee- them in all the coaft of Ifrael, and wasted all dingly afraid of him, they offered him their the Country beyond the River of Jordan. : Rivers fervice; wherein they to readily shewed Notwithstanding all these calamities, it seems 34 themselves obedient, that in less than one that the people repented not of their Idodaies warning, they fent him the heads of all latry; (For in thefe daies the Lord began to those Princes, as they were enjoyned by a loath Ifrael;) but rather it is likely, that they second letter from him. After this he surpri- bemoaned the noble house of Ahab, under zed all the Priefts of Baal by a fubtilty, feig- which they had beaten those enemies to ning a great facrifice to their god, by which whom they were now a prey, & had bravemeans he drew them all together into one ly fought for the conquest of Syria, where Temple, where he flew them: and in the they had enlarged their border, by winning fame zeal to God utterly demolished all the Ramoth Gilead, and compelled Benhadad to restore the Cities which his Father had won: Concerning the Idolatry devised by Je- whereas now they were fain to make woful roboam, no King of Ifrael had ever greater shifts, living under a Lord that had better reason than leby to deltroy it. For he needed, fortune and courage in murdering his master not to fear left the people should be allured that had put him in trust, than in defending unto the house of David; it vvas (in appea- his people from their cruel enemies. Thus it rance) quite rooted up, and the Crown of commonly falls out, that they who can find Juda in the polletion of a cruel Tyrannels: all manner of difficulties in ferving him, to he had received his kingdom by the unex- whom nothing is difficult, are in fread of the pected grace of God; and further in regard ease & the pleasure to themselves propoun-of his zeal expressed in destroying Baal out ded by contrary courses, overwhelmed with of Ifrael, he was promifed notwithstanding the troubles which they sought to avoid; his following the in of Jeroboam, that the and therein by God, whom they first forsook, kingdom should remain in his Family to the forsaken, and left unto the wretched labours fourth Generation. But all this would not of their own blind wildom, wherein they had

6. III. Of Athaliah's Government.

Hele calamities falling upon Ifrael, kept Athalia fafe on that fide giving her leithe use of superstation, so long practised as sure to look to things at home: as having like. And some probability that she did so, may be gathered out of that which is recorman micked Athalia and her children brake up the out, when his body was missing; nor any tracted for his fake.

For the poverty of that facred Tribe of Levi the thanks due to their joyful tidings. must needs have been exceeding great at this time, all their lands and possessions in the ten Tribes being utterly loft, the oblations and other perquifites, by which they lived, being now very few and fmall; and the ftore, laid up in better times under godly Kings, being all taken away by shameful robbery. Yet God, and the daily facrifice keeping daily their courses, and performing obedience to the high Pricft, no less than in those dayes wherein their entertainment was far better.

§. IV. of the preservation of Joas.

little to do abroad, unless it were fo that the | her to be fuch as the was. By her care Josib held some correspondency with Hazael, pre- the young Prince that reigned soon after. tending therein to imitate her Husbands was conveighed out of the nursery, when 4-Grand-father King Afa, who had done the thalia destroyed all the Kings children, and was carried fecretly into the Temple, where as fecretly he was brought up. How it came ded of her doings. For we find, that this to pass that this young child was not hunted kome of God, and all things that were dedicate great reckoning (for ought that we find ) for the house of the Lord did they bestow upon made of his escape, I will not stand to exam-Baalini. Such a facriledge, though it pro- ine: for it was not good in policy, that the ceeded from a defire to let out her own Ido- people should hear fay, that one of the childlatry, with such pomp as might make it the ren had avoyded that cruel blow; it might more glorious in the peoples eyes, was not have made them hearken after innovations likely to want some fair pretext of necessity and so be the less conformable to their preof the State fo requiring: in which case o- sent government. So Joash was delivered out thers before her had made bold with that of that flaughter, he and his nurse being holy place, and her next successour was fain gone no man could tell whither, and might to do the like, being thereunto forced by be thought peradventure to be cast away, Hazael, who perhaps was delighted with the as having no other guard than a poor Wotalte of that which was formerly thence ex- man that gave him fuck, who foolifhly doubting that the her felf thould have been Under this impious government of Athalia, flain, was fled away with him into some dethe devotion of the Priests and Levites was solate place, where it was like enough that very notable, and ferved (no doubt) very the and he should perish. In such cases flattemuch to retain the people in the Religion rers, or men defirous of reward, eafily coin taught by God himself, howsoever the such tales, and rather swear them to be true Queens proceedings advanced the contrary. in their own knowledge, than they will lose

they up-held in all this mifery the service of Whether Joas may be thought likely to have been the Son of Ahazia.

Ow concerning this Joafh, whose fon he was, it is a thing of much difficulty to affirm, and hath caused much controversie among Writers. The places of Scripture, which call him the fon of Ahazia, feem plain 2 King. 12 enough. How any figure of the Hebrew through, language might give title of Son unto him. [Ebojada then occupied the high Priest- in regard that he was his Successiour, I hood, an honourable, wife, and religi- neither by my felf can find, nor can by any ous man. To his carefulness it may be as- help of Authors learn how to answer the cribed, that the state of the Church was in difficulties appearing in the contrary opinifome flender fort up-held in those unhappy one of them, that think him to have been, times. His Wife was Jehoshabeth, who was or not, the natural fon of Ahaziah. For daughter of King Fehoram, and fifter to Aha- whereas it is faid, that the house of Ahazia 2 Chro. 22; zia, a godly Lady and vertuous, whose piety was not able to retain the Kingdome; some 9. makes it feem that Athalia was not her Mo- do inferre that this Joash was not properly ther, though her access to the Court argue called his son, but was the next of his kindthe contrary: but her discreet carriage red, and therefore succeeded him, as son might more easily procure her welcome to in the inheritance of his Father. And hereher own Fathers house, than the education unto the murder committed by Athalia, under such a Mother could have permitted doth very well agree. For she perceiving that the Mothers to their Children. ten requireth it, yea, when all humane poliwithout reason would have perswaded.

||. II. That Joas did not descend from Nathan.

in that which is related, than to shew how it might have otherwise been ) the pedigree of this Joash is, by them which think him not the fon of Abazia, fet down in fuch fort, that it may very justly be suspected, thought upon, me thinks it were not amis They say, that he descended from Nathan to open at once, and peruse together two whence) of two Families of the race of Da- Saphat King of Juda, for which he and his vid, faying, that the line of salomon held the children perished, rehearseth it as one of Kingdom with this condition, that if at any Gods mercies towards the house of David, time it failed, the Family of Nathan should that according to his promise he would give fucceed it. Concerning this Nathan the fon him a light, and to his children for ever: the of David, there are that would have him to other doth fay, that for the offences of the be Nathan the Prophet, who, as they think, same Jehoram, there was not a son left him, R & 27008. 3. of David, by Bathfua the daughter of Ammes, and Arabians upon the children of Jehoram, and therefore could not be the Prophet. one of the feed of David escaped; why may mothers to their Nephews, is little less than not our bleffed Saviour iffued from the loins of David, according to the flesh, but had on-This argument is very strong. For it may ly been of his line by courtesie of the Natifeem incredible, that all natural affection on, and form of law, as any other might have should be cast aside, when as neither necessi- been. As for the authority of Philo, which ty urgeth, nor any commodity thereby got- hath drawn many late Writers into the opinion that Foash was not of the posterity of cy doth teach one the same, which nature Salomon, it is enough to say, that this was Frier Annius his Philo: for no other edition of Phile, hath any fuch matter; but Annius can make Authors to speak what he lift.

Dut (as it is more casic to find a difficulty That Joas may probably be thought to have been the fon of Jehoram.

IN so doubtful a case, if it seem lawful to hold an opinion that no man hath yet the fon of David, and not from Salomon: to places of Scripture, whereof the one telling which purpose they bring a History (I know the wickedness of Jehoram the son of Jeho-19. was by David adopted. And of this opinion fave Jehoahas the youngest of his sons. Now was Origen, as also S. Augustine sometime was, if it were in regard of Gods promise to Dabut afterward he revoked it, as was meet; vid, that after those massacres of Jehoram for this Nathan is reckoned among the fons upon all his brethren, and of the Philiftims ferved? for had all the race of Salomon been fudden, at his eighteenth year, become unrooted up in these woful Tragedies, and the fruitful, and beget no more in twenty years progeny of Nathan succeeded in place there- following: each of which must have bin true, of; like enough it is that some remembrance if this were true that Ahazia was the same more particular would have been extant, of Jehoahas which was his youngest son. But an event so memorable. That the race of Na- this inconvenience is taken away, and those than was not extinguished, it is indeed appa- other doubts arising from the causes cruelrent by the Genealegie of our Lord, asit is ty of Athalia, in fecking the life of Joss are recounted by S. Luke: but the prefervation easily cleared, if foas and tehoahas were one. of the house of David, mentioned in the Neither doth his age withstand this opinion; ed in the person of Jebeahas, in whom the reign; which if we understand of years com-Royal branch of Salomon, the natural, and pleat, he might have been a year old at the not only legal iffue remaining of David, was death of Jehorum, being begotten somewhat kept alive. Wherefore it may be thought after the beginning of his fickness. Neither that this Joash, who followed Athalia in the is it more absurd to say that he was the na-Kingdom, was the youngest son of Jehoram, tural son of Jehoram, though called the son whose life Athalia, as a step-dame, was not of Ahazia, than it were to say, as great Aulikely to pursue. For it were not easily un- thors have done, this difficulty notwithstandderflood, why the preservation of Davids ing, that he was of the posterity of Nathan. line, by Godsespecial mercy, in regard of One thing indeed I know not how to anhis promite made, should pertain rather to swer; which, had it concurred with the rest, 1605, to that time, when befides Ahazia himfelf, there might have ferved as the foundation of this were two and forty of his brethren, or (as opinion. The name of Jeboahas, that found-in another place they are called) fons of his eth much more near to Joss, than to Abaziah, brethren remaining alive, which afterwards in an English ear, doth in the Hebren (as I were all flain by Jehu; than have reference am informed by some, skilful in that lanto the lamentable destruction and little less guage) through the diversity of certain letthan extirpation of that progeny, wherein ters, differ much from that which it most re-15/mesi one onely did escape. Certainly that inhur sembleth in our Western manner of writing, mane murther which Jehoram committed and little from the other. Now, although upon his brethren, if it were ( as appeareth it be so that Abazia himself be also called Jehoram and all his children, onely Jehoahas der of this point. his youngest son was exempted; whom therefore if I should affirm to be the same with Joas, which is called the fon of Ahazia, I should not want good probability. Some further appearance of necessity there is, which Upon what reasons Athalia might seek to dedoth argue that it could no otherwise have been. For it was the youngest fon of Jehoram in whom the race was preferved; which F therefore we shall follow that which is could not in any likelihood be Ahazia, seeing | commonly received, and interpret the that he was twenty years old at the least (as text according to the letter, it may be faid, is already noted ) when he began to reign, that Athalia was not only blinded by the and confequently, was born in the eigh- passions of ambition and zeal to her Idolateenth or twentieth year of his Fathers age. trous vvorship of Baalim, but pursued the ac-Now I know not whether of the two is more complishment of some unnatural desires, in unlikely, either that Jehoram should have seeking the destruction of her grand-child,

CHAP. XXI.

CHAP. XXI

ir not be thought that he was faid to have teen years old, or that having (ashe had) recaped, in whom the line of David was pre- many wives and children, he should upon the Books of Kings and Chronicles, was perform- For he was feven years old when he began to 2 Chron. 13 in the History) revenged upon his own chil- Azaria, and must have had three names, if dren; then was not this vengeance of God he were the same with Jehoahas; in which 2 chren 23 accomplished by the Philistims and Arabi-manner Joss might also have had several s. ans, but being only begun by them, was after- names; yet, because I find no other warrant wards profecuted by Jehn, and finally took hereof than a bare possibility, I will not effect by the hands of that same wicked wo- presume to build an opinion upon the weak man, at whose instigation he had committed foundation of mine own conjecture, but fuch barbarous outrage. And from this exe- leave all to the confideration of fuch as have cution of Gods heavy judgment laid upon more ability to judge, and leisure to consi-

||. 1V.

ftroy Joas, if he were her own Grandchild.

begotten many children before he was eigh- and the rest of the bloud Royal. For whe-cies, wherein Jezabel had cunning enough perverted by vain additions. to be his Tutoress. But when the sword of But this History of the Kings of Ifrael and Jehu had rudely cut in funder all these fine Juda hath herein a singular prerogative adevices, then was Athalia fain to go round- bove all that have been written by the most ly to work, and do as the did, whereby the fufficient of meerly humane Authors: it fetthought to make all fure. otherwife, if (as I teth down exprelly the true, and first causes could rather think) she were only stepdame of all that happened; not in imputing the to Joas, we need not feck into the reasons death of Abab to his over-frowardness in moving her to take away his life; her own battel; the ruine of his Family, to the secuhatred was cause enough to dispatch him a- rity of Jehoram in Jezreel; not the Victories mong the first.

of uling conjecture in Histories.

ther it were so that Athalia (as proud and cribe the ill success of great undertakings to cruel Women are not alwayes chast) had the neglect of some impious Rites, whereof imitated the liberty of Jezabel her fifter in indeedGod abhorred the performance as velaw, whose Whoredoms were upbraided by hemently, 'as they thought him to be highly Tehu to her fon; or whether she had child- offended with the omission. Hereat we may ren by some former husband, before she was the less vvonder, if vve consider the answer 2 Ning 2 married unto gehoram (which is not unlike- made by the Jewes in Egypt unto Jeremy the ly, in regard of her age, who was daughter Prophet reprehending their Idolatry. For of Omri, and fifter to Ahab) certain it is that howfoever the veritten Law of God veas the had fons of her own, and those old e- known unto the people, and his punishments nough to be employed, as they were, in rob- laid upon them for contempt thereof vvere bing of the Temple. So it is not greatly to be very terrible, and even then but newly exewondred at , that to fettle the Crown upon cuted; yet vvere they fo obstinately bent unher own children, she did seek to cut off, by to their Wils, that they would not by any wicked policy, all other claims. As for Joas, means be drawn to acknowledge the true if the were his Grand-mother, yet the might cause of their affliction, But they told the mistrust the interest which his mother would Prophet roundly, that they would worship have in him, lest when he came to years, it the Queen of heaven, as they and their Famight draw him from her devotion. And thers, their Kings and their Princes had used hereof (besides that Women do commonly better love their daughters Husbands, than their tons Wives) there is some appearance ding, that all manner of miseries were bessale in 17, 18. in the reign of her fon; for the made him them, fince they left off that fervice of the spend all his time in idle journeys, to no o- Queen of Heaven. So blind is the wisedome of ther apparent end, than that she might rule man, in looking into the counsel of God, at home; and he living abroad be estranged which to find out, there is no better nor ofrom his Wife, and entertain some new fan- ther guide than his own written Will not of Hazael, to the great commotions raised in Ifrael by the comming of Jehu; but referring all unto the Will of God, I mean, to his revealed Will, from which that his hidden A digression, wherein is maintained the liberty purposes do not vary, this Story, by many great examples, gives most notable proof. True it is, that the concurrence of fecond Hus much concerning the person of causes with their effects, is in these Books Joas, from whom, as from a new root, nothing largely described; nor perhaps exthe tree of David was propagated into many actly in any of those Histories that are in branches. In handling of which matter, the these points most copious. For it was well more I consider the nature of this History, noted by that worthy Gentleman, Sir Phiand the diversity between it and others, the lip Sidny, that Historians do borrow of Sid in his less me thinks I need to suspect mine own Poets, not only much of their Ornament, Apol. for prefumption, as deserving blame, for curio- but somewhat of their substance. Informa- Poetry. fity in matter of doubt, or boldness in liberty tions are often false, records not always true, of conjecture. For all Histories do give us in- and notorious actions commonly insufficiformation of humane counsels and events, as ent to discover the passions which do set far forth as the knowledge and faith of them first on foot. Wherefore they are fain the Writers can afford; but of Gods Will, by the Writers can afford; but of Gods Will, by the Writers can afford; but of Gods Will, by the Writers and in that which is alwed; for to take out of Livy every one circulty at random, and many times fally. This cumfance of Claudius his journey againft we often find in profane Writers, vwho alCHAP. XXI. Historical, nor Poetical) to search into the deed from such petty trifles, as no Historian particular humour of Princes, and of those would either think upon, or could well which have governed their affections, or fearch out. the inftruments by which they wrought; Therefore it was a good answer that sixfrom whence they do collect the most like tus Quintus the Pope, made to a certain ly motives or impediments of every buli- Frier, coming to visit him in his Popedom, as ness; and so figuring as near to the life as having long before in his meaner estate, been they can imagine, the matter in hand, they his familiar friend. This poor Frier, being judiciously consider the desects in counsel, emboldened by the Pope to use his old li-

or obliquity in proceeding.

to give assurance, howsoever it may give ia- for his Holines, whom he rather took for a tislaction. For the heart of man is unlearch direct honest man, than any cunning Politiable: and Princes, howfoever their intents tian, to attain unto the Papacy; in compafbeseldom hidden from some of those many sing of which, all the subtilty (said he) of eyes which pry both into them, and into fuch the most crafty brains, find work enough: as live about them; yet fometimes either and therefore the more I think upon the by their own close temper, or by some sub- Art of the Conclave, and your unaptness ul mists, they conceal the truth from all rethereto, the more I needs must wonder. Pope ports. Yea, many times the affections Sixtus to fatisfie the plain dealing Frier, themselves lye dead, and buried in oblivion, dealt with him again as plainly, saying, Hadst when the preparations which they begat, thou lived abroad as I have done, and feen are converted to another use. The indu- by what folly this world is governed, thou firy of an Historian, having so many things wouldest wonder at nothing. to weary it, may well be excused, when finding apparent cause enough of things done, orbitant Engines, by which the course of it forbeareth to make further learch; affairs is moved, the Pope faid true. For though it often fall out, where fundry oc- the wiscft of men are not without their casions work to the same end, that one small vanities, which requiring and finding mumatter in a weak mind is more effectual, tual toleration, work more closely, and than many that feem far greater. So comes earnestly, than right reason either needs or it many times to pass, that great fires, which can. But if we lift up our thoughts to consume whole houses or towns, begin with that supreme Governour, of whose Empire a few straws, that are wasted or not seen; all that is true, which by the Poet was said when the flame is discovered, having fasten- of Jupiter. ed upon some Wood-pile, that catcheth all about it. Questionless it is, that the War commenced by Darius, and purfued by Xerxes against the Greeks, proceeded from defire of the Tersians to inlarge their Empire: howfoever the enterprize of the Athenians upon Sardes, was noised abroad as the ground of that quarrel; yet Herodotus telleth us, that the wanton desire of Queen Atoffa, to have the Grecian dames her bond-women, did first move Darius to prepare for this War before he had received How.l.i. any injury, and when he did not yet fo much defire to get more, as to enjoy what was al-

Herodotus be more justly reprehended by feth to his own honour; He neither deceifome, or defended by others, for alledging veth nor can be deceived, but continuing the vain appetite, and secret speech of the one and the same for ever, doth constantly Queen in bed with her Husband, as the governall creatures by that Law, which he cause of those great evils following; this I hath prescribed, and will never alter. The may boldly affirm (having, I think, in every vanities of men beguile their vain contriestate some sufficient witness) that matters vers, and the prosperity of the wicked, is the nels, or any practice of that kind, is neither ing upon substantial reasons, have issued inberty of speech, adventured to tell him, that Yet all this, for the most part, is not enough he very much wondred how it was possible

Qui terram inertem, qui mare temperat Ventosum, & urbes, regnaque triftia, Divosque mortalesque turmas, Imperio regit unus equo.

Who rules the duller Earth, the Windfwoln ftreams.

The civil Cities, and th' infernal Realms, Who th' Host of Heaven, and the mortal Band.

Alone doth govern by his just command.

Then shall we find the quite contrary. In him there is no uncertainty nor change; I will not here stand to argue whether he foreseeth all things, and all things dispoof much confequence, founded in all feem- way leading to their destruction: yea, this broad and headlong passage to hell is not so strate and make good in humane reason. delightful as it feems at the first entrance, those things which authority alone, withbut hath growing in it, besides the poysons out further circumstance, ought to have which intect the foul, many cruel thorns confirmed in every mans belief. And this deeply wounding the body; all which if may fuffice in defence of the liberty which any few escape, they have onely this misera- I have used in conjectures, and may hereble advantage of others, that their descent after use when occasion shall require, as was the more swift and expedite. But the neither unlawful, nor mif-befeeming an Hifervice of God is the path guiding us to per- storian. feet happiness, and hath in it a true, though not compleat felicity, yeilding such abundance of joy to the conscience as doth easily countervail all afflictions what foevers though indeed those brambles that sometimes tear the skin of such as walk in this blesled way, do commonly lay hold upon them at such time as they sit down to take their ease, and longer worn the Crown of Juda, make them wish themselves at their journeys and had found neither any forreign eneend, in the presence of their Lord whom my, nor domestical adversary to disturb they faithfully ferve, in whose presence is the her possession, suddenly the period of her fulness of joy, and at whose right hand are plea- glory, and reward of her wickedness meet-

CHAP: XXI.

all History, to teach by example of times For the growth of the young Prince bepast, such Wisdom as may guide our desires gan to be such, as permitted him no longer and actions, we should not marvel though to be concealed, and it had been very the Chronicles of the Kings of Juda and Isra- unfitting that his education should be simel, being written by men inspired with the ple, to make him seem the child of some Spirit of God, infiruct us chiefly, in that poor man (as for his fafety it was required which is most requisite for us to know; as lite) when his capacity required to have the means to attain unto true felicity, both been indued with the stomack and qualities here, and hereafter, propounding examples meet for a King. All this Jehojada the Prieft which illustrate this infallible rule, The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wifdom. Had of impiety, which taking deep root in the the expedition of Xerxes (as it was fore- Court, was likely to spread it self over all told by Daniel) been written by some Pro- the Country, if care were not used to weed phet after the captivity: we may well be- it up very speedily. Wherefore he affocialieve that the counsel of God therein, and ited unto himself five of the Captains, in the executioners of his righteous Will, whose fidelity he had best assurance; and thould have occupied either the whole or having taken an oath of them, and shewed the principal room in that narration. Yet them the Kings fon, he made a Covehad not the purpose of Darius, the defire nant with them, to advance him to the Kingof his Wife, and the bufiness at Sardes, with dom. These drew in others of the principal other occurrents been the less true, though men, to countenance the action, procuring at they might have been omitted, as the less the first onely that they should repair to jematerial: but these things it had been law- rusalem, where they were further acquainted ful for any man to gather out of prophane with the whole matter. There needed not Histories, or out of circumstances other many perswasions to win them to the busiwife appearing, wherein he should not have ness: the promise of the Lord unto the house done injury to the Sacred Writings, as long of David, was enough to affure them that as he had forborn to derogate from the first the action was both lawful, and likely to causes, by ascribing to the second more than succeed as they desired. was due.

that I have now in hand: wherein I cannot ped, that with open force they should bring believe that any man of judgment will tax their purpose to good iffue; neither were me, as either fabulous or prefumptuous, the Captains, and other affociates of Jehojada For he doth not feign, that rehearfeth pro- able by close working, to draw together so babilities as bare conjectures; neither doth many trusty and serviceable hands as would he deprave the Text, that feeketh to illu- fuffice to manage the bufiness. To help in this

ś. VII.

The conspiracy against Athalia.

ing together, took her away without any Wherefore it being the end and scope of warning, by a violent and shameful death.

as due.

But in compassing their intent, some diffiSuch, or little different, is the business culties appeared: For it was not to be hoon the Divine service at the Temple, and town, might give some presumption. were now relieved by others that succeeded Many things argue that she little thought in their turns, that they should not depart upon her own Tragedy; although Josephus until they knew his further pleasure. So by would make it seem otherwise. For we find was enough: for if the Tyranness did not with the Princes, or great men of the Land prevail against them at the first brunt, the sale by him, and the Trumpeters proclaiming on their fide, who made head against her. Treason, Hereby it appears that she was qui-of inevitable mischief.

and ordering all as the occasion might hap- defence. pen to require. It may be that the thought it fome especial solemnity used in the Divine fervice, which caused this much adoe; and cale, the Priest gave order to such of the Le- hereof the unaccustomed number of Levites as had finished their courses in waiting vites, and of other devout men, about the admitting the new comers, and not dischar- in the Text, She came to the people into the admitting admitting the new comers, and not different mittee fext, one thank to the people first the series ging the old, he had, without any noise, made bouge of the Lord (which was near to her Pa-23,13, 2, up luch a number, as would be able to deal lace) and that when she looked and saw the 1 Kingt with the Queens ordinary Guard, and that King stand by his pillar, as the manner was . 11.7 your of the People was like to shew it self him, she rent her cloaths, and cryed Treason, These Levites were placed in the inner ctly going, without any mistrust or fear, to Court of the Temple, about the person of take her place; which when she found octhe King, who as yet was kept close; the tol- cupied by another, then she began to afflict lowers of the Captains, and other adherents, her felf, as one call away, and cried out in were bestowed in the outer Courts: As for vain upon the Treason, whereby she saw that Weapons, the Temple it self had store e- she must perish. But that she came with a nough; King David had left an Armory to guard of armed men to the Temple, (as Tothe place, which was now employed in de- Jephus reporteth) and that her company being beaten back, she entred alone, and com-All things being in a readiness, and the day manded the people to kill the young Tyrant. come, wherein this high design was to be put I find no where in Scripture, neither do I in execution; Jehojada delivered unto the hold it credible. For had she truly known Captains, Armour for them and their adhe- how things went, she would surely have garents, appointed a guard unto the Kings per-thered her friends about her, and used those fon, produced him openly, and gave unto him forces in defence of her Crown, by which she the Crown; using all ceremonies accustom- gat it, and hitherto had held it. Certainly, if ed in such solemnities, with great applause of it were granted, that she, like a new Semirathe people. Of these doings the Queen was mis, did march in the head of her troop, yet the last that heard any word. Which is not it had been meer madnes in her, to enter fo strange as it may feem: for insolent natures, the place alone, when her affistants were by dealing outragiously with such as bring kept out; but if she, perceiving that neither them ill tidings, do commonly lose the bene- her authority, nor their own weapons, could fit of hearing what is to be feared, whilest prevail to let in her guard, would nevertheyet it may be prevented, and have no infor- less take upon her to command the death of mation of danger, till their own eyes, amazed the new King, calling a child of feven years with the suddenness, behold it in the shape old a Conspirator, and bidding them to kill him, whom she saw to be armed in his de-All Jerusalem was full of the rumour, and sence, may we not think that she was mad in entertained it with the very good liking. the most extreme degree? Certain it is that Some carried home the news, others ran forth the counsel of God would have taken effect, to see, and the common joy was so great, that in her destruction, had she used the most without apprehension of peril, under the likely means to disappoint it: yet we need windows of the Court, were the people run-ning and praifing the King. Athalia hearing libilities. It is enough to fay, that the godly and beholding the extraordinary concourse, zeal of Jehojada found more easie success, and noise of folks in the streets, making to-through her indiscretion, than otherwise wards the Temple, with much unufual pafficould have been expected; so that at his on in their looks, did prefently conceive, that appointment, she was without more adoe, somewhat worthy of her care was happened; carried out of the Temple and slain, yea so, though, what it might be, she did not appre- that no bloud, save her own, was shed in hend. Howsoever it were, she meant to use that quarrel; her small train that she brought her own wildom in looking into the matter, along with her, not daring to ftand in her

The death of Athalia, with a comparison of her were dead; the Kings who slew them, were and Terabel.

times, with great indignation, bewail- Syrian ( who feems to have been her good ed the rashness of her Nephew Jehoram the friend) pretended her revenge as any part Ifraelite, who did foolishly cast himself into of his quarrel to Juda. Concerning children. the very throat of danger, gaping upon him, all belonging to Jezabel perished in few onely through his eager defire of quickly dayes after her: whether athalia left any knowing what the matter meant: yet the behind her, it is uncertain; the had fons liher felt by the like bait was taken in the like ving after the was Queen, of whom, or of trap, and having lived such a life as Jezabel any other, that they were slain with her, we had done, was rewarded with a fuitable do not find. death. These two Queens were in many points much alike, each of them was Daugh-ter, Wife, and Mother to a King; each of upon it. For if the children of Athalia had them ruled her Hulband; was an Idolatress been in Jerusalem when their Mother fell. and a Murdress. The onely difference ap-their death would surely have followed hers pearing in their condition, is, that Jezabel is as nearly, and been registred, as well as the more noted as incontinent of body, Athalia death of Mattan the Priest of Baal. That Law their time in fatisfying her own affections; ungracious Imps, whom the clause following the one using tyranny, as the exercise of her would have cut off, which commands, that haughty mind; the other painting her face, every man should die for his own fin. Seeing for the ornament of her unchaste body. In therefore that they had been professors and the manner of their death little difference advancers of that vile and Idolatrous worthere was, or in those things which may seem ship of Baal, yea had robbed the Temple in this world to pertain unto the dead when of the Lord, and enriched the house of Baal they are gone. Each of them was taken on with the spoil of it; likely it is, that they the fudden by Conspirators, and each of should not have escaped with life, if Jehojaved sentence from the mouth of one that his hands. As there was lawful cause enough had lived under her subjection; in executi- requiring their death, so the security of the on whercof, Jezabel was trampled under the King and his friends, that is, of all the Land, feet of her enemies horses; Athalia slain at craved as much, and that very earnestly. her own horse-gate; the death of Athalia For these had been esteemed as heirs of having (though not much) the more leifure their mothers Crown, and being reckoned robber. The fervice of Baal erected by these desolate. two Queens, was destroyed as soon as they were gone, and their Chaplains, the Priefts of that Religion flain, Herein also it came to pass, alike, as touching them both when they afterwards afflicted, both of them by the fame hand of Hazael the Syrian; in which Oft like it is that Athalia had many point Athalia had the greater honour, if the

This is a matter not unworthy of confideas ambitious: So that each of them surviving by which God forbad that the children should be the form of the state of them surviving by which God forbad that the children should be the state of the st her Husband about eight years, did spend die for the fathers, could not have saved these 16 them exclaiming upon the Treason, recei- da the Priest could have gotten them into to vex her proud heart; that of Jezabel the as her affiftants in that particular bufiness of more indignity, and shame of body. Touch- robbing the Temple, may be thought to ing their burial, Jezabel was devoured by have carried a great fway in other matters. Dogs, as the Lord had threatned by the Pro- as Princes, and fellows with their Mother phet Elias; what became of Athalia we do in the Kingdom. Therefore it is evident, not find. Like enough it is, that she was buri- that either they were now dead, or (perhaps ed, as having not persecuted and slain the following Hazael in his Wars against Jehn). Lords Prophets, but suffered the Priests to absent from Jerujalem; whereby Jehojada exercise their function; yet of her burial might, with the more confidence, adventure there is no monument, for the was a Church- to take Armes against their Mother, that was

CHAP. XXII.

Of Joas and Amasia, with their Contemporaries; where somewhat of the building of Carthage.

> 6. I. of Joas bis doings, whileft Jehojada the Priest lived.

which continued almost forty years. During nourable Funeral seems to have been given his minority, he lived under the protection to him, at the motion of the people; it beof that honourable man Jehojada the Pricit, ing faid, They buried him in the City of David. who did as faithfully govern the Kingdom, as As for the King himfelf, who did owe to him he had before carefully preserved the Kings no less than his Crown and life, he is not likelife, and restored him unto the Throne of his ly to have been Author of it, seeing that he ancestors. When he came to mans estate, he was as easily comforted after his death, as if took by appointment of Jehojada two Wives, he had thereby been discharged of some and begat Sons and Daughters, repairing the heavy debt. For after the death of Jehojada, when the The first Act that he took in hand, when he began to rule without a Protector, was the reparation of the Temple. It was a needful piece of work in regard of the decay wherein that holy place was fallen, through the ceived from him, yea and God himfelf, the wickedness of ungodly Tyrants; and requi- Author of all goodness. These Princes drew fite it was that he should uphold the Tem- him to the worship of Idols, wherewith Jeple, whom the Temple had upheld. This bufines he followed with so earnest a zeal, that try, in fifteen or sixteen years, that thirty not only the Levites were more flack than years, or thereabout, of the reign of joas, he, but even Jehojada was fain to be quick- wherein the true Religion was exercised, ned by his admonition. Money was gather were not able to clear it from that michief. ed for the charges of the work; partly out The King himfelf, when once he was entred of the tax imposed by Moses, partly out of into these courses, ran on head-long, as one the liberality of the people 5 who gave fo that thought it a token of his liberty, to defreely, that the Temple, besides all reparati- spise the service of God; and a manifest ons, was enriched with veffels of gold and proof of his being now King indeed, that he filver; and with all other Utenfils. The fa-regarded no longer the fowre admonitions crifices likewife were offered, as under god-of devout Priefts. Hereby it appears, that his ly Kings they had been, and the service of former zeal was only counterfeited, wherein God was magnificently celebrated.

s. II.

The Death of Jehojada, and Apostasie of Joas.

of Jehojada the Priest: who having lived an hundred and thirty years, dyed be-

Y the death of Athalia, the whole; well deserved, having preserved the race of Country of Juda was filled with them, and restored the true Religion, which great joy and quietnes; wherein the late Princes of that house, by attempting Joss, a child of seven years old, or to cradicate, failed but a little of rooting up there-about, began his reign, themselves, and all their issue. Yet this ho-like an Actor upon the stage, he had striven to express much more lively affection, than they could shew, that were indeed religious.

427

§. III.

But this endured no longer than the life The causes and times of the Syrians invading fore his Country could have spared him. He was broken was buried among the Kings of Juda, as he Bloose, gave him over into the hands of

CHAP. XXII

428

zael King of Aram, having taken Gath, a gotten goods are wont. Town of the Philistims, addressed himself to- This enterprise of Hazaels, is, by some. wards Jerusalem, whither the little distance confounded with that war of the Aramites of way, and great hope of a rich booty, did upon Juda, mentioned in the fecond book invite him. He had an Army heartned by of Chronicles. But the reasons alledged by many victories, to hope for more; and for them that hold the contrary opinion, doe ground of the war (if his ambition cared for forcibly prove, that it was not all one war. pretences) it was enough that the Kings of For the former was compounded without Juda had affifted the Ifraelites, in their enter- blood-shed or fight; in the latter, Joas tried prifes upon Aram, at Ramoth Gilead. Yet I the fortune of a battaile, wherein being put think he did not want fome further instigation to the worst, he lost all his Princes, and tion. For if the Kingdom of Juda had mole-hardly escaped with life. In the one Hazael fted the Aramites in the time of his prede- himself was present; in the other, he was not ceffour, this was throughly recompensed, by named: but contrarywife, the King of Aram forbearing to succour Israel, and leaving the then reigning ( who may seem to have ten Tribes in their extream misery, to the been the son of Hazael) is said to have been fury of Hazael himselt. Neither is it likely, at Damascus. The first Army came to conthat Hazael should have gone about to awake quer, and was so great, that it terrified the a fleeping Dog, and fir up against himself a King of Juda; The second was a small company powerful enemy, before he had affured the of men, which did animate Joas (in vain for conquest of Ifrael, that lay between Jerusa- God was against him) to deal with them, as lem and his own Kingdom, if some opportu- having a very great Army. nity had not performed such easie and good Now, concerning the time of this former fucces, as might rather advance, than any invasion, I cannot perceive that God forsook way disturbe his suture proceedings against him, till he had first forsaken God. There the ten Tribes. Wherefore I hold it proba- are indeed some, very learned, who think ble, that the fons of Athalia, mentioned be- that this expedition of Hazael was in the time fore, were with him in this action, promi- of Jehojada the Priest, because that story fing (as men expelled their Countries ufu- is joyned to the restauration of the Temple. ally doe ) to draw many partakers of their This had been probable, if the death of feown to his side; and not to remain, as Joss hojada had been afterwards mentioned in did, a neutral in the war between him and that place of the fecond book of Kings; or Ifrael, but to joyn all their forces with his, if the Apoltalie of Joas, or any other matter as they had cause, for the rooting out of implying so much, had followed in the rela-Jehn his posterity, who like a bloody Traition. For it is not indeed to be doubted, tor, had utterly destroyed all the kindred that the Lord of all may dispose of all things, of the Queens, their mother, even the whole according to his own will and pleasure; neihouse of Ahab, to which he was a subject. If ther was he more unjust in the afflictions of this were so, Hazael had the more apparent Job that righteous man, or the death of Joreason to invade the Kingdom of Juda. How- star that godly King, than in the plagues soever we find, that Joss was afraid of him, which he laid upon Pharaoh, or his judge-1 King, 12 and therefore took all the hallowed things, and ment upon the house of Abab. But it appears all the gold that was found in the treasure of plainly, that the rich furniture of the Temthe house of the Lord, or in his own house, ple, and the magnificent service of God with which present he redeemed his peace: therewithall, which are joyned together, his hand for nothing, than to hazzard the death, if not immediately upon it, that is (as affurance of this for the possibility of not some very learnedly collect) in the fixt, or much more. So Hazael departed with a rich thirty seventh year of this Joas his reign, the booty of unhappy treasure, which belong- King falling away from the God of his Faing to the living God, remained a small thers, became a foul Idolater. while in the policifion of this mighty, yet And indeed we commonly observe, that corruptible man, but fent him quickly to the crosses which it hath pleased God somethe grave. For in the thirty feventh year of times to lay upon his fervants without any Joas, which was the fifteenth of Jehoahaz, he cause notorious in the eyes of men, have almade this purchase; but in the same or very waies tended unto the bettering of their next year he died, leaving all that he had good. In which respect, even the sufferings of men, that would not casily be shaken off. Ha- treasures prospered no otherwise, than ill-

the Syrian (questionless) thinking it a better were used in the house of the Lord continually s com. w bargain, to get so much readily paid into all the daies of Jehojada; soon after whose it.

unto his fon Benhadad, with whom these the blessed Martyrs ( the death of his Saints CHAP. XXII. 14.15. being precious in the fight of the Lord) are to as one durft tell him the plain truth, how their great advantage. But with evil and re- great soever that mans deservings were, that bellious men, God keepeth a more even and did so, yea though Gods commandment refrict account; permitting ufually their faults quired it. So they conspired against this holy to get the start of their punishment; and ei-Prophet, and stoned him to death at the ther delaying his vengeance (as with the A- Kings appointment; but whether by any form morites ) till their wickedness be full; or not of open Law, as was practised upon Naboth; working their amendment by his correction, or whether furprifing him by any close treabut suffering them to run on in their wicked chery, I do neither read, nor can conjecture. courses, to their greater misery. So hath he, The dignity of his person, considered togeshould endure to imitate.

6. IV. How Zacharia was murthered by Joas.

to reclaime the people from their fuperfition, Zacharia the fon of Ichojada the Priest, was stirred up at length by the Spirit of God, to admonish them of their wickedness, and make them understand the punishment due unto it, whereof they stood in danger. This Zacharia was a man so much honoured, and fon to a man so exceedingly be- his memory detested in all ages; so had it loved in his life time, and reverenced, that the well described curse of the blessed Marif Joas had reputed him (as Ahab did Elias) tyr, to accompany it unto the Throne of God, his open enemy, yet ought he in common and to call for vengeance from thence, which truth is, that the mellage of a Prophet sent hope for. from God, should be heard with reverence, how simple soever he appeares that brings it. | bloudy malice against his best friend, is, in my But this King Joas, having already scorned judgement proof sufficient: though otherthe admonitions and protestations of such wise his base composition with Hazael, when Prophets as first were sent, did now deal with he might have levied (as his son after him heir of the Vineyard; who faid, This is the the whis temper. Yet now he would needs be beir, come let us kill him, that the inheritance valiant; and make his people know, how may be ours. By killing Zacharia he thought frout of disposition their King was, when he to become an absolute Commander, suppo-sing belike that he was no free Price, as long heart was not well cloaked. For to encoun-

dealt with many; and fo it appears that he ther with their treacherous conspiracy, makes dealt with Joas. For this unhappy man did it probable, that they durst not call him into not onely continue an obstinate Idolater, but publick judgement, though that the manner grew fo forgetful of God and all goodness, of his death, being such as was commonly, and as if he had stroven to exceed the wicked- by order of Law, inflicted upon malefactors, ness of all that went before him, and to leave may argue the contrary. Most likely it is that fisch a villanous pattern unto others, as few the Kings commandment, by which he fufor none of the most barbarous Tyrants fered, took place in stead of Law: which exercise of meer power ( as hath been already noted) was nothing strange amongst the Kings of Juda.

CUndry Prophets having laboured in vain How Joas was shamefully beaten by the Amorites, and of his death.

His odious murther, committed by an unthankful fnake upon the man in whose bosom he had been fostered, as of it felf alone it fufficed to make the wretched Tyrant hateful to men of his own time, and honesty to have cloaked his ill affection, and fell down swiftly, and heavily upon the head have used at least some part of the respect of that ungrateful monster. It was the last that was due to fuch a person: On the other year of his reign; the end of his time comfide, the fingular affection which he and his ming then upon him, when he thought himfather had born unto the King, and the un- felf beginning to live how he lifted without recountable benefits which they had done controulment. When that year was expired unto him, from his first infancy, were such, as the Aramites came into the Country, rather should have placed Zacharia in the most as may seem to get pillage, than to perform 2 chro.24. hearty and affured love of Joas, yea though any great action; for they came with a small in he had been otherwise a man of very small company of men: but God had intended to mark, and not very good condition. The do more by them, than they themselves did

That Joas naturally was a coward, his Zacharia, like as the wicked husbandmen, in did muster ) three hundred thousand chothat parable of our Saviour, dealt with the fen men for the war, doth well enough that he drew along with him.

fouldiers, or by whatfoever means it plea- upon earth. fed God to work, so it was, that that great When the Aramites had what they listed, Army of Juda received a notable overthrow, and faw that they were not able, being fo and all the Princes were destroyed: the Prin- few, to take any possession of the Country, ces of Juda, at whose perswasion the King they departed out of Juda loaden with spoil, had become a Rebell to the King of Kings. which they fent to Damascus, themselves beexpound the story) he was forely beaten and to be thought that they sped not half so well. hurt by them, being (as they think) taken The King of Juda being in ill case, vvas kil-

him an excessive ransome.

ftrengthen this conjecture: for the Text (in names, being strangers, are expressed) think the old translation ) saith, they exercised up- to have been bondmen. Whether it vvere on Jous ignominious judgments; and that contempt of his fortune, or fear, lest (as departing from him, they dismissed him in Tyrants use ) he should revenge disaster the fon of Hazael over the Syrians, in Da- Jehojada, this befell him. And the same apful heart being likely to quake upon any ap- which well deserved death. prehension of danger, was able to put the SyrianKing in hope, that by terrifying him with some thew of yvar at his doores, it vvere easie to make him crave any tolerable conditions of peace. The unexpected good success hereof, already related, and the ( per-ter with a few bands of Rovers, he took a haps as unfulpected ) ill fuccels, which the very great Army, so that wife men might Aramites found in their following wars awell perceive, that he knew what he did, gainft the King of tirael, theweth plainly the making flew as if he would tight for his weakness of all earthly might, relifting the Country, and expole himfelf to danger of power of the Almighty. For by his Orwar, when as indeed all was meer oftentation dinance, both the Kingdom of Juda, after and no peril to be feared; he going forth fo more than forty years time of gathering strongly appointed, against so weak ene- strength, was unable to drive out a small mies. Thus might wife men think, and laugh company of Enemies; and the Kingdom of at him in fecret; confidering what adoe Ifrael, having so been trodden down by Hahe made about that, which in all apparent zael, that onely fifty Horsemen, ten Charireason was (as they say) a thing of nothing. ots, and ten thousand footmen vvere left; pre-But God, before whom the wildom of this vailed against his Son, and recovered all world is foolishness, did laugh not only at this from the victorious Aramites. But examples vain-glorious King, but at them that thought hereof are every-where found, and therefore their King secure, by reason of the multitude I will not insist upon this though indeed we should not, if vve be Gods children, think it When the Aramites and King "oas met, more tedious to hear long and frequent rewhether it were by some folly of the Leaders ports of our heavenly Fathers honour, than of or by some amazement happening among the the noble acts performed by our fore-fathers

As for joas himself ( as Abulensis and others like falling upon the ten Tribes, where it is and shamefully tormented, to wring out of led on his bed vvhen he came home, by the m an exceflive ransome.

And surely, all circumstances do greatly whom some (because onely their Mothers (prophers)) great languor. All which argues, that they had him in their hands, and handled him ill- vibratioever elfe it vvere that animated them '5. favoredly. Now at that time Joas the fon of to murder their King; the Scripture tels us Jehoahaz reigned over Ifraei, and Benhadad plainly, that, For the bloud of the children of mascus: the one a valiant undertaking Prince, pears to have been used as the pretence of railed up by God to restore the State of their conspiracy, in excuse of the fact when his miserable Country, the other inferiour it was done. For Amazia, the son and sucevery way to his father, of whose purcha-cessor of Joas, durst not punish them, till his fes he lost a great part, for want of skill to Kingdom vvas established: but contrariwise keep it. The difference in condition found his body vvas judged unworthy of burial between these two Princes, promising no o- in the Sepulchres of the Kings: vvhereby it ther event than such as afterward follow-ed, might have given to the King of Ju-the treason, vvrought against the King, to da good cause to be bold, and pluck up his find more approbation, than was requisite, spirits, which Hazael had beaten down, if among the people, though afterwards it was God had not been against him. But his fear- recompenced by his son, upon the Traytors, of the Princes living in the time of Joas: of the time when Carthage was built: and of Affimulata modis pulchraque mirificis.

0f

Here lived with Joss, Mezades, and Dignetus in Athens : Eudemus and Ariftomedes in Corinth: about which time Agrippa Splvius, and after him Splvius Aliadius, Sed Jurius fugiens, atque arma procavis Iarbæ, were Kings of the Albans in Italy. Ocrazapes, commonly called Anacyndaraxes, the thir- Pedore transfixo calios quod pertulit enfes) ty feventh King succeeded unto Ophratanes, begar his reign over the Affgrians, about the Sic cecidife juvat: vixi fine vulnere fame, eighteenth year of Joas, which lasted forty two years. In the fixteenth of Joas, Ceptrenes, Invida cur in me stimulasi Muja Maronem, the fourth from sefac, succeeded unto Cheops in the Kingdom of Egypt, and held it fitty of Figuration in Tyre, and the foundation of Carthage by Dido; the building of which City is, by divers authors, placed in divers ages, some reporting it to be 70. years youngerthan Rome, others above 400. years elder, few or none of them giving any reason of their affertions, but leaving us uncertain whom to follow: Josephus, who had read As Maro scign'd, incestuous and soul. the Annals of Tyre, counting one hundred forty and three years and eight moneths Beheld my face, or landed on this coast. from the building of Salomons Temple, in the But flying proud Iarbas villanie, twelfth year of Hyram King of Tyre, to the Not mov'd by furious love or jealousie, founding of Carthage by Dido, in the feventh I did with weapon chafte, to fave my fame, of Pigmalion. The particulars of this ac- Make way for death untimely, ere it came. compt (which is not rare in Josephus) are very This was my end; but first I built a Town, perplexed, and serve not very well to make Reveng'd my husbands death, liv'd with recleer the totall fum. But whether it were so that Josephus did omit, or else that he did Why did it thou stir up Virgil, envious Muse, mif-write some number of the years, which Falsely my name and honour to abuse ? he reckoned in Fractions, as they were di- Readers, believe Historians; not those vided among the Kings of Tyre, from Hyram Which to the world Joves thefts and vice to Pigmalion, we may well enough believe, that the Tyrian writers, out of whole books Poets are lyars, and for Verses sake, hegives us the whole sum, had good means Will make the Gods of humane crimes parto know the truth, and could rightly reckon the difference of time, between two works no longer following one the other than the memory of three or four generations nick war, that Carthage grew and flourished might easily reach, This hundred forty and in wealth and conquests, we find in many four years current, after the building of Sa- Histories: but in particular we find little of lomons Temple, being the eleventh year of the Carthaginian affairs before that war, ex-Joss, was a hundred forty and three years cepting those few things that are recorded before the birth of Rome; and after the dewith this Epigram:

Talis eram, fed non Maro quam mihi finxit,

Vita nec incestis lata cupidinibus : (Namque nec Ancas vidit me Troius unquam Nec I vhiam advenit classibus Iliacis. Servavi, fateor, morte pudicitiam; Non furor, aut lafo crudus amore dolor. Ulta virum positis manibus oppetii. Finocret ut noltra damna pudicitia? os magis Historicis lectores credite de me Quam qui furta Deum concubitusq; canunt. In this time of Joas, was likewise the reign Fallidici vates: temerant qui carmine verum, Humanisque dees assimulant vitiis.

Which in effect is this:

Am that Dido which thou here doft fee, Cunningly fram'd in beauteous Imag'ric, Like this I was but had not fuch a foul, Eneas never with his Trojan hoaft expose.

From the time of Dido unto the first Pustruction of Troy, two hundred eighty and therefore deser the relation of matters connine: a time fo long after the death of Eneas, cerning that mighty City, until such time as that we might truly conclude all to be fabu- they shall encounter with the State of Rome, lous which Virgil hath written of Dido, as by which it was finally destroyed; and pro-Ausonius noteth, who doth honour her Statua secute in the mean while the History that is now in hand.

CHAP. XXII.

King of Ilrael, and Elisha the Prophet. Mazia, the fon of Joash, being twenty twelve or thirteen years. Afive years old when his Father died, As Amazia gathered strength in Juda by had ones (in their best times) imitating the Hazael and Benhadad in the time of Jehu and learned of his father the art of distimulati- of Ephraim. on, did not onely forbear to punish the Trai- Whether it were so, that the great Prorested secure, as having done well, seeing before his death.

revenging fon. This being done, and his own life better fecured by fuch exemplary juffice The beginning of Amazia his reign: of Joas against the like attempts, Amazia carried himself outwardly as a Prince well affected to Religion, and so continued in rest, about took possession of the Kingdom of Juda; the commodity of a long peace, so Joas the jewherein he laboured so to demean himself; raelite grew as fast in power, by following the as his new beginning reign might be least war hotly against the Aramites. He was a vaoffensive. The Law of Moses he professed to liant and fortunate Prince, yet an Idolater, observe; which howsoever it had been se- as his Predecessors had been, worshipping the cretly despised since the time of Jehoram, by Calves of Jeroboam. For this sin had God so many great persons of the Land, yet had it plagued the house of Jebu, that the ten tribes by provision of good Princes, yea, and of wanted little of being utterly confumed, by good, but especially by the care of holy his son Jehoahaz. But as Gods benefits to Jehn, Priests, taken such deep root in the peoples sufficed not to withdraw him from this polihearts, that no King might hope to be very tick Idolatry, so were the miseries, rewarding plaufible, who did not conform himself un- that impiety, unable to reclaim Jehoahaz from to it. And at that present time, the slaugh- the same impious course : yet the mercy of ter which the Aramites had made of all the God beholding the trouble of Ifrael, did Princes, who had withdrawn the late King condescend unto the prayers of this ungodly from the service of God, being seconded by Prince, even then when he and his mise-the death of the King himselt, even whilst rable subjects, were obstinate in following that execrable murther, committed by the their own abominable ways. Therefore in King upon Zacharia, was yet fresh in memo-temporal matters the ten Tribes recory, did serve as a notable example of Gods vered apace; but the favour of God which inflice against Idolaters, both to animate had been infinitely more worth, I do not the better fort of the people in holding the find, nor believe that they fought: that Religion of their fathers, and to discourage they had it not, I find in the words of the actions, Amazia from following the way, which led Prophet, faying plainly to Amazia, the Lord? to fuch an evil end. He therefore, having is not with Ifrael, neither with all the house

tors that had flain King Joas, but gave way phet Elisha, who lived in those times, did foreto the time, and fuffered the dead body to tell the prosperity of the Ifraelites under the be interred, as that of Jehoram formerly had reign of Joas; or whether Johoahaz, weabeen in the City of David, yet not among ried and broken with long adversity, thought the Sepulchres of the Kings of Juda. Ne it the wifest way, to discharge himself in vertheless, after this, when (belike) the noise part of the heavy cares attending those unof the people having wearied it self into happy syrian Wars, by laying the burthen silence, it was found that the Conspirators upon his hopeful son; we find that in the ways (howfoever their deed done, was applau- thirty seventh year of Joas, King of Juda, Joas 10. ded as the handy-work of God ) had nei- the son of Jehoahaz began to reign over Ifrael ther any mighty partakers in their fact, nor in Samaria; which was in the 15. year of his strong maintainers of their persons, but fathers reign, and some two or three years it was not ill taken the King, who perceived It appears that this young Prince, even his gouernment well established, called them from the beginning of his Rule, did so well into question, at such a time, as the heat of husband that poor stock that he received mens affections being well allayed, it was from his Father, of ten Chariots, fifty Horseeasie to distinguish between their treasons men, and ten thousand Foot, that he might and Gods judgments, which, by their trea- feem likely to prove a thriver. Amongst fons, had taken plaufible effect. So they were other circumstances, the words which he put to death without any tumult, and their spake to Elisa the Prophet, argue no less hidden (as the Law did require) were suf- For Joas viliting the Prophet, who lay sick, 14. fered to live: which could not but give con-tentment to the people feeing that their King the Chariots of Ifrael, and the hor smen of the did the office of a just Prince, rather than of a Jame : by which manner of speech he did acknowledge, acknowledge, that the prayers of this holy cruel Aramites ) did not love, because they man had ftood his kingdome in more ftead vvere Idolaters. The Ifraelites therefore de-after terrible to Samaria.

6. VIII.

cy and overthrow by loas.

fuch as might kindle in Amazia a defire of it were, he got both honour by the journey, undertaking some expedition, wherein him- and gains enough, had he not lost himself. felf might purchase the like honour. His King-Jehoram, had about fifty years been unre- ped them, and burned incense unto them.

than all the Horses and Chariots could doe. parted in great anger, taking in ill part this This prophet who fucceeded unto Elias, difmiffion, as an high difgrace, vyhich to reabout the first year of Joran the son of Ahab venge, they fell upon a piece of juda in their King of Ifrael died ( as some have probably return, and thewed their malice in the collected ) about the third or fourth year of flaughter of three thouland men, and fome this Joas, the Nephew of Jehn. To shew how spoil, which they carried away. But Amagica the spirit of Elias was doubled, or did rest with his own forces, knowing that God upon him, it exceedeth my faculty. This is would be affiftant to their journey, entred recorded of him, that he did not onely raife couragiously into the Edomites Country; oa dead child unto life, as Elias had done, but ver whom obtaining victory, he flew ten when he himselfe was dead, it pleased God thousand, and took other ten thousand prisothat his dead bones should restore life unto a ners, all which he threw from an high rock; carcafs, which touched them in the grave. In holding them, it feems, rather as Traytors, fine, he bestowed as a legacie, three victories than as just enemies. This victory did not upon King Joas, who thereby did fet Ifrael feem to reduce Edors under the fubication in a faire way of recovering all that the Ara- of the Crown of Juda, which might be the mites had usurped, and weakning the kings cause of that severity, which was used to of Damasco in such fort, that they were never the prisoners; the Edomites that had escaped, refuting to buy the lives of their friends and kinimen at to dear a rate, as the loss of their own liberty. Some towns in Mount Seir, Amazia took, as appears by his carrying of Amazia his mar against Edom ; His Aposta- away the Idols thence ; but it is like they vvere the places most indefensible, in that he left no garrifons there, whereby he might The happy fuccess which Joss had tound another year the better than partial in his war against the Aramites, was conquest of the viviole countrey. How for the journey,

Among other spoyls of the Edomites, vvere dom could furnish three hundred thousand carryed away their gods; which being vanserviceable men for the Wars, and his trea- quished and taken prisoners, did deserve fures were sufficient for the payment of these, | vvell to be led in triumph. But they contrariand the hire of many more. Cause of war he viile, I know not by what strange witchhad very just against the Edomites, who hav- craft, so besotted this unworthy King Amazia ing rebelled in the time of his grand-father that he fet them up to be his gods, and worthing a Chro.25.

claimed, partly by reason of the troubles For this when he was rebuked by a Prohappening in Juda, partly through the floth phet fent from God, he gave a churlith and and timerousness of his father Joas. Yet, foral- threatning answer; asking the Prophet, who much as the men of Juda had in many years made him a Counseller, and bidding him been without all exercise of War (excepting hold his peace for fear of the worst. If either that unhappy fight wherein they were bea- the costly stuffe, whereof these Idols were ten by a few bands of the Aramites ) he held made, or the curious workmanship and beauit a point of wildom to increase his forces, ty, with which they were adorned by Artistwith fouldiers waged out of Ifrael, whence cers, had ravished the Kings fancie; mehe hired for an hundred talents of filver, an thinks, he should have rather turned them admin hundred thousand valiant men, as the Scrip- to matter of profit, or kept them as houseture telleth us, though Josephus diminisheth hold ornaments and things of pleasure, than ture telleth us, though Josephus dimininerin noise ornaments and time of the number, faying that they were but twen-thereby have fuffered himself to be blinded, which first numerically deventible deventible to the transfer of the numerical transfer of with fuch unreasonable devotion towards This great Army, which with so much them. If the superstitious account wherein cost Amazia had hired out of Ifrael, he vvas the Edamites had held them, were able to fain to dismiss before he had imployed it, be- work much upon his imagination; much ing threatned by a Prophet with ill fue more should the bad service which they had cess, if he strengthened himself with the done to their old Clients, have moved him help of those men, vvhom God ( though in thereupon to laugh, both at the Edomites, mercy he gave them victory against the and them. Wherefore it feems to me, that unto the fervice of Idols, which afterwards his carriage)troubled nor his head; he had moved him to talk fo roughly to the Pro-thewed himfelf a better man of war than any phet reprehending him. He had already o- King of Juda, fince the time of Jekofaphat, beyed the warning of God by a Prophet, and and could be well contented, that his people tent away such auxiliarie forces as he had should think him little inferiour to David; of 1 circ. 15. gathered out of Ifrael, which done, it is faid, which honour he faw no reason why the prothat he was encouraged, and led forth his peo- phets should rob him, who had made him ple, thinking belike, that God would now loofe an hundred talents, and done him no rather affilt him by miracle, than let him fail- pleasure; he having prevailed by plain force of obtaining all his hearts defire. But with and good conduct, without any miracle at contended with him.

CHAP. XXII

ill endure to ascribe unto God the honour of on the injury done to him by the Israelites, those actions, in which it hath pleased him to whom he dismissed in the Journey against use their own industrie, courage, or fore- Mount Seir. And likely it is, that the sense of fight. Therefore it is commonly feen, that a late wrong had more power to stirre him they, who entring into battell, are carefull up, than the remembrance of an old title, to pray for aide from heauen, with due ac forgotten long fince, and by himfelfe negknowledgment of his power, who is the giver leded thirteen, or fourteen years. Neverof victory; when the field is won, doe vaunt thelesse it might so be, that when he was of there own ex-ploits; one telling how he thus provoked, he thought it not enough to got such a ground of advantage; another, require new wrongs, but would also callold how he gave check to such a battalion; a matters into question; that so the Kings of Ifthird, how he feized on the enemies Canon; rael might, at the leaft, learn to keep their every one firiving to magnific himself, whil- subjects from offending Juda, for fear of enest all forget God, as one that had not been dangering their own Crowns. Had Amazia present in the action. To ascribe to fortune desired onely recompence for the injury the effects of another mans vertue, is, I con- done to him, it is not improbable that he fesse, an argument of malice. Yet this is true, should have had some reasonable answer that ashe which findeth better successe, than from Joas, who was not desirous to fight he did, or in reason might expect, is deeply with him. But the answer which Joar returnbound to acknowledge God the Authour of ed, likening himselfto a Cedar, and Amazia his happinesse; so he whose meer wisdome in respect of him to no better than a thistle, and labour hath brought things to a profpeflewes that the challenge was made in inforous iffue, is doubly bound to flew himself lent termes, ftuft perhaps with such proud thankful, both for the victory, and for those comparison of Nobility, as might be made vertucs, by which the victory was gotten. (according to that which Josephus hath writ-And indeed to far from weaknesse is the naten) between a King of ancient race and one ture of such thankigiving, that it may well of less Nobility than vertue.

Solution in Sol ture of such thanksgiving, that it may well of less Nobility than vertue. which the spirit of man advanceth it self did bid him to be valiant, and get victory with confidence of acceptation, unto the by Gods affiftance, he made answer, That by love of God. In which fense it is a brave Gods affistance a coward could get victospeech that Evander in Virgil useth to Ane-ry, but he would get it alone without such as, none but a Christian being capable of the help: after which proud speech, though he

dienum

the lame affections carried him from God, With this Philosophy Amazia (as appears by better reason he should have limited his de- all. That he was distempered with such vain fires by the will of God, whose pleasure it was thoughts as these (besides the witnese of his that Flan having broken the yoak of Jacob impiety following) Josephus doth testifie from his neck, according as Isaac had fore- saying, That he despited God, and that betold, should no more become his fervant. If ing puft up with his good success, of which therefore Amazia did hope to reconquer all nevertheless he would not acknowledge the countrey of Edom, he failed of his expec- God to be the Authour, he commanded Joss tation, yet fo, that he brought home both King of If ael to become his subject, and to profit and honour, which might have well let the ten Tribes acknowledge him their Soveraign, as they had done his Ancestours But there is a foolish and a wretched King David and Salomon. Some think that pride, wherewith men being transported, can his quarrel to Joss was rather grounded upvertue being fo truely heroical, as that by when going to the warre of Troy, his father Last. did many valiant acts, he had small thanks, Ande bosses contenuere opes , & te quoque and finally , killing himself in a madnes, whereinto he fell upon difgrace received, thoughts, which are parents of fuch words, on, they fled all away, leaving their King to he was rewarded with fuecess accordingly. shift for himself; which he did so ill, that The very first counsell wherein this war his enemy had soon caught him, and made was concluded, ferves to prove that he was him change his glorious humour into most wife Prince indeed at erufalem, among abject baleness. That the Army which his Parafites, but a fool when he had to deal tled, fulfained any other lefs than of honour, with his equals abroad. For it was not I neither find in the Scriptures nor in foleall one, to fight with the Edomites, a weak phus, it being likely that the foon beginning people, trufting more in the feat of their of their flight, which made it the more thame-Country, than the valour of their Soul- full made it also the more fafe. But of the diers; and to encounter with Joas, who from mischief that followed this overthrow, it was fo poor beginnings had raifed himfelf to Gods will that Amazia himfelf should sufuch ftrength, that he was able to lend his frain the whole difgrace. For Joas carried friend a hundred thousand men, and had him directly to Jerusalem, where he bad him all his Nation exercised, and trained up in a procure that the gates may be opened to let long victorious war. But as Amazia dif- him in and his Army; threatning him othercovered much want of judgment, in under- wife with present death. So much amazed taking such a match; so in prosecuting the was the miserable captive, with these dreadbulines, when it was fet on foot, he behaved ful words, that he durft do no other than himself as a man of little experience, who perswade the Citizens, to yelld themselves to having once onely tryed his fortune, and the mercy of the Conquerour. The Town, found it to be good, thought that in War which afterwards being in weaker flate held there was nothing else to do, than fend out two years against Nebuchadnezzar, was greedy hopes, the spoile of Ifrael, fully per-glad of his life, and returned to Samaria. iwading themselves to get as much, and at as easie a rate, as in the journey of Edom; were so far disappointed of their expectation that well they might suspect all new ashir A discourse of the reasons hindering Joas from rance of good luck, when the old had thus beguiled them. All this not with standing, their King that had ftomack enough to challenge the patrimony of salomon, thought like another David to winne it by the fword. The iffue of which fool-hardiness might in fight, God, whose help this wretched fon and grand-child of Kings, together with was hardly allowed the honour of buriall. man had fo despited, did (as Josephus reports That Amazia did utter fuch words, I do it ) strike such terrour and amazement into Tol. art. not find, but having once entertained the the men of Juda, that without one blow giv. L. s.c.to. a defiance, fight, and win. Joss on the utterly difmaied, when the King that should contrary fide, having been accustomed to have given his life to fave it, used all his deal with a stronger enemy than the King force of command and intreaty to betray it. of Juda, used that celerity, which peradven- So the gates of Jerusalem vvere opened to ture had often flood him in good flead a- Joss, with which honour (greater than any gainst the Aramite. He did not sit waiting King of Israel had ever obtained) he could till the enemies brake in & wasted his Coun- not rest contented, but the more to despise trey, but presented himself with an Army in Amazia and his people, he caused 400, cubits Juda, ready to bid battel to Amazia, and of the wall to be thrown down, and entred fave him the labour of a long journey. This the City in his Chariot through that breach, could not but greatly discourage those of carrying the King before him as in triumph. Juda, who (besides the impression of sear This done, he sack'd the Temple, and the which an invalion beats into people, not in- Kings Palace, and so taking hostages of Amaured in the like ) having devoured in their zia he dismitted the poor creature that was > uniting Juda to the Crown of Ifracl when be had won Jerufalem, and held Amazia prifoner. The end of Joas his reign.

VVE may justly marvel how it came to pais, that Joar, being thus in eafily have been fore-feen in humane rea-potterfion of Jernfalem, having the King in his fon; comparing together, either the two hands, his enemics forces broken, and his own Kings, or the quality of their Armies, or the entire, could be so content to depart quietfirst and ominous beginning of the War. ly with a little spoil, when he might have But meer humane wisdom, howsoever seized upon the whole Kingdom. The reign it might foresce much, could not have prog- of Athalia had given him cause to hope that nosticated all the mischief that fell upon A the issue of David might be disposses of mazia. For as foon as the two Armies came that Crown; his own nobility, being the

Finge Dev.

me minous acts that he people of Juda think and lay his ravenous hands upon the confighighty of himsysho might also have preferred crated vessels, calling the family of obed Ehis form of government before that of their dom (whose children had hereditary charge of thered the thanks which were due to the me- they confidered him rather as an execrable mory of a few good ones. The commodity Church-robber, than as a noble Prince, that would have enfued upon the union of all an Ifraelite, and their brother, though of a the twelve Tribes under one Prince, is so ap-nother Tribe. Thus following that course, parent, that I need not to infilt on it. That a- which the most vertuous King of our age ny mellage from God forbade the Ifraelite (taxing it with the same phrase) hath wisely (as afterwards in the victory which Peka the avoyded; by stealing a few Apples, he lost fon of Romelia gotupon Ahaz) to turn his pre- the inheritance of the whole Orchard. The fent advantageto the best use, we do not read. people detested him, and after the respite All this makes it the more difficult to refolve of a few days, might, by comparing themthe question, why a Prince so well exercised selves one to one, perceive his Souldiers to as Joas had been in recovering his own, and be no better than men of their own mould. winning from the enemy, should for sake the and inferiour in number to the inhabitants policifion of Jerusalem, and wilfully neglect of so great a City. It is not so easy to hold the pohibilities, or rather cast away the full by force a mighty town entred by capitu-

dom of Juda. thers had been most material, I mean the gin to understand their first errour, they will defire of the vanquifted people to accept the think upon every advantage, of place, of Israelite for their King, it is plainly seen, provisions, of multitude, yea of women arthat entring Jerujalem in triumphant manner, med with tile-stones; and rather choose by falem. Therefore when the people faw him themselves, and come readily to this agree-the famous acts that he had done, were e- take his way directly to feife that holy place. own Kings, especially at such a time, when a the treasure) to a strict account, as if they count long fuccession of wicked Princes had smo- had been officers of his own exchequer; 15. affurance of fo fair a conquest, as the King- lation, as to enter the gates opened by unadvised fear. For when the Citizens, not be-But concerning that point, which of all o- ing difarmed, recover their spirits. and be-Joas was unable to concoct his own pro- desperate resolution, to correct the evills sperity. For the opening of the gates had grown out of their former cowardise, than been enough to have let him not onely into fuffer those mischies to poyson the body, the City, but into the Royal Throne, and which in such half-conquests, are easily the peoples hearts, whom by fair intreaty tafted in the mouth. A more lively example (especially having sure means of compul-hereof cannot be desired, than the City of fion) he might have made his own, when Florence, which through the weakness of they saw themselves betrayed, and basely Peter de Medices, governing therein as a given away by him whose they had been Prince, was reduced into such hard tearms, before. The fair mark which this oppor- that it opened the gates unto the French tunity presented, he did not aim at, be- King Charles the eighth, who not plainly cause his ambition was otherwise, and more professing himself either friend or foe to meanly bussed, in levelling at the glory the State, entred the Town, with his Arof a triumphant entry through a breach, my, in triumphant manner, himself and his Yet this errour might afterwards have been horse armed, with his lance upon his thigh. corrected well enough, if entring as an ene- Many infolencies were therein committed my, and thewing what he could do, by by the French, and much argument of quarfpending his anger upon the Walls, he had rell ministred between them and the within the City done offices of a friend, and Towns-men: fo far forth that the Floren-I boured to shew good will to the inhabi-tines, to preserve their liberty, were dritants. But when his pride had done, his cove- ven to prepare for fight. To conclude the tousnels began, and sought to please it self matter, Charles propounds intollerable conwith that which is commonly most read ditions, demanding huge sums of ready dy to the spoyler, yet should be most formoney, and the absolute Seigniory of the born. The Treasure wherewith sefac, Hazael, State, as conquered by him, who entred the and the Philiftims, men ignorant of the true City in Arms. But Peter Caponi, a princi-God and his Religion, had quenched their pal Citizen, catching these Articles from greedy thirst, ought not to have tempted the Kings Secretary, and tearing them bethe appetite of loar, who though an Idolater, fore his face, bad him found his Trumpets, yet acknowledged also and worshipped the and they would ring their Bels: which peeternal God, whose Temple was at Jeru- remptory words made the French bethink ment, that for forty thousand pounds, and j change of fortune and fusier losses we must not half of that money to be paid in hand, needs conclude, That the Aramite prefit, who upon the uncertain hope of destroy- other facrilegious Potentates. ing a Town, forfakes the affurance of a good Florence.

CHAP. XXII.

of him, to take hostages for his better secauses it was the more unapt to fight,

Besides these impediments, within the City and without, ferving to cool the ambition of Joas, and keep it down from afpiring to the Crown of Juda; it appears that fomewhat was newly fallen out, which had reference to the anger of Elisha the Prophet; who, when this foas had smitten the ground with his arrows thrice, told him that he flould no oftner fmite the Aramites. The three victories which Ifrael had against A-

charles should not only depart in peace, but vailed upon him this yeare, it being the last reffore whatfoever he had of their Domini- of his Reign. That this was fo, and that the on and continue their affured friend. So dan- Syrians, taking advantage of Jour his ablence gerous a matter did it feem for that brave gave fuch a blow to Ifrael, as the King at his Army, which in few moneths after wan the return was not able to remedie, but rather Kingdom of Naples, to fight in the streets, a- fell himself into new misfortunes which ingainst the armed multitude of that populous creased the calamities we may evidently per-City. It is true, that Charles had other buliness ceive in that which is tooken of Jeroboam his ( and fo perhaps had Joas, as shall anon be fon. For it is faid, That the Lord fam the exceeshewed ) that called him away : but it was ding bitter affliction, of Ifrael, and that having the apprehension of imminent danger that not de reed to put out the name of Ifrael from made him come to reason. In such cases the under the Heaven, he preserved them by the firing of houses, usually draws every Citizen | band of Jeroboam the sonne of Joas. This is eto fave his own, leaving victory to the Soul- nough to prove, that the victorious Reign dierivet where the people are prepared and of Jour was concluded with a fad cataftroresolved, women can quench, as fast as the plie; the riches of the Temple hastening his enemy, having other things to look unto, can mifery and death, as they had done with fet on fire. And indeed that Commander is Sefac, Athalia, and Hazael, and as afterwards more given to anger than regardful of pro- they wrought with Antiochus, Crassius, and

Thus either through indignation conceit composition. Diversity of circumstance ved against him, by the people of serufalem, may alter the case: it is enough to say, that and courage which they took to set upon it might be in Jerusalem, as we know it was in him within the Walls; or through preparation of the Army that lay abroad in the How ftrongly foever Joas might hold Countrey to bid him battel in open field, & himself within Jerusalem, he could not easily recover by a new charge the honour which depart from thence, with his booty fafe, if was loft at the former encounter; or through the Army of Juda, which had been more ter- the miseries daily brought upon his own rified than weakned in the late encounter, Countrey, by the syrian in his absence (if should re-enforce itself, and give him a check not by all of these) Jours was driven to lay aupon the way. Wherefore it was wifely done fide all thought of winning the Kingdom of Juda; and taking hostages for his quiet pascurity, his Army being upon return, and bet- lage, made all hafte homewards, where he ter loaden than when it came forth-for which | found a fad wel-come, and being utterly forfaken of his wonted prosperity, forsook also his life in few moneths after, leaving his Kingdom to Jeroboam the second, his fortunate and valiant fon.

ş. X. The end of Amazia his Reign and life.

Ny man is able to ghess how Amazia A looked, when the enemy had left him. ram, are by fome, and with great probabi- He that had vaunted fo much of his own lity, referred unto the fifth, fixth, and feventh great prowefs and skill in Arms, threatyeares of Joas: after which time, if any losles ning to work wonders, and set up a-new ensuing had blemished the former good suc- the glorious Empire of David, was now uncess, ill might the King of Ifrael have likened cased of his Lions hide, and appeared nohimself to a stately Cedar, and worse could thing so terrible a beast as he had bin painhe have either lent the Judaan one hundred ted. Much argument of scoffing at him he had thousand men, or meet him in battell, who ministred unto such as held him in difwas able to bring into the feild three hun-like, which at this time doubtless were very dred thousand of his own. Seeing therefore it many: for the shame that falls upon an inis made plain by the words of Elisha, that folent man, feldom fails of meeting with aafter three victories Joseph should find some bundance of reproach. As for Amazia, his fault unto God, that had punished him by tain, before the chase and slaughter of an all this difhonour. But we find no mention of Army of Stags that followed him. his amendment. Rather it appears, that he These or the like words comforting Amacontinued an Idolater to the very last. For zia, were able to perswade him, that it was it is faid of him, that after his turning away even so indeed. And such excuses might have from the Lord, they wrought treason against served well enough to please the people, if him in evulatem: a manifest proof that he the King had first studied how to please was not reclaimed unto his lives end. And God. But he that was unwilling to afcribe Temple bare a part. If Joas might so easily of his authority in purchaling the name of a

( befides that the multitude are alwayss have been kept out; why did their Anceprone to lay the blame upon their Gover- stors let Sefae in? Ala was reputed a vertinours, even of those calamities which hap- ous Prince, yet with his own hands he empen by their own default) there was no ptied the Temple, and was not blamed, but child in all Gerufalem, but knew him to be held excusable by necessity of the State. the root of all this mitchief. He had not only Belike these traducers would commend no challenged a good man of War, being him- Actions but of dead Princes: if so he should felf a Dafford; but when he was beaten and rather live to punish them, than die to please taken by him, had baiely picaded for the them. Though wherein had he given them common enemy, to have him let into the Ci- any cause of displeasure? It was he indeed ty, that with his own eyes he might fee what that commanded to fet open the gates to spoil there was, and not make a bad bargain Joas; but it was the people that did it. Good by hear-fay. The father of this Amazia was a servants ought not to have obeyed their beaftly man; yet when the Aramites took Masters Commandments to his disadvanhim and termented him, he did not offer to tage, when they saw him not master of his buy his own life at 6 dear a rate, as the City own Person. As his captivity did acquit him and Temple of Jerujulem. Had he offered, from blame of all things that he did or sufthould they have made his promife good? fered in that condition; fo was that misforfurely the hafte which they had made in tune it felf, in true estimation, as highly to condefeending to this hard match, was very his honour, as deeply to his loss. For had he unfortunate: for by keeping out the Ifrae- been as hafty to fly as others were, he might lites (which was easie enough ) any little have escaped as well as others did. But while they flouid foon have been rid of him, feeking to teach the base multitude courage feeing that the Aramites would have made by his Royal example he was shamefully behim run home, with greater speed than he trayed by those in whom he trusted. Unworcame forth. Then also, when having truffed thy creatures, that could readily obey him, up his baggage, he was ready to be gone, a when speaking another mans words, being little courage would have ferved to per- prisoner, he commanded them to yeild; ha-Iwade him to leave his load behind; had ving neglected his charge, when leading not their good King delivered up hoftages, them into the field, he bad them stand to it to secure his return, as loath to defraud him, and fight like men. The best was, that they of the recompence due to his pains taken. must needs acknowledge his mischance, as Such exprobations could not but vex the the occasion whereby many thousand lives heart of this unhappy King: it had been well were faved; the enemy having wifely prefor him, if they had made him acknowledge ferred the furprise of a Lion that was Cap-

certainly, they which tell a man in his adver- unto God the good success foretold by a fity et his faults passed, shall sooner be Prophet; could easily find how to impute thought to upbraid him with his fortune, this late disafter unto fortune, and the fault than to leek his reformation. Wherefore it is of others. Now concerning fortune, it feems no marvel, that Priests and Prophets were that he meant to keep himself safe from her less welcome to him, than ever they had by sitting still; for in sisteen years following been. On the other fide, flatterers, and fuch (fo long he out-lived his honour) we find as were defireus to put a heart into him, not that he stirred. As for his subjects, though whereof themselves might alwayes be mainothing henceforth be recorded of his gosters, wanted not plausible matter to revive vernment, yet we may see by his end, that the him. For he was not the first, nor second of middle time was ill spent among them, inthe Kings of Juda, that had been overcome creafing their hatred to his own ruine. He in battei. David himfelf had abandoned the that fulpecteth his own worth or other mens City, leaving it before the enemy was in opinions, thinking the less regard is had of fight, unto Alfalom his rebellious Son. Many his person than he believeth to be due to besides him had received losses, wherein the his place, will commonly spend all the force fevere CHAP. XXII. feyere man. For the affected sowreness of a Kingdom of Ifrael. Therefore it may seem vain fellow, doth many times resemble the that he was detained there, where certain it gravity of one that is wife: and the fear is that he found no kind of favour: for had wherein they live, which are subject unter not the people of this Town added their oppression, carries a shew of reverence to own treason to the general insurrection; him that does the wrong; at least it serves the murderers could not at so good leisure to dazle the eyes of underlings, keeping as they did, have carried away his body to them from prying into the weakeness of Jerusalem, where they gave him burial with such as have jurisdiction over them. Thus his fathers.

the time, wherein, by well using it, men might attain to be fuch as they ought, they do usually mif-spend, in seeking to appear such as they are not. This is a vain and deceiveable course; procuring, in stead of the respect that was hoped for, more indignation than was feared. Which is a thing of dangerous consequence; especially when an unable spirit, being over-perted with so high authority, is too paffionate in the execution fected to him; yet found he there none o-

of the Hiftory of the World.

6. XI.

of the Inter-regnum, or vacancy, that was in the Kingdom of Juda, after the death of Amazia.

T hath already been shewed, that the Reigns of the Kings of Juda and Ifrael of fuch an office, as cannot be checked but were sometimes to be measured by compleat by violence. If therefore Amazia thought years, otherwhiles, by years current: and by extreme rigour to hold up his reputation, that the time of one King is now and then what did he else than strive to make the confounded with the last years of his fathers people think he hated them, vvhen of them- Reign, or the foremost of his sons. But we selves they were apt enough to believe that are now arrived at a meer vacation, wherein he did not love them? the best vvas, that the Crown of Juda lay void eleven whole he had, by revenging his fathers death, pro- years: a thing not plainly fet down in Scrivided well enough for his own security : but prures, nor yet remembred by Josephus, and who should take vengeance (or upon therefore hard to be believed, were it not vyhom?) of such a murther, wherein every proved by necessary consequence. one had a part? Surely God himself, who

Twice we find it written, that Amazia, 2 chron. the people to take his office out of his hand, King of Juda, lived after the death of Joas state the people to take his office out of his hand, King of Ifrael, fifteen years; whereupon it to in fledding the bloud of his Annointed. Yet follows, that the death of Amazia, was about as Amazia careless of God, was carried head- the end of fifteen years compleat, which Jelong by his own affections; fo his subjects, roboam the second (who in the fifteenth year 2 King 14. following the same ill example, without re- of Amazia was made King over Ifrael ) had 23. quiring what belonged unto their duties, reigned in Samaria. But the succession of rose up against him, with such headlong su- Ozzia, who is also called Azaria, unto his fary, that being unable to defend himself in ther in the Kingdom of Juda, was eleven Jerusalem, he was driven to forsake the City, years later than the fixteenth of Jeroboam: and fly to Lachis, for fafeguard of his life. for it is expressed, that Azaria began to reign 2 King 15.8 But so extream was the hatred conceived a- in the seven and twentieth year of Jeroboam; gainst him, and so general, that neither his the sixteenth year of his life, being joyned absence could allay the rage of it in the Ca- with the first of two and fifty that he reignpital City, nor his presence in the Country ed. So the Inter regnum of eleven years canabroad procure friends to defend his life. not be divided, without some hard means Questionless he chose the Town of Lachis used, of interpreting the Text otherwise for his refuge, as a place of all other best af- than the letter sounds. Yet some conjectures there are made, ther favour, than that the people did not kill which tend to keep all even, without achim with their own hands; for when the knowledging any void time. For it is thought Conspirators (who troubled not themselves that in the place last of all cited, by the second about raising an Army for the matter ) sent ven and twentieth year of Jeroboam , we pursuers after, he was abandoned to death. should perhaps understand the seven and Lachie was the utmost City of his Dominion twentieth year of his life; or else (because Westward, standing somewhat without the like words are no where else interpreted border of "sada", so that he might have in the like sense) that Azaria was else. made an easie escape(if he durst adventure) years under age, that is, five years old into the Territory of the Philiftime, or the his father died, and so his fixtured

vve flould call the text in question; vvhich

could not be falfified in all copies, if perhaps it vvere in one: as for the fecond, it may be began his Reign being five years old; but then must vve add those cleven years which not fo apparent.

CHAP.XXII might concur with the feven and twentieth, reign fingle in the fifteenth of Amazia; did of 'croboam; or that the Text it felf might it not swallow up almost the whole reign of have inflered some vyrong, by miswriting Joss, and extending the years of those which twenty feven for seventeen years; and so, reigned in Ifrael (by making such of them by making the feventeenth year of Jero- compleat as were onely current) and take at boam to be newly begun, all may be falved. the shortest the reigns of Princes ruling in

These are the conjectures of that worthy other Nations. But I will not stand to dispute man Gerard Mercator: concerning the first further of this: every man may follow his of which, it may fuffice, that the Author own opinion, and fee mine more plainly in himself doth easily let it pass, as improbathe Chronological Table, drawn for these ble; the last is followed by none that I purposes. know, neither is it fit that upon every doubt, held with some qualification, that Azaria Of Princes Contemporary with Amazia, and more particularly of Sardanapalus.

6. XII.

passed in his minority, to the two and fifty THe Princes living with Amazia, and in that followed his fixteenth year, which is the eleven years that followed his all one in a manner, with allowing an Inter- death, were loss and leroboam in Ilrael: Cephrenes and Mycerinus in Egypt ; Sylvius Al-But why should we be so careful to a- ladius, and Sylvina Aventinus in Alba: Agavoid an Inter-regnum in Juda, feeing that memnon in Corinth; Diegnetus Pheredus, and the like necessity hath inforced all good Ariphron in Athens; in Lacedamon Thelectus, Writers to acknowledge the like vacancy, in whose time the spartans wan from the Atwice happening vvithin few years, in the chaians, Gerautha, Amyela, and some other Kingdom of I/rael? The space of time be- Towns.

tween Jeroboam's death, and the beginning of Zachariai's reign, and fuch another gap found between the death of Peka, and the tieth year of Amazia, succeeding his father beginning of Hosea, have made it easily to be Ocrazapes or Anacyndaraxes, reigned twenadmitted into Samaria; vvhich the confideration of things as they ftood in Juda, when Amazia vvas flain, doth make more Azaria. In him ended (as most agree) probable to have happened there, yea, al- the line of Ninus, which had held that Emthough the necessity of computation vvere pire one thousand two hundred and forty years. A most luxurious and effeminate Pal-For the publick fury having so far extend- liard he was, passing away histime among ed it felf, as unto the destruction of the strumpets, whom he imitated both in apparel Kings own person, was not likely to be ap- and behaviour.

peakd without order taken for obtaining In these voluptuous courses he lived an fome redress of those matters, which had unhappy life, knowing himself to be so vile, caused it at the first to break forth into such that he durst not let any man have a fight of extremity. We need not therefore wonder him; yet feen he was at length, and the how it came to pais that they which already fight of him was fo odious, that it procured had thrown themselves into such an horri- his ruine. For Arbaces, who governed Meble treason, should afterwards dare to with- dia under him, finding means to behold the hold the Crown from a Prince of that age, person of his King, was so incensed with which being invested in all ornaments of that beastly spectacle, of a man disguised in Regality, is nevertheless exposed to many womans attire and striving to counterfeit an injuries, preceding from head-strong, and harlot, that he thought it a great stame to forgetful subjects. live under the command of fo unworthy a As for their conjecture, who make Azaria creature. Purpofing therefore to free himto have been King but one and torty years felf and others from fo base subjection, he after he came out of his non-age; I dare was much encouraged by the prediction of not allow it, because it agrees too harshly Belesis or Belosus a Chaldean, who told him with the Text. The best opinion were that plainly, that the Kingdom of Sardanapalus which gives unto Jeroboam eleven years of should fall into his hands. Arbaces well reign with his Father, before he began to pleafed with the Prophecy, did promife unthering such forces as he could out of other breach for Arbaces to enter. manner of his retiredness. For in three bat- nuchs, and all his Treasures, did fet the house tels he carried away the better, driving Ar- on fire, wherewith he and they were togehates and his followers into such fearful ther confumed. Strabo speaks of a Monuconstantly some unexpected succours, they Cilicia, whereon was found an inscription, would forthwith have broken up their shewing that he built that City and Thar-Camp. . About the same time, an Army out sur upon one day: but the addition hereto. of Badria was coming to affift the King; bidding mencat and drink, and make mering to be a flight, caused Sardanapalus to seeming a Prince.

CHAP. XXII.

heart, that leaving his Wives brother Sala-Writer, that lived in the Court of Persia, menus to keep the field, he withdrew himself where the truth might best be known. into the City of Nineve; which, till new Concerning the Princes which reigned ving in two battels overthrown the Kings because they did nothing worthy of memoance. It seems that he wanted Engines and them.

to occupies and fo concluding how to handle the hundred foot high, and thick enough for business, one of them stirred up the Medes, three Chariots in front to pass upon the and allured the Persans into the quarrel, the rampire. But that which he could not do in other perswaded the Babylonians and Ara- two years, the River of Tieris did in the bians to venture themselves in the same third: for being high swoln with rains, it cause. These four Nations armed forty thou- not onely drowned a part of the City fand men against Sardanapalus, who in this through which it ran, but threw down twendanger was not wanting to himself, but ga- ty furlongs of the wall, and made a fair Nations, encountred the rebels, as one that Sardanapalus, either terrified with the acwould by deeds refute the tales that they compliftment of the old Oracle, or feeing had told of him. Neither did his carriage in no means of refiftance left, flutting up himthe beginning of that War, answer to the self into his Palace, with his Wives, Eu-

terms, that had not Belofus promifed them ment of his, that wasin Anchiale, a City of Strab 1.3. but A-baces encountring it upon the way, ry, encouraged others with verses well perswaded to strongly by promise of liberty, known, to a voluptuous life, by his own exthat those forces joyned themselves with his. ample testified that his nature was more The sudden departure of the enemy seem- prone to sensuality, than to any vertue be-fealt his Army, triumphing before victory. There are fome that faintly report other-but the Rebels being ftrengthened with wife of his end; faying that Arbdees, when this new fupply, came upon him by night, he first found him among his Concubines, and forced his Camp, which through over-great fecurity was unprepared for refi-great fecurity was unprepared for refiof Writers agrees with this relation of Dio- nied sic.

This overthrow did so weaken the Kings dorus Siculus, who citeth Clesson a Greek L. c. 7.

aids that he sent for should come, he thought in Affria, from the time of Semiramis, unto eafily to defend; it having been prophelied, Sardanapalus, though I believe that they that Nineve should never be taken, till the were sometimes (yet not, as Orosius hath it, River were enemy to the Town. Of the incessiantly) busied in offensive, or else defengreatness and strength of Nineve, enough sive arms; yet for the most part of them I hath been fpoken in our discourse of Ninus do better trust Diodorus Siculus, who saith It was so well victualled, that Arbaces (ha-that their names were overpassed by Ctessas, Died. 1. 2.

Army, and flain Salamenus) was fain to lye ry. What foever they did, that which Theo-Theoshilut two whole years before it, in hope to win it philus Antiochenus hath faid of them is very Antiochen by famine; whereof yethe faw no appear-true; Silence and Oblivion hath oppressed unit 21.

CHAP. XXIII. Of UZZIA.

The prosperity of Uzzia, and of Jeroboam the second, who reigned with him in Ifrael. Of the Anarchythat was in the ten Tribes after the death of Jeroboam. Of Zacharia, Sallum Menahem, and Pekahia.

twentieth year of Jeroboam the was enough that he found water, by digging fon of Joss King of Jeroel-He ferved the God in the most likely places. If by their Towers of his father David, and had therefore good he fo commanded the water, that none could fuccess in all his enterprises. He built Eloth, a without his consent, relieve themselves Town that frood near to the Red Sea, and therewith, questionless he took the onerestored it to Juda. He overcame the Phili- ly course, by which he might securely hold stims, of whose I owns he dismantled some, the Lordship over all the Wilderness; it and built others in fundry parts of their Ter- being hardly pallable, by reason of the exritories. Also he got the mastery over some tream drought, when the few Springs thereparts of Arabia, and brought the Ammonites in found, are left free to the use of Travelto pay him tribute. Such were the fruits of lers. his prosperous Wars wherein (as Josephus rehearfeth hisacts) he began with the Phili- of Eloth by the Red Sea, and of fundry films, and then proceeded unto the Arabians Towns among the Philiftims; he repaired and Ammonites. His Army confifted of three the wall of Jerusalem, which Joas had brohundred and seven thousand men of War, ken down, and fortified it with Towers, over which were appointed two thousand whereof some were an hundred and fifty and fix hundred Captains. For all this multi- Cubits high. tude the King prepared fields, and spears, and helmets, and other Arms requifite; fol- at this time, fince the division of the twelve lowing therein happily a course quite oppo- Tribes into two Kingdoms. For as Uzzia fite unto that which some of his late prede- prevailed in the South, so (if not more) Jeroceffors had held, who thought it better poli- boam the fon of Joas, King of the ten Tribes, cy to use the service of the Nobility, than of enlarged his border on the North; where the multitude; carrying forth to war the obtaining many victories against the syrians, Princes, and all the Chariots.

important, than the atchievments of all that bout from the entring of Hamath, unto the had reigned in Juda, fince the time of Da- Sea of the Wilderness, that is (as the most exvid; so were his riches and magnificent pound it) unto the vast desarts of Arabia, works, equal, if not superiour to any of theirs the end whereof was undiscovered. So the that had been Kings between him and salo- bounds of Ifrael in those parts, were in time mon. For, befides that great conquefts are of this Jeroboam, the fame (or not much narthe happiness to get. He turned his lands to But it was not for the piety of Jeroboam, the best use, keeping Ploughmen and Dref that he thrived so well, for he was an Idolafers of Vines in grounds convenient for fuch ter: it was only the compassion which the hufbandry. In other places he had Cattel Lord had on Ifrael, feeing the exceeding bitnites and Arabians, that had abundance of the fuccession of war, and to throw the victowaste ground serving for pasturage. For de- rious Aramites under the feet of those whom

Zzia, who is called Abazia, the fence of his Cattel and Heardsmen, he built fon of Jotham, was made King Towers in the Wilderness. He also digged of Juda, when he was fixteen many Cifterns or Ponds. Josephus calls them years old, in the feven and Water-courses; but in such dry grounds, it

Besides all this cost, and the building both

The state of Israel did never so flourish, as inces, and all the Chariots. he wan the Royal City of Damasem, and he stight. As the victories of Vzzia were far more wan Hamath, with all the country therea-15.8. won to repay the charges of War with triple rower) which they had been in the reign of interest, he had the skill to use, as well as David.

feeding; whereof he might well keep great ter affliction whereinto the Aramites had ftore, having won so much from the Ammo | brought his people, which caused him to alter

John to which God had promifed the King- his one and fortieth (his feven and twentieth dom of Ifrael unto the fourth generation, was concurring with the first of Uzzia) and the now not far from the end; and now again eight and thirtieth of the same Uzzia, in the 124 lo it was invited unto repentance by new bene- last fix moneths whereof Zacharia reigned firs. as it hath been at the beginning. But the in Samaria. There are some indeed that by

ment. victorious reign of one and forty years, had life than he did his fervant David. ended his life; it feems in all reason that Zacharia his son should forthwith have been ad- wherein the Throne of Israel was void before mitted to reign in his stead; the Nobility of the reign of Zacharia; little may suffice to that race having gotten such a lustre by the be said of his reign it self, which lasted but a immediate succession of four Kings, that any little while. Six months only was he King; in Competitor, had the Crown passed by electi- which time he declared himself a worshipper on, must needs have appeared base; and the of the golden Calves; which was enough to vertue of the last King having been so great, justifie the judgment of God; whereby he as might well serve to lay the foundation of a was slain. He was the last of Jehu's house, benew house, much more to establish the alrea- ing(inclusively)the first of that line; which are likely not to have been wanting upon for the eradication of Ahabs house: which the wisdom of man was ready to cast army ( who afterwards flew one another fo faff, that in fourteen years there reigned five What this salinm was, I do not find; fave Kings)did now byhead-strong violence, rend onely that he was a Traytor, and the son the Kingdom afunder, holding each what he of one Jabesh, whereby his father got no could, and either despiting or hating some honour. It seems that he was one of those, qualities in Zacharia; untill, after many years, who in time of faction had laboured for wearied with diffention, and the principal himself, and now when all other Competiof them perhaps, being taken out of the way tors were fitten down; thought eafly to by death, for want of any other eminent man, prevail against that King, in whose person the they consented to yeild all quietly to the race of Jehn was to fail. Manifest it is, fon of Jeroboam. That this Anarchy lasted al- that Sallum had a strong party : for Tiphsah most three and twenty years, we find by the or Thapfa, and the coast thereof even from difference of time between the fifteenth year Tirah, where Menahem his enemy and sup-

they had to cruelly oppressed. The line of of Uzzia, which was the last of Jeroboane fin of Jeroboam the fon of Nebat was held fo supposing Jeroboam to have reigned with his pretious, that neither the Kingdom it felf gi- father eleven years, do cut off the interregvento him by God, was able to draw Jehn num in Juda (before mentioned) and by the from that politick Idolatry; nor the mifery fame reason abridge this Anarchy that was falling upon him and his posterity, to bring before the reign of Zacharia in Israel. Yet them to a better course of Religion; nor yet, they leave it twelve years long: which is at the last, this great prosperity of Jeroboam time sufficient to prove that the Kingdom of the son of Joas, to make him render the ho- the ten Tribes was no less distempered than nour that was due to the onely giver of vi- as is already noted. But I choose rather to dory. Wherefore the promile of God made follow the more common opinion, as conunto Jehu, that his fons, unto the fourth gene- curring more exactly with the times of other ration, should fit on the throne of Israel, was Princes reigning abroad in the World, than not enlarged; but being almost expired, this doubtful conjecture, that gives to Jerogave warning of the approaching end, by an boam two and fifty years, by adding three accident (fo strange, that we who find no par- quarters of his fathers reign unto his own; ticulars recorded, can hardly ghess at the which was it self indeed so long, that he may occasions) foregoing the last accomplish well seem to have begun it very young; for I do not think that God blessed this Idolater When Jeroboam the fon of Joas, after a both with a longer reign, and with a longer

Thus much being spoken of the time dy confirmed right of a family so rooted in may have been some cause of the troubles possession. All this notwithstanding, two or impeaching his orderly succession: the prothree and twenty years did pass before Za- phesie having determined that race in the charia the fon of Jeroboam was, by uniform tourth generation. But (befidesthat Gods preconsent, received as King. The true original mise was extended unto the utmost ) there causes hereof were to be found at Dan and was no warrant given to Sallum or to any o-Bethel, where the golden Calves did stand; ther, for the death of Zacharia, as had been giyet second instruments of this disturbance ven to Jehn for the slaughter of Jehoram, and Zacharia having been fix moneths a King, 2 King. 15 an eye. Probable it is, that the Captains of the was then tlain by Sallum, who reigned af-13 Kkko planter planter then lay, refused to admit, as King in his fread, the man that murdered him. Yet at the end of one moneth, sallum received the reward of his treason, and vvas flain by Me-earnest, in procuring unto him his Fathers Lord, God made him prosper.

his room.

joyned with Arbaces the Median, against Sar- the Kings face, which was presently infectdanapalus, or whether he were some other ed with leprosie. All this may have been man. At the present it is more fit that we re- true; and some there are vvho think that this late the end of Ozzia's life, who out-lived Earth-quake is the same, which is mentioned the happiness wherein we left him.

6. II. The end of Uzzia his Reign and Life.

nahem who reigned in his place.

Menahem the son of Gadi, reigned after sallum ten years. In opposition to Sallum, David in the person of Joas, so it appears; that his hatred was deadly, and inhumane, for the care of holy men was not wanting to he not onely destroyed Tiphsab, and all that Vzzia, to bring him up and advance him to vvere therein, or thereabouts, but he ript up the Crown of Juda, when the hatred born to all their women with child, because they did his Father Amazia had endangered his such not open their gates and let him in. Had this cession. For it is said of Vzzia, That he south cruelty been used in revenge of Zacharia's God in the days of Zacharia (which understood death, it is like that he would have been as the visions of God and when as he sought the Crown when it was first due. But in perform- But, when he was strong, his heart was lifted ing that office, there was used such long de- up to his destruction: for he transgressed against liberation, that we may plainly discover Am- the Lord his God, and went into the Temple of Valent. bition Dildain and other private passions, to the Lord to burn incense upon the Altar of inhave been the causes of this beaftly outrage. cense. Thus he thought to enlarge his own In the time of Menahem, and (as it feems) authority, by medling in the Priests office. in the beginning of his Reign, Pul, King of vyhole power had in every extremity been Affyria, came against the Land of Ifrael, whom so helpful to the Kings of Juda, that meer this new King appeared, with a thousand ra-lents of filver, levied upon all the substantial back Uzzia from incroaching thereupon.yea, men in his Countrey. With this money the If though the Law of God had been filent in raelite purchased, not onely the peace of his this case, and not forbidding it. Howsoever, Kingdom; but his own establishment therein: the King forgot his duty, the Priests rememfome factious man (belike) having either in- bred theirs, & God forgat not to affift them. vited Pul thither, or (if he came uncalled ) Azaria the high Priest interrupted the Kings fought to use his help, in deposing this ill-be-loved King. Josephus reports of this Menahem, little to his honour it vvould prove, that he that his reign was no milder than his en- took upon him the office of the fons of Aaron. trance. But after ten years, his tyranny ended There vvere vvith Azaria fourfcore other with his life;and Pekahia his Son occupied Priests, valiant men, but their valour vvas shewed onely in assisting the high Priest, Of this Pekahia the story is short : for he vvhen (according to his duty) he reprehenreigned onely two years; at the end whereof, ded the Kings prefumption. This was enough he was fluin by Peka the son of Ramalia, whose the rest God himself performed. We find in treasen was rewarded with the Crown of If- Josephus, that the King had apparelled himrael as, in time comming, another mans Trea- self in Priestly habit, and that he threatned fon against himself shall be. There needs no Azaria and his Companions, to punish them more to be faid of Menahem and his son, save vvith death, unless they would be quiet. that they were both of them Idolaters, and Josephus indeed inlargeth the Story, by in- 10 at the fon (as we find in Josephus) like to his fa- ferting a great Earth-quake, which did tear ther in cruelty. Concerning Pulthe Assyrian down half an Hill, that rowled four furlongs, King, who first opened unto those Northern till it rested against another Hill, stopping Nations the way into Palastina; it will shortly up the high-ways, and spoiling the Kings follow in order of the Story, to deliver our o-Garden in the passage. With this Earth-quake pinion: whether he were that Belosus (called he saith, that the roof of the Temple did also Beleses, and by some Phul Belochus ) who cleave, and that a Sun-beam did light upon by the Prophet Amos; vvherein they do much mif-reckon the times. For the Earthquake spoken of by Amos, vvas in the days of Jeroboam King of Ifrael, who dyed feven

and thirty years before Uzzia, so that Jotham

the fon of Uzzia, which supplyed his Fa- Flay, the first of the four great prophets, bethere place in government of the Land, gan to fee his visions. This difference of creat cause he was a Leper.

Of the Prophets which lived in the time of Uzand in some other Countries.

N the time of Vzzia were the first of the the Kingdom of Judalesser Prophets, Hosea, Joel, Amos, Obadia and Jonas. It is not indeed fet down, lowed in the Kingdom of Egypt: unto him fucwhen foel or Obadia did prophecy but if the ceeded Amylis, and these two occupied that Prophets, whose times are not expressed, Crown fix years. Then Sabacus, an Æthiopian, ought to be ranged (according to Saint Hie- became King of Egypt, and held it fifty years, rome's rule ) with the next before them; then whereof the ten first ran along with the last must these two be judged contemporary of Uzzia his Reign and Life. Of these and owith Hofea and Amos, who lived under King ther Egyptian Kings, more shall be spoken, Uzzia. To enquire which of these five was when their affairs shall come to be interthe most ancient, it may perhaps be thought, medled with the business of Juda. at least, a superfluous labour; yet if the age teme, victories of Tereboam King of Ifrael, and with the three and twenty of Silvius Procas, therefore is like to have prophesied in the and two and twenty the first of Silvius Amuby his fufferings, than by his writings, now ex- not likely to forget it. tant in all the rest are found express promises of the Meffias.

In the reign of Vzzia likewise it was, that, should, by this accompt, have been then un- and leffer prophets, is taken from the Voborn: for he vvas but five and twenty years lumes which they have left written as S. old when he began ro reign as King. There- Augustine gives reason of the distinction before, thus far onely vve have affurance; that cause the greater have written larger Books. dra. 6. while Uzzia was wroth with the Priefts, the le- The prophet Flay was great indeed, not on- Ang de profie rose up in his forc-head, before the Priests. ly in regard of his much writing, or of his first, res. Hereupon he vvas caused, in all haste, to de- Nobilitie, (for their opinion is rejected, who part the place, & to live in a house by himself think him to have been the son of Amos the untill he dyed, the rule over the Kings house, Prophet) and the high account wherein he and over all the Land, being committed to lived; but for the excellencie both of his frile Jotham, his Son and Successour. Jotham took and argument, wherein he so plainly foretelnot upon himself the stile of a King, till his eth the Birth, Miracles, Passion, and whole Father yyas dead; vyhom they buried in the History of our Saviour, with the calling of ame field wherein his Ancestors lay interred; the Gentiles, that he might as well be called vet in a Monument apart from the rest, be- an Evangelist, as a Prophet; having written in such wise, That ( as Hierome faith ) Hier. in one would think he did not foretell of things to pref. Just come but compile an History of matters already

Bocchoris was King of Egypt, and the ninth zia; and of Princes then ruling in Egypt, year of his reign, by our computation (whereof in due place we will give reason) was current, when Uzzia took possession of

After the death of Bocchoris, Afthis fol-

In Athens, the two last years of Ariphron wherein Homer lived, hath fo plentifully been his twenty, the feven and twentieth of Thefought, without reprehension, how can he be spains, the twentieth of Agamnestor, and the taxed, which offers to fearch out the anti-three first of Æschilus his three and twenty, quity of these holy Prophets? It seems to me, made even with the two and fifty of Vzzia: that the first of these, in order of time, was as likewise did in Alba the last seven of Silthe Prophet Jonas; who foretold the great vius Aventinus his seven and thirty, together days of Joas, whilest the afflictions of Ifrael lius. In Media Arbaces began his new Kingwas exceeding bitter; the Text it felf intima- dom in the first of Uzzia, wherein, after ting no less: by which consequence he was eight and twenty years, his son Sofarmus sucelder than the other Prophets, whose works ceeded him, and reigned thirty years. Of are now extant. But his prophecies that con- this Arbaces, and the division of the Asyrian cerned the Kingdom of Ifrael are now lost. Empire, between him and others, when they That which remaineth of him, feems, not had oppressed Sardanapalus, I hold it conwithout reason unto some very learned, to venient to use more particular discourse, that have belonged unto the time of Sardana- we may not wander in too great uncertain-Palus in whose days Nineve was first of all de- ty in the story of the Assyrian Kings, who have stroyed. This Prophet rather taught Christ already found the way into Palastina and are

CHAP. XXIII.

ş. IV.

reigned a part in Nineve and Babylon.

rent, that the chief therein was Arbaces the Afgrians under their subjection, when the Medyan; to whom the rest of the Confede-rest of the Provinces were set at liberty; but rates did not onely fubmit themselves in in consideration of the Kings themselves. that War, but vvere contented afterwards who reigning afterwards in Babylon and Nito be judged by him, receiving by his au- neve are confounded by fome, and diftinguiforfeited lives. The first example of his pow- made uncertain. cr. yvas flewn upon Belofus the Babylonian, I will first therefore deliver the opinion by vyhose special advice and help, Arbaces generally received, and the grounds wherehimself vvas become so great: Yet vvas not upon it stands: then, producing the objectithis power of Arbaces exercised in so tyran- ons made against it, I will compare together nical a manner, as might give offence in that the determination of that worthy man Joseph great alteration of things, either to the Prin- Scaliger, with those learned that subscribe ces that had affifted him, or to the genera-thereunto, and the judgement of others that lity of the people. For in the condemnation were more ancient Writers, or have followof Belofus, he used the counsel of his other ed the Ancients in this doubtfull case. Nei-Captains, and then pardoned him of his own ther shall it be needfull to set down a-part grace; allowing him to hold not onely the the feverall authorities and arguments of City and Province of Babylon, but also those fundry men, adding somwhat of weight, or treasures, for embezelling vyhereof his life of clearnesse one to another: it will be had been endangered.

rest of his partakers, and made them Rulers and without sear to be taxed of partialitie, of Provinces; retaining (as it appears ) onely as being no more addicted to the one opinithe Soveraignty to himself, which to use on than to the other, by any fancie of mine immoderately he did naturally abhor. He own, but meerly led by those reasons, which is faid, indeed, to have excited the Medera- upon examination of each part, feemed to gainst Sardanapalus, by propounding unto me most forceable, though to others they them hope of transferring the Empire to may perhaps appear weak. their Nation. And to make good this his pro- That which until of late, hath paffed as curmife, he destroyed the City of Nineve, per- rent, is this That Belofus was the same King, mitting the Citizens nevertheless to take and who, first of the Affirians, entred Palastina carry away every one his own goods. The with an Armie; being called Pul, or Phul, in other Nations that joyned with him, as the the Scriptures, and by Annius his authors by the allurement of liberty; which he him- this man it is faid, that he was a skilfull Afelf fo greatly leved, that by flacking too ftrologer, fubrile, and ambitious; that much the reins of his own Soveraignty, he he got Babylon by composition made with did more harm to the general effate of Me- Arbaces; and that not therewith content, he dia, than the pleasure of the freedom, which got into his hand part of Affyria: finally that it enjoyed could recompence. For both the he reigned eight and fortie years, and then rower by Salmanaffar, (or perhaps by some his son in whose Posterity it continued some of his Progenitors) whom we find in the few defeents, till the house of Merodach Scriptures to have held some Towns of the prevailed. The truth of this, if Annius his Medes; and the civil administration was so Metasthenes were sufficient proof, could not disorderly, that the people themselves were be gainfaid; for that Author (such as he is) is terms of obedience,

How the force of the Allyrians grew to be fuch as might in fourfcore years, if not fooof the Affyrian Kings, descending from Phul: ner.both extend it felf unto the conquest of and whether Phul and Belolus were one Ifrael, and tear away some part of Media, it is person, or heads of sundry Families, that a question hardly to be answered; not onely in regard of the destruction of Nineve, and Subvertion of the Alivrian Kingdom, whereof Y that which hath formerly been thew- the Medes, under Arbaces, had the honour. Sed of Sardanapalus his death, it is appa- who may feem at that time to have kept the thority fentence of death or pardon of their flied by others; whereby their Hiftory is enough to relate the whole fubstance of each In like manner, he gave rewards to the discourse which I will doe as briefly as I can.

Persians and Ballrians, he drew to his side, with such as follow them, Phul Belochus. Of Territory of that Countrey was pared nar-dying, left the Kingdome to Teglat-phalassar glad to fee that reformation, which Deioces peremptorie herein. But, howfoever Annithe fift of Arbaccs his Line, did make in that is his Authors deferve to be suspected, it government, by reducing them into stricter stands with no reason, that wee should conclude all to be falle which they affirme. fie it by divers good. Allegations, as a mat- he had fuch means as Telejus had, which Field ter confirmed by circumftances found in all if he were not Belows is likely to have want-Authors, and repugnant unto no historie at ed. all. For it is manifest by the relation of Dio-dorus (which is indeed the foundation fon from Belojus, and Lord of Africa, which as of right, unto the Seat of the Empire. Flowers both. This being for how can it be thought triendship of these Arabians was a thing of that the Affyrians in three or four years had main importance, to those that were to pass less, to reftore fuch a City as Nineve, was an mory whereof was availeable to the Syrians,

They, who maintaine this Tradition, justi-tenterprise fit for none to take in hand, except

whereupon all have built) that Arbaces and lay beyond the Countries of Eabylon and Belows were partners in the action against Melopotamia, it would not have been an easie Sardanapalus; and that the Ballrians, who matter for him, to pass quite through anojoyned with them, were thought well re- ther mans Kingdom with an Army, feeking warded with libertie, as likewise other Cap- booty a far off in Jirael; the onely action tains were with governments: but that any by which the name of Phut is known. But third person was so eminent, as to have Affy- if we grant, that he, whom the Seciptures call ria it felte, the cheife Countrey of the Em- Pul or Phul, was the fame whom prophane pire bestowed upon him, it is a thing where- writers have called Belefins, fielder, and Be-Liosus, of not the least appearance is found in any lestis (in like manner as losey has acknowledge Hiftoric. And certainly it flood with little eth, that he whom the Scriptures called nereason, that the Asyrians should be commit- ver otherwise than Darius the Mede, was the ted unto a peculiar King, at such time as it son of Assigners, and called of the Greeks by was not meet to trust them in their own another name, that is, Cyaxeres ) then is this walls and houses. Rather it is apparent, that scruple utterly removed. For Babylon and the destruction of Nineve by Arbaces, and the Mesopotamia did border upon Syria and Patransplantation of the Citizens, was held a lestina: so that Belosus having settled his afneedfull policy, because thereby the people sairs in Alignia towards the East and North, of that Nation might be kept down from af- might with good leifure encroach upon the piring to recover the Soveraignty, which Countries that lay on the other fide of his elfe they would have thought to belong, Kingdom, to the South and West. He that looks into all particulars, may find every Upon such considerations did the Romans, one circumstance concurring, to prove that in ages long after following, deftroy Carthage | Phul, who invaded Ifrael, was none other and dillolve the Corporation, or Body poli- than Belofus. For the Prince of the Arabians, tick, of the Citizens of Capua; because those who joyned with Arbaces, and brought no two Towns were capable of the Empire: a small part of the forces wherewith Sardanamatter esteemed over-dangerous, even to palus was overthrown, did enter into that Rome it felfe, that was Miltrelic of them action, meerly for the love of Relofus. The erected their Kingdome a new under one over Euphrates with an Army into Syria. Pul? or what must this Pul have been ( of Wherefore Beloss, that held good correswhose deservings or entermedling, or in-pondence with them, and whose most fruitdeed of whose very name, we find no men-full Province, adjoying to their barren tion in the Warre against Sardanapalus) to quarters, might yearly do them inestimable whom the principal parts of the Empire fell pleasures, was not only likely to have quiet either by generall confent in division of the passage through their borders, but their ut-Provinces, or by his owne power and pur- most assistance: yea, it stands with good reachase very soon after? Surely he was none son, that they who loved not Israel, should other than Belofus; whose neer neighbour- for their own behoofe have given him intellihood gave him opportunity( as he was wife gence of the destructions and civil broyles aenough to play his own game) both to get mong the ten Tribes; whereby as this Pul Allyria to himself, and to empeach any other got a thousand talents, so it seems that the syman that should have attempted to seize riuns and Arabians, that had selt an heavy upon it. The Province of Babylon, which Be- neighbour of Jeroboam, recovered their own, losus held, being ( as Herodotus reports ) in setting up a new King in Damasco, and clearriches and power as good as the third part of ling the coast of Arabia, ( from the Sea of the the Persian Empire, was able to furnish him Wilderness to Hamath) of the Hebrew Garriwith all that was requifite for fuch a butiness: fons. Neither was it any new acquaintance, if that were not enough. he had gotten into that made the Nations, divided by Euphrates, his own hands all the gold and filver that had hold together in fo good terms of friendbeen in the Palace of Nineve. And question- thip: it was ancient contanguinity, the mein the time of David, when the Aramites this Reign; manifest it is, that the conquest

They

business which might allure the Chaldeans made until Belosus could find leisure; and the into Palæstina, it may be doubted, lest it time of advantage which Belosus did let slip, should seem to have ill coherence with that argued his business in some other quarter, which hath been faid of the long Anarchy namely, in that Province of which Phul is that was in the ten Tribes. For if the called King. Briefly, it may be faid, that he Crown of Israel were worn by no man in who conquered Affyria, and performed somethree and twenty years, then is it likely that what upon a Country fo far diftant as Pale-Belofus was either unwilling to stir, or un-fina, was likely to have been, at least, named able to take the advantage when it was fair-in some History, or, if not himself, yet his est and first discovered. This might have com- Country to have been spoken of for those vipelled those, who alone were not strong ctories: but we neither hear of Phul, in any enough to feek after help from some Prince prophane Author; neither doth any Writer, that lay further off; and so the opinion of sacred or prophane, once mention the vithose that distinguish Phul from Belosus, Ctories or acts whatsoever of the Assertant would be somewhat confirmed. On the other done in those times; whereas of Belosus, and fide, if we fay, that Belosus did pass the river the power of the Chaldeans, we find good of Eurphrates, as foon as he found likelihood Record. of making a prosperous journey, then may Surely, that great slaughter of so many it feem that the inter-regnum in Ifrael was thousand Affyrians, in the quarrel of Sardananot so long as we have made it: for three palus, together with other calamities of that and twenty years leifure would have afford-long and unfortunate war, which overed better opportunity, which ought not to whelmed the whole Country, ending but have been loft.

what Orofius and Eusebius have written con- of Asyria, that it could not in thirty years cerning the Chaldees: the one, that after the space be able to invade Palastina, which the departure of Arbaces into Media, they layd ancient Kings, reigning in Nineve, had, in all hold on a part of the Empire : the other, that their greatness, forborn to attempt. Yet they prevailed and grew mighty, between these afflictions, disabling that Countrey, did the times of Arbaces and Deioces the Medes. help to enable Belosus to subdue it; who ha-Now, though it be held an errour of Orost- ving once extended his Dominion to the w, where he supposeth that the occupying of borders of Media, and being (especially if Babylonia by the Chaldwans was in a manner he had compounded with the Medes) by the of a rebellion from the Medes; yet herein he interpolition of that Countrey, secure of the and Enselius do concur, that the autho- Scythians, and other warlike Nations on that riry of Arbaces did restrain the ambition, side, might very well turn Southward, and which by his absence grew bold, and by his try his fortune in those Kingdoms, wheredeath, regardful onely of it felf. Now, though into civill diffention of the inhabitants, and fome have conjectured that all Affyria the bordering envy of the Arabians and Arawas given to Belosus ( as an overplus, besides | mites about Damasco, Friends and Cousins the Provinces of Babylon which was his by to the Chaldeans and Mesopotamians, did inplain bargain made aforehand ) in regard vite him. For these, and the other before of his high defervings; yet the opinion alledged reasons, it may be concluded, That more commonly received, is, that he did what is faid of Pul in the Scriptures, ought to onely incroach upon that Province by lit- be understood of Belosus; even as by the tle and little, whilest Arbaces lived, and af-names of Nebuchadnezzar, Darius the Mede, terwards dealing more openly, got it all Artashasht, and Abashuerosh, with the like, himselse. Seeing therefore, that there pass are thought, or known, to be meant the fed but twelve years between the death of fame whom prophane Historians, by names Arbaces, and the beginning of Menabem better known in their own Countreys, have beyond the river came over willingly, to of Assyria, and settling of that Countrey, was the fuccour of Hadadezer, and the Aramites work enough to hold Belofus occupyed about Damasco. So Belosus had good rea- besides the restauration of Nineue, which fon to look into those parts: what a King alone was able to take up all the time remaireigning fo far off as Nineve, should have to ning of his reign, if perhaps he lived to fee do in Syria, if the other end of his Kingdom it finished in his own days. So that this had not reached to Euphrates, it were hard to argument may rather ferve to prove that Phul and Belofus were one person, forasmuch But concerning this last argument of the as the journey of Phul against Ifrael was not with the ruine and utter desolation of Ni-For answer, hereunto we are to consider, neve, must needs have so weakened the state felves or others with framing new conjecttures, This in effect is that, which they alledge in maintenance of the opinion commonly received.

things of more importance will of themselves easily follow. For it is a matter of no nasjar none other than Baladan King of Babel. great consequence to know the truth of this and not Salmanasar King of Assyria point (confidering it apart from that which depends thereon) Whether Pul were Belosus, of these two names, Nabonassar and Salmanaor some other man: the whole race of these far, which in Greek or Latine writing hath Affrian and Babylonian Kings, wherein are no difference, we are taught by Scaliger, that found those famous Princes, Nabonassar, Mar- in the Hebrew letters there is found no affidocempadus, and Nabopollassar (famous for the nity therein. So concerning the places of Ba-Astronomicall observations recorded from bylonia, whereinto Salmanassar carried captheir times) is the main ground of this con- tive some part of the ten Tribes, it may well tention. If therefore Belosus or Beleses were be granted, that in the Province of Babylon, that Phul which invaded Ifrael; if he and his Salmanassar had gotten somewhat, vet will posterity reigned both in Nineve and in Baby- it not follow that he was King of Babylon it lon; if he were father of Teglat-Phul-Afer, selfe. To conclude, Merodach began his from whom Salmanasar, Senacherib, and A- reign over Babylon in the fixt year of Hezisarbaddon descended; then it is manifest, that kia, at which time Salmanasar took Samaria; we must seek Nabonassar the Babylonian King, among those Princes, yea, and conclude him then must we say that he and Merodach, yea, to be none other than Salmanafar, who is and Nabonassar, were all one man. These are known to have reigned in those years which the arguments of that noble and learned Ptolomy the Mathematician hath affigned Writer Joseph Scaliger; who not contented to This is the scope and end of all his disputa- ference.

will not be fatisfied with fuch conjectures. They lay hold upon the conclusion, and by their ignorance, that have spent their labour shaking that into peices, hope to overthrow to so little purpose. Honest and painfull all the premises upon which it is inferred. For (say they) if Nabonassar that reigned in their diligence might have won the good li-Babylon, could not be Salmanasar, or any of king of their Readers, had they not, by menthose other Asserian Kings, then it is manifest tioning Annius his Authors, given such ofthat the races were diffinct, and that Phul and Belofus were feverall Kings. This confequence is so plain, that it needs no confirmation. To prove that Nabonassar was a diftinct person from Salmanassar, are brought fuch arguments as would stagger the resolution of him that had fworn to hold the contrary. For first, Nabonasar was King of Babylon, and not of Affyria. This is proved by his name, which is meerly Chaldean, vvhereas Salman, the first part of Salmanasars name, is proper to the Affyrians.

It is likewise proved by the Astronomical observations, which proceeding from the Babylonians, not from the Assyrians, do shew

called Nabopollasser, Cyaxares, and Artaxer- | that Epocha, or account of times, vvas a Babyxes: especially considering, that hereby we lonian, and no Affyrian. Thirdly, and more shall neither contradict any thing that hath strongly, it is confirmed by the successor of been written of old, or need to trouble our Nabonaffar, which vvas Mardocempadus, called in his own language Mero-dac-ken-pad, E/sy 39.1. but more breifly in Elay his prophecie. Merodac by the former Part of his name; or Merodach Baladan the fon of Baladan. Now if Now this being once granted, other Merodachthe fon of Baladan King of Babel. were the fonne of Nabonaffar, then was Nabo-

What can be plainer? As for the cadence unto Nabonassar. As for Merodech, who supplanted Asir-haddon, manifest it is, that likelihood of conjectures, hath drawn his he and his successors were of another house. proofes from matter of more necessary in-

Touching all that was faid before of Phul But they that maintain the contrary part, Belosus, for the proving that Phul and Belosus were not fundry Kings; Joseph Scaliger pities men he confesseth that they were, who by fences that men refused thereupon to read their Bookes and Chronologies. A short

For mine own part, howfoever I beleeve nothing that Annius his Berofus, Metasthenes, and others of that stamp affirm, in respect of their bare authority; yet am I not so sqeamish, but that I can well enough digest a good Book, though I find the names of one or two of these good fellows alledged in it: I have (fomewhat peradventure to often) already spoken my mind of Annius his Authors: Neverthelesse, I may say here again, that where other Histories are filent, or speak not enough, there may we without that Nabonassar, from vvhom Ptolomy draws shame borrow of these, as much as agrees with that little which elfewhere we find, and wife King Philip loft partly, and partly did probabilities.

ful men (as sealiger terms them, meaning, them, being me-thinks none other than anif I mistake him not, good filly fellows) who swers to somewhat that is or might be alledfet down the Affrian Kings from Pul for- ged on the contrary fide) one of them which wards, as Lords also of Babylon, taking Pul is drawn from the unlike sound and wrifor Belosus, and Salmana far for Nabonasiar, ting of those names, Salmanasjar and Nabofuch Writers as a man should be assamed or nassar in the Hebrew, I hold a point about unwilling to read. For ( to omit a multitude, which no man will dispute; for it is not likeof others, that herein follow Anniue, though nefs of found, but agreement of time, and disliking him in general ) Gerard Mercator is many circumstances else, that must take anot so slight a Chronologer, that he should be I way the distinction of persons: the other likelaughed out of doors with the name of an wife may be granted, which is, that Salmahonest meaning fellow.

Scaliger and Mercator; they were both of lon it felt: this indeed might be so, and it them men notably learned: let us examine might be otherwife. Hitherto there is nothe arguments of scaliger, and see whether thing save conjecture. But in that which is althey be of fuch force as cannot either be re- ledged out of the Prophet Esay concerning fifted or avoided. It will eafily be granted, Merodach the fon of Baladan; and in that that Nabonassar was King of Babylon; that he which is said of this Merodach, and Mardowas not King of Alpria, some men doubt kerpadus, his being the Successor of Nahonassar whether scaligers reasons be enough to and his beginning to reign in the fixt year of prove. For though Nabonasar be a Chalda an Hezekra. I find matter of more difficulty, than name, and Salmanasar an Asyrian; yet what can be answered in hast I will therefore defer hinders us from believing that one man in the handling of these objections untill I meet two languages might be called by two feve- with their subject in his proper place; which ral names. That Astronomy flourished a- will be when we come to the time of Hezekia, mong the Chaldees, is not enough to prove wherein Merodach lived, and was King. Yet Nabonaljar either an Astrologer or a Chalda- that I may not leave too great a scruple in Scales. an. So it is, that Scaliger himself calls them, the mind of the Reader, thus far will I here Prophetas nescio quos, qui Nabonastarum latisfic himsthat how strong soever this argu-Allronomum suife in somnis viderunt; Pro- ment may seem, scaliger himself did live to phets I know not who, that in their fleep have retract it, ingenuoually confessing, that in

Whether Nabonassar were an Astrologer Now therefore let us consider, in v t or no, I cannot tell; it is hard to maintain fort they have sashioned their Story, who ferveth to explain or inlarge it without im- put to a dangerous hazzard all the Netherlands, by such a course. As for the two un-Neither indeed are those honest and pain- answerable arguments, ( as Scaliger terms nasjar might be Lord of some places in the But I will not make comparisons between Province of Babylon, yet not King of Eabydreampt of Nabonatiar, that he was an Altro- thinking Merodach to be the fon of Nabon C Jur, he had been deceived.

CHAP. XXIII

CHAP. XXIII.

the negative: But as his being Lord over the king Ful to be a dillinct person from Belosus Chaldeans, doth not prove him to have or Belestis, have in like sort, as was necessary been learned in their sciences; so doth it ry, distinguished their off-spring, making not prove him not to have been also that of Ful to fail in Alarhaddon, which left King of Assyria. The Emperour Charles the all to Meradach the Babylonian. And here I fift, who was born in Gant, and Philiphis must first confess my want of Books, if Son, King of Spain, and Lords of the Ne- perhaps there be many, that have gone atherlands, had non far more learned in all bout to reduce this narration into some such Sciences, and particularly in the Mathema- order, as might present unto us the body of ticks, among their Subjects of the Low Counthis History, in one view. Divers, indeed, tries, than were any that I read of then living there are, whom I have seen, that since Join Spain, if Spain at that time had any; yet feph Scaliger delivered his opinion, have writ-I think, Policrity will not use this as an artice in favour of some one or other point gument, to prove that Spain was none of thereofibut Sethis Calvifus himfelf, who hath theirs. It may well be, that salmanassar or abridged scaligers leatned Work, De emen-Nabonassar did use the Asyrian Souldiers, and datione Temporum, hath not been careful to Eabylonian Scholars; but it scems, that he give us notice, how long Belojus, Ealadan, and his pesterity, by giving themselves Pul, or Tiglat Pulassar did reign, (perhaps wholly to the more warlike Nation; loft the because he found it not expressed in Scaliger) richer, out of which they first issued, as like- but is content to set down Baladan, for the same person with Nabonassar, which Scaliger in there space, that is, in four years, it came himself revoked. In this case therefore I to pass by the just judgment of God, that Phil must lay down the plot of these divided and Belosus rebelled against Arbaces, like as Kingdoms, in such fort as I find it conceived Arbaces had done against Sardanapalus; and by Augustinus Torniellus; who onely of all instead of being Vice-Roys, made themselves that I have feen, fets down the fuccession, absolute Kings. And to this later opinion Torcontinuance, and acts, of those that reigned niellus himself leans, holding it much the in Allyria after Sardanapalus, distinguishing more probable, as being more agreeable to them from Belofus, and his Posterity, of that which is found in prophane Histories. whom he hath the like remembrance. This Why he did make and publish theformer sup-Torniellus is a Regular Clark of the congre- poling, refolving to hold the later. Ishall agation of S. Paul, whose Annales were prin- non, without any wrong to him, make bold to ted the last year; he appears to me a man ghels. Having thus devised how Phul and Beof a curious industry, found judgment, and losus might, at the first, attain to be Kings, he free Spirit; yet many times (and I take it, orders their time and their fuccessors in this wilfully)forgetfulof thanking, or mentioning manner. those Protestant Writers, by whose Books he hath received good information, and reign, and continues eight and forty years. enriched his works by inferting somewhat Theglatphalasar (whose name, and the names of theirs. But in this business he hath of other Princes, I write diversly, accoropenly professed to follow scaliger, whose ding to the Authors whom I have in hand help, without wrong or dishonour to him- are pleased to diversifie them) succeeding felf, he hath both used and acknowledged. unto Phul, reigned three and twenty. Salma-For mine own part, I will not spare to do nassar followed him, and reigned ten. After right unto Torniellus; but confess my felf him Senacherib reigned seven; and when he to have received benefit by his writing; and was flain, Afarhadden his fon ten years; in wish that his Annals had sooner come to light; whom that line failed. for that as he hath much confirmed me in fomethings, fo would he have instructed King of Assertion, or not long after (why not and imboldened me to write more fully and rather afore? for fo it had been more likely) less timerously in other things, which now Belosus usurped the Kingdom of Babylon, I have no leisure to revise. Particularly in and held it threescore and eight years; at that coniecture (which I had faintly deliver- the least threescore and eight years did pass, ed, and yet feared lest it had over-hastily pas- before Nabonassar followed him in the posfed out of my hand, and been exposed to o- fession. ther mens constructions) of the four Kings To Nabonassar, whom (with Scaliger) he

as I have done, to fay, that they may pro- dach, or Mardocempadus: four and twenty to bably be thought to have been some petty Ben Merodach: and lastly one and twenty to Lords; the contrary opinion of all Writers Nabolassar the father of Nebuchodonosor; who notwithstanding. But now let us consider is like to offer matter of further disputation. how he hath ordered these last Assyrian and that invaded the Valley of Siddim, and were thinks to be Baladan, are assigned fix and flain by Abraham, I find him adventuring twenty years: then two and fifty to Mero-

Four years after Arbaces, Phul begins to

Concerning the original of these Assyrian Babylonian Kings. After the destruction of and Babylonian Kingdoms, I may truly Sardanapalus, Arbaces, being the most migh- say, That the conjectures of other men, who ty, fought to get all to himself, but was op-give all to Belosus, and confound him with posed by Belosus; in which contention, one Phul, appear to me more nearly resembling Phul a powerful man in Affyria, fided with the truth. Neither do I think, that Tor-Belofus, and they two prevailed to far, that niellus would have conceived two different finally Arbaces was content to share the Em- waies, by which Phul might have gotten Afpire with them, making such a division there- fired ( for how Belosus came to get Babylon, of, as was long after made of the Roman it is plain enough ) if either of them alone Empire between Octavian, Anthony, and could have contented him. He adheres to the latter of the two, as better agreeing with Another conjecture is (for Torniellus of Diodore, and other Historians. But he perfers not this, or the rest, as matter of cer- ceived, that to make Phul on the sudden King tainty) that Arbaces made himself Soveraign of Affiria; or to give him so noble a Province, Lord of all, and placed the feat of his as would, of it felf, invite him to accept Empire in Media, appointing Belofus his Lieu- the name and power of a King, was a thing renant in Babylonio, and Phulin Affria. But most unlikely to have happened, unless his

450

CHAP. XXII.

been proportionable to fo high a reward, without bluffing after a little, to help our And for this caule (as I take it) hath he de- own opinions, and lay the blame upon Annivised the means, whereby Phul might be us, against whom we shall be sure to find made capable of fo great a share in the Em- friends that will take our part. pire. If this were a true or probable suppo- The reigns of Theglathalasar and Salmatition, then would a new doubt arife, Why naffar did reach, by Annius his measure, to this Phul being one of the three that divided the length of five and twenty years the all betweene them, was utterly forgotten by one, and feventeen the other; Torniellus all Hilterians? yea, why this division it selfe, hath cut off two from the former, and seand the civil Warres that caused it, were ven from the latter of them to fit (as I think) never heard of? Questionlesses, the enterver- his own computation; using the liberty ting of some treasures by Belosus, with his whereof I spake last: for that any Author. Judgment, Condemnation, and Pardon fol- fave our good Metasthenes, or those that borlowing, were matters of farre lefte note, rowed of him, hath gone about to tell how Therefore I doe not fee, how one of the two long each of these did reign, it is more than I inconveniences can this way be avoyded; have yet found. To Senacherib and Afarhadbut that either we must confesse the Domi don, Torniellus gives the same length of reign, nion given to Phul to have been exceeding which is found in Metasthenes, I think there his merits; or else his merits, and name with are not many, that will arrogate so much all, to have been strangely forgotten; either unto themselves, as may very well be allowof which is enough to make us thinke, that ed unto a man fo judicious as is Torniellus: rather the conjecture, inferring such a sequel, and yet I could wish that he had forborn is wide of the truth. As for the rebellion of to condemn the followers of Annius in this Phul and Belofus, against Arbaces, it was al- business, wherein he himself hath chosen. most impossible for the Alignians to recover in part rather to become one of them, than fuch ftrength in foure years, as might ferve to fay, as else he must have done, almost noto hold out in rebellion: for Belofus it was thing. needlesse to rebell, considering, that Arbaces did not seek to molest him, but rather per- the measuring the reigns of the Chaldaans, mitted (as being an over-great favourer of filling up all the space between the end of liberty) even the Medes that were vnder Sardanapalus and the beginning of Nabonafhis own Government, to doe what they far, with the threescore and eight years of them all (for some will require a large dis-score and eight years would seem a long course in their own times; but speaking of time for him to hold a Kingdom, that was no their order and time in generall. If it be foe young man when he took possession of it. unlawfull to think, that some of Annius his But how is any whit of his age abated by tales (let them all be counted his tales, which shortning his reign, seeing his life reacheth are not found in other Authors as well as in to the end of such a time, as were alone withhis) may be true, especially such as contra-out adding the time wherein he was a prilikelihood; why then is it faid, that Phul did eight and forty years had been somewhat of reign in Alignia eight and forty years? For the most, considering that he seems by the this hath no other ground than Annius. Itory to have been a little less at such time as It is true that painful and judicious Writers he joyned with Arbaces; and therefore the have found this number of years to agree fit- addition of twenty years, did well deserve ly with the course of things in History: yet that note (which Torniellus advisedly gives) all of them took it from Annius. Let it there- that if his reign extended not fo far, then the fore be the punishment of Annius his for- reign of such as came after him, occupied gery (as questionless he is often guilty of this the middle time, unto Nabonassar. crime) that when he tels truth, or proba- I neither do reprehend the boldness of bility, he be not believed for his own fake ; Torniellus, in conjecturing, nor the modesty though for our own fakes we make use of of Scaliger and Sethus Calvifus, in forbearing his boldness, taking his words for good, to set down as warrantable, such things as whereas (nothing elfe being offered) we are depend onely upon likelihood. For things, unwilling our felves to be Authors of new, whereof the perfect knowledge is taken athough not unprofitable conjectures. Herein way from us by Antiquity must be described deferts( who roof we find no mention) had twe shall have this commodity, that we may

Belofus. In this respect it was perhaps that But it is now fit that we peruse the Cata- he thought Belosus might have begun his logue of these Kings; not passing through reign somewhat later than Pkul: for threedict no acknowledged truth, or apparent vate man, enough for a long liver? Indeed is made no true discovery, that is, either by to one of those Authors whose names he pre-Describer, as that which ariseth from the re- learned. mediles oblivion of confuming time. For it is true that the Poet faith.

- Neque fervidis Pars inclusa caloribus Mundi, nec Boreæ finitium latus, Duratæque fele Nines, Mercatorem abigunt; horrida callidi Vincunt aquora Navita, Nor Southern heat, nor Northern Snow That freezing to the ground doth grow, The fub iects Regions can fence, And keep the greedy Merchant thence: The fubtile Shipmen way to find, Storm never so the Seas with Wind.

they cannot ferve alwayes. To which pur- for lack of better. pole I remember a pretty jest of Don Pedro de Sarmiento, a worthy Spanish gentleman, who had been imployed by his King in planting a Colony upon the Streights of Megellan: Of the Olympiads, and the time when they for when I asked, him being then my Prifoner, some questions about an Island in those Streights, which, me thought, might have done either benefit or displeasure to his enterprife, he told me merily, that it was to be games, by Iphitus, in the reign of the same called the Painters vives Iland; saying, That King Uzzia and in his one and fiftieth year. It fitting by, defired to put in one Countrey games were established by Iphitus, in the first an Island of her own. But in filling up the but that Authors, weighty enough, have giblankes of old Histories, we need not be soe ven to them a more early beginning. The time shall runne backward, and by restoring cred History, which are found in prophane the things themselves to knowledge, make Authors, we should not be too careful of our conjectures appear ridiculous: What if drawing the Hebrens to those works of time, fome good Copy of any ancient Author, which had no reference to their affairs, it is e-could be found, flewing (if we have it not al-nough, that fetting in due order these beginties would it be more shame to have believed in the mean while, Annius or Torniellus, than to have believed nothing? Here I will activity, were first instituted by Hereules, who in Hiltory, as Geographers in their Maps de- not fay, that the credit which a gave to scribe those Countreys, whereof as yet there Annius, may chance otherwhiles be given leaving some part blank, or by inserting the tendeth. Let it suffice, that in regard of au. Land of Pigmies, Rocks of Load-stone, with thority, I had rather trust scaliner or Torni-Head-lands, Bayes, great Rivers, and other ellus, than Annius, yet him than them, of his particularities, agreeable to common report, affertion be more probable, and more agreethough many times controlled by following able to approved Hilteries than their conicexperience, and found contrary to truth. Cture, as in this point it feems to me; it hav-Yet indeed the ignorance growing from di- jing moreover gotten some credit, by the apstance of place, allows not such liberty to a probation of many, and those not meanly

To end this tedious disputation; I hold it a fure course in examination of such opinions as have once gotten the credit of being general, fo to deal as Pacuvius in Capua did with the multitude, finding them defirous to put all the Senators of the City to death. He lockt the Senators up within the Statehouse, and offered the lives of the Peoples mercy; obtaining thus much, that none of them should perish, untill the Commonalty had both pronounced him worthy of death, and elected a better in his place. The condemnation was hafty: for as fast as every name was read, all the town cryed, Let him dye: but the execution required more leifure; for in substituting of another some notorious Therefore the fictions (or let them be vice of the person, or baseness of his condicalled conjectures) painted in Maps, doe tion, or fufficiency of his quality, made each ferve only to mif-lead fuch discoverers as new one that was offered to be rejected: so rashly believe them; drawing upon the pub-that finding the worse and less choice, the lifters, either some angry curses or well de-further and the more that they sought, it was ferved fcorn; but to keep their owne credit, finally agreed, that the old should be kept

§. V.

A Fter the division of the Assyrian Empire, follows the instauration of the Olympian whilest the fellow drew that Map, his wife is, I know, the general opinion, that these for her; that she in imagination, might have of Jotham: yet is not that opinion so general, scrupulous, For it is not to be feared, that truth is, that in fitting those things unto the saready ) the perfect truth of these uncertain- nings of accounts, we joyn them to matters of measured he length of the race by his own loponnesus, were sourscore years; thence to cians, and reputed among the Wonders of cluded. the World, was known by the name of the But vain labour it were to feek the beginfus, near the River Alpheus.

CHAP. XXIII.

Aul Gell I. rearling ings were discontinued for many years, till year current after Troz. we may reckon back ved under Constantine the Great.

Grecian times and their stories to be certain: the beginning of the Olympiads to the pafbut reckoned all before, either doubtful or fage of Xerxes into Greece, two hundreth fabulous: and yet Pliny gives little credit fourscore and seventeen years; from thence to all that is written of Greece, till the reign to the beginning of the Peloponnesian War, of Cyrus, who began in the five and fiftieth eight and forty years; forwards to the vi-Olympiad, as Fuschins out of Diodore, Castor, Ctory of Lyfander, seven and twenty; to the Polybius, and others, hath gathered, in whose battel of Leudra, thirty four; to the death of time the seven wise Grecians flourished. For Philip King of Macedon, five and thirty; and Solon had speech with Crassus, and Crassus was finally to the death of Alexander, twelve. overthrown and taken by Cyrus.

boured to find out the certain beginning of allowed by the most. these Clympiads, namely, to set them in the true year of the World, and the reign of lympiads in the one and fiftieth year of Uzfuch and fuch Kings: but feeing they all dif- zia, we have arguments grounded upon that fer in the first accompt that is, of the Worlds which is certain, concerning the beginning year, they can hardly jump in particulars of Cyrus his reign, and the death of Alexanthereon depending.

Azariab.

Falch, de

Eusebius, who is contrary to himself in this of divers other. years later.

Solinus, and many others adhere.

foot: by which Pythagoras found out the the Ionian expedition, threescore years; state and likely strength of Hercules his bo- from that expedition to the time of Lycurdy. They took name, not from the Mountain gus his government in Sparta, one hundred Olympus, but from the City Olympia, other- fifty nine; and thence to the first Olympiad. wife Fifa, near unto Elis; where also Jupi- one hundred and eight years. In this account ter's Temple in Elis, famous among the Grethe first year of the first Olympiad is not in-

Temple of Jupiter Olympius. These games ning of the Olympiads by numbring the vears were exercised from every fourth year com- from the taking of Troy, which is of date pleat in the plains of Elis, a City of Pelopone- far more uncertain. Let it suffice that by knowing the inflauration of thefe games to After the death of Hercules, these meet- have been in the four hundreth and eight Iphitus, by advice from the Oracle of Apollo, to the taking of that City, fetting that, and re-established them, Licurgus the Law-giver other accidents which have reference therethen living: from which time they were to, in their proper times. The certainty of continued by the Grecians, till the reign of things following the Olympiads must needs Theodosius the Emperour, according to Ce- teach us how to find when they began.

drenus: others think that they were dissol- To this good use we have the ensuing years unto the death of Alexander the Great. From this institution, Varro accompted the thus divided by the same Eratosthenes. From The whole sum ariseth to 453, years; which Many patient and piercing brains have la- number he otherwise also collecteth, and it is

Now for placing the institution of the oder; as also upon the Astronomical calcula-Cyril against Julian and Dydimus begin the tion of fundry Eclipses of the Sun; as of that Olympiads the nine and fortieth of Osias, or which happened when Xerxes fet out of Sardis with his Army to invade Greece; and reckoning, accounts with those that find Touching Cyrus, it is generally agreed that Tal de vange. Live the very first Olympiad in the beginning of his reign as King before he was Lord of the the four hundreth and fixth year after Troy; great Monarchy, began the first year of the English yet he telleth us that it was in the fiftieth five and fiftieth Olympiad, and that he reign-Prop. b. year of Uzziah, which is (as I find it) two ed thirty years: they who give him but e. ou twenty nine years of reign (following Hero-Dem. 1-Eratofihenes placeth the first Olympiad four dotus rather than Tully, Juffin, Enfebius, and Tang Lin apud. clem. hundred and seven years after Troy, reckon- others) begin a year later, which comes all Aiex. Since L.I. ing the years that passed between; to whom to one reckoning. So is the death of Alexan-Dionysius, Halicarnasseus, Diodorus Siculus, der set by all good Writers in the first year of the hundreth and fourteenth Olympiad. The distance between the destruction of This latter note of Alexanders death serveth Troy and the first clympiad, is thus collected well to lead us back to the beginning of Cyby Eratosthenes. From the taking of Troy to rus; as many the like observations do. For the descent of Hercules his posterity into Pe-lif we reckon upwards from the time of Alexthe Persian Empire.

Cyrus his Monarchy ( which was the last of dy had befallen him. In the like sense Horace the lixtieth Olympiad, and the two hundreth speaks of these Victors, calling them. and fortieth year from the institution of those games by Iphitus) followed the last of the seventy years of the captivity of Juda, and defolation of the Land of Ifrael: manifelt it is, that we must reckon back those seventy years, and one hundred threescore, and ten years more, the last which patied under the Kings of Inda, to find the first of these Clym-beginning of Xerxes, and from him to Cyrus, of a Province. whence we have a fair way through the threescore and ten years, unto the destruction ed at the full of the Moon; and upon the of Jerusalem; and so upwards through the sisteenth day of the Moneth Hecatombaan, reigns of the last Kings of Juda, to the one and which doth answer to our June; and what fiftieth year of Uzzia.

Thus much may fuffice, concerning the time wherein these Olympiads began.

with what exceeding great concourse of all the Kings of Juda, and leave the merry Greeks Greece, they were celebrated. I hold it a fu- at their games, whom I shall meet in more seperfluous labour. It is enough to fay that all | rious imployments, when the Persian quarrels bodily exercises, or the most of them, were draw the body of the History into the coasts therein practifed, as Running, Wrestling, Fighting, and the like. Neither did they only contend for the Mastery in those feats, whereof there was good use, but in running of Chariots, fighting with whorle-bats, and other the like ancient kinds of exercises that ferved only for oftentation. Thirher also repaired Orators, Poets: Muficians and all that thought themselves excellent in any laudable quality, to make tryal of their skill. Yea, the very Cryers which proclaimed the victories, contended which of them should get the honour of having plaid the best part!

ander, we shal find all to agree with the years The Eleans were presidents of those Games. of the Olympiads; wherein Cyrus began his whose justice, in pronouncing without parreign either as King, or taking the word Mo- tiality who did best, is highly commended. As narch, to fignific a Lord of many Kingdoms, for the rewards given to the Victors, they as a great Monarch. From the beginning of Cy-were none other than Garlands of Palm, or rus, in the first year of the ave and futteth o- Olive, without any other commodity follow-Impiad, unto the end of the Persian Empire, ling than the reputation. Indeed there needed which was in the third of the hundreth and no more. For that was held fo much, that twelfth Olympiad, we find two hundred and when Diagoras had feen his three fons crownthirty years compleat: from the beginning of ed for their feveral victories in those games, Cyrus his Monarchy, which lasted but seven one came running to him with this gratulayears, we find compleat two hundred and tion: Morere, Diagoras, non enim in colum affeven years, which was the continuance of cenjurus es, that is, Die, Diagoras, for thou shalt not clime up to heaven: as if there could be no Now therefore seeing that the first year of greater happiness on earth, than what alrea-

> Quos Elæa domum reducit Palma Cælestes.

Such as like heavenly wights do come With an Elean Garland home.

Harst.

Neither was it only the voyce of the Peopiads; which by this accompt is the one and ple, or fongs of Poets, that so highly extolled fiftieth of Vezzah, as we have already noted. them, which had won these Olympian prizes; The Eclipses whereof we made mention, but even grave Historians thought it a matserve well to the same purpose. For examiter worthy of their noting. Such was ( as ples fake; that which was feen when Kerxes Tully counts it ) the vanity of the Greeks, that Tull is mustered his Army at Sardis, in the two they esteemed it almost as great an honour place. hundred threescore and seventh year of Na- to have won the victory at Running or wrestbonassar, being the last of the threescore and ling in those games, as to have triumphed in fourteenth Olympiad, leads us back unto the Rome for some famous victory, or conquest

That these Olympian games were celebratmeans they used to make the Moneth begin with the new Moon, that the fifteenth day might be the full, I have shewed in another To tell the great folemnity of them, and place. Wherefore I may now return unto of Ionia and Hellespont.

> 6. V I. Of Jotham and his Contemporaries.

Otham the sonne of Uzziah, when he was hive and twenty years old, and in the fecond of Pekah King of Ifrael, was anointed King in Jerusalem, his Father yet living. He 33. built an exceeding high Gate to the Temple of threescore cubits upright, and therefore called Ophel: besides divers Cityes in the Hills of Juda, and in the Forrest, Towers and war: which was ended by Theopompus, the son Palaces: he inforced the Ammonites to pay of Nicander his royal companion. him Tribute, to wit, of Silver an hundred talents, and of Wheat and Barly two thou- fore-told the destruction of the Asyrian Emfand measures: he reigned fix and twenty pire, and of the city of Nineve, which succeedyears: of whom Josephus gives this testi- ed (saith Josephus) a hundred and fifteen years monie: Ejusmodi vero Princeps bic fuit, ut after. The Cities of Cyrene and of Aradus were nullam in eo virtutis genus desideres: ut qui built at thistime, while in Media, Sosarmus Deum adeo Fie coluerit, hominibus suis adeo and Medidus reigned, being the second and juste presuerit, urbem ipsam tanta sibi cura esse third Kings of those parts. passus sit, & tantopere auxerit, ut universum regnum hostibus quidem minime contemnendum, domesticis autem ejus incolis atque civibus fælix, fauftum & fortunatum fua virtute effecerit; This was such a Prince, as a man could find no kind of vertue wanting in him:he worshipped God so religiously, he governed his A in the seventeenth year of Peka, the son and happy himself was devout and vertuous.

of Cyplelus, who drove them out.

with reigned 27. years.

At this time lived Nahum the Prophet, who

6. VII. of Achaz and his Contemporaries.

Has or Achaz, succeeded unto Fotham men so right coulty, he was so provident for the Ci- of Remalia: the same being also the last ty, and did so greatly amplify it, that by his ver- year of his fathers reign, who began in the the and prowels he made his whole Kingdom not second of the same Peka, and reigned 16.but contemptible to his enemies, but to his Ser- not compleat years. This Ahaz was an Idolavants, Inhabitants and Citizens, prosperous ter, exceeding all his predecessors. He made molten Images for Baalim, and burnt his fon This is all that I find of Jotham: his reign for facrifice before the Idol Moloch, or Saturn, gant was not long, but as happy in all things, as he which was represented by a man-like brazen mfelt was devout and vertuous.

| body,bearing the head of a Calfe, fet up not that
| Anchomenes about this time succeeded Phe| far from Jerufalem, in a valley shadowed with leftens in Corinth:after whom, the Corinthians Woods, called Gehinnom, or Tophet, from erected Magistrates, which governed from whence the word Gehenna is used for Hell. year to year. And yet Pausanias in his second The children offered, were inclosed within book with strabo & Plutarch, in many places the carkass of this Idol, and as the fire encreaare of opinion, That Corinth was governed fed, so the facrificers, with a noise of Cimbals, by Kings of the race of the Bacide, to the time and other Instruments, filled the air, to the end the pittifull cries of the children Teglathphalaffar, or Teglathpeleser, the son of might not be heard: which unnatural, cruel, Phul the second of the Babylonians and Affyri- and divillish Oblation, Jeremy the Pro-2 King 15 ans that was of this new race, about this time phet vehemently reprehendeth, and of invaded Ifrael, while Pekah (who murthered which S. Hierome upon the tenth of Matthew his master Pekeiah) was King thereof. In which hath written at large. By the prohibition expedition he took most of the Cities of Neph- in Leviticus the eighteenth, it appeareth that tali and Galilee, with those of Gilead over for- this horrible sin was ancient: in the twelsth dan, and carried the inhabitants captive. This of Deuternomy, it is called an abhomina-Tiglath reigned five and twenty years, accortion which God hateth. That it was also ding to Metasthenes. But Krentzhemius finds, practised elsewhere, and by many Nations rethat with his fon Salmanassar he reigned yet mote from Indea, divers Authors witness; two years longers, which years I would not as a Virgil in the second of Eneids cribe to the son, because the Aera of Nabonaf- Sanguine Placastis, &c. and Silvins --- Pofsar begins with his single reign, but reckon cere cade Deos. Saturn is said to have brought them to Tiglath Phulassar himself, who there- this custom into Italy; besides the casting of many fouls into the River of Tyber, in Æschylus, the son of Agamnestor, about the stead of which, Hercules commanded, that fame time, the twelfth Archon in Athens, the waxen Images of men should be thrown ruled 25. years. Alcamenes governed Sparta: in and drowned. The Devil also taught the after whom, the Estate changed, according Carthaginians this kind of butchery, into Eusebius. But therein surely Eusebius is somuch, that when their City was besiegmistaken: for Diodore, Plutarch, Pausanias, ed, and in distress, the Priest made them and others, witness the contrary. Pausanias believe, that because they had spared their affirmeth, That Polydorus, a Prince of emi- own children, and had bought and brought nent vertues, succeeded his father, and reign-cd 60. years, and out-lived the Messeniack turn had stirred up and strengthened their Enemies

Enemies against them: whereupon they pre- not firmly settled at home, and the writin fently caused two hundred of the noblest Kings lay directly in his way, who were yet which youths of their City to be flain, and offered strong both in men and same. But Tiglath, to Saturn or Satan, to appeale him: who be- having now, with the treasures of ferufalem, fides these forenamed Nations, had instructed prepared his Army, first invaded the Territhe Rhodians, the people of Crete, and Chios, tory of Danssfens, wan the City, and killed of Messensof Calatia, with the Massingetes, and Rezin the last of the race of the Adads, who others, in these his services. Further, as if he began with David, & ended with this Achaz. were not content to destroy the soules of At Damaseus, Achaz met Tiglath, and taking many Nations in Europe, Alia, and Africa, (as thence a pattern of the Altar, fent it to Vri-Acofta writeth) the Mexicans and other peo- ab the Priest, commanding the like to be ple of America, were brought by the Devil made at Jerusalem, whereon at his return he under this fearful fervitude, in which he also burnt Sacrifice to the gods of the Syrians. holdeth the Floridans and Virginians at this In the mean while Tiglath possess all Basan,

God stirred up Rezen of Damasons, and Pekah And then passing the River, he mastered the the Son of Remaliah, King of Ifrael against Cities of Galilee, invaded Ephraim, and the him, who invaded Judea, and befreged Jeru- Kingdom of Ifrael, and made them his Vaf-Calem. but entred it not.

dren, the Israelites lead away to Samaria: Sepulchres of the Kings of Juda. but by the counsell of the Prophet Oded, again.

evermore attended the ruine of Judea, 50. years. entred upon them from the South, and took Kings house.

tenant, King of Babylon and Affyria, had a how long he reigned with his Father, it had little before led him the way into Judea, invi- been hard to define. ted by Menahem, King of Ifrael. Wherefore At this time began the Ephori in Lacedamon, now the Son willingly harkened to Achaz, a hundred and thirty years after Lycurgus, vita 5010. and embraced the advantage. As for Belo- according to Plutarch. Eusebius makes their chus himself, he was content to assign some beginning sar later, namely, in the sistenth other time for going through with this enter-olympiad. Of these Ephori, Elalus was the

and the rest beyond Jordan, which belong-For the wickednesse of this King Abaz, ed to the Tribes of Reuben, Gad, and Manasse. fals. And notwithstanding that he was in-The King of Syria, Rezin, possest himself vited and waged by Achaz, yet after the spoil of Elab by the Red Sea, and cast the Jewes of Ifrael, he possest himself of the greater part out of it; and Pehah flaughtered in one day of Juda, and, as it feemeth, inforced Achaz to an hundred and twenty thousand Jud wans, pay him tribute. For in the second of Kings, of the ablest of the Kingdome, at which time the eighteenth, it is written of Ezechia, that Magleiah, the Sonne of Achaz, was also flaine he revolted from Ashur, or rebelled against. by Zichri, with Azrikam the Governor of his him, and therefore was invaded by Sennachehouse, and Eleanath the second person rib. After Ahaz had beheld and born these unto the King. Besides all this, two hundred miseries, in the end of the sixteenth year of thousand prisoners of women and chil- his reign he died; but was not buried in the

With Abaz lived Medidus, the third Prince they were returned and delivered back in Media, who governed 40. years, faith

Eulebius: Diodorus and Ctelius find Anticar-Eulebins: As Israel and Aramvexed Juda on the mus instead of this Medidus, to have been North fo the Edomites and the Philistims, who Sosarmus his successor, to whom they give Tiglath Pileser held the Kingdom of Assy-Bethlemes, Ajalon, Gaderoth, Shocho, Timnah, ria, all the reign of Ahaz: yet fo, that Saland Gemzo, flew many people, and carried a- manaffar his Son may feem to have reigned way many prisoners. Whereupon when Achaz with him some part of the time. For we find faw himself environed on all sides, and that that Abaz did fend unto the Kings of Ashur to his Idols and dead gods gave him no com- help him. The Geneva note fays, that these fort, he sent to the Alfrian Tiglathpileser, to Kings of Albur, were Tiglath Pileser, and those 2 King 18 defire fome aid from him against the Ijraelites Kings that were under his Dominion But that 16. and Aramites, presenting him with the he or his Father had hitherto made such confilver and gold both of the Temple, and quests, as might give him the Lordship over other Kings, I do neither find any History, Tiglathpileser wanted not a good example nor circumstance that proveth. Wherefore I to follow, in making profit of the trouble think that these Kings of Ashur, were Tiglath, that rose in Palestina. His Father having and Salmarasjar his Son, who reigned with lately made himself from a Provincial Leiu- his Father, as hath been said before: though prize: because (as I have said before) he was first; Theopompus and Polydorus being then without their advice and confent For (faith rule.

ending in this Alcemenon, they erected a Ma- fixt Olympiad. But Halicarnaffeus, Solimus was a kind of Burgho-Mafter, or Governour of febius, to the first year of the feventh; who their City for ten years.

This alteration Paulanias in his fourth Book ed Chronologers, to have kept herein the begins in the first year of the eight Olympiad, best account.

joynt Kings. Thefe Ephori, chosen every Eusebius and Halicarnassaus in the first of the year, were controllers, as well of their Sena- feventh Olympiad: at which time indeed tors, as of their Kings, nothing being done Carops the first of these, began his ten years

CHAP. XXIV

Cicero) they were opposed against their Kings The Kingdom of the Latines, governed as the Roman Tribunes against the Consuls. about three hundred year by the Silvii, of In the time of Ahaz died Afekylus, who had the race of Aneas, took end in the same Ahaz ruled in Athers ever fince the 1 ftieth year of time : the foundation of Rome being Uzzia. Alcamenon the thirteenth of the Me- laid by Romulus and Remus in the eighth year dontide, or Governours of the Athenians ( fo of the fame King, Codoman builds it in the called of Atedon who tollowed Codrus ) fuc- eleventh of Achaz, Bucholzer in the eighth as ceeded his Facher Afchylus, and was the last I think he should; others somewhat laof their Governors: he ruled only two years, ter, and in the reign of Ezechias, Cicero. For the Athenians changed first from Kings Entropius, Orofius, and others square the time (after Codrus) to Governors for life; which of the foundation to the third year of the gistrate, whom they termed an Archon, who Antiochemus, Clemens Alexandrinus, and Eufeem not only to me, but to many very learn-

CHAP. XXIV.

Of the Antiquity of Italy, and foundation of Rome in the time of Ahaz.

Of the Inhabitants, and the name of Italy.

Nd here to freak of the more. That by late ages of Posterity, much fabulous matter hath been mixed with are many and repugnant. But like enough the one name arising of the seat, the other of first accepted without good cause. Thereone ancient name of it was also Oenotria, and the first planters of this noble Country, concerning which changes of names, Virgil did lead into Italy, before the name of Italy freaks thus:

Fft locus, Hefperiam Graii cognomine dicunt, Terra antiqua, potens armis atque ubere gleba Oenotrii coluere viri, nunc fama, minores Italiam dixisse, ducis de nomine, gentem.

Ancient, and ftrong, of much fertility: Oenotrians held it, but we hear by fame, ancient times of Italy, and what Tis from a Captains name call'd Italy.

Nations possess it before the arir- Who this Captain or King may have bin, val of Aneas, the place may feem it is very uncertain. For Virgils speaks to invite us: the rather because no more of him, and the opinions of others the truth of those elder plantations. Italy be- it is, that the name which hath continued fore the fall of Troy, was known to the Greeks lo long upon the whole Country, and worn by divers names 32s first Hesperia, then Ausonia, out all other denominations, was not at the the Ausones, a people inhabiting part of it; fore to find out the original of this name, which it had of the Oenotrii, whom Halicar- Reyneccius hath made a very painful fearch, nasiaus, thinks to have been the first that and not improbable conjecture. And first of brought a Colony of Arcadians into that all he grounds upon that of Halicarnaffeus, Halicarn Land. Afterward it was called Italy of Italus; who speaks of a Colony which the Eleans lib. 1. was given to it; Secondly, upon that of Justine, who saith, that Brundusium was a Colony of the Ætolians; Thirdly, upon that Jaff. 11.1. of Straba, who affirms the same of Temesa or 12. Tempfa, a City of the Brutii in Italy ; Last- Strabolii. ly, upon the authority of Pliny, who shews Piin lib 3. that the Italians did inhabit onely one Re-There is a Land which Greeks Hesperia name, gion of the Land, whence afterward the name was derived over all. Concerning that which is faid of the Eleans and Ætolians who (as he shews ) had one original; from rehearfed, wherein he vious d not have said. them he brings the name of Italy. For the ---- Nunc fama minores Italiam dixife word Italia, differs in nothing from Aitolia, ducis de nomine gentem, had that name been fave that the first Letter is east away, which heard of ere Dardanus lest the Countrey, in the Greek words is common; and the let- But feeing that, when Hercules, who died a ter(0) is changed into (s) which change is tew years before the War of Trey, had found in the name of Æthalia an Illand near left in Italy a Colony of the Fleans (vyho in Italy, peopled by the Ætholians; and the like a manner vvere one and the fame Nation changes are very familiar in the Holic Dia- vvith the Htolians, as Strabo, Herodotus, and left:of which Dialect (being almost proper Pausanius teach) then the name of Italy beto the Ætolians ) the accent and pronuncia- gan; and feeing Virgil makes mention of Italus tion, together with many words little alter- among the Italian Kings, it were no great ed, were retained by the Latines, as Dionysus boldness to say, that Italus vvas Commander Halicarnassicus, Quintilian, and Friscian the of these Eleans. For though I remember not Grammarian teach.

CHAP. XXIV.

and the Fable of Janus whose Image had han Kingdom. Neither is it more hard to detwo faces, looking East and West, as Greece rive the name of Italus from Atolus, than Itaand Italy lay, and was stamped on Coins, lia from Ætolia. So may Virgil's authority with a Ship on the other tide; all which stand well with the collections of Remecciis, by interpretation, referred to favan, fa- us; the name of Italy being taken both from a ther of the Greeks and Latines; who fay- Captain, and from the Nation, of which he ling over the Ionian Sea, that lyes between and his people were. Ætolia and the Western parts of Greece and Italy, planted Colonies in both. Now whereas Reineccius thinks, that the names of Atlas and Italus belonged both to one man, & of the Aborigenes, and other Inhabitants of thereto applyes that of Berofus, who called Cethim, Ralus; though it may feem strengthened by the marriage of Dardanus, whileft he abode in Italy with Electra, the daughter IN Italy the Latines and Hetrurians vvere long before the War of Troy. of Dardanus his marriage with Electra, think to have bin Arcaians and this name of hath nothing of his meeting with her in I- Aborigines ( to omit other fignifications that taly, but calleth Elettra and her lifter Maia are strained, imports as much as Original, or (poetically) daughters of the Mountain in Native of the place, which they poliefled: Africa, naming Italus among the Kings of which title the Arcadians areknown in vaunthe Aborigenes; which he would not have ting manner to have always usurped, fetchvve need the less to regard it, for that Rey- of Peloponnesus inforced to forsake their neccius himself, vvhose conjectures are more seats so oft as other Greeks were, who did to be valued than the dreams vyherewith dwell without that halfe Island, neither Annius hath filled Berosus, holds it but a had the Arcadians so unsure a dwelling as the

Atlas, it appears by the verfes of Virgil last ous, and hard of access, and they themselves

that I have read of any such Greek as vvas Hereunto appertains that of Julian the named Italias; yet the name of Aitalias vvrit-Apostata, who called the Greeks coulins ten in Greek Anolus, was very famous among of the Latines. Also the common Original the Ætolians, and among the Eleans, he being of the Greeks and Latines from Javan ; fon of a King of The and founder of the Eto-of Atlas, yet is it by arguments (in my valua- i most famous; the Hetrurians having held tion) greater and (tronger, easily disproved. the greatest part of it under their subjecti-For they who make mention of Atlas, place on , and the Latines by the vertue and felihim before the time of Moses: and if Atlas city of the Romans, who were a branch of were Cethim, or Kittim, then was he the fon them, subduing all Italy, and in a few ages of Javan, and Nephew of Japheth, the eldelt what soever Nation was known in Europe: tofon of Noah: which antiquity far exceeds the gether with all the Western parts of Asia, the name of Italy, that began after the depar- and North of Africk.

Latium, and of the reason of the names of Latini and Latium.

ture of Hercules out of the Countrey, not The Region called Latium, was first inhabited by the Aborigines, whom Halicarnasa-Likewise Virgil, who speaks of Atlas, and us, Varro, and Reprocess (following them) done, had Atlas and Italus been one person. ing their antiquity from beyond the Moon; As for the authority of Berofus in this case, because indeed, neither were the inhabitants rest of the Peloponnesians, because their That the name of Italy began long after Countrey was less fruitfull in land, mountain-warlike men. Some of these therefore having other times men into stones: ) in like manner long, did according to the Arcadian man- himself was some allusion to that old opininoted as unapt men to prove good Mariners, have this very fignification, if it be derived should have bin Authors of new discoveries, (as some think) from the Hebrew Satar, which dren, in which those ages abounded, inforc- to be fought elsewhere. ed the superfluous company to seek another Reyneccius doth conjecture that the Cetefeat, & that some expeditions of the Arcadi- ans, who descended of Cethim, the Son of ans, as especially that of Evander, into the Javan, were the men who gave the name to same parts of Italy, are generally acknow- Latium. For these Ceteans are remembed ledged.

ancient Nation, who forgetimes gave name calls them subjects to the Crown of Troy, to all Greece: but their antiquities are long Hereupon Reyneccius gathers, that their afince dead, for lacke of good records. Nei- bode was in Asia: viz. in agro Elaitico, in the ther was their glory such in Italy, as could Elaitian Territory, which agreeth with Strabo. long sustaine the name of their owne Tribe; Of a City which the Eolians held in Asia, for they were in short space accounted one called Elaa, or Elaia, Paulanias makes mentipeople with the former inhabitants. The si- on: Stephanus calls it Cidemis, or (according cani, Ausones, Arunci. Rutili, and other peo- to the Greek writing) Cidamis, which name ple, did in ages following diffurbe the peace last rehearled hath a very neer found to ceof Latium, which by Saturne was brought thim, Citim, or Cithim; the Greek Letter (D)

ed as a god.

or Sterculius, others term him Stercutius, and between many English words written with fay, that he taught the people to dung their the fame letters. Wherefore that these cegrounds. That Latium took his name of teans, being descended of cethim, Cittim, or Saturn, because he did latere, that is, lie hid- Kittim, the Son of Javan, who was Progeden there, when he fled from Jupiter, it is nitor of the Greeks, might very well take questionless a fable. For as in Heathenith su- a denomination from the City, and Region, persition, it was great vanity to think that which they inhabited, and from thence be any thing could be hidden from God, or that called Eleites, or Elaites, it is very likely, there were many gods of whom one fled confidering that among the Arcadians, Phofrom another; so in the truth of History, it is cians, Atolians, and Eleans, who all were of well known, that no King reigning in those the Æolique Tribe, are found the names of parts was so mighty, that it should be hard the Mountain Elans, the Haven Elans, the to find one Country or another, wherein a people Elaitæ, the City Elaws, Elaia, and Elaman might be fafe from his pursuit, And yet, teia; of which last it were somewhat harsh See 1.6. 1. as most fables and poeticall fictions were oc- in the Latine tongue to call the Inhabicassioned by some ancient truth which either tants by any other name then Elating, from by ambiguity of speech, or some allusion, whence Latini may come. Now vvhereas they did maimedly and darkly expresse (for both the Cetai and Arcadians, had their oriso they seigned a passage over a River in ginal from Cethin, it is nothing unlikely, that Hell, because death is a passage to another agreeing in language & similitude of names, life: and because this passage is hateful, la- they might nevertheless differ in found and mentable, and painfull, therefore they nam- pronunciation of one and the same worded the River Strx, of hate; Cocytus of lamen- So that as he is by many called Sabinus, to tation, and Acheron, of Pain: fo also because whom some (deriving the Sabines from him) men are stonic-hearted; and because the give the name of sabus: in the like manner Greek Naci, people, and Naces, stones, are neer might he whom the Arcadians would call E-

(as in such places commonly are found) very of Ducalion stones converted into men, as at occupied a great part of latinm, and held it it may be, that the original of Saturns hiding ner. Stile themselves Aborigenes, in that langue on of the wifest of the Heathen, that the age, which either their new Seat, or their true God was ignotus Deus, as it is noted in Neighbours thereby had taught them. How the Acts; whence also Esay of the true God Acts it might be that the Arcadians, who dwelt faies, tu Deus abdens te. For it cannot be in Fines. fomewhat farr from the Sea, and are alwaies vain, that the word Saturnus should also were a question not case to be answered, is to hide: Howbeit I deny not but that the were it not fo, that both fruitfulnesse of chil- original of this word, Latium, ought rather by Homer as aiders of the Trojans in their After the Aborigenes, were the Pelassi, an war. Strabo interpreting the place of Homer. to fome civility; and he therefore cannoniz- having (as many teach) a pronunciation yery like to (TH) differing onely in the frength This Saturne S. Augustine calleth Sterces or weakness of utterance, which is found in found, therefore they feigned in the time latus (of which name they had a Prince that founded the City Elateja ) be named of the | name was not borrowed from the skill which Exclid whom Hercules begat upon Auge, the daugh- feem fome other man. ter of Aleus King of Arcadia ) was tlain by A-Auge, an Arcadian Lady, was well contented grounds on which Rome was afterward built, that after to take an Arcadian name, and to be called imposed by the Arcadians, it is the more easie marriage, it self being meerly incostuous. to be thought, for that there were then two between these two families the succession in a Nymph called Marica. that Kingdom did pass, almost interchangeably, for many ages, till at the end of the fave onely that her aboad was about the Trojan war it fell into the hand of Hippotheus River Lyris near Minturnæ. of the race of Elatus, in whose Posterity it better with the supposition of such an accident. This is the conjecture of Revneccius. which if he made over-boldly, yet others may follow it with the less reproofe, considering that it is not casy to find either an apparent truth, or fair probability among these disagreeing Authors, which have written the originals of Latium.

6. V I. Of the ancient Kings of the Latines until Eneas his comming.

"He Kings which reigned in Latium before the arrival of Eneas, were Saturnus Picus, Faunus, & Latinus. Of Saturn there is nothing remembred, fave what is mentioned already, and many Fables of the Greeks, other, stiled Saturn by the Aborigines. For the of Troy, gave his Daughter to him, breaking him to have bin the same: but the names of incensed herewith, sought to avenge himself sounded the Golf Reyneccius, pursuing this he taught the people, but rather the foil the idels likelihood, thinks that when Euripylus, Lord which they laid on their grounds had that of the of the Celeans, (being the Son of Telephus, appellation from him ) do rather make him Heathen

Of Picus it is faid, that he was a good bence it chilles in the Trojan War: then did Telephus, horse-man. The fable of his being changed in-that in brother to Euripylus, conduct the Ceteans, who to a Bird, which we call a Pv. may well feem the Evan-(fearing what evill might befall themselves (as it is interpreted )to have grown from the gelist we by the Greeks, if the affairs of Troy should go skill which he had in sooth-saying or divina- Betyebub; by the Green, it the animals of the part o Arcadians were planted by Oenotrius. And Faunus, the Son of Picus, reigned after his Fa-interpre-Respectives farther thinks, that Telephus being ther: He gave to Evander the Arcadian (who ted Domlthe more gracious among the Oenotrian Ar- having flain by mischance his father Echemus read; and cadians, by the memory of his Grand-mother King of Arcadia, fled into Italy ) the wast it may be

Fauna, called Fatua, the fifter of Faunus, became Elains, which in the dialect and pronunciawho was also his wife, as all Historians agree, the name the way have of the Contain the way held a Propheto and Links. tion either of the Ceteans, or of the Oenotri- she was held a Prophetes, and highly com-it pleased ans, was first Elatinus, and then Latinus. That mended for her chastity, which praise in her God that this name of Elatus may have bin taken or must needs have bin much blemished by her in a like

It is not mentioned that Faurus, had by cutius thould Families, the one of Iphidas, the other of E- his fifter any child, neither do we read of flick latus, who were Sons of Arcas King of Arca- any other Wife which he had, fave only that unto him, dia, which gave name to the Countrey: and Virgil gives unto him Latinus as his Son, by Enrid.7,

But who this Marica was, it is not found,

Of the name Latinus, there are by Pompocontinued untill the last. Again, the name of nins Sabinus recounted four:one, the Son of Latinus, having a derivative found, agrees the Faunus, another of Hercules, a third of Olylles by Circe, the fourth of Telemachus. Suidas suldas in takes notice only of the second, of whom he the word faith, that his name was Telephus, and the peo-Latini, ple anciently named the Cetii, were from his furname called Latini. This agrees in effect with the opinion of Reyneccius, the difference confifting almost in this only, that Suidas cals Telephus the fon of Hercules, whereas Reyneccius makes him his Nephew, by a fon of the fame name. This Latinus having obtained the fuccession in that Kingdom after Faunus, did promise his only Daughter and Heir Lavinia, to Turmus the son of Venilia, who was sister to Amata Latinus his Wife. But when Eneas arrived in those parts with fifteen ships, or perhaps fewer, wherein might be imbarked, according to the rate which Thucydides allows to the Vessels then used, about one thousand & two hundred men: then which whether they be applyable to this Latinus finding that it would stand best with man, it is for him to judge, who shall be able his assurance, to make alliance with the Troto determine, whether this were the Saturn jan, and moved with the great reputation of of the Greeks called by them seine, or some Eneas, which himself had heard of in the war age wherein he lived, may very well admit off the former appointment with Turnus: who Sterces, and Stercutius ( for it may be, this by war: which was soon ended with his own

CHAP. XXIV.

Of Amata the Wife of I atimus, it is very years: Virgil gives him thirty; others five was born betore Telephus came into Italy. were afterwards called sylvii. That this name Arrata, by which Fireil and rather a furname, it may feem by Varro; who fet down: calleth her Palatia: which name very well might be derived from the Greek name Pallas. Amata ... mich fignifieth beloved, or dear, was the name by which the High Priest called every Virgin whom he took to ferve as a Nun of Teffa; wherefore it is the more easie to be thought a surname, howsoever Virgil discourse of her and Venilia her sister.

462

Lavinia, the daughter of Latinus, being given in marriage to Eneas, the Kingdom of Latium.or the greatest part of that Country. was established in that race: wherein it continued until it was overgrown by the might and greatness of the Romans.

§. IV.

Of Æneas, and of the Kines and Governours of Alba.

New himself being of the Royal bloud brance. of Troy, had the command of the Darcertain, that were she an Italian, she could and thirty, and eight and thirty. After his not have born a Daughter marriageable at decease, there are secontention between sylthe arrival of Aneus; unless we should whol- vins, the son of Aneus, and Julus the son of ly follow Suidas and rather give the conduct Ascanins, about the Kingdom: but the peoof the Cetei into Italy, to Telephus the Father, ple inclining to the fen of Lavinia, Julus than to his Son, who served in the last year was contented to hold the Priesthood, which of the Trojan War. But Reyneccius holds her he and his race enjoyed, leaving the Kingan Allatique, and thinks withall that Lavinia dom to Sylvius Posthumus, whose posterity

The reign of the Alban Kings, with the Halicarnassaus call her, was not proper, but continuance of each mans reign, I find thus

1
I	Sylvius Posthumus.	29	7
2	Sylvius Æneas.	31	1
3	Sylvius Latinus.	50	j.
4	Sylvius Alba.	39	1
5	Eylvius Atis.	26	i
6	Sylvius Capys.	28	Ī
7 8	Sylvius Capetus.	13	í
8	Sylvius Tiberinus.	8	years
	Sylvius Agrippa.	41	1
	Sylvius Alladius.	19	i i
	Sylvius Aventinus.	37	!
	Sylvius Procas.	23	}
	Sylvius Amulius.	44
	vius Numitor.
	called also Rhea and	Sylvia.
Romu	lus. Remus.	-

The most of these Kings lived in peace, and did little or nothing worthy of remem-

Latinus founded many Towns in the bordanians: he was a valiant man, very rich, ders of Latium: who standing much upon and highly honoured among the Trojans. By the honour of their original, grew thereby his Wife Crenja, the daughter of Priamus, he to be called Prisei Latini. Of Tiberinus some had a fon called Afeanius; whose turname think that the River Tiber had name, being was Julus, having before the ruine of Troy formerly called Albula: but Virgil gives it (as I rigil notes ) been furnamed Ilus. But that denomination of another called Tibris, when Ancas was dead, his Wife Lavinia, the before the coming of Ancas into Italy. The daughter of Latinus, being great with child Mountain Aventinus had name ( as many by him, and fearing the power of this Afea- write) from Aventinus King of the Albanes, nius, fled into the Woods, where she was de- who was buried therein: but Vireil hath it livered of a fon, called thereupon sylvius, otherwise. Julius the brother of Aventinus, and surnamed Postlumus, because he was is named by Eusebius as father of another born after his fathers Funeral. This flight of Julius, and grandfather of Julius Proculus, Lavinia was so evil taken by the people, that who leaving Alba, dwelt with Romulus in Ascanius procured her return, entreated her Rome: Numitor, the elder son of Procas, was honourably, and using her as a Queen, did deprived of his Kingdom by his brother Afoster her young son his half-brother Sylvius. mulius; by whom also his son Ægesthus was Yet afterwards, whether to avoid all occasi- slain, and Ilia his daughter made a Nun of ons of disagreement, or delighted with the Vesta, that thereby the issue of Numitor might fituation of the place; Ascanius leaving to be cut off. But she conceived two sons, either his mother in law the City Lavinium, which by her Uncle Amulius, as some think; or by Aneas had built and called after his new Mars, as the Poets feign; or perhaps by some Wives name, founded the City Alba Longa, man of war. Both the children, their Uncle and therein reigned. The time of his reign commanded to be drowned and the mother was according to some, eight and twenty buried quick, according to the law; which foordained, when the Vestal Virgins brake their chastity. Whether it was fo, that the mother was pardoned at the entreaty of An-

the Law required (for Authors herein do ty of the Koman Empire(much by him enlarged ) to himfelf and his posterity; whereby the name of Aneas, and honour of the Tro jan and Alban Race, was so revived, that seldom, if ever, any one Family hath attained to a proportionable height of glory.

6. V.

thathe daughter of Amulius, or punished as Of the beginning of Rome, and of Romulus birth and death.

vary) it is agreed by all, that the two childrenwere preferred, who afterward revenged the cruelty of their Uncle, with the Kingdom, I may here best shew the beflaughter of him and all his, and reftored Nu- ginnings, which (though somewhat uncermitor their grandfather to the Kingdom: tain) depend much upon the birth and eduwherein how long he reigned, I find not, nci- cation of Romulus, the grand-child of Numither is it greatly material to know; for as tor the last that reigned in Alba. For how much as the Estates of Alba and of Latinum not onely the bordering people, but all Nawere presently eclipsed by the swift increase tions between Euphrates and the Ocean. of Rome; upon which the computation of were broken in pieces by the iron teeth of Time following (as far as concerns the things this fourth Beaft, it is not to be described in of Italy) is dependant. After the death of one place, having been the work of many A-Numitor, the Kingdom of Alba ceased; for ges; whereof I now do handle onely the Numitor left no male islue. Romulus chose ra- first, as incident unto the discourse precedther to live in Rome; and of the Line of Syling. Q Fabius Pictor, Portius Cato, Calphurnigius none else remained. So the Albanes were us Pifo, Sempronius, and others, seek to derive governed by Magistrates; of whom onely the Romans from Janus: but Herodotus, Martwo Dictators are mentioned, namely Caius Sylus, and many others of equal credit, give Cluilius, who in the dayes of Tullus Holtilius, the Gracians for their Ancestors: and as Stra- strab. s. King of the Romans, making War upon bo reporteth in his fifth Book, Cacilius re-f. 159. Rome, dyed in the Camp; and Metius Suf- rum Romanarum Scriptor, co argumento collifetius, the fuccessor of Chilins, who furren- git, Romam à Gracis effe conditam, quod Romadred the Estate of Alba unto the Romans, ni Graco ritu, antiquo instituto, Herculi rem having committed the hazard of both Sig- Gacram faciunt: matrem quoque Evandri venenories to the success of three men of each rantur Romani; Cacilius (saith he) a Roman side, who decided the quarrel by Combat : Historiographer, doth by this argument gather, in which, the three brethren Horatii, the that Rome was built by the Greeks, because the Champions of the Romans, prevailed against Romans, after Greekish fashion, by ancient orthe Curiatii, Champions of the Albanes. Af- dinance, do facrifice to Hercules: the Romans ter this Combat, when Metius (tollowing also worship the mother of Evander.

Tullus Hostilius with the Albane forces against Plutarch in the life of Romulus rememthe Veientes and Fidenates) withdrew his breth many Founders of that City: as Roma-Companies out of the battel, hoping thereby nus the fon of Vlyffes and Circe; Romus the to leave the Romans to such an everthrow, son of Emathion, whom Diomedes sent thias might make them weak enough for the ther from Troy; or that one Romns, a Tyrant Albanes to deal with; Tullus, who notwith- of the Latines, who drave the Tuscans out of franding this falshood, obtained the victory, that Countrey, built it. Solinus bestows the did reward Metius with a cruel death, cau- honour of building Rome upon Evander, fing him to be tyed to two Chariots, and fo faying, That it was beforetimes called Valentorn in pieces. Then was Alba destroyed, and tia. Heraelides gives the denomination to a the Citizens carried to Rome, where they captive Lady, brought thither by the Grecimade free Denizens, the noble Families being ans: others fay, That it was anciently called made Patricians; among which were the Febris, after the name of Februa, the mother Julii: of whom C. Julius Calar being descen- of Mars; witness S. Augustine in his third ded, not onely gloried in his ancient, royal, Book de Civitate Dei. But Livie will have it and forgotten pedigree, in full assembly of to be the work of Romulus, even from the the Romans, then governed by a free Estate foundation: of whom and his consort, Juveof the People: but by his rare industry, va- nal to a Roman Citizen, vaunting of their lour, and judgment, obtained the Soveraign- original, answered in these Verses:

> Attamen ut longè repetas longéque revolvas, Mijorum quisquis primus fuit ille tuorum. Aut paftor fuit, aut illud quod dicere nolo.

> > Yet

Yet though thou fetch thy pedegree so far; jup into heaven, or rather out of the world. Thy first Progenitor, who cre he were, Some Sherheard was or elfe, that I'll ferbear. der and lightning: fo was it faid that Aneas his Antiquitez de Gaule, that Merouee, King of Father-in-law, commanded that he should list; Il le croira qui vondra: Also of Alexander, seus end this dispute; whose words are these and of Scipio African, there are poetical in- They (saith he) who drew nearest to the truth, ventions: But to answer these imaginations in say that he was sain by his own Citizens; and general, It is true, that in those times, when that his cruellies in punishment of offenders, the World was full of this barbarous Idola- together with his arrogancy, were the cause of try, and when there were as many gods as his flaughter. For it is reported, that both when try, and when there were as many goods the mind, or his mother was ravilled, whether by some man, as there were of vices and vertues, then did or by agod, the whole body of the Sun was eclipmany women greatly born, cover such slips sed, and all the earth covered with darking as they made, by protesting to be forced by like unto night, and that the same did happen at more than humane power: so did Oenone con- his death. fess to Paris, that she had been ravished by Such were the birth and death of Romn-

by his father Alars, in a great from of thun-

meaning, either a Shepheard or a Theif, vanished away by the River Numicus: but thereof Livie also speaketh modestly; for he Now of Romulus begetting, of his education rehearfeth the other opinion that the from and preservation, it is faid. That he had Rhea was the fury of the Senators, but seemeth to for his mother, and Mars supposed to be his adhere partially to this taking up; and many father; that he was nurft by a Wolf, tound Authorsagree, that there was an unnatural and taken away by Fanfinla a Shapin ards darkness, both at his birth, and at his death; wife. The same unpartural matting had Cprus, and that he might be slain by thunder or the same incredible fortering had semmanns; lightning, it is not unlikely. For the Emperor the one by a Bitch, the other by Birds. But, as Anaftafus was flain with lightning; fo was Plutarch faith, it is like enough that Anulius Strabo the Father of Pompey flain with a came covered with armour to Rhea, the mo-thunder-bolt: fo Carus the Emperour (who ther of Romulus, when he begat her with succeeded Probus) whilest he lodged with child: and therein it feemeth to me that he his Army upon the River Tygris, was there might have two purposes; the one, to de-flain with lightning. But a Mars of the same ftroy her, because she was the daughter and Kind might end him that began him; for he heir of his elder brother, from whom he in-juriously held the Kingdom; the other, to lence destroyed. And that he died by viofatisfie his appetite, because she was fair and lence ( which destiny followed most of the goodly. For she being made a Nun of the Roman Emperours ) it appeareth by Tarquigoddess Vesta, it was death in her, by the Law, nins Superbus, who was the seventh King afto break her chaftity. I also find in Fanchet ter him: who when he had murthered his the Francs, was begotten by a Monster of the not be buried, for (said he) Romulus himself Sca : but Fanchet fayes, Let them believe it that died and was not buried. But let Halicarnaf-

Apollo. And Anchyses boasted that he mad lus: whose life historified by Plutarch, doth known Venus. But Khea was made with child contain (befides what is here already spoken by some man of War, or other, and therefore of him) the conquest of a few miles, which called Mars, the god of battel, according to had foon been torgotten, if the Roman greatthe sense of the time. Oenone was overcome ness built upon that foundation, had not giby a strong wit, and by such a one as had even it memory in all ages following, even those properties ascribed to Apollo. The Mo- unto this day. A valiant man he was, very ther of Merouee might fancy a SeaCaptain, to strong of body, patient of travel, and tempebe gotten with young by such a one: as the rate in diet, as for bearing the use of wine and Daughter of Inachus fancied, according to delicacies: but his raging ambition he knew Herodotus. Eneas was a bastard, and begot- not how to temper, which caused him to slay ten upon some fair Harlot, called for her his brother, and neglect to revenge the death beauty Venns, and was therefore the child of of Tatins, his companion in the Kingdom, lust, which is Venus. Romulus was nurst by a that he himself might be Lord alone in those Wolf, which was Lupa, or Lupina; for the narrow Territories. He reigned 37. years, Curtesans in those dayes were called Wolfs, first alone, then with Tatius, and after his Que nunc (faith Halicarnasseus honestiori vo- death, single, till he was slain, as is already cabulo amica appellantur; Which are now by an shewed: after which time, the Soveraignty honester name called friends. It is also written, fell into the hands of Numa, a man to him that Romulus was in the end of his life taken unknown, and more Priest-like than Kinglike: wherein Rome it felf in her latter times [ctorious to excellive magnificence, from having long bin fole Governess, till Constant ven from luxury to defensive arms, and the retinople flared with her: afterwards, when in having bin unfortunate, at length betakes as the Greek Emperour was crushed by for-her self-again to the Croster staff. And thus much of Kome in this place, by oclimeral power, the fell into the fubjection casion of the story of the times of King Abaz. of a Prelate, swelling by degrees from the during whose reign in Jury, the foundations Sheep-hook to the Sword, and therewith vi- of this famous City were laid.

hath somewhat resembled this King. For whence by the same degrees it fell, being dri-

CHAP. XXV.

Of Ezechia, and his Contemporaries.

of the beginning of Ezechias, and of the agreeing of Ptolemy, Nabonassar, Nabopolassar, and Mardocempadus, with the history of the Bible.

fon. This appears by the Reign of Hosea, o- tion so irregular and miraculous, it is necessiaver Israel, which began in the twelfth of A- ry that he produce some record of obserhaz, and therefore the third thereof was vation made at such a time. Howsoever it be, the fourteenth of Ahaz, was almost spent prove that Ezechia reigned not with his Faof Ahaz may have been concurrent, for the at the death of Jehofaphat, and succession most part, with the first of Ezechia.

dom, when the twelfth year of Ahaz was al- | Father lived, we have already faid enough. most compleat, some vyould find the means labour to alter the first year.

tholomer Scullet, vvho is much commended down the brafen serpent of Moses, because the

S the first year of Abaz his reign for skill in Astronomy, hath by calculation was confounded with the last of on found the very day, which answered unhis father Jotham, so was the later to the twenty fift of April, in the Julian year, end of his fixteen years taken up being then Thursday. I have not seen any in the three first of Ezechias his vvorks of Scullet; but surely to find a moconcurrent with Ahaz his fourteenth. But the fifteenth year of Ezechia agreed upon; third of Hosea was the first of Ezechia; so it and therefore we may not alter the first. As third of rigea was the first of Executes, to its forthat faying, vivinch is usual in like cases, to though Fathers fourteenth year. Like enough it is, that Ahaz flept with his Fathers, & Ezechia 17, that the third year of Hosea, the same being his son reigned in his stead, it doth no more when Ezechia began, and so the fifteenth year ther, than the like saying doth inferr the like of Jehoram; vyhereof, as concerning the By supposing that Hosea began his King beginning of the Son to reign whilest his

Of this godly King Ezechias, vve find, that how to dif-joyn the first of Hezechia from the his very beginning testified his devotion fifteenth of Ahaz, placing him yet one year and zeale. For whether it were so, that his later, of vvhich year, Ahaz may perhaps have unfortunate and ungracious father (who had lived not many days. But feeing that the out-voorn his reputation) gave vvay to his fourteenthand fifteenth years of Ezechia may Sons proceedings, which perhaps it lay not not be removed out of their places, it is vain in him to hinder; or whether (as I rather think ) the first year and first moneth of his In the fourteenth year of Ezechia, Sena- reign, wherein Ezechias opened the doors cherib, invaded Juda and the Countries ad- of the Temple, were to be understood as 2 Chro 294 joyning, lost his Army by a miraculous the beginning of his fole government; vvee ftroak from Heaven, fled home, and was plainly find it to have been his first work, tlain. The year following it was that God that he opened the doors of the house of the added fixteen years to the life of Ezechia, Lord, which Achaz had thut up, cleanfed vyhen he had already reigned fourteen of his the City and Kingdom of the Idols, restored : chro.30. nine and twenty: and the fame year was the Priefts to their offices and effates, comthat miracle feen of the Suns going back ; manded the Sacrifices to be offered which of which wonder (as I hear) one Bar- had bin for many years neglected, and brake people burnt incense before it and he called calculations of fundry good Mathematiit Nebushtan, which fignifieth a lumpe of cians. For by them it appears, that between brasse. He did also celebrate the patic-over Nabonassar and the birth of Christ, there with great magnificence, inviting thereunto passed seven hundred forty and six years; at the Ifraelites of the ten Tribes. Many there which distance of time the reign of Salmawere, even out of those Tribes, that came up nassar was. One great proofe hereof is this, to Terusalem, to this feast: But the generall which the same Bucholerus alledgeth out of multitude of Ifrael did laugh the Mellengers Erasmus Reinholdus, in the Prutenick Tables. of Exechia to fcorne.

CHAP. XXV

folemnize the memoriall of their delive- Moon, which were in his time, doth menrance out of the Egyptian servitude fell into tion) was the same whom the Scriptures call a new fervitude; out of which they never Merodach, who fent Embassadours to Hezewere delivered. For in the fourth of Exechia kia King of Juda. So that if we reckon backhis reign, Salmanassar the Son of Tiglath the ward to the difference of time between Son of Belochus, hearing that Hosea King of Merodach and Salmanassar, we shall find it Israel had practifed with so King of Fgypt, a- the same which is between Mardocempadus gainst him, invaded Israel, besieged Samaria, and Nabonassar. Likewise Functius doth and in the third year (after the inhabitants shew, that whereas from the destruction of had endured all forts of miseries) forced it, Samaria, to the destruction of Jerusalem, in and carried thence the ten Idolatrous Tribes, the nineteenth of Nebuchadnezzer, we colinto Assiria and Media: among whom Tobias, lect out of the Scriptures, the distance of one and his Son of the same name, with Anna his hundred thirty and three years: the self-same Wife, were fent to Nineve; in whole Seats and diffrance of time is found in Ptolemy, be-Places the Assprians sent strangers of other tween Nabonassar and Nabopolassar. For Nations, and among them many of the anci- whereas Ptolemy feems to fuffer from this ent Enemies of the Ifraelites, as those of Cutha, accompt, making Nabonaslar more ancient by Ana, Hamah, and Sphernaim, besides Babylo- an hundred and forty years, than the denians: whose Places and Nations I have for- struction of Terusalem, wee are to undermerly described in the Treatise of the Holy stand that he took Samaria in the eighth year Land.

ans, which followed them, are the first of three, make the accompt of the Scriptures whom we find mention made both in Pro- fall even with that of Ptolemy, Ptolemies phane and Sacred books. These therefore computation is that from the first of Nabonalferve most aptly to joyne the times of the far, to the fifth of Nabopolassar, there passed old World, (whereof none but the Pro- one hundred twenty and feven years. Now ly) with the Ages following that were bet- seven, the thirteen ensuing of Nebuchadnezter known, and described in course of Histo- zers years, before the City and Temple ry. True it is, that of Cyrus and some other were destroyed, wee have the sum of one Persians, we find in the Bible the same names hundred and forty years. In so plain a by vehich other Authors have recorded case more proofes are needless, though mathem but of Phul and Salmanassar, with only are brought, of which this may serve ther Affrian, Chaldaan Kings, diversity of for all, that Plolemy placeth the first of name hath bred question of the persons. Nabopolassar, one hundred twenty and two Therefore, whereas the Scriptures doe speak years after the first of Nabonassar, which of Salmanassar, King of Assur, vvho reigned in agreeth exactly with the Scriptures. To the time of Abaz and Ezechia, Kings of Juda, these notes are added the consent of all Ma-and of Hosea King of Israel, whom he carried thematicians: which in accompt of times I into captivity: and whereas Ptolomy makes hold more fure than the authority of any Himention of Nabonasjar, speaking precisely of story; and therefore I think it folly to make the time wherein he lived; it is very pertidoubt, whereas Historians and Mathematical nent to shew, that Salmanassar and Nabonassar observations do so throughly concurr. were one and the same man. The like reason Yet for as that argument of the learcalleth Nabopolassar.

Mardocempadus King of Babylon ( whom It was not long erethey that fcorned to Ptolemy, speaking of three Eclipses of the of his reign; fo that the feven foregoing These latter Assyrian Kings, and the Persi- years added to these one hundred thirty and phets have written otherwise then fabulous- if wee add to these one hundred twenty also requireth, that it be shewed of Nebuchad-ned Scaliger doth rest unanswered, wherenezzer, that he was the same whom Ptolemy, by he proved Baladan the Father of Merodach, to have been this Nabonassar, I will not Of both these points Bucholerus hath well, spare to lose a word or two in giving the collected sufficient proofe from the exact Reader satisfaction herein. It is true, that the which Ptolomy recorded, after the time of Na- oclorus and Ptolomy are alligned to Belofus, bondfar, were in the reign of Mardocempa- Nabonafar, and Mardocempadus and the reft: dusthe lecond year of whose reign is according to Ptolomy, concurrent in part with the reigned there in those ages; and all Aftrotwenty feven of Nabonassar. For the second nomical observations, fitly concurring with of three ancient Eclipses which he calculates, the years that are attributed to these, or being in the fecond year of Mardocempadus, numbred from them. was from the beginning of Nabonassar twenty feven years, seventeen dayes, and eleven hours: the accompt from Nabonaslar, beginning at high-noon the first day of the Feyptian Moneth That then answering to the twenty fixt of February; and this Eclipse being fifty minutes before mid-night, on the tighteenth day of that Moneth, when the Wenatherib in polletion of the Emof February; to that the difference of time demanded of him fuch Tribute as was abetween the two Kings Nabonassar and Mar- greed on, at such time as Tiglath, the Granddocempadus is noted by Ptolomy, according to father of Senacherib, and Father of Salmawith Nahonassar , I have taken the pains to write his own conditions. fearch as far as my leifure & diligence could mentioned in Scriptures, reigned in Babylen should help them, Executas had formerly next observations of the heavenly Bodies, and Affirmain those very times which by Dino good Hiftory naming any others that

6. II.

Of the danger and deliverance of Judga from Senacherib.

first day thereof agreed with the nineteenth pire, in the sourcepth year of Executar, he the Ferrian years. But how doth this prove, naffar, invited by Ahaz, invaded Rezin King that wardocempadus or Meradach, was the of Damaseus, and delivered him from the dan-Son of Nabonassar? yea, how doth it prove, gerous War which Israel had undertaken athat he was his next Successiour, or any way gainst him. This Tribute and acknowledgof his Linage? It was enough to fatisfie me. ment when Ezechias denied, Senacherib, hain this argument, that Scaliger himself did af- ving (as it seems) a purpose to invade Egypt; terwards believe Mardocempadus to have fent one part of his Army to lye before Jebeen rather the Nephew than the Son of Ba- rusalem. Now though Ezechias (fearing this ladan, or Nabonaljar. For if he might be ci- powerful Prince ) had acknowledged his ther the Nephew, or the Son; he might per- fault, and purchased his peace, as he hoped, haps be neither the one, nor the other. But with thirty hundred talents of filver, and because our Country-man Lidyat hath re- thirty talents of gold, wherewith he present- 2 Kin. 18. prehended Scaliger for changing his opinion; ed Senacherib, now set down before Lachis in and that both Torniellus, who follows Scali- Judaa; yet under the colour of better affuger herein, and sethus Calvifus, who hath rance, and to force the King of Judga to dedrawn into form of Chronology, that learned liver hostages, the Allyrian invironed Jerusawork, De Emendatione Temporum, do hold up lem with a gross Army, and having his sword the same affection, confounding Baladan in his hand, thought it the fittest time to Ezechias directed his three great Counreach, after any fentence that might prove fellers to parly with Rublaces over the Wall; the Kindred or Succession of these two: Yet and to receive his demands: who used three cannot I find in the Almagest (for the Scrip- principal arguments to perswade the people tures are either filent in this point, or adverse to yeild themselves to his Master Senacherib. to 8caliger; and other good authority, I know For though the Chancellour, Steward, and none, in this bufiness) any sentence more near | Secretary, sent by Ezechias, defired Rabfaces ly proving the succession of Merodach to to speak unto them in the syrian tongue, Nabonaffar than the place now last rehearfed: and not in the Jewish, yet he with a louder which makes no more, to shew that the one voice directed his speech to the multitude in of these was father to the other, than (that I their own language. And for the first, he may use a like example) the as near successi- | made them know, That if they continued obon of William the Conqueror, declares him, stinate and adhered to their King, that they to have been Son, or Grand-child to Edmard would in a short time be inforced to eat their the confessor. This considered we may fafely lown dung, and drink their own urine : Sego on with our account from Nabonajūr, ta- condly, he altrogether diabled the King of king him for Salmanajūr; and not fearing, Feppt, from whom the Judeans hoped for that the Readers will be driven from our fuccour; and compared him to a broken 11. Book when they find something in it, agree- staffe, on which who soever leaneth, pierceth ing with Annius, forasmuch as these Kings his own hand: Thirdly, that the gods who broken and defaced, meaning chiefly (as it is numerable multitude of Rats had in one his Army, which was departed as it feemeth fub Rabsacis imperio reliquerat peste divinifrom the fiege of Pelusium in Egypt, for fear tus immissa deletum, prima nocie post eaof Terhaca: and though the Scriptures are quam Urbem oppugnare caperat, abjumptis filent of that enterprise (which in these Books cum Ducibus & Tribunis centum oftoginta of the Kings, and of the Chronicles or Parali- quinque millibus Militum; qua clade territus, pomenon, speak but of the affairs of the Jews & de reliquis copiis sollicitus, maximis itiin effect) yet the ancient Berosus, and out of neribus in regnum suum contendit, ad regiam him Josephus and Saint Hierom, together with que Ninus dicitur. Ubi paulo post per insidias Vulcan's Priest; and reporteth that the rea- which he had left under the command of fon of Senacherib's return from Pelusium in Rabsaces, destroyed by a pestilence sent thought by some) the brasen Serpent, which night caten in funder the Bow-strings of his had been preserved ever since Moses time : Archers, and spoiled the rest of their Weaand vvithall he bade them remember the pons in that kind, which no doubt might gods of other Nations, vvhom, not withftand- greatly amaze him: but the approach of ing any power of theirs, his Master had con- Tarhaca, remembred by Josephus and Berosus. quered and thrown down; and for God him- was the more urgent. Saint Hierome upon the felf. in vyhom they trusted, he perswaded seven and thirtieth of Esay, out of the same them by no means to rely upon him, for he Berofus, as also in part out of Herodotus, vvould deceive them. But finding the peo- whom Josephus citeth somewhat otherwise Follows ple filent ( for fo the King had commanded than his words lye, reports senacherib's rethem) after a vyhile, vyhen he had under-trait in these words: Pugnasse autem Sena-inglis flood that the King of Arabia was marching cherib Regem Affriorum contra Agyptios , & on with a powerful Army, he himself lett obsedisse Pelusum, jamque extructis aggeribus the Alirian forces in charge to others, and urbi carienda, venife Taracham Regem Afought senacherib at Libna in Judea, either thiopum in auxilium, & una nocle juxta feruto inform him of their resolution in Jerusa- salem, centum octoginta quinque millia exercilem, or to confer with him concerning the tus Affarin peftilentia corruife, narrat Herodo-Army of Turhaca the Arabian. Soon upon tus : & plenissime Berofus Chaldaica scriptor this there came letters from Senacherib to Historie, quorum fides de propriis libris peten-Exechias, whom he partly advised, and part- da eft; That ocnacherib King of the Affivily threatned to submit himself, using the ans fought against the Agyptians, and bessefame blasphemous outrage against the all- ged Pelulium, and that when his Mounts were powerful God, as before. But Exechias built fo the taking of the City, Tarhacas King fending those Counsellers to the Prophet E- of the Ethiopians came to help them, and that fay, which had lately been fent to Rabfaces, in one meht near Jerusalem one hundred eighreceived from him comfort, and assurance, ty five thousand of the Assyrian Army perished received from nim comfort, and anticalities, in five tomparts of these things (saith Hierome) that this heathen Idolater should not prevail; against whom the King also belought; Herodotus reports: and more at large Beroads from Almighty God, repeating the most surviver of Chaldean story, mole credit in the state of insolent and blasphemous parts of Senache- to be taken from their own Books. Out of Hersika rib's letter, before the Altar of God in the Esp it is gathered, that this destruction of mention remple, confessing this part thereof to be the Assprian Army was in this manner: Thou thing the temple, confeiling tins part interest to be the algorian fainty was in this manner: About the true, That the King of Albur had destroyed shall be visited of the Lord of Hoasts with thun-their the Nations and their Lands, and bad set fire on their gods, for they were no gods, but the works of mans hands, even wood and short, but the works of mans hands, even wood and short, so the same serosus, and agreed and allowed the same serosus, and another the same serosus, and another the same serosus, and another the same serosus, and another the same serosus, and another the same serosus, and another the same serosus, and another the same serosus and same serosus and the same serosus and same serosu The reason that moved Senacherib to de- well agreeing with the Scriptures) not to be Esp. 196. fire to posses himself in haste of Jerusalem, omitted; Senacheribus antem ab Ægyptis- 161 must, was, that he might thereinto have retraited co bello revertens, of endit ibi exercitum quem with Herodo. 1.2. Herodotus, remember it as followeth. Herodo- Seniorum è filiis suis, Adramelechi, & Se- Selenur two calleth Senacherib King of Arabia and lennari, vitam amist: occisus in ipso Tem-otherwise Affyria: which he might justly do, because plo quod dicitur Araici, quem pracipuo cultu sharen, Tiglath his Grand-father held a great part dignabitur; quibus ob patricidium à popula- him, as be thereof, which he wrested from Pekah King ribus pulsis, & in Armeniam fugientibus, A- was Fist of Israel: as Gilead over Jordan, and the reli saracoldas minor filius in Regnum successit; segur hi of Arabia Petra adjoyning: the same Hero Scnacherib (faith Josephus) returning from god dotus also maketh Sethon King of Fgppt, to be the Ægyptian War, found there his Army, 1 King 19 Egypt, which he also besieged, was, that an in- from God, the first night that he had begun to him.

CHAP. XXV.

Ecclaf. 28.

468

all all the Town: one hundred fourfoore and five | a maffe of Figs, laid to the Botch or Sore. thousand of the Souldiers being consumed with This wonder when the Wife-men of Chaltheir Chieftains and Colorels. With which de- data had told to Merodach, King of Eabylon. firuction being terrified, and withall afraid the first of that house, he tent to Ezechias, to what might become of the rest of his Armie, he be informed of the cause: at which time Exemade ereat marches into his Kingdome, to his chias shewed him all the Treasure he had. Royall Citie, which is called Ninus, where fort- both in the Court and in the Kingdome; for ly after by the treason of two of the eldest of his which he was reprehended by the Prophet Sons, Adramelch and Selenner or Sharezer, Ifaiah, who told him; The dayes are at hand, Eft 39. he loft his life in the Temple dedicated to Aral-that all that is in thine houle, and whathoever ces, or Nelroth; Whom he especially worshiped, thy Fathers have laid up in store to this day, These his Sons being for their paracide chased shall be carried into Eabel; nothing shall be away by the people, and flying into Armenia, left, faith the Lord. It may feeme strange, 150 4.1. Afaracoldas his younger son succeeded in the how Ezechia should have got any treasure Kinadome. Who in the beginning of his reign worth the shewing: for Senacherib had rob-Grand-father Salmanassar. What this Nefroth with advantage, and made Ezekia richer uptraditions hath somewhat of him, but nothing unexpected wealth was a strong temptation positively. It is certain, that Venus Vrania to boasting. After this time Ezchia had rest, was worthiped by the Affgrians; and fo was and spending without noise that addition Jupiter Eelus, as Dion, Eusebius, and Cyrillus which God had made unto his life, he dyed Allarhaddon. Tobit tels us, that it was fiftie | Ecclesiafticus ) he devised to bring vvater to five dayes after Senacherib's returne, ere he Jerusalem. was murthered by his Sons, during which time he slew great numbers of the Ifraelites God: the one, that he rejoyced too much fword against his own breast.

akin an chias fomewhat doubtfull of this exceeding strength, by the molestation of his brothers.

fent new troops out of Affyria to Samaria, to bed him of all, the year before. But the spoyl fortific the Colonic therein planted by his of the same senacherib his Camp repayed all was, it is uncertain: Hierome in his Hebrew on the fudden than ever he had been; which witnesse. Many fancies there are, what cause having reigned nine and twenty years. One his Sons had to murther him; but the most only offensive War he made, which was likely it is, that he had formerly dif-inheri- against the Philistims, vvith good success. Ated those two, and conferred the Empire on mong his other acts ( shortly remembred in

In two respects they say that he offended in Nineve, till the most just God turned the at the destruction and lamentable end of his enemy: the other, that he so much gloried in his riches, as he could not forbear to shew them to strangers. But the reason wwhich moved Exechias ( speaking humanely ) to Of Ezechias his sicknesse and recoverie; and of entertain the Embassadours of Merodach in the Babylonian King that congratulated this friendly and familiar manner, was because he came to visit him, and brought him a present, congratulating the recovery of his Fter this marvellous deliverie, Ezechias health; as also in that Merodach had weakfickned, and was told by Isaiah that he ned the house of Senacherib, his fearfull must dye: but after he had besought God enemy. For Merodach, who was Comwith tears for his delivery, Isaiah, as he was mander and Lieutenant under Senacherib going from him, returned again, and had in Babylon, usurped that State himself, in the warrant from the Spirit of God to promise last year of that King, and held it by strong him recovery after three dayes, and a pro- hand against his son Aslarhaddon; who longation of life for fifteen years. But Eze- was not onely fimple, but impaired in grace, prayeth for a fign to confirme him: This advantage Merodach espied, and rememwhereupon, at the prayer of Isaiah, the sha- bring that their ancestor Phul Belochus had set dow of the Sunne cast it self the contrary his own Master Sardanapalus besides the cu-way, and went back ten degrees, upon the shion, thought it as lawfull for himself to Dyall of Achaz. The cause that moved Eze-chias to lament (sith Saint Hierome) was, ness did offer, as it had been for Belochus because he had as yet no son, and then in de-pair that the Messias should come out of the sinding himself beloved of the Babylonians, house of David, or at least of his Seed. His and sufficiently powerful, he did put the disease seemeth to be the postilence, by the matter to hazzard, and prevailed the affertimedicine given him by the Prophet, to wit, on of this history is made by the same arguments that were in maintaining the common! opinion of Writers, touching Phul Belochus; which I will not here again rehearfe. So of this new race, which cut afunder the Line of Nimes, there were onely five Kings.

But forafmuch as the last year of Salmanassar was also the first of Senacherib his son, we reckon the time, wherein the house of Phul held the Allyrian Kingdom, to have been an hundred and one years, of which, the last five and twenty were spent with Ezechia, under Salmanassar, Senacherib, and Af-Sarhaddon.

6. IV.

The Kings that were in Media during the reign of Ezechia: Of the difference found between fundry Authors in rehearling the Median Kings. Other contemporaries of Hezekia: of Candaules, Gyges, and the Kings descended from Hercules.

N the time of Ezekia, Medidus, and after him Cardiceas, reigned in Media. Whether it were so, that variety of names, by which these Kings were called in several Histories. hath caused them to seem more than indeed furnished than ours, with books of this arguthey were; or whether the fons reigning ment. Let it therefore suffice, that these two with the fathers, have caused not onely the names of Kings, but the length of Time raries with Ezekia ) Medidus and Cardiceas, wherein they governed Media, to exceed the are found in Eufebius: for whether Cardiceas due proportion, or whether the Copies them- were Diodorus his Arbianes, I will not stay to felves of Cicfias and Annius his Metasthenes, search. The Kings of Media, according to Euhave been faulty, as neither of these two sebins, reigned in this order. Authors is over-highly commended of trustiness; so it is, that the names, number, and length of reign, are all very diverily reported of these Median Kings, that follow Arbaces: therefore it need not feem strange, that I reckon Medidus and Cardiceas as contemporaries with Ezechia. For to reconcile so great a difference, as is found in those writers that vary from Eusebius, is more than I dare undertake. I will only here fet down the roll of Kings that reigned in Media, accordingly as I retain; but adde unto these, Cyaxares, the fundry Authors have delivered it.

their reigns thus:

	and the same of the same of the same
Arbaces Mandanes Sofarmon Articarmin Arbianes		28 3 50 30 50 22
Arteus	> reigned <	40	years.
Artines		22	, "
Astybarus, with his	1
fon Apanda	i	20
Apanda alone	1	30
Darius with Cyrus	.	36

Diodorus Siculus following Ctesias (as perhaps Annius made his Metasthenes follow Diodore. with some little variation, that he might not feem a borrower )placeth them thus ;

Arbaces Mandanes Sofarmus Articas Arbianes Arfæus Artines Artabanus	reigned	28 50 30 50 22 40 22 40	years.
--	---------	--	--------

Astybara the continuance of these two he Aftyages \ doth mention.

Mercator hath laboured, with much diligence, to reconcile these Catalogues, and to make them also agree with Eusebius. But foralmuch as it feems to me an impossible matter, to attain unto the truth of his forgotten times, by conjectures founded upon Ctesias and Metasthenes, I will lay the burden upon Eusebius, who lived in an age better Kings (whom I have reckoned as contempo-

Arbaces	(28)
Sofarmus Medidus	30 40
. 1	reigned 15	vears.
Deioces	1 2 1 34 1	j
Phraortes Cyaxares	1 24 1
Astyages	ڔؗڰۄؙؗ

These names, and this course of succession fon of Aftyages, according to Xenophon; and Annius his Metasthenes orders them and sometimes follow Herodoius, in setting down the length of a Kings reign, otherwise than Eusebins hathit: of which variations I will render my reasons in due place.

The twenty nine years of Ezekia were concurrent, concurrent, in part, with the rule of the four | Dafcylus to behold her naked body, and plaany food: fo the Horle, constrained by hunger | Ezekia one year before the death of Romulus. devoured the unhappy Woman.

In Rome, the first King, and founder of that fomewhat after Ezekia.

CHAP. XXVI

the same age.

This Region was first called Maonia. Lydus ceeding the father. Candaules the fon of Myrfus was the last of his race, who doated I have not troubled my self to take notice of so much upon the beauty of his own wife, that the time of their several reigns: for little is he could not be content to enjoy her, but found of them beside the bare names, and the would needs enforce one Gyges the fon of folly of this last King Candaules.

first that were chosen Governours of Athens | ced the unwilling man secretly in her chamfor ten years, that is, of Charops, Assimedes, ber, where he might see her preparing to bed-Flidicus, and Hippones. Touching the first ward. This was not so closely carried, but of these I hear nothing, save that Rome was that the Queen perceived Grees at his going built in his first year; of which perhaps him- forth, and understanding the matter, took it felf did not hear. Of the second and third in such high disdain, that she forced him the Ifind only the names. The fourth made him- next day to requite the Kings folly with treafelf known by a strange example of justice, son. So Gyges being brought again into the or rather of cruelty, that he shewed upon his same chamber by the Queen, slew Candaules. own Daughter. For he finding that the had and was rewarded not only with his Wife, offended in unchastity, caused her to be lockt but with the Kingdom of Lydia. He reigned up with an Horse, giving to neither of them thirty eight years, beginning in the last of

After Gyges, his fon Ardys reigned nine and forty years; then Sadyattes twelve; Halyattes, City Romulus, did reign both before, and fifty seven, and finally Crasus the son of Halyattes, fourteen years: who loft the Kingdom,

In Lydia, Candaules the last King ruled in and was taken by Cyrus of Persia.

And here by the way we may note that as the Lydian Kings whom Creefus his Progethe fon of Atys reigning in it, gave the nitor dispossest, are deduced from Hercules, name of Lydia, if we believe fuch authority | fo of the fame Hercules there for any oas we find. This Kingdom was afterward, ther Kings, which governed feveral Counby the appointment of an Oracle, conferred | treys very long; as in Asia, the Mysians, in upon Argon, who came of Alcaus the fon of Greece, the Lacademonians, Mellenians, Rho-Hercules, by fardana, a bond-woman. The dians, Corinthians and Argives; and from the race of these Heraclida continued reigning Argives, the Macedonians, as likewise from fifty five years (in which two and twenty the Corinthians, the Syraculans: besides ma-Generations passed) the son continually suc- ny great and famous, though private families.

But of the Heraclide that reigned in Lydia,

of the History of the World.

CHAP. XXVI.

Of the Kings that reigned in Egypt, between the deliverance of Israel from thence, and the reign of Ezekiah in Juda when Egypt and Juda made a league against the Assyrians.

That many names of Egyptian Kings, found in History, are like to have belonged only to Viceroys. An example proving this out of William of Tyre his History of the Holy War.

He emulation and quarrels ari- who first planted that Country, and of Osiris, fing in these times, between, the orus, and other ancient Kings that reigned mighty Kingdoms of Egypt and there, untill the Ifraelites were thence deli-Allyrians, do require our pains, vered, more hath been faid already than I in collecting the most memora- can stand to; though I hold it no shame to ble things in Egypt, and fetting down briefly fail in such conjectures. That which I have the state of that Countrey, which had con- delivered, in speaking mine opinion of the tinued long a flourishing Region, and was of Egyptian Dynasties, must here again help me, great power, when it contended with Affyria For it may truly be affirmed. That the great for the mastery. Of Cham the son of Noah, number of Kings, which are said to have reigned in Egypt, were none other than Vice- his Turks, under the command of Spraces. roves or Stewards, fuch as Joseph vvas, and against the soldan Dargan. So Dargan and fuch as evere the Soldans in latter ages. Sanar met, and fought: The victoric was Therefore I will not onely forbear to feek Dargans; but he enjoyed it not: For in few after those, whom Herodotus and Diodorus dayes after, he was tlain by treason, whereby have reckoned up from the mouths of Egyp- Sanar did recover his Dignitie: which to etian Priests, delivering them by number, stablish, he slew all the kindred and freinds without rehearing their names; but will of Dargan, that he could find in the great fave the labour of marshalling them in order. Citie of cairo. recorded.

other Countries. As for the rest whose names own game. with turning over many Authors.

C H A P. XXVI

whose names onely are found; the years of To all these doings, the Calipb Elbadech their reigns, and other circumstances proving gave little regard; for he thought it little them to have been Kings indeed, being not concerned him, which of them lived, and had the administration of the kingdome. But that I may not feem before hand to whilest he might have the profit of it, and lay an imaginarie ground, whereupon after his pleasure. But new troubles presently a-I may build what I lift, it were not amisse, to rise, which (one would think) do neerly give unto the Reader such satisfaction in this touch the Caliph himselfe. Syracon with his point, as apparent reason, and truth of Histo- Turks, whom Sanar had gotten to come into rie doth afford, First therefore, we ought not Egypt, will not now be intreated there to to believe those numbers of Generations, leave him, and quietly go their way home, which the lying Preists have reckoned up, to They size upon the Town of Belbeir, which magnifie their Antiquities. For we know, they fortifie, and there attend the arrivall of that from Abraham our Saviour Christ was re- more companie from Davisseo, for the conmoved onely forty two defcents; which quest of all Egypt. The soldan perceives makes it evident, that in farre shorter time, their intent, and finds himself not strong enamely before the Persian Empire, there nough to expell them, much lesse to expell could not have passed away twice as many the Turkish Armie that was likely to second fuccessions in Egypt: especially considering, them: He therefore sends Messengers to King that many of these, whose continuance is ex- Almarick of Jerusalem, whom with large propressed, having reigned longer than forty mises he gets to bring him ayde, and so years. It follows that we should square the drives out the Turks: Of all this trouble number of the Egyptian Kings in some even the great Caliph hears nothing or not so much proportion, to those which did bear rule in as should make him look to the playing of his

we find feattered here and there; any man A greater mischief ariseth, concerning the that will take the paines to read the nine- Caliph Elhadech particularly in his own Title. teenth book of the Holy Warr, written by Syracon, Captain of the Turks that had been William Archbishop of Tyre, may easily per- in Egypt, goes to the Caliph of Baldach (who fwade himself, that it is not hard to find was opposite to him of Fgypt, each of them names enow, of such as might be thought to claiming as heir to Mahomet that false Prohave reigned in Feppt, being none other than phet, the Soveraigntie over all that were of Regents or Viceroyes. Yet will I here insert the Saracen Law) and tels him the weakness as breifly as I can, some things making to of the Egyptian, with his own abilitie of doing that purpole, for the pleafure and informa-fervice in those parts; offering his best means tion of fuch as will not trouble themselves for the extirpation of the Schismaticall Caliph, and the reduction of all Egypt, with the When Elabdech the Caliph ruled in Egypt, Western parts, under the subjection of the Baone Dargan, a powerfull and a fubtile man, bylonian. This motion is readily and joyfulmade himself Soldan by force and cunning, ly entertained; all the Eastern Provinces are chasing away Sanar an Arabian, who was up in Arms, and Syracon, with a mighty pow-Soldan before and after him. This Dargan er, descendeth into Egypt. The noyse of this ministred matter of quarrel to Amalrick King great expedition so affrighteth King Almaof Jerusalem; and sustained, with little losse, rick, that with all his forces he hasteth into an invalion, which Amalrick made upon E- Egypt, well knowing how neerly it concerngipt. hereupon he grew so insolent and ed him and his kingdome of Jerusalem, to proud, that Sanar the former Soldan hoped keep the Saracens from joyning all under to make his partie good against him, if he one head. Sanar the Soldan perceiving the could get any forces wherewith to enter E- faithfull care of the Christians his friends, gypt. Briefly, Sanar fueth to Noradine, King welcomes them, and beftirs himselfe in giving of Damasco, for ayde, who sends an Armie of them all manner of content, as it behoved him: for by their admirable valour, he fi- were brought into the calible's own ledg-But this victory was not fo foon gotten, as better guarded; where entring the Preit is quickly told.

Strange it is (which most concerns our present purpose) that of so desperate a danger, the Caliph, as yet, feems to know nothing. May we not think him to have been King required, makes large offers to King Almarick, upon condition that he should abide of Tyre calls it a Tribute; the Sarazens, per-perhaps from the East Indies, which then his greatness. was undiscovered. The further they went, tred, the more high state they found, and roy, in the mean season, using all Royal cause of marvaile; suffice it, that the good power; making War and Peace; enter-Archbishop, who wrote these things, was taining and repelling Armies of strangers;

nally drave the enemies out of the Countrie. ings, which were yet more stately and fence, the Soldan having twice proftrated himself, did the third time cast off his Sword that he wore about his neck, and throw himself on the ground before the Curtain, behind which the Calipb fate. in title onely, who meddled so little in the Presently the traverse wrought with Cold Government? The Soldan, finding that the and Pearls was opened, and the Caliph Christians (without whose help all was lost) himself discovered, fitting with great Macould not well ftay so long as his necessities jesty on a Throne of Gold, having few of his most inward servants and Eunuches about him. When the Soldan had humbly by it. He promiseth a great Tribute (William | kissed his Matters feet, he briefly told the cause of his comming, the danger wherein haps, called it a Pension) which the Kings the Land stood, and the offers that he made of Jerusalem should receive out of Egypt, for unto King Almerick, desiring the Caliph this behoveful affiltance. But the Christians himself to ratific them in presence of the understanding that the Soldan (how much Embassadors. The Caliph answered, That soever he took upon him) was subject to a he would throughly perform all which was higher Lord, would make no bargain of fuch promifed. But this contented not the Emimportance with any other than the Caliph baffadors: They would have him to give himself. Hereupon Hugh Earl of casarea, his hand upon the bargain; which the and a Knight of the Templers, are fent unto Egyptians that stood by thought an impu-Elhadech to ratifie the covenants. Now dent request. Yet his greatness condefshall we see the greatness of the Caliph and cenced at length, after much deliberation, at the earnest request of the Soldan, to These Embassadours were conveighed by reach out his hand. When the Earl of cathe Soldan to Cairo, where arriving at the Jaria faw that the Caliph gave his hand nei-Palace, they found it guarded by great ther willingly nor bare, he told him round-Troops of Souldiers. The first entrance ly thus much in effect: Sir, Truth seeks no was through dark Porches, that were kept holes to hide it felf; Princes that will hold by many armed bands of Ethiopians, which Covenant, must deal openly, nakedly, and with all diligence did reverence to the fincerely; Give us therefore your bare Soldan as he passed along. Through these hand, if you mean that we shall trust you, streights the Warders lead them into good- for we will make no bargain with your ly open Courts, of such beauty and riches, Glove. Much adoe there was about this: that they could not retain the gravity of for it seemed against the Majesty of such a Embassadours, but were inforced to ad- Prince to yield so far. But when it would mire the things which detained their eyes. none otherwise be, with a smiling chear For there they faw goodly Marble Pillars, (though to the great grief of his Servants), gilded Beams, all wrought over with em- he vouchsafed to let the Earl take him by bossed Works, curious Pavements, Fish-the bare hand; and so rehearing the coponds of Marble with clear Waters, and venants word by word, as the Earl spake many forts of strange Birds, unknown in them, he ratified all; dismissing finally the those parts of the World, as comming Embassadors with such rewards as testified

In this Caliph and his Sultan, we may the greater was their magnificence; for discern the Image of the ancient Pharaoh, the Caliph his Eunuches conveyed them and his Viceroy: we see a Prince of great into other Courts within these, as far ex- estate, sitting in his Palace, and not celling the former, as the former did fur- vexing himself with the great preparapass ordinary houses. It were tedious per- tions made against him, which terrifie haps to rehearse how the further they en- his neighbour Countries: we see his Vicenever held a vain Author. Finally they yea, making the Land of Egypt tributary to a forrain Prince. What greater authority was given to Toseph, when Pharaoh faid unto him, Thou Shalt be over mine house, and at thy word shall all my people be armed, of Acherres; whether he were Uchoreus that only in the Kings throne will I be above thee. Behold I have fet thee over all the Land of ty, whereby they might the better trust their found scattering in others. Officers with so ample commission. But of From the departure of Israel out of Egypt, this matter, I will not stand longer to dif-unto the reign of Thuris (who is generally pute. It is enough to have shewed, that the great and almost absolute power of the Vice- tens ) there is little or no disagreement about roys governing Egypt, is fet down by Moses, the Egyptian Kings. Wherefore I set down the and that a lively example of the same is same which are found in Eusebius, and give to found in William of Tyre, who lived in the every one the same length of reign. same age, was in few years after Chancellor Acherres was the first of these, who succeed the Kingdom of Jerusalem, and had full ded unto Chencres, that perished in the Red discourse with Hugh Earl of Casaria touch- Sea. This King seems to Reyneccius to be the ing all these matters. Wherefore it remains, same whom Diodorus calls Ochoreus, the that we be not carried away with a vain o- founder of Memphis. But whereas mention pinion, to believe that all they were Kings, is found in Diodorus of a great King named whom reports of the fabulous Egyptians have Ofymandyas, from whom Vchorens is faid to honoured with that stile; but rest contented be the eighth; it will either hardly follow, cumstance, likely to have reigned in that the great Ofmandyas; or else that this Achershould make inquiry.

CHAP. XXVI.

474

6. II.

was the eighth from Ofymandyas. Of Ofvmandvas and kis Tomb.

I do not commend this form of Govern-IN this businesse I hold it vain to be too ment; neither can I approve the conjecture curious. For who can hope to attain of mine Author, where he thinks, that the E- to the perfect knowledge of the truth. gyptians, ever fince Joseph's time have felt the when as Diodorus varies from Herodotus. burden of that servitude which he brought Eusebius from both of them; and late Wriupon them, when he bought them and their ters that have fought to gather the truth Lands for Pharaoh. Herein I find his judge- out of these and others, find no one with ment good; that he affirms this manner of whom they can agree? In this case Annius the Egyptian Kings, in taking their ease, and would doe good service, if a man could ruling by a Viceroy, to be part of the anci-trust him. But it is enough to be beholding ent customs practised by the Pharaohs For we to him when others do either say nothing. find, that even the Ptolemies (excepting Pto- or that which may justly be suspected. lomeus Lagi, and his son Philadelphus, foun- will therefore hold my felf contented with der and citablisher of that race) were given, the pleasure that he hath done me, in all of them wholly, to please their own appe- saying somewhat of Ofiris, Isis, Orus, and tites, leaving the charge of the Kingdom those antiquities removed so far out of to Women, Eunuches, and other Ministers fight: as for the Kings following the deparof their defires. The pleasures which that ture of Ifrael out of Egypt, it shall suffice Country afforded, were indeed sufficient to that Herodotus, Diodorus, and Eusebius have invite the Kings thereof unto a voluptuous not been filent, and that Reyneccius hath life, and the awful regard wherein the E- taken pains to range into some good order gyptians held their Princes gave them securi- the names that are extant in these, or else with a Catalogue of such, as we find by cir- that Timans (as Reineccius conjectures was Countrey; after whom it follows that we res was Ochoreus: for the distance between them was more than eight generations. Mercator judgeth Ofmandyas to have been the husband of Ancheres, Orus the seconds daughter; thinking that Manethon (cited by Josephus)doth omit his name, and infert his wives into the Catalogue of Kings, because he was King in his wives right. As for Ochoreus, it troubles not Mercator to find him the eighth from this man; for he takes Oedons, not to fig. nifie in this place of Diodore (as that Greek word else doth ) the eighth, but to be an Egyptian name, belonging also to Vehoreus, well be that Memphis was built by some such Josephs who might have had two names, as many of King as was Gehour, Lieutenant unto the 16th of the 15th of the 16th of th the reft had. I will not vexe my braines in Caliph Eleain; who having to his Matters use his. I. the unprofitable use of this, and the like inex- conquered Egypt, and many other Countries, tricable doubts. All that Diodore hath found did build, not far from old Memblis, the of this Ofmandyas, was wrought upon his great Citie of Cairo (corruptly fo pronounmonument; the most thereof in figures, which (ced) naming it El Cahira, that is, an enforcing, I thinke the Egyptians did fabuloully expound. For whereas there was portrayed a were a Dalmatran flave. great Army, with the feige of a Town, the captivity of the people, and the triumph of the Conqueror, all this the Egyptians faid to 5. III. denote the conquest of Baltria made by that of Cherres, Arm. us, Ramesses, and Ameno-King : which how likely it was, let others judge. I hold this goodly peice of work, which Diodore to particularly describes, to Hen Archerres had reigned eight years, Cherres succeeded and held the kingdome fifteen years : then gspt, and to their Viceroyes; whilft yet they reigned Armeus five years, and after him Rawere not fo ambitious, as every one to have melles threescore and eight. Of Armens and his own particular monument, striving there- Ramesses is that Historie understood by Euleinto exceed all others. This appears by the bins, which is common among the Greeks, unmany statues therein placed, by the Wars, der the names of Danaus and Egyptus. For the judgement feate, the receiving of Tri- it is faid that Danaus, being expelled out of bute, the offering facrifice to God, the ac- Egypt byhis brother, fled into Greece, where count of revenues, and plenty of all cattell he obtained the Kingdome of Argos; that and food: all which were there curioufly he had fifty Daughters, whom upon feeming wrought, shewing the severall Offices of a reconciliation, he gave in marriage to his Governour. On the Tomb of Ofmandy as brothers fiftie ions, but commanded every was this inscription. I am Osymandyas King one of them to kill her husband the first of Kings; if any desire to know what I am, or night; that onely Hipermnestra, one of his where I lye, let him exceed some of my works. Daughters, did save her husband Lincens; Let them that hope to exceed his works, la- and suffered him to escape; finally, That bour to know what he was. But fince by those for this fact, all the bloudy fifters, when words, Or where I lye, it should seem that he they dyed, were enjoyed this foolish pulay not there interred, we may lawfully niffment in Hell, to fill a leaking veffel with suspect that it was Joseph, whose body was water.

phis. Of Myris, and the Lake that beart his name.

preserved among the Hebrews, to be buried The reign of Danaus in Areas was indeed in the land of Canaan and this empty monu- in this age; but that Armens was Danaus, and ment might King Orus, who out lived him, e- Ramesses, Ægyptus, is more than Reineccius rect in honour of his high deferts, among the believes: he rather takes Armeus to have royall sepulchres. To which purpose the been Myris, or Meris, who caused the plenty of Cattel and all manner of viands, great lake to be made which bears his had good reference. The name of Ofyman- name. For my own part, as I can eadyar doth not hinder this conjecture; feeing fily beleive, that he which fled out of Joseph had one new name given him by Pha- Egypt into Greece, was a man of such raab, for expounding the dream, and might, qualitie as the Soldan Sunar, of whom we upon further occasions, have another to his spake before; so do I not find how in so short increase of honour. As for that stile, King of a reign, as five years, a work of that labour Kings, it was perhaps no more than Beglerberg, could be finished, which was required unto as the Turkish Bassase called that is, Great the Lake of Myris, and the Monuments therein; whereof his own Sepulchre and his Now although it be fosthat the reckoning wives being some part, it is manifest that he fals out right, between the times of Joseph & was not buried in Argos. Wherefore of Acherres (for Acherres was the eighth in or- Myris, and of all other Kings, whose age der, that reigned after the great orus, whose is uncertain, and of whose reigns we have Viceroy Toleph was) yet will I hereby feek, no affurance, I may truly fay, that their neither to fortifie mine own conjecture, as great vvorks are not enough to prove touching Juleph, nor to infer any likelihood them of the house of Pharaoh, seeing that of Acherres his being Ochoreus. For it might greater deeds are more absolute, than

above the Great.

have been crected for a common place of bu-

riall to the ancient Kings and Queens of E-

CHAP.XXVI

were those of Jojeph who bought all the peo- in the Countries through which he passed ple of Egypt as bondmen, and all their land had it now been performed; as any man for bread; of Gehoar, who founded Cairo; will perceive, if he look upon my Chronolo-

the length of their reigns whom we find to jectures to have had the same signification. have followed one another in order of fuc- wherein the old Kings of Hetruria were calceflion: but in rehearing the great acts led Lartes, (the Hetrurians being issued our which were performed, I will not stand to of Lydia, the Lydians out of Egypt ) and to examine, whether they that did them were have fignified as much as Imperator, or Gene-Kings or no.

odore and Herodotus, three thousand fix hun- Æthiopians: for fure I am, that they troudred furlongs in compass, and fifty fadoms bled not the Country of Palastina, that lay deep. It ferved to receive the waters of Nilus, next unto them on the one hand; nor is it when the overflow, being too great, was likely that they travelled over the defart harmful to the Country: and to supply the fands, on the other hand, to seek matter of defect, by letting out the waters of the lake, conquest, in the poor Countries of Africa. when the river did not rise high enough. In But these Generals (if the Larthes were such) opening the fluces of this lake, for the letting were not many. Five only had that title; in or out of waters, were spent fifty talents; and the last of these took it, perhaps, as hebut the lake it self defraied that cost; seeing reditary from the first; in such fort as the the tribute imposed upon fish taken therein Roman Emperours were proud, for a while, was every day one talent, which Myris gave to be called Antonini, till the most unsuitato his Wife to buy fweet Ointments and o- ble conditions of Heliogabalus, made his fucther Ornaments for her body. In the middest cessors forbear the name. of it was left an Iland, wherein were the Sepulchres of Myris and his Wife, and over fries (as appears by this particular) took name each of them a Pyramis, that was a furlong, from the Kings; that the Kings also did ador (according to Herodotus) fifty paces high; minister the government themselves, and having on the tops their statues, fitting in that therefore I am deceived in ascribing so Thrones. I find not the description of this much unto the Viceroys. But it is to be con-Lake in Maps, answerable to the report of sidered, that what is said of these Larthes, Historians: yet it is very great. The years of depends only upon conjecture, and that the Armens are by Manethon divided, by infert- authority of the Regents, or Viceroys, might ing one Armelis (whom Eusebius omits) that be great enough, though some few Kings should have reigned one year and odd took the conduct of Armies into their own moneths of the time : but I hold not this hands. For so we find in John Leo, that the John Leo, difference worthy of examination.

Kingdom forty years. Some give him only Soveraignty to himself) had under him a nineteen years; and Mercator thinks him to Viceroy, Itiled Eddaguadare, who had auhave been the King that was drowned in thority to place, or displace, any Magistrates, ken in the first Book.

5. IV.

Of the Kings that reigned in the Dynasty of the fofiris. But the state of the World was not drawn; whether from their Country as those been either eafily performed, or forgotten time; as many think, that the feventeenth and of Sanar, who made the Country Tri-butary; were performed by none of them. this Zethur. With this King began the Dy-It shall therefore be enough to fet down nafty of the Larthes; which Reineceius conral. The Wars in which these Kings were The Lake of Myris, is, by the report of Di- Generals, I take to have been against the

Here it may be objected, that the Dyna-Soldan of Egypt (after fuch time as the Sol-8. After Ramesses, his fon Amenophis held the dan Saladine, murdering the Caliph, got the the Red Sea: whereof I have already spo- or Officers; and that this mans Family was almost as great as the Soldans own. Yet was there also the Amir Cabir, or Lord General of the Soldans forces, who had the charge of defending the Land, and might, as he thought good, fpend of the Soldans treasure. So might the office of the Viceroys continue, though the Kings themselves, taking the charge, or title of Generals upon Ethosis, or Zethus, reigned after his Father them, did somewhat abridge the greatness of Amenophis, fifty five years. To him are that fecond place. As for the names of the ascribed the famous acts of that antient se- Dynasties, it skills not whence they were such at these times, that so great an expedi- of the Thebans and Diapolitans; or from tion as the old Sesoftris made, could have some eminent men, or man, who ruled in that

Dynasty

Dynasty was called of the Shepheards, because Toseph governed in part thereof; or from the Kings themselves that reigned; as this was faid to be of the Larthes or Gene- of the Egyptian Kings, whose names are found rals. The next, as Manetho (but Annius his Manetho ) hath it, was without any 1 arthes or Generals, yet was it not without Kings forafmuch as Vaphres, and Sefac, reigned therein, if many others did not. But let us now return to the business which we left.

Rameses was King after Zethus, or Setholis, lour, was taken by these as hereditary.

Helen to her restitution.

other such matters, may feem to be under- sense is all one; which is this: Officers: for fuch only are like to have had their residence about Pharos, and the seacoast where Menelans arrived.

Of Proteus, who detained Helen, it is said that he could foretell things to come, and that he could change himfelf into all shapes: whereby is fignified his crafty head, for which he is grown into a Proverb. The Poets feigned him a Sea-God, and keeper of Neptune's Seal-fishes, for belike he was some was faid before.

next King, by Diodore, as also by Herodotus, ving name to the Iland: though in this last who calls him Ramsinitus, and tells a long point I hold Suidas to be deceived; as also tale fit to please children of his covetousness, Cedrenus is or (at least) seems to me, in giving and how his treasure-house was robbed by to this King such prosound antiquity of a cunning thief, that at last married his reign. Indeed the very name of that book, ci-Daughter. But of this a man may believe ted often by Cedrenus, which he calls Little what he lift. How long this King reigned I Genesis, is alone enough to breed suspicion of know not, nor think that either he or his fa- some imposture: but the Frierly stuffe that he ther did reign at all.

6. V.

scattering in Sundry Authors , their times being not recorded. The Kings of Egypt, according to Cedrenus. Of Vaphres and

Any other names of Egyptian Kings are V found scattered here and there; as threescore and six years. He is mistaken tor Tonephersobis, of whom Suidas delivers only that second sesostris, of whom I have spoken the bare name and title; senemures, or sein the first book. I find nothing worth rehear- nepos, mentioned in Macrobius, who perhaps fal of this Rameses, or of Amenophis and An- was the same that by Suidas is called Senyes, nemenes, that followed him in order, the for- or Enenes, noted by occasion of a great Phymer of which reigned forty, the latter fix and fician that lived under him; Bunchyris, retwenty years. Wherefore it may very well corded by the same suidas for his great jube, that the name which Zethus had from va- stice; and Thulis, of whom Suidas tells great matters; as that his Empire extended to the Thuoris, the last of the Larthes, reigned on- Ocean Sea; that he gave name to the Isle of ly seven years; yet is he thought to have Thule, which some take to be Iseland; and heen that Proteus, of whom Herodotus hath that he consulted with the Devil, or (which mention, faying, That he took Helena from is all one) with Seraphis, defiring to know, Paris, and after the fack of Troy, restored her who before him had been, or after him should to Menelaus. I need fay no more in refutati- be so mighty as himself. The answer or conon of this, than that the time of Thuoris his fession of the Devil was remarkable; which reign lasted not so long as from the Rape of I find Englished in the translation of Plessis his work of the trueness of Christian Religion. This Proteus or Cetes (as he is named by The Greek Verses are somewhat otherwise, fome) together with Thon, and others menti- and much more imperfect in those Copies oned by Greek Writers in this business, or in that have of Cedrenus and Snidas, but the

> First God, and next The Word, and then The Spirit. Which Three be One, and joyn in One all Whole force is endless. Get thee hence frail Wight. The man of Life unknown excelleth thee.

I should have thought that Suidas had under-Officer to the Admiral having charge borrowed all this of Cedrenus, had I not of the Fishing about the Isle of Pharos, as found somewhat more in Suidas than Cedrenus hath hereof; as the form of invocation Remphes the fon of Proteus is reckoned the which Thulis used, and that clause of his gialledgeth out of it, is such as would serve to discredit himself, were it not otherwise apparent that he was a man both devout, and of good judgment in matters that fell within his compass. I will here set down the list of CHAP. XXVI old Egyptian Kings delivered by him, and the times of David and of Salomon. He came leave the centure to others.

478

is Mizraim the lon of Cham. After him he Salomon's wife: though for her fake perhaps finds many of a new race, deriving their pe- it was, that in time following either he, or degree thus: Nimrod the fon of Chus was (as I rather take it ) sefac his fon did favour also called erion, and further took upon him the enemies of salomon, who kept so many the name of the Planet Saturn, had to Wife Wives and Concubines, besides this Egyptian Semiramis, who was of his own Linage, and Princess. In the life of Rehoboam all hath been by her three sons; Picus, surnamed Jupiter, written that I find of sefac, excepting the Belus, and Ninus. Piem chafing his Father out length of his reign, which must have been fix of Allyria into Italy, reigned in his stead thir- and twenty years, if he were that Smendis ty years, and then gave up that Kingdom to with whom Eulebius begins the one and Inno his fifter and wife and to Belus his fon: twentieth Dynafty. after which Belus, who reigned only two Now for a fmuch as it would ferve to no years, Ninus had the Kingdom, and married great purpose, that we knew the length of his own Mother Semiramis. But Picus went Sefac his reign, and of theirs that followed into Italy to visit his old Father Saturn; Sa. him, unless therewithall we knew the beginturn forthwith refigned the Kingdom unto ning of sefac, upon which the rest have dehim. Picus Inpiter reigned in Italy threescore pendance; this course I take. From the tourth and two years, had threescore and ten Wives year of Jehojakim King of Juda, in which or Concubines, and about as many children: Pharao Neco was flain, I reckon upwards the finally dyed, and lyes buried in the Isle of years of the same Neco, and of his Predeces-Crete. The Principal of Jupiter's sons were fors, unto the beginning of selac: by which Faunus, Perseus, and Apollo. Faunus was cal- accompt, the first year of sesac is found conled by the name of the Planet Mercury: he current with the twentieth of Salomon's reigned in Italy, after his Father, five and reign, and the twenty fixt of Sefac with the thirty years, and then (finding that all his fifth of Rehoboam, wherein sefac spoiled the brethren conspired against him)he went in- Temple, and dyed, enjoying the fruits of his to Fgypt, with abundance of Treasure, where, Sacriledge no longer than Joas the Israelite, after the death of Mifraim, he got the King- and Crassus the Roman did; who after him dom, and held it nine and thirty years. After spoiled the Temple of Jerusalem. Mercury Julean reigned in Egypt, tour years To fill up the time between Sefac and Neand a half. Then sol, the fon of Vulcan, co, I have rather taken those Kings that I find reigned twenty years and a half. There fol- in the Greek Historians, than them which are lowed in order sofis, Ofiris, Orus and Thules, in Eusebius his Catalogue. For of those that of whom we spake before: the length of are delivered by Eusebius, we find no Name their feveral reigns is not fet down. After nor Act recorded elsewhere, fave only of Thules , was the great Sefostris King twenty Bocchoris , who is remembred by Diodore, years. His fucceflor was Pharaoh, called Nare- Plutarch, and others, much being spoken of cho, that held the Crown fifty years, with him, that makes him appear to have been a which there passed from him the surname of King. Hereunto I may add, that the succession Pharaoh, to a very long posterity.

credit rest upon the Author.

Selac, the afflicter of Rehoboam, lead us again Jolias and Neco meet by his computation, yet vang. 1. 9. into fair way, but not far. The name of Va- this indeed mars ali, the reign of Josias being phres is not found in the Scriptures; but we misplaced. This errour grows from his omit-1 Kings of 16 are beholding to Clemens Alexandrinus and ting to compare the reigns of the Kings of 11. 10. 18 Eufebius for it. These give us not the length Juda with theirs of Israel: by which occasion into Palestina with an Army, took Gezar from The first King of Egypt that he sets down, the Canaanites, and gave it to his daughter is often interrupted in Eusebius by Æthiopi-These reports of Cedrenus I hold it e-ans, which got the Kingdom often, and held nough to set down as I find them: let their it long: whereas contrariwise it appears by the Prophet Esay, that the Counsellors of Others yet we find, that are faid to have Pharaoh did vaunt of the long and flourishreigned in Fespt, without any certain note, ing continuance of that house, insomuch that when, or how long: about whom I will not they faid of Pharaoh, I am the fon of the wife, Efg. 1911 labour, as fearing more to be reprehended I am the son of the ancient King. But that of vain curiofity, in the fearch made after which overthrows the reckoning of Enfebithese already rehearted, than of negligence, hs, is the good agreement of it with his miin omitting fuch as might have been added. Itaken times of the Kings of Juda. For though Vaphres, the father in law to Salomon, and it please him well to see how the reigns of of his reign; but we know that he lived in Goram King of Ifrael is made to reign three years after Ahazia of Juda; Samaria is taken otherwise it is hard to conceive how it might by Salmanaffar before Hezechia was King: be, that they, who had not power to avoid and in a word, all, or most of the Kingshave the like slavery laid upon them by the yountheir beginnings placed in some other year ger brother or son, she dd have power or leiof their collaterals than the Scriptures have fure to take such revenge upon his Predecesdetermined.

6. VI.

Rehoboam and Ezechia.

odore) Chembis, first in the rank of those that thers provisions. were Kings after Sesac. He reigned fifty years, Mycerinas the son of Cephrenes reigned and built the greatest of the three Pyra- after his Father fix years. He would have mides, which was accounted one of this built as his fore-goers did, but prevented by Worlds Wonders. The Pyramis hath his death, finished not what he had begun. The name from the shape, in that it resembleth people thought him a good King, for that he a flame of fire, growing from the bottom up- did fet open the Temples, which Cheops and wards narrower and narrower to the top. Cephrenes had kept shut. But an Oracle threat-This of Chemnis being four-square, had a ned him with a short life of six years only, Base of seven acres every way, and was a- because of this his devotion; For (said the hout fix acres high. It was of a very hard and Oracle) Egypt should have been afflitted an durable stone, which had lasted, when Dio- hundred and fifty years, which thy Predecessors dore faw it, about a thousand years, without knew, and performed for their parts; but thou them vet standing.

Parallin fucceeded. Herodotus hath Cheops (who might who knows whether Chemnis did not learn ramides, whereby they purchased great ha- happy than that of Mycerinas, who held to be the casting out of their bodies; other such overlights: For I know no Author for. To the like malice may be ascribed the tale devised against Cheops his Daughter; That her Father wanting money, did profittute her, and that the getting of every of Chemnis, Cheops, Cephrenes, and other man that accompanied her, one from did Kines recited by Herodotus and Diodorus build with them a fourth Pyramis, that flood Siculus, which reigned between the times of in the midst of the other three. Belike she was an infolent Lady, and made them follow their drudgery for her fake, longer a while Ollowing therefore the Greek Histori- than they thought to have done, in raising a ans I place Chemnis, or (according to Di-Monument with the superfluity of her Fa-complaining of any injury that it had fuffer- haft released it, therefore shalt thou live but six ed by weather in fo long space. From the years. It is very strange, that the gods should reign of Chemmis, unto the age of Augustus be offended with a King for his piety; or Gelar, wherein Diodore lived, are indeed a that they should decree to make a Country thousand years; which doth give the better impious, when the people were desirous to likelihood unto this time wherein Chemnis ferve them; or that they having so decreed. is placed. As for this and other Pyramides, it should lye in the power of a King to alter late Writers do testifie, that they have seen destiny, and make the ordinance of the gods to fail in taking full effect. But these were After Chemnis, Diodore placeth Cephrenes Egyptian gods. The true god was doubtlefs his Brother; but doubtfully, and enclining more offended with the institution of such rather to the opinion, that his son Chabrens Idolatry, than with the interruption. And be (habreas) and Cephrenes after him. These somewhat at Jerusalem in the last year of his are faid to have been brethren; but the Father sefac, that made him perceive, and length of their reigns may argue the latter deliver to those that followed him, the vato have been fon to the former: for Cheops nity of his Egyptian superstition? Most force reigned fifty years; Cephrenes fifty fix. These it is, that his reign, and the reigns of Cheme were, as Chemmis had been, builders of Py- and Cephrenes were more long and record tred of their people, who already had over- lude the Oracle, revelled away both days laboured themselves in erecting the first, and nights, as if by keeping candles he had These Pyramides were ordained to be he had changed his nights into dayes, and to Tombs for those that raised them; but the doubled the time appointed: a service more malice of the Egyptians is faid to have cast pleasing to the Devil, than the restitution of out their bodies, and to have called their Idolatry durft then feem, when it could Monuments by the name of an Heardsman speed no better. I find in Reineccius Stry that kept his Beafts thereabouts. It may be, years assigned to this King; which I verily that the robbing them of their honour, and believe to have been some errour of the entituling a poor fellow to their works, was print, though I find it not corrected among that gives him so many years, and Reineceius further.or more(if the like abridgment shall himself takes notice of the Oracle, that be required of Pfammiticus his reign) into threatned Mycerinus with a flort life, as is the years of Rehoboam. before thewed.

479

Clem Strom. L.I. Enfeb. de

by Diodore, who speaks no more of him than most, that he reigned fifty years. He was a this, that he was a ftrong man of body, and merciful Prince, not punishing all capital excelling his predecetiors in wit. He is spoken offences with death, but imposing bondage of by divers Authors, as one that loved ju- and bodily labour upon malefactors; by flice; and may be taken for that Banchyris whose toil he both got much wealth into his whom Suidas commends in that kind: Enfe- own hands, letting out their fervice to hire. bius reckons 44. years of his reign.

follows in the Catalogue of Diodore; but trey. Zonoras calls this King Sua; the Scricertain ages after him. Herodotus quite omit- ptures call him so. Hofea, the last King of ting Bocchorus, hath Afychis; who made a Ifrael, made a league with him against Salmasharplaw (asit wasthen held) against bad nassar, little to his good: for the Egyptian debtors, that their dead bodies should be in was more rich than warlike, and therefore his the creditors disposition, till the debt were friendship could not preserve the Israelite paid. This Alychis made a Pyramis of brick, from destruction. more costly and fair, in his own judgment, tween Bocchorus and him that followed that Phul himself did make the first entrance them. But all this could make but fix years; into Palastina. This caused so to animate the that the reigns of two Kings should have been to a broken staffe of Reed. Such indeed to a broken staffe of Reed. Such indeed to a broken staffe of Reed. these without subtracting from some other, one with a rod of iron. It appeareth by the would breed a manifest inconvenience : for- words of Rabsake, that the opinion was great asmuch as part of Sesac his reign, must have in Juda, of the Egyptian forces, for Chariots been in the fifth of Rehoboam, as also the last and Horse-men; but this power, whatsoever of Pharao Neco was the fourth of Jebojakim, it was, grew needful, within a little while, and the first of Nebuchadnezzar. For mine for the defence of Egypt it self, which so lest own part, I like it better to allow fix years unto sethon his Successor, having now fulfilonly to these two Kings, than to lose the led the fifty years of his reign. Herodotus witness of Herodotus, who, concurring here- and Diodorus have both one tale, from the rein with the Scriptures, doth speak of Senna- lation of Egyptian Priests, concerning the decheril's War, at which time Sethon was King parture of this King; faying, that he left the of Egypt. I will not therefore add years Country, and willingly retired into Æthiounto thee obfcure names; for by adding pia, because it was often fignified unto him in unto these men three years, we shall thrust his dreams, by the god which was worshipthe beginning of Sethon out of place, and ped at Thebes, that his reign should be neimake it later than the death of Sennacherib. ther long nor prosperous, unless he slew all In regard of this agreement of Herodotus the Priests in Egypt; which rather than to with the Scriptures. I am the more willing to do, he refigned his Kingdom. Surely, thee hold with him in his Egyptian Kings. Other-Egyptian gods were of a strange quality, that wife it were a matter of no great envy to so ill rewarded their servants, and invited

Of Sabacus the Athiopian, who took the Bocchorus is placed next unto Mycerinus, Kingdom from Anyfis, it is agreed by the and performed many works of more use than After Bocchorus, one Sabacus an Æthiopian pomp, to the fingular benefit of the Coun-

It feems, that the encroaching power of than any of those that the former Kings the Affrian grew terrible to Egipt about had raised. Besides this Asyckis, Herodotus these times; the victories of Tiglath Phulas placeth one Anylis, a blind man, before the far and Salmanaffar having eaten so far into Æthiopian. The reigns of these two are per- Syria, in the reign of this one King So or Sahaps those many ages which the Egyptians, bacus. Yea, perhaps it was in his dayes (for to magnifie their antiquities, accounted be- his reign began in the fourth of Menahem) and so long doth Functius, so long doth Rei- half-subdued people against their Conqueneccius hold, that these two Kings between rors; but the help which he and his Succesthem both did govern. If any man would for gave them was fo faint that Sennacherib's lengthen this time, holding it unprobable Embaffador compared the Egyptian succour fo foon spent; he may do it by taking some had Hosea found it, and such Ezechia might years from Sethon or Psammiticus, and ad- have found it had he not been supported by ding them to either of these. To add unto the strong staffe of him that ruleth all Natileave both Assetis and Anssis out of the Kings to do them wrong. Well might the roll, which were easily done by placing sesae Egyptians (asthey likewise did) worship lower, , and extending his life yet fix years Dogs as gods, when their chief gods had the property property of Dogs, which love their Masters | and his Subjects : For the good King fixing not indeed an zernopran (or in this since we the Prophet Efgy, who mentioneth the man. As for the Egyptians (faid the Prophet) = 1973 4. antiquity of Pharaobs house) but only so sur- they are vanity, and they shall help in vain their named for his education, and because issuing strength is to set still. from thence, he got the Kingdom from Any- According to the Prophets words it came fit, who was his opposite. The quiet and to pass. For in the treaty of Confederacy mild form of his government, his holding that was held at Zoan, all manner of contentthe Kingdom fo long without an Army, and ment and assurance was given to the Jews by many other circumstances argue no less. But Sethon, or his Agents, who filled them with whether finally he betook a private life, or such reports, of Horses and Chariots, that at once, being now very old, it is time that One of Ifrael, nor feek unto the Lord. But he we leave him, and speak of sethon his next yet is wifest. Successor, who is omitted by Diedore, but re- After a while came Sennacherib with his membred by Herodotus, by a fure token of Army, and wakened them out of these his having been King.

with him against Sennacherib.

Egyptian more Friends: and among the new were taken by Sennackerib, except Libn: Laconquered half Subjects of Assur, many that chis, and Jerusalem it self, which were in force were Egyptian in heart, though Afgrian in distress, till the sword of God and not of outward fhew.

ple; who knowing how much it concerned where he was flain. Pharao, to protect them against his own Concerning this expedition of Sennachegreat Enemy, preferred the friendship of so rib, Herodotus takes this notice of it: That it near and mighty a Neighbour, before the fer- was purposed against Fgypt, where the men of vice of a terrible, yet far removed King. But War, being offended with Sethon their King, the better for beating them. Yet to what his especial confidence in God, held that end the Priests should have feigned this tale, course of policy, which he thought most I cannot tell; and therefore I think that it likely to turn to the benefit of his Country; might be some device of the fearful old man, the multitude of Judea looking into the fair who feeing his Realm in danger of an inva- hopes which this Egyptian league promifed, fion, fought an honest excuse for his depar- were puffed up with vain conceits, thinking ture out of it, and vvithdrawing himfelf into that all was fafe, and that now they should Æthiopia, vvhere he had been bred in his not need to fear any more of those injuries wouth What if I should say, that the Æthiopia which they had suffered by the Assyrianis 1.1930. into which he went, was none other than and so became forgetful of God. taking coun-Arabia, vvhereof Tirhaka the King (perhaps fel,but not of him. The Prophet Flay complainarthe instigation of this man) raised an Army ed much of this presumption; giving the againt Sennacherib, volten he meant to in-people of Juda to underfind, That the E-vade Egypt voithin two or three years after? gyptians were men, and not Cod, and their Egyptians but I will not trouble my felf with much Horses stells, and not spirit; that God himself 3.and 8. enquiry. This I hold, that So, or Sabacus vvas thould defend Ifrael upon repentance, and not indeed an Athiopian ( for in his time li- that Affur should fall by the fivord , but not of Elsy 30.7.

whether he fore-went his life and Kingdom they did not look (as Esay faith) unto the holy Esay 31.1,2 dreams; for Sethon their good Neighbour, as near as he was, did feem far off being unready, when his help was most needful. It may feem that he purposed rather to make Palaof Sethon who reigned with Ezechia, and sided stina, than Egypt, the stage whereon this great Warshould be acted, and was not without hope, that the Affyrians and Jews, weakning "He first year of sethen's reign falls into one another should yeild unto him a fair adthe twelfth of Ezechia, which was the vantage over both. Yet he fought with mofift of Sennacherib. It was a troublefome age, ny; for he fent Horses and Camels laden and full of danger; the two great King- with treasure, to hire the Arabians, whom doms of Afgria and Egypt, being then ingaged in a War, the issue whereof was to de- Arabians did not profit indeed; for (besides termine whether of them should rule or that it seems by the same place of Esay, that ferve. The Assyrian had the better men of the rich treasures miscarried, and fell into the War; the Egyptian better provision of ne- enemies hands before any help appeared ceffaries: the Affyrian more Subjects; the from Tirhaca ) all the strong Cities of Juda Man, defeated the Affyrian, who did go, for Of this last fort were Ezechia and his peo- fear, to his Tower, that is, he fled to Nineve, E/4731. 9.

herein was great difference between Ezechia who had taken away their allowance, re-

CHAP.XXVI

their Country; that sethon being tulean's creeted) might give occasion to such a fa-Priest bemoaned himself to his god, who by ble; the Divel helping to change the truth dream promifed to fend him helpers; that into a lie, that God might be robbed of his hereupon Sethon, with fuch as would follow honour. Yet that vve may not belie the him, (which were crafts men, shop-keepers, Devil, I hold it very likely, that Sethon finand the like)marched towards Pelufum; and ding himself in danger, did call upon his that a great multitude of field-mice entring gods, that is, upon Fulcan, Serapis, or any to the Camp of Senacherib by night, did so whom he had most devotion. But so had gnaw the bows, quivers, and itraps of his other of his predecellors done in the like mens armour, that they were fain the next need: yet which of them had obtained fueday to fly away in all hafte, finding them-cour by the like miracle? Surely the Jens felves disarmed. In memory hereof laith He- (even such of them as were most given to lrodotus)the statue of this King is set up in the dolatry) would have been ashamed of the Temple of Vulcan, holding a Mouse in his confidence which they reposed in the Charihand, with this inscription, Let him that holds ots of Egypt, because they were many, and in the me ferve God. Such was the relation of the Horsemen, because they were very strong; had it Egyptian Priests, wherein how far they swar- been told them, that Sethon, instead of sendved from the truth, being desirous to magni- ing those Hors-men and Chariots, was befie their own King, it may easily be percei-feeching Vulcan to fend him and them good ved. It feems that this Image of Sethon was luck; or elfe (for these also were Egyptian fallen down, and the tale forgotten in Diode- gods )addreffing their prayers to some Onyrus his time, or elle perhaps, the Priests did on or Cat. Howsoever it was, doubtless the forbear to tell it him ( which caused him to Prophecy of Esty took effect, which said, they had been mingled with the truth.

King of the Affyrians and Arabians, ( so He- of God. rodotus calleth him : the Syrians, or peradventure some borderersupon syria, being been set down by Eusebius under the name of meant by the name of Arabians) lived in this Tarachus the Æthiopian; and therefore the age, made War upon Egypt, and was miracu-twenty years which are given to Tarachus, loully driven home. As for that exploit of they allow to the reign of sethon. The chave the Mice, and the great pleasure that Vulcan well observed that Tarachus the Æibiopian did unto his Prieft, happy it was (if sethon is mentioned in the Scriptures, not as a King were a Priest ) that he took his god now in of Egypt, but as a friend to that Country, or fo good a mood: For within three or four at least an enemy to Sennacherib, in the war years before this, all the Priests in Egypt last spoken of; the Ethiopians (as they are should have been sais, if the merciful King englished) over which he reigned, being inhad not spared their lives, as it were half a deed Chushites or Arabians. Hereuponthey gainst the gods will. Therefore this last good suppose a right, that Eusebius hath millaken turn was not enough to serve as an example, one King for another. But whereas they that might stir up the Exprians to piety, see think that this Tarachus or Tirbaka is placed iffue of his terrible expedition, or the de- Therefore he or his years have no reference fruction of his Army, by means which came to Sethon. no man knew from whence. For the vengeance of God, flewed upon this ungodly reigned; Fundius peremptorily citing no King, was indeed a very good motive to Author, nor alledging reason for it, sets him piety. But the Embleme, together with the down thirty three years 5 many omit him Temple of Fulcan (being perhaps the chief quite; and they that name him are not care-fuled to bear arms in defence of him and Temple in that Town vyhere this Image was omit it) for that the nation of the Jews was shall be all ashamed of the people that cannot then well known to the world, whereof eve- profit them, nor kelp, nor do them good, but fiall ry child could have told how much fallhood be a shame & asso a repreach. Such is common ly the issue of humane vvisdom, when rest-We find this hiftory agreeable to the ing secure upon provision that it self hath Scriptures, thus far forth; That Senacherib made, it will no longer feem to fland in need

Some there are who take Sethon to have ing that their devotion, which had lasted so in the room of sethon, and therefore give to long before, did bring all the Priests into Sethon the twenty years of Tarachus, I hold danger of such a bad reward. Rather Ithink, them to have erred on the other hand. For that this Image did represent Senacherib this Ethiopian (as he is called ) began his himself, and that the Mouse in his hand, ligni- reign over Egypt, by Engebius his accompt, aftied Hieroglyphically (as was the Egyptian ter the death of Sennacherib and of Esechia, manner of expressing things) the shameful in the first year of Manasses King of Juda.

Herodotus forgets to tell how long Scihon find the thirty three years that are fet down that I return.

ful to examine his continuance. In this case, I by Functius, to agree very nearly, if not prefollow that rule which I propounded unto cifely, with the time of Sethon's reign; theremy felf at the first, for measuring the reigns fore I conform my own reckoning to his, of these Egyptian Kings. The years which though I could be content to have it one palled from the fifth of Rehobbam, unto the year less. The reason of this computation I fourth of Jebojakim, I so divide among the shall render more at large, when I arrive at Egyptians, that giving to every one the proportion allowed unto him by the Author in much dependance, and whereinto the course whom he is found, the reft is to be conferred of this Hiftory will shortly bring me, the Eupon him whose length of reign is uncertain; gptian affairs growing now to be interlaced that is, upon this sethon. By this accompt 1 with the matters of fuda, to which it is meet

of the History of the World.

CHAP. XXVII.

Of Manasses, and his Contemporaries.

9. I.

The wickedness of Manasses. His imprisonment, repentance, and death.

all the Altars, Temples and high Places, in poiled of all honour and hope; yet to his which the Devil was by the Heathen wor-hearty repentance and continual prayer, the shipped.Besides, he himself esteemed the Sun, God of infinite mercy had respect, and mothe Moon, and the Stars, with all the Hoaft ved the Assprians heart to deliver him: of heaven, as gods, and worshipped them: It is also likely that Merodach, because he and of all his acts the most abominable was, loved his father Ezechias; was the easilier that he burnt his sons for a Sacrifice to the perswaded to restore Manasse to his liberty Devil Moloch or Melchor, in the Valley of and estate. After which, and when he was Hinnon, or Benhinnon: wherein was kindled again established, remembring the miseries the fire of Sacrifice to the Devils.

phet Esay (who was also of the Kings race, the Assirans: and therein fed with bread of bran and water, which men may believe as Gipter pa. the King) he caused the Prophet near unto it shall please their fancies. 276. Ter. the Fountain of Silve, to be fawn in funder with a wodden Saw, in the eightieth year of his life: a cruelty more barbarous and montures indeed are filent hereof, yet the same is confirmed by Epiphanius, Isidore, Eusebius, and others, too many to rehearfe, and too That the wickedness of King Manafest good to be suspected. Therefore the Lord

Anase the Son of Ezechias, brought upon them the Captains of the Hoast of forgetting the piety of his Fa- the Kings of Ashur, which took Manasse, and , chree. ther, and the prosperity which put him in fetters, and bound him in chains, 33, 11. followed him, fet up, repair-and carried him to Babel: Where, after he ed, adorned and furnished which followed his wickedness, and Gods He also gave himself to all kind of Witch-great mercies toward him, he changed form, craft and Sorcery, accompanied and main-detefted his former foolift and devillift Idotained those that had familiar Spirits, and all latry, and cast down the Idols of his own eforts of Enchanters: besides, he shed so much innocent bloud, as Jerusalem was replenished crificed thereon. He repaired a great part of therewith, from corner to corner. For all Jerufalem: and dyed after the long reign of his vices and abominations, when he was re- fifty five years. Glycas and Suidas report, prehended by that aged and reverent Pro- that Manafe was held in a cage of fron by strous than hath been heard of. The Scrip- of troubles in Egypt following the death of Sethor. The reign of Pfammiticus..

6. II.

> was the cause of the evil which fell up-Ppp2 must needs believe; for it is affirmed in the dalus took the pattern of that which he made of their Dominion; which was a Labyrinth, their end. fo admirable, that (as Herodotus, vvho be- they were to make their drink-offerings, holding it, affirms) no vvords could give it the Priest, forgetting himself, brought forth of the vvork it self, I will not here set down miticus, who standing last, had not a Cup, on his Kingdome and person, any Christian Troy, and from this Labyrinth (faith he) Da-Scriptures. Yet was the state of things in for Minos in Crete. Who this Marus, or those parts of the World such, at that time, Menides was, I cannot tell. Repreceive takes as would have invited any Prince (and did him to have bin Annemenes, which reigned perhaps invite Merodach, who fulfilled Gods immediately before Thuoris. But this agrees pleasure, upon respect born to his own ends, not with Diodore, for Dædalus & Minos were defirous to enlarge his Empire) to make at- both dead long before Annemenes was King. tempt upon Juda. For the kingdom of E- Belike Reyneccius, desiring to accommodate gypt, which was become the pillar whereon the fabulous relations of Manethon, Cheremon the state of Juda leaned, about these times and others, that are found in Josephus, touwas miserably distracted with civill dissenti- ching Amenophis and his children to the story on, and after two years ill amended by a of Amasis and Actisanes the Æthiopian mendivision of the government between twelve tioned by Diodore; held it consequent, after Princes. After some good agreement be- he had conjectured Manethon's Amonophis Toliane tween these, eleven of them fell out with to be Diodorus his Amasis; that Sethon should And the twelfth of their collegues, and were all be Adifanes, and that Annemenes should finally subdued by him, who made himself be Marus. If in this case I might intrude a absolute King of all. This Inter-regnum, or conjecture, the times which we now handle meer Anarchie that was in Egypt, with the are those about which Reyneccius hath erred division of the Kingdome following it, is in making search Amasis was Anylis, Adiplaced by Diodore who omitteth Sethon, Janes was Sabacus; and Marus was one of these between the reign of Sabacus and Plammi- twelve Princes to whom Herodotus gives ticus: but Herodotus doth fet the Aristocratie, the honour of building this famous Labyor twelve Governours immediatly before rinth. For Actisanes the Ethiopian deposed Psammiticus, who was one of them, and af- Amasis; Sabacus the Æthiopian deposed Anylis; Attifanes governed well, and was mild The occasion of this diffention seems to in punishing offenders; so likewise was Sahave bin the uncertainty of title to that bacus; Marus the next King after Adifanes Kingdom (for that the crown of Egypt passed built this Labyrinth; and the next (faving by succession of bloud, I have often shewed) Sethon, whom Diodore omits, as having not which ended for a while, by the partition of heard of him ) that ruled after Sabacus, all among twelve, though things were not performed the same work, according to He-fettled untill one had obtained the Sove-rodotus, who was more likely to hear the inty. truth, as living nearer to the Age wherein it These twelve Rulers governed sisteen was performed. The variety of names, and years in good seeming agreement, which to difference of times wherein Diodore believed preserve, they made strait covenant and alli- the Priests, might be a part of the Egyptian vaances one with another, being jealous of their nity, which was familiar with them in multiestate, because an Oracle had foretold, that plying their Kings, and boasting of their antione of them should depose all the rest, no- quities. Here I might add, that the twelve ting him by this token, that he should make great Halls, Parlours, and other circumstances a drink-offering in Vulcan's Temple, out of a remembred by Herodotus, in speaking of this Copper goblet. Whilest this unity lasted, building, do help to prove that it was the they joyned together in raising a Monument | work of these twelve Princes. But I hasten to built near unto the Lake of Meris; a work At a solemn feast in Vulcan's Temple, when commendation answerable to the statelinesse | no more than eleven Cups, Hereupon, Pfamthat unperfect description vvhich Herodotus took off his brazen Helmet; and therewith makes of it, but think enough to fay that he supplyed the want, This caused all the rest prefers it far before the Pyramides, one of to remember the Oracle, and to suspect him which (as he faith) excelled the Temple as a Traytor, yet, when they found that it was of Diana at Ephefus, or any of the fairest done by him upon set purpose or ill intent, vvorks in Greece. Diodorus reports this Laby- they forbear to kill him, but being jealous of rinth to have bin the work of Marus or Me- their estate, they banished him into the marish nides, a King which lived five generations Countries by the Sea fide. This Oracle, and before Proteus, that is before the Warr of the event is held by Diodore as a fable which Planmiticus hired Souldiers out of Caria and dition that he made in Syria. Upon this dif-Jona, by whose aid he vanquisht his Compa-grace it is faid, that his Souldiers, to the nions, and made himself sole King.

CHAP. XXVII.

Governours, must be thought to have lived Children.

year of one reign with the first of another. Such a supposition were not insolent. For no But I will not insist upon all that is written Psammiticus; who surely did not fall out made it hold out so well. with his Companions, fight with them, and make himself Lord alone all in one day.

Concerning this King, it is recorded, that he was the first in Egypt who entertained What reference these Egyptian matters might any strait amity with the Greeke; that he retained in pay his Mercenaries of Caria, Ionia, and Arabia, to whom he gave large rewards and possessions; and that he greatly offended his Egyptian Souldiers, by bestowing them in the left wing of his Army, whileft

Ibelieve to have bin none other: In the rest, his Mercenaries held the right wing (which Herodolus and Diodore agree, saying that was the more honourable place) in an expenumber of two hundred thousand, forfook The years of his reign, according to Hero-their natural Country of Egypt, and went dotus, were fifty four; according to Eufe- into Æthiopia, to dwell there; neither could hins, forty four; Mercator, to reconcile these they be revoked by kind Messages, nor two.gives forty four years to his fingle reign, by the King himself, who over-took them and ten to his ruling joyntly with the Princes on the way; but when he told them of hefore spoken of. Indeed, he that was admit- their Countrey, their Wives and Chilred, being a man grown ( for he cannot in dren, they answered, that their weapons reason be supposed to have been then a should get them a Countrey, and that nature young fellow) into the number of the twelve had enabled them to get other Wives and unto extream age, if he ruled partly with It is also reported of him, That he caused others, partly alone, threefcore and nine two Infants to be brought up in fuch fort. years. I therefore yield rather to Eusebius; but as they might not hear any word spoken; by will not adventure to cut five years from the which means, he hoped to find out what Ariflacraty: though peradventure Plammi- Nation or Language was most ancient; foraf-ticus was not at first one of the twelve, but much as it seemed likely, that nature would succeeded (either by election, or as next of teach the children to speak that Language blood ) into the place of some Prince that which men spake at the first. The issue heredyed, and was ten years companion in that of was, that the children cryed, Beccus, Beccus, which word being found to fignifie Bread Another scruple there is, though not great, in the Phrygian tongue, served greatly to which troubles this reckoning. The years magnify the Phrygian antiquity Goropius. Beof the Egyptians, as we find them set down, canus makes no small matter of this, for the are more by one, than serve to fill up the honour of his Low-Dutch; in which the word time between the fift of Rehoboam and the Becker fignifies (as Baker in English) a maker fourth of Jehojakim. This may not be. Where- of bread. He that will turn over any part fore either we must abate one year from Se- of Goropius his works, may find enough of thon's reign, that was of uncertain length, this kind, to perswade a willing man, that Aor else (which I had rather do, because dam and all the Patriarks used none other Functives may have followed better authority tongue than the Low-Dutch, before the confuthan I know, or than himself alledgeth, in sion of languages at Babel, the name it self of giving to Sethon a time so nearly agreeing Babel being also Dutch, and given by occawith the truth ) we must confound the last sion of this confusion; for that there they be-

man can suppose, that all the Kings, or any of Psammiticus. The most regardable of his great part of them, which are set down in acts was the fiege of Azotus in Palestina, about Chronologicall tables, reigned precifely so which he spent nine and twenty years. Never many years as are ascribed unto them, have we heard (saith Herodotus) that any Ciwithout any fractions: it is enough to think ty endured to long a fiege as this; yet Pfamthat the surplusage of one mans times supply- miticus carryed it at the last. This Town of ed the defect of anothers. Wherefore I con- Azotus had been won by Tartan a Captain of found the last year of those fifteen, wherein sennacherib, and was now, as it seemeth, rethe twelve Princes ruled, with the first of lieved, but in vain, by the Babylonian, which

Manasies. In what part of his reign Manasies was taken prisoner.

7 Ere it certainly known, in what year V of his reign Manasses was taken pri-

way the fairer into Egypt.

foner, and how long it was before he obtain where need requires, he doth treely ned liberty, I think we thould find these differt from him) than to have used his ac-Egyptian troubles to have been no small oc- customed diligence in examining the matter, cason both of his captivity and enlarge- before he gave his judgment. Two argument : God fo disposing of humane actions, ments he brings to maintain the opinion of that even they, who intended onely their Eellarmine: the one, that Ammon the fon of own busines, suffilled onely his high plea- Manasses, is said by Josephus to have folfure. For either the civil Wars of Fight lowed the works of his fathers youth, the that followed upon the death of Sethon, or other, that had Manufper grown old in his the renting of the Kingdom, as it were, into fins, it is like that he should have continued, twelve pieces, or the War between Tfalm- as he did, in his amendment unto the end miticus and his Collegues, or the expedi- of his life. Touching the former of these tion of Ifalmmiticus into Spria, and the arguments, I see no reason why the sins of fiege of Azotus, might minister unto the Ea- Manssies might not be distinguished from blomin, sither fuch cause of hope to enlarge his repentance in his old age, by calling them his Dominion in the South parts, or fuch works of his youth, which appeared when he necetity of fending an Army into those was twelve years old; though it were granparts, to defend his own, as would greatly ted that he continued in them (according tempt him to make fure work with the King to that of Rabbi Kimki) untill he was but filof Juda. The same occasion sufficed also to teen years from death. Touching the second; procure the delivery of Manafies, after he howfoever it be a fearfull thing, to east was taken. For he was taken as Josephus hath off unto the last those good motions unto it) by fubrilty, not by open force, neither repentance, which we know not whether did they that apprehended him, win his ever God will offer unto us again, yet were Country but onely walt it so that the Jews, it a terrible hearing, That the sins which having learned wit by the ill success of their are not forsaken before the age of two and folly, in redeeming Amazia, were like to be fifty years, shall be punished with small immore circumspect, in making their bargain penitencie. But against these two collections upon such another accident: and the Babylo of Torniellus, I will lay two places of Scripnian (to whom the Egyptian matters presented ture, whence it may be inferred, as not unmore weighty argument of hope and fear, likely, That Manafes continued longer in his than the little Kingdom of Juda could af wickednesse than Bellarmine hath intimated, ford)had no reason to spend his sorces in purfuing a small conquest, but as full of difficulty In the second book of Kings, the evill which as a greater, whereby he should compell his Manasses did, is remembred at large, and mightiest enemies to come to some good a his repentance utterly omitted; so that his greement; when by quiting his prefent advantage over the Jems, he might make his great part of his life? the ftorie of him being thus concluded in the one and twentieth Now concerning the year of Manafies his Chapter: Concerning the reft of the Alts of reign, wherein he was taken prisoner; or Manasses, and all that he did, and his sin that, grant concerning his captivity it felf, how long it the finned are they not written in the book of inlasted, the Scriptures are silent, and Josephus the Chronicles of the Kings of Juda? the other gives no information. Yet I find cited by Torplace is in the four and twentieth Chapter niellus three opinions: the one of Eellar- of the same Book, where, in rehearing the mine, who thinks that Manasses was taken in calamities with which that Nation was punthe fifteenth year of his reign; the other ished in the time of Jebojakim, the great of the Author of the greater Hebrew Chrono- Grand-child of this Manaffes, it is faid; Surelogy, who affirms, that it was in his twen-ly by the commandement of the Lord came this 18 to 1 to 1 worth warms the shirt of the Lord came this 1. ty is venth year; the third of Rabbi Kimki upon Juda, that he might put them on of his upon Exechiel, who faith, that he was for fight, for the fins of Manalles, according to all ty years an Idolater, and lived fifteen that he did, and for the innocent blond that he y ars after his repentance. The first of shed (for he filled Jerusalem with innocent their conjectures is upheld by Torniellis, who bloud) therefore the Lord would not pardon it. rejects the fecond, as more unprobable, Who to confiders well these places, may and condemns the third as most false. Yet find small cause to pronounce it most false, the reasons alledged by Torniellus in de- That the repentance and amendment of Ma-fence of the first, and resustation of the o- nasses was no earlier than fifteen years before pinion, are such, as may rather prove him to his death; or most probable, That when

EAVOUR the Cardinal as far as he may, ( for he was twenty feven years old, he repented, and becomming a new man, lived in the and becomming a new man, free in the first and fecond Messenian Wars, of the first and fecond Messenian Wars, and the man the cannot be discovered. It suffices to which were in the reigns of Ezechia and truth cannot be discovered. It sufficeth to fay, that two years of civill diffentions in Egift fourteen or fifteen years following, wherein that Kingdome was weakened by partition of the Soveraigntie: the war of partition of the covering the first and four these times of Manasses, the most remarkable and twenty years of the nine and twenty, were the Messenian Wars; which happenwherein the fiege of Azotus continued, be- ed in this age, and being the greatest action ing all within the time of Manassis, did leave performed in Greece, between the Trojan no one part of his reign (after the first fife and Persian Wars, deserve not to be passed teen years) free from the danger of being over with silence. opprefied by the Eabylonian, whose men of The first Atessenian War began and ended war had continual occasions of vifiting his in the daies of Ezechia; the second in the Countrey. All which I will adde hereto, reign of Manasses: but to avoyd the trouble is this; that the fifteenth of Manaffer was of interrupting our Hiltoric, I have thought the last year of sethen in Eeppt, and the one it best to rehearse them both in this place. and thirtieth of Merodach his reign, or (ac-Other introduction is needleffe, than to fay, counting from the death of Afarbaddon) the that the posteritie of Hercules, driving the twentieth: The seven and twentieth of Ma- iffue of Pelops and the Acheans out of their naffer was the tenth of the twelve Princes, seats, divided their lands between themwas the year of his impriforment, or whe- fought one anothers ruine with bloody wars; ther any other, I forbear to shew mine whereof these Messenian were the greatest. opinion, left I should thereby seem to draw The pretended grounds of the Messenian computation.

more in convenient place,

Manasles, Kings of Juda.

of the History of the World.

and the three and fortieth of Meredach: his selves, and crected the kingdomes of Lacedafortieth, was the twenty third of Pfammi- mon, Argos, Messene, and Corintb; all which aticus and the fifth of Nabulassar, the son of greeing well together a vivile, did after-Merodach, in Babylon: but which of these wards forget the bond of kindred, and all matters over-violently to mine own war are fcarce worth remembrance, they were fo flight. Ambition was the true cause This was the first great masterie that the of it: wherewith the Lacedamonians were so Eabylonians had of the kingdome of Juda. transported, that any thing served them as a For though Achaz promifed Tribute to Sal-colour to accomplish their greedy defires manassar, yet Ezechias never payed it. True Yet other matter was alledged; namely, that itis, that he hoped to stay Senacherib's en- one Polychares a Meffenian had slain many terprise against him, by presenting him with Lacedemonians, for which the Magistrates of three hundred talents of filver, and thirty Sparta defiring to have him yeilded inof gold, befides the plate which covered the to their hands, could not obtain it. The My-But Manasser being pressed with great for that he was grown frantick, through injunccessitie, could refuse no tolerable conditions received from Eucophus a Lacedemonitions, that the Babylonian would impole uponhim; among which it feems, that this was flure to the Cattel of Polychares, and was one, (which was indeed a point of fervi-therefore to receive part of the increase: but tude) that he might not hold peace with the not contented with the gain appointed, he Egyptians, whileft they were enemics to Baby- fold the Cartel, and flaves that keep them, to lon. This appears not only by his fortifing. Merchants: which done, he came with a withmen of war all the strong Cities of Juda fair tale to his friend, saying, that they were after his return (which was rather againft stollen. Whilst the lye was yet scarce out of Ffammiticus, whose party he had forsken his mouth, one of the slaves that had escaped than against the Babylonian, with whom he from the Merchants came in with a true had thenceforth no more controversie) but report of all. The Lacedemonian being thus likewife by that opposition, which Jostus deprehended, confessed all, and promised made afterwards to Pharao Neco, in favour large amends; which to receive he carried of Nabulasar, which had been against all the son of Polychares home with him, but reason and policie, if it had not been his having himat home, he villanoully slew him. dutie by covenant. Of this I will speak Wherefore the Lacedemonians having refused, after long sute made by the wretched CHAP. XXVII.

C H A F. XXVII

Father, to do him right against this Theise ten years from sparta, their wives sent them and Murderer, ought not to pick matter of word, that their City would grow unpeoquarrel out of those things which he did pled, by reason that no children had been in that madness, whereinto they themselves born them in all that time: Whereupon they had cast him. So said the Messenians, and fur- sent back all their ablest young men, promisther offered to put the matter to compre- cuoufly to accompany the young women. mile, or frand unto the judgement of the who got so many of them with child, as they Amphilisoner, who were as the general Council of Greece, or to any other fair course, were called Parthenians. Diodorus refers the few escaped.

they chose Aristodemus.

with a Town upon it, able to endure more vvere grown up in the room of those Mefthan the enemies were likely to do. But, as fenians whom the former War had confu-Strab. L.c. fome Authors tell us, the Lacedemonians med, began to consider their own strength vvere so obstinate in this War, because of and multitude, thinking themselves equal to

But the Lacedamonians, who had a great de- begetting of these Parthenians to a former platte. fire to occupie the fair Country of Messene, time. But in process of this Messenian War. that lay close by them, were not content when the Devil in an Oracle had advised with such allegations. They thought it ethe Messenians to facrifice a Virgin of the rough to have some shew for their doings; stock of * Agyptus; that so they might be viwhich the better to colour, they reckoned up ctorious against the Lacedamonians; the lot This many old injuries, and so without sending falling upon the Daughter of one Lycifcus, theree, any defiance, fecretly took an oath to hold Epibolus the Prieft, willing to fave her, faid, getting War with Messen eill they had mastered it: she was only a fostered child, and not born by the which done, they seized upon Amphia, a fronof the wife of Lycicus: which answer giving declarations of the wife of Lycicus: which answer giving declarations of the wife of Lycicus: which answer giving declarations of the wife of Lycicus: which answer giving declarations of the wife of Lycicus: which answer giving declarations of the wife of Lycicus. tier Town of that Province, wherein they put all to the Sword without mercy, very secretly fled away with her into Sparta. Then done. Aristodemus, which afterwards was King dia: ci Hereupon the Atessenians took Arms, and voluntarily offered his own Daughter: but under the day of the but under t were met by the Enemy. A furious battel a young Nobleman, being in love with the dealer was fought between them, which ended not Maid, when otherwise he could not prevail, Nobility until dark night, with uncertain victory. The faid openly that the was no Virgin, but that Melferin Atessenians did strongly encamp themselves; he had defloured her,& got her with child: was pro The Lacedemonians, unable to force their whereupon the Father in a rage ripped up pagents Camp, returned home. This War began in his innocent Daughters belly to disprove the second year of the ninth Olympiad, and the Lovers slander: at the grave of which ended in the first of the fourteenth Olym- Daughter of his, afterwards falling, by other piad, having lasted twenty years. The two superstitions, into dispair of prevailing aenemy Nations tried the matter for a while, gainst the Lacedamonians, he slew himself, with their proper forces, the Lacedemonians to the great hurt of his Countrey, which he wasting the inland parts of Messene; and the loved most dearly. For after his death the Messenians, the Sca-coast of Laconia. But it Messenians lost their courage, and finding was not long ere friends, on both fides, were themselves distressed by many wants, especalled in to help. The Arcadians, Argives, and cially of victuals, they craved peace, which Sicyonians, took part with Meffene; the Spar- they obtained with most rigorous contans had befides many Subjects of their own, ditions. Half the yearly fruits of their aid from Corinth, and hired Souldiers out of Land they were bound to fend unto Spar-Crete. So a fecond, third, and fourth battel ta; and they, with their Wives, to make were fought, with as great obstinacy as the solemn lamentations at the death of every first; saving that in the fourth battel the Spartan King; they were also sworn to live Laced amoniums were enforced to turn their in true subjection to the Laced amoniums; backs; in the other fights, the victory was still and part of their Territory was taken from uncertain, though in one of them the Messe, them, which was given to the Asmei, and mians lost Euphaes their King, in whose stead such as had followed the Spartans in this

Many years were spent ere all this blood This peace being made upon so uneven was fled; for peftilent dileafes, and want of terms, was not like to hold long. Yet nine and money to entertain Souldiers, caused the thirty years it continued (the Messenians not war to linger. And for the same reasons, did finding how to help themselves) and then the Messerians for sake all their inland towns, brake out into a new and more furious War excepting Ithome, which was a Mountain than the former. The able young men, that their vow, that having absented themselves the Lacedamonians, and therefore seorned was Aristomenes, a Noble Gentleman of the eleven years. For besides that Era it self was a frong piece, Ariflomenes with three houle of Agyptus; who perceiving the uniform was a ftrong piece, Ariflomenes with three desires of his Country-men, adventured to hundred stout Souldiers, did many incredibecome their Leader. He therefore found- ble exploits, that wearied them, and hindred ing the affections of the Argives and Arcadi- their attendance on the fiege. He wasted all ans, which he found throughly answerable to the fields of Messene, that were in the enehis purpose, began open war upon the State mies power, and brake into Laconia, taking of Lacedamon. This was in the fourth year of away Corn, Wine, Cattel, and all provithe three and twentieth Olympiad; when the sions, necessary for his own people, the Lacedemonians hasted to quench the fire be-Slaves and houshold stuffe he changed into fore it should grow too hot, with such forces money, suffering the owners to redeem them.

To remedy this mischief, the Lacedamobling their friends, meaning to deal with their nians made an Edict, that neither Messeenemies, ere any fuccour were lent them. ne, nor the adjoyning parts of their own Soa ftrong battel was fought between them, Countrey, should be tilled or husbanded; the burthen, and became their Generall. panies; which done, there yet appeared no Within one year another battel was fought, likelihood of taking Era.

the booty. rished, in the loss of one battell, whereof stench. But after a while he perceived by the honour (if it were honour ) or furely the some small glimmering of light ( which perprofit, fell upon the Lacedemonians, through haps came in at the top) a Fox that was gnaw-the treason of Aristocrates, King of Arcadia, ing upon a dead body. Hereupon he be-Mount Era fortified, whither the multitude, would, he followed, holding it as his guide, that could not be fafe abroad, was convey- untill the way was too ftrait for him; and to serve such Masters as had against all right, ed into a place of safety. Here the Lacedamooppressed their Fathers. The chief of these nians found a tedious work, that held them and a doubtfull; fave that the Messenians which bred a great tumult among private were pleased with the issue, forasmuch as men, that were almost undone by it. Yet they had thereby taught their late proud the Poet Tyrieus appealed this uprore with Lords to think them their equalls. Particu- pleafing Songs. But Ariflomenes grew fo bold, larly; the valour of Aristomenes appeared that he not onely ranged over all the fields, fuch in this fight, that his people would but adventured upon the Towns, surprised, have made him their King: but he, refu- and fackt Amycle, and finally caused the enefing the honour of that name, accepted of mies to encrease and strengthen their Com-

489

whereunto each part came better provid- In performing these and other services, ed. The Lacedemonians brought with thrice Aristomenes was taken prisoner; yet them the Corintbians, and some other friends still he escaped. One escape of his deserves to help; the Messenians had the Argives, to be remembred, as a thing very strange Arcadians, and Sicyonians. This also was and marvellous. He had with too much coua long and bloudy fight; but Aristome- rage adventured to set upon both the Kings mes did so behave himself, that finally he of Sparta; and being in that fight wounded; made the Enemies run for their lives. Of and felled to the ground, was taken up fenfefuch importance was this victory, that less, and carried away priloner, with fifty of the Lacedamonians began to bethink themselves of making some good agreement, tural Cave into which the spartans used to But one Tyrtaus an Athenian Poet, whom by cast head-long such as were condemned to appointment of an Oracle they had gotten dye for the greatest offences. To this puto direct them, re-inforced their spirits with nishment were Arishmenes and his companihis Verses. After this, Aristomenes took by ons adjudged. All the rest of these poor men furprife a Town in Laconia, and vanquish-dyed with their falls; Aristomenes (howsoed in fight Anaxander King of Sparta, who ever it came to pass) took no harm. Yet did fet upon him in hope to have recovered was it harm enough to be imprisoned in a deep Dungeon, among dead carkaffes, where But all those victories of Aristomenes pe- he was like to perish through hunger and who being corrupted by the enemies with thought himfelf, that this beaft must needs money, fled away, and left the Messenians know some way to enter the place and get exposed to a cruel butchery. The loss was our. For which cause he made shift to lay fogreat, that together with Andania their hold upon it, and catching it by the fail with principal City, all the Towns of Messene, one hand, saved himself from biring with the flanding too far from the Sea, were abandon- other hand, by thrusting his coat into the ed for lack of men to defend them, and the mouth of it. So letting it creep whither it through a hole at which came in a little light; | ry fellows with fresh Companions. Ariand there did Aristomenes delve so long with stomenes therefore, perceiving that his men his nails, that at last he clawed out his pallage. for vvant of relief vvere no longer able to When some fugitives of Messene brought hold out, ( as having been three days word to Sparta, that Aristomeres was return- and three nights vexed vvith all miseries, of ed home, their tale founded alike, as if they labour, vvatchings, fighting, hunger and had faid, that a dead man was received. But thirst, besides continual rain and cold ) when the Corinthian forces that came to help gathered together all the weaker fort. the Lacedamonians in the fiege of Era, were whom he compassed round with armed men. cut in pieces, their Captains slain, and their and so attempted to break out through the Camp taken; then was it easily beleived, that midst of the Enemies. Emperanus Ge-Aristomenes was alive indeed.

of getting it; and Aristomenes with small fair passage to these desperate mad-men. forces did them greater hurt than they knew So they issued forth, and arrived safe in Arhow to requite. But at the last, a slave that had cadia, where they were most lovingly enfled from sparta, betrayed the place. This tertained. fellow had entited to lewdness the vvife of Upon the first bruit of the taking of Era, cruel fight; one part being incited by meer cannot deceive God. hope ending a long work, the other enraged Of Aristomenes no more is remaining to be themselves with meat and sleep, and then re- man in Greece. Finally Aristomenes went with then dismitted it. The Fox being loose, ran turning supplyed the place of their weaneral of the Lacedamonians was glad of Thus eleven years passed whilest the ene- this; and to further their departure, caused mies hovering abour Era, saw no likelihood his Souldiers to give an open way, leaving a a Messenian, and vvas entertained by her, the Arcadians had prepared themselves to vvhen her husband vvent forth to vvatch. the rescue : but Aristocrates their fall-heart-It happened in a rainy-winter-night, that the ed King, faid it was too late, for that all was husband came home unlooked for, vvhilft already loft. When Aristomenes had placed the Adulterer was within. The Woman hid his followers in fafety, he chose out five hunher Paramour, and made good countenance dred the lustiest of his men, with whom he to her husband, asking him by what good refolved to march in all fecret hast into fortune hee vvas returned so soon. He told sparta, hoping to find the Town secure, her, that the storm of foul vveather vvas and ill manned, the people being run forth such, as had made all his fellows leave their to the spoyl of Messene. In this enterprise, Stations, and that himself had done as the if he sped well, it was not doubted, that rest did; as for Aristomenes, he vvas vvound- the Lacedamonians would be glad to recover ed of late in fight, and could not look abroad their own, by restitution of that which neither was it to be feared, that the enemies they had taken from others; if all failed, an vould ftir in such a dark rainy night as honourable death was the worst that could this was. This flave that heard the fetidings, happen. There were three hundred Arrose up secretly out of his lurking hole, and cadians that offered to joyn with him; but got him to the Lacedemonian Camp with the Ariftocrates marred all, by fending speedy news. There he found Emperanus his advertisement thereof to Anaxander King of Master commanding in the Kings absence. Sparta. The Epistle which Anaxander sent To him he uttered all; and obtaining par- back to Ariflocrates was intercepted by some don for his running away, guided the Ar- that mistrusted him to whom it was directed. my into the town. Little or nothing was done Therein was found all his fallhood, which that night. For the Allarm was presently being published in open assembly, the Arcataken; and the extream darkness, together dians stoned him to death, and casting forth with the noise of wind and rain, hindred all his body unburied, erected a monument of directions. All the next day was spent in most, his treachery, with a note, That the Perjurer

by meer desperation. The great advantage said, than that committing his people, to the that the Spartans had in numbers, was recom- charge of his fon Gorgus and other sufficient penced partly by the affistance which women Governours, who should plant them in some and children (to whom the hatred of servi- new seat abroad, he resolved himself to make tude had taught contempt of death) gave to aboad in those parts, hoping to find the their husbands and fathers; partly by the nar- Lacedemonians work at home. His daughters rowness of the streets and other passages, he bestowed honourably in marriage. One which admitted not many to fight at once. of them Demagetus, who reigned in the lle But the Messenians were in continual toyl; of Rhodes, took to wife, being willed by an their Enemies fought in course, refreshing Oracle, to marry the daughter of the best have travelled unto Ardys the Son of Gyges attempted Miletus and Smyrna. In like maner King of Lydia, and to Phraortes King of Me- Ardys wan Priene, and affailed Miletus; but dia: but death prevented him at Rhodes, went away without it. In his reign, the Cimwhere he was honourably buried.

CHAP. XXVII.

(whose great Grandsather was a Messenian, part of Asia, which was not freed from them and event into Italy after the former war)be- before the time of Alyattes this mans Grandfenc. which name it keeps to this day.

first year of the twenty eighth Olympiad. Storm, to effect much. Long after which time, the rest of that Na- Phraortes was not King until the third year tion, who staying at home served the Lace- of the nine and twentieth Olympiad, which demonians, found means to rebell; but was fix years after the Messenian war ended; were soon vanquished, and being driven to the same being the last years of Manasses his forfake Peloponnesus, they vvent into Acarna- reign over Juda. nia; vvhence likewile, after few ages, they Deioces the father of this Phraortes, vvas were expelled by the Lacedamonians, and King of Media, three & fifty of these five and feat.

and fourscore years, this banished Nation regiven to the people so much licence, as tained their name, their ancient customs, caused every one to desire the wholesome language, hatred of Sparta, and love of their severity of a more Lordly King. Herein forfaken Country; with a defire to return un- Deisces answered their desiresto the full. For to it. In the third year of the hundred and fe- he caused them to build for him a stately cond Olympiad; the great Epaminondas, having Palace; he took unto him a Guard; for detamed the pride of the Lacedamonians, revo-fence of his person; he seldom gave preked the Mesenians home, who came flocking sence; which Ho when he did, it was out of all quarters, where they dwelt abroad, with fuch aufterity, that no man durst prefrom thenceforth stood in fear.

ftory of Judith.

his daughter to Rhodes, when he purposed to in Asia, had taken Colophon by force, and merians, being expelled out of their own The Mellenians vvere invited by Anaxilas country by the Scythians, over-ran a great ing Lord of the Rhegians in Italy, to take his child, by whom they were driven out. They part against the Zancleans in Sicily, on the o- had not onely broken into Lodia, but wan ther fide of the Streights. They did fo; and the City of Sardes; though the Castle or Civinning the Town of Zancle, called it Mef-tadel thereof was defended against them and held fill for King Ardys; whose long This fecond Messenian yvar ended in the reign was unable, by reason of this great then followed their ancient Country-men fifty years in which Manaffes reigned. This into Italy and Sicily; some of them went into Deioces was the first that ruled the Medes Africa, where they chose unto themselves a in a strict form, commanding more absolutely than his Predecessours had done. For It is very strange, that during two hundred they, following the example of Arbaces, had into Peloponnesus. There did Epaminondas sume to spit or cough in his sight. By these and restore unto them their old possession, and the like ceremonies he bred in the people an help them in building a fair City; which by awfull regard, and highly upheld the Mathe name of the Province, was called Messene, jesty which his predecessours had almost and was held by them ever after, in despight letten fall, through neglect of due comportof the Lacedemonians, of whom they never ments. In execution of his Royal Office, he did uprightly and severely administer justice, keeping secret spies to inform him of all that was done in the Kingdom. He cared not to enlarge the bounds of his Domini-Of the Kings that were in Lydia and Media, on by encroaching upon others, but studied while Manasses reigned. Whether Deioces how to govern well his own. The difference the Mede were that Arphaxad which is found between this King, and such as were mentioned in the Book of Judith. Of the Hi- before him, seems to have bred that opinion which Herodotus delivers, that Deloces was Herod to. the first who reigned in Media.

A Rdys King of Lydia, and Phraortes of This was he that built the great City of A the Medes, are spoken of by Pausanias, Echatane, which now is called Tauris; and as reigning shortly after the Meffenian war, therefore he should be that king Arphaxad. Ardys succeeding unto his father Gyges, mentioned in the story of Judith, as also Ben began his reign of nine and forty years, Merodach, by the same account, should be in the second of the five and twentieth Nabuchodonofor the Assyrian, by whom Ar-Olympiad. He followed the steps of his phaxad was slain, and Holosernes sent to father, wwho encreached upon the Ionians work wonders upon Phul and Ind, and I know not what other Countries. For I rec- are to be found all tegether, neither before kon the last year of Deioces to have been the nor after the captivity of the Jems, and denineteenth of Ben Merodach; though others solation of the City. Wherefore the brief place it otherwife, fome earlier, in the time decision of this controversie is, That the book of Merodach Baladan, some later, in the reign of Judith is not Canonical. Yet hath Tormof Nabulassar, who is also called Nabucho-ellus done as much, in fitting all to the time of

In fitting this book of Judith to a certain For he supposeth, that under Xerxes there time, there hath been much labour spent were other Kings, among which Arphaxad with ill fuccess. The reigns of Cambyses, Da- might be one (who perhaps restored and rerins Hyftaspis, Xerxes, and Ochns, have been edified the City of Echatane, that had forfought into, but afford no great matter of merly been built by Deroces) and Nabuchodolikelyhood and now of late, the times foregoing the destruction of Jerufalem, have been adds, that from the twelfth year to the eight thought upon, and this age that we have in teenth of Nabuchodonofor, that is, five or lix hand, choicn by Bellarmine, as agreeing best years, the absence and ill fortune of Xerxes with the story; though others herein can- in his Grecian expedition ( which he supponot(I speak of such as fain would) agree with seth to have been so long) might give occahim. Whilst Cambyses reigned, the Tem-sion unto Arphaxad, of rebelling: and ple was not re-built, which in the ftory of that Nabuchodonofor, having vanquithed and Judith is found standing and dedicated. The slain Arphaxad, might then seek to make other two Persian Kings, Darins and Xerxes, himself Lord of all, by the Army which are acknowledged to have been very fa he sent forth unto Holosernes. So should the vourable to the Jews; therefore neither of Jews have done their duty, in adhering to them could be Nabuchodonosor, whose part Xerxes their Sovereign Lord, and resisting they refused to take, and who sent to de- one that rebelled against him; as also the stroy them. Yet the time of Xerxes hath some other circumstances rehearled before, be conveniences, aprly fitting this Hiftory; and well applyed to the argument. For in these above all, the opinion of a few ancient times, the affairs of Jury were agreeable Writers (without whose judgment the authority of this Book were of no value) having this supposed Nabuchodone for, might well eplaced this argument in the Persian Monar- nough be ignorant of the Jews, and as proud chy, inclines the matter to the reign of this as we shall need to think him: But the silence vain-glorious King. As for Ochus, very few, of all Histories, takes away belief from and they faintly, entitle him to the business, this conjecture: and the supposition it self is Manifest it is, and granted, that in the time very hard, that a Rebell, whose King was of this History, there must be a return from abroad, with an Army consisting of sevencaptivity lately foregoing; the Temple re-teen hundred thouland men, should prewere of the bordering people.

Xerxes, as was penible into desperate a cale. built; Joachim High Prieft; and a long peace sume so far, upon the stength of twelve of threescore and ten years, or thereabout, hundred thousand foot, and twelve thouensuing. All these were to be among the sand Archers on horse back, as to think that Jews. Likewise on the other side, we must he might do what he list, yea that there find a King that reigned in Nineve, eighteen was none other God than himself. It is years at the least; that vanquished and slew indeed easie to find enough that might be a King of the Medes; one whom the Jews faid against this device of Torniellus: yet refused to affist; one that fought generally to if there were any necessity of holding the be adored as God, and that therefore com- book of Judith to be Canonical, I would manded all temples, of such as were accoun-rather choose to lay aside all regard of proted gods, to be destroyed; one whose Vice- phane Histories, and build some desence uproy or Captain General knew not the Jewish on this ground; than, by following the opi-Nation, but was fain to learn what they nion of any other, to violate, as they all do, the text it felf. That Judith lived under none Of all these circumstances; the Priesthood of Joachim, with a return from captivity, works I have not read, but find him cited by are found concurring, with either the time Torniellus hath proved by many arguments. are round concurring, with either the time tormeins plant proved by many arguments of Manufér before the defruction of Jerufa-That the lived not in the Reign of Malam, or of Nerxes afterward: the re-building of the Temple a while before, and the long ally, thewing how the Cardinal is driven, as peace following, agree with the reign of Ner-time to break through a wall, in faying xer; the reft of circumftances requilite, the time, that the Kings Arphaxad and Nabitime, that the Mage Apparatus and the lan inscription in Greek and Latine letters, children of meer fantafie, it is fo plain that which faid, that Numa Pompilius, the fon of it needs no proof at all. Wherefore we may truly fay, that they, which have content the one Coffin was nothing found; his both the content of the Romans, lay there. In truly lay, that they, which have contain the one common nothing found; his bolded about the time of this Hiftory, being dy being utterly confumed. In the other well furnished of matter, wherewith to con- were his Books, wrapped up in two bunfute each other, but wanting wherewith to dles of wax; of his own conflitutions fedefend themselves (like naked men in a sto-ven, and other seven of Philosophy. They ny field ) have chased Holofernes out of all were not onely uncorrupted, but in a manparsoftime, and left him and his great expenses from the Pretour of the Ci-Patison, Extra anni solisque vias, in an age ty desiring to have a sight of these Books, were against the Religion then in use. Herehis Reign.

6. V I.

The first year of Manasses was the last without Romulus; after whose death, one year terate. the Romans wanted a King. Then was Numa reigned three and forty years in con-Numa Pompilius a Sabyne cholen, a peaceable tinual peace. After him Tullus Hostilius the man, and feeming very religious in his kind, third King was chosen, in the fix and fortieth were in his own judgement, no better than enemy, it might be decided, who should commeer delusions, that served only as rudiments mand, and who obey. to bring the favage multitude of theeves and chance, in digging a piece of ground that alive, and able to fight, yet wounded, when the destruction of the Temple foregoing her | belonged to one L. Petilius a Scribe. Two that never was, and in places that were never when he perceived whereunto they tended, refused to deliver them back to the owner, Surely, to find out the borders of Japheth, and offered to take a folemn oath that they gainst Arabia; or the Countries of Phuland upon the Senate, without more adoe, com-Lud, that lay in Holofernes his way; I think manded them to be openly burnt. It feems it would as much trouble Cosmographers, as that Numa did mean to acquit himself unto the former question hath done Chrono- wifer ages, which he thought would follogers. But I will not busie my self here- low, as one that had not been so foolish as to with; having already so far digressed, in believe the Doctrine wherein he instructed flewing who lived not with Manasses, that his own barbarous times. But the poyfon I think it high time to return unto mine wherewith he had infected Rome, when he ownwork, and rehearle what others Ifind, fate in his Throne, had not left working, to have had their part, in the long time of when he ministred the Antidote out of his grave. Had these Books not come to light luntill the days of Tully and Cafar, when the mist of ignorance was somewhat better discussed: likely it is that they had not on-Of other Princes and actions that were in thefe ly escaped the fire, but wrought some good and peradvenure general ) effect. Being as it was, they ferved as a confutation, without remedy, of Idolatry that was inve-

Hebrought the rude people, which Romalus of Manafes, and reigned two and thirty had employed only in Wars, to some good years, busied, for the most part, in War. He civility, and a more orderly fashion of life. quarrelled with the Albanes, who met him This he effected by filling their heads with in the field; but in regard of the danger, fuperstition; as perswading them, that he had which both parts had cause to fear, that might familiarity with a Nymph called Egeria, who grow unto them from the Thuscanes, caused taught him a many of Ceremonies which he them to bethink themselves of a course, delivered unto the Romans as things of great whereby without effusion of so much bloud, importance. But all these devices of Numa as might make them too weak for a common

There were in each Camp three Brethren, out-laws, gathered into one body by Romn- Twins, born at one birth ( Dionysus says lus, to some form of milder discipline, than that they were Cousin Germans) of equal their boysterous and wild natures were o- years and strength, who were appointed to therwise apt to entertain. This appeared by fight for their several Countries. The end the Books that were found in his grave, al- was, that the Horatii, Companions for the most fix hundred yearsafter his death, wherein the Superstition taught by himself was first lost their lives. The three Curatie condemned as vain. His grave was opened by that fought for Alba (as Livy tels it ) were all fon of their hurts, could not follow him with ance of this History. Whereas therefore he equal speed, to follow him at such distance placeth the building of Rome, in the first one from another, that returning upon them, year of the feventh Olympiad, and affirms, that he flew them, as it had been in fingle fight, the same was the first year of Charops goman after man, ere they could jeyn together vernment of Athens; I hope I shall not need and fet upon him at once. Dionysius reports excuse, for varying from Paulanias, who sets it fomewhat otherwise, telling very parti- the beginning of these Athenians somewhat cularly, what wounds were given and ta-fooner. ken, and faying, that first one of the Horatii In the reign of Manasses it was, that Midas. was flain, then one of the Curatii, then a whom the Poets feigned to have had Affes fecond Horatius, and lastly the two (uratii, ears, held the Kingdom of Phrygia. Many whom the third Horatius did cunningly fe- fables were devised of him; especially that ver the one from the other, as is shewed be- he obtained of Bacchus, as a great gift, that fore.

in the old Roman Hittory, both in regard of means in had like to have been starved the action it felf, wherein Rome was laid, as (his meat and drink being subject to the it were in a wager, against Alba; and in re- same transformation) had not Bacchus despect of the great increase which thereby the livered him from this miserable faculty, by Roman State obtained. For the City of Alba caufing him to vvash himself in the River did immediately become subject unto her Pactolus, the stream vvhereof hath ever own Colony, and was shortly after, upon since, forsooth, abounded in that precious fome treacherous dealing of their Gover-metall. Finally, it is faid he dyed by drinknour, utterly razed, the people being remoing Bulls blood; being invaded by the ved unto Rome where they were made Citi- Scythians. zens. The strong Nation of the Latines, where- In this age flourished that Antimachus, of Alba, as the mother City, had been chief, who (faith Plutarch in the life of Romulus) became ere long dependent upon Rome, observed the Moons Eclipse at the foundathough not subject unto it, and divers petty tion of Rome. States adjacent, were by little and little ta- The Milesians, or, (as Eusebins hath it) the fubiect of this Hiftory.

The seventh year of Hippomenes in Athens, lony in Egypt by force. was current with the first of Manaffes. Also | About this time Archias and his compa-line time. Of these I find only names, Leocrates, exceeding famous. Abjander, and Erizias. After Erizias yearly The City of Nicodemia, sometime * Aftacus, Winn Rulers were elected.

time of rule was shortned, and from term of this time. likely that they would govern the better, when they knew that they were afterwards companies of Archively Missellus, the Corporation of Archively Missellus, the Corpo life reduced unto ten years, it being thought About these times also was Croton founded where when they knew that they were afterwards companion of Archias that built syracufe. others. I follow Dionysus of Halicarnassus, in fo doth Pausanias. applying their times unto those years of the About the same time the Parthenians begreat care in ordering the reckoning of and Panfanias find it built before, and by two of their opposites were flain; but the times; but hath noted alwaies the years of new third Horatius, pretending fear, did run away, the Greeks, how they did answer unto thelicit and thereby drew the others, who by rea-things of Rome, throughout all the continuall things which he should touch might im-This is one of the most memorable things median ly be changed into Gold: by which

ken in : which additions, that were small, yet Athenians having obtained some power by many, I will forbear to rehearse (as being the Sea, founded Macieratis a City on the East works of fundry ages, and few of them re- of Egypt. Pfammiticus herein feems to have markable confidered apart by themselves) affitted them, who used all means of drawing until fuch time as the fourth Empire, that is the Greeks into Egypt, accounting them his now in the infancy, shall grow to be the main furest strength. For neither Miletus nor Athens were now of power sufficient to plant a Co-

the three last Governours for ten years, who nion Miscellus, and other Corinthians, foun-Eufel followed Hippomenes, were in the same Kings ded Syracuse in Sicily, a City in after times was enlarged and beautified in this age by there is These Governours for ten years were also Zipartes native of Thrace. Sybilla of Samms, fines for of the race of Medon and Codrus, but their according to Pausanius, lived much about contains to live private men under the command of Strabo makes it somewhat more ancient, and parts

Olympiads, wherein the Chronological Ta- ing of age, and banished Lacedamon, were paid to ble, following this work, doth set them. For conducted by Phalantus into Italy; where it he not only profesieth himself to have taken is said they founded Tarentum: but Justine them conquered and amplified: and about ther fide of Bofiborus. It were a long work to the same time, Manasse yet living, the City rehearse all that is said to have been done in Phaselis was founded in Pamphylia, Gela in the five and fifty years of Manasses: that sicily, Interanne in the Region of the Um- which already hath been told is enough; hrii, now Urbin in Italy. About which time the rest being not greatly worth rememalso Chalcedon in Asia, over against Byzan- brance, may well be omitted, reserving only tium (now Constantinople) was founded by Ben Merodach, and Nabulasjar, to the business the Megarenses, who therefore were upbrai-that will shortly require more mention of ten years following the Septuagint.

CHAP. XXVIII. ded as blind, because they chose not the o- them.

CHAP. XXVIII.

Of the times from the death of Manasses to the destruction of Jerusalem.

6. I. of Ammon and Josias.

caused all the Images, as well those which should inherit his grave in peace. were graven as molten to be stampt to powthe Sun to be burnt. Of Josias it was prophetained.

remarkable.

Mmon the fon of Manasie, a man | in written, the prosperity promised to those no less wicked than was his Fa- that observe them, and the forrow and exther before his conversion, resto- tirpation to the rest, he rent his garments, red the exercise of all sorts of I- and commanded Helkiah, and others, to ask dolatry: for which God hardned counsel of the Prophetess Huldah, or, Olda, the hearts of his own fervants against him, concerning the Book; who answered the who flew him after he had reigned two messengers in these words: Thus faith the c chro. 34. years. Philo, Eufebius, and Nicephorus give him Lord, Behold, I will bring evil upon the place. 21. and upon the inhabitants thereof, even all the Toffas fucceeded unto Ammon, being but a curfes that are written in the Book which they child of 8. years old, he began to feek after | have read before the King of Juda, because they the God of David his Father; and in his have forsaken me, and burnt Incense to other 1 King. 11 skin. 1. twelfth year he purged Juda and Jerusalem gods. Only for the King himself, because he 15: 16:10.3 from the high places, and the groves, and the was a lover of God and his Laws, it was procarved and molten Images: and they brake mised that this evil should not fall on Juda down in his fight the Altars of Baalim : He and Fernsalem in his daies, but that he himself

Tolias affembled the Elders, caused the der, and strewed on their graves that had Book to be read unto them, made a coveerected them; and this he commanded to be nant with the Lord, and caused all that were done throughout all his Dominions. He found in Jerusalem and Benjamin to do the also slew those that sacrificed to the Sun and like, promising thereby to observe the Moon, and caused the Chariots and Horses of Laws and Commandements in the Book conside in the time of Jeroboam the first, when he erected the Golden Calf at Bethel, that a Altar, Idols, Monuments, and bones of the child should be born unto the house of Da- false Prophets at Bethel, argueth his Domivid, Josias by name, and upon thee (said the nion to have extended unto those Countries, Prophet, speaking to the Altar ) shall he that had been part of the Kingdom of the facrifice the Priests of the high places, that ten Tribes. Yet I do not think, that any victoburn incense upon thee : a prophecy very ry of Josias in war got possession of these places; but rather that Ezechias, after the flight In the eighteenth year of his reign, he re- and death of Senacherib, when Merodach opbuilt and repaired the Temple, at which posed himself against Asarhaddon, did use time Helkiah the Pricst found the Book of the advantage which the faction in the North Moses, called Deutronomy, or, of the Law, presented unto him, and laid hold upon so which he fent to the King: which when he much of the Kingdom of Ifrael, as he was had caused to be read before him, and consi- able to people. Otherwise also it is not imdered of the fevere commandements there- probable, that the Babylonian finding him-

CHAP. XXVIII.

nemy.

496

of Azotus, though the Town held out nine it felf could afford; and the danger wherein and twenty years) did give unto Manasses, Assyria stood, by the force of the Medes. together with his liberty; as much in Ifrael as which under the command of more absolute himself could not easily defend. This was a Princes, began to feel it self better, and to good way to break the amity that the Kings shew what it could do. These were great of Juda had so long held with those of E- helps, but of shorter endurance than was the gpt, by casting a bone between them, and war; as in place more convenient shall be withall by this benefit of enlarging their noted. At the prefent it feems, that either Territories with addition of more than they fome preparation of the Chaldeans to reconcould challenge, to redeem the friendship of quer, did enforce, or some disability of theirs the Jews, which had been loft by injuries to make refistance, did invite the King of done, in feeking to bereave them of their Egypt into the Countries bordering upon Except. When it is faid, that Manaffer did after phrates; whither Pharao Necho ascended with Lis deliverance from imprisonment, put Cap- a mighty Army.

Tains of War in all the strong Cities of Juda; These two great Monarchs, having their it may be that some such business is intima- Swords drawn, and contending for the Emted, as the taking possession and fortifying of places delivered into his hands. For fed with himself to which of these hemight though it be manifest that he took much adhere, having his Territory set in the midpains, in making Jerusalem it self more de- way between both, so as the one could not fensible; yet I should rather believe, that he, invade the other, but that they must of nehaving already compounded with the Baby- ceffity tread upon the very face and body of lonian, did fortifie himself against the Egyp- his Country. Now though it were so that tians, whose side he had forsaken, than that Necho himself desired, by his Embassadours, flas in the King of Babel his quarrel, doth without all harmful purpose against Jostas; argue, that the composition which Manasses yet all sufficed not , but the King of Ifrael had made with that King or his Ancestor, would needs fight with him. was upon such friendly terms, as required not only a faithful observation, but a thank-what little good the friendship of Egypt full requital. For no perfwafions could fuffice to make Josias sit still, and hold himself in : as that of Hosea the last King of Israel, who quiet in good neutrality, when Pharao Ne- when he fell from the dependance of the cho King of Egypt passed along by him, to Assuran, and wholy trusted to Sabacus or war upon the Countries about the River of Sous King of Egypt, was utterly disappointed Euphrates.

when as Necho the fon of Plammiticus, came up and tare in pieces, as it could never after with a powerful Army towards the border be gathered together or replanted. The of Judea, determining to pass that way, be- calamities also that fell upon Juda in the ing the nearest toward Euphrates, either to thirteenth and fourteenth years of Exechia, strengthen the passages of that River about whilst that good King and his people relied Carchemish, or Cercusium, for the desence of upon Sethon; and more lately, the imprison-Syria (as long after this, Dioclesian is faid by ment of Manasses, were documents of suffi-Ammianus Marcellinus to have done,) or cient proof, to shew the ill affurance that was perhaps to invade Syria it felf. For it fee- in the help of the Egyptians, who (near neighmeth that the travail of Plammiticus had not bours though they were ) were alwaies unbeen idlely confumed about that one Town ready, when the necessities of their friends of Azotus, but had put the Egyptians in pof-required their affiltance. The remembrance section of no small part of syria, especially in hereof might be the reason why Neco did not those quarters that had formerly belonged seek to have the Jews renew their ancient unto the Adades Kings of Damasco.

his Fathers had been, in pursuing the war at the passime between him and the Assyrians. gainft Babel. In which war, two things may This was an easie thing to grant; seeing that greatly have availed the Egyptians, and adthe countenance of such an Army, as did, vanced their affairs and hopes: the extra- foon after this, out-face Nabulaffar upon his felt unable to deal with Psammiticus in Sy- ordinary valour of the mercenary Greeks. ria (as wanting power to raise the fiege that were far better Souldiers than Egypt of

CHAP, XXVIII

he travelled in making such provisions only for his minds sake. The earnestness of Je-he directed himself against the Assyrians only, then the directed himself against the assyrians only the directed himself against the assyrians only the directed himself against the assyrians only the directed himself against the assyrians only the directed himself against the assyrians only the directed himself against the assyrians only the directed himself against the assyrians only the directed himself against the assyrians only the directed himself against the assyrians only the directed himself against the assyrians only the directed himself against the assyrians only the directed himself against the assyrians only the directed himself against the assyrians only the directed himself against the assyrians only the directed himself against the assyrians only the directed himself against the assyrians only the directed himself against the assyrians only the directed himself against the assyrians only the directed himself against the directed hi of his hopes, and in conclusion lost both his The last year of Josias his reign it was, life and estate, which the Asyrian so rooted league with him, but only craved that they Neither was the industry of Necho less than would be contented to fit still, and behold own borders, left unto the Jews, a lawful excule of fear, had they forborn to give it any check upon the way. Wheregive a min some I believe that this religious and of Pharao Neco that fought with Josias: vertuous Prince folias, was not firred up only by politick respects, to stop the way of Neco; but thought himselt bound in of New 5 Dock thought indicate bound in Faith and Honour, to do his best in defence of the Babylonian Grown; where-from among them, and that in such fort, phus witnesseth. mentations.

6. H.

of Jehoahaz and Jehojakim Kings of Ifrael.

anto his Kingdome was obliged, either mong the Acts of Neco. He tells us of this by Covenant made at the enlargement King, that he went about to make a Chanof Manaffes, or by the gift of fuch part nel, whereby Ships might passout of Nilus as he held in the Kingdome of the ten into the Red Sea. It should have reached Tribes. As for the Princes and people above an hundred miles in length, and of Inda, they had now a good occasion been wide enough for two Galliesto row to flew, both unto the Babylonians, of in front. But in the middelt of the work, what importance their friendship was, and an Oracle storetold that the Barbarians to the Egyptians, what a valiant Nation they should have the benefit of it, which cauhad abandoned, and thereby made their e- fed Neco to defit when half was done. There were confumed in this toylfome Some think that this Action of Josias business twelve hundred thousand Feyptiwas contrary to the advice of Jeremy the ans; a loss great enough to make the Prophet; which I do not find in the King forfake his enterprize, without trou-Prophecie of Feremy, nor can find reason bling the Oracle for admonition. Howto believe. Others hold opinion that he foever it were, he was not a man to be forgat to ask the Counsel of God: and idle; therefore he built a Fleet, and lethis is very likely; feeing he might be- vied a great Army, wherewith he marched lieve that an enterprise grounded upon fi- against the King of Babel. In this Expedidelity and thankfulness due to the King tion, he used the service, as well of his Naof Babel, could not but be displeasing vy, as of his Land-forces; but no particular unto the Lord. But the wickedness of exploits of his therein are found recorded, the people (in whom the corruptions of fave only this victory against Josias, where former times had taken such root, as all Herodotus calls the place Magdolus, and the the care of Josias in reforming the Land, Jews Syrians; which is a small error, seeing could not pluck up ) was questionless far that Judea was a Province of Syria, and from hearkening how the matter would Magdolus or Magdala is taken to have been fland with Gods pleasure, and much far-ther from enquiring into his secret Will, wherein it was determined that their good cus took the City of Cadytis, which was per-King, whose life stood between them and haps Carchemish, by Euphrates, and made himtheir punishment, should now be taken self Lord, in a manner, of all Syria, as Jose Jud lib.

as his death should give an entrance to Particularly we find, that the Phanicians Herol, L.C. the miseries ensuing. So Jossa levying all one of the most powerful Nations in Syria, the strength he could make, near unto were his Subjects, and that by his command Megiddo, in the half Tribe of Manasses, they furrounded all Africa, letting fail from encountred Neco: and there he received the Gulf of Arabia, and to paffing along all the ftroke of death, which lingring about the coast, whereon they both landed, as need him till he came to Jerusalem, brought him required, and sowed Corn for their suffeto the Sepulchres of his Ancestors. His nance in that long voyage, which lasted three los was greatly bewailed of all the peo-years. This was the first Navigation about ple and Princes of Juda, especially of Je- Africa, wherein that great Cape, now called 134.10 remy the Prophet, who inferted a forrow- of good hope, was discovered; which after ful remembrance thereof in his Book of La- was forgotten, until Vasco de Gama the Portingal found it out, following a contrary course to that which the Phanicians held; for they beginning in the East, ran the way of the Sun, South and then Westward, after which they returned home by the pillars and streights of Hercules (as the name was Rrr then )

then) called now the freights of Gibraltar, bear to make a conqueft of the Land, perhaving Africk, ftill on the right hand; but haps upon the same reason, which had made the Portingals, beginning their voyage not him fo carnest in seeking to hold reace with far from the same streights, leave Africk on it. For the Jews had fullered much in the Ethe Larboard, and bend their course unto gaptians quarrel, and being left by these their the East. That report of the Phanicians, striends in time of need, unto all extremities, which Herodotus durit not believe, how the were driven of needity to forfake that par-Sun in this journey was on their right hand, ty, and to joyn with the enemies; to whom that is, on the North fide of them, is a matter if they shewed themselves taithful, who of necessary truth; and the observation then could blame them? It was therefore enough made hereof, makes me the better to believe, to reclaim them; feeing they were such a that fuch a veyage was indeed performed. people as would not upon every occasion But leaving these discourses of Neco his mag- thist side, but endure more than Pharao, in the nificence, let us tell what he did, in matters pride of his victories, thought that any more importing his citate. The people of Ju- henceforth should lay upon them: so good da, while the Fgptians were buffe at Char- a Patron did he mean to be unto them. Nechemift, had made Tehonhaz their King, in the verthelefs, he laid upon them a Tribute, of room of his father Jossas. The Prophet Je- an hundred Talents of filver, and one Ta-January remy calls this new King Shallum, by the lent of gold; that so he might both reap at name of his younger brother; alluding per- the present some fruit of his pains taken, and haps to the fhort reign of Shallum King of leave unto them some document in the suthe ten Tribes: for Shallum of Ijrael reign- ture, of greater punishment than verbal aned but one moneth; Jekoakaz no more than ger, due to them, if they should rebel. So he three. He was not the eldeft fon of Josius: departed, carrying along with him into E-Wherefore it may feem that he was fet up as gypt the unfortunate King Johoahaz, who dithe best affected unto the King of Babel; ed in his Captivity. the rest of his house being more inclined to the Egyptian, as appears by the sequel. An I- the end of his Fathers last year; otherwise dolater he was, and thrived accordingly, it would hardly be found, that Jehojakim his For when as Neco had dispatched his business successor did reign ten whole years , wherein the North parts of Syria, then did he take as the Scriptures give him eleven, that are order for the attairs of Judea. This Councurrent and incomplete. If any man will try was now to far frem making any refi- rather cast the three moneths of this short stance, that the King himself came from Rib- leign, into the first year of the brother, than lab in the land of Hamath, where the matter into the fathers last, the same arguments that went fo ill on his fide, that Neco did cast him shall maintain his opinion, will also prove the into bonds, and carry him prisoner into Fg.pt, matter to be unworthy of disputation; and giving away his Kingdom to Eliakim his el- fo I leave it. der brother, to whom of right it did belong.

The City of Riblab, in after times called Anin faction he was altogether Egyptian, as (of whom the eldest is probably thought to bear to profess, that they could deny them have stormed at the preferment of his youn- nothing. Yet the beginning of Jehojakim ger brother ) gave him power to do even had the countenance of the Egyptian to grace what should please himself. Yet he did for- it, which made him insolent and cruel;

498

The reign of Jehoahaz was included in tiochia, was a place unhappy to the Kings having received his Crown at the hand of and Princes of juda, as may be observed in Pharao. The wickedness of these last Kings divers examples. Yet here Jehojakim, toge- being expressed in Scriptures none otherther with his new name, got his Kingdom; an wife, than by general words, with reference ill gain, since he could no better use it. But to all the evil that their Fathers had done, however Jebojakim thrived by the bargain, makes it apparent, that the poyfon where-Pharao sped well, making that Kingdom Tri- with Ahaz and Manaffes had infected the butary, without any stroke stricken; which Land, was not so expelled by the zealous three moneths before was too frout to give goodness of Josias, but that it till cleaved unhim peace, when he desired it. Certain it is, to the chief of the people, Tea unto the Priests stand that in his march outward, Neco had a grea- allosand therefore it was not strange, that the 16-14ter task lying upon his hands, than would Kings had their parts therein. The Royal permit him to wast his forces upon Judea: authority was much abased by the dangers but now the reputation of his good success wherein the Countrey stood, in this troubleat Megiddo, and Charchemish, together with some age: the Princes did in a manner what the diffention of the Princes Josias his fons they listed; neither would the Kings forwas delivered unto his Embassadour, and sent Chaldean race, preserved Babylon before it. back to the death; contrary to the cuftom Some think that this was the Aljyrian King, the banks of Euphrates, that his voice was ginning of his fon. after this the glory of Egypt is to fall.

6. III.

miladventure and death, together with the cumstances alledged before. diffention between his children, presented, Nabulasar that reigned in Babylon after made himself King of Babylon, was eleven his Father Ben Merodach, had greater business years troubled with a powerful Enemy, A- in his own Kingdom, than would permit him long reign following, and his little inter- thip that they held in Afia, it is convenient as we find by that example of his dealing medling in matters of Spria, make it plain, with Oris: the Prophet: though herein also that is had work enough at home, either in the Princes do appear to have been inftigated detending or effaithining that which he had tors. This holy man denounced Gods judgegotten. Jolephus gives him the honour of hators. This noty than denounced Goods Judges govern, Josephors gives an the honour of naments against the City and Temple, in like ving won Nineve it self, which we may be fort as other Prophets had formerly done, lieve; but surely he did not hold it long. and did in the same age. The King with all the For in the times soon following, that great men of power, and all the Princes, hearing of City was free, and vanquified Phraortes the this, determined to put him to death. Here- Median. Perhaps it yielded upon some capiupon the poor man fled into Egypt: but fuch tulation: and refuled afterwards to contiregard was had unto Jehojakin, that Oria nue subject, when the Kings, being of the used, both in those dayes, and since, among all whose Captains took Manasses prisoner, but I civil Nations, of giving refuge unto stran-rather believe those that hold the contrary, gers, that are not held guilty of such inhu- for which I have given my reasons in due mancrimes, as for the general good of man-kind should be exempted from all privi-Merodach should have looked into those parts, as long as the Jews were his friends, It concerned Pharao to give all content- and the Egyptians, that maligned the Norment possible to Jehojakim: for the Affirian thern Empire, held themselves quiet at home, Lyon, that had not stirred in many years, be- which was until the time of Pfammiticus, agan about these times to roar so loud upon bout the end of this Kings Reign, or the be-heard unto Nilus, threatning to make himself Ben Merodach the son and successiour of Lord of all the Forrest. The causes that hi- this King, is not mentioned in the Scriptures; therto had withdrawn the house of Mero-yet is he named by good consent of Authors, dach from opposing the Egyptian in his con- and that speak little of his doings. The quest of Syria, require our consideration in length of his Reign is gathered by inference this place, before we proceed to commit to have been one and twenty years; for fo them together at Carchemish, where shortly much remaineth of the time that passed between the beginning of his Fathers and his Nephews Reigns ( which is a known fum) deducting the years of his Father, and of his fon Nabulasfar. This (as I take it) was he that of the Kings of Babylon and Media. Howit had Manafes Priloner, and released him. He came to pass that the Kings of Babel could spedill in Syria; where Psammiticus, by the not give attendance on their business in Sy-vertue of his Mercenary Greeks, did much ria; which caused them to lose that Province. prevail. This may have been some cause that he released Manajjes, and did put into his Erodach the son of Baladan, who ta- hands some part more of the Kingdom of M king the advantage that Sennacherib's Samaria: which is made probable by cir-

Sarhaddon the son of Sennacherib, reigning to look abroad: insomuch as it may be over the Assyrians in Nineve; from whom thought to have been a great negligence or whilest he could not any other way divert over-fight of Psammiticus and Necho, that his cares, he was fain to omit all business in they did not occupy some good part of his Spria, and (as hath been formerly shewed) to Dominions beyond Euphrates. For it was in make over unto Ezechia some part of the his time, that Phraortes King of the Medes Kingdom of the ten Tribes. From this mole- invaded Affpria, and befreged Nineve; from station, the death of Asarbaddon did not on- whence he was not repelled by any force of ly set him free, but gave unto him some part Nabulassar, but constrained to remove by the of Affria, if not (as is commonly, but less coming of the Scothians, who in these ages probably thought ) the whole Kingdom. did overflow those parts of the world, laying How greatly this was to the liking of the hold upon all that they could mafter by Allyrians, will not here stand to enquire : his strong hand. Of these Scythians, and the Loid-Rrr2

CHAP.XXVIII.

fore-hand, how the Medes; upon whom they lagree both with the condition of such busifirst fell, were busied in the same times with ness as that Scythian expedition brought into hopes of conquering Affyria.

500

Thraortes, the fon of Deioces, King of dean and Affrian affairs ensuing.

Nineve. case, that of her self she was well enough.

Grand-child.

dition:whereof I find no particular circum-

rians for the death of his father, and besieged Reign of Nabuchodonosor. Nineve it felf, having a purpose to destroy it. I rather believe Eusebius, That he took the City, and fulfilled bis displeasure upon it, than Herodotus, That the Scythian Army came upon him whilest he lay before it. For where equal authorities are contradictory (as Eusebius, though far later than Herodotus, yet having feen other Authors that are now lost, it is to be valued according to his great reading) there do I hold it best, to yield unto the best likelihoods.

that I speak in this place; shewing briefly a- igcrous fell upon his own Country doth well those parts, and with the State of the Chalthe Medes, having by many victories enlar- The destruction of this great City is both ged his Dominions, conceived at length a foretold in the Book of Tobit, and there fet tair possibility of making himself Lord of down as happening about these times; of which Book whofoever was the Author, he That City(as Herodotus reports it) having vvas ancient enough to know the story of been a Soveraign Lady was not forfaken of those ages, and hath committed no such error all her dependants; yet remained in such in reckoning of times, as should cause us to distrust him in this. As for the Prophecy of This makes it plain, that howfoever Mero- Nahum, though it be not limited unto any datch had gotten policifion of this imperial certain term, yet it appears to have taken feat, and made it subject as was the rest of the Country, yet it found the means to set it self. Nabnehodonofor, according to the common oat liberty: as after this again it did, when pinion. For the Prophet hath mention of a it had been regained by Nabulassar his conquest of Egypt, foregoing this calamity, vyhereof vve vvill speak in due place. Some Sharp war, and the very novelty of fud- that ascribe more authority than the reforden violence, use to dismay any State or med Churches yield, to the book of Tobit, Country, not inured to the like: but custom are careful, as in a matter of necessity, to of danger hardeneth even those that are un- affirm, that about these times, Nineve was tawarlike. Nineve had been the Palace of ma- ken; but they attribute (conjecturally) the ny valiant Kings lately reigning therein; it had suffered, and resisted, all the survey where had suffered, and resisted, all the survey wherewith either Domestical tumults between the considered. Yet I hold it probable, that Nafons of Sennacherib, or forreign war of the bulasar the son of Ben Merodach did seize Babylonians, could afflict it: and therefore it upon it, and place a King or Viceroy therein, is the less wonderful, that Phraortes did about such time as the Country of Assiria fpeed so ill in his journey against it. He and was abandoned by Cyaxares, when the Seythe most of his Army perished in that expe-thian War overwhelmed Media. For then was the Conquest wrought out ready to his stances (perhaps they undervalued their for- hand; the swelling spirits of the Ninevites ces, and brought a less power than was need- were allayed, and their malice to Babylon so ful.)It is enough, that herein we may believe much affwaged, that it might be thought a great favour, if Nabulassar, appointing unto Cyaxares the fon of Phraortes, a braver them a peculiar King, took him and them in man of War than his Father, wan as much of protection: though afterwards to their con-Affa the less, as lay Eastward, from the River fusion, this unthankful People and their King of Halys; he fought revenge upon the Affy- rebelled again, as shall be showed in the

6. IV.

The great expedition of the Scythians, who ruled in Alia eight and twenty years.

| I. The time of his expedition.

To think that the Scythians came upon Cyaxares, whileft he lay before Nineve, were ment was given by the Affrians and to accuse him of greater improvidence than the Medes, to the Babylonians, who thereby ought to be suspected in one commended as were much disabled to perform any action a good Souldier. But to suppose that he was of worth upon the Egyptians in Syria; it is fain to leave the Town, when a War so dan- time that I speak of that great Scythian expedition, which grievously afficted not only ineral History; yet not easie, the consent of the Babylonians, but the Medes and Lydians, those that have written thereof, being nowith the Countries adjacent, in such wise, thing near to uniformity. that part of the trouble redounded evento I have noted before, that in the reign of the Egyptians themselves. Of the Seythian Ardys King of Lydia, the Cimmerians overpeople in general, Herodotus makes very ran that Kingdom, and were not expelled. large discourse, but interlaced, as of matter until Halyastes the Nephew of Ardys got the ill known, with many Fables; of this expe- upper hand of them. In these times therefore dition he tells many particulars, but ill agree- of Ardys, Sardiaties, and Halyattes, are we to ing with confent of time. Concerning his fa- find the eight and twenty years, wherein the bulous reports, it will be needless to recite Scythians reigned over Asia. Now for a fruich them; for they are far enough distant from as Psammiticus the Egyptian had some dealthe business in hand. The computation of ings with the Scythians, even in the height of times which by inference out of his relatilived with both Cyaxares and Halyattes. But ed the violence of their oppressors. Eusebius himself refers all that business of the Scythian irruption into Palæstina to Psammiticus the Father of Necho, whom he leaves dead before the Reign of Halyattes. Therefore I dare not rely upon Herodotus, in this What Nations they were that brake into Alia; matter, otherwise than to believe him, that fuch things were in these ages, though not in fuch order as he fets them down.

It remains, that I collect as well as I can,

ons,may feem very strange,needeth some an-than one or two of his last years unto this fwer in this place: lest otherwise I should their Dominion. But the beginning of Halyeither seem to make my self too bold with attes his Reign in Lydia, being three and an Author, in citing him after a manner diffe-twenty years compleat after the death of rent from his own tale; or else to be too Pfammiticus, leaves the space very scant, eiforgetful of my felf, in bringing to act upon ther for the great victories of the Scythians. the Stage, those persons, which I had already necessarily supposed before they could meet buried Eight and twenty years, he faith, that the Egiptian in Syria, or for those many losthe Scythians reigned in Asia, before Cyaxa- ses, which they must have received ere they res delivered the Country from them. Yet could be driven quite away. To increase this hereports a War between Cyaxares and Ha- difficulty, the victorious Reign of Nabucholiattes the Lydian, as foregoing the fiege of donosor in Babylon, is of no small moment. Nineve; the siege of Nineve being ere the For how may we think it possible, that he Southians came. And further he tells, how should have adventured the strength of the the Scythians, having vanquished the Medes, Kingdom against the Egyptians and Jews, did pass into Syria, and were encountred in had he stood in daily fear of losing his own, Palestina by Psammiticus King of Egypt, who to a more mighty Nation, that lay upon his by gifts and entreaty procured them to de-neck? To speak simply as it appears to me, part from him. These narrations of Herodotus the victories ascribed to Cyaxares and Halymay, every one of them, be true; though attes over these warlike people, were not not in such order of time, as he hath mar- obtained against the whole body of their shalled them. For Psammiticus was dead be- Army, but were the defeatures of some fore Cyaxares began to reign: and Cyaxares troops that insested their several Kingdoms; had spent half of his forty years, ere Halyat- other Princes, and among these Nabulassar tes was King of Lydia, so that he could not, having the like success, when the pleasures of after those Lydian Wars, reign eight and Asia had mollified the courages of these hartwenty years together with the Scythians. dy Northern Lads. Wherefore we may pro-It istrue, that Eufebius doth also call Psammis bably annex the eight and twenty years of the son of Pharao Neco, by the name of Pfam- the Scythians rule, to as many almost the last miticus; and this King Psammis may, by of Nabulassar's Reign, in compass whereof some strained conjecture, be thought to have their power was at the greatest. This is all been he that met with the Septhians: for he that I can fay of the time, wherein Asia suffer-with the cause of their Journey.

[]. II.

Ouching the expedition it felf, Herodotus tells us, that the Cimmerians being those memorials which I find of this expedi- driven out of their Country by the Scythition scattered in divers places: a work ne- ans, invaded and wasted some part of Asia; ceffary, for that the greatness of this action and that the Scythians, not contented with was such, as ought not to be omitted in ge- having won the land of the Cimmerians, did follow them, I know not why, into far | This is certain, that both the Amazons and removed quarters of the World, so (as it the Cimmerii (who in after times were calwere by chance) falling upon Media and E- led Cimbri) did often break into Greece and gypt, in this pursuit of men that were gone Asia; which though it be not in express another way into Lydia. Hereby we may ga-terms written, that they did with joynt-forther that the Cimmerians were an odious and ces, yet feeing they invaded the felf-fame base people; the Scythians, as mischievous places, it may well be gathered, that they and foolish; or else Herodotus, and some o- were companions. One journey of the Amather of his Country men, great flanderers of zons into Greece, mentioned also by Eusebius. those, by whom their Nation had been bea- was by the streights of the Cimmerians, as we of divers Nations, that the malice of the acknowledgeth to be fabulous, doth report Greeks is infusficient to stain them with the them to have been Wives of the scythians, note of Cowards. These were the posterity and no less War-like than their Husbands; of Gomer, who peopled the greatest part of alledging the example of that Queen who our Western World; and whose re-flow is said to have slain the great Persian Cyrus. did overwhelm no small portion of Greece That it was the manner of the Cimbri to carand Asia, as well before and after, as in the age ry their Wives along with them to the wars; whereof we do now entreat. He that would and how desperate the courage was of those more largely inform himself of their origi- Women; the terrible descent of them into nal and actions may peruse Goropius Becanus Italy, when Marius the Roman overthrew his Amazonica, of many things in which them, gives proof sufficient. I will not here Book, that may be verified, which the learn-enter into a discourse of the Amazons 5 anoed Ortelius is said to have spoken of all Go- ther place will give me better leisure to ropius his works, that it is easie to laugh at speak of them: but seeing that they are nothem, but hard to consute them: There we ted by divers Historians to have belonged thorites as are not lightly to be regarded, to the Sarmatians, we may therefore the bettians, were all of one Linage and Nation; these three Nations were one, at least that howfoever diftinguished in name, by reason they were near alies. of their divers tribes, professions, or perhaps | Now as concerning the expulsion of the dialect of speech. Homer indeed hath menti- Cimmerians by the Scythians, it appears to on of the Cimmerians; whose Country whe- have been none other than the sending of a ther he placeth in the West, as near unto the Colony of them forth into Asia, with an Ar-Ocean and bounds of the Earth, or in the my of Scythians to help them, in purchasing North, as being far from the Sun, and cover-ed with eternal darkness; certain it is that

The Sarmatians also were companions he would have them near neighbours to in this journey. For the City of Novogradin Hell: for he had the same quarrel to them Russia (which Country is the same that was Amazons, together invaded Afia.

ten, and Ionia, more than once, grievoully find in Diodore, who further tellethus, that Diedle ransackt. The great valour of the Cimmerithe Scythians therein gave them assistance can ramackt. The great valous of the ans or Cimbrians is fo well known, and their The fame Author, before his entry into those many Conquetts fo well testified in Histories discourses of the Amazons, which himself and find it proved, by such arguments and au- unto the Cimmerians, to the Scythians, and that the Cimmerians, Scythians and Sarma- ter approve Goropius his conclusion, That which Herodotus had, and therefore belike called Sarmatia) stood in their way homewould have made them seem a kind of Gob- wards, as shall anon be further shewed. So lins. It was the manner of this great Poet (as that all the North was up in Arms: and Herodotus writing his life affirms ) to infert therefore it is no marvel though many Couninto his Works the names of such as lived in tries felt the weight of this great inundation his own time, making such mention of them, on Such another voyage was that, which the as the good or ill done by them to himself same people made five hundred years and deserved. And for this reason it is proved by more after this, when they were encountred Eustathius, that the Cimmerians were so dif- by the Romans. For they issued from the graced by him, because they had wasted his parts about the Lake Meetis; they were Country. Perhaps that invation of Phrygia by then likewise affisted ( faith Plutarch in the the Amazons, whereof Homer puts a remembrance into Printing the discount of them) by the septimans the interpretation of the printing printing the discount of them. brance into Priamus his difcourfe with Helen, their neighbours; they had in their Army Mental was the very fame, which Eusebius noteth to above three hundred thousand fighting men, have happened somewhat before the age of besides a huge multitude of women and Homer, at what time the Gimmerian; with the children; they wandred over many Countries, beating all down before them; and many, they divided their Company, for the to fray their march: for Iris and Halys they more easie patlage thither, and were confu- had already passed. med in three terrible battels by the Roman What battels were fought between these Confuls. Meer necessity enforced these poor Invaders and the Lydians, and with what va-Nations to trouble the World, in following riable faccess the one or other part wan and fuch hard adventures. For their Country be- loft, I find not written, nor am able to confeing more fruitful of men than of fustenance, cture. This I find, that in the time of Ardis, and that up on the North fide with intolle- the Commerisms got pellellion of streles the sale cold, which denied iffue that way to capital City of Lydia; only the Calile holdtheir over-fwelling multitudes; they were ing out against them. Further I observe, that compelled to discharge upon the South, and whereas Herodotus tells of the acis performby right or wrong to drive others out of ed by Gyges and Ardys Kings of Lydra, before policilion, as having title to all that they had this invalion, and by Halyattes and Crefus in power to get, because they wanted all, that the times following, all that zirdys did aweaker, but more civil, people had. Their gainst the Cimmerians, and all, save burning furdy bodies, patient of hunger, cold, and all the Milefians Corn fields, that was done in hardness, gave them great advantage over twelve years by Sadyattes his fon (who perbours giving them free paffage, that they remembrance in those Wars, but were glad might the sooner be rid of them; others gi- enough that they did lose all. ving them, besides passage, victuals and Certainly the miseries of War are never guides to conduct them to more wealthy fo bitter and many, as when a whole Nation, great prefents; fo as the farther they went labour to root out the cstablished possessions on the more pleasant Lands they found, and of another Land; making room for themthe more effeminate people.

( III. of the Cimmerians War in Lydia.

The first Company of these, communing the analysis which the defendants have; for the most part of Cimmerians, held they need all which the defendants have; the way of the Euxine Seas, which they had their Lands and Cattel, their houses and ftill on the right hand ; leaving on the other their goods, even to the cradles of the suckside, and behind them, the great Mountains ing Infants. The merciles terms of this conof Caucasus. These having patied through the troversie, arm both sides with desperate reso-Land of Colchis, that is now called Mengrelli, lution : feeing the one part must either win. entred the Country of Pontus, and being ar- or perish by famine; the other defend their rived in Paphlagonia, fortified the Promonto- goods, or lofe their lives without redempti-Bird, LA 77, whereon Synope, a famous Haven Town on. Most of the Countries in Europe have of the Greeks, was after built. Here it feems felt examples thereof; and the mighty Emthat they bestowed the weakest and most pire of Rome was overthrown by such inva-unserviceable of their train, together with sions. But our sile of Lritain can best witness the heaviest part of their carriages, under the diversity of Conquests; having by the fome good guard: as drawing near to those happy victory of the Romans, gotten the Regions, in conquest whereof they were to knowledge of all Civil Arts, in exchange of try the utmost hazzard. For in like fort after- liberty, that was but flenderly instructed wards did the Cimbri (of whom I spake even therein before; whereas the issue of the now) dispose of their impediments, leaving Saxon and Danish Wars, was as were the cauthem in a place of strength, where Antwerp ses, quite contrary. For these did not seek now stands, when they drew near unto Gunl, after the Dominion onely, but the entire upon which they determined to adventure possession of the Country, which the Saxons themselves in the purchaser. From sinop, the obtained, but with horrible cruelty, eradicaway unto Phrygia, Lydia, and Ionia, was fair ting all of the British Race, and defacing all and open to the Cimmerians, without any memorial of the ancient inhabitants through finally, thinking to have fetled themselves in ladg of Mountains, or any deep Rivers at all fuch as were accustomed unto a more deli- haps had his hands so full of this business, cate life, and could not be without a thou- that he could turn them to nothing elfe) is fand superfluities. Wherefore most common-quite omatted: whereby it may seem, that ly they prevailed very far; their next neigh- neither of the two did any thing worthy of places, others hiring them to depart with or great part of it, forfaking their own feats, felves, their wives and children. They that fight for the mastery, are pacified with tribute, or with some other services and acknowledgements; which had they been yielded at the first, all had been quiet, and no fword bloudied. But in these migrations, "He first Company of these, consisting the assailants bring so little with them, that the greater part of the Land. But the Danes | Herodotus relates , I find it of little weight, Herodot (who are also of the Cimmerian bloud) and less probability. He tells of Scythians. (who are allo of the (immerian bloud) found fuch end of their enterprize, as it may that being chased out of their Country by faction, came unto Cyaxarer, who committed thians in the higher Asia, did arrive unto. So that by considering the process of the design that the cylinar tongue, and feat of Archery. one, we shall the better conceive the fortune Now it so fell out (faith he) that these seof the other. Many battels the Danes won, thians using much to hunt, and commonly yet none of fuch importance, as sufficed to bringing home somewhat with them, did nemake them absolute Conquerours: Many vertheless other-whiles miss of their game, the Saxons won upon the Danes, yet not so and came home as they went. Hereupon the great, as could drive them quite away, and King being froward and cholerick, bitterly back from hence, after they had gotten firm reviled them; and they, as impatient as he, footing. But in course of time, the long con- killed one of the Boys that was under their tinuance even of utter enmity, had bred fuch charge, whom, dresling like Venison, they acquaintance between them, as bowing the prefented unto him; which done, they fled natures of both these people, made the one unto Halyattes. This Herodotus delivers, as more pliant unto the other. So their difa- the ground of a War that lasted six years grecable qualities, both ill and good, being between the Medes and Lydians; the one reduced in one mild temper, no fmall number of the Danes became peaceable cohabitants with the Saxons in England, where betray fuch men as were become his suppligreat flaughter had made large room; o- ants. To this I will say no more, than that I thers returning home, found their own fee no cause that might induce the Serthians Country wide enough to receive them, as to betake themselves to either of these having diffurthened it felf of many thou- Kings, unto whom their Nation had wrought fands, that were sent to seek their graves a- so much displeasure. Particularly, they broad. And such (as I think) was the end had reason to distrust Cyaxares, for the of the Cimmerian War in Lydia; whereunto treachery that he shewed in the massacring though some victory of Halpattes may have of their Country-men that were in his Kinghastened the conclusion, yet the wearisome dom, of whom it is now meet that we should length of time feems to have done most, in speak. compelling them to defire of reft. I know not why I should fear to add hereunto my further conjecture, which is, that the matter was so compounded between the Cimmerians and Halyattes, that the River of Halys The War of the Scythians in the higher fhould divide their Territories. For Halys was henceforth the border of the Lydians, tween Halyattes and Cyaxares the Mede, hath | scure Nations, where now are the Countries very good reference. For Halyattes (as is of Servan and Georgia, and so they entred insaid) tought in desence of certain Scythians, to Media. The Medes encountred them in upon whom the Median fought revenge. Arms, but were beaten, and thereupon glad And it stands with reason, that the Lydians to come to any agreement with them. This and Cimmerians, being much weakened with was in the time of Phraortes, whilest Pfammimutual flaughters, should have joyned in a tiem reigned in Egypt. If it were in the fixt league of mutual desence for their common year of Nabulassar's Reign over Babylon (supfafety: though otherwise it had been dan-gerous to Halfattes, if he had permitted the otherwise we must allow to Ben Merodach Altedian to extend his Kingdom fo far West-what we take from him ) then do the eight ward, what soever the pretences might be, of and twenty years of their Dominion end, taking revenge upon such as had spoiled one year before the great Nabuchodonofor each of their Countries. As for that occasion was King; so giving him good leave to and on the Eastern side of the River was the Country of the Amazons, that is indeed, of Westerly, along the shores of the Euxine the Cimmerians, and other Scythian people; sea, so the Scythians and Sarmatians took the whose wives and daughters these warlike other way, and having the Castian sea on their left hand, passed between it and Cauca-And hercunto the quarrel ensuing be- Jus, through Albania, Colthene, and other obof the War between these two Kings, which provide securely for the invasion of Syria 5 vet n.ed, as Josephus out of Berofus relates they were pleased with the heat of a Climate

504

§. IV.

CHAP.XXVIII.

the History. Now the Medes desirous to save themselves had at his back a vast wilderness, over the 25 yvell as they might, from this terrible fcorching fands whereof, the Septhians more nation, which when they had no lust to a se- patient of cold and wet, than of the contrary cond trial of the sword, refused not to under- distempers, could ill have endured to purgo the burthen of a Tribute, but thought fue him through unknown ways, had they nothing dilhonourable, that would ferve to fought with him and prevailed, especially remove these troublesome guests into some the Kingdom of Egypt being ready to cuother lodging. On the other part, the sey-tertain him with relief, and them with thians finding still the Countries pleasanter news trouble at the end of their sveary jourand better, the further that they marched in- ney. Wherefore they were content to be into the South, did fuffer themselves to be per- treated & taking in good part his courteeus fwaded, that a little more travail would add offers, returned back to visit their acquaina great deal more to their content. For they tance in the high Countries. The Egyptian relyed so much upon their own valour, that King ( besides that hee preserved his own they feared no reliftance, and being the bra- Estate from a dangerous adventure, by hyrrelt men, they thought it reason that they ing this great Army to depart from him ) thould dwell in the best Region. That Phra- found all his Coast well repayed in the proortes perswaded them into Egypt, I do not cess of his wars in Syria, where the Nations think; Babylon was near enough; whither if beyond Euphrates had no power to molest he could fend these Locusts to graze, then him, being more than ever troubled themflould not his unfriendly Neighbours have felves with the return of their oppreffors. cause to laugh at his misfortune. What shift For the Seythians, resolving novy to seek no Nabulassar made with them, or that at all he further, began to demand more than the trihad any dealings with them, I do not read. bute formerly imposed. And not conten-But it is well known that his Dominions lay ted to fleece the Naturals with grievous exin the middest between Media and Egypt; actions, they presumed to live at discretion upon the Country, taking what they listed them provender.

Southermost border of Palastina: whence he ken from them. never advanced to meet with the Scythians, which expedition he began while his Father much the better, by how much the worfe fo far different from their own. Pfammitieus Tributary; wherefore we may very well from the owners; and many times (as it believe, that they watered their horses in his vvere to save the labour of taking often ) ta-Rivers, and that he also was content to give king all at once. This tyrannous Dominion they long used over the higher Asia, that is, Pfammiticus hearing of their progress (like over the Country lying between the Caspithe jealous Husband of a fair Wife) took an and Red Seas: and between India and care that they might not look upon Egypt. Asia the less. Happy it was for the poor lest the fight thereof should more easily people, that in so large a space of ground, detain them there, than any force or per- there was room enough for these new comers fwasion that he could use would send them otherwise the calamity that fell, as it vvere going. Therefore he met them in Syria, pre- by chance, upon those private men, to whose fuming more on the great gifts which he wealth any Scythian did bear a fancy, would meant to bestow upon them, than on his Ar- have lighted in general upon all at one my that should keep them back: Fgypt was clap, leaving few alive, and none able to rich; and half the riches had not been ill spent relieve their fellowes. Yet it seems that the in faving all. Yet Pfammiticus took the most | heaviest burthen lay upon Media; for it was likely course, whereby to make his part good a fruitfull Countrey, not far from their against them by strong hand, in case they had own home, and lay under a Climate well abeen loobstinate as to refuse all indifferent greeing with the constitution of their bodies composition. For he lay close upon the edge there also it was that they had the fatal of the Wilderness in Gaza (as Itake it) the blow, by which their insolent Rule was ta-

Cyaxares King of the Medes, who in this nered. but gave them leave to feel as much of the extremity was no better than a Rent-gathe- 11. I. scalding Sun-beams, ill agreeing with their rer for the Scythians, perceiving that his temper, as all the length of Syria could beat Land lay unmanured and wafte, through the upon them. When they were come as far as negligence of his people, that vvere out of Ascalon, the next City to Gaza, then did he heart by daily oppressions, and that the allay them with goodly words, accompanied matter could not be remedied by open force with gifts, which were likely to work to refolved to prove what might be done by ftratagem. The managing of the business is wives behind them; a good argument to thus delivered in brief; That he, and his prove that they meant to come again. The this of new forces.

Medes, feasted the better part of the Scythi- Scythian women, to comfort themselves in ans, made them drunk, and flew them; reco- their husbands absence, became bed-fellows vering hereby the possession of all that they to their slaves. These got a lusty brood of youths, that were loth to be troubled with Such another flaughter was committed Fathers-in-law, and therefore prepared to upon the Danes in England; but it was reven- fight with them at their return. If they were ged by their Countrymen, with greater cru- onely the children of flaves, which comelty than ever they had practised before. pounded an Army (as Herodotus would have That the Scythians which escaped this it, who tels us, that the Scythians were wont bloody feast made any stir in Media, I do not to pull out all their bond-mens eyes) it must find; neither do I read that either in revenge needs be that they were very boys, or elle hereof, or upon other pretence, the Medes that the Women did very little while conwere troubled by invasion from Scythia in tinue chast. Wherefore I rather believe that tale as it is told by the Ruffes themselves, This is the more strange, for that the Ar- who agreeing in the rest with the consent of my returning home out of Media, was very Histories, make that report of their Anceftrong & encountred with opposition (as He- stors returning homewards, which I will set rodotus reports it) no less than it had found down, as I find it in Master Doctor Fletcher & of conabroad. Wherefore it may be, that the de- his exact discourse of the Russ Common. vice of Cyaxares to free his Countrey, took mealth. They understood by the may, that their good effect, with less blood-shed than hath Chrolopey, or Bond-slaves, whom they lest at been supposed. For if he surprised all the home, had in their absence possessed their towns, chief of them, it was no hard matter to make lands, houses, wives, and all; At which news bea good composition. Many of them doubtless ing somewhat amazed, and yet disdaining the in eight and twenty years had so well setled Villany of their servants, they made the more themselves, that they were desirous of rest, & speed home, and so not far from Novograd met might be permitted, without any danger, to them in warlike manner marching against remain in the Country ; many (of whom I them. Whereupon advising what was best to be shall speak anon ) having done what they done, they agreed also to set upon them with no could in the business, for which they came other shew of weapon but with their horse with forth, were willing to return home with (which at their manner is, every man rideth what they had gotten; such as were not withal) to put them in remembrance of their serpleased with either of these two courses, vile condition, thereby to terrifie them, & abate might go joyn with the Cimmerians in Lydia, their courage. And so marching on, and lashor feek their fortunes in other Provinces a- ing all together with their whips in their hands, mong their own Companions. Whereas all they gave the onfet; which feemed fo terrible the Families of the North are faid to have in the ears of their Villains, and strook such a been with Nebuchadnezzar, it may be under- sense into them of the smart of the whip, which flood, that a great part of the Scythians, they had felt before, that they fled altogether like upon hope of gain, or defire to keep what | Sheep before the Drivers, In memory of this they had already gained, were content to victory, the Novogradians ever fince have become subject unto Nabulassar ; mens love stamped their Coin (which they call a Dingoe of their wealth being most effectual, in tam- Novogradskoy, currant through all Russia) ing the more unquiet love of inordinate liberty. This is certain, that Nebuchadnezzer, loss in his hand. It may feem, that all the
as ever after, so in his first beginning of war, women of that Country have fared the worse did beat the Egyptians, who in ages forego-ing had been accustomed to deal with the For such a Pudkey or whip, as terrified those Babylonians after another fashion: and this slaves, curiously wrought by her felf, is the new fuccess of that King may be imputed in first present that the Muscovian wife, even regard of human means, to fuch addition as in time of wooing, fends to him that shall be her husband, in token of subjection, being Of the Scythian Army returning out of Me- well affured to feel it often on her own loins. dia, divers authors report a Story, which But this was a Document unto the Scythians, confirms me in the opinion, that this Compa- or rather Samarians (for Novograd stands in ny went forth to affift their kindred and the Country that was called Sarmatia) to befriends, in acquiring a new feat, and establish- ware of absenting themselves any more so ing their plantation. For these had less their long from their wives; which after this, I find not that they did.

CHAP. XXVIII. of the Seythian expedition; not only because with death. Wherefore his Consistutions it is the most memorable act performed a- were soon abrogated, and power given to broad by that Nation, famous in Histories, & Solon by the Athenians, to make new in their retrible to many Countries; but for that it stead. But the Laws of Zaleucus were very appears to have been a great cause of the mild. He forbad any Gentlewoman to walk Egyptians prevailing hitherto in Syria, and abroad with more than one Bond-woman about Judea, which continues yet a while attending on her,unless it were when she was the center of our discourse.

ters of Juda, to avoyd all further occa- ample of justice, that when his own fon had fign of doing the like, I will here infert a committed adultery, and was therefore to note of fuch Kings, and men of mark, as were lose both his eyes, he did not cause him to be between the death of Manasses, and the ruin pardoned, but gave one eye of his own to of Jerusalem. Of the Egyptians, Babylonians, fave the young man (who also lost one) from Medes and Lydians, I have spoken as much as utter blindness. I thought needful. In Rome, Tullus Hoftilius held the Kingdom until the one and twen- der, as hitherto I often have done, in purtieth year of Josias; at which time Ances suing of actions collateral to the History, Martin succeeding, reigned four and twenty for inserting them in their order of time. years, After him L. Tarquinius Priscus, a new- The Chaldeans will soon fall under the Percome stranger, but very rich, prevailed so stans; ere long, encounter with the Greek; far by his graciousness among the people, the Greeks, with the Romans; the Romans, that he got the Kingdom to himfelf, dilap- with many Nations. Concerning all these, as pointing the fons of Ancus, over whom he they shall successively present themselves, in was Tutor. He began in the fourth year of their flourishing Estate, it will be enough Zedekia, and reigned eight and thirty years. to recapitulate the most memorable acci-In this time it was , namely, in the second dents, that befell them in their Minority. year of the thirtieth Olympiad, that the La- But in the long space of more than thirteen cedamonians bethinking them how to be a- hundred years, which passed between venged of the Arcadians, who gave fuccour the calling of Abraham, and the destruction to the Messenians against them in the former war, entred their Territory, took the City in the History of Ifrael had any dealing with her Ghost. Hereby we may perceive, that necessity. the wildom of the Greeks was not excellent in those days, when such a one as this could be admired as excelling all the Coun-

In these times also were Zalencus and Dra-Locrians in Italy, the other in the City of Athens, The Laws of Draco were fo rigorous, whence we have fo far digressed. In co,famous lawgivers, the one among the

Thus much I thought good to fet down blood: for he rewarded every small offence drunk; or to go forth of the Town by night, unless it were to some sweet-hearts bed; or to dress her self up in immodest bravery, unless it were to inveigle a lover. By which of Princes living in divers Countries in these Pleasant ordinances he effected his desires for none would feem, in breaking the Statutes, to be in such case as challenged the dispensa-Aving thus far digressed from the mat- tion. It is noted in this man as a singular ex-

I shall not therefore need so far to wanof Phigalia or Phialia, from whence their other Nations, than the very nearest bor-Garrisons were soon after beaten out. Cypse- derers. Yet read we of many Kingdoms, lus expelling the race of the Bacida, made that in thele many ages were erected and himself Lord of Corimb about these times, thrown down; as likewise many memoraand governed it in peace thirty years; lea- ble acts were performed in Greece and elseving for fuccessour his son Periander, one of where, though not following one another at the feven Sages, but a cruel Tyrant: who a- any near distance; all which must have been mong other vile acts, flew his own wife, and quite omitted, or else reserved unto a very afterwards, as in her honour, ftripped all unleasonable rehearfal, had they not been the Corintbian women stark naked, burning disposed in this method, whereof he that will their apparel, as an acceptable offering to not allow the conveniency, may pardon the

> The oppression of Judæa, and destruction of Jerusalem by the Chaldwans.

that he was faid to have written them with the third year of Jehojakim, Nabnchodonofer the sccond, his Father yet living, entred Ju-dea with a great Army, who besseging and when the Boy was but eight years old. As for forcing Jernalem, made Jekojakim his vassal this rumour of Jehoahaz his return, the Proin delpight of Necho, that nad established phet Jeremy foretold, that it should prove Daniel, being as yet a child, with Ananias, he shall die in the place whither they had led Affact, and Azarias. Allohe took a part of him captive, and shall see this Land no more. the Church treasures; but stayed not to The Egyptians indeed, having spent all their fearch them throughly; for Necho hasted to Mercenary forces, and received that heavy the fuccour of Jehojakim, hoping to find Na- blow at Carchemish, had not remaining such buchodonofor in Judæa: wherein this great proportion of sharp steel, as of fair gold, Babylonian had no disposition to hazard which without other help, is of little effect. himself and his Army, it being a Country of The valour of Necho was not in Planmis Aan evil affection towards him, as also far off pres, who reigning after Psammis, did once from any succour or sure place of retrait. If adventure to shew his face in Syria; but after he had, as may be supposed, any great a big look, he was glad to retire, without strength of Scythian horse-men in his Army, it adventuring the hazard of a battel. Wherewas the more wifely done of him, to fall fore this decaying Nation fought only with back, out of the rough, mountainous, and o-brave words, telling fuch frivolous tales, as ver-hot Country, into places that were more men that mean to do nothing, use, of their even and temperate. But besides all these glorious acts fore passed, against Jose and reasons, the death of his father happening at Jehoahaz. In this case it was easie for Jehothe same time, gave him i at occasion to re- jakim to give them satisfaction, by letting turn home, and take possession of his own them understand the sincerity of his affecti-Kingdom, before he proceeded further in on towards them, which appeared in time the second care, of adding more unto it. following. But Nabuchodonosor went to work This he did at reasonable good essine: for more roundly. He sent a peremptory mestage to Egyptian was not ready to follow him so far, and to bid him battel, until the new upon any nice points, but acknowledge himyear came in; which was the fourth of Je- felf a Subject, and pay him Tribute: adding tory bounding it on the North-side ) attend- would have him. So he continued in the oed the arrival of Necho. There, after a re- bedience of Nabuchodonosor three years. At folved contention for victory, Necho was this time Jeremy the Prophet cried out aflain, and his Army remaining forced to fave gainst the Jews, putting them in mind that it self; which full illit did, by a violent retrait. This victory Nabuchodonosor so well ted them to repentance, but because they

508

him King, and took with him for pledges idle, faying : He shall not return thither, but I'm hojakim, the first of Nabuchodonosor, and the hereunto such fearful threats, as made the Jun. last of Necho. In this year the Babylonian ly- poor Judean lay aside all thoughts of Pha- "thin ing upon the Bank Euphrates ( his own terri- raob, and yield to do, as the more mighty 1) pursucd, as he recovered all syria, and what- had stopt their ears against him, and the rest foever the Egyptians held out of their pro- of the Prophets, he now pronounced their per Tentrory towards the North. The E- captivity at hand, and that they should engyptians being in this conflict beaten, and dure the yoke of bondage full seventy years. altogether for the present discouraged, Je- The same calamity he threatned to all the bojakim held himself quiet, as being friend neighbouring Nations, to the Egyptians, Moain heart unto the Egyptians, yet having bites, Ammonites, Idumeans, and the rest; made his peace with the Chaldean the year foretelling that they should all drink out of before; who contented with fuch profit as the Babylonian Pitcher, the wine of his fury, he could then readily make, had forborn to whom they had forfaken; and after the felay any Tribute upon Juda. But this cool refervedness of Jebojakim, was, on both themselves should taste of the same Cup, and fides, taken in ill part. The Egyptian King be utterly subverted by the Medes, and the Junus Pfammis, who succeeded unto Necho, began to think upon restoring Jehoahan, taken prifoner by his Father, and fetting him up as ment of the Prophet Jeremy feems to have a Domestical Enemy, against his ungrateful been in the fourth year of this Jehojakim, at brother. Against all such accidents, the Ju- which time Baruch the Scribe wrought all dean had prepared the usual remedy pra- his Prophecies out of his mouth, whom he ctifed by his forefathers: for he had made fent to read them unto the People, and afterhis own fon Jechonia King with him long wards to the Princes, who offered them to the King: but fearing the Kings fury, they had first set Jeremy at liberty, and advised of an Illand, that was divided from the him and Baruch to hide themselves.

of the History of the World.

perceived the ill newes therein delivered, no Sea-men; the Tyrians, in multitude of made no more adoe, but did cut the Book goodly Ships, and skill to use them, excelled in peices and cast it into the fire. All which all other Nations; and every wind, from one Gremy caused to be new written with this part or other, brought needfull provisions addition; that the dead body of Jehojakim into the City. Wherefore neither force, nor should be cast out, exposed in the day to famine could greatly hurt the place; wherethe heat, and in the night to the frost, and there should be none of his seed to fit on the nounced against it by Esay, Jeremy, Ezechiel) Throne of David.

rested secure of all danger, as Tributary to determined to performe it. This high-mindthe Babylonian, yet well thought of by the ed King, impatient of refistance, undertook Egyptian; the mighty City of Tyre opposed a vast peice of work, even to fill up the Sea it self against the Chaldean forces, and upon that parted the Island from the Continent. just confidence of her own strength, despi- The City of old Tyrus, that stood opposite fed all preparation that could be made a- to the new, upon the firm Land, and the gainst her. Now forasmuch as the terme of mountain of Lybanus neer adjoining that Jeremy affirmeth in expresse words; and as a great Monarch, finding none that durft domes, that should rule the Earth, before give over till he was master of the Town. the comming of Christ. I will not stand to the feventh of his Reign.

The City of Tyre covered all the ground main, by a deep and broad channell of the Gebojakim, after he heard a part of it, and Sea. The Chaldwans had no Fleet, and were of nevertheleffe the judgments of God(dehad threatned the destruction; & the obsti- Esay 22. Time thus running on, while Jehojakim nate resolution of Nabuchodonofor had fully and the focus of Tibusan or Tribusan seventy years was prescribed unto the de- was loaden with Cedars, and abundance of folation, as well of Tyre, as of Ferusalem, and other trees, might furnish him with materiother towns and countries; it is apparent, als. Thirteen years were spent in this labothat they which referre the expugnation of rious, and almost hopelesse businesse. Which this City unto the nineteenth year of Nabu- needeth not feem strange: for Alexander chodonosor, have sure authority for their war- working upon that foundation which was rant. Whereupon likewise it followes of remaining of Nabuchodonosor's Peere, and benecessity, that the siege thereof began in the ing withall assisted by a strong Fleet, was seventh of his Reign, as having lasted thir- yet seven moneths ere he could make way into the City. Wherefore, if the raging of Here I will take leave to intrude a brief the Sea was able to carry away that wherenote, concerning the feveral beginnings that with Alexander laboured to cover a shelve; are reckoned of this great Prince his Rule, with much more violence could it overturn, whereupon hath rifen much disputation. and as it were consume, the work of Nabu-The third year of Jehojakim, was the last of chodonofor, who laid his foundations in the Nabulassar, who being delivered from other bottom of the deep; striving as it were, to cares, took notice of such as had revolted fill the empty belly of this Cormorant, from him unto Pharao Necho, and fent this whereas the Macedonian did only stop the Noble Prince his fon, with an Army into throat of it. Every man knows, God could Spria, to reclaim them. In this expedition have furthered the accomplishment of his was Daniel carried away, who therefore own threats, against this place (though it had makes mention of the same year. The year not pleased him to use, either Miracle, or Ball next following, being the fourth of Jehoja- fuch of his more immediate weapons, as are kim, was the first of Nebuchadnezzar; which Earthquakes, and the like) by making at least the Seas calm, and adding the favorafrom this we reckon all his time and actions ble concurrance of all second helps. But so that follow. In his three and twentieth year it pleaseth him oftentimes, in chastising the he conquered Egipt; & then began ro reign pride of man, to use the hand of man; even the hand of man striving, as may seem, against offend him. The second from this year it all resistance of nature and sortune. So in was, wherein he faw that vision, of the I- this excessive labour of the Chaldmans, Every mage confifting of fundry Metals, which did bead was made bald, and every shoulder was Ecek 19. prefigurate the succession of great King- made bare. Yet Nabuchodonosor would not

When he was entred upon this desperate dispute about this, which is the best conclulerive; whether it were so, that some losses fion that I find, of long disputations: but re- received, some mutiny in his Army, or (which Joseph turn unto the fiege of Tyre, which began in the feventh of his Reign.

courage to his evill willers; Jehojakim re- ideans that were carried away captive, the nounced his subjection, and began to hope other those that stayed and were destroyed for the contrary of that which quickly fell In the fourth of Zedechias, Jeremy wrote out. For Nabuckodonofor gave him no leifure in a book all the evill that should fall upon to doemuch hurt:but with part of his Army Babylon, which book or ferole he gave to marched directly into Judea, where the a- Sheraiah, when he went with the King Zedemazed King made fo little refiftance (the E- chias to Babylon, to vifit Nabuchodonofor, wilgptians having left him, as it were, in a ling him first to read it to the Captive Jenes; dream) that he entred Jerusalem, and layed and then to bind it to a stone, and cast it into hands on Jehojakim, whom he first bound Euphrates, pronouncing these words: Thus and determined to fend to Babylon, but Shall Bable be drowned, and shall not rife from changing counsell, he cauted him to be flain the evill that I will bring upon her. This in the place, and gave him the sepulchre of journey of Zedechias to Babel is probably an Affe, to be devoured by beafts and rave- thought to have been in a way of visitation, nous birds, according to the former Prophe- carrying some presents. But I further think. cies: leaving in his place Jehojakim or Jecho- that he had some sute there to make, which nias his fons whom after three moneths and his Lordly Mafter refused to grant, and fent ten dayes Nabuchedonofor removed and fent him away discontented. For at his return prisoner to Babylon, with Ezekiel, Mardochaus all the bordering Princes sent Messengers and Holedech, the high Priest. The mother of to him, inciting him (as it feems) to those un-Jechonias, together with his fervants Eunu- quiet courses, from which Jeremy dehorted ches, and all the ablest men, and best Artisi- both him and them. The prophet, by Gods cers of the land, were also then carried away appointment, made bonds and yokes, one of Captives. This Jechonias, following the which he were about his own neck, others counsell of Jeremy the Prophet, made no re-fistance; but submitted himself to the Kings, Ammon, Tyre and Zidon, by those Messens will: wherein he both pleased God, and which came to visit Zedechias: making them did that which was best for himself; know, that if they and the Kings of Juda though at the present it might seem other- abode in the obedience of Babylon, they wife, to fuch as confidered the evill that be- should then possesse and enjoy their own fell him, rather than the greater evill that he countries; if not, they should assuredly perthereby avoided. This onely particular act ish by the fword, by fire and pestilence. of his is recorded, which was good. But it feems that he was partaker at least of his Fa- which as yet remained in Jerusalem, should thers faults, if not an inftigator, which was also travell after the rest, and at length they the cause, that his submitting himself to Gods should be restored again. pleasure did not preserve his Estate: for so we read in generall words, that he did evill phet, took off the woodden Chain which in the fight of the Lord according to all that his Teremy wore in fign of the Captivity of the Father had done. In his stead Nabuchodono- Jews, and brake it: Vaunting, that in like for established Mathania his Uncle in the manner, after two years God would break Kingdom of Inda, and called him Zedechias, the strength of Babel, and the yoke which which is as much to say, as the justice of God. he laid on all Nations; restore Jechonias and For like as Neco King of Egypt had formerly all the Jener, with the Vessels and riches displaced Ieboahaz, after his Father Jostas was of the Temple, and give an end to all these slain, and set up Jehojakim, the son of another troubles. But Jeremy, instead of his woodden mother, so Nabuchodonosor slew Jehojakim, yoke, wore a Coller of yron: and in sign who depended on the Egyptians, and carry- that Ananias had given a deceitfull and falle ing his fon Jechonias Prisoner to Babel, gave hope to the people, he foretold the death of the Kingdom to this Zedechias, that was this cold Prophet, which seized upon him whole Brother to that Jehoahaz, whom Neco in the second Moneth. After this, when Zetook with him into Egypt. From Zedechias dechias had wavered long enough between he required an oath for his faithfull obedi- Faith and Passion, in the eighth year of his ence, which Zedechias gave him, and called reign, he practifed more feriously against the living God to witnesse in the same, that Nabuchodonosor, with his Neighbours the Ehe would remain affured to the Kings of domites, Animonites, Moabites, Tyrians, and

CHAP. XXVIII

He also foretold them, that those Vessels

The same year Ananias, the false Proothers that were promifed great aydes of In the first year of Zedechias, Jeremy saw the Egyptians: in confidence of whose resiand expounded the Vision of the ripe and stance, he determined to shake off the Babyrotten Grapes , the one fignifying those Ju- lonian yoke. Hereof when Nabuchodonofor in the dead of Winter, toward Jerusalem, cam turrem ligneam per circuitum: They furand belieged it. Feremy perswaded Zedechi- rounded the City with woodden Towers, so as to render the City and himself: but being the besieged could neither fally out, nor to Babel, die his naturall death.

Egypt, as if they had already done enough, Wives, Children, Princes, and principal serleaving the poor people of Jerusalem to vants, out of the City, by a way under their destined miseries.

In the mean while the Jewes, who in their people to the merciless fwords of their enefirst extremity had manumised their Hebrew mies. Thus he, who, when Jeremy the Prophet Bond-men (as Gods law required at the perswaded him to render himself, despised liniting, year of Jubile ) and made them free, there- both the counsel of God, and the force of by the better to encourage them to fight; Nabuchodonosor, used now that remedy, did now upon the breaking up of the Chal- which Wolphius truly termeth, Trifte, turpe, & dan Army, repent them of their Charity: infeliz: Woful fhameful, and unfortunate.

For they built Forts against it round about, or with his Children and Princes, he was con-

had knowledge, he marched with his Army ( as P. Martyr hath it ) extruxerunt contra confident of the help from Egypt, and being perfwaded by his Counfellors and falle Property that it was impossible that the king-phets, that it was impossible that the king-phets in the country of the Walls with high Towers raised 6.11. dome of Juda should be extirpate, untill the upon Mounts; from which they did so beat dome of Julia mound be extripate, until the upon Mounts; from which they did to beat comming of $ilo (according to the Prophetupon the Wall with their Engines, that the defendants were compelled to forfake their factors of Julia my, and imprisoned him. For Jeremy had Stations. Now although it were forthat the told the King that the City should be taken besieged also raised Counter-buildings, like and burnt; that the King should not escape, unto these, yet the great King of Babel, who but be taken prisoner, and brought to the commanded all the Regions there-abouts, presence of Nabuchodonosor, that he should and had the Woods and Rivers to obey not perish by the sword, but being carried him, found means to overthrow all the Citi-(zens endeavours; and to beat down as fast Jerusulem being the following year sur- from without, as they raised from within; rounded by Nabuchodonofors Armie; the the body and foundation of his own works King of Egypt, Pharao Hophra, according to being guarded by the Walls of Jerufalem mit King of Egypt, Pharao Hophra, according to being guilt and theirs within, laid open to mit by ferency, (Herodotus calleth him Apries) interposed; and theirs within, laid open to entred the border of Juda with his Army to their enemies disturbance. Besides, both Fasuccour Zedechias, of whose revolt he had mine and Pestilence (which commonly acbeen the principall Author. But Jeremy gave company men straightly besieged ) grew on the Jewes faithfull counsell, willing them fast upon them, whereby, when the number, not to have any trust in the succours of E-strength, and courage of the Jews failed, the sprifor he assured them that they should re-schalaeans made a breach, and forcing an gpp: ior ne anured them that they module them turn again, and in no fort relieve them turn again, and in no fort relieve them turn again, and in no fort relieve them them them to the them the them to the them t and thinking all had been at an end, held By this secret subterrane vault, Zedechias them perforce to their former flavery. But making his stealth, recovered (by the help of the Chaldees being returned to the siege, the the dark night) the Plains or Defarts of Je-Prophet Jeremy, when the state of Jerusalem richo: but by reason of the train that folbegan now to grow to extremity, counfel-lowed him and his (every one leading with led Zedechias to render himself unto them; him those whom they held most dear unto assuring him of his own life, and the safety them) he was easily traced and pursued. How of the City, if he would so do. But his ob- great soever the company was that attenstinate heart conducted him to that wretch- ded on him, yet, as Josephus reports it, they, ed end, which his neglect of God, and his on whose fidelity he most reposed himself, infidelity and perjurie, had provided for no fooner beheld the Chaldeans approach, but they all abandoned his defence, and shif-Three and twenty Moneths ( as some do ted themselves into the Desarts, as they reckon it) or, according to Josephus, eighteen, could. For vvhom God had for faken, no man the Babylonian Army laid before Jerusalem, followed, but the ministers of his vengeance; and held it exceeding straightly besieged, by vvhom Zedechias being made Prisoner, ground; leaving his amazed and guideless think) of Nephtalim, where Nahuchodonofor justice, was therefore reliftlets. The Prophet then lav, as a place indifferent between Je- Jeremy being left to his own choice, either to rusalem and Ire, with both which at once live in Chaldwa, or elsewhere, he made ele-

512

3534

fore Zedechias the many graces and benefits but gave comfort to all the other Jewes that conferred upon him, together with the no- were left under his charge, promifing them table falfhood and perjury, wherewith he favour and liberty, so long as they remained had requited them; he commanded his obedient subjects to Nabuchodonosor, by Children, Princes and Friends to be flain be- whom he was established Provincial Goverfore his face. This being done, to the end | nour of his own Nation. that so lamentable a spectacle should be the last that ever he should behold in the world, he caused his eyes to be torn out of his head, and so carried him in a flavish manner to him into Babylon, and he shall not see it.

Thus in the eleventh and last year of Zeday, he also burnt the Temple of God to the Jews; but Godoliah was incredulous. ground, when it had stood four hundred thirty and one years.

After this upon a fecond fearch, Nabuzara-2 Kis. uls. dan (not yet fatiated with blood) comman- could to the Ammonites) the refidue of the ded seventy and two others to be slaughted red, which had hidden themselves from the red, which had hidden themselves from the resolved to sly away into Egypi, and belought first fury, to wit, the chief, and the second Jeremy to ask counsel of God for them: who Priest, two Commanders of Zedechias his men readily made them answer, that if they reof War, five of his House-hold servants, and mained in Judea, God would provide for others to that number; carrying away to them, and shew them mercy; but if they Submit himself altogether to the Babylonian; the Sepulchre of their own Kings.

veved to Robla or Roblath, a City (as fonce) who being ordained by God to exercise his ction of Godoliah, to whom he was recom-Now after Nabuchodonosor had laid be- mended; who not only embraced Jeremy.

But ere that year was expired, a Prince of the late Kings house (who during the siege of Jerusalem, had kept himself out of the ftorm, with Baalis King of the Ammonites ) Babel, where he confumed the rest of his being followed by ten other chosen men. wretched life in perpetual imprisonment, while Godoliah feasted them in Maspha or Herein this most marvellous Prophecy of Mitsa, the C ity of hisresidence, traiteroully Exechiel was performed; Adducam eum in flew him, together with divers Chaldeans and Babyloniam & ipfam non videbit: I will bring Jews that accompanied him. This done he made an escape, and in his way encountering with eighty persons, repairing towards Gododechias, which was the eighteenth of Nabu- liah with presents, he slew the most of them, chodono for, the Chaldeans entred the City by and spared the rest, because they promised force, where sparing no sex nor age, they to discover unto him some Treasures hidden committed all to the fword that they there- in the fields during the war. He also took with him a Daughter of Zedechias, committed In the next year following, Nabuzaradan to the care of Godoliah by Nabuchodonosor. General of the Army, burnt the Kings Pa- This practice and intent of Ismael had been lace, and the rest of ferusalem: and after this formerly discovered unto Godoliah by Johafire had lasted from the seventh to the teuth nan, one of the Leaders of the few remaining Judea being now left without a Governour (for Ismael durst not take it upon him, but retired himself, or rather fled as fast as he Babylon the ablest of the people throughout sought to fave themselves in Egypt, that they all Judga; and leaving the poorest labour-should then undoubtedly perish. Notwithing fouls, with some that followed the party standing this advice, the Jews held their deof Nabuchodonosor, to till the ground : over termination ; and despising the Oracle of whom he left Governour, Godoliah the Ne- God, and conftraining Jeremy and Barnch to phew of that Saphan, whom Josias had for- accompany them, they travelled into Egypt, merly employed in the reformation of Re- and inhabited by the permission of Pharao, ligion, who is, for his justice and equity, by neer unto Taphnes: where when Jeremy often Josephus highly commended. This man, a Jew reprehended them for their Idolatry, foreby Nation, left Zedechias, as it seemeth, in the telling both the destruction of themselves, beginning of the War: and by Jeremies de- and the Egyptians, also, he was by these his fire to live with him, it appeareth that he own hard-hearted and ungrateful Countryhad embraced the same advice which the men, stoned to death; and by the Egyptians, Prophet gave unto Zedechias; which was, to who greatly reverenced him, buried neer

THE

FIRST PART THE # STORY

OF THE

R L

Intreating of the Times from the Destruction of ferusalem, to the Time of PHILIP of MACEDON.

THE THIRD BOOK.

CHAP. I.

Of the Time passing between the Destruction of Jerusalem, and the fall of the Affyrian Empire.

Of the Connexion of Sacred and Prophane History.

Olympiads, and in the Eastern Countries by of fabulous discourse derived unto us. I hold the accompt from Nabonassar, left surer it now convenient, briefly to shew, by what marks, and more appliable to actions con- means and circumstances the History of the current, than were the War of Troy, or any Hebrews, which of all other is the most another token of former date; begins at cient, may be conjoyned with the followlength in the ruine of Jerusalem, to disco- ing times, wherein that Image of fundry ver the connexion of antiquity fore-spent, metals discovered by God unto Nebuchadwith the story of succeeding Ages. Mani-nezzar, did reign over the earth, when Iffest it is, that the original and progress of rael was either none, or an unregarded Nathings could ill be fought in those that were tion.

HE course of time, which lignorant of the first Creation: as likewise in prophane Histories that the affairs of Kingdoms and Empires afmight rather be discern- terwards grown up, are not to be found ed through the greatest among those that have now no state nor popart of its way hitherto licy remaining of their own, Having therepassed, in some out-worn fore pursued the history of the World unto foot-steps, than in any that age, from whence the memory of sucbeaten path, having once in Greece by the ceeding accidents is with little interruption upon those authorities which give, as it were unto the latest years of the World through by hear-fay, a certain year of some old Affy- any story, with least interruption; it is very rian King unto some action or event, where- expedient that we take some pains to inform of the time is found expressed in Scripture: our selves truly of the Seventy years during for together with the end of Ninus his line which it continued, even from Nebuchadin Sardanapalus, if not before, all fuch com- nezzar unto Cyrus. putations were blotted out; the fuccession of Belockus and his Islue that occupied the Kingdom afterwards, depending upon the uncertain relations of fuch as were neither A brief rehearfal of two Opinions touching the constant in assigning the years of his begining, nor of credit enough for others to relve upon. Let it therefore suffice that the confent and harmony which some have found in the years of those over-worn Moparchs, doth preferve their names, which otherwise might have been forgotten. Now concerning the latter Kings of that Nation, howfoever it be true that we find the names of all, or most of them in Scriptures, which are recorded by prophane Historians, yet hereby could we only learn in what Age under Zedekias. This they prove out of dieach of them lived, but not in what year vers places in Ezckiel, especially out of the his reign began or ended, were it not that the reign of Nebuchadnezzar is more precifely applyed to the times of Jehojakim and Zedekias. Hence have we the first light whereby to discover the means of conne- five and twentieth year of our being in Capticting the facred and prophane Histories. For vity, in the beginning of the year, in the tenth "... under Nebuchadnezzar was the beginning of the Captivity of Judab, which ended when that the City was smitten. In which words feventy years were expired; and these se- he beginneth the Captivity in plain terms, venty years took end at the first of corus, eleven years before the City was destroyed. whole time being well known, affords us Beroaldus is of opinion, that it began in the means of looking back into the Ages past, first of Nabuchodonosor, and the fourth of and forwards into the race of men fucceed- | Joakim; which he endeavours to prove out ing. The first year of cyrus his reign in of the second of Chronicles, but more espe-Persia, by general consent, is joyned with cially out of Saint Matthew, and Daniel, the first year of the 55 Olympiad; where, that | whose words afford matter of disputation, he reigned three and twenty years before but ferve not to make good fo much as Behis Monarchy, and feven years afterwards, roaldus would enforce. That place of Saint it is apparent, and almost out of controver- Matthew, and the whole Book of Daniel Olympiad by Iphilus; we may casily arrive standing how the Sons of King Joses were unto those antiquities of Greece, which were called by divers names, as Epiphanius hath ved faith and industry.

Ttt

Finis Libri secundi.

Herein

514

reckoned unto Alexander, and from him to the battell of Actium, it were (peradventure) in this place impertinent to fet down. But bred by Daniel, were written long after his feeing that the beginning and end of the Ba- death, and at, or near the time of Antiochus

Herein I do not hold it needfull to infift are chiefly directed, in passing from the first

ø. II.

beginning of the Captivity: with an answer to the cavils of Porphyrie, inveighing against St. Matthew and Daniel, upon whom the latter of thefe Opinions is found-

Any Commentators, and other Hiftorians and Chronologers find, that the Captivity then began, when Fechonia was carried prisoner into Babylon; eleven years before the final destruction of Ferusalem fourteenth chapter, where he makes a plain distinction between the beginning of the Captivity, and utter destruction of Jerusalem by Nebuzaradan, in these words ; In the Est. day of the month, in the fourteenth year after fie. Giving therefore four hundred and have ministred occasion of scoffing and eight years unto the distance between the railing at the Christian Religion to that fall of Troy, and the inflauration of the wretched man Porphyrie, who not undernot meerly fabulous. As for Princes ruling shewed at large; thought that the Apostle the whilft in fundry parts of the World, had spoken he knew not what, in reckoning St. Augustine and others may be trusted in the Sons, or, according to some Translations, fetting down their times, which they had the Son, and Nephews of that good King, by Tradition from Authors of well-appro- begotten about the time of the Captivity. Upon Daniel also the same Porphyrie doth From Cyrus forwards, how the times are spend the twelfth of his malicious Books hylonian Captivity, are marks whereby we Epiphanes. This fond supposition of his, ciently answered. For, the Seventy Interpreters, who converted the Old Testament about an hundred years before Epiphanes, ment to confound Porphyrie, than that of in the fifth of John, Christ distributeth the gentt lived divers years before Antiochus Epipha- twelfth, verse the second. Saint Paul desant res. For Jaddus the High Priest shewed scribeth Antichrift, out of Daniel; and the wards Jerusalem to have destroyed it, this Daniels visions. Book of Daniel, wherein he beheld his own glory foretold, as the same was plainly expounded unto him; which not only stayed his hand from the harm of that City and people; but his affurance and resolution was to confirmed and strengthened thereby, as despising all suture peril and resistance, he conquered Darius, and the Eastern Empire, in a shorter time than Nabuchodonofor had done one City, to wit, Tyre in Phanicia.

It is true indeed, that the Jews themselves give less authority to Daniel, than to Moses and the Prophets; accompting his Book among those which they call Cetaphim, or Hagiographa, or holy Writings, which they lay Eldras, and the Seniors of the Synagogue compiled after their return from Babylon. much as is found in the Hebrew) is Canonimel himself, and not by Esdras and the Seniors; we may affure our felves by testimo- tained, that it wants not much of being ny of Councils and Fathers. For in the common. Council of Laodicea, held about the year of our Lord 368. after the death of Fovinian the Emperour, and after the Nicene Council three and forty years, this Book of Da-Daniel, Pfalms, Proverbs, Fob, Canticles, form my good promise towards you, and cause Ruth, Lamentations, Ecclesiastes, Hester, Efra, you to return to this place. Nehemiah; and the Chronicles. And that it But it stands indeed with little reason was Daniel, and not Esdras, that wrote this that we should seek the interpretation of a Book, Gods commandment unto him by his Prophecy out of circumstances, when the

Eulebius, Apollonius, and others, have fuffi- | Angel, to feal up the same to the time appointed, is an unanswerable testimony. Yea, that which exceedeth all strength of other proof, our Saviour Christ, who citeth no did also turn this Book of Daniel out of Apocryphal Scripture, in Matthew and Ma. 14 the brew into Greek, as a part of Scripture Mark alledgeth Daniel the Prophet, to wit, Mark 13. received. And, were there no other argu- the last verse of his ninth Chapter. Further, 14. Alexander Macedon, it were sufficient, who risen from the dead, as in Daniel the Dan 12. that great Conquerour, when he came to- Revelation is wholly an interpretation of

6. III.

That the seventy years of Captivity are to be numbred from the destruction of Jerusalem; not from the migration of Jechoniah.

Aving thus far digressed in maintaining that authority which must often be cited in the present argument, it is now convenient, that we return unto the differences of opinion concerning the beginning of these seventy years. Neither will I stand to trouble my felf and others with laying open the grounds or weakness of that which Eufebius, and some few nameless Authors, have fometimes held in this point, But hift, that the Book of Daniel (I mean fo which is lately revived by Beroaldus ; but will forthwith enter into confideration of cal; fecondly, that it was written by Da- that opinion, which many, both ancient and late Writers, have so earnestly main-

Four Kings of Juda, were carryed away captives to Babylon: First, Manasses ; then Tehojakim, and with him among others, Daniel the Prophet : Thirdly, Jechonias, and niel was received, verified and confirmed with him Ezekiel: Lastly, Zedechias, at among the other Canonical Scriptures, as in which time the City and Temple were dethe Epitomy of the same Council it may be stroyed. To the first of these Captivities, feen; and so doth Meliton the most ancient the beginning of the seventy years is refer-Bishop of Sardis number it, witness Eusebi- red by none that I have read; to the seus in his Ecclefiastical History, the fourth cond, by few, and with weak proof; to the Book, and five and twentieth Chapter: so third, by very many, and with much confidoth the same Author in the Catalogue of dence. For besides those places of Ezekiel Canonical Books upon Origen: so doth Hi- already cited, there is a strong argument larius in his Preface upon the Pfalms, and gathered out of Feremy, which may feem to Epiphanius in his Book of Weights and make the matter plain. For the Prophet, Measures, &c. To these I may add St. Hie- in comforting the people that were carried rom, Gregory Nazianzene, and others. For, away with Jechonias, useth these words: the Hagiographa-Books, or holy Writings, Thus faith the Lord, After seventy years be ac- 161,19.10. the Fews and Rabbines reckon to be these, complished at Babel, I will visit you, and per-

CHAP. I.

Prophecy is fuch as doth sufficiently ex- been more exactly set down, than it was in pound it felf. Jeremy hath already, in the the place now last of all cited. If it be refourth year of Jehojakim, denounced the quifite that we bring more proof in so evijudgement of God against the Land, for the dent a case, the ninth Chapter of Daniel fins and impenitency of that oblimate peo-fins and impenitency of that oblimate peo-let, in these words: Behold, I will fend, and lition of Jeremiah his Prophecy, that Jerutake to me all the families of the North, faith falem was to lye waste seventy years. For the Lord, and Nebuchadnezzar the King of in the first year of Darius the Mede, which Babel, my fervant ; and will bring them was the last of the seventy, Daniel obtained against this Land, and against the Inhabitants of God the deliverance, that had been prothereof, and against all these Nations round mised, by prayer, which he made upon about ; and I will destroy them, and make them | consideration of the time that was expired : an aftonishment, and an hissing, and a conti- as he telleth in these words: In the first year Do. 5. nual desolation. Moreover, I will take from of his reign, I Daniel understood by Books them the voice of mirth, and the voice of glad- the number of the years whereof the Lord had ness; the voice of the Bridegroom, and the Spoken unto Jeremiah the Prophet, that he voice of the Bride; the noise of the mill-stones, would accomplish seventy years in the desoand the light of the candle; and this whole lation of Jerusalem. So that howsoever the Land shall be desolate, and an astonishment, time of Daniel his own Captivity be reckonand these Nations swall serve the King of Babel ed from the taking of Jehojakim, and that feventy years. And when feventy years are the people carryed away with Jechonia, did expired, I will wift the King of Babel. Here accompt, as well they might, the years of we see prescribed unto the Captivity the their own Captivity.; yet with the general term of seventy years: which were to com- desolation of the Country, wherein were mence, neither when the Prophecy was ut- few or none of the Ifraelites left remaining tered; nor when Jehojakim, who then to inhabit, began in the nineteenth year of reigned, was taken by Nebuchadnezzar; nor Nabuchodonofor the great Captivity, which yet in the time of Jechonia: but with the by Gods appointment continued unto the utter desolation of the City, whereof Fere- end of seventy years. my did again give notice to those that were already in Babylon, at such time as he sent the authority of Fosephus and others affirmthem the comfort of deliverance before re- ing the same; for a fmuch as that which alhearfed. And so did the people under- ready hath been produced, is enough to sastand this Prophecy, in those times when tissie any man that hath not fully determinthey faw it accomplished; beginning the ed to hold the contrary. feventy years at the time of the defolation. as manifestly appears in the end of the Hiflory of Juda, where it is faid thus: They burnt the House of God, and brake down the sundry opinions of the Kings which reigned wall of Jerusalem, and burnt all the Palaces in Babylon during the seventy years. thereof with fire, and all the precious veffels thereof to destroy all: and they that were left by the fword, carried he away to Babel, and they were fervants to him, and to his sons, tivity, and how long each of them did wear until the Kingdom of the Persians had rule, to the Diademe, it is a matter of no great imfulfil the Word of the Lord by the mouth of leremiah, until the Land had her fill of her Sabin the first year of Cyrus King of Persia (when the Word of the Lord, spoken by the month of

5:6

This I will not further feek to prove, by

ø. IV.

Hat Kings reigned in Babylon, during their favores. ring these seventy years of the Capportance to know 3 forasmuch as neither their acts were notable in the age wherein baths: for all the dayes that she lay desolate, they lived, northe length of their reigns, The kept Sabbath, to fulfil seventy years. But any way helpful to the concordance of times, foregoing or fucceeding. The conquests, recounted by Xenophon, of Syria, Ara- Xemple (1) Jeremiah, was finished the Lord stirred up the bia (or rather some part of it) Hyrcania, firit of Cyrus. We seldom find one piece Bactria, and perhaps of some other Counof Scripture, so precisely and plainly ex- tries, may seem fruits of the victories obpounded by another as in this Prophecy, tained by Nebuchadnezzar the Great (or by to have afterwards been the subject of al- some of his Ancestors ) in the former part tercation. For one can hardly devise how of his life, before he betook himself to ease, either the Desolation could have been ex- and to the sumptuous building of his great pressed more sensibly, than it was by the Babel, for the house of his Kingdom, and Prophet, or the event of the Prophecy have for the honour of his Majesty, where it may feem that he and his Heirs kept a great ner purpolely teaching the very fame. For frate, and did very little. The idle beha- God, by the mouth of the Prophet, shewviour of the Affrian Souldiers, in fuch skir- ing that he, being abiolute Lord of all, would mithes as afterwards they had with the dilpose of all according to his own will, and Medes, doth argue no less. For, whereas making it known that he had put some under Nebuchadnezzar, they were fo frout Countreys here named, into the hands of they attempted, and finished that hardy tions shall serve him, and his son, and his piece of work, of winning the strong City Sons Son, until the very time of his Land of Tyre, by joyning unto it the Continent, come also; then many Nations and great filling up the deep and broad channel of the Kings shall scrue themselves of him. These Sea, dividing it from the Main with a mole words, expressing the continuance of the or piece of Earth, and other matter; the Chaldean Empire, and number of the Kings, reparation whereof, when the Sea had will hardly be qualified with any diffinctiwashed it away, was the very greatest of on. But indeed I find no other necessity Alexanders works: in the times following, of qualification to be used herein, than such france, offered to charge them.

Now as their actions from the end of nod ... Nebuchadnezzars wars, till the ruin of their Empire, were not worthy to be recorded; so was the distinction of their times, and reign of their feveral Kings, unworthy of the great labour that hath in vain been ta- been thus delivered in Scriptures, but only ken in that business. For when it is granted, set down by some Author of equal credit that the Captivity of Judah, ending with with the rest, might very well have found that Empire, lasted seventy years, we may as reasonably forbear to search into the particular continuance of two or three flothful of the ages of the Patriarchs, and their chilfum.

Yet forafmuch as many have travelled in this business, upon defire (as I take it) to approve the beginning and end of the seventy years, not only by the reigns of other Princes, ruling elsewhere, but by the times of to take a little pains in collecting their opinot be found.

The opinions are many, and greatly repugnant, both in recounting the Kings themselves, and in setting down the years of their several reigns. The first, and (as I take it) the furest, is theirs, who meerly follow borrowing any help from others. These none other, to be their warrant; but the dus, who held it by the election of the Prophecy of Jeremy precifely, and in a man- | Conspirators, and left it unto Cyrus after 17 and industrious, that (to omit other proofs) the King of Babel, faith thus: And all Nat Je 127 7. they became timorous, that they durst not as may grow out of mens defire, to reconcile approach nearer to the Enemy than their the Scriptures unto prophane Authors.

bows would carry, but were ready to turn And this defire were not unjust, if the contheir backs as foon as any, though inferiour fent of all Histories were on the one side, in numbers, adventuring within the di- and the letter of the Holy Text were fingle on the other side. But contrariwife, the Authors which are cited in this case, are so repugnant one to the other, and the proofs of their different reports, are so slender and unsufficient, that the succession of these Princes, had it not and deserved as good belief, as any of those things which they have delivered in this point. For some there are, who following Jos.l. 10. Kings, as we are contented to be ignorant Fosephus, derive that Empire, as by descent, from Father to Son, through five generadren living in the Egyptians servitude; rest- tions, beginning with Nabuchodonosor the ing satisfied in both, with the general assured Great, and giving to him 43 years; to Evilmerodach 18; to Niglifar the Son of Evilmerodach 40; to Labosardach the Son of Niglifar 9 months; and lastly, to Balthasar (whom Josephus intimates to be of the race of Nabuchodonofor, without naming his Father) 17 years. And this opinion (fave that the Affrians themselves; I will not refuse he forbears to reckon the years, and plainly calls Balthafar the Son of Labofardach) nions, and shewing what I think may best Saint Hierom doth follow, alleadging Berosus be held for likely, if the certain truth can- and Josephus as a Sectator of Berosus, for his Authors; though Berofus, as he is cited by Tosephus, report the matter far otherwise. For he tells us, that Evilmerodach the Son Jef. cont. of Nabuchodonosor did reign but two years. Ap. L. I. for his wickedness and lust, slain by his Sisters Husband Niziglissoror, who occupied the authority of the Scriptures, without the Kingdom after him four years, and left it to his own Son Labofardach; who being name only three Kings, Nebuchadnezzar, an ill-conditioned Boy, was at the end of Eulimerodach, and Balthafar; Neither have they only the filence of Daniel, who names him, and the Kingdom given to one NaboniCHAP I

years. This relation ill agrees with that of cially because it is very agreeable to the Josephur, and both of them as bad with the Scriptures, in the taking of Babylon, while Scriptures, in number either of years, or of the King was at his drunken feast. generations; yet the particularities which they handle, have procured unto them cumstances that might give any light in this fome authority; fo that the names which obscurity, I found manifest proof, that the they have inferted, are taken as it were upon time allotted unto Balthafar by Annius his trust. There is a third opinion which makes Metasthenes, was far short of the truth : the three laft Kings Brethren, and Sons of Feilmerodach; and this may well enough agree with the Scripture : though I had rarepad. ib. last King of Babylon was immediate Succesfor to his Father. But whereas the Author of the Scholastical History, who is founder of this opinion, placeth between him that took Jerusalem, and Evilmerodach, another long, that he was forgotten in the Court. it Nabuchodonofor: plain enough it is that he appears plainly, both by the many words hathout of any History facred or prophane, as little warrant to guide him, as we have reason to follow him, Eusebius, Sulpitius, Severus, and Theodoret, upon better ground Nabuchodonofor. This is built on the fifth Chapter of Daniel, wherein Balthafar (for of ry strange conceit; which rather than I Evilmerodach there is none that ever doubted ) is often called Nabuchodonosor his Son. And so common grew this explication, that of Annius his Impostures. St. Hierom called it the vulgar opinion. But the place of leremy before cited, proves and others, many new opinions are framed, that Balthafar was not the Son indeed, but the grand-child of that great Conquerour, though by the phrase very common in Scriptures, and familiar in those Eastern languages, he was called the Son-

518

Annius his Metasthenes hits very rightly the feventy years of Captivity, giving to Nabuchodonosor 45 years, to Evilmerodach 20 years, and to the three Sons of Evilmerodach, Nephews of Nabuchodonofor, fourteen years; that is, to Reg-Affar the eldest Son, three years; to Lab-Affar-Dach the fecond Son, fix years; and to Balthafar the third Son, five.

To this accompt agreeing with the Scriptures, both in the whole fum of years, and in the number of generations, I have fometime subscribed; as not daring to reject this fort. They say, that the 18 years given an appearance of truth, upon no greater to him by Josephus in the tenth of his Antireason, than because the Author was of quities, should be read and numbred 28 Annius his edition. Yet could I not satisfie years; and the two years that Berosus hath my self herein; both for that none of the allowed to Evilmerodach, should be written Ancient, and few such of the Modern Writers as deserve to be regarded, have confented with this Metasthenes; and for that in ter there should have been added the figure making Baltbasar succeed unto his Brother of (3) to that of (2): this granted (to wit) in the Kingdom, and not unto his Father, he that Evilmerodach reigned 28 years, whereis wholly against Xenophon, whose History of five together with his Father, and 23 afof the elder Cyrus in his Affyrian war I can- ter his death, and the same number of 23 ad-

Seeking therefore diligently into all cirwhich is enough to render all suspected that he hath faid in distributing what part of the feventy years he pleafed among the reft. For Danking Nenoth, Co. ther believe Xenophon, who faith, that the in the third year of Balthafar, Daniel faw a 6 :: Vision, after which he was sick certain days; but when he rose up, he did the Kings business: from which business, that he did afterwards withdraw himfelf, and live retired fo which the old Queen used to set out his sufficiency, and by the Kings asking of him, when he came into his prefence, whether he were Daniel. Now to think that a man of Director have supposed, that Evilmerodach and Bal-such account and place as Daniel had held, th thas a were brethren and Sons of the great could in two years have been worn out of th and th that th are th and th that th is the supposed by the supposed th in the supposed th in the supposed th is the supposed th in the supposed th in the supposed th is the supposed th in the supposed th in the supposed th in the supposed th is the supposed th in the supposed thremembrance, were in my judgment a vewould entertain, I can well be contented to think the whole story (thus related) a part

Out of these reports of Tosephus, Berofus, by conjectures of late Writers. For the endurance of the Captivity being 70 years, and these years extending unto the first of Cyrus, in which course of time Nebuchadnezzar, his Son and Grand-child, must have reigned; it hath feemed needfull to supply the years of these three descents, by inserting some, whose reigns might fill up the whole continuance of the Captivity; with which the time allotted by Berofus and others, to Evilmerodach and Balthafar, joyned unto the years following the nineteen of Nebuchadnezzar, (wherein Jerusalem was laid desolate ) are nothing even.

Therefore Mercator and others following him, fashion the years of Evilmerodach in 23. In the first number the figure of (1) is mistaken for the figure of (2) and in the latnot flightly value in many respects, and espe- ded to the 25 which Nabuchodonosor lived then 4 years of Niglisar, according to Bero- lent by God, whose commandment he had fus, nine months of Labassardach his Son, and obeyed in yielding himself to Nebuchadnez-17 years of Labonidus or Balthasar, make up zar. Indeed how long Jechonia did live, it the number of seventy years to the first of cannot be proved; but plain it is hereby, Grue. But whether by errour in figures, that all his remaining days he did eat bread or in words, the numbers be utterly mifta- before this King. Now that he lived not fo ken in all Copies extant; upon how weak a short a while after this as two years, it is foundation do they build, who having no more than likely; for he was but 55 years thing to help them, fave only the bare when he was fet at liberty, having been 27 names of two unknown Kings, found in Au- years in the prison, whereinto he was cast at thors manifestly corrupted, and such as, if the age of 18 years; after which time it they had been entirely extant, were not feems plain that he begat Salathiel, as well worthy to have the place of Jeremy called by the age of Zerobabel, who is faid to have into dispute, in regard of their authority?

ø. V.

A more particular examination of one opinion touching the number, persons, and reigns of the Babylonian Kings.

Ther suppositions, little different in hibstance from this of Mercator, I purpolely forbear to rehearle, as falling under the same answer. That of Joseph Scaliger I may not forget, as deferving to be considered apart from the rest. He gives to Nebufrom the 19 of Nebuchadnezzar, in which Cyrus, he accounted only 59 years; beginfooner, from the transportation of Jechonia. of him to pass it over with filence. But hereof enough hath been faid already, lous.

zars reign, I shall hereafter upon better oc- man (for it highly commends his diligence casion deliver my opinion. The time which and judgement, that he was not so wedded he gives to Evilmerodach is very short, and to any Author, as affected with the love of more precifely agreeing with Berofus than truth) but to shew that he himself, having in with the Scriptures. For we find in Jeremy, some points dilliked those Writers, whom in that this Evilmerodach in the first of his general heapproveth, might with greater reign, shewing all favour to Jechonia, did, reason have wholly reformed them by the among other things, take order for him at Scriptures, wherein can be no errour. Two his table; and that he did continually eat things there are which chiefly did breed or bread before him all the days of his life. His confirm this opinion in Scaliger, that he 1031233, Portion was a continual portion given him whom Berofus calls Nabonidus, was the fame of the King of Babel, every day a certain, all whom Daniel had called Darius of the the days of his life until he died. The very Medes : First, the phrase of Scripture, found of these words ( which is more to be | which fignifies unto us, that Darius took the esteemed than the authority of Berofus, were Kingdom, not saying that he wann it by he perfectly extant ) imports a farr longer force of arms: Secondly, a fragment of Me-

after the destruction of Jerufalem, make 48. | der this gentle Prince, enjoyed the comfort been but a young man, and one of Darius his Pages, threefcore years after this, as by other circumstances of his imprisonmene it

Of Belfazer, to whom Scaliger gives the next five years, naming him also Laborosoardoch, I thould wonder why he calls him Nebuchadnezzars daughter's fon, were it not that herein I find him very careful to help out Berofus by thifting in his Niriglifforoor, as husband to Nebuchadnezzars daughter, and Protector of his son four of these years; by which means there remains about one year to Belfazer alone, agreeing nearly with the chadnezzar 44 years, to Evilmerodach two, nine months affigned by Berosus to the son to Belfazer 5. and to Nabonidus 17. So that of Niglifar. But Jeremy hath told us, that it was to Nebuchadnezzar, and to his fon, and Fernsalem was destroyed, unto the time of to his sons son (not to his daughters son) that the Empire was promised: which difficulty, ing (as many do) the Captivity 11 years if Scaliger could not help, it was well done

Nabonidus the last of these, whom others That which we are now to consider, is his (desirous to reconcile Berosus to the Scripdistribution of the time running between tures) have judged to be all one with Balthe 19 of Nebuchadnezzar, and the fall of thasar, is by Scaliger thought to be Darius of the Chaldaan Empire: wherein if he have the Medes. But herein Scaliger is no firm Beerred, then is all further inquisition frivo- rosan: for Berosus makes him of the same stock or race, a Babylonian. I speak not this Concerning the length of Nebuchadnez- to disgrace the travel of that most learned time than two years, wherein Jechonia, un- gafthenes found in Eusebius, wherein this Naword of the Original, or of the Greek tran- as Joseph scaliger, would overshoot himself. flation, which, expressing no force of arms, in letting down repugnancies. doth only fignific that Darius took or re- It now remaineth to examine the agreeceived the Kingdom; I fee no reason why we ment of this with the Scriptures, from which should thereupon inferr, that the next King there is no appeal. And herein it seems that entred by Election: feeing Daniel relateth Scaliger, well knowing his own fufficiency, not the means and circumfrances of Ealtha-farr death, but only the fwift accomplith-would frame Arguments against him. For ment of his own Prophecy. Neither could it if the Prophecy of Daniel were true, that indeed have properly been faid (if Daniel the Kingdom of Balthafar was divided, and had cared to use the most expressive terms) given to the Medes and Perstans; either we that Darius of the Medes, breaking into the must think that Darius of the Medes was City, did win the Kingdom; feeing this was not Nabonidus, or else we must bethink our performed by Cyrus in the absence of Darius, selves what Persian it might be that shared though by his forces, and to his use. Now the Kingdom with him. For it is not more concerning the fragment of Megasthenes, true certain, that Balthasar lost his life and Kingit is, that in Engebius his works Printed at dom, then that his Kingdom was divided East, in the year 1559. I find only thus much and given to the Medes and Persians. Neiof Megalthenes, cited out of Alpheens; That ther did the Medes and Perfians fall out and Naturchodonofor was more valiant then Her- fight for it, as, by supposing Nationidus to cules; that he subdued all Lybia, and the have been Darius, they should be thought rest of Asia, as far as to the Armenians; and to have done; but these two Nations did that, as the Chaldwans report, being return- compound the body of that Empire, and ed into his Kingdom, and rapt with a divine were accounted as Lords over all the subject fury, he cryed with a loud voice: O Baby- Provinces; insomuch that the Greek Histolonians, I foretell ye of a great calamity that rians did commonly call those wars which shall come upon you, which neither Bell, nor Darius, and after him Xerxes, made upon upon you: and that, this and the like when fembles that King, with whom Alexander I do hold it neither true nor probable.

less; and am as little moved with the auan As) by which he calleth Cyrus, makes me to suspect the fable, as cunningly forged out of Apollo his Oracle, wherein he termeth him noble on the Mothers fide than on the Faprincipal foundations whereon this opinion is built. As for the concinnity and coherence which it had within in felf, I eafily al-boniclus is called the Median. Touching the 160 judicious, industrious, and deeply learned

any of the gods thall avert : There will come Greece, The wars of the Medes. Yea, to a Persian, half an AB, that shall bring slavery clear this point, even Daniel himself re-Danking he had spoken, he vanished. Of all this I fought, unto a Ramm with two horns, calbelieve little or nothing, faving that Nabu- ling him the King of the Medes and Persians. chodonofor knew before-hand, that his Em- | Wherefore the whole Nation of Chronolopire should be translated, as Daniel had fore- gers were not to have been condemned by told, from the golden head, to the filver Joseph scaliger, for maintaining upon such breast. But that he wan all Africa or Lybia, good grounds, that Darius of the Medes was partner with Cyrus, in his victories, and If Scaligers Copy of Eusebius were the not a Chaldean King by him subdued. Neimore perfect, out of which Megasthenes tells ther was Fosephus to be the less regarded, us, that Nabuchodonosor wan both Africk and tor affirming that Balthasar was destroyed Spain, I believe the fragment so much the by Darius of the Medes, and his Nephew Cyrus; though herein he varied from Berothority of it, where it calls a Median, the firs and others, whose authority elsewhere pride and confidence of the Affyrians; as he gladly citeth. For Fosephus had no reawhere it tells of Nebuchadnezzar his own va- fon to believe any mans faith or knowledge nishing away. Indeed that same title (of half of those times half so well as Daniels, whom I believe that he understood as far as was needful in this case. Lawful it was for him to alleadge all Authors that had any mention, a Mule, because his parentage was more though unperfect, of the same things that were contained in the writings of the Jews, thers; as Mules are begotten by Affes upon to whose Histories thereby he procured re-Mures. And thus much in answer of the two putation in the Roman world, where they were strangers, and might seem fabulous. Even so do Eusebius and other Writers willingly embrace the testimonies of Heathen low it. But this proves nothing; for meer books making for the truth in some partifictions have not wanted these commenda- culars ; yet will they not therefore be tryed tions: neither can any man believe that one in general by the felf-same Ethnick PhilosoCHAP. I. thenbeen very great.

ø. VI.

What may be held as probable of the Persons and Times of Nabuchodonofor his successors.

TT now remains that I freely acknowledge mine own weakness, who cannot find how the seventy years of Captivity are twenty years of the Seventy, that were alto be divided among them which reigned most wholly spent when his Son began to in Eabylon, though I find that the distribu- reign. tion made of them, in fuch wife as already is rehearfed, be ill agreeable to the holy mainder of the seventy years were divided Scriptures. Wherefore I may truly fay with between the Kings ruling in Babylon until Percius, that we ought liberally to pardon the first of Cyrus. A question more difficult (as those whose feet have failed them in the I said before) than greatly needful: the flippery waies of Chronology, wherein both whole fumm being certain, and the diffinlearning and diligence are subject to take a fail at one time or other, by ignorance, for getfulness, or heedles reckoning. Yet will I gerunners, or necessister oning, the wint justly suspect the beginning or end of the the judgement of Lyra and others (holding those only to have reigned over the Chaldation of fome part of them is only conjectural; ant, whose names are found in the Seri- seeing that none who gives any other terms ptures) appears more conformable to reason to their beginning or end, hath refused to and account of time, than any of the other follow both unlikely and desperate con-Sentences or Conjectures before rehearfed. jectures in dividing them. I will therefore Not that I will take upon me to defend Ly- be bold to do as others have done; knowing rahis Conjectures, when he supposeth by well before-hand, that whosoever shall dif-Nightar and Labofardach to be meant the cover my error, must do me the pleasure fame persons which are called in Scriptures (which Loudd rather wish in a case more Evilmerodach and Balthafar (for this can by material) of making me to understand the no good colour be maintained ) but only to truth. flew that the Kings by him cited, are likely to have occupied the whole time of seventy years. First therefore let us consider the reign of Nebuchadnezzar, in whose eighteenth year Jerusalem was taken and fackt,

Most of Writers have given to him 43 shewing by what length of time the Scripures measure him, we shall shew the cer-

has chadnezzar, is joyned with the 11 of Zede- the general confent of all, or the most late writers, interpreting Berofur his Nabonidus, chiasas also that his eighth year, was the first but leave them where they are of 11 years. This is generally agreed upon, against the truth; as Fosephus in this case so that it needs no further proofs: As for the against left Ferojus. And thus much I thought beginning of his successor Evilmerodach, it is meet 10 fay of Scaligers opinion in this was in the leven and thirtieth year of Jechopoint; holding nevertheless in due regard mia his Captivity; so that Nebuchadnezzanihis learning and judgement, which if in some after his eighth year (which was the first of things it had not failed, the miracle had Jechonia his bondage) reigned 35 whole years, and peradventure a good part of the fix and thirtieth, forasmuch as Jechonia was inlarged with fogreat a favour, not until the end of the year. Substracting therefore out of these four and forty, which Nebuchadnezzar's reign did well-near occupy, those eighteen years of his which passed away before the captivity of Juda, and ruin of the City, we have remaining fix and

It is now to be confidered, how the re-

Of the four and forty years remaining in account of Nebuchadnezzar's death, we are to take away the last, which was the first of Darius the Mede, and then having authority good enough to warrant us from blame but in his nineteenth laid utterly defolate. of presumption, in giving us seventeen years to Balthasar, we find left in our hands to beyears of reign, following therein Berofus. Itow upon Evilmerodach fix and twenty years. Of the year belonging unto Darius and some have made it up 45. To dispute the Mede, I have already spoken what I about the certainty were needles: for in thought sufficient, in delivering my opinion of the beginning and continuance of this Captivity. That Balthafar did reign feventeen years, we have the authority of Josephus Manifest it is, that the 19 year of Nebu- before cited in express words: We have also 187 35, year of Jechonia his Captivity; the reign of who reigned fo long, and Ballhafar to have 23. Zettechia occupied all the mean space, being been one. But nothing moved me so much to believe this Tradition, as first those evi-fill written, if some crooked hand, or other dent places in Daniel, shewing that in the mischance not unusual, had omitted the first third year of Balthajar he followed the stroke of the former letter, or added a dash Kings butinefs and yet was forgotten ere the to the latter, which might cause them to end of his reign, (a proof sufficient of no feem not two different figures, but the one few years, palling under this man, especial- a correction of the other, which how it Iv feeing it is no where found that Daniels could be supposed in & standing for 23. I employments took end either that year or do not well perceive. As for the Arithmethe next. ) Secondly, the confideration of tical figures now in ufe, they were long after Cirus his wars against the Affrians, which the time of Josephus brought in by the Arabeginning with the death of this mans Fa- bians, and therefore do not appertain unto ther, and being alwayes prosperous, could this business; unless we should guess that hardly have occupied any longer time; his works were corrupted in that unlearned though we make large allowance to his age, which following the Saracen-conquest, deeds in the lower Asia, which fell out in was little occupied in the studies of humathe mid-way: I have already shewed, that nity, but in a fort wholly given over to the there appears in the Scriptures likelihood doctrine of Aristotle. If this will serve to smough to make it credible, that the reign make Berofus our friend to let it be 3 If not. of Evilmerodach was not flort, and that men I will not purchase the favour of his authoof great judgement have found it most pro- rity, by for taking Jeremy and Daniel when bable, that he was a King three and twenty they feem to be his Opposites. years. More, I think, they would have allowed him, had not the defire of fatisfying Berofus caused them to rest content with this. And furely it were greatly to be wish- of the Victories which Nabuchodonosor obed, that Books of fuch antiquity, as those of Berofus, were extant without corruption ; a great light (no doubt) they would vield in many dark paffages of Antiquity. I will vet confess, that were his works never so excellent, and in all things elfe unquestionably lonian Kings, few have written, or little is true, I would not therefore condescend un- remaining in record. Which may peradto him in some one point, wherein the Scri- venture have been some cause that the time ptures were his open enemy: How much it felf was, and is yet, fought to be abridglets ought I obey a broken fragment of his, ed, as not having left sufficient matter to containing only feven or eight lines, and witness the length of it. But by such an arpart even of the title corrupted, as they be- gument we might as well deny to many lieve that follow him in the rest? The Scri- people even their Being. For every Nation it, we find not Expressed; yet would we time, than spent it. It is therefore no margladly know it of Berofus, or of any other |vel, if the posterity of Nabuchodonofor, findin the true Copy, and might be altered, as great and mighty City of Jerusalem, he en-

ø. VII.

tained between the destruction of Jerusalem. and conquest of Egypt.

Ith what actions this time of seventy years was entertained by the Babyptures have told us, that God gave the Em- (I know not whom I should except ) between Justice pire to Nebuchadnezzar, to his Son, and to the beginning and last end of it, hath in his Sons Son: How long each of them held fome flothful age rather dreamt away the rhat would teachus provided alwaies, that helping us in a particularity, he destroyed not thereby the general truth. More words are needles. It is enough to say with others, that Berosu, or Fospha who cited him, hath been wronged by the carelesses, which knew how to enjoy, than that of their sounds. of Scribes; and that it was as easie for those Ancestors, which wearied away their daies Scribes to err in writing two for fix and in the restless travel of purchasing: Though twenty, as for three and twenty, or perhaps indeed the reign of Nabuchodonosor was io more easie. For, the omission of the second divided, that hisyouthful and stronger figure, was as likely the one way as the years having been exercised in victorious other; and the Character 5, fignifying 6, arms, no small part of his life was remaining hath a nearer refemblance of & that stands to be spent in establishing what was gotten, for 2, than hath 2 which isused for 3. So and gathering the fruit of his worthy lathat the numeral notes $5, expressing 26, bours past. The nineteenth year of his were not fafe enough from being miltaken reign it was, when destroying utterly the joyning Regions, which God had exposed invincible. noto his fword, and commanded to wear The destruction of these two great and his yoke; namely, the Edomites, Modbites, powerful Cities, having made the name of Ammonites, Tyrians, Sydonians, and Egypti- the Chaldwans dreadful in the cars of all the mis though some of these were already be- Nations thereabout, Nabuckodonosor used come his followers, and ferved under him, the advantage of that reputation which he when ferufalem was beaten down and burnt. had obtained by victories already gotten, But the Tyrians, whose City was founded on to the getting of more, and more profitable, an Illand, fafe enough from any danger of a with less pain. The Kingdom of Egypt was Land-army, and whose Fleet was so strong, the Mark at which he aimed; a Country so that they needed not to fear any enemy at abounding in all riches and pleasures, that it Sea, were neither daunted with the fall of might well have tempted any Prince, findtheir neighbour-Cities, nor with the obliting himself ftrong enough, to leck occasion nate resolution of this mighty Prince, im- of quarrel against it; and so far an enemy ploying all his power to their subversion.

that might be in the same quarrel against the Countries adjacent should be reduced the common enemy) it appears by the words unto such terms, that either they should 18:18:1. which Ezekiel condemneth as the common wholly stand at his devotion, or at least be voice of Tyrus; Aha, the gate of the people, is unable to work him any displeasure. And mischief. 1935 Ffay, which appoint unto this desolation of followed the Chaldean Army, to feed upon Isrethe same term of seventy years, that was the carkasses that fell by the cruelty therethe same nineteenth year of Nabuchodonosor, in the same or a very like fortune. The partifield ) were put to the fword; but the like riched himself with abundance of Ipoil, and head was made bald, and every shoulder was terrified all that would offer to relift him, made bare, yet had he no wages, nor his Army ; by that fearful example. From that time but was fain to rest contented with the Hoforward, he, until his three and twentieth nour of having destroyed that City, which year, laboured in the conquest of those ad- in all mens judgements had been held to the Crown of Babylon, that, had it been That the City of Tyre was rather well poorer, yet either it must have been subdupicased, than any way discouraged with ed, or the conquest of Syria could ill have the fall of Jerusalem ( which had held the been established. Nevertheless it was needsame course that Tyrus did, and endured all ful, that before he entred into this business, broken, it is turned unto me; for feeing file is herein the Decree of God concurred, as in desolate, I shall be replenished. Yet at length, all prosperous enterprises, with reason of even in the nineteenth year of Nabuchodono- State. For, the people of Moab, Ammon, for, that great work of his, whereof we have Edom, Damaseus, Kedar, Hazar, and other already spoken, began to appear above the adjoyning Regions, whom God for their fins waters, and threaten them with inevitable had condemned to fall under the Babylonian fwords, were such, as regarding only their But those Prophecies of Jeremy and of own gain, had some of them, like Ravens, prescribed unto the reign of the Chaldeans, of; others taking advantage of their neighdo plainly shew, that she followed Fernsalem, bours miseries, occupied the Countries which were by his victories belonging to Nabuchodonofor: all of them thinking, that cularities, which doubtless were memorable when the Assrian had fatisfied his fury, he in the iffue of fo great and laborious a fiege, should be fain to forfake those desolate are in a manner utterly lost. Thus much we parts, and leave the possession of those that find, That the Citizens perceiving the could lay hand upon it. Particularly the Town unable to hold out, embarked them- Edonites and Philiftims had shewed much felves, and fled into the Isle of Cyprus, malice to the Jews when their City was ta- 11. 6 15. Nevertheles, it seems that this evasion served when the principal men, who escaping the Chaldeans, I find not; if they did any, with their goods, abandoned the poorer it is likely to have been with reference to , fort unto the enemies fury. For, not only such people of Tyre as dwelt on the Continent, (who are called her Daughters in the tented to rejoyce at the fall of Jerusalem, but Extl 25.3. presently they entred upon the Country of Jer. 49. 1, execution was done in the streets, into Gad, and took possession; as if not the Assertion which, with excellive labour, the Affgrian rians, but they had subdued Israel. Neither made way for his Horses and Chariots. Thus can I perceive what other ground that pra-Nabuchodonosor caused his Army to serve a ctice had of Bullis King of the Ammonite., great service against Tyrus, wherein every when he sent Ishmael, a Prince of the blood of Juda, to murther Gedalia, whom the was left at his back, that might give impe-King of Babel had left Governour over dimentupon his proceeding, or take advanthose that remained in Ifrael, and to carry tage of any misfortune; then did he forthcaptive into the Ammonites Country the with take in hand the conquest of Egypt people that abode in Mizpah, than a defire himself, upon which those other Nations Toward, of embroiling Nabuchodonofor, with fo many had formerly been depending. Of this Exlabours at once, as flould make him retire pedition, and the victorious issue thereof. into his own Country, and abandon those the three great Prophets Egg, Fermy, and the victorious iffue thereof, the three great Prophets Egg, Fermy, and the victorious iffue thereof, the three great Prophets Egg, Fermy, and the victorious iffue thereof, and the victorious iffue thereof, the interest in the victorious interest in the victorious interest. wasted Lands to himself and others, for Ezekiel, have written so plainly, that I hold whom they lay conveniently. Such or the it altogether needless to look after more like policy the Moubites did exercise, authority, or to cite for proof half of that whose pride and wrath were made frustrate which may be alleadged out of these. Neby God; and their diffimulation condemn- vertheless, we find many and good Authors, ed, as not doing right.

CHAP.

1.: 16.14. night; according to the Prophecies of Fsay, rence with these times or assairs. So pre-Flay, threatning Moab with destruction af- they sought to have maintained. The rethird year following the ruine of Jernsalem; the Kings of Egypt, which reigned about attempt any thing against Nabuchodonosor; which he is said to have made upon Tyrus ty years, which God had prescribed unto death by his own Subjects; who did set up of the Land of Juda.

6. VIII.

relate it othermife.

enemy to himself, nor friend to the Egyptian, by them chosen King. Finally, the whole who following Herodotus and Diodorus &i-All these Nations had the art of ravening, culus, are well contented to strain these which is familiar to fuch as live or border Prophecies with unreasonable diligence upon deforts; and now the time afforded unto fuch a fense, as gives to Nabuchodonosor them occasion to shew the uttermost cun- little more than the honour of having done ning of their theevifh wits. But Nebuchad- Some spoil in Egypt, omitting the conquest of nezz.or did cut afunder all their devices by that Land by the Babylonian, and referring sharp and sudden war, overwhelming them the death of Apries or Hophra to a Chance with unexpected ruine, as it were in one long after following, which had no cohe-Ferens, and Ezekiel, who foretold, with posterous is the delight which many men little difference of words, the greatness and take in the means and second helps condufwiftness of the milery that should come cing to their purpose, that oftentimes they upon them. With which of them he first do preferr the Commentator before the began, I find not; it feems that Moab was Author; and, to uphold a fentence, giving the last which felt his hand : for so do many testimony to one clause, do carelesly overgood Authors interpret the Prophecy of throw the History it self, which thereby ter three years, as having reference to the ports of Herodotus and Diodorus, concerning the next year after it being spent in the these times, are already rehearsed in the Egyptian Expedition. This is manifest, that former Book : but that which they have all the principal Towns in these Regions spoken of Apries, was purposely reserved were burnt, and the people flain, or made unto this place. Herodotus doth affirm, that Hadle flaves, few excepted, who being preferved he was a very fortunate King, but wherein by flight, had not the courage to return to he telleth not; (unless we should undertheir habitations over-haftily, much less to stand that he was victorious in the War, but lived as miterable Out-laws, or at least and sydon) that he reigned five and twenty opprefied wretches, untill the end of feven- years; and was finally taken and put to the desolation of their Countries, as well as Amasis, as King, which prevailed against him. The rebellion of the Egyptians he imputeth to a great loss which they received in an Expedition against the Cyrenians, by whom almost their whole Army was de-That Egypt was conquered, and the King stroyed. This calamity the people of Egypt therein reigning flain by Nabuchodonosor, thought to be well pleasing to their King, contrary to the opinion of most Authors: who had sent them on this dangerous Exwho, following Herodotus and Diodorus, pedition, with a purpose to have them confumed, that so he might with greater security reign over fuch as stayed at home. So Hen by a long course of victory, Na-bnchodonosor had brought into sub-as were slain, rebelled against Apries, who jection all the Nations of Syria, and the fent Amasis to appeale the tumult; but Amabordering Arabians, in such wise, that no sis became Captain of the rebels, and was

Land confented unto this new Election; all the people. Certainly, if that notable and the Itle of Cyprus, and finally perished. were enough (yet not more than enough) to inform us of Apries his history, if greater authority did not contradict it. But the destruction of Egypt by the Babylonian, foretold by the Prophets, which hath no cohe-Greek Historians followed) and greater 10 4,0nly into humane reasons. For Esay prophecied long before of the shameful Captivity coyned upon a vain-glorious purpose of hiof the Egyptians, whom the King of Asbur, men so unable to defend themselves.

whereby Apries was driven to trust unto his place of Jeremy, wherein he foretelleth how forein Mercenaries3the Ionians and Carians, the Fews in Egypt thould fee Pharaoh Hophra Total 20. of whom he kept continually in readiness delivered into the hand of his enemies, as Arth to thirty thousand good Souldiers that fought | Zedekia had been, were to be referred unto valiantly for him, but were at length van- the time of that rebellion, whereof Herodoquished by the great number of the Egypti- tus hath spoken, as the general opinion hath an forces, amounting unto two hundred and over-ruled it; then was it vainly done of fifty thousand, which were all by birth and the same Prophet (which, God forbid that education, men of War. Apries himself be- any Christian should think, seeing he did it ing taken prisoner, was gently entreated by by the appointment of God himse f to hide Amasis for a while, untill the Egyptians, ex- in the clay of a Brick-hill, those very stones, claiming upon him, as an extream enemy to upon which the Throne of Nabuchodonofor the Land, got him delivered into their should be set, and his Pavilion spread. Yea hands, and strangled him, yet they gave then was that Prophecy no other than falle, him honourable burial. Such is the report which expressed the end of Pharach thus: 7- 4/35 of Herodotus, with whom Diodorus Siculus Rehold, I will visit the common people of No. doth neerly agree; telling us, that Aprics did and Pharaoh and Egypt, with their gods, and vanquish the Cyprians and Phanicians in their Kings, even Pharaoh, and all that trust battel at Sea, took by force and demolithed in him: and I will deliver them into the han de sidon, wann the other Towns of Phanicia, of those that feek their lives, and into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babel, as is before rehearled, when he had reign- and into the hands of his ferrants. The ed two and twenty years. This authority clearness of this Prophecy being such as could not but refute that interpretation of many other places, which referred all to the rebellion of Amalis, it caused me to wonder what those Commentators would say to it; who are elsewhere so diligent in sitting all rence with these relations, hath greater to the Greek Historians. Wherefore lookforce to compell our belief, than have the ing upon Junius, who had in another place 200 4 fetraditions of Egyptian Priefts (which the taken the enemies of Pharaob Hopkra to be 236. Amalis and his followers, I found him here probabilities to perswade those that look acknowledging that the Egyptian Priests had notably deluded Herodotus with lyes, ding their own difgrace and bondage. And should carry away naked, young and old, furely, it may well be thought, that the hiin fuch wife, that the Fews, who fled then I ftory of Nebuchadnezzar was better known for deliverance from the Affirian, should be to the Jews, whom it concerned, than to ashamed of their own vain confidence in the Greeks, that scarcely at any time heard of his name. Therefore I fee no cause why But Ezekiel and Jeremy, as their Prophe- we should not rather believe Josephus, recies were nearer to the time of execution, fo | porting that Nabuchodonofor in the three and they handled this argument more precifely. I twentieth year of his reign, and the fifth For Exekiel telleth plainly, that Egypt year of the destruction of fernfalem, did conshould be given to Nebuchadnezzar, as wages | quer Egspt, kill the King thereof, and apfor the service which he had done at Tyre : | point another in his stead, than Herodotus Also he recounteth particularly all the chief or Diodore; who being meer strangers to Cities in Egypt, faying, That these by name this business, had no great reason to labour of should be deftroyed, and go into Captivity; in searching out the truth, but might rest yea, that Pharaoh and all his Army should be contented with any thing that the Priests flain by the fword. Wherefore it must needs | would tell them. Now if setting aside all adbe a violent exposition of these Prophecies, | vantage of authority, we should only consiwhich by applying the issue of such threat- der the relations of Josephus, and of the nings to an infurrection and rebellion, con- Greek Historians, as either of them might cludes all, without any other alteration in be verified of it felf by apparent circumstan-Egypt, than change of the Kings person, ces, without resteding upon the Hebrew wherein Amass did succeed unto Apries, by Prophets, or Egyptian Priests, methinks the force indeed, but by the uniform consent of death of Apries can no way be approved, as having Lean wrought by confent of the fuch as did more enlarge his Dominion, temple but allored great matter of fuffici-than all the former Wars had done, it may easily a thought a man had opposed there-easily be gathered out of Ezekiel, who 1-ms of Heradatas and Diodore. For the reckoneth up in his 3r Chapter (besides great love and honour which the Fostians the whole Country of Fast) Phut and Lud, die bear unto their kings, is notorious by with other Nations, that may feem to have the unitoria reftimony of all others that reached out into Mauritania, as people subhave handled the matters of that Country, dued by this great Babylenian. The circumas well as by the report of Diodore himself. Itances of these Wars are in a manner utterflow then can we think it probable, that ly loft; but that the victory was cafe and Apriles having wonn great victories, did for fwift, any man thall find, who will take the one only lots fall into the hatred of all his pains to conferr the places, wherein the people for which may ferve to perfuade its, three great Prophets touch this Argument. that a King of Fasti would feek, or fe de- Thus much I think worthy of more partimean himself, that he might be thought to cular observation; that Pharaok, who (as is mean manch, that he angue of chought to char observation; that reactions the ketruction of his natural fubjects? As for that Army of thirty thouland four-fiers. Carions and Ionium, which the King of Fopt, woom Analist took prifoner; is fail with the first continued to the continued of the conti to have kept for his defence: Doth it not way clean unto his own doors, by confuming argue that he was a forreiner, and one that all his friends and adherents in Spria. For, armed himself against the Egyptians, wishing as the labour of this business did more harthem few and weak 3 rather then any of the den, than weary the Chaldwan Army 5 fo the Fl. arable, who accounted the force of the confidence and vain fecurity of the Egypti-Country, as affuredly their own, as the ans, relying upon the difficult paffages frength of their own bodies? It were more which the enemy was to make thorow the tedious than any way needful, to use all Ar- Arabian defarts, and the much advantage guments that might be alleadged in this which the great River of Nilus would afcafe. The very death of this supposed Apries, ford unto themselves, did little avail them which the clamours of the people obtained in provision for the War, and much astonish of Amasis, who sought to have kept him them as may justly be thought) in the time alive, doth intimate that he was some forein of execution : it being usually seen, that Governour, not a natural Prince; otherwise the hearts of men fail, when those helps the people would have defired to fave his fuil, in which they had reposed more conlife, and Amasis to take it quickly from him. fidence, than in their own virtue. Hitherto I will not labour any further to disprove the Kingdom of Fgypt had flourished under that opinion, whereunto I should not have the rule of the Pharaohs, about a thousand yielded, though it had stood upon great five hundred and fourfcore years; but from ftory following thall prefent them.

CHAP. I.

How Egypt was Subdued and keld by Nebuchadnezzar.

of Syria, and the Neighbour-Provinces, were whom he found in that Country. Now con-

appearance of truth, confidering that the this time forward it remained forty years voice of truth it felf cries out against it; but | without a King, under the subjection of the leave the circumstances, proving the Con- Babylonians; and then at length it began to quest of Egypt by Nabuchodonosor, to be ob- recover by little and little the former greatferved where due occasion in course of the ness, yet to, that it was never dreadful unto others; God having faid of that people, I will diminish them, that they shall no more Esta rule the Nations. For, whereas it hath been 13.14 faid of Pharach: Lam the Son of the Wife, I take am the Son of the Ancient Kings: And Experience whereas he had vaunted, The River is mine, and I have made it ; the Princes of T is a great los, that the general History Fgjpt now became fools, the River failed of the World hath suffered by the spoil them, the King himself was taken and slain, and waste which Time hath made of those and that ancient linage quite extinguished. Monuments that should have preserved the This came to pass in the first year after the memory of fuch famous actions as were ac- destruction of Jernsalem, and the three and complified by this mighty Prince Nabucho-twentieth of Nebuchadrezzar; at which fight donojor; wherein, whether his Virtue, or time (faith Josephus) He stew the King then fight Fortune were greater, it is now uncertain. reigning, placed another in his room, and car-That his Victories following the Conquest ried Captives thence to Babylon the Jews already thewed, that it is warranted by all which were left by the Affrian for the the Prophecies which infinuate the fame. As guard of his Vice-roy, and cuftody of the mence, imagine that there were two ince-cilively bearing the none of Amafirothers, vifed matter that had no fladow of truth, only to keep the Greek from knowledge of their Nobuchanezzar, the one to by Amafiron aquestion of small importance, because the test of the reguarded, since we know the difference is only about a name, it being truth with them. once granted, that the person mentioned in Scriptures, was deprived of life and Kingdom by the Affirians. Yet for any thing that I can perceive, that Apries, of whom of the fundry accounts drawn from fundry atts the Greek Historians wrote, could not be the Deputy of Nebuchadnezzar, feeing that he was the Grand-child of Pharaoh Necho, and made war (as they report) upon the Phenicians; who were, before the Egyptians, become subject unto the Crown of Babylon.

cerning the time which Fosephus gives unto and Carians, I hold them to be none other cerning the time of the business it felf, I have than the garrifons of mercenary fouldiers hewife the last destruction of Jerusalem, and new subdued Province: as likewise the company returning from Cyrene and Barce, bited the miterable ruins of that great Ci who, together with the friends of fuch at y, which was in the fame three and twen were flain in that Expedition, remembred before out of the Greek Hillorians, deposed hably thought by good Authors to have and flew Apries, I take them to have been heant the return from this Egyptian Expedition. But whereas Tofephus tells us, that their own Country. Sure it is, that this there was another King put in the room Prophecy of Ezekiel was verified; at the robast of spries by Nebuchadnezzar, we must un-lend of forty years will 1 gather the Egyptians 100 und deritand, that he was only a Vice-roy, and from the people where they were scattered, and not (as some have mistaken it ) think that I will bring again the Captivity of Egypt, and this was smafts. For to place the beginning will cause them to return into the Land of Paof Amasis his reign in the three and twen- thros, into the Land of their habitation, and tieth of Nebuchadnezzar, were as well re- they shall be there a small Kingdom. If the pugnant unto the prophecies before al- Egyptian Priests alluded hereunto in the tale leadged, as to all Chronology and Hiltory. which they made of Amalia obtaining the Somethere are, which to help this inconve- Kingdom, then are they to be helped with nience, imagine that there were two fue- this or the like interpretation; if they de-

527

ø. X.

of Nebuchadnezzar, and of the destruction of Ninive, by him; the time of which adion is uncertain.

Hese victories brought the greatness of the Affrian Empire to the full, and I might add, perhaps, that he whom Nebu- from them was reckoned the time of Nebuchadnezzar left as Governour of Egypt, was chadnezzar's reign in fundry places of Scrimore likely to have had some Chaldean or pture. To speak any more of the questions Aljrian, than Egyptian name, unless we arising about the supputation of Nebuchadthould think that he had been a Traitor to nezzar his times, might feem to be the overhis natural Prince, and so rewarded by the handling of one Argument: Yet thus much Conquerour with Lieutenantship of the I will note, that whereas Daniel was car-Country: about which it were but frivo- ried captive in the third year of Jehojakims lous to dispute. Thus much in brief we reign (which ran along with some part of ought to believe, that Nabuchodonoso made Nebuchadnezzar's first year) and was kept an absolute Conquest of Egypt; that he was in diet three years more, before he was not fo foolith as to give it away, any man brought into the Kings presence; It could may gues; that he appointed one to rule not bethe second of Nebuchadnezzar's Kingthe Country, it is confequent unto the for- dom, wherein he interpreted the forgotten D.P. I. 2. mer, and hath authority of Josephus; that dream of the great Image, fore-shewing the his Governour ( or some successor of his) success of Monarchies, but the second of his was afterwards taken and flain by Amasis, Empire. The same or the like may be said Hee probability enough to perswade my of divers places which refer fundry matters felf, and yet can well be content, that others unto their fet years; as that of Ezekiel beuse their liberty, and believe what they list. fore cited, where he fore-tells, that Egypt As for the Army which this Egyptian King should be given in reward for the service Apries is supposed to have kept of Ionians done before Tyrus, dating his Prophecy in

Daniel, placing the erection of the golden bylon, wherewith he pleated himself so well. Image in the eighteenth year : for these that he brake out into those glorious years held no dependance upon either the words: It not this great Babel that I have beginning of Nebuchadrezzar's Kingdom, or built, for the house of the Kingdom, by the table of his Empire, nor yet upon any of the might of my power, and for the honour of m Captivities, but had reference to some me- Majefy? Surely if those things be true that morable actions, omitted in Scripture, and areby Josephus rehearled of him out of Betherefore not casse to be found, nor worth rosus and Megasthenes, he might well delight the labour of uncertain fearch.

after such time as he returned from the Con- laid, That he fortified Babylon with a triple quest of Egypt, I do not read: excepting wall; that, besides other stately works, he that against Nineve, the destudion whereof raised those huge Arches wherewith were was fore-told by the Prophet Nahum. Ni-born up the high Orchards, hanging as it was lote-ton by the long before been taken by Mero-dach (as in due place hath been shewed) Mountains; which most sumptious Prame, and together with the rest of Assiria made that out-lasted all the remainder of the Assiria subject to Babylon. Yet was it left under a Sprian, and all the Persian Empire, is said to peculiar King, who, rebelling against the have been reared, and finished in fifteen Chaldean, as Jebojakim and Zedechias, tridaies. butary Kings of Juda, had done, tasted likewise of the same fortune. That the destru- we find little else recorded, than that ction of Nineve followed the Conquest of (which indeed is most profitable for us to Egypt, it appeareth by the comparison which consider) his over-valuing of his own great-Nahum the Prophet made between this Ci- ness abased him unto a condition inferiour ty, that was to fall, and the City of No in to the poorest of men. And not undeserved-Egypt, that was fallen already. But, how long ly fell these judgments of God upon him. after this came to pass, it is (methinks) im- For, whereas God had honoured him, not poffible to find out. For, whereas it is found only with many victories, and much happiin an Hebrew Chronology, that it was in the ness in his own life, but with a discovery of first of Nebuchadnezzar's reign, the place of things to come after him, yea and had ap-Nahum last cited, it is enough to disprove it. proved the certainty of his dream, by the Whereas it is referred by some unto the first miraculous reducing of it into his memory, of his Monarchy, which began at the end of and interpretation thereof by Daniel the the Egyptian Wars; the whole Prophecy of Prophet; he nevertheless became so forget-Nahum, which went between the one and the ful of God, whose wonderful power he had other, argueth strongly, that there was a feen and acknowledged, that he causeda longer space of time intercurrent. So that golden Image to be set up and worshipped; to enquire into the very year of this destru- ordaining a cruel death as reward unto them ction, or other circumstances of the War, that should dare to disobey his Kingly will whether managed by Nabuchodonofor in per- and pleasure, which was utterly repugnant fon, or by his Lieutenants, were somewhat to the Law of him that is the King of Kings. like unto the vain curiofity of Tiberius Ca- | Hereof St. Hierom hath well noted; Velox far, enquiring who was the Mother of Hecu- oblivio veritatis, ut qui dudum fervum Dei ba; or to the like idle pains which he should quasi Deum adoraverat, nunc statuam sibi fieri take, who would feek to learn what woman jubeat, ut ipfe quast Deus in Statua adorarelikewise did fore-tell.

ø. XI.

Of the latter time of Nebuchadnezzar; bis buildings, madneß, and death.

the feven and twentyeth year; and that of these we may reckon his great works of Bahimself with the contemplation of such Of any War made by Nebuchadnezzar, goodly and magnificent buildings. For it is

But of all this and other his magnificence, that Huzzah Queen of Nineve was, whole tur: A halfy forgetfulness of the truth, that he woful Captivity the same Prophet Nahum who so lately had worshipped (Daniel) the servant of God, as if he had been God himself, Should now command a Statua to be crected unto himself, wherein himself might be worship ped as God. From this impiety it pleased God to reciaim him, by the strange and wonderful delivery of those bleffed Saints out of the fiery furnace; who being thrown F the time which this great Monarch into it bound, for refuling to commit Ido-Ipent in quiet, I think there are no latry, were affisted by an Angel; preserved Monuments extant, fave those which we from all harm of the fire; loosened from find among the Prophefies of Daniel. Among their bands; and finally called out with merhonour, by the King: who amazed at them with a fullen and unfeeling disposition. the miracle, made a decree tending to the Yet as all humane affections, wherein due honour of God, which by erection of his reverence to God is wanting, are no better Image he had violated. Yet this devotion of than obscure clouds hindring the influence Nebuchadnezzar, was not fo rooted in him, of that bleffed Light, which clarifies the foul that it could bring forth fruit answerable to of man, and predisposeth it unto the brighthis hafty zeal. Therefore was he forewarn-ness of eternall felicity; so that insolent joy, ed by God in a dream of the terrible judge- which man in the pride of his vain imaginament hanging over his head, which Daniel tion conceiveth of his own worth, doth ment hanging over his head, which Daniel ton conceiveth of his own worth, doth expounding, advited him to break off his fin above all other passions blatfour minds, as it by righteossips, and his iniquity by mercy to were with lightning, and make us to reslect wards the poor, that there might be an healing of his errow. Hereby it seems that injustice and cruelty were the faults, for which titee and cruelty were the faults, for which he was threatned: but this threatning suffered whereby suffered to our very Being. Whereby the suffered heals ments gaudia. The fixed not unto his information. For, that so will joyes of the mind were not unaptly, by the Prince of Lair Danie has been able to the prince of Lair Danie has been and the prince of Lair D great a Monarch should be driven from the Prince of Latin Poets, bestowed in the among men (according to the tenor of the entrance of Hell, and placed farther inward dream and interpretation); yea, compelled than forrows, cares, and fears; not far from to dwell with the beafts of the field, and the Iron Cabbins of the Furies. And cermade to eat grass as the Oxen, was athing tainly it is no unlikely token of vengeance foincredible in mans judgement, that eafily near at hand, when these unreasonable it might be thought an idle dream; and flushes of proud and vain joy, do rage in a much more easily be forgotten at the years mind, that should have been humbled with end. One whole years leifure to repent, a just repentance, and acknowledgement of was given to this haughty Prince: which respite of the execution may seem to have bred in him a forgetfulness of Gods sen- whose punishment was singular and unextence. For at the end of twelve moneths, ampled. For he ran among beafts in the walking in the royal Palace of Babel, he was fields and woods, where for feven years he fo over-joyed and transported with a vain lived, not only as a salvage man, but as a ry same hour.

That Solomon, and many other Princes, things wherewith God hath bleffed us; but he was the Lord of Heaven and Earth, and Date 4 37, gracious words, and reftored to their for- a note of much unthankfulness to entertain;

This was verified upon Nebuchadnezzar, contemplation of his own seeming happi- salvage beast; for a beast he thought himnels, that, without all fear of Gods heavy felf, Jecundum Juam imaginationem, as Thomas 1.2.60 judgement pronounced against him, he ut- noteth, and therefore fed himself in the same Reg. Fer. tered those lofty words before rehearsed, in manner, and with the same food that beasts vaunting of the Majestical works which he do: Not that he was changed in figure exhad reared, as well befeeming his Majestical ternal, according to Mediana, infomuch as person. But his high speeches were not fully he appeared a Beast to other mens eyes, as Resiate ended, when a voice from Heaven, telling St. Hierom in the life of Hilarius (how true Damfelse. him that his Kingdom was departed from God knows ) speaks of a woman that aphim, rehearfed over unto him the sentence peared to all other mens fight a Cow, but to again, which was fulfilled upon him the ve- Hilarius only a woman; neither was he changed as Iphigenia the daughter of Agamemnon was said to be, into a Hind; nor and great ones, have taken delight in their made a Monster, as Dorotheus and Epipha-Dor. in Siown buildings, It cannot any way be doubt- nim dreamed: but, according to St Hierom's soff. Ep. 13 ed ; yet I do not remember that ever I have exposition of these words, At the same time " Dan. read of any, that were punished for re- was my understanding restored unto me, &c. joycing in works of this kind ( though it is Quando dicit (faith St. Hierom ) Censum sibi hard in joy, or any passion of the mind, to redditum, oftendit non formam fe amisife, sed keep a just measure ) excepting only this mentem; When he faith that his sense was restored unto him, he shewed that he had not lost The like may be faid of David: for other his bumane shape, but his understanding. Seven (and some very godly) Kings have mustred years expired, it pleased God to restore all their forces to the very last man; but few Nabuchodonosor, both to his understanding, or none have been known to have been and his estate, for which he acknowledged punished as David was. Surely Inot only and praised God all the rest of his life, conhold it lawful to rejoyce in those good fessing his power, and everlasting being; that wrought without resistance what he pleased | Whether these Egyptian-troubles did ani. in both ; that his works were all truth, and mate the King of the Meaes, to deal with his wayes rightcous. Which gave argument Evilmerodach, as with a Prince greater in to many of the Fathers, and others, not to fame and reputation, gotten by the decayed doubt of his falvation; namely St. Augu- valour of his people, than in present forces fline, Theodoret, Lyra, Carthusiams, and or, whether (as I rather think) some foil reothers. And for that place of Ejay the ceived by the Affyrian invading Media, emtourteenth, out of which his perdition may boldned the Egyptians to rebel against him. be gathered, the aforenamed Authors ap- I will neither undertake, nor feek to define. ply the same to Balthafar; because Esay, both Kenophon tells, that the first service of young x... in the thirteenth and fourteenth Chapters , Cyrus in war, was under Aftyages King of the speaketh of the King, and the destruction Medes, his Grand-father, in a prosperous of Babylon joyntly.

wrought

> ø. XII. of Evilmerodach.

nezzar's posterity, the most that may be same reckoning it should follow, that the faid of him, is faid of Evilmerodach, which I war began more early between these Nawill not here again rehearfe.

ing in a war that confumed it to affice. He same place of Xenophon. And it may well be. that he died in the third year of the three- Syrian Monarchy. For the Babylonian, being tween the second year of the four and fifti- and all the people of the leffer Asia, with gifts Evilmerodach, and the first of Amasis) and the whelm his enemies with a strong Invasion, Egypt; of which seven and thirty years it with a lingring War. is credibly held, that Pfammiticus, the Son of This happened after the death of Aftyafet downinstead of four and thirty; or that the far more mighty Persian. Amasis did temporize a while with the As-

fluous excuse.

fight against the Affirian Prince, who did set upon him; at which time, Cyrus was fifteen or fixteen years old If therefore Cyrus lived Magi. in three score and three years (as he is faid to Magi. it have died well stricken in years) which is held to be the ordinary terme of no short Aving already fpoken what I could of life, then was this encounter in the third the fuccession and years of Nebuchadyear of Evilmerodach his reign. Yet by the tions, for as much as the manner of their He lost some part of that which his Fa- fight in former times, with other circumstanther had gotten; and left his Kingdom burn-ces infimuating as much, are found in the lott Egypt by rebellion of the people, in the that the death or destruction of Nabuchodonineteenth year of his reign, which was for | nofor gave courage unto those that had felt ty years after his Father had conquered it. him a troublesome neighbour, to stand up-But this agrees neither with the account of on prowder terms with the Affrians, than in Herodoins, who allows to Amasis four and his towrishing estate they durst have used. forty years of reign; nor with that of Dio- Howfoever the quarrel began, we find that dorus, who gives him five and fifty, faying, it ended not before the last ruin of the Afscore and third Olympiad, when cambyfes too proud to digest the losses which heredid conquer Egypt. There were indeed but ceived by the Medes, and their Allies the feven and thirty years, which passed be- Persians, drew unto his party the Lydians, eth Olympiad (which was the nineteenth of and strong perswasions, hoping so to overfisch of Cambyfes his reign, wherein he wann whomin vain he had fought to weary out

Amasis, reigned three: so that Amasis could ges, who left the world in the nineteenth be no longer King than four and thirty year of Evilmerodach, at which time Amalis vears. But seeing that these two Greek Hi- took possession of Egypt. So that the Affristorians have been abused by Egyptian an having his hands already full of business, Priests in the substance of that which was which more earnestly did affect him, seems spoken of Amasis, it is no marvel though thereby to have given the better means unthey were also deceived in the length of his to the Egyptians, of new erecting their Kingreign. This is the plain answer to this ob- dom, which by long distance of place, did jection. For to fay, either that the num- fundry times find occasion to rebel in afterbers were mif-written, and four and forty ages, and fet up a King within it felf, against

The issue of these great preparations made Grians, and not bear himself as absolute by Evilmerodach against the Medes, was King of Egypt, until the nineteenth of Evil such as opened the way until the fulfilling merodach (at which time, and not before, it of those Prophecies, which were many years hath been proved out of Ezekiel, that Egypt before uttered against Babel, by Esay and became again a Kingdom ) I hold it a super- Jeremy.

CHAP. I. who, trusting in their numbers, thought to the Government, whilft the King was thus diwho, truting in Meder and Perflans under stracted, we shall find it most likely, that his their thick showers of arrows and darts, Son and Heir did occupy the Royal Throne, were encountred with an Army of stout and with condition to restore it unto his Father, well-trained men, weightily armed for close when God should enable him to reposses it. fight, by whom they were beaten in open In this his rule Evilmeroduch being to supply ngnt, by wherein Estimerodach was lain. So, the utter want of understanding in his Fathat great frame of Empire which Nabuchother, as Protectors do the unripenels of it that great trained and upheld, being shaken in young, but reasonable Kings, Might easily and grievoufly crackt under his unfortunate either commit the infolences, or full into the and guesting to be fustained by his unwortroubles, incident to fuch an office. That he by Nephew; a man more likely to have had in him very fmall ability of Governoverthrown it, when it was greatest and ment, it appears by his ill maintaining the way of falling.

o. XIII.

A private conjecture of the Author; ferving to make good those things, which are cited out of Berofus, concerning the Successors of Evilmerodach, without wrong to the truth. The quality, and death of Balthafar.

Though I have already (as it feems to me) fufficently proved that Balthafar was the Son, and immediate Successor to Evilmerodach, yet confidering earnestly the get the rule into her own hands, and afterconjectures of those Writers, which, following Berofus, insert Niglissar, or Niriglissoror, and his Son Labassardach between them; as allo that which I find in Herodotus of Nito- not find ; but we find in Berofus ( as Josephus cris, a famous Queen of Babylon, who great- hath cited him ) that Nigliffar, who got the ly adorned and fortified that City; Thave Kingdom from Evilmerodach, was his Sifters thought it not superfluous here in this place Husband; which argues this to have been to fliew, by what means it was poffible, that the same woman. As for Labaffardach the fomeerrour might have crept into the Hi- Son of Nigliffar, if at the end of nine moneths ftory of those times, and thereby have reign he were for his lewd conditions slain brought us to a needless trouble of fearch by the Nobility, as the same Berofus reporting out the truth, as it were by candle-light, eth; it feems that God prepared hereby the in the uncertain fragments of lost Authors, way for Nebuchadnezzar's restitution (whose which we might have found by day-light, term of punishment was then expired ) by had we adhered only to the Scriptures. First raising such trouble, as should make him the brute beafts in the open field: Secondly, was highly regarded, his calamity pitied, reign, which was the last of his life. and his restitution hoped; the prediction of judge, what course was like to be taken by we find, that he had such conditions, as

For the Affrians and their Confederates, the great Ones of the Kingdom, for feeling ftrongest, than to repairit, when it was in Empire, when he held it in his own right. That his Sifter Nitocris (if Notocris were his Sifter ) was an woman of a high spirit; it of her, faying, That the was more cunning than Semiramis, as appeared in her magnificent and useful works about the River of against the Medes, who had gotten many appears by that which Herodotus reports Herodot.A.s. Euphrates, and her fortification of Babylon Towns from the Affirians, and amongst them Nineve. Wherefore it were not unreafonable to think, that fuch a woman, feeing how the Empire went to decay through her Brothersmif-government, used practices to wards, as a Mother, to leave it unto her ungracious Son. Other time than this, wherein Nitocris could have reigned, we do therefore I observe, that the time which more desired, both of the Princes and the Bérofus divides betwixt Evilmerodach, and people. I will not here use many words to thertwo next Kings, agrees with the years confute that which Berofus hath further fet in which Nebuchadnezzar lived wild among down of Evilmerodach, telling us that he was flain by his Sisters Husband: For the that the suddenness of this accident, which plain words of the Scripture, naming the came in one hour, could not but work year wherein he gave liberty to Jeconia, do much perturbation in that State, wherein plainly testifie that he out-lived the three doubtless the honour of so noble a Prince or four and fortieth year of his Fathers

53 I

This may suffice to shew, that they who Daniel finding reputation in that clause are faid to have succeeded Evilmerodach in which promifed his recovery, as being ve- the Kingdom, might indeed have so done, rified in that which had been more incre- though not when he held it in his own right. dible. Now if we do in common reason Of Balthasar, who was his Son and Heir,

CHAP. I

God permitted to be in a King for the ruin him in on every fide, and when death arof the people. He was from his young years rested him by the hands of those whom he of a mischievous nature; having in his Fa- had wronged in his Fathers life. So the end thers time flain a Noble young man that of him was base and miserable; for he died should have married his Sifter, only for as a fool taken in unexcusable security, yet fpight and envy to see him kill two wild had not that happines, such as it is, of a death beafts in hunting, at which himself having tree from apprchension of fear, but wasterbealts in hunting, at which nimier having intertion apprecianion of icar, out waster thrown his Javelin had milded them. Another great Lord he had gelded, because a Gentlewoman commending his beauty, faid, the weed his ruin not in many hours before, even whilft he was drinking in that wine, which had have a happy woman that should be his wife. Such barbarous villanies caused many which had loved his Father (as a good and which the swords of his insulting enemies the blood. It is therefore in this place enough gracious, though unfortunate Prince) to to fay of him, That after a dishonourable revolt from him unto the enemy assoon as reign of seventy years, he perished like a he was King. Neither do I find that he per- beaft, and was flain as he deferved. The reft formed any thing worthy of record, but as a that concerneth him in question of his time. coward and a fool he loft all; fitting ftill, hath been spoken heretofore; in matter of and not once daring to give battel to them his affairs, shall be handled among the affairs that daily took somewhat from him. Yet of Cyrus, to whose story, that of Balthasar is carelesly feasting when danger had hemmed but an appendix.

532

CHAP. II.

Of the original and first greatness of the Persians.

ø. I. "

That the Medes were the chief actors in the subversion of the Babylonian Empire.

extinguished in Balthafar, the Em- occasion in due place to intreat. then was governed by Cyaxares, or Darius had Kings foon after the Flood, Lattantius Medus : after whom Cyrus became Lord and and Diodorus have found record ; For La-Monarch, both of Assyria, and of Media it Hantius remembreth an antient King of the ten Kings besides himself, and of Arbaces as Affyrians in the beginning of their Empire. many are found by Metafibenes. Thefe two Provincial Governours having cut down first, that freed his Nation from the Affri-Medus ) the last of the race of Arbaces, dy- and they are these: ing about two years after that the Line of Belochus was ended in Balthafar ; the Dominions as well of the Conqueror, as of the conquered, fell to a third Family, namely, to Cyrus of the house of Achamenes; the Princes of which blood reigning in Persia, had formerly been dependants on the Medes, and were of as little power at home, as of fame abroad in the world.

Of the Family of the Achemenes, and Line

HE Line of Belochus being now of the Persian Kings, we shall hereafter find pire of Babylon, and of Affyria, was The Nation of the Medes descended from joyned first to that of Media, which Madai the third Son of Japhet. That they Medes called Hydaspes, and Diodore speaketh Of the race of Phul Belochus there were of Pharnus with his feven Sons, Slain by the

the last branch of Ninus in Sardanapalus, di- ans, I take the list and number from Eusebivided between them the Eastern Empire. us, adding Darius Medus: of whom I have Cyaxares (whom the Scriptures call Darius spoken in their proper places heretofore;

Arbaces	) (	28	years.
Sorsamus :			years.
Medidus	1		years.
Cardiceas		13	years.
Diocles Phraortes	reigned < years.
Cyaxares Astyages			years.
Darius Medus		38	years.
Durins Means	J)	L	And

fore and two yearsold: And further, what Son or Successor to Astrages than Cyrus. fore and two yearsone: And unriner, what of the foreign that this manner of argument of the foreign and this manner of argument of the foreign and this manner of argument of the foreign and mastered by the Medes. And therefore the ing joyned together to compound it. reports of Justin and Herodotus are not to be lon to Cyrus alone.

6. II.

By what means the Empire was translated from the Medes to the Perfians.

Daughter Amytis. But I find the relations of carried far off. Ctestas often cited and feldom followed, and wilful untruth.

of this age, produceth many probable rea- Only Daniel in the first, fifth, and fixth Chapfons that Astrages had no such Son as Cyana- ters of his Prophecy, makes it plain, that res, or Darius Medus; and to confirm this himself not only lived a great Officer under

And though the Greeks alcribe the Con- opinion the more he citeth Diodore, Justin. oueft of Babylon to Cyrus alone, yet the Scri- strabo, Plato, Arifotle, Ifocrates, and before nures teach us, that Darius was not only them Caftor, Thallus, and Phlegon; who do King of Media, and had the Persians his fol- not find any such Successor. Neither do Talowers. but that the Army victorious over tianus, Theophilus Antiochenus, Julius, Afri-Balthafar was his; as the Affrian and Ba- canus, Clemens Alexandrinus, Juftin Martyr. bylonian Empire also was, during his own Lactantius, Eusebius, St. Hierom, or St. Aulife. For we find in Daniel, that Darius of guftin, make report out of any faithful Authe Medes took the Kingdom being three-thorby them read, that hath given other

Medes: for his purpose is against Babel to de- himself must have been Darius of the firey it; and in the eight and twentieth Medes, which cannot agree with his place Verse, Prepare against her the Nations, with in the course of time; or else to give him the King of the Medes, the Dukes thereof, the some other successor, according to Josephus Frinces thereof, and all the Land of his Do- and Kenophon, the same whom Daniel calleth zo. 1.1. minion. These Scriptures Julius Africanus Darius. For it is manifett, and without discound doth well open, who taking authority from Diodore, Casior, Thallus, and others, delivering the control of that Med. 8. eth that Edbylon was taken before Cyrus be- Conquest; Cyrus during his life, being no Pxd. gantoreign; which also agreeth with stra- other than the Lieutenant of his Army, and bo, where he faith, That as the Medes were subject to his authority; the strength of Subjugated by the Persians, so before that, both Nations, to wit, the Medes and Perboth the Babylonians and Assyrians were sians, with other the Vasials of Darius be-

But it is very certain, that the honour of received, who attribute the taking of Baby- that great victory over Babylon was wholly given to Cyrus, who was the instrument preordained and forenamed by God himself for this action, but for the delivery of his Church, a greater work not only in the leves of God, than the subversion of any State or Monarchy how powerful foever.

And it may well be thought, that the JOw the Kingdom of the Medes fell in- Souldiers employed in that service did rato the hands of Cyrus, it is a doubt not ther afcribe the glory to him that was the fufficiently cleared by Historians; But ra- best man of war, than to the Median, who ther their different relations of his begin- was greatest in riches and power. All which nings have bred the former opinion of those also falling upon Cyrus by succession, and who give the Conquest of Babel to the Per- continuing in his posterity, did much augfans only. For some there are who deny ment the same of his vertue; which among that Aftrages had any other Successor than prophane Historians over-grew altogether Cyrus his Grand-child by Mandane. Where- the honour due to Cyaxares, both because he as Cress on the contrary side affirmeth, that was old, and did nothing in person; as also Cyrus was no way descended from Astrages because he soon after quitted the world, (whom he called Assigns or Apania) but on- and left all to Cyrus, who was possest of ly that having vanquished him in battel, and whatsoever belonged to Darius, before the confined him to Battria, he married his fame of any fuch King or Conqueror was

And for the Greek Historians, they took himself sometimes very justly reproved of all things from the relation of the Persians, who gave to Cyrus all the praise of a most Viginier, a diligent and learned historian excellent Prince, making none his equal.

been diftinguished from the reign of Darius, was also made prisoner. if they had begun together and reigned iountly: Neither can it be imagined that after, the Army lying before it being paid Darius held the Kingdom by Cyrus permif- by Darius, whom Xenophon called Cyaxares fion, confidering that Cyrus began after him. and led by Cyrus his Sifters Son, prevailed which need no other confirmation, are gument, as it is true, that he described in yet made more open to our understanding, Cyrus the pattern of a most Heroical Prince, by that which Xenophon hath written of with much Poetical addition : fo it cannot these Wars: The cause whereof, according be denied, but that the bulk and gross of to his report, was this.

534

Xenophon's relation of the War with the by him levied, are numbered thirty thousand ces upon the Ailvrians and others.

When the Affirian had enlarged his Em- storical truth. pire with victories, and was become Lord of Neither can it indeed be affirmed of any all Syria, and many other Countries; he be- the like Writers, that in every speech and gan to hope that if the Medes could be circumstance he hath precisely tyed himself brought under his subjection, there should to the phrase of the speaker, or nature of not then be left any Nation adjoyning able the occasion, but borrowed in each out of to make head against him. For, the King of his own invention, appropriating the same the Medes was able to bring into the field to the times and persons of whom he treated. threefcore thousand foot, and ten thousand Putting therefore apart the Moral and Po-fuch a Neighbour, invited creefus King of Subject in such fort, that by beautifying the Lydia, a Prince very mighty both in men face thereof, he hath not in any fort corand treasure, and with him other Lords of rupted the body. Afia the less, to his affistance, alleadging, that those Eastern Nations were very powerful, and so firmly conjoyned by league, and many alliances, that it would not be easie, no The estate of the Medes and Persians in times not possible, for any one Nation to resist them. With these incitements, and strengthned with great Presents, he drew to him-self so many adherents, as he compounded Achamenes, the Son of Perses, being Goan Army of two hundred thou fand foot, and vernour of Perfia, did affociate himfelf with threescore thousand horse; of which, ten Arbaces, who commanded in Media, in that were led by Crafus, who had great cause each of them after the victory obtained, held

King Darine, but that he continued in that who following his advantage, possess him. estate to the first of cyrus; which being self of a great part of the lester Asia; at which the year of Daniel's death, could not have time it was, as I take it, that Creefus himfelf

> The attempt of Babylon following foon againit Balthafar, as in due time firall be fer

Those Persians which followed Cyrus, and Medes and Persians, made with joynt for- foot-men, of which a thousand were armed Gentlemen, the rest of the common fort were Archers, or fuch as used the Dart or Hefe Testimonies of the Scriptures, Sling : So far Xenophon. Of whomin this arhis Narration was founded upon meer Hi-horse, to which the forces of Persabeing littick discourse, and examining but the Hijoyned, made an exceeding strong Army.

The Assiran considering the strength of that Xenophon hath handled his under-taken

. s. IV.

foregoing this great War.

thousand horse, and forty thousand foot rebellion against Sardanapalus, and that of enmity with the Medes, in regard of the for himself the Dominion of those Coun-War made by them against his Father Aly-tries, which he had formerly ruled for the attes: But this great Army was by Cyaxares Affgrians; as also that they conveyed over King of the Medes, and by Cyrus General of the same honour and power to their posterithe Perfian forces, utterly broken : Upon ty : which in Media was not absolutely Rewhich defeat the Allyrian King being alfo gal, but with some restraint limited, until slain, so many of the Allyrians revolted, as such time as Deioces took upon him the sull. Babylon it felf could not longer be affured authority and majesty of a King. From the without the fuccours of Mercenaries, waged death of Sardanapalus to the reign of Deiowith great summs of mony out of Assa the less, Egypt, and essewhere. Which new gadred and forty years, in the last sixty wherethered forces were also scattered by Cyrus, of, there reigned in Affria mighty Princes, fant found it not for their advantage to undertake any offensive war against those victorious Kings, it being also probable, that the lesgue continued as yet between these Author, and, as I think, the deviser of the the negut continues of Belochus and Arbaces, who mischief intended against Cyrus by his had formerly shared the Empire.

tyyears, in which, if Herodotsus have written (perity, did thence derive himfelf, and vaunt ryyears, it which he would never have done, had truly, that Phraortes conquered Persia, and of it: which he would never have done, had how he and other Kings of Media by many victories greatly enlarged their Dominions, and commanded many parts of Afia, it had been but an unadvised enterprize of the Affrians and Babylonians, to have wasted themselves against the Syrians, and Egyptians, leaving so able and victorious a Nation on their backs. But that the Medes had done nothing upon the South parts of Perfia; and that the Persians themselves were not Masters of sustana in Nabuchodonosor's time; it is manifest in Daniel, who was then Governor for the Babylonian in Sufa, or Sufan, the chief City thereof. It is true indeed, that the by the learned Reineccins. Medians, either under Cyaxares, or Astyages, or both, had quarrel with Halyattes the Father of Crafus, which, after some fix years of Persia. dispute, was compounded.

How the affairs of Persia stood in so many that the roughness of the mountainous King of Cappadocia, had Artistona and other Country which they then possest, with the Daughters. confederacy which they continued with the Medes, gave them more fecurity than fame : For if their Kings, being the posterity of Achamenes, had done any memorable acts, dis, flain by his Brother Cambyfes. the greatness which they afterward obtained, would not have fuffered any forgetfulof those Countries to be very confonant and from among themselves Darius the Son of agreeable to the relation of many other Hystaspes, King. good Authors; fo it appears, that the race therefore we may better give credit to Xe- habiting, Elamita; by Elianut, Elyma; by nophon, who affirmeth , That Cambyfes the Josephus, Elymi. Father of Cyrus was King of Persia; than to those that make him a mean man, and say, from any great undertaking by his Fathers were afterward called the Magi, or Wiseignobility.

Aftrages, that the Son of his Daughter should frans were anciently written Artes, and namely, Salmanassar and his Successors; it was more likely, that upon such a Prowhole great atchievements in Syria and phecy his love to his Grand-child should essential inouid lewhere, witness, that the Meder and Perhave increased, and his care been the greatistic forms.

Yea, the same Herodotus, who is the first Grand-father, doth confess, That the line of Now from the beginning of Deices to the Achamenida was fo renowned, that the the first of Afrages, there past above nine great King Xerxes in the height of his prothey been ignoble, or had they been the vaffals of any other King or Monarch.

For in this fort Xerxes in the feventh of Herodotus deriveth himfelf;

I Achemenes. CTeisbeus. Ariaramnes. 2 Cambules. Arlamnes.

Of the Achamenida there were two races: of the first was Cyrus the great, whose issuemale failed in his two Sons, Cambyses and smerdis. This royal family is thus fet down

Achemenes, the Son of Perses, first King

Cyrus, the first of that name, had Cambrages, I do not find any memory. It seemeth | fes, and Atoffa, who, married to Pharnaces, Cambyfes had

Cyrus the Great : Cyrus had Cambyfes, who succeeded him, and Smer-

Of the second; were those seven great nessthereof. But as we find all Kenophon's Princes of Persia, who having overthrown reports, both of thefe Wars, and the state the usurped Royalty of the Magi, chose

This Kingdom of Persta was first known of Achemenes held the Principality of Persia by the name of Elam, so called after Elam from Father to Son for many discents. And the Son of Sem, and the people therein in-

Suidas derives this Nation sometimes from Affar, sometimes from Magog, of whom that Affrages gave him his Daughter Man-they were called Magusai; which Magusai, dane in marriage, to the end that her Son according to Eusebins, are not to be taken Fa 16.28. (whose nativity he feared) might be disabled for the Nation in general, but for those that de Prop.

men. So do the Greeks, among many other For, what cause of grief could it be to their sayings of them, affirm, That the Perbecome Lord of the best part of Asia? No, that they called themselves Cephenes. But

(HAP. III.

536 that they were Elamite, Moses and the Same which Antiochus, for the great riches that they were Elamine, indicated and thereof, twice attempted, in value, and to his first 12.1 Prophets, Efg., Jeremy, Exetted, Daniel, and thereof, twice attempted, in value, and to his great dithonour. And yet this City, now cal-End 32. St. Hierom upon Jeremy the five and twen- led Siras, was not the old Perfepolis; for tieth, upon Daniel the eighth, and also in Alexander, at the request of Thair the Har-2 Man 9. his Hebrew questions, approveth, faying: lot, burnt it. Elam à quo Elamita Principes Persides ; Elam, of whom were the Elamites Princes of Per- follow the current of Authorsinterpreting fectord Book of the Alaceabees calleth Perferings, and joyned with him in the war against polis, is by the Author of the first called those strabian, who was afterward extin Elamais, but is now called siras, being the guished by the forces of Abraham.

The first King of Persta to us known, if we the fourteenth Chapter of Genefis, was Che-And that City which the Author of the dorlaomer, who lived with Amrafel or Ni.

CHAP. III.

Of Cyrus.

6. I.

Of Cyrus his Name, and first actions.

bo faith , That the same was taken five and fiftieth Olympiad. from a River which watereth Per- The former of which might have been datus for his proper Name : But the great Medes from the honour of having won Baby-Cyrus was the first of that Name. Herodo- lon it self, which in due place I have answertus, otherwise; and that Cyrus signifieth a ed. The latter seems to have reference to Father in the Persian-Tongue, and there- the second War which Cyrus made upon Lyfore so intituled by the people.

excellent virtues he was indeed called that time these Nations never offered to rea Father : But that the Name of Cyrus volt. Wherefore I like better in this partihad any such fignification, I think it be cular to believe with Herodotus, whom the

That Cyrus is as much to fay as the Sun, in bylon. the same Language. Howsoever it be, yet the Prophet Elay, almost two hundred years before Cyrus was born, gives him that Name, Thus faith the Lord unto Cyrus his Annoint- Of Croeius the King of Lydia, who made war ed, &c.

Before the Conquest of Babylon, the victories which Cyrus obtained were many and great: among which the Conquest of Lydia, and other Provinces thereto subject, 10 of those Kings which governed Lydia in together with the taking of crefus himself, more ancient times: of which the first (to are not recounted by Eusebius, Orosius, and prophane Authors known ) was Lydus the others, but placed among his latter atchieve- Son of Asy: which Family extinguished ments: whose opinion for his difference of the Kingdom was by an Oracle conferred time is founded upon two reasons; namely, upon Argon, descended from Hercules, That of the Median there is no mention in whereof there were two and twenty Genethe last war against Crassus; and that the rations; Candaules being the last, who by obtaining of Sardis is referred to the eight shewing his fair wife naked to Grees his faand fiftieth Olympiad; and the glorious vi- vourite, he was by the same Gyges (thereto

S touching the Name of Cyrus Stra-1 Ctory which Cyrus had over Babylon, to the

fla; this great Prince having Agra- used (and was by the Greeks) to exclude the dia, when it rebelled; as which time helo Plut. is vit. It is true, that for his Justice and other established his former Conquest, as after most of Chronologers follow, and find the Plut arch hath a third opinion, affirming, enterprize of Sardis to preceed that of Ba-

Have in the lastBook spoke somewhat of Crass, of his race and predecessors, as al-

Oucen) the next day flain. Which done, fa, or of his own Lidia. Grees enjoyed both the Queen and the Kingdom of Lydia, and left the same to Alys his Son, who was Father to Sadyattes, the Father of Halyattes (who thrust the Cimmerians out of Afia) and Halyattes begat Crafus. Which five Kings, of a third race, en-Ball 1, Joyed that Kingdom an hundred and feventained it fix years, a peace was concluded upon equal conditions between them.

father to Cyrus, thought himself greatly honoured by obtaining Aryenes, Crafus Sifter, whom he married.

But Crefus fo far enlarged his Dominions inferior in territory to any King or Monarch were four in effect of equal strength; to wit, the Median, the Babylonian, the Egyptian, and the Lydian: only Nabuchodonofor, after he had joyned Phanicia, Palestina, and Egypt to his Empire, had thence-forward no Competitor during his own life.

But Creefus, notwithstanding the men and treasure spent in the quarrel of the Babylonians, he yet mastered Æolis, Doris, and Ionia, Provinces possest by the Greeks in Asia the less, adjoyning to Lydia; gave Law to the Phrygians, Bithinians, Carians, Mysians, Paphlagonians, and other Nations. And that he also inforc'd the Ephesians to acknowledge him, not with standing they compassed their City with Diana's Girdle, He-that then lived. out of Berojus (which also confirmeth) makes bylonians his allies did yearly celebrate a he performed in fourteen years.

marvellous rich gifts) what success he might beginning of glory to the other. hope for against Cyrus, if he undertook merchandize of both fide alike, and might and advancement of either Nations: and as urged upon peril of his own life by the be inverted either way; to the ruin of Per-

ø. III.

Croefus his Expedition against Cyrus.

TEreupon Crafus being resolved to stop the course of cyrus fortunes, if he ty years. Halyattes the Father of Crassis was could, despised all the arguments used by an undertaking Prince, and after he had continued a War against Cystates the to fore-think, That he urged a Nation inha-Median, a Prince very powerfull, and main- biting a barren and mountainous Region; a people not covered with the foft filk of Worms, but with the hard skins of Beafts; Allrages the Son of Cyaxares, and Grand- not fed with such meat as they fancied, but content with what they found; drinkers of Water, not of Wine: and in a word, a Nation warlike, enduring, valiant and profperous; over whom, if he became victoriafter his Fathers death, as he was nothing ous, he could thereby enrich himself in nothing but fame, in which he already excelof that age: Of which, about that time there led: and if by them beaten, and subjected, fo great would his loss appear of all things which the world hath in account, as the fame could neither hastily be told, nor readily conceived.

Notwithstanding this folid counsel, Crafus having prepared a powerful Army, he led the same toward Media, but in his passage he was arrested at Pterium, a City of great strength in Cappadocia; which while he fought by all means to furprize or to force, Cyrus came on, and found the Lydians encamped before it. That each was inferiour to other in strength or opinion, I do not find: for, out of doubt, Crafus, as he excelled any Prince of that age in riches and ability; fo was he not under any in territory and fame

But, as Cratippus of Mitylene answered report of a Signal Victory, which Crafus Pompey when he complained against the obtained against the Sacans, a Nation of gods, because they savoured a disturber and the Scythians, in memory whereof the Ba- usurper of the Common-weal against him who fought for the Roman liberty, That Feaft, which they called sacea: All which Kingdoms and Common-weals had their encrease and period from divine Ordinance: And being now confident in the continu- fo, at this time was the Winter of Crafus ance of his good fortune, and envious of cy- prosperity at hand, the leaves of his flourishrus fame, doubting also that his prosperous ing fortune ready to fall, and that of Cyrus undertakings might in the end grow peri- but in the flower and first spring. The Cod lous to himself, he consulted with the of all power, and not Admetis Herdman, Oracle of Apollo (whom he presented with Apollo, had given a date to the one, and a

When these two Armies were in view of him: from whom he received this riddle; each other, after the entertainment of di-Croesus passing over the River Halys, shall vers skirmishes, the Persians and Lydians bedislove a great Dominion. For the Devil being doubtful of the success, payed him with both Kings thrust on upon the falling off, day, to when the dark vail of night had courfes of their lives might well be accounthidden each Army from the others view, ed fortunate, but no man could differn him-Crefus doubting what success the rising Sun felf for happy indeed, till his end. would bring with it, quitted the field to Cirus, and with all speed possible retired, informed, remembring the changes of forand taking the next way into Lydia, recovered Sardis his first City and Regal Seat, his Ministers of Justice to withdraw the fire without any pursuit made by Cyrus to re- with all diligence, to fave Crefus, and to have tard him. Where being arrived, and nothing sufficing Grew approach, or any control of the war for that Winter, he dismissed the perswaded him? or what self-rea on had Souldiers, and fent the troops of his fundry conducted him to invade his territory, and Nations to their own Provinces, appointing to make him of a Friend an Enemy? To the time appointed.

CHAP. III.

538

ø. IV. The Conquest of Lydia by Cyrus.

order to purfue them, yet not fo hastily, and fettat. at their heels, as to be discovered. But And herein is the real difference discernhaving good intelligence of Crasus his pro- ed between that behaviour which we call ceeding, he so measured his marches, as he beneficium latronis, and gratiam Principis: presented not himself before sarais, till A thief sometime sparing the life of him fuch time as Cræsus had disposed his Army which is in his power, but unjustly: A King to their wintring garrisons; which being that giveth breath, and a continuance of altogether unlooked for, and unfeared, he being, to him that was the cause and author furrounded Sardis with his Army; Where- of his own evil. in Creefus having no other Companies than The report made by Xenophon, is, That his Citizens and Ordinary Guards, after Cyrus did friendly entertain Crafus at the fourteen dayes siege the same was entred by hrst sight, not mentioning that which Heroaffault, and all executed that refifted. Cra- dotus delivers, and is here already fet down, In commun first having now neither Arms to fight, nor that he should have been burnt alive. It may i clasi-wings to fly, sardis being on all parts strong- very well be, that Xenophon pourtraying (in wings to 113 and wings to 113 and the first of the heap cyrus) an heroical Prince, thought an intent pulping by encompatied, thrulf himself into the heap cyrus) an heroical Prince, thought an intent pulping by the first of the first of the first of the forgotten than reheafmum, Cur. had undergone the common fortune of com-ed, as too much mif-befeeming a generous Attention more persons vanquished, had not a son of nature. And it is very likely, that neerness mit: times, his, who had been dumb all his life (by ex- of alliance might with-hold Cyrus (had he tremity of passion and sear enabled) cryed been otherwise vicious) from so cruel a out to the Souldiers to spare Crasus. Who purpose against his Grandmothers brother. Solm 6.7 thereupon being taken and imprisoned, de- Howsoever it was, the moral part of the fpoiled of all things but the expectation of Story hath given much credit and reputatideath, he was forthwith tied in fetters, and on to the report of Herodotus (as to many let on the top of a great and high heap of the like it often doth) and made it pass for wood, to be confumed to affies thereon. To current, though the trust reposed in Crafus which when the fire was fet and kindled, afterwards may feem to argue, that Cyrus remembring the discourse which he had did not use him inhumanly at the first. with the Athenian Law-giver, he thrice cried out on his name, Solon, Solon, Solon: and Cyrus past with his Army over Araxes into the Persans had somewhat the better of the him, That many men in the race and

Or which answer Cyrus being speedily tune, and his own mortality, he commanded a conduct him to his prefence : Which done. them to re-affemble at the end of five whom he thus answered; It was thy profmonths, acquainting his Commanders with perous, and my unprosperous destiny (the his interest for the renewing of the War at Grecian god flattering therewithall my ambition ) that were the inventers and conductors of Crafus War against Cyrus.

Cyrus being pierc't with Crafus answer, and bewailing his estate, though victorious over it, did not only spare his life, but entertained him ever after as a King and his True in the following morning finding companion, shewing therein a true effect of , the Lydians departed, put his Army in mercy indeed, Que non causam, sed fortunam

For, as Herodotus himself telleth us, when being demanded what he meant by that in- scyttia, he left creefus to accompany and vocation, he first used silence; but urged advise his son Cambyfes, Governour of the again, he told them, That he had now found Empire in his absence. with whom he lived it true which solon had long fince told all the time of Cyrus, and did afterward folescaped his tyrannous hand. What his end fame and reputation that it held, as being was, I do not find.

But in this time the races of three of the took end; to wit, of the Babylonians, Medi- unfoordable, fo plentifully victualled for and Crafus.

ø. V.

How Cyrus won Babylon.

A Conquest of Babylon, which gave unto ries: whereof though the Town was faid to Cress an Empire to large and mighty, that be stored sufficiently for more than twenty he was justly reputed the greatest Monarch years, yet might it well be deemed, that in then living upon earth. How long time luch a world of people as dwelt within those the preparations for this great action took gates, one great want or other would foon up, it is uncertain; only it feems, that ten appear, and vanquill the resolution of that whole years did pals between his taking unwarlike multitude. In expecting the fucthole two Cities of Sardis and Babylon; cels of this courle, the Besiegers were likely which nevertheless I do not think to have to endure much travel, and all in vain, if been wholly occupyed in provision for the they did not keep streight watch and strong Allgrian war, but rather to have been spent guards upon all quarters. in fettling the Estate which he had already purchased. And hereunto perhaps may be circuit of those walls which they were to referred that which Ctesias hath in his frage | gird in, with numbers neither great enough, ments, of a war made by Cyrus upon the Scy- nor of men sufficiently assured unto their thians, though related as foregoing the vi- Commander: The confideration whereof ctory obtained against Crassus. He tellethus, ministred unto the Babylonians matter of their King prisoner: but being in a second tered about their Town to keep them in, battel overthrown by the wife of Amorges, who having been their ancient friends and Sparetha, and therein taken, the one King allies, were more likely to joyn with them. was delivered for the other.

part of those troubles which arose in the asit were yesterday, laid upon their necks lower affa.grew foon after the departure of the galling yoak of fervitude. Whilest the the victorious Army, before the Conquest besieged were pleasing themselves in this was fully established.

the less, many Nations, conquered formerly Cyrus, whom the Ordinance of God made by Creefus, and now by Cyrus, revolted from strong, constant, and inventive, devised, by him; against whom he employed Pattias, so many channels and trenches as were and then Harpagus, who first reduced the sufficient and capable of Euphrates, to Phocians under their former obedience, and draw the same from the walls of Babylon, then the rest of the Greeks inhabiting Asia thereby to make his approach the more the less, as the Ionians, Carians, Holians, facile and affured : which when by the and Lycians, who refolvedly (according to labour of many hands he had performed, felf, it is not to be doubted, that Cyrus em- or heads un-cut, between the main river ployed all his forces, having taken order be- which furrounded the City, and his own fore-hand, that nothing (hould be able to Trenches. divert him, or to ratte that fiege, and make should bend all his care and strength unto an exceeding sumptuous Feast, publick low Cambyses into Egypt, where he hardly the taking of that City, which beside the head of an Empire thereon depending, was to strongly fenced with a treble wall of greatest Kings in that part of the World great height, and furrounded with waters ans, and Lydians; in Balthafar, Cyaxares, many years, that the inhabitants were not only free from all doubt and fear of their estate but despised and derided all purposes and power of their beliegers.

The only hope of the Medes and Persians, who despaired of carrying by assault a City fo well fortified and man'd, was, in cutting Fter this Lydian War, ensued the great off all supplies of victuals and other necessary

This was hard to do, in regard of the vast That Cyrus invaded Scythia, and being vi- good pastime, when they saw the Lydians, ctorious over that Nation, took Amorges Phrygians, Cappadocians, and others, quar-102.64.7.

if occasion were offered than to use much Likewise it may be thought that no small diligence on the behalf of Cyrus; who had, deceitful and vain gladness, that is the or-For after Cyrus was returned out of Asia dinary fore-runner of sudden calamity, the strength they had ) defended them- he stayed the time of his advantage for the felves. But in the attempt upon Babylon it execution: for he had left certain banks

Now Balthafar, finding neither any want frustrate the work upon which he did set all or weakness within, nor any possibility of his rest. And great reason there was, that he approach for his enemies without, prepared

Playes, and other Pattimes; and thereto in-[banquetting, she came in upon the bruit of vited a thousand of his Princes or Nobility, the miracle, and to comfort the King in his besides his Wives, Curtizans, and others of distraction. And whereas Daniel was forthat trade. This he did either to let the be- gotten and neglected by others both of figers know, that his provisions were either younger years and times, this old Queen refufficient, not only for all needfull uses, but membred well what he had done in the even for jollity and excess; or because he dayes of Nabuchodonosor, Grandfather to this hoped that his enemies, under the burthen Balthafar, and kept in mind both his Reliofmany defirefles, were well near broken; or gion and divine gifts. in honour of Bell his most reverenced Idol; or that it was his Birth or Coronation-day; presence, who acknowledged those excellent or for many or all these respects. And he graces wherewith God had enriched him, was not contented with such magnificence he prayed him, together with promises of as no Prince else could equal, but (using Da- reward and honour, to read and interpret niel's words ) he lifted himself up against the those words miraculously written; to whom Lord of Heaven: for he and his Princes, Daniel made answer in a far different style Wives and Concubines, made carowling cups from that he used towards his Grandfather. of the veilels of Gole, in contempt of whom, for, the evil which he foretood Nabuchodonohe praited his own Puppets, made of Silver for, he wished that the same might be all his and Gold, of Brals, Iron, Wood, and Stone 5 enemies; but to this King (whose neglect of Quanta fust fiultitia in vasibus aureis biben- God, and vice, he hated ) he answered in tes, hences & lapideos deos laudare? How these words, Keep thy rewards to thy lelf, and great a feolifines was it (taith St. Hierom ) give thy gifts to another; yet will I read the drinking in golden Cups, to praife gods of Wood writing unto the King, and flow him the interand stone & While Balthafar was in this fort pretation. Which, before he had performed, triumphing, and his brains well filled with he gave him first the cause of Gods just vapors, h- beheld a hand, which by divine judgement against him, and the reason of power wre to on the wall opposite unto him, this terrible sentence, whereof the King and certain words which he understood not : all his Wife men were utterly ignorant. Diag. 6. loofed, and his knees mote one against the to his Father, whom all Nations cared and other. Which passion, when he had in some obeyed, and that for his pride and neglect part recovered, he cried out for his Chalde- of those benefits, as he deprived him of his knowledge, and understanding, &c. were Medes and Perstans. found in him, even in Daniel, &c. Now let The very evening Daniel be called, and he will aeclare the interpretation.

mother; Origen and Theodoret, for the Mo- fign he followed in this War, found the time ther of Balthajar; either of which may be and opportunity to invite him: and theretrue : for it appeareth, that flie was not any trore while the Kings head, and the heads of of the Kings Wives because absent from the his Nobility were no less filled with the vafeaft; and being patt the age of dancing and pors of Wine, than their hearts with the fear

When Daniel was brought to the Kings wherewith fo great a fear and amazement Whichbeing written at large in Daniel, hath na. (.) this effect, That forgetting Gods goodness 19.12 ans Aftrologians and Southfayers promiting eftate and understanding, so upon the acthem great rewards, and the third place of knowledgment of Gods infinite power he honour in the Kingdom to him that could restored him to both. This King, notwithread and expound the writing: but it ex- standing, lifted himself up against the same cceded their Art. In this diffurbance and God; and prefuming both to abuse those aftonishment, the Queen hearing what had Vessels dedicated to holy uses, and neglectpast, and of the Kings amazement, after re- ing the Lord of all power, praised and worverence done, used this speech: There is a thipped the dead Idols of Gold, Silver, Brass, man in 11,3 Kingdom, in whom is the spirit of Iron, Stone, and Wood: and therefore those the holy Gods, and in the dayes of thy Father, words, from the Oracle of a true God delilight, and understanding, and wilcom, like the vered, (to wit) Mene, Tekel, Upharsin, gave wildom of the Gods, was found in him, whom the King knowledge, that God hath numthe King Nabuchodonofor, thy Father, the bred the time of his Kingdom, and finished King (1 Jay ) thy Father made chief of the In- it; That he was weighed in the ballance of chanters, Aftrologians, Chaldwans, and south- Gods Justice, and found too light; and that Sayers, because a more excellent spirit, and his Empire was divided and given to the

The very evening or night of this day, wherein Balthasar feasted and perished, cjrus, either by his espials, according to Xeno-This Queen, Josephus takes for the Grand- phon; or inspired by God himself, whose en-

the prefent, by whose channel running, his which were written two hundred years be-Army made their entrance, finding none to fore any thing attempted. Army made then entired the Town lay buried (as the Poet faith) in fleep and wine: fuch as lon, were it not by divers grave Authors fet

Ballbafar, and betaken themselves to the after. Which is not impossible, if the relitiparty of Cyrus, did now conduct a selected mony of Diodorus siculus may be taken 5 company to the Kings Palace; which having who findes the compals therof at three eally forced, they rushed into the Chamber hundred and threescore Stadia or Furlongs, where the King withhis Princes were ban- which makes five and forty miles: the walls quetting, flew both him and them without whereof had fo great a breadth, that fix any mercy, who struggled in vain to keep Chariots might pass in front thereon. And those lives which God had newly threatned of height, according to Ctessa and Clitracus, totake away. And now was the Prophecy three hundred threescore and five foot, garof Jeremy fulfilled, and that of Efay two nithed with an hundred and fifty Towers. hundred years before this subversion; who in strabo in the beginning of his sixteenth his feven and fortieth Chapter, and else- Book of Geography, gives it a greater cirwhere, writeth this destruction so feelingly cuit, adding five and twenty Furlongs more and lively, as if he had been prefent both at to the former compass, reckoning the same the terrible flaughter there committed, and at three hundred fourfcore and five Furhad seen the great and unseared change and longs, which make eight and forty mile and thine hand : thou didft flew them no mercy, Kingdoms. but thou didft las thy very beavy yoke upon the But when Cyrus had won her, he stript children also shall be broken in pieces before ken possession of their goods. their eyes, their houses spoiled, and their Wives of Gods judgment, he caused all the banks that received the report from others truly and heads of his trenches to be opened and as it was, that could better leave the same to out down with that diligence, as by them he posterity after it happened, than Esay hath drew the great River of Euphrates dry for done in many places of his Prophecies, came in the Persians way, were put to the down, might seem altogether fabulous: for. fword, unless they faved themselves by besides the reports of Saint Hierom, Solinus, flight, as some did, who ran away crying, and Orosus, Aristotle in the third of his Poand filling the streets with an uncertain tu- liticks, the second Chapter, received the report for true, That one part of the City Such Affrian Lords as had revolted from knew not that the rest was taken three dayes Disk. 1.3. calamity of this great Empire; yea, and had one Furlong, but finds the wall far under alloheard the forrows and bewailings of that which Diodore reports: and so doth every surviving foul thereunto subj. ct. His Curtius measure their thickness but at two Prophecy of this place he beginneth in the few words; Come down, and fit in the dust, o dred cubits, which is also very much; every Virgin Dangbter of Babel: fit on the ground, cubit containing a foot and a half of the there is no throne, &c. And again, sit fill, large measure, though to the whole circuit and get thee into darkness, o daughter of the of the City he gives the same with siculus, Chaldwans; for thou shalt no more be called the and eight Furlongs more. Herodotus finds a Lady of Kingdoms. For, though it cannot be greater content than strabo doth, namely, doubted, that God used Nabuchodonofor, and four hundred and fourscore furlongs circle; the Chaldeans, to punish the Idolatry of the the thickness of the wall he measures at fif-Induans; yet E fay teacheth us in this place, ty cubits, and the height at two hundred of That he did not yet forget, that the execu-the same regal cubit. For entrance, it had Howler tion of his judgments was mixt with a rigo- an hundred Gates of Brass, with posts and rous extremity. For (faith E/ay) in the per- Hooks to hang them on of the same metal: fon of God, I was wroth with my people, I have and therefore aid the Prophet Ef.y rightly polluted mine inheritance, and given them into intitle Babylon, The Princess and Glory of 1/2. 47. 13.

ancient. I will rife up against them, faith the her out of her Princely Robes, and made Lord of Hofts, and will cut off from Babel the her a flave ; dividing not only all her good-Name, and the Remnant, and the Son, and the ly houses, and her whole Territory, with all Nephew. And in the thirteenth, Every one the riches therein contained, among his Soulthat is found, shall be stricken thorow: whose- diers; but bestowing the inhabitants themever joyneth himself, Shall fall by the sword, their solves as bond-llaves upon those that had ra-

Touching the reign of Cyrur, and the ravished. So as there is no Historian who time which he enjoyed in rest and please te, was either present at this victory of Cyrus, or I can say no more of it, than that it is generally agreed by ail Chronologers to have in his own City of Pasagardes, which himlafted only feven years: in which time he felf had built, and where his Epitaph was to made such Constitutions as differ little from be read in his time; which is said to have the Ordinances of all wife Kings that are de- been this: O vir, quicunque es, o underna fireus to chabiish a Royal power to them- que advenis, neque enim te adventurum ienofelves and their posterity.

540

542

ø. VI. The End of Cyrus.

great King Cyrus, is diverly written. my body is covered. Herodoins and Julin deliver. That after the Muliagetes , a very warlike Nation of the treasure, supposed to have been buried with Segilians governed by Tempris their Queen: him (or upon defire to honour his deadboand that in an incounter between the Per- dy with certain ceremonies) in which there fians and thefe Northern Nomades, Tomyris was found an old rotten Target, two Serloft her Army, and her Son spargapifes that thian Bows, and a Sword. The Coffin wherecommanded it : In revenge whereof, this in his body lay, Alexander cauled to be co-Queen making new levies of men of War, vered with his own garment, and a Crown blood, using these words; Thou that hast all body in the hands of Tomyris. thy life time thirfted for blood, now drink thy | And furely, had Cyrus loft the Army of fill, and fatiate thy fell.

ing the strength and multitude of those maining forces into Egypt, so far off from that frozen Nations, was perswaded to abate quarter; the scythian Nation then victotheir fury by some forcible invation and de- rious, and bordering Media: neither had population, because in the time of Cyaxares | Cambyses been able in such haste to have un-Father to Aftrages, those Scythians invaded dertaken and performed so great a Con-Media and Afia the less, and held the same quest. Wherefore I rather believe Xenoin a fervile subjection eight and twenty phon, faying, That Cyrus died aged, and in myrique, lasted (saith he) lix years, and took unto him his Nobility, with his two Sons, end at the end of Cyrus.

nier; that this Scythian War was rather the wherein he assured himself, and taught fame which Cyrus made against the Sacians. others, of the immortality of the Soul, and of before the conquest of Lydia, according to the punishments and rewards following the Crefins before cited, who calleth Tompris, good and ill deferving of every man in this Sparetha, though he deliver the success of life; he exhorted his Sons by the strongest that War otherwise than Herodotus doth : arguments he had, to a perpetual concord Vig. pin. The rather (:aith Viginier) because strabo in and agreement. Many other things he uthis eleventh Book reciteth, that Cyrus fur- lered; which make it probable, that hereprized the Sacians by the same stratagem by ceived the knowledge of the true God which Justin faith, he defeated the Son of from Daniel, when he governed susa in cial is. Tomyris. And the same Ctesses also reporteth, Persia; and that Cyrus himself had read the That the last War which Cyrus made, was Prophecy of Esay, wherein he was expressy against Amorrhaus King of the Derbicians, a named, and by God (for the delivery of his Nation (as the rest) of scythia; whom people) preordained. Which act of deliverthough he overcame, yet he then received ling the Jews from their Captivity, and of the wound of his death, which he fuffered restoring the holy Temple and City of Jernthree dayes after.

Strabo also affirmeth, That he was buried work that ever Cyrus performed. For in ravi: Ego sum Cyrus qui Persis imperium constitui, pusillum boc terra quo meum tegitur corpus mihi ne invideas ; O thou man, whoseever thou art, or whence soever thou comest; for I was not ignorant that thou flouldit come: 1 am Cyrus that founded the Perlian Empire, do "He last War, and the end of this not envy unto me this little earth, with which

This Tomb was opened by Alexander, as Conquest of Afia the less, Cyrus invaded the Qu. Curtius reporteth, either upon hope of and following the War against Cyrus, in a of Gold to be set upon it. These things well acted fecond battel beat the Perstan Army, and considered, as they give credit to there while taking Cyrus prisoner, cut off his head from ports of Xenophon and Zonaras, so they de-his body, and cast the same into a bowl of rogate much from Herodotus, who leaves his

Persia in Scythia, it is not likely, that his Son It should hereby feem, that Cyrus know- would so soon have transported all his repeace: and that finding in himself, that he This War, which Metasthenes calleth To- could not long enjoy the world, he called Cambyfes and Smerdis; or, after Xenophon, But in this particular I believe with Vigi- | Tanaoxares: and, after a long Oration, falem, was in true confideration the noblest though heaven and earth shall perish.

ø. VII.

of God in Jerusalem.

Victories, mentioned by fundry Hi his Fathers Decree, as well while he Gotorians, the glory of all which was a reward verned under him, as when himself became of this his service done unto him that was fole and Soveraign Monarch, we shall finde Authour of them and of all goodnes: 1 them in that Epistle remembred by Esdras, hold it meet at length to speak of the De- written by Belemus, Mithridates, and the cree made in the first of his Reign, being rest, Presidents and Counsellors in Phanicis. dured and finished the threescore and ten merly done in the times of other Kings. years captivity, by the Prophets foretold. But that which for that present seemed bed the Temple.

King Jeconias, and Jefus or Jofus the fon of written in Ezekiel, Egypt was the confidence Josadak, were about fifty thousand ; where, of the house of Ifrael. as foon as they arrived, they built an Altar terials for the rebuilding of the Temple.

in no fort favoured the Jens, nor the labours and by the Kings answer, it is evident. nor purposes they had in hand. And not Also in the fixth of Ezra, the fourteenth 18,22.16, only those which were but Provincial Lieu- verse, the Kings are named in order as they other actions he was an infirmment of Gods begun. And whereas fome Authours make  $F_{jil}$ , 116. other actions for the chaftifing of many Nadoubt, that whatfoever Cambyjes did when power, the land of a Government himselfhad obtained the Empire, yet during tions, and the establishing of a Government himselfhad obtained the Empire, yet during the first state of the st in those parts of the world, which was not the life of Cyrus there was no such impedilong to continue. But herein he had the ment or prohibition: they may herein re-175.4 c Grace to be an inftrument of Gods good- solve themselves out of Esdras, That by the nels, and a willing advancer of his Kingdom conspiracies of the neighbouring Nations, upon Earth; which must last for ever, the building was hindred all the time of King Cyrus life,&c. And therefore it is true, what the Jews themselves affirm, as it is written in the second of John, That the Temple was 46. years in fetting up having received of Cyrus bin Decree for building the Temple to many hinderances from the first foundation to the second of Darius.

And if we feek the natural and politick Aving therefore spoken of his great courses which moved Cambyses to withstand perhaps the first that ever he made after wherein they complain that the Jews were his possession of the Babylonian Empire: evermore rebellious and troublers of Kings; F. L. 4 That the captive Jews should return again that their City being once built, they would into their own Territory, and re-build the then refuse to pay tribute, and fall from the House of God in Jerusalem, having now en- obedience of the Empire, as they had for-

For the accomplishing whereof, he gave the most forcible impediment, was, that order to his Treasurers to furnish them with camby fer having in his resolution to invade all things necessary and wanting. He also Egypi, and that it was a common opinion, restored unto them five thousand four hun- That the Jews were descended of those Nadred threefcore and nine Veffels of Gold tions, because they issued thence under Moand Silver, whereof Nabuctodonofor, the fes, when they conquered Judea; their City Grandfather of Balthafar, had formerly rob being once repaired and fortified, they might return to their old vomit, and give The number of the Tews which returned the same disturbance to Cambyses Conquest, out of Chaldea under their Leader Zoroba- which they did to Sennacherib, Nabuchodobel, the Son of Salathiel, and Nephew to nofor, and other Kings of Babylon. For, as it is Estado

But it is to be understood, as Codoman to the living God, and facrificed thereon, and others have observed, that Artuxerxes, according to their own Law, and afterward to whom the Counsellors and Governors of bethought themselves how to prepare ma- Planicia complained against the Jews, did not precede, but succeed Darius Hift spes, as in the fixth and feventh Chapters of Estars and it is made plain: and also that those Government any one stone, than the samaritans and it is made plain: and also that those Government and the samaritans and it is made plain: other Idolatrous Nations adjoyning, gave nors (whose Epistle sheweth as much) did not withstand the building of the Temple, Governours of those Provinces under Cyrus but the fortifying and encloting of the City, altogether countenance the disturbers, and as by the reasons given in the laid Epistle, tenants, and other officers of less place, but Governed, and Artaxerxes written after Da-Cambyles himself; who having the charge rim; as: and they built and finished it (to wit of the whole Empire, while Cyrus was busi- the Temple) by the appointment of the God of ed otherwise, countermanded the building Israel, and by the commandement of Cyrus and Darius, and Artahihafte Kings of Perfia. | for the cruel intent that Aman (whom the Lastiv, in the seventh of Ezra it is written; old Translation calleth a Macedonian) had Now after these things, in the reign of Artah- against the Jews, though the opinion of Inthafte King of Perlia: which was as much as fephus be more probable, who finds Aman to to fay, after the finithing of the Temple in be an Amalekite. But it is hard to be under-Davies time. And therefore Artaxerxes in stood, how Atoffa, the daughter of Cres. the second of Esdras is there named by an- should have been Esther, whose History ticipation, not in his own time and place.

544

ing of the City and Temple of Hierusalem. of Histaspes, or of Xerxes. The desire of Which action though prospered by the hand Atolja to have Greece brought under the of God, was very flowly purfued by the men yoke of Persia, was partly grounded upon whom it most concerned, but first set on the honour which thereby she thought her fact by Cyrus. The other Ordinances of husband might obtain, partly upon a femi-Cirus, with his form and manner of Govern- nine humour of getting many brave Dames, ment, are to be found in Kenophon. At his Corinthians, Athenians, and others of that ceath he bequeathed the Empire unto his Nation to be her bond-women. Wherefore eldest Son Cambyses, appointing smerdis or I cannot give affent to the opinion of Codo-Tanaexares his younger fon to be satrapa, or man, who upon the near found of the two Lieutenant of Media, Armenia, and Cadusia; names, Atossa and Hadajja, (by the latter of and then died, after he had reigned (faith which Eftber was also called) makes them to throdotus) one and thirty years, or (accor- have been one person. For though it be true ding to Justine) but thirty.

ø. VIII.

jame with Qucen Hefter.

have supposed) instanced both her husbands, could have pretended a very weak claim.

Darius, and Xerxes after him, to invade But of these things more hereafter in fitter Greece, to be avenged of the whole Nation place.

feems rather to appertain to the time of Ar-And thus much concerning the rebuild- taxerxes Longinanus, than of Darius the fon that Eliber concerning her parentage, a while might be taken for a great Lady; yet Codomans inference is nothing probable, that the should therefore, and for the great affection of Cyrus his Iffue: and whether Atoffa were which the King bare unto her, be thought bis Daughter, or (as some think) were the the daughter of Cyrus. Certain it is, that Effber did at length discover her Kindred and Nation; whereby, if Histories could be kept Trus had iffue two fons, Cambyfes and free from this errour, yet the people, and Smerdis, with three daughters, Atoffa, especially the Nobility, must needs have un-Meroe, and Artsfona: Ciefias addeth to derstood the truth: who nevertheles didso these, Anytis. Atosa and Meroe their bro- well know the parentage of Atosa, that for ther Cambyles married; Artylona, Darius her (ake, a being daughter of Cyrus, her (on Vertes) being dead: who (as some Writers) for this elder brother, against whom also he byjes being dead: who (as some Writers)

CHAP. IV.

The Estate of things from the Death of Cyrus to the Reign of Darius.

ø. I.

Of the Number and Names of the Persian Kinos

F the Successors of Cyrus, and the continuance of the Persian Empire, there are many opinions As that of Metasthenes, who hath numbred the Persian Kings, and their times as followeth.

e	Darius Medus, and Cyrus joyntly. Cyrus alone. Prifeus Arlaxerxes. Darius Longimanus. Darius Nothus. Arlaxerxes Muemon.	2	}
-	Cyrus alone.	22	Ì
5	Priscus Artaxerxes.	20 37	years
h	Darius Longimanus.	37	) y cass
r	Darius Nothus.	19 55
	Artaxerxes Mnemon.	55	Artax

Artaxerxes Ochus. Arles, or Arlames. Darius, the last, conquered by Alexander.

To which Philo agreeth; which number and names Artaxerxes Affuerus, for the im- remembered. mediate successor of Cyrus; in place (faith Melandhon ) of Darius the Son of Hystaspes: the fourth, verse seven, who is also called for Metafthenes, as Melandhon conjectureth, Artha/aftha, c. 4. l. I. Ezra v. 7. and chap. 7. doth not account Cambyfes in the Catalogue, v. 7. because his reign was confounded with that

There is a second Opinion, though ridiof that Empire.

Latins follow, and so doth Krentzheim, who ling with his own Sons. hathfully answered; and, as I take it, refutheir reigns.

Mileration gios Cires bengo.	Cyrus in all. Cambyfes with the Magi.	30 <sup>3</sup>
·	Darius Hyftaspes.	36
Minii.	Xerxes.	21
but 20.	Artaxerxes Longimanus.	40	Ĺ
	Darius Nothus.	19	years.
Milett.	Artaxerxes Mnemon.	43	1
but 40. Misti.	Artaxerxes Ochus.	23	1
25.	Arsames.	3	1
Mitill. 4.	Darius the last.	6	i

all two hundred and thirty.

This account (as I have faid) the most ra I.ch. I. vers. I . and often elsewhere.

upon the Geneva understands that place; fall out right with each computation.

but, under correction, mistakes the matter

For Piolemy reckons the time answerable greatly, when he saith in the same note, that to two hundred and sour and twenty Julian Darius Hystaspes was an enemy to the people years, and an hundred and forty daies from of God, and stood against them: his great Nabonassar to the sixteenth of July, in the favour and liberality to the Jews being elfeyears. where proved.

Thirdly, Is Darius Hystaspes found in Ezra the first, c. 4.v. 5. who in the fixth verse is also named Aballuerus

Fourthly, In the eleventh of Daniel, verfe. of years added, make in all an hundred the second, Xerxes is plainly foretold and ninety and one. But in this Catalogue Meta- described, and the great War which he thenes hath left out Cambyfes and Xerxes, should make against the Greeks by Danie!

Fifthly, Artaxerxes Longimanus in Ezra

Sixthly, Darius Nothus, Ezra cap. 4. v. 24. and cap. 5. v.6. Nehem. cap. 12.v.22.

Seventhly, Artaxerxes Mnemon in Nebem. culous, of sedar Olam, who finds but four cap. 2. v. 1. who was father to Artaxerxes Terfun Kings from the beginning to the end Ochus, and Arfames: for Durius the last, he that Empire. was of another Family, the Line of Cyrus the Great ending in Ochus, who descended also a differing account from the Greeks; from Xerxes the fon of Atoffa, Cyrus his whom neverthele's Eufebins, and most of the Daughter; and the iffue male of Cyrus fail-

But to proceed, Enfebius, with the Latins fedall the former Authors varying from following the Greeks, apply the beginnings that account. For in this fort do the Greeks and ends of every Persian King with their marshal the Persian Kings with the times of Acts, to some certain Olympiad; As the War of Astyages (Cyrus his maternal Grandfather) and Algattes (Crafus his Father ) to the nine and fortieth olympiad; The beginning of Cyrus reign, to the beginning of the five and fittieth Olympiad; The taking of Sardis by Cyrus to the eight and fiftieth Olympiad; The invalion of Egypt by Cambyfes to the third year of the threescore and third Olympiad, and so of the rest. Which reference with good agreement between feveral forms of computation, add the more credit unto both.

Again, this historical demonstration is Alm. 1.3. Which numbers put together, make in confirmed by the Astronomical computation of Ptolemy, who referrs the death of Alexander the Great, who died the 12. of Chronologers, and the best learned approve. November, in the beginning of the hundred These Persian Princes, being all warranted by and fortieth Olympiad, to the four hundred the authority of the Scriptures, as Pencer and four and twentieth year after Nabonafin his historical Animadversions, hath ga- far. And the Era of Nabonas ar began on the thered the places; finding first Cyrus in the fix and twentieth of Febfuary: which, confecond of Chronicles, ch. 36. verf. 22, 23. Ez- ferred with the Olympiad, was in the ninth month of the first year of the eighth Olym-Secondly, Cambyles in the eleventh of Da- piad; So that whether we follow the acniel, who may indeed be well esteemed for counts of the Olympiads, as do the Greek Hione of those three Kings in the second verse storians, or that of Nabonassar with Ptolemy, named, and so the Marginal Commentator we shall find every memorable accident to lus, place the taking of Egypt by Cambyfes in marriage, Amasis presented him with Nitetie the second or third year of the threescore the Daughter of Apries his predecessor. and third Olympiad, and the beginning of which Cambyses disdained. Cambyfes seventh year, in the first of the Howsoever it were; true it is, that Camthreescore and fourth Olympiad: which first byses gathered an Army fit for such an enof the threescore and fourth Olympiad runs terprize, and caused the same to march. along with part of the two and twentieth But before they entred Egspt, Amalis died. of Nabonassar. The like agreement is conse- and left Psammeniticus, whom Ctesias calquently found about the beginning and end |led Amyrteus, his fucceffor; who enjoyed of Cyrus.

fucceeded Cambyjes, is according to Ptolomy though other Chronologers give him fix the two hundred and fix and fortieth of Na- years. bonassar, which observing the differences of Nabonallars Æra and the olympiad, viz. eight in one battle he loft it, and was himself taand twenty years) agrees with the third of ken prisoner. the threefcore and ninth Olympiad, wherein it is placed by the Greeks. In this Josephus the example of Cyrus, did not only spare agrees with the Greeks throughout, faving life to the conquered King, but that he also that he joyneth Darius Medus, whom Xe- trusted him with the Government of Egypt, nophon calleth Cyaxares, with Cyrus in the and that, upon some revolt, or suspicion destruction of Eulylon; which is true, and thereof, he caused him to be slaughtered. not contrary to the Greek computation, but but the race of this King was not fo extirmay very well ftand with it.

accompts of those that follow the other Catalogue of the Persian Kings formerly rehearfed, doth give the greater credit to this of the Greeks, which being constant init felf. accordeth also with the computation of other Historians, and Astronomers, and likewife with the holy Scriptures.

ø. II.

of Cambyses, and the conquering of Egyp crease the greatness of his Empire: whereof it with Carrion. he was polleft in his Fathers time, while Cyrw made war in the North. Cteffas with others give him a longer reign than agreeth [eff had untombed the carcaie of Caus Marias after his dath. E-3] with the Gracian accompt before recei-

In the fifth year of his fole reign, and in Ho. 1. 2. the third year of the threescore and third 14.83,84, Olympiad, according to Diodore and Eusebito he invaded Egypt, and having overthrown the Kingthereof, Pfanmeniticus, he not only caused him to be slain, but also did put constrained Evelthon King thereof to acto death all his kindred and dependants, knowledge him who before held that Island with the most of hischildren.

Herodotus and Ctesias give for cause of this tion of Cambyfes) that when he fent to Ama-The Greeks, and namely, Diodorus Sicu- fis King of Egypt, to have his Daughter in

CHAPLIV

Egypt after his Father (according to the best Likewise the twentieth of Darins, who Copies of Herodotus ) but fix moneths.

But how long foever he held the Crown,

It is (aid that Cambyles, following therein pated, if we may believe Herodotus and Lastly, The disagreement and confused inucydides, but that he left a Son called Inarus, who caused the Egyptians to revolt both from Xerxes and Artaxerxes.

That Plammenitions was at the first encreated gently by Camby ses, I hold it very improbable, if it be true which is also written of him, That he so much hated Amasis the King of Egypt, who died before his arrival, that he caused his body to be drawn out of the grave, and after divers indignities used, commanded the same to be burnt, contrary to the custom both of the Egyptians and Persians. For the Egyptians used to powder their dead bodies with falt, and TA7E will theretore, according to the other drugs, to the end the worms might truth, give the Empire of Persia to not devour them. The * Persians durit not Name Cambyses, the Son of Cyrus, though degene- consume them with fire, which they esteem delication rate in all things, faving the defire to in- ed as a God, and therefore feared to feed confine Plin. 1. 6. c. 54. Stra. & Jult. 1. 1 Pag. 87, 88. Her. 1. 3. Sca. 1. 7.

6. III. The rest of Cambuses his Ads.

Fter this victory obtained in Egypt Cambyses sent an Army into Cyprus, and of the Egyptians.

While Cambyses yet busied himself in War(being no other indeed than the Ambi- Egypt, he so much detested the Idolatry of CHAP. IV. Ammon; but the Devil, in defence of his that the same partiality deserved the same Oratory, raifed fuch a Tempest of Sand, punishment. wherewith the greatest part of the Country is covered, as the Perstans were therewith choaked and over-whelmed.

ing to be refifted, he prepared the reft of his tions, Praxaspes answered, That his virtues Army, which himself meant to conduct into those parts, but that finding a beginning of all men; only it was by many observed, that those incommodities, which his first-sent be took more than usual delight in the talt troopshad tryed, he changed his purpose. of Wine: with which taxation inflamed, For though conquering Kings have power he used this replication: And, Are the over men, yet the Elements do not obey Persians double-tongued, who also tell me, them; according to that old English Proverb, that I have in all things excelled my Father Go, faith the King; Stay, faith the Tide.

After his return from the attempt of

worthipped by that Nationas God, to be proceeded from true zeal, and been execu- mark, I am then pleafed that the fame be ted as in service of him that only is, and accounted true, and my subjects believed. liveth. But foon afterwards, when in a This being spoken, he immediately directed dream it seemed unto him that Smerdis did an Arrow towards the innocent child, who fit in the Royal Throne of Persta (which ap- | falling down dead with the stroak, Cambyses parition was verified in Smerdis the Magus ) hegaveit in charge to his favourite Praxaf- heart being broached on the Arrow, this per, to murther Smerdis his Brother. And monstrous Tyrant greatly rejoycing, shewed having married his own Sifters, contrary to it to the Father, with this faying inftead of the Persian Laws, he committed a most cause- | an Epitaph : Now Praxaspes, thou mayest reless and most detestable murder upon the folve thy felf, that I have not lost my wits with one of them called Meroe , then by himself Wine, but the Persians theirs , who make such with child, because she bewaited the death report. of her Brother Smerdis. I find it written of cerned not the Kings private satisfaction, he Magi governed, while he was absent. cauled sisamnus, one of his Judges, and per- In Cambyses the Male-Line of Cyrus failed. chance one of those which favoured his in- For he had no issue either by Atossa or that Nation, as he caused the Images them- | cestuous match, to be flayed alive, for an that is across, to be hayed anvey for an felves, with the Temples wherein they were unjust judgement given, and the same his worthipped, to be torn down and defaced. hide to be hung up over the judgement-feat. Worman France of This done, he directed a part of his Army in After which, bestowing the Fathers Office to Lybia, to overturn the Temple of Jupiter on his Son, he willed him to remember

547

Among other his cruelties, that which he exercifed against the Son of his beloved Praxaspes, was very strange and ungrateful. Notwithstanding which misadventure, For when he defired to be truly informed by Heredoins and Seneca report, that, difdain- him what the Persians thought of his condiwere followed with abundant praise from Cyrus? Thou Praxaspes shalt then witness, whether in this report they have done me Æthiopia, he caused Apis the Egyptian Bull, right: for, if at the first shot I pierce thy Sons heart with an Arrow, then is it falle flain: a deed very commendable, had it that hath been spoken; but if I mis the commanded his body to be opened, and his

Many other barbarous cruelties he exerthis Cambyjes. That because his Predecessors cised, till at the last, according to the phrase observed religiously the Ordinances of their of our Law, he became felon de foy. For when Empire, he affembled his Judges and enqui- he was informed, that Patizites, and Smerred of them, whether there were any Law dis the Migi ( Cedrenus writeth them Sphenamong the Perstans that did permit the Bro- danis and Cimerdius ) Ministers of his dother tomarry his own Sifter; it being his meltical affairs, taking advantage of the own intent to to do: The Judges (who had great resemblance between smerdis the alwayes either Laws or distinctions in store Kings Brother, and Smerdis the Magus, pos to satisfie Kings and times) made answer, sest themselves of the Empire, he made all That there was not any thing written allow- hafte towards Persia; and in mounting haing any such conjunction, but they not with- stilly on horse-back, his sword dis-sheathing, standing found it in their customs, that it pierced his own thigh, wherewith deadly was alwayes left to the will of the Persian wounded, falling into an over-late and re-Kings, to do what best pleased themselves; mediless repentance of the slaughter which and io, as Nauclerus terms it, invenerunt oc he had executed upon his own Brother, he cassonem: that is as much to say, The Judges soonafter gave up his wicked ghost, when found a shift to please the King, and to se- he had reigned eight years, accounting cure themselves. And yet, where it con-therein those seven months in which the

Zzz 2

CHAP. V.

Cor. 1.4.

Zon, Con, ... Meroe: yet Zonarus out of Hierom gives him | upon the Laws of their Country; take other a Daughter called Pantaptes, and a Son mens wives by force, and deftroy whom called Orontes: who being drowned in the they please without judgement. River Ophites by Antioch . the fame was afterward, in memory of the Princes death, cal- firming that the tyranny of a multitude was the place where Latopolis was formerly lea- judgement, run into business and affairs with ted, and that of Ateroe in the Island of Ni- precipitation, like raging and over-bearing lus, calling it by the name of his Sifter Hoods. Meroe.

o. IV.

of the Inter-regnum between Cambyfes and from excellent men. Darius.

one of the Migi, the counterfeit of Smerdis, ever happen that the discord of many Ruthe Princes, or Satrapa's, or Provincial Go- lers hath enforc'd the election of One Suvernors of the Empire (to wit, Otanes, In- preme. It were therefore, faith Darin, taphernes, Gobrias, Megabysus, Afphatines, Hi- | far fafer to observe the Laws of our Coundarnes, and Darius, who were all descended try, by which Kingly Government hath from Achamenes the first Perfian King ) had been ordained. ving discovered the fraud of this imposture, joyned their forces together, surprized and riss, and agreed to continue the same Imperooted out the Conspirator with his Companions and Affistants. In which action (faith Justin) Intaphernes and Asphatines it was accorded, that the morning followwere flain: but Herodotus otherwife, that ing these seven Princes should mount on they were only wounded; for he avoweth, Horse-back, and on him the Kingdom should that all the seven Princes were present at be conferred, whose Horse, after the Sun-Horse the election following.

For the Empire being now without a Governour, these Princes grew into a consultation how the same might be ordered from of his Horse Ocharus, who, in the Suburbs of thenceforth. Otanes (one of the Seven) did the City, where the election was resolved not fancy any election of Kings, but that of, caused the same Horse, whereon in the the Nobility and Cities should confederate, morning Darius was mounted, to cover a and by just Laws defend their Libertie in Mare, who, as foon as he came into the same equality, giving divers reasons for his Opinion, being, as it seemed, greatly terrified Whereupon the other six princes descended by the cruelties of Cambyfes: As first, that from their Horses, and acknowledged Dait was not fafe to give all power to any one, rim for their Lord and King. feeing greatness it self, even in good men, Plato in the third of his Laws affirmeth, doth often infect the mind with many vices, that in memory of the feven Princes, and that liberty and freedom in all things is whereof Darius himself was one, that demost apt to insult, and to commit all man-livered the Empire from the usurpation of ner of wicked ourrage. Again, that Tyrants the Magi, he divided the whole into feven do commonly use the service of wicked Governments; Herodotus saith, into twenmen, and favour them most; they usurp ty satrapies.

Megabysus was of another Opinion, afthrice more intolerable than that of One. He built the City of Babylon in Egypt, in For the multitude do all things without

He therefore thought it fafest to make election of a few, and those of the best, wisest, and most vertuous; because it is ever found, that excellent Counfels are ever had

Darius gave the third judgement, who perswaded the creation of a King, because Trus and his two Sons being now dead, even among few diuturnity of concord is and the Kingdom in the possession of seldom found, and in great Empires it doth

> The other four Princes adhered to Darial Government, by God established and made prosperous. And, to avoid partiality rifing, should first ney or bray. In the even-to, in ing, after thisappointment was made, it is said, that Darius consulted with the Master

CHAP. V.

Of Darius the lon of Hystaspes,

ø. I.

of Darius bis Linage,

Arius was descended of the antient Persian Kings, to wit, of the Achemenida, of which, Cyrus the Great was the lineal successor. For in of Darius his Government, and suppressing the this fort Herodotus derives him as before ;

corus the first, who had Teispius, who begat Ariaramnes, who was father of Arfamnes, the father of Hystaspes, the father of Darius, firnamed Celes, the father of Xerxes.

the wars against the soythians: at which fourteen thousand five hundred and threetime Cyrus being made jealous of Darius by score talents, saith Herodotus. a dream of his own, caused him to be sent into Persia; others say to be imprisoned, from in Egypt, and the contention between the whence by the death of Cyrus he was deli- Magi and the Princes of Persia, for the Emvered, and made Governour of the Persian pirc, gave heart to the Babylonians to recover Magi. He afterward followed Cambyfes into their liberty, and to shake off the Persian Egypt; he then joyned with the rest of the yoke; whereof Darius being advertised, he Necces for his wives.

137 befides Darius, these three sons, who were accused the cruelty of Darius: who, for P2. 132. great Commanders in the War which Darrus having given him advice to give over the Prison made in Asia the less, Thrace, Macedon, and frequency of their City, had in this fort dismension. Greece: Atames, Artaphernes, and Artaba-bred and deformed him; whereupon the Babylonians gave him that credit, as they trufted him with the disposition and commandment him with the disposition and commandment Pag. 185. married to Gobrius the Father of Mardoni- of their greatest forces: which when Zopy-190.18, who commanded the Army of Darius in rus had obtained, after some small coloura-Macedon, and married the Daughter of Da- ble over-throws given to the Persians upon rebellion of Babylon.

204. rius Artosoftre, his Cosen german. rius who succeeded Cambyses, Artabanus, moneths. BORNES Daughters, Otanes, and Atarnes, with two bornes, Daughters.

32.

6. II.

Arius devised equal laws whereby his Subjects might be Governed, the same being formerly promised by Cyrus. He gave access to all his Subjects, and behaved himfelf so mildly to all men, that many Nations defired and offered themselves to become his Vassals: Only he laid divers payments and taxes on the people, which had not been Hylaspes accompanied Cyrus the Great, in accustomed in Cyrus time, to the value of

The war which Cambyfes made a far off Princes against the Magi, and either by the prepared an Army to recover that City and neying of his horse, or, asothers affirm, by State revolted. But finding the same a difftronghand he obtained the Empire, which ficult work, he used the service of Zopyrus, he the more assured to himself by taking who for the love he bare Darius, did cut off twoof Cyrus Daughters, and as many of his his own Ears and Nofe, and with other wounds yet fresh bleeding, he seemed to fly Hyftaspes, according to * Herodotus, had, to the Babylonians for succour, to whom he sallies, he delivered the City into Darius his Reineccine gives to Hyfraffes five fons, Da-

55°

the Temple.

TN the second year of Darins, he gave or- which Nation, being a Colony of the Greeken. der that the building of the Temple at Diodorus calleth Traytors to their Country, Hierusalem should go on , and commanded because they joyned themselves to Daring. that the fame thould be inithed at his own But the soythians more elegantly termed charge, and out of the revenues of the them good flaves, for as much as they would Crown. And whereas the Governours of not run away from their Master, but were those Provinces which are fituate between more mindful of doing their duties, than of house. 5. Fuphrates and the Phanician, and midland shaking off their bondage, when they were Sea (whom Ezr. calleth the Captains be- presented with as fair an occasion of liberty yond the River) had hindred the work in as could have been defired. For the great Cambifes his time, Darius gave commande- Army of Darius entring the defart Country ment that they should not thence-forth called Beffarabia, found in it neither people come near unto Jernfalem, to give any im- to relift them, nor any fustenance to relieve pediment to the building, but that they them. For the Soythians were then, as are thould withdraw themselves, and get them the Chrim Tartars, their posterity, at this far off till all were finished, and at an end. day, all horse-men, using the Bow and Sword. In the old Latine it is written, Procul recedite They were not Plough-men, but Grafiers, ab illis ; With-draw your felves far from them ; driving their Heards from one place to ano-In our English, Be je far from thence, to wit, ther, as opportunity of Pasture led them. from the City and Temple now in build Standing Towns they had none, but used his own Subjects, That wholoever should thenceforth hinder the fetting up of the good order, making Streets and Lanes in the Temple of God, that his house should be manner of a great Town, removeable at torn down, and the disturber hanged on the their pleasure. Neither hath the Emperour Gallows made of the timber thereof. Heal! himfelf, called now the great Chrim, any Eval. 11. in the same Decree maketh invocation to other City than such as Agora, (as they God: That hath caused his Name to dwell there name it or town of Carts. When as there-(10) deliroy all Kings and people that put their fore Durins had wearied himself, and wasted hands to alter, and to destroy this house of God his provision in those desolate Regions, which is in Jerufalem, &c. In four years after which Decree (the Jews being really furnished with mony and all things necessity furnished with mony and all things necessity for the second sec fary from Darius ) the Temple was in all thing at all, which either he himfelf might finished, to wit, in the beginning of the make use of, or by destroying it might Spring, in the fixth year of Darius Hystaspes, grieve his enemies, he began to perceive his and in the two and fortieth after their first own folly, and the danger into which he return.

> ø. IV of Darius bis Scythian War.

Fter the recovery of Babylon he inva-Aded the Scythians, whose King Justin whom was Miltiades, who perswaded the brym, one of the seven Princes, who had

Asian Grecians to break down the bridge, to the end Darius might not return thereby of Darius his favour to the Jews in building and if by any other way, then not without great difficulty; but the fame was refifted by Hiltians Prince of Milet, a City of Ionia. for Houses the Waggons wherein they car-He also made a Decree which concerned lied their wives and children. These Waggons they place at every Station in very had brought him. Yet letting a good face upon abad game, he sent brave messages to the Sesthian, bidding him to cease his flight, and either to make trial of his valour and fortune in plain battle; Or, if heacknowledged himfelf the weaker, then to yield by fair means, and become his Subject; giving him Earth and Water, which the Persians calleth Lauthimus; and faith, that Darius used to demand as a sign that all was yielded undertook this war against him, because he unto them. To this challenge the Scythian refused him his Daughter in marriage. The returned an Hieroglyphical answer; sending better to convoy his Army into Scythia, he a Bird, a Frog, a Mouse, and five Arrows: built a bridge of small Vessels over the Ri- which dumb shew Darius interpreting by his ver Ister or Danubius, and gave the custody own wish, thought that he did yield all the of the same in charge (among others of Asia Elements wherein those creatures live, and the less) to the Ionians and Eolians, among his weapons withall into his hands. But GoCamp by night, making many fires, and leaving all that were fick and weak behind him, either good or harm. Which words had certainly been proved true, had not Hyltia. attend the coming of Darius, whom the sesthians did likewise fail to meet, when they returned from Ifter to feck him out.

ø. V.

Some actions of the Perfians in Europe, after the Scythian War.

Darius having thus escaped out of Seythia, determined the invasion of The first occasion of the War which Darius Thrace and Macedon, in which War he employed Megabasus, who mastered the Paonians, and transplanted them, and possest Perinthus, Chalcedon, Byzantium, and other places, being also soon after subjected, and were well filled with wine, and prefumed Athens.

than the Mugi, construed their meaning upon their greatness and many Victories, benam the many victories, or perfians, ger gan to use such embracings, and other laciaright, wings like Eirds, or dive under the mater, vous behaviour towards those Noble Laor every into holes in the earth, for elfe se field dies, as Alexander the Kings ion, great or tree fine grant and this interpreta Grandfather to Alexander the Great, difnot ejease our arrows from verified by the Softhians daining the Persans barbarous presumption, tion was 1000 themselves, who assaided the Persian camp belought his Father to with-draw himself draw the horse-men into the trenches, and from the assembly, continuing notwithrexed the Army with continual Allarums standing all honourable respect towards the day and night; were fo fearless or this great Embaliadors, whom withall he entreated day and mgms, were retained than that the Ladies might refresh themselves for Monarch, and so little regarded him, that within his hearing, and even in his fight, they did not forbear the paltime of courfthey did not forbear the paltime of courfThis being obtained, Alexander caused the ing a Harc, which they had ftarted by like number of well-favoured young men mg a hance. By this boldness of theirs, Darius to clothe themselves in the same garments, was io discouraged, that he for ook his and to use the same attires which the Ladies That when the Persians offered to abuse and fo with all speed marched away towards them, they should forthwith transpierce the River Ister. He was pursued hardly by them with their long knives, of which they the systiams, who mist him; yet arriving at the Bridge before him, perswaded the lonian to depart, affuring them that the Persian after given by Darius for a severe revenge king thould never more be able to do them of this murder: But Alexander formewhat before the death of Amintas, gave his litter Gygea in marriage to Bubaris, a principal us the Milestan prevailed with his people, to Commander of Darius forces on that side, the Alliance of Macedon would prove for the invasion of Attica intended, so prevailed, as Alexander escaped that tempest, which threatned to fall upon him very fuddenly; the war of Afathe leis, called Ionick, falling out at the same time.

made upon Greece, with a rehearfal of the government in Athens, whence the quarrel

NOw the better to understand the reaadded to the Persian Empire by Otanes, the fon and motives of that great War, fon of sysammes, whom Cambyses had excori- which followed soon after, between the ated for false judgement. So were the Ci- Perstans and Grecians, it is necellary to tues of * Selbiria, and a Cardia likewisctaken make a short repetition of the state of in from the Perstan, who having now re- Athens, which City endured the hardest and duced under his obeyfance the best part of worst brunt of Darius invasion on that side Thrace, did send his Embassiadors to Amintas the Sea, with admirable success. Neither do King of Macedon adjoyning, demanding of I hold it any impertinency to be large in him by the Earth and Water, the Sove- unfolding every circumstance of so great a Taignty over that Kingdom. Amintas business as gave fire to those wars, which nedoubting his own strength, entertained the ver could be throughly quenched, until in Embassadors with gentle words, and after-the ruin of this great Persan Monarchy. Perwards invited them to a solemn and magni- Jepolis the Capital City of the Empire, was at ficent feast; the Persians greatly desired that the request of an Athenian Harlot consumed the Macedonian Ladies might be present : with a flame, as dreadful, as in the pride which being granted, the Embassadors, who of their greatness, the Persians had raised in Now

CHAR V

Now therefore as out of the former books | Abfander. it may be gathered, how Athens and other Erixias was the last Archon of the decennial parts of Greece, were antiently Governed, the same being already fet down, though featteringly, and in feveral times, among other the Contemporary occurrents of the Eastern Emperours, and the Kings of Judas; fo I thought it very pertinent in this place to remember again the two last Anthostenes. changes in the State of Athens. As for the Archimedes. Lacedamonians, they maintained still their Miltiades. ancient polity under Kings , though these Damisias. also after some sisteen descents were bridl- Draco.

ed by the Ephori. Codrus King of the Athenians, in the former books remembred, who willingly died for the fafety of his people, was therefore fo honoured by them, as (thinking none worthy to succeed him) they changed their dom, gave Laws to the Athenians, which former Government from Monarchial to were published, according to Gellius, in the Princes for term of life, of which Medon the three and thirtieth year of Tarquinius Prifius, Son of Codrus was the first after whom they and were in after ages derived unto the Rowere called Medoniide; and of these there mans, and by the Decem-viri (Magistratesia were twelve Generations besides Medon, to wit,

Agestus.

552

ing to Eusebius: which migration all forty.

Thersippus. Phorbas.

Mezades.

Diogenetus, in whose time Lycurgus gave Laws to the Spartans.

Pheredus.

Ariphron. Arbaces.

Agamnestor. ing to Eusebius ) were erected in Laceda-first Archon, was

Charops, then Æsymedes. Elydicus. Hippomines. Legarates.

Governours, which from continuing threescore and ten years, was then changed into annual Magistrates, Maiors, or Burg-masters, of which Theseur was the first, according to Paulanias: others find Leoftratus; and then

Mee acles. Solon, and others, who are the less to be regarded, by reason of the yearly change. This solon being a man of excellent wifto Twelve Tables, which were the ground of the Roman Laws. But these goodly ordi-Archippus, in whose times the Greeks trans- nances of Solon, were in his own dayes violaported themselves into Ionia, after Troy ted, and for a while almost quite extinguishan hundred and fourscore years, accor- ed. For whereas they were framed unto the practice and maintenance of a popular Goother Chronologers ( fuch as follow vernment; the state of Athens was very Eusebius herein excepted) find in the soon changed into a Monarchy by Piffirayear after Troy fallen one hundred and tus the fon of Hippocrates : who finding the Citizens distracted into two factions, whereof Megacles and Lycurgus, two Citizens of Noble Families, were become the heads, took occasion by their contention and infolency to raife a third faction more powerful than the other two, and more plaufible, for that he seemed a Protector of the Citizens in General. Having by Theispins, in whose time the Assyrian Em- this means obtained love and credit, he pire was overthrown by Belochus and wounded himfelf, and fained that by malice of his enemies he had like to have been flain for his love to the good Citi-169. Æschylus, in whose time the Ephori (accord- zens; he procured a Guard for his defence, and with that band of men furprising the State-house, or Cittadel of Athens, he made Pas, 175 Alcamenon, the last Prince for life, after himself Lord of the Town; Hegessfratus bewhose death the Athenians elected De- ing then governour. But the Citizens, who cennial Governours: the former Princes in every change of Government had fought for life having continued in all three to remove themselves further and further hundred and fixteen years. The first of from the form of a Monarchy, could soil those that Governed for ten years, or the brook this usurpation of Pisstratus, that he was driven for lack of help, to fly the Town, as foon as Megacles and Lycurgus (joyning their forces ) attempted his expulsion. Yet as the building of his Tyranny, founded upon the diffention of the Citizens, was ruined by their good agreement; fo was it

foonafter well re-edified by the new break- ly favoured by Darius, to whose Son Hypoing out of the old factions. For when Megaling out of the old factions for when Megaling out of the old factions for when Megaling out of the old factions. illy found the power of Lycurgus to grow riage. But some three years after the death greater thanhis own, he did (as is the ufual of his Brother, doubting I know not what practice of the weaker fide) call in the com-monenemy fiffralus, to whom he gave his Daughter in marriage; by which alliance neither Pifftratus the Father, nor Hippias the Family of the Alemaonida, whereof Me- himself had ever exercised, during their gales was chief, became very powerful, yet usurpation till this time. And therefore the io, that Pifffratus by their power was made Athenians fearing left that this difease might Malter both of them and all the rest. But this rather increase than diminish in Hippias. agreement held not long; the Alemaonida, they stirred up Clistines, one of the noblest and especially Megacles, being incensed a and best able of their City, to practise their and especially for his middemeanour to-delivery: who, calling to his affiftance the wards his Wife. Wherefore they practifed banished Alemaonide, together with an Army by with the Souldiers of the Town, proceeding of the Lacedamonians led by Cleomenes their that by with the treason so secretly, and so far, that King, so affrighted Hippins, as by his compopiffratus (upon the first discovery of their lition he gave over his estate, and the posintent) perceived no other remedy for his session of Athens, and from thence imbarkaffairs, than to withdraw himfelf to Eretria, ing himfelf took Land at * Sigeum, whence * Sigeum, a and to whether the manned eleven years. Which time he went to Lampfacus in Myfa governed by ry opposite called the went to Lampfacus in Myfa governed by the promoter of the went to Lampfacus in Myfa governed by the promoter of the went to Lampfacus in Myfa governed by the promoter of the went to Lampfacus in Myfa governed by the promoter of the went to Lampfacus in Myfa governed by the promoter of the went to Lampfacus in Myfa governed by the promoter of the went to Lampfacus in Myfa governed by the promoter of the went to Lampfacus in Myfa governed by the Went to Lampfacus in Myfa governed by the Went to Lampfacus in Myfa governed by the Went to Lampfacus in Myfa governed by the Went to Lampfacus in Myfa governed by the Went to Lampfacus in Myfa governed by the Went to Lampfacus in Myfa governed by the Went to Lampfacus in Myfa governed by the Went to Lampfacus in Myfa governed by the Went to Lampfacus in Myfa governed by the Went to Lampf being expired, having hired Souldiers out of Autides, who presented him to Darius. He to the Ille being expired, naving interesting the description of the description o principality of Ashens: after which third Thurydides agree, twenty years before the in. is 5. fore, as after his several expulsions. Herodo- which Darius in the end to his great dishotw gives the Father and the Son fix and thir- nour undertook, twenty years after Hippias ty years ; Aristotle five and thirty. But Thu- had refigned his estate. cydides affirmeth, that he died very old, lea-with such moderation, as they rather seemof Athens, his Brother Hipparchus was mur- most urgent. dered by Harmodius and Aristogiton. The cause why, and the manner how performed, Thusydides hath written at large. And, tural lust after Harmodius, yet Plato in his Dialogue, intituled Hipparchus, doth greatly magnifie him, affirming that he was a Prince of as many eminent virtues as that Age had any, altogether condemning the murderers, and authors of that scandal. Hippias fearing that this enterprize upon his Brother had more and deeper roots than were apparent, obtaining his estate, he governed Athens battel of Marathon: all which time he con-Acinal feventeen years, according to Ariffotle, and tinued, partly with Eantides, at other times 200 months reigned in all thirty and three years, faith with Artaphernes Lieutenant for Darius in inc. Elianus, but, as Juftin hath it, four and thir- Sardis, the Metropolis of Lydia; perswading ty; accounting the time belike as well be- and practifing the enterprize upon Athens,

CHAP. V.

Thus far I have digressed from Darius, to ving for his Succeffors, his two Sons, Hippias the end the Reader may conceive the betand Hipparchus, who governed the Athenians ter, the causes and motives of this War: whereof the hope that Hippias had to be reedthe Lineal fuccessors of a natural Prince stored to Athens by the help of Darins, which than of a Tyrant. But in the end, and some made him solicit and perswade the Persians three years before Hippias was expelled out to conquer Greece, was one, but not the

ø, VII.

though Hipparchus was charged with unna- of the Ionian Rebellion, which was the principal cause of the Wars ensuing between Greece and Persia.

Nother, and a strong motive to this A expedition, was the Ionick War, breaking out in Ale about the same time. The Colonies transported out of Greece into Asia, which occupied the greatest part of the Seafirst sought to discover the further intents coast, having enjoyed their liberty about of Harmodius and Ariflogiton, by a Harlot 500 years, even from the lonick migration, the in of theirs called Lemnia: who, because she to the time of Cresus, were by this Lydian adjugan ou uters caused Lemnia: who, because he had afterwards as a superfection would not reveal her Companions, did cut King made Tributaries, and afterwards as the half white make out her own tongue. Then did Hippins, the parcel of his Dominions, were taken in by better to strengthen himself, enter into a Crown, and lest as hereditary Servants to the Crown of Persa.

Grant amity with Eastides, Tyrant of the Crown of Persa.

City Lampfacus, whom he knew to be great- But as it is the cultom of Nations halfconquered CHAP. V upon every advantage and opportunity: fo that might befall him, as one that had wadid the Ionians, and other Gracians, both in fled the King's treasures to no good pur-Gress his life, and after him, feek by all means pofe.

pollible to free themselves.

to four them into Rebellion, as had by the Countrey of long into the same course Perfun been given unto them for bridles to which he determined to run, he abandoned hold them in Jubjection. Every one of those his tyranny, and did tet Miletus at liberty. Towns had a Lord to rule it, whom they This plautible beginning wan unto him the (abhorring the Government of one man) hearts of the Milejians: and his proceeding called their Tyrants. These Lords were vety true to the Perstan, by whose only might he took and fold as flaves to their Citizens. they held the people in Subjection. And this others he chased away ) caused the whole their dutifull affection they had well decla- Nation to be at his command. The Persian red, when Darius, being in great extremity, Fieet, whereof he lately had been Admiral they used all means to deliver him and his in the enterprize of Naxos, he had surprized Army (that otherwise had been lost) out or in his first breaking out, together with the the Sottians hand. Of this great piece of principal Officers, and Captains; fo that now fervice Histories the Tyrant of Miletus ex- he thought himself able to deal with the pected the chief thanks, as having been chief great King's forces, lying thereabout, either Author of their expecting Darius, when the by Land or Sea. But likely it was that the reft, either perswaded by the scythians, or power of all Asia would shortly be upon his carried away with their own defires, were neck, and crush both him and his assistants ready to have abandoned him. But it came to pieces, unless he were able to raise an Arfo to pass, that Darius being more fearful of my that might hold the field, which the the harm that Histiaus (being powerful and lonians alone were insufficient to perform. crafty) might do to him in the future, than Therefore he took a journey to Sparia. mindful of the good which he had already received at his hand, found means to carry him along to sufa, where he detained him win to his party Cleomenes King of the Lacewith all kind utage of a friend, yet kept fuch demonians: he went from thence to Athens, good espial upon him, as an enemy, he could and with better success besought the people not fart away. Hifireus had subtilty enough to lend him their assistance. The Athenian to discover the Kings purpose, which ili Ambasiadours which had been sent to the agreed with his own defires. For he thought Perfian Kings Lieutenant in the lower Ala, it more pleasant, and more honourable to desiring them not to give countenance to rule as Prince in one fair City, having a Hippias, now a banished man, and lately their fmall Territory, than to fit and feaft at the Tyrant, were a while before this returned great King's Table, and hear the Counfels with ill answers, having found very churlish by which a large Empire was managed; be- entertainment. So that the evil which they ing himfelf an idle beholder, and enjoying were to expect in all likelihood from the with much restraint of liberty, none other Persian, made them willing to begin with pleasures than a private man might bestow him. To which purpose, their consanguinity upon himfelf.

Wherefore he bethought himself of raifing of some tumults in the lower Asia, to pa-

conquered (witness Ireland) to rebell again in fear of difgrace, if not of some surther ill

Therefore he readily embraced the coun-At this time they found fuch men ready fel: and the better to draw the whole with other Ionian Tyrants ( of whom fone where having affayed in vain with many arguments, and the offer of fifty Talents, to with the Ionians, and the persivations of Aristagoras, drew them on apace, if perhaps his treasure were not helping. Twenty ships cifie which, if he might be fent, as one that the Athenians furnished for this Voyage; to had great experience and authority in those which the Eretrians furnished five more, in quarters, it would afterwards be in his regard of the ancient Kindness that had pafpower to stay at home, and either satisfie the sed between the Ionians and them. With King with excuses, or deal as occasion shall these and their own forces joyned, the lonirequire. Resolving upon this course, he sent ans entred the River Caiffrus, which falleth very fecret instructions to Ariflagoras his into the Sea by Ephejus: by which advankiniman, whom he had left his Deputy at tage they furprized Sardis, when no enemy Miletus, adviling him to ftir up some Rebel | was heard of or suspected; insomuch, as Arlion. These directions came scassonably to staphernes, who ruled as Vice-roy in those Ariftagoras, who having failed in an enter- parts, had no other hope of fafety, than by prize upon the lile of Naxos, through the retreating himselfinto the Castle, which the falle dealing of a Persian his Associate, stood Gracians could not force: from whence he

HAP. V.

the City flaming. Burgers, began to encourage them to de Bargers, began to the barket place, against him. These provocations did rather tence, and recovered the Market place, against him. These provocations did rather tence, and trengthened by the River Padolus, which breed in him a defire to abate their pride, trenguence it; and borrowing courage than any fear of harm that they were like ran thorow it; and both defended them to do him. For what they had done at Sar-Army, the rest saving themselves in Ephesus. was by that excellent Poet Simonides preferved. After this overthrow, the Athenians which were before fent unto Ariftagoras, and theirs, no not by their tears, be perswaded to make any second trial of their fortunes on that fide the Sea.

Yet the burning of Sardis made a greater noise in the world, than the late good sucpart of Caria; and fending their Fleet into threw him, and cut his troops in pieces. lately subdued by Cambyses, began hereupderacy with the Ionians, who were able to was glad to flye from his Lieutenants, by give them aid by Sea, rebelled against the whom his double-dealing was detected. Persians.

think, that they would not have dared to given to his dead body that was crucified, attempt such things, but by the instigation and by his heavy taking of his death. ced any further.

beheld the flaughter of the Citizens, and the whole Nation of the Greeke; for all of The Terfant, at length, mixt with the Illanders moreover did help to furnish out tromacipe actions and their enemies 3 who well dis, was but by furprize. In every fight they were beaten by the Perstans, who had advining could toward the Sea fide. But Artaphernes not yet lost the fruits of their discipline, could toward the date of the frength he could, wherein Cyrus had trained them, nor all naving games and found them near their ancient Captains. In one Sea-fight by purined the of capitals in one sear ngitt by the life of Cyprus, the Ionians indeed had them, he flaughtered a great part of their the upper hand; but they were Phaenicians, Army, the Evalcidet, Captain of the Ere quithed: neither was that victory of any use trians perithed: but his fame and memory to them; the Cyprians, in whole aid they Army at Land, and reduced into their old So had the Persians likewise by to the Ionians, could by no arguments of open War and fair force overthrown the Nation; as also they had recovered the Towns upon Hellefont, with some Lolian and Ionian Cities, when Ariftagoras with his friends quitting Miletus, fled into Thrace, ces which the Persians had in one or two desirous to seat himself in Amphipolis, a Coskirmishes, could raise. Wherefore the lony of the Athenians. But the Edonians, on lanian bravely proceeded, won a great whose Territory belike he landed, over-

About the same time, Histiaus, the first Towns into their hands. Yea, the Cyprians, mover of this infurrection, came down inthe performance of great matters to Darius,

But this Evasion preserved him not long. These news coming to the ear of Darius, And after many vain attempts that he made, filled him with great indignation, and with he was taken in fight by the Persaus, and an extreme hatred of the Albenians, upon hastily beheaded, lest the King should parwhom he vowed to take sharp revenge. As don him upon remembrance of old good for the Ionians, his contempt of them, and turns; as it feems that he would have done, their knowledge of his power, made him to by the burial which he commanded to be of those, to whom the ignorance of his great might had afforded the courage to Miletus; but the Citizens, doubting his conprovoke him. This was the main ground of ditions, chose rather to keep him out, and the War commenced by Darius, and purfued make thift for themselves, without his helpby Karkes, against Athens: To which the The strength of their City by Land, which folicitation of Hippins, before remembred, had in old time withflood the Lydian Kings; gave only fome form and affiftance: the bu- and their good Fleet, which promifed unto finels, when once it was thus far on foot, them the liberty of an open Sea, embolbeing like enough to have proceeded, dened them to try the uttermost, when though he had perished, ere it were advan- very few friends were left upon that Continent to take their part. But their Navy was Some other occurrences in this lonian broken as much by threatnings as by force; commotion extended the quartel of Darius many of their companions and fellow-rebels against many of the Islanders, if not against fortaking them upon hope of pardon; and them. Neither was it long before the Town it felf, being affaulted both by Lane and Sea, was taken by force, the Citizens flain, their wives and children made flaves and their goods a booty to the Ferlians whom for fix years space they had put to to much trouble.

o. VIII.

The it'ar which Darius made upon Greece with the lattell of Marathon, and Darius made on Europe fidewith variable faccels; draitly, and after fix dayes affeult, partly by During optimate in the enterprife and Con- lorce, and in part by the treafon of Emphabus enet of orece (though at first he pre- and Philagias, they took it, fackt it, and resided to make the War but against the burnt it to the ground. Thus far the winds Adherians and Ernrans, who joyedy af of profperous fortune filled their fayls From 14 to the lenions against him, and burnt Eubwathe Persians past their Army into 41-The fadours demand an acknowledgement rince of Athens, and marching towardsit, the control them all: among whom, tome of they encamped at Marathon, in the way mitted themselves; as the Aginets, and Athens. others. Against these, the Askenians being inflamed, (by the affiltance of the wherein they were to dispute with their con sund Lacedemonians ) after divers encounters own vertues against Fortune and to califors forced them to give pledges, and to re- for their liberty, for their wives, their chillinquilly the party of the Perfians. Cleamenes dren, and their lives, put themselves in the led the Lacedamonians in this War, and belt order they could to make reliftance, caused his companion King Demantus to be and withall fent away with speed to the Laderoid: who thereupon fied to Darius, cedamonians for fuecour, imploying inthat far the more confident of victory, by rea- Negotiation one Phidippides; who palling 20, 11 1, 333, 8... (on of thele difcords, alienations, and civil through areadia, encountred in the way a Wars among the Greeks. He therefore familiar Devil, which he supposed to belan, gave order to Hippagorus to prepare a Fleet who willed him to affure the Athenians of Hellefront: the same confifting of an hunin the mid-way between Afia the less, and cause or folid reason. Greece. For (obtaining those places ) the The Athenians being now left to them-Persians had then nothing to hinder the selves, with one thou and only of the Platetransportation of their forces over the A- ans (who having been formerly defended by many being daunted with the causeles alwayes both relieve themselves in the pasthight of those that thould have affilted tage, and shroud themselves from all sudden tempetts and out-rage. To this end, they first possess themselves of samos; fecondly, they attempted Naxos; Which Itland, the Inhabitants despairing of their own forces, abandoned. So oid the people of Delos of which apollo was native: Which lib nd Darms did not only forbear to fack, but recailing the inhald ants, he gave re-rio beautific the places and Altars of Sacrifice to apollo exected. And having recovered the e & other Hands, the Perfimi directed their course for Eretria in Enteraor that City ( as already bath been thewed ) had attitted the Ionians at the taking H H's War with good success finished and firing of Sardis. In this Island the Peril by the Porfians, and tome attempts and took ground, and bedeged Eretriavery Sar. is in I salas ) and now by his Ambais Inca conducted and guided by Hippins, late them not to well resolved as the rest, sub- crom the Sea, where they landed, towards

CHAP. V

The Athenians, finding the time arrived of Ships, fit to transport his Army over the victory, promifing that some one of the gods thould be prefent at the battell, toafdred thousand toot, and ten thou and horse. lift them and defend them against the mul-The charge in chief of his Army he committitude of their enemies. Phidippides at his ted to Datis, accompanied and affilted by return, teeing he could not bring with him Hippias, the Son of Pilifiratus, expelled any prefent faccours from sparta, yet he out of Alkens twenty years before, and thought it greatly availing to bring news by Artaphernes his Brother, Governour from the gods, and promife of affiltance from of sardin, and the Sca-coast of Asia the Heaven, which no doubt (though the device less. These Commanders having their was tomewhat likely to be his own, yet)it Companies brought down to the Sca-fide, greatly eucouraged the multitude and comimbarked themselves in fix hundred Gallies mon people, who in all ages have been more and other Veffels; and first of all astempt-stirred up with fond Prophecies and other ed the Illands, called Gelades, which lay like superstitious sooleries, than by any just gean Sea; but on the contrary they might the Athenians against the Thevans, did in CHAP. V. this extremity witness their thankfulness & gave. Themistocles had his first reputation in this execution) began to dispute, Whe-this fight, being but young and of the first ther it were molt for their advantage to beard. Those of the Gracians, of mark and define the walls of Alberts, or to put them commandement, that fell in the first entelves into the field with fuch forces as they counter, were Callinackus and Stefficus. It had, the same confilling of ten thousand is also said. That Greggrus following the Albenians, and one thouland of the Plateans. Persians to their embarking, laid hands on In the end, and after great divertity of opi- one of their Gallies, to have held it from nions, Alltrader, who pertiashed the trial putting off the flore, and having his right by battel, prevailed.

differed themselves into three troops: two ter happened in the first year of the threeungs or horns, as they term them; and the score and twel tholympiad, about the time body of a battel. The Perfians when they of the war made by Coriolanus against his perceived fo fmall a troop advancing to fellow-Romans: Alexander the Son of wards them, thought the Athenians rather Imputas being then King of Macedon, and if policit of their understandings than pof- Phanippo then Governour of athens, accorthey. So invincible and refittless the Per- nasseus.

hundred fourfcore and twelve. For how- a few dayes ended his life. of truth. In this fight Hippies the per- good Government.

hand cut off he yet offered to arrest it with The Armies being now in view, and his left; of which also being deprived, he within a mile of each other, the Athenians took hold of it with his teeth. This encouner panes. The resolution whereof they made ding to Plutareh, or Hibilides, after Halyear-Ant.

finiselectured their own numbers to be and the returned back into the lefter Afia, Miltan small troop of their enemies then in fians returned back into the lefter Afia, Miltans returned back into th view.rather to be despised than to be fought tiades sought and obtained an employment withall: But in conclusion, the Victory be against the Illanders of Paros, one of the ing doubtfully ballanced for a while, fome- Cyclades, and paffing over his Companies in time the vertue of the Gracians, and fome-threefcore and ten Gallies, after fix and times the number of the Persians prevailed; twenty dayes affault he brake his thigh, in the Gracians fighting for all that they had, seeking to enter it by the Temple of Ceres, the Perfuns for that they needed not, these wherewith himself being made mable, and great forces of Darius were difordered and his Companies difcouraged, he returned to put in rout; the Athenians following their Athens; where those ungrateful Citizens Viftory even to the Sca-shore; where the forgetting all his services past, and that of all Perfuns, so many of them as lost not their other the most renowned at the battel of wis with their courage, laved themselves in Marathon, did by the perswasion of Xantippus, the father of Pericles ( who envied his The Persian Army confifted of an hundred frame) cast him into prison, and set on him a thouland foot, and ten thouland horfe; of fine of fitty Talents; where his weak and which there were flain in the place fix thou- wounded body being not able to endure the fand three hundred, and ot the Grecians an one, nor his citate to pay the other, he after foever it came to pass, either by strange | Which envy of the better fort to each vilions which were afterward called Pannici other, with their private Factions, affiltterrores, or by some other affright, it seem- ed by the unthankfull and willes people, eth that the invading Army, after the first brought them not many years after, from a encounter, fought with their backs towards Victorious and famous Nation, to bate fubtheir enemy, and lost that number, by Hero- jection and flavery. Militades left behind hau down let down, in their diforderly retrait, or one fon called Cymon begotten on Hegely, il.; tather in their flat running away. As for daughter of Olorus King of Thrace, who daith Justin's report, That two hundred thou- Plutarch) was neither inferiour to his father fand of the Perfan Army were flain, the in valour nor to Themiftocles in understandfame hath no appearance nor poffibility ing, but exceeded them both in Justice and fwader of the enterprise was flain, faith Now Darius taking greater care how to Justine and Cicero; but Suidas tells us, That recover his honour, than forrow for the loss he escaped, and died most miserably in received in Greece, gave order for new levies of men, and all other warlike provinces. But The greatest honour of this Victory was the Egyptians revolting from his obedience cast upon Militades, who both perswaded (a Kingdom of great strength and revenu.) the trial by battel, and behaved himfelf greatly distracted his resolution for the therein answerably to the counsel which he re-invasion of Greece. The differtion al > 558 born after he was King, and by so great a after the battel of Marathon, and after mother as Atoffa, difdaining to give place to that he had reigned fix and thirty years. his elder brother, born before Darius ob- He left behind him five fons, namely. A. tained the Empire, greatly vexed him. tabasanes, born before he obtained the And laftly, Death, who hath no respect of Kingdom, Xerxes who succeeded him any mans affairs, gave end to all his con Achamenes Governour of Egypt, Massili, fultations and enterprifes, and joyned him and Anabigues.

among his Sons, of whom the younger being to the earth of his Ancestors, about a year

CHAP. VI.

Of Xerxes.

The preparations of Xerxes against Greece.

FErxes received from his Father, which he finished so speedily, (as it is written of him) or fearing the that there is nothing remaining in writing how the same was performed: the those that opposed his desire to this War other against the Gracians, of which it is (changing opinion and counsel) affisted the hard to judge, whether the preparations were more terrible, or the fuccess had. ridiculous. In the confultation for the profecution of this War, which was chiefly bent against the Athenians, the Princes of Persia were divided in opinion. Mardoning, who had formerly commanded in the Persian Empire, consisted of seventeen Thrace and Macedon, under Darius, and hundred thousand foot, and eighty thouhad also Hystaspes for his Grandfather, as fand Horsemen, besides Chariots, Camels, Xerxes had, and married Xerxes his fifter and other Beafts of Carriage, if we may Artozoftres, perswaded by many arguments believe Herodotus: for of this multitude, believe the Europaan War. But Artabanus, Bro- Trogus finds the number less by seven hunther to the late Darius, and Unkle to dred thousand footmen. Xerxes, maintained the contrary counfel, laying before Xerxes the lamentable were the Princes of the blood of Persia, eiand ridiculous fuccess of the two late ther by marriage in the Kings house, or Invasions, which Darius had made contrary otherwise; for to these were all commandto his counsel: The one in person upon the ments of this nature given, some few peo-Scythians, the other by his Lieutenants upon the Greeks; in each of which Darius left | ders. to his Enemies both his Army and his Ho-

He therefore befought Xerxes to be right well advised before he did too far imbark himself in this business. For whatsoever undertaking hath deliberate and found coun- ten thousand select Persians, called the Imfel for conductor, though the success do not mortal Regiment (because if any one of alwayes answer the probability, yet hath the whole number died, or were flain, there Fortune nothing else thereof to vaunt, than was another presently chosen in his stead) the variableness of his own nature, which was given to Hydarnes; the eighty thousand only the Divine Providence, and not any horsemen were led by the sons of Data, who humane power, can constrain.

But so obstinate was the resolution of as hereditary, a double War, one Kerxes in profecution of his former intent, to be made against the Egyptians, that Artabanus, whether terrified by Visione

After the War of Egypt was ended, four years were confumed in describing and gathering an Army for this invasion: which being compounded of all Nations subject to

The Commanders of the feveral Nations ple excepted, who had of their own Lea-

The charge of the whole Army was bestowed on Mardonius, the Son of Gobrias,by a fifter of Darius, to whom were joyned some others of Xerxes his neerest kindred, as Generals over all; faving that the charge of commanded the late Army of Darius in eight turnithed by the Phanicians, who had marched. Commanders of their own Nation, and by the (Arrans, Carians, Ionians, Esolians, was a pallage for Gallies to be cut behind and iddesponines; who were trulted with Mount Athors, making the tame (with the and Haterpoortines 2 who were trutted with the turnthing of their own Velicles, though the turnthing of their own Velicles, though the turning of their own vertes, though to be an entire Island, fundring thereby by drabbone, the Son of Darius, and from the Continent of Thrace five Cities, bebarked.

d. 11.

Artabanus upon the view of the Army.

fomany of our Marks.

The King overcome with the exceeding

The Fleet of Gallies were 2200, and of the common way by which the Army

Two things he commanded to be done before he came to the Sea-fide. The one of the relation of the Vellels for transfilled the Mountain and the Cherfongias, or others. others. The feth of the veners for train note the Mountain and the Corrignitis, or portation were three thouland. There were Neck of Landit felf: a work of more oftenportunou were time throughout the week and setting and set an enterprize of allo certain Gallies furnished by Artemessa, tation, than of use, and yet an enterprize of ano certain Games, Princels of Halon ogreat wonder, the Valley which held it the caughter of a squames, reflects of the literallies, and the Islands adjoying, to the Continent having but twelve furhemagicus, and the manus aujoining, to the Continent naving but twelve introduced which her ielt commanded. Those Gallies longs (which make about a mile and a when prepared and furnished, exceeded half) to cut through, and the ditch being by ner prepared and routiness, sectors broad enough only for two Gallies to pass all the relt of the Fleet, excepting those broad enough only for two Gallies to pass an time ten of the freet, excepting time of lines of the office of the o Thylus, and Cleone.

He also gave order, that a Bridge upon Boats should be made over the Hellespont between Abidus and Selios, the Sea there Xerxes Army entertained by Pythius: bis having a mile of breadth, wanting an eighth calling of Mount Athos from the Conti- part 5, which, after the finishing, was by a nent: his Bridge of Boats over the Helle- Tempest tornasunder and dissevered whereipont : and the discourse between him and with Xerxes being more enraged than difcouraged, commanded those to be slain that were mafters of the work, and caused fix When this World of an Army was hundred threefcore and fourteen Gallies to throughly furnished, he caused all be coupled together, thereon to frame a the Nations of which it was compounded, new Bridge; which by the art and industry to make their Rendezvonz, and repair at of the Phanicians, was fo well anchored to Sardis in Lydia. And when he had affem refift both winds blowing into, and from the bled to the number of seventeen hundred EuxineSea, as the same being well boorded thousand foot, as he entred the border of and railed, the whole Army of seventeen Colerna, he was by one Pythina a Lydian en hundred thousand Foot, and fourscore tertained, who out of his Flocks and Herds thousand Horse, with all the Moyles and of Carriages, past over it into Europe in Even Army. The feaft ended, he also presented dayes and seven nights, without intermissihim with two thousand Talents of Silver, on. This transportation of Armies did and in Gold four Millions, wanting feven Cafar afterward use. And Caligula, that mad thousand of the Persian Darici; which make Emperour, in imitation of Xerxes his Bridge,

The Bridge finished, and the Army liberality of Pilius, did not only refuse his brought neer to the Sea-side, xerxes took treasure offered, but commanded that seven a view of all his Troops, assembled in the thousand Darici should be given him to Plains of Abidu, being carried up, and scarmake uphis four Millions of which, fo many ed on a place over-topping the Land round thousands were wanting when he made the about it, and the Sea adjoyning: and after he Prefent. But foon after, when Pythin be- had gloried in his own happiness, to behold fought him to spare one of his five sons from and command so many Nations, and so his attendance into Greece (because himself powerfull an Army and Fleet, he suddenly was old, and had none whom he could fo (notwithstanding) burst out into tears, well trust as his own fon) Xerzes most bar- moved with this contemplation, That in one baroully caused the young man, for whom hundred years there should not any one his father fought exemption, to be fundered furvive of that marvellous multitude : the into two parts, commanding that the one cause of which sudden change of passion half of his Carkas should be layed on the when heuttered to Artabanus his Unkle, Arright, and the other half on the left hand tabanus spake to the King to this effect: That which is more lamentable than the diffolu perchance to utter what indeed he most tion of this great Troop within that num | feared, to wit, the overthrow of the Army in ber of years by the King remembred, is, self both by Sea and Land, which soon after That the life it felf which we enjoy is yet followed. These cautions were exceeding more miserable than the end thereof: for weighty, if Xerxes his obstinacy had not misin those few dayes given us in the world, prised them. For to invade by Sea upon a there is no man among all these, or else- perilous Coast, being neither in possession where that ever found himself to accompa- of any Port, not succoured by any party. nied with happiness, but that he oftentimes may better fit a Prince presuming on his forpleased himself better with the desire and tune, than enriched with understanding, hope of death, than of living; the incident Such was the enterprise of Philip the second calamities, difeases, and forrows whereto upon England in the year 1588. who had bemankind is subject, being so many and ine-like never heard of this Counsel of Artalavitable, that the shortest life doth of tentimes nue to Xerxes, or forgotten it. appear unto us over long; to avoid all Now concerning the fecond point; It is which, there is neither refuge nor reft, but very likely that Xerxes his Army, which in defired death alone.

CHAP. VI.

being not much pleased, prayed Artabanus Carriage, should after a few dayes suffer fanot to overcast those joyes which they had mine, and using Machiavels words. Montire now in pursuit with sad remembrances. And Jans consteo; die mittout a knife. For it was holding still a doubtfull conceir, that Arta- impossible for Greece, being a ragged, strait. banus utterly condemned the invalion of and mountainous Countrey, to yield food Greece, against which he had formerly given (besides what served themselves) for twenty many firong reasons, defired him to deal hundred thousand strangers, whom they nefreely with him. Whether he were returned ver meant to entertain but with the sharpto his first resolution, that the enterprize of ned points of their Weapons, destroying Greece could not be prosperous; or whether, withall whatsoever they could not well inaccording to the change of mind put into close and defend. Nay, if we may believe him by his late Vision, he was confident of Herodotus, the Army of Xerxes, being regood fucces? Artabanus, notwithstanding viewed at Thermopyla, consisted of five milthat he assured himself of the Kings resolu- lions, two hundred eighty three thousand, tion to go on, and dared not by any new ar- two hundred twenty men, besides Launguments to batter the great purpose it self, dresses, Harlots, and Horses, and was yet he told the King, That there were two therefore likely to endure a speedy fathings which marvelloufly affrighted him, mine. and which the King should find as he feared. to be most adverse; to wit, the Sea and the lit was impossible to provide for all things; Land: The Sea, because it had no where in and that whosoever should enterprise any that part of the World any Port capable of great matter, if he gave the hearing to all fo great a Fleet ; infomuch, as if any tempest that could be objected of accidental inconshould arife, all the Continent of Greece veniences, he should never pursue the same could hardly receive them, nor all the Ha- farther than the dispute and consultation: vens thereof afford them any fafety: and which if his Predeceifors, the Persian Kings, therefore when any fuch shelter shall be had done, they had never grown to that wanting unto them, he prayed him to under- greatness, or possest so many Kingdoms and ftand, that in such a case of extremity, men Nations, as they now did; and therefore conare left to the will and disposition of For- cluded, That great enterprises were never tune, and not Fortune to the will and dispo- undertaken without great perils. Which refition of men. The Land, belides other in- folution of Xerxes was not to be condemncommodities, will be found by so much the ed, if any necessity had inforc'd him to that more an enemy, by how much the unfatiate war. But feeing the many Nations newdefire of man to obtain more and more there-of, doth lead him forward: for were there no ed, were more than could be conftrained man found to give relistance, yet the want of to obedience any longer than the powerfull means to feed such an Army, and the Famine prosperity of the Persians endured, and which cannot be prevented, will without that Greece was separated by the Sea from any other violence offered, difinable and the rest of Xerxes his Dominions (of whose consume it. By these Arguments Artabanus resolution his Father Darius had made a

could not have in it less than two millions With this melancholy discourse, Xerxes of Souls, besides his beasts for Service and

The effect of Xerxes his answer was. That hoped to have diverted Xerxes, not daring dear experience) the fruit of this War was whereon it was grounded. Furthermore, had raifed a wall with gates, which was then thofe millions of men which he transported for the most part ruined. At this entrance and yet in his own judgement not fufficient, Leonidas one of the Kings of Sparta, with and yet mans own jung on all the three hundred Laced amonians, affifted with (for me gametee in, matering on, an end one thousand Laccarmonans, annited with itrength of Thrace and Macedon ) were an one thousand Tegeate and Mantineans, one argument, that he rather hoped to fear the thousand Arcadians, and other Peloponnessargument, that it rainer in process, than that ansi, to the number of three thousand one he had any confidence in their valour and hundred in the wholesbefides one thousand ne nau any whom he conducted. For it is Phocians, four hundred Thebans, feven hunwifely faid of those uncountable multi- dred Thespians, and all the forces (such as udes: Non vires habent, sed pondus; o im- they were ) of the bordering Locrians, depedimenta potius funt, quam auxilium: They fended the passage two whole dayes togeare great in bulk, but weak in forces, and ther against that huge Army of the Persians. rather a luggage than an aid.

divers Nations, speaking divers languages, ed out of his Throne, fearing the destructibred the same confusion among the Persian on of his Army by one handful of those men Commanders when they came to fight, as it whom not long before he had utterly dedid to the builders of Babel, when they came spifed : and when the second dayes attempt towork. Whereas if Xerxes had of his five upon the Greeks had proved vain, he was almillions compounded ten Armies of fifty together ignorant how to proceed further 5 thouland chofen Souldiers in each, and fent and fo might have continued, had not a runthem yearly into Greece well victualled and nagate Grecian taught him a fecret way, by fword, or forced them to for lake their terri- ledge of mountains, and fet upon the backs mer following utterly defeated, and himfelf flain.

ø. III.

Of the fights at Thermopylæ and Artemisium.

of half an acre of ground, lying between shade.

answerable to the plantation, and the suc- the Mountains which did divide Thessalp aniwerance of the weak counsel from Greece, where sometime the Phocians The valour of the Greeks appeared so excel-Besides, as it was impossible to marshall lent in this defence, that in the first dayes such a world of men in one Army, so the night, Xerxes is said to have three times leapfurnished, he had either prevailed by the which part of his Army might ascend the tory, brought them into obedience by ne- of those who kept the Straits. But when the ceflity and famine, which cannot be refilt- most valiant of the Persian Army had almost ed. But while xerxes resolved to cut down inclosed the small forces of the Greeks, then the banks of Greece, and to let in a fea of did Leonidas, King of the Lacedamonians men upon them, he was deceived both of with his three hundred, and seven hundred his own hopes, and in their hearts whom he | The spians, which were all that abode by him, imployed, and beaten by the Greeks, both refuseto quit the place which they had unby Land and Sea ; yea, he himfelf, conduct- dertaken to make good, and with admirable ed by his fear, fled shamefully into Asia. A courage not only resist that world of men great part of his Army was buried in Greece: which charged them on all sides; but issuing the remainder whereof, which wintred out of their strength, made so great a slaughin Thessay, and led by Mardonius who perswaded the enterprise, was in the sum-called vanquishers, though all of them were flain upon the place. Xerxes, having loft in this last fight, together with twenty thoufand other Souldiers and Captains, two of his own brethren, began to doubt what inconvenience might befall him by the vertue of such as had not been present at these battels, with whom he knew that he shortly Fter such time as Xerxes had transpor- was to deal. Especially of the Spartans he 1 ted the Army over the Helleftont, and stood in great fear, whose manhood had landed in Thrace, (leaving the description of his passage along that Coast, and how him very carefully to enquire what numthe River of Lisses was drunk dry by his bers they could bring into the field. It is multitudes, and the Lake near to Piffyrus reported of Dieneces the Spartan, that when by his cattel, with other accidents in his one thought to have terrified him by marches towards Greece) I will speak of saying, That the flight of the Persian the encounters he had, and the shamefull and incredible overthrows which he received. As first at Thermopyle, a narrow passage of these for the shame of the sham CHAP. VI

Such notable resolution having as freely the other in good stead, whilst both held been expressed in deeds, as was uttered in one course, and lay not far asunder. But words, cauled the Persian to stand in great herein he was far deceived; for about the doubt, when he heard that the City of Spar- lame time that his Army had felt the valour ta could arm well-nigh eight thousand men of the Greeks by Land, his Navy likewise of the like temper, and that the other Lace made a forrowful proof of their skill and damonians, though inferior to those, were courage at Sea. The Grecians Fleet lay at very valiant men. Wherefore he alked coun- that time at Artimessum, in the straits of Esfel of Demaratus, a banished King of the bea, where the Persians thinking to encom-Spartans, who had alwaites well advited and pass them, sent two hundred fail about the instructed him in the things of Greece, what Island to fall upon them behind, using alike course were fittest to be taken in his further stratagem to that which their King did praproceedings. The opinion of Demaratus was, tiffe against Leonidus, in a case not unlike, but with far different success. For that nartogether to defend the Isthmus, that it reight row channel of the Sea, which divideth Es. neck of ground which joyneth Peloponnesus bea from the main, was in the same fortheld to the Continent. For which caute he advi- by a Navy of two hundred threefcore and fed, That three hundred thips well manued, eleven fail against the huge Persian Armado, should be sent unto the Coast of Laconia, to as the straits of Thermogyle had formerly spoil the Country, and to hold the Lacede- been maintained by Leonidas, till he was cirmonians and their neighbours busied at cumvented, as this Navy might have been home, whilst Xerxes at his leisure having sub- but was not. The departure of those two dued the rest, might afterward bring his hundred ships that were sent about the whole power upon them, who remaining de- Itland, and the cause of their voyage, was ftitute of succour, would be too weak alone too well known in the Persian Fleet, and soon to make resistance. To this purpose also the enough disclosed to the Greeks, who setting fame Demaratus further advised, That the fail by night, met them with a counter-furfaid Fleet of three hundred ships should prize, taking and sinking thirty vessels, infeize upon the Illand then called Cythera, torcing the rest to take the Sea; where, benow Cerigo, which lying near to the Coast of ing over-taken with foul weather, they were Laconia, might serve as a fit place of Ran- driven upon the Rocks, and cast all away. dezvous upon all occasions, either of their Contrariwise, the Navy of the Greeks were own defence, or endamaging the enemy: increased by the arrival of fifty three Atheren whereby that ancient speech of Chilon the man ships, and one Lemnian, which came Lacedemonian (hould be verified, that it to their party in the last fight. As thesenew were better for his Countrymen to have forces encouraged the one fide, fothefear that Isle drowned in the Sea, than stand fo of Xerxes his displeasure stirred up the other inconveniently for them as it did. What to redeem their loss with some notable exeffect this counsel might have taken, had it ploit. Wherefore setting aside their unforbeen followed, it is not easie to guess. But a tunate policy, they resolved in plain fight to contrary opinion of Achamenes, Brother to repair their honour, and casting themselves King Xerxes, was preferred as the lafer. For into the form of a Crefcent, thought foto the Perstan Fleet had been forcly vexed with inclose the Greeks, who readily did present a grievous tempest, which continued three them battel at Artemisum. whole daies together, wherein were loft up.

The fight endured from noon till night, on the Coaft of Magnessa, four hundred ships and ended with equal loss to both parts. of War, besides other vessels innumerable, For, though more of the Persians ships were accordingly as driabanus had forefeen, that funk and taken, yet the leffer loss fell altoif any such calamity should overtake them, there would not be found any Harbor wide which being small, could worse bear it. Hereenough to give them fuccour. Therefore in only the Barbarians may feem to have Achamenes perswaded his Brother not to had the worse, that they for fook the place disperse his Fleet 5 for if (faid he) after the of fight, leaving the wrack and spoils to the lofs of four hundred thips we shall fend away enemy, who nevertheless were fain to abanother three hundred to feek adventures, don presently even the passage which they then will the Greeks be strong enough by had undertaken to defend; both for that ma-Sea to encounter the reft of the Navy, which ny of their ships were forely crush in the holding all together, is invincible. To this battel, and especially because they had recounfel/exery yielded, hoping that his Land cuyed advertisement of the death of Lemi-Army and Fleet, should each of them stand dis at Thermopyle. Before they weighed Anthey should revolt unto the Greeks, or stand neutral; which perswasion, he hoped would either take some place with them, or at the least make them suspected by the

6. IV.

The attempt of Xerxes upon Apollo's Temple

Partothis Army he fent to fpoil the Temple of Delphi, which was exceeding rich by means of many Offerings that had been rather the words to the present need, than made by divers Kings, and great personages; fashioning the business to words. of all which riches it was thought that Xerxes had a better Inventory than of the goods left in his own Palace. To make relation of a great aftonishment that fell upon How Themistocles the Athenian drew the the companies which arrived at the 1 emple to have facked it, and of two Rocks that breaking from the Mount Parnassus, overwhelmed many of the Barbarians, it were peradventure somewhat superstitious. Yet children into Irazene, Egina, and Salamis, Herodotus, who lived not long after, faith, That the broken Rocks remained even to as their freedom, and the common liberty of his memory in the Temple of Minerva, whi- Greece. Nevertheles, this great zeal, which ther they rowled in their fall. And furely the Albenians did fliew for the general good this attempt of Xerxes was impious; for fee- of their Country, was ill requited by the ing he believed that Apollo was a god, he other Greeks, who with much labour were fhould not have dared to entertain a cove- hardly intreated to stay for them at Salamis, tous defire of inriching himfelf by commit- whill they removed their wives and chilit may possibly be true, that license to chastife his impiety, in such manner as is reported, was granted unto the Devil, by that Holy One, who faith, Will a man spoil his Jeany, 10. gods? and elsewhere; Hath any Nation changed their gods, which yet are no gods? Go chors, Themislocles, General of the Athenians | against Delphos, this vizzor of holy and zeacnors, transport of the watering-place lous revenge falling off, diffeovered the face engraved upon to the Ionians, that either of covetousness for much the more ugly, by fed a deteffation of the offence which the Athenians had committed in that kind by meer mischance.

The remainder of that which Xerxes did, may be expressed briefly thus: He came to Athens, which finding forfaken, he took and burnt the Cittadei, and Temple, which was therein. The Cittadel indeed was defended a while by some of more courage than wi-Thermopyle, he wasted the Country malls, had fortified that place with Boards of the Phocians, and the regions adjoyning: and Palifiadoes, too weak to hold out long, as for the Inhabitants, they chofe rather to though by their desperate valour so well fly, and referve themselves to a day of bat- maintained at the first atlault, that they ny, and to adventure their lives into his might have yielded it upon tolerable contel, man of a december of faving their wealth, by ditions, had they not vainly relyed upon the making proffer unto him of their fervice. Prophecy: whereof (being fomewhat ob-

Greeks to fight at Salamis.

He Athenians had, before the coming of Xerxes, removed their wives and not so highly prizing their houses and lands, ing facrilege upon his Temple. Wherefore dren out of the City. But when the City of Athens was taken, it was presently resolved upon, that they should forfake the isle of Salamis, and withdraw the Fleet to Ithmus: which neck of land they did purpose to fortifie against the Persians, and so to defend Peloponnesus by Land and Sea, leaving the to the Isles of Kittim, and behold, and send to rest of Greece, as indefensible, to the sury of Kedar, and take diligent heed, and fee whether the enemy. So should the Islands of Salamis there be any fuch things. Now this impiety of and Agina have been abandoned, and the Rerete was the more inexcufable, for that Families of the Athenians (which were there the Personal alledged the burning of Cybele's bestowed as in places of security) have been Temple by the Athenians, when they let fire given over into mercilels bondage. Against on the City of Sardis in Afia, to be the this resolution, Themistocles, Admiral of the ground and cause of the waste which they Athenian Fleet, very strongly made opposimade in burning of Ciries and Temples in tion, but in vain. For the Peloponnesans Greece. Whereas indeed, in the enterprize were fo possessing with fear of losing their own, which they would not hazard, that [a-new; and there (quoth he) will we plant no periwations could obtain of them to re- our felves, leaving unto you a forrowfulre. gard the citate of their dittreffed Friends membrance of my words, and of your own and Allies. Many remonitances Themisto- unthankfulness. The Peloponnesians hearing eles made unto them, to allure them to thus much, began to enter into better conabide the enemy at Salamis: As first in pri- sideration of the Athenians; whose assairs vate unto Eurybiades the Lacedemonian, Ad- depended not, as they well perceived unmiral of the whole Fleet; That the felf- on to weak terms, that they thould be drifame fear which made them forfake those ven to crouch to others; but rather were coalts of Greece, upon which they then au- fuch, as might enforce the reft to yield to chored, would atterward (if it found no them, and condefeend even to the uttermoit check at the first ) cause them also to ditie- o. their own demands. ver the Fleet, and every one of the Confe- For the Athenians, when they first emderates to withdraw himfelf to the defence braced that Heroical refolution, of leaving of his own City and Eliate: Then to the their grounds and houses to fire and ruine. Council of War, which Eurybiades upon if necessity should enforce them so far, for this motion did call together (torbearing to the prefer vation of their liberty, did employ object what want of courage might work the most of their private wealth, and all in them hereafter; ) he shewed, that the the common treasure, in building a great fight at Isthmus would be in an open Sea, Navy. By these means they hoped (which whereas it was more expedient for them, accordingly fell out) that no fuch calamihaving the fewer thips, to determine the ty thould betall them by Land, as might matter in the streights; and that, besides not well be counterpoised by great advanthe fafeguard of Agina, Megara, and Salamis, tages at Sea: Knowing well, that a strong they should by abiding where they then Fleet would either procure victory at home, were, sufficiently defend Isthmus; which the or a secure passage to any other Country. Barbarians should not so much as once look | The other States of Greece held it sufficiupon, if the Greeks obtained victory by Sea ; ent, if building a few new ships, they did which they could not fo well hope for elfe- fomewhat amend their Navy. Whereby it where, as in that prefent place which gave came to pass, that, had they been vanquishhim fo good advantage. All this would not ed, they could not have expected any ferve to retain the Peloponnesians, of whom other fortune, than either present death, or one, unworthy of memory, upbraided The- perpetual flavery; neither could they hope millocles with the lois of Athens, blaming to be victorious without the affiltance of Eurybiades for fuffering one to speak in the the Athenians, whose forces by Sea didequal Council, that had no Country of his own all theirs together; the whole confifting of to inhabit. A base and shameful objection more than three hundred and sourscore it was, to lay as a reproach that loss, which bottoms. Wherefore these Peloponnesians being voluntarily fultained for the com- beginning to suspect their own condition, mon good, was in true estimation by fo which would have stood upon desperate much the more honourable, by how much points, if the Fleet of Athens had forfaken it was the greater. But this indignity did them, were foon perswaded, by the greater exalperate Themistocles, and put into his fear of such a bad event, to forget the lefnot a fairer City than any Nation of Greece counsel of abiding at Salamis. could boast of; having well-near two hundred good ships of War, the better part of the Grecian Fleet, with which it was calle for them to transport their Fa- How the Persians consulted about giving balmilies and fubitance into any part of the World, and fettle themselves in a more secure habitation, leaving those to shift as well as they might, who in their extremity had refuted to fland by them. Herewithal mouth a reply fotharp, as availed more than fer, which they had conceived of the Perfall his former perswalions. He told them ans; and laying aside their insolent braall plainly, That the Athenians wanted very, they yielded to that most profitable

354

ø. V I.

tel: and how Themistocles by policy held the Greeks to their resolution; with the victory at Salamis thereupon ensuing.

IN the mean feafon, the Persians had enhe mentioned a Town in Italy belonging of | tred into confultation, whether it were old to the state of Athens, of which Town convenient to offer battel to the Greek, he faid an Oracle had foretold, That the or no. The rest of the Captains giving Athenians, in process of time, should build it fuch advice as they thought would belt this War in person, was of contrary opinicirculy should march toward Peloponnesus, poor desolate Island. whereby it would come to pais, that the Greek Navy (unable otherwise to continue fail for Ifthmus 3 which had pretently been long at Salamis for want of provition) should done, if the wisdom of Themstockes had not presently be differered, and every one feek- prevented it. For he perceiving what a vio ing to preferve his own City and Goods, lent fear had ftopt up their ears againft all they thould, being divided, prove unable good counfel, did practife another courfe. to relift him, who had won so far upon them and forthwith labour to prevent the execuwhen they held together. And as the pro- tion of this unwholfome decree; not fuffer fit will be great in forbearing to give bat- ing the very hour of performance to find tel; to on the other fide, the danger will be him bufie in wrangling altercation. As foon more (taid fine) which we shall undergo, than as the Council brake up. he dispatched seany need requireth us to adventure upon; cretly a trufty Gentleman to the Ferfian and the lots, in case it fall upon us, greater Captains, informing them truly of the inthan the profit of the Victory which we tended flight, and exhorting them to fend defire. For it we compel the enemies to fly, part of their Navy about the Illand, which it is more than they would have done, we incomposing the Greeks, might prevent their fitting still: but if they, as better Seamen escape; giving them withall false hope of than ours, put us to the worst, the journey his affistance. The Persians no sooner heard to Peloponue w is utterly dasht, and many that than believed these good news, well knowthe Greeks. Mardonius, whom Xerxes had if the Athenian Fleet joyned with them;

please the King their Master, had foon fave that which remained unconquered; agreed upon the fight 3 but Artemfla Queen propounding chiefly to themselves what of Hillicarnaffens, who followed Xerxes to milery would befall them, if, lofing the Victory, they should be driven into Salamis, (ii) Her counfel was, that the King himfelf there to be thut up, and belieged round in a

Hereupon they retolved forthwith to fet now declare for us, will foon revolt unto ing that the Victory was their own affured, fent for that purpose to the Fleet, related which they might easily hope, considering unto his Malter the common confent of the what ability their Malter had to recomother Captains, and withall this difagreeing pence for fo doing, both the Captains with opinion of Artemilia. The King, well pleased rich rewards, and the people with restitutiwith her advice, yet resolved upon fol- on of their City, and Territories. By these lowing the more general, but far worse means it fell out, that when the Greeks very countel of the rest; which would question- early in the morning were about to weigh les have been the same which Artemisia Anchor, they found themselves inclosed gave, had not fear and flattery made all the round with Persians, who had laboured hard Captains utter that, as out of their own all that night, fending many of their ships judgement, which they thought to be most about the lile of Salamis, to charge the eneconformable to their Princes determination. | my in rear, and landing many of their men Soit was indeed that Xerxes had entertained in the Ific of Pfittalea, which lyeth over a vain perswasion of much good, that his against salamis, to save such of their own, own presence upon the shore to behold the and kill such of the Grecian party, as by any conflict, would work among the Souldiers. misfortune should be cast upon the shore. Therefore he encamped upon the Sea-side, Thus did meer necessity enforce the Grecipitching his own Tent on the Mount Aga- ans to undertake the battel in the straights less, which is opposite unto the Isle of of salamis, where they obtained a memora-Salamis, whence at ease he might safely ble Victory, stemming the foremost of their view all which might happen in that action, lenemies, and chaing the reft, who falling having Scribes about him to write down the foul one upon another, could neither conveacts and behaviour of every Captain. The niently fight nor fly. I do not find any partinear approach of the Barbarians, together cular occurrences in this great battel to be with the news of that timorous diligence much remarkable. Sure it is, that the Scribes which their Countrymen shewed in forti- of Xerxes had a wearssom task of writing fying the Ithmus, and of a Perstan Army, down many disasters that befell the Perstan matching apace thither, did now again to Fleet, which ill acquitted it felf that day, terrifie and amaze the Peloponnessans, that doing no one piece of service worthy the no entreaty nor contestation would suffice presence of their King, or the registring of to hold them together. For they thought it his Notaries. As for the Greeks, they might meer madness to fight for a Country already | well feem to have wrought out that Victory loft, when they rather should endeavour to with equal courage, were it not that the principal CHAP. VI principal honour of that day was ascribed no such intent, but rather wished his hastv to thole of Egina, and to the Athenians, of departure, knowing that he would leave his whom it is recorded, That when the Barba- Army not fo strong, as it should have been rians did fly towards Phalerus, where the had he in person remained with it. And Land-Army of Xerxes lay, the ships of Ægina for this cause did Eurybiades give counsel. having possest the Straights, did link or take that by no means they should attempt the them whilst the Athenians did valiantly give breaking of that bridge, lest necessity charge upon those that kept the Sea, and should enforce the Persians to take more made any countenance of relitting.

ø. VII.

of things following after the battel of Salamis : and of the flight of Xerxes.

A by way of Scrutiny, to determine ther it were so that he found the bridge which of the Captains had best merited of whole, and thereby repassed into Asia; or them, in all this great Service; every whether it were torn in funder by tempests, Captain, being ambitious of that honour, and he thereby driven to imbark himtelf in did in the first place write down his own some obscure vessel, it is not greatly matename, but, in the second place, as best deser- rial; though the Greeks did most willingly ving next unto himself, almost every Suf- imbrace the latter of these reports. Howsofrage did concur upon Themistocles. Thus ever it were, this flight of his did well ease private affection yielded unto vertue, as the Country, that was thereby difburdened foon as her own turn was ferved. The Perfian of that huge throng of people, which, as King, as not amazed with this calamity, be- Locusts, had before overwhelmed it. gan to make new preparation for continuance of War; but in such fashion, that they which were best acquainted with his temper, might eafily discern his faint heart The negotiations between Mardonius and the through his painted looks. Especially Mardonius, Author of the War, began to cast a wary eye upon his Master, fearing lest his counsel should be rewarded according to the event. Wherefore purposing rather to adventure his life in pursuit of the Victory, than to cast it away by undergoing his into Thessay, whence he sent Alexander the Princes indignation, he advised the King to fon of Amyntas King of Macedon, as Embasleave unto him three hundred thousand sador to the Athenians, with promise of men, with which forces he promifed to re-large amends for all their loffes received; duce all Greece under the subjection of the and of extending their Territories as far as Persian Scepter. Herewithall he forgot not their own desires; allowing them to retain to footh Xerxes with many fair words, tel- their liberty and laws, if they would make ling him, That the cowardise of those Egyp- peace with Xerxes, and affift him in that tians, Phanicians, and Cilicians, with others War. of the like metal, nothing better than flaves, The Athenians had now re-entred their who had so ill behaved themselves in the City, but not as yet brought back their late Sea-service, did not concern his hor our, wives and children; for as much as they who had alwayes been victorious, and had well perceived that the place could not be already subdued the better part of Greece, secure, till the Army of Mardonius was broyea taken Athens it felf, against which the ken and defeated. Wherefore the Lacede-War was principally intended. These monians, understanding what fair conditiwords found very good acceptance in the ons this Embaffador would propound, were Kings ear, who presently betook himself to perplexed with very great fear, less the should his journey homewards, making the more find good and ready acceptance. Hereupon, halte, for that he understood, how the Greeks they likewise very speedily dispatch their had a purposeto sail to Hellessont, and there Embassadors for Athens, who arriving beto break down his bridge, and intercept his fore the Macedonian had audience, used the passage. True it was that the Greeks had best of their perswasion to retain the Albe-courage, and rather to fight like men, than die like beafts. Wherefore Themistocles did. under pretence of friendship, send a false advertisement unto this timerous Prince. advising him to convey himself into Alia with all speed, before his bridge were diffolyed: which counsel Xerxes took very kindly, and Fter this Victory, the Greeks intending hastily followed, as before is shewed. Whe-

ø. VIII.

Athenians, as also between the Athenians and the Lacedamonians, after the flight of Xerxes.

Mardonius with his three hundred thousand had withdrawn himself

gainst the rest of Greece, but had only which projects, if they should fail, the deagainst the full vertion of Athens, till they struction of Athens would be a good mean threatned the full vertical threatness threat and all their Confederates arming themand an energy of that City, were drawn thereby needs understand, that Mardonius into the quarrel, wherein the Atherians kept his ground, and feared not to confront without much cruelty of injustice could the whole power of Greece, in the strongest without made we know, faid they, that part of their own Country. But his expectanot tear endured great calamities, losing tion was beguiled in all these. For the Atherical the fruit of the grounds, and being driven mians fo little regarded his offers, that when to forfake the Town, the houses thereof be one Lycidus, or (as Demostheres calls him) ruined, and unfit for your habitation; in regard whereof, we undertake to maintain as our own, your wives and children amongst us.as long as the War shall continue, hoping that ye who have alwayes procured liberty to others, will not now go about to bring all Greece into flavery and bondage. As for the confederates. From Athens he sent his Agent

nimi firm. They alledged, that neither haps the leaders might be won with great Minn min. And any pretence of War rewards, to draw them to this purpose; all ditions, and propounded them to the people; all the Senators, and as many as abiding without the Counfel-house, heard what he had faid, immediately fet upon him, and stoned him to death; not examining whether it were fear or money, that had moved is in to Barbarians, their promifes are large, but utter such a vilesentence. Yea, the women of their words and oaths are of no affurance. Athens, and in the Ille of Salamis, hearing of It was needless to use many arguments to his bad counsel, and bad end, assembling tothe Alberians, who gave answer to Alexander gether did enter his house there, and put his in prefence of the Spartan Embassadors wife and children to the like execution. All That whilft the Sun continued his course, this bravery notwithstanding, when they they would be enemies to Xerxes, regarding neither Gold nor any riches, with which in giving them aid, they were fain to behe night feek to make purchase of their take themselves to Salamis again, the old liberty. Concerning the maintenance of place of their fecurity. Remaining there, their wives and children, it was a burden and feeing little forwardness in those whom which they promifed to fultain themselves, it most concerned to affift them, they fent only defiring the Lacedamonians, that with very feveremediages to Sparta, complaining all freed they would cause their Army to of their slackness, and threatning withal, to march, foralmuch as it was not likely, that take such course as might stand belt with their Mardonius would long fit still in Theffals, own good, seeing that the common estate of having once received such a peremptory all was so little regarded. These mellengers answer. In this their opinion of Mardonius were at the first entertained with dilatory his readiness to invade Attica, they found answers, which every day grew colder, when themselves nothing deceived. For he, as as the Peloponnessan Wall, builded athwart foon as Alexander had returned their obstit- the Isthmus, was almost finished. But as the nate purpose of resistance, did forthwith Lacedamonians waxed careless and dull, so lead his Army towards them, and their the Athenians hotly prefled them to a quick City: they having now the second time resolution, giving them plainly to underquitted it, and conveyed themselves into stand, that if they should hold on in those diplaces of more security abroad in the Coun- latory courses, it would not be long ere the try, where they expected the arrival of their City of Athens took a new courfe, that should little please them. All this while the Persian unto them, with instructions, not only to Fleet lay upon the coast of Afia, not daring perswade them to acceptance of the conditions before to them propounded, but with too weak at Sea. Likewise the Greekish Navy great promises to allure the principal of contained it self within the Harbours upon them to his party. His hope was, that either Europe fide ; both to do fervice where need the people, wearied with forfaking their should require at home, and withal to shun houles footten, would be defirous to preferve the danger which might have befallen any them from fire, & to have those which were part of it, that (being diffracted from the already laid wafte, re-edified at the Kings rest) had ventured over-far. So mutual charges: Or, if this affection took no place fear preferved in quiet the illands lying in with them, but that needs they would rely the midst of the Agean Seas. But it was well upon their old confederats, whose fuccors and featonably observed by a Counsellor of did very flowly advance forwards, yet per- | Sparta, that the Wall upon Ifem we would CHARVE

loponness, if once the Athenians gave ear to hundred and ten thousand, of which form Mardonius: considering that many doors thousand were weightily armed, the rest would be opened into that Demy-Island, as were only affistants to these forty thousand. foon as the Enemy thould by winning the being armed more fleightly, as rather to friendship of Athens, become the Master of make excursions and give chase, than to suthe Seas about it. The Lacedemonians upon stain any strong charges. this admonition, making better perusal of their own dangers, were very careful to give confronted one the other, without perfatisfaction to the Athenian Embassadors, forming any memorable piece of service: who not brooking their delayes, were upon Mardonius, whose victuals began to fail. repoint of taking leave, yea, as it feemed, of folved to begin the fray. The Greek were renouncing their alliance. Wherefore differentially promifed Victory by an Oracle, if they patching away five thousand spartans in the fought in the Land of the Athenians, and in evening, under conduct of Pansanias, they the plain of Ceres and Proserpina, makino gave audience the next day to the Embassa- prayers unto certain gods, Demi-gods, and dors, whose complaints they answered with Nymphs. But it was hard to find the certain vehement protestations of their readines; place which the Oracle designed: For the deeply swearing that the Army of sparta plain of Ceres was indeed in the Territory was already far upon the journey, and gi- of Athens; but there was also an old Temving them leave to take up other five thou- ple of Ceres and Proferpina, near unto the fand Lacedamonians, out of the Region ad- place where they lay at that time enjoyning, to follow after them.

558

want of gravity, in a matter (o important, place, upon Mount Citheron; and the ground were nevertheless contented with the final lerved well for footmen against horse; conclusion; and levying the number ap- only the Land belonged unto the Plateans, pointed of Lacedemonian Souldiers, made and not unto the Athenians. what haste they could to incamp in Attica. The other Grecians were nothing flack in the interpretation of this doubtful Oracle, sending forth Companies, whose near ap- the Plateans, to make all clear, did freely proach caused Mardonius to forsake Attica bestow their Land on that side the Town as a rough Country, and therefore of much upon the Athenians. disadvantage to Horse, wherein consisted the best of his power. Before his departure Alexander the Great, many ages after, to he burnt the City of Athens, beating down re-edifie their City; which was ruined in the Walls of it, and ruining all that had for- the Peloponnesian Wars. merly escaped the fury of War.

6. IX. The great battel of Platæa.

that happened in many thirmishes be- lowed Mardonius, as better acquainted with tween the Greeks and him, in the Country of their fight, and having beaten them often-Baotia, which Mardonius had chosen to be times before. This being agreed upon, the the feat of that War. Much time was spent Athenians changed place with the Lacedamobefore the quarrel was decided by the trial nians; which Mardonius understanding, (wheof one main battel: for both parties did ther fearing the Athenians, of whose valour stand upon their guard, each expecting the Medes and Persians had felt heavy proof, when the other should assail them.

three hundred thousand, which were by him Greece) he did also change the order of his chosen out of Xerxes his Army; to whom battel, and oppose himself to Paulanius. All were adjoyned the forces of Thebes, Mace- the Greeks might well perceive how the Enedony, Thessay, and other parts of Greece, that my did shift his wings, and Pausanias therenow fiding with the Persian, furnished his upon returned to his former Station; which Camp with fifty thousand men. Against these Mardonius noting, did also the like. So one the Lacedamonians, Athenians, and their whole day was spent in changing to and fro.

ferve to little purpose for the defence of Pe- | Confederates, had leavied an Army of one

These two Armies having eleven dayes camped; as likewise the memorials of those The Athenians, though distasting such Nymphs and Demi-gods, were in the same

Whilst the Greeks were perplexed about

This magnificence of the Plateans caused

All things being ready for battel, the Lacedamonian General thought it most meet, that the Athenians should stand opposite that day to the Medes and Persians, whom they had formerly vanquished at Marathon; and that he, with his Spartans, should enter-T were too long a rehearfal to shew all tain the Thebans and other Greeks which solor defiring to encounter the spartans, as The Army of Mardonius contained about thinking them the bravest Souldiers in with their Archers at their watering place, space forced a patlage thorow the Wall; at that they were fain to enter into consultations which breach first, and then on all sides, the that they were take to the could not without much loss to themselves, and none to of vengeance, that of three hundred thouthe enemy, lye near to that fountain which and, they are faid not to have left three did ferre all the Camp. Having therefore thousand alive, excepting those who fled concluded among themselves to dif-lodge; away with Artabazus, when as the Persan and part of the Army being fent away before Army first fell to rout. day-light: Mardonius perceived their departure in the morning, and thereupon be ported, an especial cause of it was the foolish parture in the maximum, fight, which to him retreat, or rather flight into the Camp. For, mg meourage of the meer cowardife though it were fo, that the place was well he charged them in the rear with great vio- fortified, and the number of those who cash lence. It may well be recorded as a notable themselves into it greater than any of the example of patient valour, That the Lacede- Assailants; yet they being of several Natimonians being over-taken by the enemies ons and Languages, and having loft their horse, and over-whelmed with great flights General, with other principal Commanders, of Arrows, did quietly fit ftill, not making it was impossible that they in such a terrour any refiftance or defence, till the Sacrifices and afton hment should make good that for victory were happily ended, though many of them were hurt and flain, and fome of Enemy-Country, against an Army of men, fuccess appeared in the entrails. Sacrifice those tokens, which the superstiti- ferved their lives, by holding out the enemy, on of that Age and Country accounted for did now impale them, and leave them to the tunate; he gave the Signal of battel: and saughtering sury of unpitiful Victors. Arthereupon the Souldiers, who till then did tabazans fled into Thrace, telling the people fit upon the ground, as was their manner, of Theffaly, and other Countries in his way, arose altogether, and with excellent courage that he was sent by Mardonius upon some received the charge of the Barbarians, that piece of fervice: For he well knew, that had came thronging upon them without any they understood any thing of that great diffear of fuch notable refiftance. The reft of comfiture, all places would have been hothe Greek Army that was in march, being re- Itile unto him, and fought with his ruine to voked by Paulanias, came in apace to luc purchase favour of the vanquishers. Therecour the Lacedemonians: only that part of fore making fo large marches, that many of much labour and courage obtain victory, greater consideration of their own strength, which having not long purfued, they came and the weakness of their Enemies. to help the Lacedemonians, whom they found warily bufied in affaulting the Camp,

Some attempt the Persians made that day with more valour than skill. Wherefore Some accempt the Archers on horfe-back, who did they themfelves undertook it, and in thore

If the execution were fo great, as is reespecial mark lost, before any fign of good far more valiant than themselves, and enstamed with present victory. Therefore the But as foon as Passanias had found in the fame Wall, which for a few hours had prethe Army which was led by the Athenians, his Souldiers being feeble, were left behind could not arrive unto the place of the great and lost, he came to Byzantium, whence he battel, because the Thebans, and other Greeks thipped his men over into Asia. Such was confederated with the Persians, gave them the end of the vain-glorious Expedition, check by the way. Nevertheless, the spar- undertaken by Xerxes against the Greeks, tans, with other their affiftants, did so well upon hope of Honour, and Conquest, acquit themselves, that the Persians were though forting otherwise, accordingly as vanquished, and Mardonius with many Artabazus had toreseen, and rather worse, thousands more flain in the field; the rest fled for a sit began the quarrel, which into the Camp, which they had fortified never ended before the nine of the Perwith wooden Walls, and there defended from Empire was effected by that Nation of the Greeks, despised and sought to have necessity inforced them unto, holding out been brought into slavery. Hereby it may the longer, because the Lacedemonians were seem, that the vision appearing to Xerxes, not acquainted with the manner of affault- was from God himself, who had formerly ing Fortreffes, and Walls. In the mean time disposed of those things, ordaining the subthe Albenians having found ftrong oppositive from of the Persian Monarchy by the tion of the Thebans and Theffalians, did with Greeks, who thus provoked, entred into ples of the like.

Battel fought at Mycale, a Promontory, or ing very glad to have found fome that durft Head-land in Afia, where the Perfian Fleet begin. It is faid, that while the Greeks were at the reguest of some Islanders and Ionians, (though perhaps it was given out by the and fail into those parts to deliver the Sami- Captains to encourage the Souldiers) was ans and procure the Ionians to revolt from very true. For the Battel of Plata was the Forfian, X-rxes himself at this time lay at fought in the morning, and this of Micale Sardis, a City in Lydia, not far from the Sca- in the evening of the same day. fice, having left threefcore thousand under | The like report of that great Battel. the command of Tigranes, for defence of 10- wherein Paulus Amilius overthrew Perleus mia, and the Sea-coaft. Therefore when Ar- the last King of Macedon, was brought to taintes, and Ithramitres, Admirals of the Rome in four dayes, as Livie with others do Persian Fleet, understood that the Greeks record. And Plutarch hath many other exbent their course towards them, they did amples of this kind. As that of the Battel forth-with draw their ships aground, forti- by the River Sagra in Italy, which was heard fying with Palissadoes, and otherwise, as much of, the same day in Peloponness: That of ground as was needfull for the encamping the Battel against the Tarquinians and the of all their Land and Sea-forces. Leutychides Latins, presently noised at Rome: And(which at his arrival, perceiving that they meant to is most remarkable ) the victory obtained keep within their strength, and resolving to against Lucius Antonius, who was Rebel to force them out of it, rowed with his Gally Domitian the Emperour. This Lucius Antoclose aboard the shore, and called upon the nius being Lieutenant of the higher Germa-Ionians (who more for fear, than good will, my, had corrupted his Army with gifts and were encamped among the Persians ) ex- promises, drawing the barbarous people to horting them in the Greek tongue to remem- follow him, with great hope to make himber liberty, and use the fair occasion which felf Emperour; which news much troubling they now had to recover it. Herein he did the City of Rome, with fear of a dangerous imitate Themistocles, who had done the like War, it was suddenly reported, that Antoniat Eulowa, trulting that either these perswa- w was flain, and his Army deseated. fions would prevail, or, if the Perfians did Hereupon many did offer facrifice to the happen to understand them, that it would gods, and shew all manner of publick joy, breed some jealousie in them, causing them as in such cases was accustomed. But when to fight in fear of their own companions. It better inquiry was made, and the Author need not feem strange, that this very same of these tydings could not be found, the stratagem, which little or nothing availed Emperour Domitian betook himself to his Themistocles, did now very happily succeed. journey against the Rebel; and being now For Xerxes being in his full strength, it was with his Army in march, he received advera matter of much difficulty, to perswade tisement by Post, of the Victory obtained, those Inhabitants of Asia to revolt; who now and the death of Antonius: whereupon rein his declining estate, gave a willing ear to membring the rumour noised before in the fweet found of liberty. The Persians like- Rome, of the felf-same victory, he found that wife, who in their former bravery, little re- the report and victory were born upon one garded, and less feared, any treason to be day, though twenty thousand furlongs contrived by their subjects, were now so ( which make above five and twenty hunwary, that from the samians which were dred miles) afunder. It is truly faid of Pluamongst them, they took away their arms ; tarch, that this last example gives credit unthe Milesians, whom they did suspect, but to many the like. And indeed it were very would not feem to miltrust, they placed far strange, if among so many rumours, begotten from them, as it were for detence of the by forgery or militakings, and fostered by these Milesians did best of all others know those places. But these devices little availed The Battel of Mycale; with a strange accident them. For the Samians perceiving that they that fell out in the beginning: and exam- were held as Traitors, took courage in the heat of the fight, and laying hold upon fuch weapons as came to hand, affailed the Perfe-He fame day on which the Battel was ans manfully, within the Camp; which exfought at Plates, there was another amples the Ionians prefently tollowed beyet in a march toward the Enemies Camp. Lutychides the Spartan, with Xantippus a rumour suddenly ran in the Army, that the Athenian, Admirals of the Greek Navy, Mardonius was overthrown in Greece, which streight passages of Mycale; pretending that credulous imagination, there should not be

CHAP. VI. found ( as happens in dreams among many thousand vain and frivolous) a few precifely true. Howbeit we may find, that God himfelidoth fometimes use to terrifie those who prefume upon their own ftrength, by their light means of tumultuous noites : as he raifed the fiege of Samaria, by caufing a found of Horses and Chariots to affright the Ara-mites, and as he threatned senacherib, faying, Behold, I will fend a blaft upon him, and he fball had he to revenge either this, or other his hear a noyse, and return to his own Land. Wherefore it may well have been true, that the love of his Brothers Wife: with whom God was pleafed by fuch means as this, to he could not prevail by intreaty, nor animate the Greeks; who (as Herodotus would obtain his defire by force. Because notes) went towards the Enemies with hea- he respected much his Brother her Hufvy hearts, being in great fear, lest their own band, he thought it best to make a match their own Country of Greece, which was rea- means to find occasion of such familiarity make offenfive War.

σ. XI.

of the barbarous qualities of Xerxes: with a transition from the Perlian affairs to matters of Greece, which from this time grew more worthy of regard.

Erxes lay at Sardis, not far from the A place of this Battel; but little mind great loties, being wholly given over to adventure should by no means fall out well; between his own Son Darius, and the confidering in what danger they had left Daughter of this Woman; hoping by that dy to be subdued by Mardonius, whilest they as might work out his desire. But whether went wandring to feek out Enemies a-far it were fo, that the chastity of the Mother off, upon the coast of Asia. But, the same of the Battel fought at Platea being noised Daughter allure him, he soon after sell in among them, every man defired that his own love with his own Sons Wife, being a vicivalour in the prefent fight, might be some ous Prince, and as ill able to govern him-help to work out the full deliverance of felf in peace, as to guide his Army in war. Greece. In this alacrity of spirit, they divided This young Lady having once defired the themselves into two Battalions, whereof the King to give her the Garment which he Athenians led the one, by the way of the then wore, being wrought by his own Wife, plain, directly towards the Enemies Camp; caused the Queen thereby to perceive her the Lucdamonians conducted the other, by Husbands conversation with her, which the Mountains and streight passages, to win she imputed not so much to the beauty of the higher ground. The Athenians did first her Daughter-in-law, as to the cunning of ferupon the Camp (ere the Lacedamonians the Mother, against whom thereupon she could arrive on the other part ) and being conceived extreme hatred. Therefore at a defirous to get all the honour of the day to Royal Feast, wherein the custom was, that themselves, did so torcibly affault it, that the King should grant their request, she they brake way thorow the Palifladoes and craved that the Wife of Mafifles, her Huf-Gabions, and made themselves Masters of the bands Brother, the young Ladies Mother, place, flaying all that could not fave them- might be given into her disposition. The barselves by Hight. In this fight the samians barous King, who might either have reformdid good fervice, as is formerly mentioned. | ed the abuse of such a custom, or have delu-But the Milesians, who upon the like jea- ded the importunate cruelty of his Wife, by louse, were placed by the Persians on the threatning her self with the like, to what so tops of Mycale, to defind the passages, did ever she should instict upon the innocent Lanow (as if they had been fent of purpose to dy, granted the request; and sending for his keepthem from running away) put as many Brother, perswaded him to put away the to the fword as fell into their hands, letting Wife which he had, and take one of his none escape, except very few, that fled Daughters in her stead. Hereby it scems, that through by-paths. The Lacedamonians that he understood how villainously that poor day did little service, for the business was Lady should be intreated, whom he knew to dispatched ere they came in: Only they be virtuous, and whom himself had loved. broke such companies as retired in whole Massites resuled to put her away; alledging troops; making them flie dispersed in very his own love, her deserving, and their commuch disorder, whereby the Milestans were mon children, one of which was married to enabled to do the greater execution upon the Kings Son, as reasons important to move them. This was the last fight of that huge him to keep her. But in most wicked man-Army levied against Greece, which was now ner Xerxes reviled him, saying, That he atterly broken, and had no means left to now should neither keep the Wife which he had, nor have his Daughter whom he had promifed Cccc 2

promited unto him. Malifter was much grie- troduction; teaching the Greeks, and effectved with these words but much more, when ally the Athenians, that the Persian was no returned home, he tound his Wife most better Souldier at his own doors, than in a butcherly mangled by the Queen Ameltris, forein Countrey: whereof good trial was who had cauled her Nofe, Lips, Ears, and made forth-with, and much better proofas Tongue to be cut off- and her breafts in like toon as the affairs of Athens were quietle manner, which were calt unto Dogs. Malijtes fetled and affured. enraged with this villany, took his way with From this time forward I will therefore his children, and tome friends, towards Ba- purfue the Hittory of Greece, taking in the dria, of which i rovince he was Governour, matters of Persia, as also the cltate of other intending to rebell and avenge himfelf: But Countries, collaterally, when the order of Xerxes understanding his purp o'escaused an time thall present them. True it is, that the Army to be levied, which cut him off by the Persian estate continued in her greatnes. way, putting him and all his Company to many ages following, in such wife, that the the word. Such was the Tyrannical condi-known parts of the world had no other tion of the Ferlian Government; and such! Kingdom, representing the Majetty of a are generally the effects of Luxury, when it great Empire. is jounced with absolute power.

572

Prince of much vertue. And therefore Alex- quired, yielding few actions, or none, that overthrown, and lying upon the ground, fome Tragedies of the Court, and examples the mischief done by him to Greece, should ever were, have been enervated, made una coward, and confequently mercilefs. the virtue of Cyrus was very great, upon with money & base policies; very seldomor which the foundation of the Persian Empire never (unless it were with great advantage) was so surely laid, that all the wickedness daring to adventure the tryal of plainbatand vanities of Xerxes, and other worse Prin- tel with that little Nation of Greece; which ces, could not overthrow it, until it was bro-would foon have ruined the foundations ken by a virtue almost equal to that which laid by cyrus, had not private malice and did establish it. In wars against the Egipti- jealousie urged every City to envy the ans, the fortune of Xerxes did continue, as at height of her neighbours walls, and therethe first it had been, very good; but against by diverted the swords of the Greeks into the general citate of Greece, neither he. or their own bowels, which after the deparany of his posterity, did ever make oftensive ture of Xerxes began very well, and might war, but received many losses in Asia, to better have continued, to hew out the way which the last at Mycale ferved but as an in- of Conquest, on the side of Asia.

But this greatness depended only upon the Yet o. Xirxes it is noted, that he was a riches and power that had formerly been acander the Great, finding an Image of his were worthy of remembrance, excepting faid, That he doubted, whether in regard of of that excellive Luxury, wherewith both his virtue, he should again erect it; or, for it, and all, or the most of Empires that let it lye. But furely, whatfoever his other wieldy, and (as it were) fattened for the good qualities were he was foolith, and was hungry fwords of poor and hardy Enemies. Hereby it came to pass, that Xerxes and his Therefore we may firmly believe, that successors were fainto defend their Crowns

CHAP. VII.

Of things that passed in Greece from the end of the Persian War, to the beginning of the Peloponnesian.

ø. 1.

How Athens was re-built and fortified.

Fter that the Medes and Persians ded the Grecian Army, leaving the pursuit had received their last blow, and of the War to the Athenians, assisted by the were utterly beaten at Mycale: revolted Iones, returned with the Lacede-Leutichydes, who then comman-monians and other Peloponnessans to Sparts, own places. and children, with any private buildings. Whereof the Lacedamonians being advertifed, and milliking the fortifying of Athens, both in respect that their own City of sparta was unwalled, as also because the Athenians were grown more powerfull by Sea, than athenians to diffiwade them; not acknowledging any private mislike or jealousie, but to invade Greece a third time, the Athenians their works, by the advice of Themistocles, | maintained. they held the Lacedamonians in hope of the Themistocles towards Lacedamon, giving him Embassadors. for excuse, that he could not deliver the retarded. But after a while, the Lacedemo- all occasions. nians expectation being converted into calousie (for by the arrival of divers persons out of Attica, they were told for certain, That the walls of Athens were speedily grownup beyond expectation) Themistocles prayed them not to believe reports and vain rumors, but that they would be pleased to lend some of their own trusty Citizens to

and other places, out of which they had been leaved. The Athenians in the mean while heriteged selfos, a City on the firait of Which requell being granted, and Commitwhile neareged states which and Abydus, finners lent, Themificeles dispatched one of Rever had lately faltened his Bridge of his own, by whom he advised the Atkenians. Bosts; where the Inhabitants, delperate of lirit to entertain the Lucedemonians with hour, did not long dispute the defence some such discour e as might retain them thereof, but quitted it to the Greeks, who a few dayes, and in conclution to hold them there one rained themtelves the Winter follow-among them, till him'e'f, and the other, ing on that fide the Hellesport. In the Spring Athenian Embaffadours, then at Sparta, had their liberty alfo to return. Which done and they are who and children, fince the invalion of At- being also afford by his affociats and Arinet, and the abandoning of Athens, in di- flides, that Athens was already defentible on versillands, and at Trazen, they now found all parts. Themiffectes demanding audience, themout, and returned with them to their made the Lacedamonians know, That it was true that the walls of Athens were now raif-And though the most part of all their ed to that height, as the Athenians doubted houses in Athens were burnt and broken not the defence of their City; praying the down, and the walls of the City over-turn- Lacedemonians to believe, That when foever ed yet they resolved first on their common it pleased them to treat with the Athenians, defence, and to fortifie their City, before they would know them for fuch as right they cared to cover themselves, their wives well understood what appertained to a Common-weal and their own fafety, without direction and advice from any other: That they had in the War of Xerxes abandoned their City, and committed themselves to the wooden Walls of their Ships, from the resolutions of their own counsels and eather themselves, or any other State of courage, and not thereto taught or per-Gree, they dispatched messengers to the swaded by others: and finally, in all that perilous War against the Perfians, they found their own judgements and the execupretending, that if the Persians should return tion thereof in nothing inferiour, or less fortunate, than that of any other Nation, being in no better state to desend themselves State, or Common-weal among the Greeks. thanhetetotore, the same would serve to re- And therefore concluded, that they deterceive their enemies, and to be made a Seat mined to be Masters and Judges of their for the War, as Thebes had lately been. To own affairs, and thought it good reason, this the Athenians promifed to give them fa- that either all the Cities confedered within tistation by their own Embaffadours very Greece should be left open, or else that the speedily. But being resolved to go on with Walls of Athens should be finished and

The Lacedemonians finding the time uncontrary, till they had raifed their walls to fit for quarrel, diffembled their millike, both that height, as they cared not for their mif- of the fortifying of Athens, and of the divibkes, nor doubted their disturbance; and sion; and so suffered the Athenians to depart, therefore (to gain time) they dispatched and received back from them their own

The Walls of Athens finished, they also Athenians resolutions, till the arrival of his fortified the Port Pyraus, by which they fellow-Commissioners, who were of purpose might under covert imbark themselves upon

5. II.

é. II.

proferous Il ar made by that state upon the no one man found occasion to complain of

in good order at home, prepared which they conceived of encreasing their thirty Gallies for the pursuit of the War commodity, corrupted their vertue, and against the Persians, to which the Lacedamo- robbing them of the general love, which had rians added other twenty, and with this made them powerful, abandoned their Circ Fleet, strengthened by the rest of the Cities to the defence of her treasure, which with of Greece confederated, they fet fail for Cy- her in the next age perished. For it was prus, under the conduct of Paulanias the not long ere these four hundred and three-Lacedamonian; where, after their landing score Talents were raised to fix hundred nor having possest themselves of many principal long after that, ere their covetous tyrange places, they imbarked the Army again, and had converted their followers into flaves. took land in Thrace, recovering from the and extorted from them yearly thirteen Persians by force the City Bizantium, now hundred Talents. The Isle of Delos was at Constantinople: from whence Pausanias, be- the first appointed for the Treasure-house having himself more like a Tyrant than a wherein these sums were laid up, and Captain, especially towards the Ionians late- where, at the general Assembly, the Caply revolted from Xerxes, was called back by tains of those forces, sent by the confedethe Council of Lacedamon, and not only rates, were for form fake called to confultaaccused of many insolent behaviours, but of tion. But the Athenians, who were stronger Intelligence with the Medes, and Treason by Sea than all Greece besides, had locktup against his Countrey. In his stead they im- the common treasure in an Island, under ployed Docres, who either gave the fame their own protection, from whence they cause of offence; or else the Athenians, who might transport it at their pleasure, as afteraffected the first commandement in that ward they did. War, practifed the Souldiers to complain; The general Commander in this Warwas though indeed the wife and vertuous be- Cimon, the fon of Milliades, who first took haviour of Ariftides, General of the Athenian Eionia, upon the River Strimon; then the forces, a man of rare and incomparable fin- life of sciros, inhabited by the Dolopes: they cerity, had been able to make a good Com- mastered the Cariffii, and brought into sermander feem ill in comparison of himself; vitude the Naxii, contrary to the formofthe and therefore was much more available, in confederacy: So did the other the inhabirendring those detested, whose vices afford- tants of Greece, if at any time they failed of ed little matter of excuse. Howsoever it their contribution, or disobeyed their comwere, the Lacedamonians being no less mandements; taking upon them and usury weatied of the War, than the Athenians were ing a kind of foveraign authority over the eager to pursue it, the one obtained their rest: which they exercised the more assured eafe, and the other the execution and ho- ly, because they were now become Lords of nour which they defired: for all the Greeks the Sea, and could not be refifted. For many ( those of reloponnessis excepted ) willingly of the confederated Cities and Nations, subjected themselves to the commandement | weary of the War in their own persons, and of the Athenians, which was both the be- given up altogether to their eafe, made ginning of their greatness in that present choice rather to pay their parts in money, age, and of their ruin in the next succeed- than either in men of War, or in Ships; ing. For the charge of the War being now leaving the provision of both to the Athenicommitted unto them, they began to rate ans. Hereby the one grew weak in all their the confederated Cities; they appointed Sca-defences, and in the exercise of the Receivers and Treasurers, and began to Wars; the other greatly strengthened their levy mony according to their differetion for Navy and their experiences, being alwayes the maintenance of the general defence of armed and imployed in honourable fervices, Greece, and for the recovering of those places at the cost of those, who having lifted them on Europe fide, in afia the less, and the Itlands, into their Saddles, were now enforced to from the Persians. This tribute (the first that become their footmen. Yet was the Triwas ever paid by the Greeke) amounted to bute-money, levied upon these their confefour hundred and threescore Talents, which derates, employed so well by the Athenians,

CHAP. VI Iwas raised easily by the honest care of that just man Ariffides, to whose discretional The leginning of the Athenian greatness, and the confederates referred themselves, and him. But as the vertue of Ariftides, and other worthy Citizens, brought untothe HE Athenians having fettled things Athenians great commodity 5 to the define at the first (as ill proceedings are often) tounded upon good beginnings ) that no touneer upon Spining was given. For they The death of Xerxes by the treason of Artabagreat cause of repining was given. rigged out a great Fleet of Gallies, very well manned, wherewith Cimon the Admiral fouring the Affatick Seas, took in the City of Phalelis; which having formerly preten-

IAP. VIII.

toon presented with a third. For four core held it seven months; or whether, intending fail of Phanicians ( who were the best of the like evil to Artaxerxes the son of Xerxes, ail Sea-men, under the Persian command) he was by him prevented and surprised, were thinking to have joyned themselves with the hard to affirm any certainty. But all Writers First before destroyed, arrived upon the agreeupon this, That taken he was, and with fame Coast, ignorant of what had passed, and his whole family put to death by extream tearing nothing less than what enfued. Upon torments, according to the sentence whereof the first notice of their approach, Cimon the truth is more ancient than the Verse; weighed anchor, and meeting them at an head-Land, called Hydra, did fo amaze them, that they only fought to run themselves on Seldom the villain, though much haste he ground: by which mean preserving sew of their men, they lost all their ships. These lolles did fo break the courage of the Perfian, that omitting all hope of prevailing upon Grecce, he condescended to whatsoever Articles it pleased the Athenians to propound, The banishment of Themistocles : his flight to granting liberty unto all the Greeks inhabiting Asia; and further covenanting, That Chelidonia. ever the Greek made; neither did they in ceffity of his affairs required, began to concficet, after this time, make any War that ceive new hopes of better fortune against redounded to the profit or glory of the the Greeks, than he or his predecessors had ander, they overthrew the Empire of Persia; had any place of great command, but ferved altogether under the Macedonians.

d. III.

DEfides these losses, which could not cally have been repaired, the troubles ded neutrality, and refuted to relieve, or of the Empire were at this time fuch, as any may affilt the Greeks, were enforced to gave just cause to the Persian of seeking pay ten Talents for a fine, and for to become peace upon any terms not altogether intotollowers of the Athenians, paying yearly leable. For Artabanus, the Unkle of Xerxes, perceiving, that the King his Mafter did ea-From thence he fet fail for the River Enrymedon in Pamphylia, where the Perfan fuch, as in kindred or place were neer unto Phicam in amportant hundred fail, or (ac-him, began to repote less hope of Safety in cording to the most sparing report ) three remaining faithfull, than of obtaining the hundred and fifry, and having a great Land. Soveraignty, by destroying a Prince that Army, encamped upon the floar; all which was to hated for his cruelty, and defpifed torces having been provided for advancing for his cowardite and misfortunes. Having the Kings affairs in Greece, were utterly de- conceived this Treason, he found means to heated in one day, and two hundred thips execute it by Milbridates an Eunuch, in fuch taken by the Athenians; the reft being broken | close manner, that (as if he himself had been to fices, or funk, ere ever they had fwom innocent) he accused Darius the Son of in the Greekift Seas. Cimon having in one Kerxer, and caused him to suffer death as a day obtained two great Victories, the one Parricide. Whether it be true, that by this by Sea, and the other by Land, was very great wickedness he got the Kingdom, and

Raro antecedentem scelestum

Deseruit pede pæna claudo.

Lame-footed Vengeance fails to overtake.

ø. IV.

Artaxerxes newly reigning in Persia; and bis death.

A Riaxerxes being established in his belidenia.

This was the most honourable peace that ed with the Athenians, as the present nearly the County of the Coun none of his thips of War should sail to the Westward of the Isles, called Cyanea and whole Nation, till such time as under Alex- ever hitherto found. For the people of Athens, when the Persians were chased out of in which War, few, or perhaps none of them, Greece, did so highly value their own merit in that service, that they not only thought it fit for themselves to become the Commanders over many Towns and Islands of the Greeks, but even within their own walls, they would admit none other form of Government CHAP. VI in they were so insolent, that no integrity great conflict between thankfulness to his nor good defert was able to preferve the well-deferving Prince, and natural affection estate of any such as had born great office, to his own ill-deserving people, by finishing longer, than by flattering the rascal multi- his life with a cup of poyson. tude, he was contented to frame all his words and deeds to their good liking.

This their intolerable demeanour much offended Themiltocles; who, though in former times he had layed the foundations of his greatness upon popularity, yet now prefuming upon his good fervices done to the State, he thought that with great reason they might grant him the liberty to check their inordinate proceedings. But contrariwife, they were fo highly offended with his often rehearing the benefits which they had received from him, that they laid upon That a just cause is a good defence against him the punishment of Oftracism, where a strong enemy. An Athenian Fleet of by he was banished for ten years, as a two hundred fail strong was sent forth unman over-burthensome to the Commonwealth.

expired, a new accusation was brought broken at Sea, and thereby unable to reagainst him by the Lacedemonians, who lieve the Island. Now although it werefo, charged him of confulting with Paulanias, about betraying the whole Countrey of was likely to have been kept fincerely by Greece unto Xerxes. Hereupon Themistocles, the Persian, who had made so good proof finding no place of security against the of the Gracian valour, that he was nothing malice of two fuch mighty cities, was driven defirous to build any Ships of War (without after many troublesom flights, and dange- which the Greeks could receive no harm rous removings, to adventure himfelfinto from him ) whereof if any one should be Persia, where he found Artaxerxes newly found sayling towards Greece, the peace was fettled, and was by him very honourably en- immediately broken; and, if not this whole tertained. But the great hope which Arta- estate, yet all the Sea-coast (no small part xerxes had conceived of advancing his af- of his Dominions) exposed to the waste of an fairs by the counsel and affistance of The- enemy too far overmatching him, Yet whemistocles, proved altogether fruitless. For ther the Athenians were in doubt, lest the when the Athenians, in favour of Inarus the league which in his own worfer fortuneshe Lybian, (who infested Egypt, causing it to had made with them, he would break in rebell against the Persian) had sent a Fleet theirs; and therefore sought toget such asto Sea, landing an Army in Egypt, and scou- surance into their hands, as might utterly ring those Eastern Seas, to the great hinde-disable him from attempting ought against rance of Artaxerxes, and (for ought that I them; or whether the increase of their recan understand ) to the manifest breach venues and power, by adding that rich and of that peace, which to their great honour great Island to their Empire, caused them to they had concluded with Xerxes; then did measure honour by profit; they thought it the King fend his; Letters to Themistocles, re- the wifest way, to take, whilest they might, quiring him to make good the hopes which whatfoever they were able to get and hold, he had given, of affuring the Persian estate and he unable to defend. against the Greeks.

But whether Themistocles perceived much the streights between Cilicia, Syria, and unlikeliness of good success, in leading a Egypt, is very fitly seated for any Prince of great army of dastardly Persians against the State, that being mighty at Sea, doth either warlike people of Greece; or else (as in fa- seek to enrich himself by trade with those vour of his vertue it is more commonly re- Countreys, or to infelt one or more of ported) the love of his Countrey would not them when they are his enemies. And this permit him to seek honour by the ruine of being the purpose of the Athenians, their it; sure it is, that being appointed by Ar- Ambition which had already devoured, in taxerxes to undertake the conduct of great conceit, this Island, was on the sudden wellvernment than meerly Democratical. Here- forces against the Athenians, he decided the

ø. V.

How the Athenians, breaking the peace, which to their great bonour they had made with the Persian, were shamefully beaten in

Hen was Artaxerxes driven to ufethe fervice of his own Captains in the Egyptian war, wherein it appeared well. der Cimon, to take in the Ille of Crorus: which conquest seemed easie both to make Before the time of his return was half and to maintain; the Persian being utterly that a peace had been concluded, which that they might eafily have swallowed loft, or for the preservation of the remainand digefted. For Inarus King of the Lybi der. The best of his hope was, by setting ant, confining Egspt, having found how the Lacedamonians upon Atlans, to enforce greaty the Country was exhaulted by the the Athenians to look homewards to their late Wars, and how weakly defended by own defence. This was the first time that very flender Persan Garrisons, conceived the Persan fought to procure the allistance rightly, that if fuch small forces as the Sa- of the Greeks one against the other, by stir-Egyltians his adherents were not answera- about Memphis the great City. ble to their defires, perceived well, that to lit cannot be doubted, that long abode in they shared somewhat equally.

The Isle of Cyprus lying in the bottom of

nigh choaked with a greater morfell, to could Artaxerxes well advice what means match at which, they let Cyprus alone, to use for the recovery of that which was traps, or Viceroy, could make on the fudden ring them up with gold, to the entertainof his own Guards, or levy out of the or- ment of private quarrels, for the good of dinary Garrifons, were by him defeated, their common enemy. To this purpose he the naturals of the Country not long fince | fent Megabazus to Sparta with much Treaapprelled by Cambyfes, and, after a revolt, fure; who after great expence, finding that very lately subdued by Xerxes, would foon the Lacedamonians were nothing forward break faith with him, who had no other in employing their whole force against the title to that Kingdom than a good fword. Athenians, whom in many conflicts of great Further, he perswaded himself that the importance they had found to be their people, unable to defend themselves against matches, notwithstanding the absence of the Persian without his assistance, would their Army in Egypt; he thought it his ealily be drawn to accept him, the author wifeft way to employ the rest of his money of their deliverance, for King. Neither did and means, to their relief who had now the this hope deceive him. For having taken space of fix years detended his matters right and cruelly flain Achemenes the Viceroy, di- in Egypt. Therefore he halfily dispatched vers Cities forthwith declared themselves another of his name, the son of Zopyrus, who for him, and proclaiming him King, shew- arriving in Egypt, was first encountred by ed the most of their endeavour for prose- the revolted people; over whom he obtaincution of the War. But he confidering his ed victory, which made him mafter of the own weakness, and that the means of the Country, whilst the Atlenians lay bushed relift the power of Artaxerxes, far greater a strange ayr, and want of supply, had forces than his and theirs were to be pro- much enfecbled the Athenians : fure it is, that cured, at what price foever he obtained when Migabazus, having reduced the Counthem. Therefore hearing of the great Athe- try to obedience, attempted the City it felf, nian Fleet, and knowing well the vertue of whether his former success had amended the the Souldiers therein imbarqued; he invi- courage of the Persians, or want of necessiated the Commanders to share with him the ries made the Athenians inseriour to them properties fingdom of Egypt, as a far greater reward selves, he chased them out of Memphis, and an island of their adventure, than fuch an addition purfued them fo near, as they were forced between of their adventure, than fuen an addition purified them to hear, as they were forced the Rivers as that of Coprus could be to their effate. to fortific themselves in the life of Profo- of Total and Whether he or they (if things had wholly pites, where Megabazus, after eighteen Pharmetaforted according to their expectation) months siege, turning away one part of the outlets would have been contented with an equal the River by divers Trenches, affaulted the of Miss flare, and not have fallen out in the parti- Athenians without impediment of waters, twandedtion, were perhaps a divination unnecessia- took their Gallies, and put all to the sword, ry. He was possessed of the peoples love, fave a few that saved themselves by flight Mederics they were of most power. But the issue of into Lybia; the same entertainment had fifty is an Island thoic affairs was fuch as left them nothing other Gallies, which they fent to the fuc- in the to communicate but misfortunes, which cour of the first two hundred. For those Miss, be-Athenians having heard nothing that their tween the Yet had the beginning of their enter-Prife very good and hopefull fuccess: For by the branch of Nilus, which is called tios, and they entred the Land, as far as to Memphis, Mendesum, and fell unawares among the Distances and the branch the principal City; and of the City it felf Phanician Gallies, and the Persian Army; of North they took two parts; to the third part, which fo as the Persons recovered all Egypt, but called was called the William and the was called, the White wall, they laid fuch that part held by Amyrteus, and Inarus the runneth hard stege, that neither those forces of the King of Lybia, being by them taken and into the Persians, which then were in Egypt, were hanged. This was the end of the Atheni-Chypass throng enough to remove them; neither ans fix years War in Egypt, and the reward bear of their vanity and indifferention to under- Theffaly, perswaded thereunto by Orester, but take many enterprises at once.

578

ø. V.

Wars waded through many difficulties, and they fent fixty of their thips. The rest of held the reputation of their forces against their Army failing in their enterprise at the Lacedamonians, Corinthians, and others, Cyprus, and their fortunate and victorious rather to their advantage than otherwise. Leader Cimon dying there, as they coasted For as they were beaten near unto Halia the Island, incountred a fleet of the Phoniby the Corinthians and Epidaurians, so they cians and Cilicians, over both which Natiobtained two great victories foon after ; ons they returned victorious into Greece: the one over the Peloponnessans, near unto as also those returned fafe which were sent Curryhalia; the other over the Eginets, into Egypt. near us to Asina, where they funk and carried away threefcore and ten Gallies of their enemies. Furthermore, they landed their forces on the fudden, and belieged of Artaxerxes Longimanus, that he was Ægina, from whence they could not be moved, notwithstanding that the Corinthians, to divert them, invaded Megara; where, after a great fight with equal lofs, the Corinthians, when they returned again to fet up their Trophie, as Victors peaceable: whereof the length is by some in the former battel, were utterly broken restrained unto twenty years, but the more and flaughtered by the Athenian Garrisons, and better Authors give him forty, some and Megarians, to their great loss and dif- allow unto him four and forty. He was a

near to Tangra, by the Lacedamonians, who was exceeding great to the Jews; as apreturned from the succour of the Dorians peareth by the Histories of Esdras and No against the Phocians (at which time the hemias, which fell in his time. Thessalan horsemen turned from their Allies the Athenians, and fought against them) gave countenance and ayd to that great fo about threescore dayes after, the Atheni- work of building the Temple, it were a ans entred Exotia under the conduct of needless travel; considering that all the Myronides, where beating that Nation, they late Divines have taken very much pains to wan Phocis on the gulf of Octeus, and evened | shew that those two Prophets were licensed the walls of Tenagra to the ground. Finally, by him, and succoured in that building, in they enforced Egina to render upon most such fort as appears in their writings. base conditions; as to beat down the walls of their City, and to give them hostages for who married Hefter. Whereof if it be need-Tribute; the fiege whereof they had con-full to give proof, it may suffice, that Ahatinued, notwithitanding all their other Sueros lived in Susa, reigning from India to brabbles and attempts elsewhere. Besides Athiopia, and therefore must have been a these victories, they fackt and spoiled many Persian; That he lived in peace, as appears places upon the Sea-coast of Peloponnesus, by the circumstances of the History, and belonging to the Lacedamonians, wan upon used the counsel of the seven Princes, the the Corinthians, and overthrew the Sicyoni- authority of which Princes began under ans that came to their fuccour. These were Darius the son of Hystaspes; wherefore he the undertakings of the Athenians, and their could be neither Cyrus nor Cambyles. Allies, during the time of those fix years, The continual Wars which exercised that a part of their forces made War in King Darius the son of Hystaspes, together were relifted by the King Pharfalus, who had chased orestes out of his Dominions. They also landed in Sicyonia, and had victo. ry over those that resisted; after which they Of other Wars made by the Athenians for the made truce with the Peloponnesians for five most part with good success, about the same years, and fent Cimon into Cyprus with two hundred ships; but they were again allured by Americus one of the race of their former 7Otwithstanding these overthrows in Kings, who held the Marish and Woody Ferpt, yet the Athenians in their home- parts of Egypt from the Persians, to whom

CHAP. VI

ø. VI.

Ahashuerosh the Husband of Queen He-

Hefe Egyptian troubles being ended, the reign of Artaxerxes continued Prince of much humanity, and noted for Again, as the Athenians were discomfitted many examples of gentleness. His favour

To prove that this was the King who

This was likewise that King Abashneros

Fgjpt. In the end whereof they attempted with the certainty of his marriages with fundry wives, from none of whom he was divorced, but left his first wite Atolla, the divorces, out total alive in great honour, of the troubles in Greece, foregoing the Pedaughter of Gyrus, alive in great honour, the being mother to Xerxes the fucceeding King, do manifestly prove that Hester was not his. Whereunto is added by Philo the Jew, That at the periwasion of Mardochau, Jojachim the High Priest the son of time forward, more vehemently prosecututed in memory of that deliverance. Now for many ages to relt in peace: this Egyend of Darius.

their times.

us eighteen years more than Isaac the Pa- truce was made for thirty years. triarch lived, namely, one hundred fourfor re and eighteen years in all, which ex- Athenians (favouring the Mylesians against years old.

o. VIII.

loponnesian # ar.

Due it is fit that we now return to the affairs of the Greeks, who from this Jejua, cauled the featt of Parim to be inftithe time of Jojachim was in the reign of phian Expedition being come to nought. the time of Joynthia coming of Estras and Soon after this, the Lacedemonians under-Neventus: Jejua his father dying about the took the war called Sucred, recovered the Temple and Ille of Delphos, and delivered The fame continuance of wars with other both to the Inhabitants; but the Athenians his furious and tragical loves wherewith regained the fame, and gave it in charge Merker did confume such little time as he to the Phoeisms. In the mean while the bahad free from war, are enough to prove, nished Exotians re-entred their own Land, that the story of Hester pertained not un- & mastered two of their own Towns posseit to the time of Xerxes, who lived but one by the Athenians, which they foon recoverand twenty years, whereas the two and ed again from them; but in their return thirtieth of Abasuerus or Artasatha is ex- towards Athens, the Beotians, Eubeuns, and prefled by Nehemiss. Again, it is well known Locrians ( Nations opprest by the Athenithat Xerxes in the seventh year of his ans) set upon them with such resolution, as reign ( wherein this marriage must have the Athenians were in that fight all slain or been celebrated ) came not near to Sufa. taken, whereby the Beotians recovered their Of the Princes that succeeded Artaxerxes former liberty, restoring to the Athensans Longimanus, to prove that none of them their prisoners. The Islanders of Eubera took could be Ab. flueroft, it is enough to fay, that fuch courage upon this, that they revolted Mardock ens having been carried from Hie | wholly from the Athenians, whom when Perulalem captive, with Jechonia, by Nabr- ricles intended to reconquer, he was adverthumezzar, was unlikely to have lived until tifed that the Megarians ( who first left the Lacedamonians, and submitted themselves to But of this Artaxerxes it is true, that he Athens) being now weary of their yoke, had lived in sufi, reigned from India to Athi- flain the Athenians Garrifons, and joyned opis, lived in peace, was contemporary with themselves with the Corinthians, Sycionians, jojachim the high Priest, and further he had and Epidanrians. These news haitened Pehappily by his Lieutenants reclaimed the ricles homeward with all poffible speed; but rebellious Egyptians in that seventh year ere he could recover Attica, the Peloponneof his reign; which good fortune might stans, led by Plistoanax the son of Paulanias, well give occasion to such a Royal Feast, as had invaded it, pillaged and burnt many is described in the beginning of Hefter. This parts thereof, after whose return Pericles is the summ of the arguments, brought to went on with his first intent, and recovered prove the age of Hesters story by the Enbea. Finally, the Athenians began to treat learned and diligent Krentzbemius, who of peace with the Peloponnessuns, and yielded adds the authorities of Josephus, affirming to deliver up all the places which they held the same, and of Philo giving to Mardoche- in the Countrey of Peloponnesus: and this

After fix of these years were expired, the pire in the t ve and thirtieth year of this the Samians) invaded Samos by Pericles ; and Artaxerxes, if we suppose him to have been after many repulses, and some great losses, carned away captive, being a Boy of ten both by Sea & Land, the Citizens were forced to yield up themselves upon most lamentable conditions: Namely, to deliver up all their ships, to break down their own wals, to pay the charge of the war, and to restore whatfoever had been taken by themfelves, or by their practice, from the Athenians. In the neck of which, followed that long and cruel

Dddd 2

58≎

Peloponnessan War, whereof I have gathered of it, was not drawn into the quarrell; I this Brief following: the same contention hold it convenient now at the first to shew taking beginning fifty years after the flight briefly the estate of the Countrey at that of Xerxes out of Greece. But because there time, and especially the condition of those was no City thereof, which either in the two great Cities, Athens and Sparta, upon beginning of this war, or in the continuance which all the rest had most dependance.

CHAP. VIII.

Of the Peloponnesian War.

Upon what terms the two principal Cities of Greece, Athens and Sparta, flood at the begining of the Peloponnesian War.

them rather to Union and League against by the power of the Lacedamonians, whose the Persians, whereof they were Captains, aid was commonly held as good as the asiathan into any absolute subjection. For rance of victory. every Eltate held their own, and were governed by Laws, far different, and by four hundred years under one form of Gotheir own Magistrates, notwithstanding vernment when the Peloponnesian War bethe power of the Macedonians, to whom gan. Their education was only to practile they did yield obedience no otherwise than feats of Arms; wherein they so excelled, that as to fuch, who were (perforce) their avery few of them were thought equal to Leaders in the Person war (deemed the very great numbers of any other people. General quarrel of Greece) and took the They were poor, and cared not much for rofit and honour of the victory, to their own use and increase of greatness. But the Kings which afterwards reigned in Macedonia, did fo far enlarge their authority, that all Greece was by them brought under fuch parel they regarded not. Their diet was obedience, as differed little from servitude, limple, their feasts and ordinary meals being very few excepted, who could hardly, in common Halls, where all fared alike. They fometimes with arms, and fometimes with used Money of Iron, whereof they couldnot gifts, preserve their liberty: of whom the be covetous nor great hoarders. Briefly, they Lacedamonians and Athenians were chief; lived Utopian-like, fave that they used no which two people deserved best the plague other occupation than War, placing all their of tyranny, having first given occasion there | felicity in the glory of their valour. Hereby unto by their great ambition, which wea- it came to pass that in all enterprises, where ried and weakned all the Countrey by per- of they were partakers, the leading and high petual War. For untill these two Cities of command was granted to them, and all Greece Athens and Sparta distracted all Greece, followed their conduct. But the Athenians drawing every State into the quarrell, on the were in all points contrary to this. For they one or other fide, and so gave beginning to sought wealth, and measured the honours of the Peloponneffan Wai (the effects whereof in their victories by the profit ; they used mertrue estimation ceased not, before the time cenary Souldiers in their wars, and exacted that Philip had overmastered all, forasmuch great tribute of their Subjects, which were as every conclution of one war afforded for the most part Islanders compelled to obey henceforth matter of (ome new diftraction of the whole Country) the wars, commendation for the whole Country) the wars, commendation for the whole Country of the wars, commendation for the wars of the whole Country of the wars, commendation for the wars of t

Reece was never united under the were neither great, nor of long continu-Government of any one Prince or ance. All controverties were from decided. Estate, untill Philip of Macedon, either by the authority of the Amphilliona, and after him Alexander, brought who were the general Councel of Greece, or ced between one City of Greece and another, fo in conditions natural, the difference between there two people was very much. The Athenians were eager and violent, fudden in their conclutions, and as hafty in the execution. The Lacedemonians very flow in the Albenians being now very mighty in by war the injuries done to their Allies. Fleet, reduced all the Islands of the Greekish quarrel with them ; but much more willing fift from their purpose of making War. to breed contention between them and This they defired, not as a matter of any this advice, That they should feek help at ned them with greater difficulties apparent, Athens. Hereby it was thought, that the than they were very willing to undergo. Athenians should be intangled in a long force was now fo great, that all fuch occations did only ferve to encrease their honour and puillance.

ø. II.

How Sparta and Athens entred into War.

their deliberations full of gravity, but very their deliberations full of gravity, but very were very ill-affected to Athens, bereloute, and fuch as would in cold blood were very ill-affected to Athens, bereloute, and fuch as would be supported by the support of the support o resource, and the Athenians did usually in cause that City grew very infolent upon pertona what the funder properity, and, maintaining the Litedamonians had all the Estates of Greece weaker Towns against the stronger, independing upon them, as on men firm and croached apace upon their Neighbours, tadepending upon the control of the co whereas the Athenians were followed by ly the Corinthians were much inraged, beunder as obeyed them perforce, being held cause the people of the Island Coregra, their intreight fubjection. But the Signiory of the Colony which had rebelled against them, Mittenans was nothing large, untill fuch time and given them a great overthrow by Sea, as the Forfian Xerxes had invaded Greece, was by the Athenians (who defired to inas the compared to Athens: For crease their Fleet by adjoying that of Corpretending only a quarrel to Athens: then the Citizens perceiving well, that the cyra unto it) taken into protection, and the Town of athens could not be defended Corinthians thereby defeated of that reagainst his great Army of seventeen hundred venge, which else they would have taken. thousandmen, bestowed all their wealthup- Now, howsoever it were so, that these dealonaNavy, and (affifted by the other Gracians) ings of the Athenians were not directly overthrew the Fleet of Xerxes, whose Landagainst the conditions of peace agreed upon torces were foon after discomsted by them, among the Greeks, yet were the complaints and the Greeks, who all ferved under con- made at Sparta fo vehement, that ( though dut of the Spartans. After these victories, with much ado) they concluded to redress

First therefore, seeking religious preten-Seasunder their obedience; impossing upon ces, they required the Athenians to explate them a hard tribute, for maintenance (as certain offences committed against the gods; they pretended) of War against the Perstan; whereto having for answer, That they though indeed they imployed their forces themselves should expiate other the like ofchichy, to the conquest of such Islands and fences, committed in sparta, they began to Haven-Towns of their Countrey-men, as deal plainly, and required that the people tiood out against them. All which was ea- of some Towns, oppressed by the State of tily suffered by the Lacedamonians, who athens, should be set at liberty; and that were In-landers, and men that delighted a decree made against those of Megara, not in Expeditions to be made far from whereby they were forbidden to enter any home. But afterwards perceiving the power Port of the Athenians, should be reversed. or the Albenians to grow great, they held This last point they to earnestly press, that themin much jealoufic, and were very apt to lifthey might obtain it, they promifed to ab-

other Estates. Wherefore at such time as the great importance (for it was a trisse) but on-Thebars would have oppressed the Plateans, ly that by seeming to have obtained some when they of rlatea repaired to Sparta for what, they might preserve their reputation succour, they found there no other aid, than without entring into a War, which threat-

But the Athenians would yield to noand tedious War with their neighbours of thing; for it was their whole defire that all Thebes. But it proved otherwise; for their Greece should take notice how far they were from fear of any other City. Hereupon they prepared on both fides very strongly, all that was needful to the War; wherein the Lacedamonians were Superiour, both in number and quality, being affifted by most of the Cities in Greece, and having the general favour, as men that pretended to fet at liberty fuch as were oppressed : but the saions of money, hipping, engines, and ab-vy, wherein they had little good fuccels beiclute power of command among their Sub- ing eatily vanquithed by the Athenians, who horsewhich they held, and alterward found ooth had more and better thips, and were of greater use in such need, than the willing lo skilfull in Sea-lights, that a rew Vessels of readiness of triends, who toon grow weary. and are not eatily aftembled.

ø. 111.

The beginning of the Peloponnelian War.

He first and second years Expedition was very grievous to the City of Athens. For the Fields were walted, the Treescut down, the Country people driven a very fore blow, that compelled them to to twe, with Wives, Coildren, and Cattel live for peace. A Fleet of Athenian thins in o the Town; whereby a most furious refittiene, grewinthe City, tuch as before they as their manner was, the coast of Laconia. had never felt, nor heard of. Hereunto was and all the half-life of Peloponnelus, was by added the revolt of the Mytileni as, in the contrary winds detained at Pylus, which is lile or Lusbos, and the fiege of Plates their a ragged Promontory, joyning to the Main, confederated City, which they durft not ad- by a strange neck of Land. Before it there venture to rai.e, belides some small over-lyes a small barren Island of less than two throws received. The Lacedamonians af miles compass, and within that a Creek, fembling as great forces as they could raife which is a good harbour for thips, the force out of Pciofonnejus, did in the beginning of of weather being born off by the head-Land Summer enter the Country of Attica, and and Isle. This Promontory the Athenians therein abide, until victuals began to fail, fortified, as well as in halte they might; walting and deftroying all things round and what was wanting in their artificial forabout. The Governours of the Athenians dification, was supplyed by the natural would not fuller the people to iffue into the strength and fite of the place. By holding field against them; for they knew the valour this piece of ground, and haven, they in reaof their enemies: but used to send a Fleet ion expected many advantages against their into reloponnesias, which wasted as fast all cuemies. For the Country adjoyning was the S. a-coalt of their enemies, whileft they inhabited by the Meffenians, who in ancient were making war in Attica. So the Pelo times had held very strong and cruel war ponnessans being the stronger by Land, wan with sparta; and (though quite subdued) the Town o. Platas, which wanted refeue; they were held in streight subjection; vet the Athenians likewise being more mighty was not the old hatred so extinguished, that by Sea, did tubdue Mytilene which had re- by the neer neighbourhood and affiftance belled, but could not be succoured from of the Athenians, it might not be revived. the Lacedamonians began to perceive how willers to the Lacedamonians, and as many unht they were to deal with fuch enemies. of their bond-flaves as could escape from For after that Allica was throughly wasted, them, would repair to Pylus, and from thence it lay not greatly in their power to do any make daily incursions into Laconia, which

4. chans did as far exceed them in all pro- | began to fet their care to build a ftrong Natheirs durit undertake a great number of the Feloponnesians.

ø. IV.

Of the great loss which the Spartans received at i ylus.

Mong other loffes which the Spartans had felt by Sea, they received at Pylin bound for Corcyra, waiting in that passage, Sparta. Ly thele proceedings in that War Furthermore it was thought, that many illoffence equal to such harm as they them- was not far off: Or if other hopes failed, yet felves might, and did, receive. The Confe- would the benefit of this haven, lying almost derates began to fet forward very flowly in in the mid-way between them and Coreyra, their Expeditions into Atticas perceiving make them able to furround all Pelopone-well that athens was plentifully relieved 1/10, and waste it at their pleasure. The news with all necesiaries, which came by the Sea of these doings at Pylus drew the Peloponnefrom the III and that were subject unto that | fans thither in all halte out of Attica, which Litare; and therefore these invaders took they had entred a few dayes before with but small pleasure in beholding the Walls their whole Army: but now they brought or that mig ty City, or in walting a for faken not only their Land-forces, but all their field, which was to them a pattern of the Navy to recover this piece, which how bad ca minies with which their own Territory a neighbour it might prove in time, they was the whillt afflicted. Wherefore they well fore-faw, little fearing the grievous lots at hand, which they there in few daies whilst with such reputation they might. received. For when they in vain made a But they found all contrary to their expectagene, al atrault on all fides, both by Sea and tion: For instead of concluding upon even Land unding that small Garriton which the terms, or desiring of meet recompence for A:hensans had left, very resolute in the de- loss sustained, the Athenians demanded certence, they occupied the haven, placing four tain Cities to be restored to them, which handred and twenty choice men, all of them had been taken from them by the Lacedamo-Gitzens of Sparta, in the Itland before men- nians long before this War began, refusing moned at each end whereof is a channel that likewise to continue the treaty of peace, leads into the Port; but so narrow, that on- unless the Spartans which were in the Isle, ly two thips in front could enter between were first rendred unto them as prisoners. the lile and Pylus; likewise but seven or Thus were the Embassadors returned withright thips could enter at once by the fur- out effect; at which time the truce being ther channel, between the Island and the ended, it was defired from the Athenian Cap-Main. Having thus taken order to that up tains, that they should, according to their relidue to run themselves aground.

of the History of the World.

Wherefore the Magistrates were sent from hard means, for conveyance of victuals into sparta to the Camp (as was their custom in the Isle; which finally was taken by force, great dangers) to advice what were belt for and the men that were in it carried prifothe publick fafety; who when they did per- ners to Athens, where it was decreed that ceive that there was no other way to releue when the Peloponnesians next invaded Attica, their Citizens out of the Isle, than by compolition with their enemies, they agreed to entreat with the Athenians about peace, taking truce in the mean while with the Capwere, That the Lacedamonians should deli-Wine, and Fleth, thould be daily carried into were ill-affected unto them. the Isle, but that no thips should pass into the Island fecretly: That the Athenians should carry the Lacedemonian Embassadors to Athens, there to treat of peace, and should bring them back, at whose return the truce should end, which if in the mean time it were broken in any one point, should be held utterly void in all; That when the truce was expired, the Athenians should restore the Peloponnesian thips, in as good cafe as they re-this new Town by Sea, they fent part of Covenant, restore the ships which had been their Fleet to fetch wood, and other ftuff, put into their hands. Whereto answer was wherewith to fortific round about, and made, that the condition of the truce was, block up the piece on all fides. But in the that if any one Article were broken, all should mem feafon the Athenian Fleet, hearing of be held void; now (faid the Athenians) ve their danger that were left at Pylus, returned have affaulted our Garrisons, and thereby thither, and with great courage entring the are we acquitted of our promise to restore haven, didbreak and fink many of their ene- the ships. This and the like frivolous allemics velicles; took five, and so inforced the gations which they made, were but meer thifts; yet profit to far overweighed honour, Now was the Town secure, and the spar- that better answer none could be got. Then tuns abiding in the Island as good as lost. were the Lacedamonians driven to use many these prisoners should all be slain. Whether fearing the death of these men, or withheld by the troubles, which (according to the Athenians hope) fell upon them, the Latains at Pylus. The conditions of the truce cedemonians were fo far from walting Attica, that they suffered their own Country to ver up all the ships which were in the Coast, be continually over-run, both by the Atheand that they should attempt nothing against nians, who landed on all parts of their Coast, the Town, nor the Athenians against the and by those which issued out of Pylus; Camp: That a certain quantity of Bread, which became the Rendezvous of all that

ø. V.

How the Lacedæmonians hardly, and to their great disadvantage, obtained a Peace that was not well kept.

Herefore they endeavoured greatly to obtain peace ; which the Athenians would not hearken unto. For they were fo ceived them. The Embassadors coming to puffed up with continuance of good success, Athens, were of opinion, that as they them- that having fent a few bands of men into sclives had begun the War, so might they end sicilie, to hold up a faction there, and make it when they pleased. Wherefore they told what profit they might of the Sicilians the Athenians how great an honour it was quarrels; when afterward they heard that that the Lacedemonians did fue to them for the differences in that Ille were taken away, peace, advising them to make an end of War, and their bands returned without either

if it had been meerly through their default, unto them; yea, as Masters of the Sea, to that the lile of Sicilie was not conquered : weary them out, as in elicet already they which (besides the longer distance) was in had done. As for the Confederates of power to effend others, or defend it felf. Sparta, they could now endure neither War no whit inferiour unto Peloponne[us. Yet nor peace; their daily travels, and many was this their over-weening much abated loffes had to wearied and incenfed them. shortly after, by some disasters received, Wherefore the Lacedamonians were glad especially in Thrace, where, in a battel which to use the occasion, which the inclination they lost at Ampinpolis, Cleon and Brasides, of their enemies did then afford, of making Generals of the Athenian and Lacedamonian a final peace, which with much ado they forces, were both flain; which two had most procured, as seemed equal and easie; but been advertaries to the peace. As the Atheni- was indeed impossible to be performed. ans by their iolies were taught moderation; and therefore all their travel was little To the Lacedemenians, who not only felt the effectual. like wounds, but through the great Navy which they had received at Fylis, were fain taken being agreed upon, it fell out by lot, to proceed lamely in the War, against fuch that the Lacedemonians should restore first. as, through commodity of their good fleet. These had won more Towns upon the Conhad all advantage that could be found in tinent from the Athenians, than the Atheniexpedition, were fervently defirous to con- ans had from them; but what they had won, clude the buliness, ere Fortune by any new they had not won absolutely. For they favour mould revive the infolence, which had reflored fome Towns to such of their was at this time well mortified in their Ene- Allies, from whom the State of Athens had mics. Neither was it only a confideration taken them; fome, and those the most, they of their present estate, that urged them to had fet at liberty (as reason required) which bring the treaty of peace to a good and had opened their gates unto them as to their speciely effect; but other dangers hanging triends and deliverers, and not compelled over their heads, and ready to fall on them, them to break in as enemies. Now concernwhich unless they compounded with the ling the Towns which were not in their own Alkenians, they knew not how to avoid. The hands, but had been rendred unto their thate of Argos, which had antient enmity Confederates, the Spartans found means to with them, was now after a truce of thirty give fome fatisfaction, by permitting the years well-nigh expired, ready to take the Athenians to retain others, which they had benefit of their present troubles, by joyning gotten in the War; as for the rest, they with those who alone found them work promised more than afterwards they could else to do.

584

this War had not been regarded. For it was terance in time to come. This dull perforthen thought that by waiting the Territory mance of conditions on the fide of the sparof Athens with sword and fire, the quarrel lans, made the Athenians become as back-

gain or lofs, they banished the Captains, as wherewith to maintain a Navy, could do

The restitution of prisoners and places enough. Argos was a rich and strong City, perform. The Cities which they had taken which though inferiour to sparta in valour, into protection, could not endure to hear yet was not fo unwarlike, nor held fuch of being abandoned, neither would they by ill correspondence with the neighbouring any means yield themselves into the hands Estates, that the Lacedamonians could ever of their old Lords the Athenians, whom far prevail upon it, when they had little they had offended by revolting, notwithstanding whatsoever Articles were drawn, This was a thing that in the beginning of and concluded, for their security, and betshould easily and in short time have been ward in doing those things which on their ended, whereby not only the Athenians part were required; so that restoring only should have been brought to good order, the prisoners which they had, they deferred but the Corinthians, and others, for whose the rest, untill such time as they might refake the War was undertaken, have been fo ceive the full fatisfaction, according to the firmly knit to the Lacedamonians, that they agreement. But before such time as these fliould for love of them have abandoned difficulties brake out into matter of open the Argives to their own fortunes. But now quarrel, the Lacedemonians entred into a the vanity of those hopes appeared, in that more streight alliance with the Athenians, the Athenians abounding in ready money, making a league offentive and defentive and means to raise more, were able to se- with them. Hereunto they were moved by cure themselves by a strong fleet, from any the backwardness of the Argives, who being great harm that the Peloponnesians, wanting (as they thought) likely to have such for once compounded between athens and fore Pylms, had rather chosen to live in cap-Sparts, did shew themselves plainly unwil- tivity, than to die in fight; and that Pylus it has to give ear to any such motion. Think- self, sticking as a thorn in the foot of Lacoing therefore, that, by cutting from Argos nia, had bred such anguish in that Estate, as all hope of Athenian succour, they should utterly wearying the accustomed Spartan make fure work, the Spartans regarded not resolution, had made it fit down, and seek to the affections of other States, whom they had either bound unto them by well-deferving in the late War, or found fo troubletome, that their enmity (if perhaps they durft let it appear) was little worse than friendthip. It bred great jealousies in all the Cities same opinion, did cast their eyes upon the of Greece, to perceive such a conjunction be- rich and great City of Argos, of whose abilitween two so powerful Signiories: especially one clause threatning every one, that was lief, because of long time it had done noany thing apt to fear, with a fecret intent thing. Such is the base condition, which that might be harboured in their proud conceits, of subduing the whole Country, and taking each what they could lay hold For, besides the other Articles, it was agreed. That they might by mutual consent add new conditions, or alter the old at their own pleasures. This impression wrought so strongly in the Corinthians, Thebans, and other ancient Confederates of sparta, that the hate which they had born to the Athenians their professed enemies, was violently thrown upon the Lacedemonians their unjust friends: whereby it came to pass, that they who lately had born chief sway in Greece, might have been abandoned to the War. But these Corinthians did only murant used the advantage.

ø. VI.

of thenegotiations and practices held between many States of Greece, by occasion of the Peace that was concluded.

peace at their hands, as foon as things were | being overlaid by enemies, in the Island berefresh it felf by dithonourable ease: then did not only the Corinthians and Thebans begin to conceive basely of those men which were vertuous, though unfortunate; but other less Cities joyning with these in the ty to do much, they conceived a strong bethrough foolish envy is become almost natural in the greater part of mankind. We curioully fearch into their vices, in whom, had they kept some distance, we should have dicerned only the vertues; and comparing injurioully our best parts with their worst, are justly plagued with a falle opinion o good in strangers, which we kn wanting in our felves. The first that publish'd their distince of a ta were the Corinthians, at whose whement entreaty (though moved rather by enthe greatness of Athens daily encreasing the Lacedamonians had entred into the present difcretion of their enemies, as already in at the peace, alledging as grievances, that effect they were, had the enemies wifely fome Towns of theirs were left in the Atheneans hands. The Manteneans, who during the time of War, had procured some part of the Arcadians to become their followers, and forfake their dependency upon the State of sparta, did more freely and readily discover themselves; fear of revenge to come, working more effectually than indignation at things already past. The Argives feeling the THE admiration wherein all Greece gale of prosperous fortune that began to fill The admiration wherein an orter gate of property themselves to take as their fails, prepared themselves to take as able, and able to make way through all much of it as they could stand undersgiving impediments, had been so excessive, that for that purpose unto twelve of their Citiwhen by some similter accidents, that City zens a full and absolute commission to make was compelled to take and feek peace, upon alliance between them and any free Cities of terms not founding very honourable, this Greece (Athens and Sparta excepted) withcommon opinion was not only abated, but out any further trouble of propounding (as happens usually in things extreme) was every particular business to the multitude. changed into much contempt. For it was ne- When the gates of Argos were fet thus open ver thought that any Lacedemonian would to all commers; the Mantineans began to have endured to lay down his weapons, and lead the way, and many Cities of Peloponne-yield him elf prifoner, nor that any misfor-tune should have been so great, as should confederacy; some incited by private rehave drawn that City to relieve it self other- spects, others thinking it the wisest way to wise than by force of Arms. But when once do as the most did. What inconveniency it had appeared that many of their Citizens, among whom were some of especial mark, Lacedemonians easily discerned; & therefore rinth, where they well perceived that the themselves to the Argives, in whom they mightiefhadbeen hatched. These Embaila- knew the same affection to be inveterate: ours found in the Corintbians a very rough others did only hate the peace concluded; di polition, with a gravity expressing the opi- and these would rather have followed the pion which they had conceived of their prefint advantage over sparta. They had caufed all Cities which had not entred yet into in peace. Of this number were the Corinthalliance with Argos, to fend their Agents to ans, who knowing that the Thebans were afthem, in whote prefence they gave audience fected like unto themfelves, dealt with them to the Lacedamonians, the purport of whole to enter into the fociety of the Argives, as Embatue was this: That the Corinthians, they had done : but the different forms of without breach or their oath, could not for- Government, used in Thebes and Argos, cautake the aliance which they had long fince cd the Thebans to hold rather with Sparta, made with Sparta; and that Reason did as that was ruled by the principal men, thanto well bind them to hold themselves content-incur the danger of innovation, by joyning ed with the peace lately made, as Religion with such as committed the whole rule to enforced them to continue in their antient the multitude. confederacysforafmuch as it had been agreed between the Spartans and their allociats, that Corinthians began to bethink themselves of the confent of the greater part (which had yielded unto peace with Athens) should bind any truce with Athens, and yet were unprethe leffer number to perform what was concluded, if no Divine impediment withitood come to some temporary agreement with the them. Hereunto the Corinthians made an- Athenians, and hardly obtained it. For the fwer, that the Spartans had first begun to Athenians, who had dealt with all Greece at do them open wrong, in concluding the war wherein they had loft many places, without provision of restitution; and that the very clause alledged by the Embassadors, did acquit them from any necessity of subscribing they might be safe enough from them, if they to the late Peace, forasmuch as they had fworn unto those people whom they perinto protection; for that an oath was no less one should not make peace nor War withto be accounted a Divine impediment, than out the other. were pestilence, tempest, or any the like accident, hindring the performance of things clearly beseen the great advantage which undertaken. As for the alliance with Argor, absolute Lords have, as well in peace as in they faid that they would do as they should war, over such as are served by voluntaries. find caule. Having difmitted the Embaffadors We hall hardly find any Signiory, that hath with this aniwer, they made haste to joyn been so contrantly followed as sparta was themselves with argos, and caused other by so many States, and some of them little

525

ent Emballadors to stop the matter at Co- neans and Eleans; these did firmly betake Spartans than the Argives in War, vet rather the Argives in War than the Lacedemonians

This business having ill succeeded, the their own danger, who had not fo much as pared for War. They fought therefore to one time, did not greatly care to come to any appointment with one City that had thewed against them more stomach than force; but gave them to understand, that would claim the benefit of that alliance, which Athens had lately made with Sparts fivaded to rebel against Athens, that they and her dependants; yet finally they grantwould never abandon them, nor willingly ed unto these Corinthians (which were loth fuffer them to fall again into the tyrannous to acknowledge themselves dependants of hands of the Athenians. Wherefore they held Sparta) the truce that they defired; but themselves bound both in Reason and Reli- into private consederacy they would not gion to use all means of upholding those, admit them, being an article of the league whom by common confent they had taken between them and the Spartans, That the

Herein, as in many other passages, may States to do the like; fo that sparta and inferior to it c.t, being all as free: whereas Atkens were in a manner left to themselves, contratiwise, the Atkenians had lately, and the Thebans and Megarians being also upon by compellive means gotten their Dominithe point to have entred into this new con- on, wherein they demeaned themselves as federacy. But as the affections were divers Tyrants. But in performance of conditiwhich caused this halty confluence of sud-ons agreed upon, the Athenium were able den friends to Argo, it fo likewife came to to make their words good, by excluding any paisthat the triendilip it felf, such as it was, State out of their Confederacy, and giving had much diverfity both of fincerity and of up fuch places as were agreed upon: of continuance. For some there were that hated which the Lucedemonian could do neither or feated the Lacedemonians, as the Manti- the one nor the other. For such Towns as the lite War, could not be restored without their content which had them in prefent possession; and particularly the Town of analle, which the thebans held, could by vantage of breaking the peace, by reason that no means be obtained from them by the Laredemonians (who carneftly defired it, that their wills) had broken all Covenants with by restitution thereof unto the Athenians them. Now the State of Athens had fully deas carneftly demanding it, themselves might termined to retain Pylus, and to perform norecover Pylus) unless that they would agree thing that the Lacedamonians should, and to make a private alliance with Theber; might require, until they had first, without which thereupon they were constrained any longer halting, fulfilled all Articles Athens.

CHAP VIII.

The Lacedamonians having broken one article of the league made between them & the Athenians, that by fo doing they might Citizens, which were prisoners. But Alcibienablethemselves to the performance of another, were shamefully disappointed of their sent privily to the Argives, and gave them to hopes by the Thebans, who did not give up understand how fitly the time served for the Town of Penatte, till first they had utter- them to associate themselves with Athens, ly demolished it, and made it of no worth to which was enough to give them security the Athenians. This was fought to have against all enemies. been excused by the Lacedamonian Embasfadors, who coming to Athens (whither they many Estates unto their society, had embrahad fent home all prisoners that had been ced great hopes of working wonders as if detained at Thebes ) hoping with gentle they should have had the conduct of all words to falve the matter; faying, That from Greece against the Athenians, robbing Sparta henceforth no enemy of Athens should nestle of that honour, as having ill used it, and in Panatte, for it was destroyed. But these thereby leaving their old enemies in case of Embassadors had not to deal with tame much contempt and disability. But these sudfools. For the Athenians told them in den apprehensions of vain joy, were suddenplain terms, That of three principal conditions agreed upon in their late League, they had not performed any one 5 but used to the state of the stat fuchbase conclusions as stood not with their had refused their alliance; when the Corinthe Thebans; having destroyed a Town when a false rumour was noised abroad, fent them.

There were at that time both in Athens and Sparta, many that were ill-contented with the peace: among whom were the Ephori, cholen for that year, in Sparta; & Alcibiades, the Ephori, though defiring to renew the War, yet wished that first they might get from the Athenians as much as was to be rendred to them by Covenant, especially tween their Estates and the Athenians. Pylus that had so forely troubled them. Alcisome honourable employment; used all it; butto keep the love of the Atheniuns, the

their old Allies had gotten by their means in | means to fet the quarrel on foot, whilft the Athenians had yet both advantage enough, as not having rendred ought fave their prifoners, and pretence enough to use that adthe Lacedamonians (though indeed against to do, though knowing it to be contrary whereto they were bound, even to theutto the last agreement between them and most point. This was enough to make them fweat, who having already done the most that they could, had as yet got nothing in recompence, except the delivery of their ades withing a speedy beginning of open war.

The Argives, upon the first confluence of honour: having made private alliance with thians had fought security from Albens; and that they should have restored; and not Athens Thebes and Sparta, were come to a full having forced their dependants by War, agreement upon all points of difference; to make good the Covenants of the late then began the Argives to let fall their crefts, concluded peace. Hereupon they dismissed and sue for peace unto the Lacedemonians, the Embassadors with rough words, mean- who needing it as much as they, or more, yet ing with as rough deeds to anger those that held their gravity, and were not over-hasty to accept it. At this time, and in this perturbation, the message of Alcibiades came very welcome to the Argives, which were not now consulting how to become the chief of all others, but how to fave themselves. apowerful young Gentleman in Athens. But Wherefore they fent away presently to Athens, their own Embassadors, accompanied with the Mantingans and Eleans, to make a league offentive and defentive be-

Of this business the Lacedamonians knew biades, whose Nobility, riches and favour not what to think : for well they faw, that with the people, made him desire War, as such a combination tended to their great the mean whereby himself might procure hurt, and therefore were desirous to prevent

Eeee 2

of the History of the World.

done, than frood with their honour or pro- of the Embaffadors, and the strong perfitsothers held it the wifeft way, having done Iwalions of Alcibiades, that little wanted of fo much, not to stick upon a little more, but concluding the league with Argos. Yet for rather by giving full fatisfaction, to retain the present to far did Nicion, an honourable the friendibip of that State, which was more Citizen, and great friend to the peace, preto be valued than all the rest of Greece. This vail with them, that the business wasput off, resolution prevailing, they sent away such of until he himself, with other Embassatheir Citizens as were best affected to the dours, might fetch a better answer from peace, who coming to Athens, with full com- Sparta. mission to make an end of all controversies, did carnestly labour in the Council-house, poor a trick of Alcibiades was able to carry to make the truth of things appear, faying; a matter offo great importance, when the That their Confederacy with the Thebans Spartan Embassadours might have cast the had tended to none other end than the re- load upon his own shoulders, by discovering covery of Panader concerning which Town, the truth: But the gravity which was usuer any other business, that it much grieved ally found in the Lacedemonians, hindred the Lacedemonians, to fee things fall out in them (perhaps) from playing their game fuch wife as might give to the Athenians handsomely against so nimble a wit; and cause of displeature; but that all should be they might well have been thought untrusty cone which in reason might be required for men, had they professed themselves such as making matters even between them; to would fay and un-fay for their most advanwhich purpose they shewed that themselves tage. had absolute commission. Wherefore they delired that Polus might bereftored to them, meffage to deliver at Sparta, being perempand especially for the present, that the negotiation with the Argives might be called afide. Favourable audience was given to this proposition, the rather because they which Panade, and should immediately renounce promised amends, had power to make their their Alliance made with the Thebans; letting words good. But all this fair likelihood of them understand, that otherwise the Athegood agreement was dasht on the sudden, by nians, without further delay, would enter the practice of Alcibiades, who, secretly dea-into confederacy with the Argives, and ling with the Lacedamonian Embassadors, their adherents. The Ephori at Sparta had perswaded them well of his friendship to-no minde to forsake the Thebans, assured wards their City, and advised them to take friends to their State; but wrought so hard, all care that their absolute power to con- that the anger of the Athenians was suffered clude what they pleafed in the name of spar-to break out what way it could, which to ta, might not be known to the Commonalty mitigate, they would do no more, than or Athens, left the insolent multitude should only (at the request of Nicias their honourthereupon grow peremptory and yield to able friend, who would not feem to have efnothing, unless they could draw them to un-fected nothing) (wear a-new to keep the reasonable conditions. The Embassiadors Articles of the league between him and believed him, and fashioned their tale in the Athens. Immediately therefore upon return assembly of the people, as he had advised of the Embassadors, a new league was made them Hereupon the same Alcibiades taking between the Athenians, Argives , Mantinealliance, as (contrary to their own Oath) effect. already they had the Thebans. The people of Athens, whom a pleasing errand would ill case, who having restored all that they very hardly have fatisfied, or brought into could unto the Attenians, and procured a good opinion of the Lacedemonians, others to do the like, had themselves reco-

new Ephori thought that more was already | fo much incented with the double dealing

CHAP. VIII

It may also feem a great wonder, how so

Nicias and his Companions had a fowre torily to require performance of all conditions, and among the rest, that the Lacedemonians should take the pains to rebuild presently the advantage, which their double ans, and Eleans, with very ample provision dealing afforded, inveighed openly against for holding the same common friends and them, as men of no fincerity, that were come enemies; wherein, though the Lacedomoto Athens for noother purpose, than to hin-nians were passed over with silence, yet was der the people from strengthening them-lit manifest, that the whole intent of this confelves with triends, meaning to draw the federacy did bend it felf chiefly against Argives and their Adherents to their own them, as in short while after was proved by

At this time the Lacedamonians were in (whose honest meanings had so ill been se-vered nothing of their own (prisoners exconded, with good performance) were now cepted) for default of restoring all that they dischem, was the los of reputation, which affection, was the los of reputation, which they had not more impaired in the late War be quiet a retaining still that enmity in their they mad not more imparted by misfortunes, than in fundry pallages be-hearts, which they had fufficiently discovertween them and the Athenians: to procure ed in effects, though not yet breaking out and keep whose Amity, they had lest iun- into terms of open War. dry of their own friends to thift for themfelves. Contrariwife, the Athenians by the treaty of peace, had recovered the most part of that which they loft in War; all The Athenians fending two Fleets to fack Sytheir gettings they had retained; and were strengthened by the access of new Confederates.

ø. VII.

was ill kept, though not openly broken.

of their feveral friends.

By these occasions the Corinthians, Beetians, Phocians, Locrians, and other people of Greece, began a-new to range themselves under the Lacedemonians, and follow their lia such, as without help from Athens, could enligns. One victory which the Lacedamo- give any likelihood of a good end in that nians obtained by their meer valour in a fet War. For, although in the beginning, the Battel, near to Mantinea, against the Ar- enterprize and so well succeeded, that they give side, helped well to repair their decay-besieged syracuje, the chief City of all the ed reputation, though otherwise it yielded Island, and one of the fairest Towns which them no great profit. The civil diffention the Greeks inhabited, obtaining the better in arifing fhortly after within Argos it felf, be fundry Battels by Land and Sea; yet when tween the principal Citizens, and the Com-the Town was relieved with strong aid from mons, had almost thrown down the whole Peloponnesus, it came to pass that the Atheframe of the new combination. For the nians were put to the worse on all sides, in chief Citizens getting the upper hand, made fuch wife, that their Fleet was that up into a league with sparta, wherein they pro- the haven of syracuse, and could not iffue ceeded fo far, as to renounce the Amity of out. the Athenians in express words, and forced to the Athenians as closely as before.

prosperous attempts. Finally, the Atheni-fometimes give alarm unto the City it felf.

fould. But that which did most of all dif | ans wanting matter of quarrel, and the La#### d. VIII.

racuse, are put to flight, and utterly discomfited.

During this intermission of open War, the Athenians re-entertained their hopes of tubduing sicil; whither they fent a How the Peace between Athens and Sparta Fleet to mighty, as never was fet forth by Greece in any Age before or after.

This Fleet was very well manned, and T was not long ere the Argives and their furnished with all necessaries to so great an fellows had found business wherewith to expedition. All which came to nought spartfet the Athenians on work, and makeuse of ly by the factions in Athens, whence Alcibithis conjunction. For, prefuming upon the ades, Author of that voyage, and one of the ftrength of their fide, they began to meddle Generals of their Fleet, was driven to banish with the Epidaurians, whom it concerned himself, for fear of such judgement, as else the State of Sparta to defend. So, many acts he was like to have undergone among the ofholility were committed, wherein Athems incensed people; partly by the invasion and Sparta did (as principals) infest each the which the Lacedamonians made upon Attica. other, but came in collaterally, as to the aid whilst the forces of that State were so far from home. Hereunto was added the aid of the King of Perfia, who supplied the Peloponnesians with mony.

Neither was the success of things in Sici-

As the Athenian affairs went very ill in the Mantineans to the like. But in short Sicil, so did they at home stand upon their space of time the multitude prevailing, re-terms, for that the Lacedamonians, who had versed all this, and having chased away been formerly accultomed to make wearttheir ambitious Nobility, applied themselves tome yearly journeys into Attiea, which have ving pillaged and forraged, they returned Befides these uproats in Peloponness, many home; did now by counted of Aleibiades assaires were made to raise up troubles in all (who seeking revenge upon his own Citiparts of Greece, and likewife in Macedon, to | zens, was fled unto them) fortilie the Town the Athenians; whose forces and readiness of Decelea, which was near to Athens, whence for execution, prevented fome things, rethey cealed not with dealy incurfious to venged other, and requited all with tome harry at the Country round about, and CHAP. VII

In these extremities, the perverse obstinacy | measure honour or dishonour by the affu-

never offended them.

500

makes foolish counsel seem wifer than it whereby oppression beginning upon one, is was; which came to pass many times among extended as warrantable upon all. Therethe Athenians, whose vain Conceits Pallas fore his fear of wrongful condemnation was was faid to turn to the best. But where unfound advice, finding bad proof, is obstinately pursued, neither Pallas nor Fortune Army, having no other expectation of safecan be justly blamed for a miserable issue. This second Fleet of the Athenians, which better might have ferved to convey home the former that was defeated, after fome attempts made to small purpose against the the Camp break up till seven and twenty Syracufans, was finally (together with the daies were past. His timerousness was even other part of the Navy, which was there be- as foolish and ridiculous, as the iffue of it fore) quite vanquished, and barr'd up into was lamentable. For he should not have the haven of Syracuse, whereby the Camp of the Athenians, utterly deprived of all benefit by Sea, either for fuccour or departure, was driven to break up, and fly away by Land in which flight they were over-taken, routed, and quite overthrown, in such wise that scarce any man escaped.

This milchief well deferved fell upon the Athenians, who had wickedly condemned into exile Sophocles and Pthiodorus Generals, formerly fent into that Isle, pretending that they had taken mony for making peace in cias, he had furely found the same fortune in sicil, whereas indeed there was not any a case very like. But when, he retiring the means or possibility to have made War. broken remainder of Crassus his Army, defea-Hereby it came to pass, that Nicias, who had ted by the Parthian Archers, was advised, the chief command in this unhappy enter- upon such an accident as this, to continue prize, did rather chuse to hazard the ruine of where he then was, till the Sun were past his Country by the loss of that Army, where- the fign of Scorpio; he made answer, that he in confilted little less than all the power of flood not in such fear of scorpio, as of Sagit-Athens; than to adventure his own estate, tarius. So adventuring rather to abide the his life, and his honcur, upon the tongues of frowning of the Heavens, than the nearer shameless accusers, and the sentence of danger of Enemies upon Earth, he made Judges before his tryal resolved to condemn such a safe and honourable retreat, as did him, by retiring from syracuse, when wis- both shew his noble resolution, and give a domand necessity required it. For (faid fair example to that good rule, he) they shall give fentence upon us, who know not the reason of our doings, nor would give ear to any that would speak in our behalf, but altogether hearken to suspicious and vain rumours that shall be brought against us : yea these our fouldiers, who now are fo desirous to return the Governours of understanding, when he in fafety, will in our danger be well contented intends evil to the Multitude; and that the to frame their tales to the pleasure of the lend wickedness of unjust men is the ready mean and insolent multitude.

This resolution of Nicias, though it cannot be commended (for it is the part of an honest and valiant man, to do what reason willeth, not what opinion expecteth; and to

of the Athenians was very strange; who lea- rance of his well-informed conscience, raring at their backs, & at their own doors, an ther than by the malicious report and cenenemy little lefs mighty than themselves, did fure of others) yet it may be excused fince he vet fend forth another Fleet into Sicil, to had before his eyes the injustice of his peoinvade a people no less puissant, which had ple, and had well understood that a wicked tentence is infinitely worse than a wicked It often happens, that a prosperous event fact, as being held a president and patern fuch as a conftant man could not eafily have over-mastered; but when afterwards the ty than the faint hope of a fecret flight, he was fo terrified with an Eclipfe of the Moon, happening when they were about to dif-lodge, that he would not confert to have thought that the powers of the Heavens, and the course of Nature would be as unjust as his Athenians; or might portend less evil to the flothful, than to fuch as did their heft. Neither do I think that any Aftrologers can alledge this Eclipse, as either a cause or prognostication of that Armies destruction, otherwise than as the folly of men did, by application, turn it to their own confusion. Had C. Callius the Roman, he who flew Tulius Cafar, imitated this superstition of Ni-

- Sapiens Dominabitur aftris.

Thus we fee that God, who ordinarily works by a concatenation of means, deprives to weaken the virtue of those who might have done them good.

in Sicilia.

the Atherian Dominion, and may be Councel and good performance he to far excill accounted a very little less calamity to celled all the Lacedemonians, that all their that Effaces than was the subversion of the good success was as a cribed to his wit and va-walls, when the City about seven years atter was taken by Lylander. For now began weary of his virtue; especially Agis one of the libjects of the Athenian Estate to rebel: their Kings, whose wife had so far yielded of whom, fome they reduced under their her felf to the love of this Athenian, that of whom, the died out; fome for fear among her inward friends the could not forobcalence, offices were fet at liberty bear to call her young child by his nameremiting only to be their good friends, as Hereupon order was taken, that Alcibiaformerly they had been their Subjects; des should be killed out of the way. But he others having a kinde of liberty offered by discovering the Spartaz treachery, conveythe Albertans, were not therewith content- ed himfelf unto Tiffaphernes, whom he to ed, but obtained a true and perfect liberty bewitched with his great beauty, sweet conby force. Among these troubles it fell out very unfeatonably, that the principal men of came the Matter of that barbarous Vice-Albert, being wearied with the peoples info- roys affections, who had free power to diflency, took upon them to change the form pose the great KingsTreasures and Forces in of that Estate, and bring the Government those parts. Then began heto advite If spherinto the hands of a few. To which purpose, mer, not so far forth to affilt the Lacedamoconfiring with the Captains which were #ians, that they should quite overthrow the abroad, they caused them to set up the form State of Athens, but rather to help the weaof an Ariftocracy in the Towns of their ker fide, and let them one confume another, Confederates; and in the mean time, some whereby all should fall at length into the that were most likely to withstand this In- hands of the Persum. By this counsel he made novation, being flain at Athens, the Commo- way to other practices, wherein by strength nalty were to diffinald, that none durft speak of his reputation (as the only Favorite of against the Conspirators, whose number they so great a Potentate) he played his own knew not, but every man was afraid of his game, procuring his restitution. At length neighbour, lest he should be a member of his banishment being repealed by the Army, the league. In this general fear the Majesty but not by the Citizens (who then were of Atbers was usurped by four hundred oppressed by the four hundred helaboured men, who observing in shew the ancient greatly to reconcile the Souldiers to the form of proceeding, did cause all matters to Governours; or at least to divert their heat be propounded unto the people, and con- another way, and turn it upon the common cluded upon by the greater part of voices: Enemy Some of the four hundred approved turther, was quickly dispatched out of the with their good liking, sought to accord By these means were many Decrees made, But the most of that Faction labour all tending to the establishment of this new obtain peace of the Lacedamonians, delr ment, and by his affiftance procured that fundry overtures of peace to the Lucedethe fupplies which the Persian King had pro- monians, desiring to compound in as good

mised to the Lacedamonians, were by Tis-Saphernes, his Lieutenant, made un profitable, troubles whereinto the State of Athens through the flow and bad performance. Al-Atter the great logs of the Fleet and cibiades had at the first been very well enunto that State, was not grown to be the oband the ies of this Army was the ruine of ject of envy. But when it appeared that in but the things propounded were only such his motion, as being weary of the tyranny as were first allowed in private among whereof they were partakers, partly because themselves; neither had the Commonalty they saw it could not long endure, & partly any other liberty, than only to approve and for that themselves, being less regarded by give consent: for who foever prefumed any the rest of their companions, than stool way, and no enquiry made of the murther, themselves of it as honestly as they must authority, which nevertheless endured not chicfly to maintain both their own authority long. For the Fleet and Army which then ty, and the greatness of their City, is they was in the Isle of Samor, did altogether de- might: but if this could not be, they did test these dealings of the four hundred usur- rather wish to preserve their own power, or pers, and held them as Enemies 5 where- fafety at least, than the good Estate of the upon they revoked Alcibiaderout of banish- Common-wealth. Therefore they made terms as they might, and affirming that they were fitter to be trusted than the wavering multitude; especially considering that the City of sparta was governed by an Aristocracy, to which form they had now reduced Attens. All these pallages between the four hundred (or the most and chief of them) and the Lacedamonians, were kept as fecret as might be. For the City of Athens, hoping, without any great caule, to repair their lofics, was not inclined to make composition; from which upon juster ground the Enemy was much more averse, trusting well that the discord of the Athenians (not unknown abroad) might yield some fair opportunity he could raise, obtained many Victories. to the destruction of it self, which in effect (though not then prefently) came to pais. And upon this hope King Agir did Battel to the Atheniums; he overthrew and iometimes bring his forces from Decelea to utterly destroyed the Fleet of the Laceds. Athens, where doing no good, he received monians, commanded by Mindarus; took fome small losles. Likewise the Navy of Pe- the Towns of Cyzicus and Perinthus, made loponness made snew of attempting the Ci- the selymbrians ransome their City, and forty, but seeing no likelihood of success, they tified Chrysopolis. Hereupon Letters were bent their course from thence to other places, where they obtained Victories, which cepting, found to contain the diffress of the in the better fortune of the Athenians might more lightly have been regarded, than in this their decayed estate. Yet it seems, without any disparagement to their wisdom, they should rather have forborn to present unto the Lacedemonians in fight by Land at Chalthe City, or to the Countries near adjoyn- cedon, took Selymbria, believed and won Bying, any terror of the War. For the dillen- zantium, now called Conftantinople, which tion within the walls might soon have done even in those days was a goodly, rich, and more good than could be received from the very ftrong City. Hereupon he returned Fleet or Army without, which indeed gave home with very great welcome, and was occasion to set the Citizens at unity, though | made High Admiral of all the Navv. it lasted not very long. The four hundred, by means of these troubles, were fain to for it was taken from him, and he driven to refign their authority, which they could banish himself again, only because his Lieunot now hold, when the people, having ta- tenant, contrary to the express command ken arms to repel forein Enemies, would of Alcibiades, fighting with the enemies in not lay them down, till they had freed his absence, had lost a great part of the themselves from such as oppressed the State | Fleet. at home. Yet was not this alteration of Government a full restitution of the sovereign to the Athenians more harmful than the command unto the people, or whole body first; and the loss which thereupon they reof the City, but onely to five thousand; ceived, was (though more heavy to them, which company the four hundred (when yet) less to be pitied of others, than that their authority began) had pretended to which ensued upon his former exile. For, take unto them as affiltants: herein feem- whereas at the first, he had fought revenge ing to do little wrong or none to the Com- upon his own City; now, as inured to admonalty, who feldom affembled in greater versity, he rather pitied their fury, who in number. But now when the highest power time of such danger, had cast out him that was come indeed into the hands of fo many, should have repaired their weak effate, it was foon agreed, that Alcibiades and his than fought by procuring or beholding the companions should be recalled from exile, calamity of his people, to comfort himself and that the Army at samos should be re- after injury received. Before they, who were quested to undertake the Government: instituted in the place of Alcibiades, arrived which was forthwith reformed according at the Fleet, he presented Battel to Lysander to the Souldiers defire.

6. X.

How Alcibiades won many important wiffer ries for the Athenians; was recalled from exile; made their General, and again de-

This establishment of things in the City, was accompanied with some good fuccels in the Wars. For the Lucedamonians were about the same time overthrown at Sea, in a great Battel, by the Athenian Fleet. which had remained at Samos, to which alcibiades afterwards joyning fuch forces as Before the Town of Abydus, his arrival with eighteen ships, gave the honour of a great fent to Sparta, which the Athenians inter-Army, in these few words : All is lost ; Mindarus is flain; the Souldiers ment victuals: me know not what to do.

Shortly after this, Alcibiades overthrew

But this his honour continued not long,

The fecond banishment of Alcibiades, was the Lacedamonian Admiral, who was net undertake Alcibiades himself, bringing thips in this judgement was not regarded. Six of more in number (notwithstanding the for- them were put to death, of whom one had mer los of fifteen) than his enemies had, hardly escaped drowning, and was with and better ordered than they had been un-much adorelieved by other Veticls in the der his Lieutenant. But when the Decree storm: but the Captains which were absent of the people was published in the Navy, escaped; for when the fury of the people he had built a Castle.

ς. XI.

The Battel of Arginufæ, and condemnation of the victorious Athenian Captains by the

A many losses and discomfitures, were driven to fly into the Haven of Mytelene, where they were straitly besieged both by Land and Sea. For the raifing of this fiege, necessity inforced them to man all their veffels, and to put the uttermost of their forces scoured the Agean Seas, enter Hellespont, into the hazard of one Battel. This Battel where (landing Souldiers) it befreged and was fought at Arginusa, where Callicratidas, took the Town of Lampsacus. Hereupon all Admiral of the Lacedemonains, losing the the Navy of Athens, being an hundred and honour of the day, preserved his own repu- fourscore fail, made thither in haste: but tation, by dying valiantly in the fight. It finding Lampfacus taken before their commight well have been expected, that the ten ing, they put in at seftor, where having re-Captains, who joyntly had command in chief freihed themselves, they sailed to the River over the Athenian Fleet, should for that good | called Agos-Potamos, which is (as we might daies service, and so happy a Victory, have name it) Goats-Brook, or the River of the received greathonour of their Citizens. But | Goat, being on the Continent oppolite to contrariwise, they were forthwith called Lampfacus: and there they cast Anchors, home, and accused, as if wilfully they had not one whole league off from Lylander, who fuffered many of the Citizens, whose ships rode at Lampfacus in the harbor. The next were broken and funk, to be cast away, day after their arrival, they presented sight when by appointing some Vessels to take unto the Pelopponnessans, who refused it, them up, they might have faved them from whereupon the Athenians returned again under sufficient men, to save those that were drew towards evening. wrackt; which if it were not well accomplished, it was, because a tempest arising the Navy, and his power in those places was performance of that, and other their intend- Country-men, if they could have made use durst absolve them, save only socrates the might furnish themselves with necessaries.

to confident upon his former Victory, as to wife and virtuous Philosopher, whose voice then did Aleibiades withdraw himself to a was over-past, this judgement was reversed. Town upon Hellespont, called Bizanthe, where and the accusers called into question for having deceived and perverted the Citizens. Thus the Athenians went about to free themselves from the infamy of injustice, but the divine Justice was not asleep, nor would be so deluded.

ø. XII.

Fter this time, the Athenians receiving The Battel at Ægos-Potamos, wherein the whole State of Athens was ruined; with the end of the Peloponnesian War.

HE Peloponnesian Fleet under Lysan-L der, the year next following, having being drowned. Hereto the Captains readi- to Agos-Potamos; and thus they continued ly made a very justanswer, That they pur- five daies, braving every day the Enemy, fuing the Victory, had left part of the Fleet, and returning to their own har oour when it

The Castle of Alcibiades wasnot far from about the end of the fight, had hindred the fuch as might have greatly availed his ments. This excuse availed not . For a lewd of it. For he had waged mercenaries, and fellow was brought forth, who faid, That making war in his own name upon tome he himself escaping in a Meal-tub, had been people of the Thracians, had gathered much intreated by these who were in peril of wealth, and obtained much reputation drowning, to delire of the people revenge of among them. He perceiving the diforderly their deaths upon the Captains. It was very course of the Athenian Commanders, restrange, that upon such an accusation main-paired unto them, and shewed what great tained with fo flender evidence, men that inconvenience might grow, if they did not had well deserved of their Country should soon fore-see and prevent it. For they lay beoverthrown. But their enemies had so in a rode subject to every weather; neither incenfed therascal multitude, that no man near enough to any Town where they

Seffor was the next Market-town 5 thither referee, cut in pieces. Thus was the war which both Souldiers and Mariners reforted, flock- had lafted feven and twenty years, with vaing away from the Navy every day, as foon riable fuccefs, concluded in one hour, and the as they were returned from braving the glory of Athens in such wife eclipsed, that she Enemy. Therefore Alcibrades willed them never afterward shone in her perfed light. either to lye at sefior, which was not far off, or at least to confider how near their der, having taken such Towns as readily Enemy was, whole fear proceeded rather did yield upon the first fame of his exploit, from obedience to their General, than from fet fail for Athens, and joyning his forces any cowardite. This admonition was fo far with those of Agis and Paulanius, Kings of despised, that some of the Commanders willed him to meddle with his own matters, and to remember that his authority was out be won on the sudden, he put forth again of date. Had it not been for these opprobrious words, he could (as he told his familiars) have compelled the Lacedamonians, either to fight upon unequal terms, or utter-Streights, who affaulting the Peloponnefians by Land, would either have compelled them to put to Sca, or elle to leave their ships to he did prognosticate. careless in looking into the demeanour of ders in the wars. the Athenians. When they departed, his manner was, to fend forth some of his swiftest walls were thrown down with great rejoy-Veffels after them, who observing their do- cing of those who had born displeasure to ings, related unto him what they had feen. Athens; and not without some consultation Therefore understanding in what careless of destroying the City, and laying waste the fashion they romed up and down the Coun-land about it. Which advice, although it was try; hekept all his men aboard after their not entertained, yet were thirty Goverdeparture: and the fifth day gave especial nors, or rather cruel Tyrants, appointed charge to his Scouts, that when they percei- over the people, who recompended their ved the Athenians dif-imbarking, as their former infolency and injuffice over their custom was, and walking towards sestes, Captains, by oppressing them withallbase they thould forthwith return, and hang up and intolerable flavery. a brazen shield in the Prow, as a token for him to weigh Anchor. 11 fander being in a readine is, made all speed ruined. But the Thirty Tyrants perceiving that fireigth of Oars could give, to Agost this, advertised the Lacedemonians there-Totamos, where he found very few of his of, who contrived, and (as now domineerenemies aboard their thips, nor many near ing in every quarter) foon effected his fudthem, and all in great contuiton upon the den death. news of his approach.

594

Infomuch that the greatest industry which the Athenians then the wed, was in the eleape of eight or nine thirs, which knowing how much that loss imported, gave over Greece, and by combination of many Cities to the lile of cyprus; all the rest were taken, authority, even in that very age in which nor fo far oit as had been more expedient. and fuch of the Souldiers as came into the

Immediately upon this Victory, Ly an-Sparta, fummoned the City; which finding too stubborn to yield, and too strong to to Sea, and rather by terror than violence, compelled all the Islands, and such Towns of the Ionians as had formerly held of the Athenians, to submit themselves to Sparta, ly to quit their Fleet. And like enough it he did thereby cut off all provision of victuwas that he might so have done by trans- als, and other necessaries, from the City, porting the light-armed Thracians, his con- and inforced the people by meer famine to tederases, and others his followers, over the yield to these conditions; That the long walls, leading from the Town to the Port. should be thrown down; That all Cities subject to their Estate, should be set at lithe mercy of the Athenians But finding their berty: That the Athenians should be Maacceptance of his good council no better sters only of their own Territories, and the than hath been rehearsed, he lest them to fields adjoyning to their Town; And that their fortune; which how evil it would be, they should keep no more than twelve ships; That they should hold as Friends or Ene-Lyfander all this while defending himself mies, the same, whom the Lacedemonians by the advantage of his Haven, was not did, and follow the Lacedamonians as Lea-

These Articles being agreed upon, the

The only small hope then remaining to the Athenians was, that Alcibiades might The Scouts performed their charge, and perhaps repair what their own folly had Such end had the Peloponnesian war. After which the Lacedemonians abusing the reputation and great power, which therein they had obtained, grew very odious to Atkens as desperate, & made along Hight in against them, were dispossed of their high

CHAP. IX. that they took, was of the Theban led by ction fo far as might make her terrible to Epaminondas, under whom Philip of Macedon her neighbours. And thus all parts of the Father to Alexander the Great, had the best | Country remained rather evenly ballanced, of his education. By the Ethebarr, the City than well agreeing, till fuch time as Philip, of sparta (besides other great losses seei- and after him Alexander, Kings of Macedon, ot sparia (Denues other great officials and whose fore-fathers had been dependants, kings of pauceaon, ved) was fundry times in danger of being taken. But these haughty attempts of the The and followers, year almost meer Vassals to bans came finally to nothing; for the feveral the Estates of Athens and Sparta) found Estates and Signiories of Greece, were grown means, by making use of their factions, to fo jealous one of anothers greatness, that bring them all into servitude, from which 6 counterpoize the stronger, that no one Masters.

they had subdued Athens. The greatest foil City could extend the limits of her jurisdithe Lacedamonians, Athenians, Argives, and they never could be free; till the Ro-Thebans, which were the mightiest, affocia- mans presenting them with a shew of li-Incomes, which were the migraters, and berty, did berty, did themselves indeed become their

CHAP. IX.

Of matters concurring with the Peloponnesian War, or shortly following it.

6. I.

How the affairs of Persia stood in those times.

tions foregoing it, Artaxerxes Longima- an Egyptian, rebelled against him, and having 1885, having peaceably enjoyed a long reign partly flain, partly chased out of the Land over the Persians, left it by his death either to Darius, who was called Darius No- ly with the Greeks, that by their aid he thus, or the Baltard, whom the Greek Hi- maintained the Kingdom, and delivered it storians (lightly passing over Xerxes the se- over tohis posterity, who (notwithstandcond, and Sogdianus, as Usurpers, and for ing the fury of their civil Wars) maintained their short reign little to be regarded) place it against the Persian, all the daies of this next unto them, or to Xerxes the second; Darius, and of his Son Artaxerxes, Mnemon. who, and his Brother Sogdianus after him Likewise Amorges, a subject of his own, and (feeming to have been the Sons of Hester) of the Royal blood, being Lieutenant of held the Kingdom but one year between Garia, rebelled against him; confederating them, the younger succeeding his elder himself with the Athenians. But the great Brother. It is not my purpose (as I have calamity, before spoken of, which fell upon said before) to pursue the History of the the Athenians in Sicil, having put new life feized at once upon the King and Kingdom. cifeterms; wherein it was concluded, That Uring the times of this Peloponnesian | Darius having slain his Brother, held the War, and those other less Expedi- | Empire nineteen years. Amyrtaus of Sair Persians from hencesorth, by rehearfal of all into the Spartans, and given courage to the the particulars, otherwise than as they shall Manders and others, subject to the State of be incident to the affairs of Greece. It may Asbens, to shake off the yoke of their long therefore suffice to say, That Kerxer the se- continued bondage; It fell out well for Dacond, being a vicious Prince, did perish af- rins, that the Lacedemonians being destitute ter a month or two, if not by surfeit, then of mony, wherewith to defray the charge of by the treachery of his riotous Brother Sog- a great Navy, without which it was impofdianus. Likewise of Sogdianus it is found, fible to advance the War against the State that being as ill as his Brother, and more of Athens, that remained powerful by Sea, cruel, he slew unjustly Bagorazus a principal were driven to crave his assistance, which Eunuch, and would have done as much to he granted unto them, first upon what conhis Brother Darius the Bastard, had not he ditions best pleased himself, though afterfore-feen it, and by raifing a stronger Army wards the Articles of the league between than this hated King Sogdianus could leavy, him and them, were fet down in more prethe Athenans, and upon all that should re- Law, and make a collection of such ancient bel from either of them, and (which was Statutes, as were meet to be put in practice: highly to the Kings honour and profit) that the condition of the City standing as it did all the Cities of Asa which had formerly in that fo fudden alteration. To this charge been his, or his Predecellors, thould return was annexed the supreme authority, either to his obedience. By this Treaty, and the as a recompense of their labours, or because War entiring (of which I have already ipo- the necessity of the times did fo require it, ken) he recovered all that his Grandfather wherein the Law being uncertain, it was fie and Father had left in Afia. Likewife by af- that fuch men thould give judgement in parfiltance of the Lacedamonians, he got Amorticular causes, to whose judgement the Laws ger alive into his hands, who was taken in themselves, by which the City was to be orthe City of Jasus; the Athenians wanting ei- dered, were become subject. But these thirther force or courage to fuccourhim. Never- ty, having fo great power in their hands. thele's Egyr (till held out against him; the were more careful to hold it, than to decause whereo; cannot be the employment of serve it by faithful execution of that which the Perfin forces on the parts of Greece: for was committed to them in truff. he abounded in men, of whom he had enough for all occasions, but they wanted manhood, fome fellows as were odious to the City. which caused him to fight with gold; which though not punishable therefore by Laws effected for him by Souldiers of other Na- they condemned them to death; which protions, and his natural enemics, what the va-ceeding was by all men highly approved, who tour of his own Subjects was infufficient to confidered their lewed conditions, but did perform. Darius had in marriage Parysatis his not withall bethink themselves, how easiea own Sifter, who bare unto him (befides thing it would be unto these thirty men, to other children) Artaxerxes called Mnemon, take away the lives of Innocents, by calling that is to fay, the Mindful, or the Rememberer, who fucceeded him in the Kingdom; they lifted, when condemnation without and Gyrus the younger, a Prince of fingular true trial and proof hadbeen once well alvirtue, and accounted, by all that knew him, lowed. Having thus plaufiby entred into a the most excellent man that ever Persia bred after Cyrus the great. But the old King Da- it belt to fortific themselves with a sure rise, intending to leave unto his eldelt Son guard, ere they brake out into those dilor-Artaxerxes the inheritance of the great Em- ders, which they must needs commit for the pire, did cast a jealous eve upon the doings establishing of their authority. Wherefore of young Cyrus, who being Lieutenant of dispatching two of their own company to the lower Asia, took more upon him than be sparta, they informed the Lacedemonians, fitted a Subject: for which cause his Father that it was the full intent of the Thirty, to fent for him, with intent to have taken some keep the City free from all rebellious movery tharp coutfe with him, had not his own tions: to which purpose it behoved them to death prevented the coming of his younger cut off such as were seditious; and therefore Son, and placed the elder in his Throne. Of defired the Lacedamonians to fend them a the war between these Brethren, and summarily of Artaxerxes, we shall have occasion to fpeak fomewhat in more convenient place.

6. II.

How the thirty Tyrants got their Dominion in

he and they should make war joyntly upon | first by the people to compile a body of their

Therefore apprehending fuch troublethem perturbers of the peace, or what elle wicked course of Government, they thought Garrison, which they promised at their own cost to maintain. This motion was well approved, and a Guard fent, the Captain of which was fo wellentertain'd by the Thirty, that none of their misdeeds could want his high commendations at Sparta. Hereupon the Tyrants began to take heart, and looking no more after base and detested persons invaaed the principal men of the City, fending armed men from house to house, who drew Hold it in this place very convenient to out fuch as were of great reputation, and linew the proceedings of the Greeks, after likely, or able to make any head against the subversion of the walls of Athens, which this wicked form of Government: whereby gave end to that War called the Peloponne- there was fuch effusion of blood, as to Thelian War, but could not free the unhappy ramenes (one of the Thirty) feemed very Country of Greece from civil broils. The horrible, and unable to escape vengeance. thirty Governours, commonly called the His distike of their proceedings being openly thirty Tyrants of Athens, were chosen at the discovered, caused his fellows to bethink themselves himfeli a Captain of the discontented (which The very thought of such a practice had were almost the whole City and redeem his been treason at home, which had no other own peace with their ruine. Wherefore they danger abroad, than might be found in the felected three thousand of the Citizens, execution. Seventy men, or thereabout, whom they thought meetelt, and gave unto were the first undertakers, who with their them some part of the publick authority, Captain Thras bulus took Phyla, a place of thereit they disarmed; and having thus in- strength in the Territory of Athens. No creased their own strength, and weakned sooner did the thirty hear of their expleit, their opposites, they began a-fresh to shed than seek means to prevent further danger; the blood not only of their private enemies, affembling the three thousand, and their Labut of fuch whose mony, or goods, might in cedemonian guard, with which force they rich them, and enable them for the payment of their Guard. And to this purpofe they concluded, that every one of them should strong to be taken by assume the strength of the strong to be taken by assume the strong the strong the strong to be taken by assume the strong the strong to be taken by assume the strong the strong to be taken by assume the strong the st name one man, upon whose goods he should to beliege it; which purpose came to nough feize, putting the owner to death. But when by means of fnow that fell, and other ftormy Theramenes uttered his detellation of fo weather, against which they had not made wicked intent, then did Critias, who of all provision. Retiring therefore to the City on which confideration, he advised them all rather to preserve his own life by filence, him to drink poyfon.

CHAP. X.

CHAP. X

6. III. their deposing.

Citizens, who were fled to Theber, entred in feventy only, yet the Victory feemed the themselves, and provide for their own secu- to consultation, and resolved to hazard themserves, and received to instantation, nd received to instantation and received thethirty was most tyrannical, accuse him which above all they were to make good, to the Council, as a treacherous man, and they left the most of their guard, and two (whereas one main priviledge of the three companies of horse, to weary out them thousand was, that none of them should suf- which lay in Phyla, with a flying siege. But fer death at the appointment of the thirty, it was not long ere the followers of Taraffbut have the accustomed tryal)he took up- bulw were increased from seventy to seven on him to strike out of that number the hundred, which adventured to give charge name of Theramenes and so reduced him un- upon those guards, of whom they cut off der the trial and sentence of that order. It above an hundred and twenty. These small was well alledged by Theramenes that his but prosperous beginnings, added more to name was not more easie to be blotted out the number of those in Phyla, who now with of the catalogue, than any other mans, up- a thou fand men got entrance into Piraus, the fuburb of Athens, lying on the Port. Before to conceive no otherwise of his case, than as their coming the thirty had resolved to forof their own, who were liable to the same tifie the Town of Elensine, to their own use, form of proceeding: but every man chusing whereinto they might make an easie retrait, and fave themselves from any sudden peril. than prefently to draw upon himfelf the It may well feem ftrange, that whereas their danger, which as yet concerned him little, barbarous manner of Government had and perhaps would never come near him; brought them into such danger, they were the Tyrants interpreting filence as consent fo far from seeking to obtain mens good condemned him forthwith, and compelled will, that contrariwife, to affure them elves of Elensine, they got all of the place who could bear arms into their hands by a train, and wickedly (though under form of Juflice) murthered them all. But, Sceleribus The Confirmacy against the thirty Tyrants, and tutum per scelera est iter, the mischies which they had already done were such, as left them no hope of going backward, nor any Fter the death of Theramenes, the thir- other apparent likelihood of fafety, than by Aty began to use such out-rage; as excel- extending their cruelty unto all, seeing few led their former villanies. For, having three or none were left, whom they could truft. thousand (as they thought) firmunto them, When Thrasphulus and his fellows, who as they robbed all others without fear or yet were termed conspirators, had taken the shame, despositing them of lands and goods, Pireus, then were the three thousand armed and caused them to fly into banishment, for again by the Tyrants, and brought to assault safeguard of their lives. This flight of the it; but in this interprize Thras bulus had the Citizens procured their liberty, and the general good of the City. For the banished though there were slain to the number of thirty, perished in that fight. The death of league: but fearing indeed, lest the Lacede-Critias, and the stout detence of Pirans, to- monians should annex the Territory of Athens gether with some exhortations used by Thra- to their own Demains. It is not to be doub-Isbulus to the Citizens, wrought such effect, ted, that Pausanias took this answer in good that the thirty were deposed. Nevertheless part. For it was not his purpose to destroy there were fo many of the three thousand, those against whom hewent, but only to cross who having communicated with the thirty the proceedings of Lyfander, whom he enviin their misseeds, feared to be called to a ed. Thereforehaving in some small skirmishes that p account, that no peace, nor quiet form against them of Toras jobs in his party, made a of Government could be established. For the work war, he finally wrought such means, Embassadors were sent to sparta, who crathat all things were compounded quietly: fent to their allistance, both by land and sea, ta. The remainder of that tyrannical faction.

597

CHAP.

greater, because Critics, and one other of the not hitherto broken any one article of the embanadors were the ving aid against Thrassbulus and his follo-the thirty men, and such others as were like wers, had favourable audience, and a power to give cause of tumults, being sent to sparunder the conduct of Lylander, and his Bro- having withdrawn themselves to Eleuline ther; whom Paufanias the Spartan King did were shortly after found to attempt some infollow, raifing an Army of the Cities confe- novation; whereupon the whole City rifing derate with the Lacedemonians. And here against them, took their Captains, as they appeared first the jealousie, wherein some were coming to Parly, and slew them: which people held the State of sparta. The Beoti- done, to avoid further inconvenience, a law ans and Corinthians, who in the late warshad was made, that all injuries past should be been the most bitter enemies to Athens, re- forgotten, and no man called into question fused to follow Pausanias in this expedition; for wrongs committed. By which order. alledging that it stood not with their oaths, wifely made, and carefully observed, the to make war against that people, who had City returned to her former quietness.

CHAP. X.

Of the Expedition of Cyrus the younger.

6. I. The grounds of Cyrus his attempt against his Brother.

to Artaxerxes King of Persia, having in victorious foot-steps of their posterity his Fathers life-time very carefully pro-fecured the War against Athens, did send the riches, and withal the weakness of the his messengers to Sparta, requesting that Persian, to kindle in them both desire and their love might appear no less to him, hope of that Conquest, which he reserved to than that which he had shewed towards another generation; than to give into their them in their dangerous War against the hands that mighty Kingdom, whose hour Athenians. To this request, being general, the Lacedemontars gave a suitable antiver; commanding the Admiral to perher younger son, being seconded by the earform unto Cyrus all service that he should nest favour of the people, and ready desires require of him. If Cyrus had plainly difco- of many principal men, had moved this vered himself, and the Lacedemonians bent young Prince, in his Fathers old age, to their whole power to his affistance, very like aspire after the Succession. But being sent it is, that either the Kingdom of Persia should for by his Father (as hath before been shewhave been the recompence of his deferts; ed) whose meaning was to curb this ambitior that, he perishing in battel, as after ous Youth; he found his elder brother Ar-

HE matters of Greece standing up- he did, the subversion of that Empire had on such terms, that no one Estate forthwith ensued. But it pleased God, radurst oppose it self against that of ther to shew unto the Greeks the wayes, Lacedemon; young Cyrus, Brother which under the Macedonian Enfigns, the Kings favour, that it were not fafe to at- of his own people, and that good neighbourrungs any means of displanting him, by hood of the Lacedamonians, whom he had tempt any means of the state of the place of a Viceroy, which he held in Afia himfelf. Neither was it expedient that he the less, and hardly be able to maintain his should long sit idle, as waiting till occasion own life. The nearest neighbour to Grass should present it self: but rather enterprise own me. of all the Kings Deputies in the lower Afia, somewhat whilst yet his Mother lived, who oran one brings, a man compounded of co- could procure a good interpretation to all was tijjeputeres, a warfite, treachery craft, and all vices which his actions, if they were no worfe than only warunes treatment of the fe. This man questionable. Hereupon he first began to accultomany pranction of these tribinal states are sectionable. Rectapon ne into began to accompanied Cyres to his Father, using by the way all fair flews offriendship, as to a the way all fair flews offriendship, as to a prince, for whom it might well be thought, them to his own Province, which displaced that Queen Parglatis had obtained the inhe- not Artaxerxes at all, who (besides that he ritance of that mighty Empire. And it was was of condition fomewhat fimple) being reture, that Pary atis had used the best of truly paid by Cyrus the accustomable Triber endeavour to that purpose, alledging butes out of those places, was well contentthat (which in former ages had been much ed to fee his brothers hot spirit exercised in that (which in former ages had occur made) private quarrels. But Tiffaphernes, whose with his elder brother) Artaxerxes was born base conditions were hated, and cowardise whilft his Father was a private man, but despised, although he durst not adventure whilt ins rather was a private man, all to take arms against Cyrus, yet perceiving which not sufficing, when the most that the Milesans were about to give up could be obtained for Cyrus, was the pardon themselves into the hands of that young of fome prefumptuous demeanor, and con- Prince, as many other Towns of the Ionians firmation of his place in Lydia, and the parts had done, thought by terror to preserve adjoyning: then did this Tiffaphernes disco- his reputation, and keep the Town in his ver his nature, and accuse his friend Cyrus to own hands. Wherefore he slew many, and the new King artaxerxes, of a dangerous many he banished, who flying to Cyrus, were his own Province.

ø. II.

into the War.

THE form of Government which the Persian Lieutenants used in their te-

taxerxes established so surely by the old ment; and the means which he had by love treason intended against his person. Upon gently entertained, as bringing fair occasion this acculation, whether true or falle, very to take arms, which was no small part of his eafily believed, Cyrus was arrefted, and by defire. In levying Souldiers he used great the most vehement intreaty of his Mother policy; for he took not only the men of his very hardly delivered, and fent back into lown Province, or of the Countries adjovning, whose lives were ready at his will; but fecretly he furnished some Grecian Captains with money, who being very good men of War entertained Souldiers therewith, fome The preparations of Cyrus, and his first entry of them warring in Thrace, others in Thesialy, others elsewhere in Greece; but all of them ready to cross the Seas, at the first call of Cyrus, till which time they had secret instructions to prolong their several Wars, veral Provinces, was in many points almost that the Souldiers might be held in conti-Regal. For they made war and peace, as nual exercise, and ready in arms upon the they thought it meet, not only for the Kings sudden. Cyrus having sent a power of men behoof, but for their own reputation; ulu- to beliege Miletus, forthwith summoned ally indeed with the Kings enemies, yet these bands of the Greeks, who very readily fometimes one with another: which was came over to his affiftance, being thirteen the more easily tolerated, because their own thousand very firm Souldiers, and able to heads were held only at the Kings pleasure, make head (which is almost incredible) which caused them to frame all their doings against the whole power of Artaxerxes. to his will, what foever it were, or they could With this Army, and that which he had leconjecture it to be. Cyrus therefore being vied before, he could very easily have forced ferled in Lydia, began to confider with him- Miletun, and chased away Tiffaphernes out felf, the interest that he had in the King- of Asia the less: but his purpose was not so dom; the small affurance of his Brothers to lose time in small matters; that was to love, held only by his Mothers intercession; be imployed in the accomplishment of the difgrace endured by his late imprison-higher designs. Pretending therefore that Subject to the Persian, had invaded his Ter- promise of reward, he brought them to Enritory; he raised the fiege of Miletus, and phrates; where some of the Greeks confiderwith all speed marched Eastward, leaving ing, That who so passed the River first. Tiffaphernes much amazed, who had no lei- should have the most thanks, and might fure to rejoyce that Cyrus had left him to fafely return if the rest should refuse to folhimself, when he considered, that so great an low them; they entred the Foords, where-Army, and so strong, was never levied by all were finally perswaded to do assome against the Rovers of Pistala, but rather had begun: and being allured by great against the great King his Master. For which hopes, they resolved to leek out Artaxerxes. cause taking a band of sive hundred horse, wheresoever he was to be found. The King he posted away to carry tidings to the in the mean time having raised an Army of Court, of this great preparation.

600

d. III.

How Cyrus took his journey into the higher Afia, and came up to his Brother.

was very great, and great the exclamations of the Queen Statira, against Parysatis, the Queen-Mother, whom the called the Author and occasioner of the war. But whilst the King in great fear was arming the high Countries in his defence, the danger hafted upon him very fast. For Cyrus made great marches, having his number much increased of Abrocomas, or his Souldiers, who arrived by the repair of his Countrey-men, though not at the Camp, till five dayes were past most strengthened by the access of seven after the battel, received either punishment, hundred Greeks, and of other four hundred or difgrace; for they, toward whom he of the same Nation, who revolted unto him withdrew himself; were all made of the from the King. How terrible the Greeks same metal. were to the Barbarians, he found by tryal in a Muster, which (toplease the Queen of of retiring to the uttermost bounds of his Cicilia, who had brought him aid) he made Kingdom, until by Teribazus, one of his Capin Phrygia; where the Greeks by his directi- tains, he was perswaded not to abandon so on making offer of a charge upon the rest many goodly Provinces to the enemy, who of his Army, which contained a hundred would thereby have gathered addition of thousand men, the whole Camp (not per- strength, and (which in the sharp disputaticeiving that this was but a bravery) fled on of Titleto a Kingdom is most available) a-main, the victuallers and baggagers for- would have grown superiour in reputation. faking their Cabins, and running all away By fuch advice, the King refolved upon for very fear. This was to Cyrus a joyful meeting with his Brother, who now began spectacle, who knew very well, that his Bro- to be secure, being fully perswaded that Arther was followed by men of the same tem- taxerxes would never dare to abide him in per, and the more unlikely to make refi- the field. For the King having cast up a stance, because they were prest to the war Trench of almost forty miles in length, about against their will and dispositions, whereas thirty foot broad, and eighteen foot deep, his Army was drawn along by meer affe intended there to have encamped: but his drion and good will. Nevertheless he found courage failing him, he abandoned that it a very hard matter to perswade the Greeks to pass the River of Euphrates. For the very length of the way which they had trodden. wearied them with the conceit of the tedious return. Therefore he was driven, being vet in Cicilia, to feek excutes, telling them. that Abrocomas, one of the Kings principal Captains, and his own great enemy, lay by the River, against whom he requested them the Pissdians, apeople of Asia the less, not to assist him. By such devices, and excessive nine hundred thousand men, was not so confident upon this huge multitude, as to adventure them in trial of a plain battel. Abrocomas, who with three hundred thousand men, had undertaken to make good the Streights of Syria, which were very narrow, and fortified with a strong wall, and other The tumult which his coming brought defences of nature and art, which made the place to feem impregnable, had quitted the passage, and retired himself toward the Kings forces, not daring to look Cyrus in the face; who despairing to find any way by Land, had procured the Lacedamonian Fleet, by the benefit whereof to have transported his Army. I do not find that this cowardife

> Therefore Artaxerxes was upon the point courage failing him, he abandoned that place, thinking nothing fo fafe, as to be far diftant from his enemies.

ø. IV.

The Battel between Cyrus and Artaxerxes.

HE Army of Cyrus having overcome many difficulties of evil waies, and fearcity of victuals, was much incouraged the advanced with the hundred Horfe, and by perceiving this great fear of Artaxerxes; gave fovaliant a charge upon a squadron of and being palt this Trench, marched care- fix thousand, which lay before the King. and being pare disorder, having bestowed that he brake it, slaying the Captain there their Armsin Carts; and upon Beafts of car- of Artagerses, with his own hands, and outriage; when on the sudden one of their ting all the rest to slight. Hereupon his whole Vancurrors, brought news of the Kings company of fix hundred, very tew excepted, approach. Hereupon with great tumult they began to follow the chafe, leaving Cpres amed themselves, and had ranged their too ill attended, who perceiving where the Battels in good order upon the fide of the King stood in troop, uncertain whether to River Euphrates, where they waited for the fight, or leave the field, could not contain coming of their enemies, whom they faw himself, but said, I fee the man: and prenot till it was afternoon. But when they fently, with a small handful of men about faw the cloud of dust raised by the feet of him, ran upon his Brother, whom he strake that huge multitude, which the King drew through the Curace, and wounded in the after him, and perceived by their near ap- breast. Having given this stroke, which was proach how well they were marshalled, his last, he received immediately the satal coming on very orderly in silence, whereas blow, which gave period at once to his aminab been expected, that rushing violently bition and life, being wounded under the with loud clamors, they should have spent eye with a Dart, thrown by a base sellow. all their force upon the first brunt; and when wherewith astonied, he fell dead from his it appeared that the fronts of the two Ar- horse, or so hurt, that it was unpossible to mies were sounequal in distent, being all have recovered him, though all which were embattelled in one body and square, that with him, did their best for his safety; not ca-Cyrus taking his place (as was the Persian ring afterwards for their own lives, when manner) in the midst of his own, did not once they perceived that Cyrus their Master with the corner, and utmost point thereof, was slain. Artaxerxes caused the head and reach to the half breadth of Artaxerxes his right hand of his Brother to be forthwith battel, who carried a front proportionable stricken off, and shewed to his people, who to his number, exceeding nine times that of now pursuing them, fled apace, calling upon Crrus: then did the Greeks begin to distrust the name of Cyrus, and desiring him to partheir own manhood, which was not accu- don them. But when this great accident had fromed to make proof of it felf, upon fuch breathed new courage into the Kings excessive odds. It was almost incredible, troops, and utterly dismaid such Persian Capthat so great an Army should be so easily tains, as were now, even in their own eyes, chased. Nevertheles, it quickly appeared, no better than rebels; it was not long ere the that these Persans, having learned (contrary to their custom) to give charge upon their chemics with silence, had not learned (for king all speed, arrived quickly at the quarters with silence. it was contrary to their nature) to receive a ter of the Greeks, which was about three firong charge with courage. Upon the very miles from the place where Cyrus fell. There ry first offer of an on-set, made by the he met with Tiffaphernes, who having made Greeks, all that beaftly rabble of cowards way through the Battel of the Greeks, was fled amain, without abiding the stroke, or ready now to joyn with his Master in spoilstaying till they were within reach of a dart. ling their Tents. Had not the news, which The Chariots armed with hooks and fithes Artaxerxes brought with him of his Brothers (whereof Artaxerxes had two hundred, and death, been sufficient to countervail all dis-Cyrus not twenty) did small hurt that day, afters received, the exploit of Tiffaphernes because the drivers of them leaping down, in breaking through the Greeks, would have fled away on foot. This base demeanour of yielded little comfort. For Tiffaphernes his enemies gave so much confidence to Cy- had not slain any one man of the Greeks, but me and his Followers, that such as were contrariwise, when he came upon them, about him forthwith adored him as King. they opening their Battel, drave him with And certainly, the Title had been assured great slaughter through them, in such wise, unto him that day, had not he fought how that he rather escaped as out of an hard pasto declare himself worthy of it, ere yet he | fage, than forced his way through the squahad obtained it. For perceiving that Artax- dron of the Greeks. Hereof the King being erxes, who found that part of the field which informed by him, and that the Greeks, as lay before him void, was about to encompass | Masters of the field, gave chase to all that the Greeks, and to set upon them in the rear, came in their fight; they ranged their Companies into good order, and followed after who had beheld the shameful demeanor of thefe Greek, intending to fet upon them in his Army, should live to carry tidings home, there orear, intending to tect upon taken in the care. But the good Souldiers perceiving the Kings approach, turned their faces, and made head againft him; who not introduced the resolution of tending to feek honour with danger of his whereby he might bring them to deftructilife, wheeled about and fled, being purfued on, and not let one cleape to carry tidings unto a certain Village, that lay under a hill, of that which he had feen: to which puron the top whereof he made a ftand, rather pose he fent them a brave message the next in a bravery, than with purpose to attempt morning; charging them to deliver up their upon these bold fellows any further. For Arms, and come to his Gates, to await there he knew well that his brothers death had upon his Mercy. It feems that he was in fecured his cftate, whom he would feem good hope to have found their high couto have flain with his own hand, thinking rages broken, upon report of his brothers that fact alone sufficient to give reputati- death: but he was greatly deceived in that on to his valour; and this reputation he thought. For the Greek being advertised thought that he might now preferve well that morning from Arisus, a principal Conenough, shewing a manly look half a mile mander under Cyrus, that his Master being off. On the top of this Hill therefore he Ilain, he had retired himfelf to the place of advanced his Standard, a golden Eagle dif- their last encamping, about eight miles from plaid on the top of a Spear. This enfigu thence, whence intending to return into lomight have encouraged his people, had nia, his meaning was to dislodge the next not some of the Greeks espiedit, who not day, awaiting for them so long if they would meaning that he should abide so near them, joyn with him, but resolving to stay no lonwith all their power marched toward ger: they fent answer back to Arieus, that him. The King discovering their approach, having beaten the King out of the field, and fled upon the four: fo that none remained in finding none that durst resist them, they the place of battel, fave only the Greeks, who would place Arieus himfelf in the Kings had lost that day not one man, nor taken Throne, if he would joyn with them, and any other harm, than that one of them pursuethevictory. Before they received any was hurt with an arrow. Much they won- reply to this answer, the Messengers of Ardred that they heard no news of C; rus, but taxerxes arrived at the Camp, whose errand thinking that he was pursuing the Army, they seemed to the Captains very insolent: One thought it was fittest for them, having that told them, that it was not for the Vanquishday done enough, to return to their quarter, ers to yield their Weapons; another, that he and take their Supper, to which they had would dye ere he yielded to such a motion: good appetite, because the expectation of a third asked, whether the King, as having the Kings coming had given them no lei- the victory, required their Weapons; iffo, fure to dine.

.ø. V.

made them yield unto bim.

with them, found their Camp spoiled, little them such numbers of men, as they wanted or nothing being left that might serve for strength to kill if they would hold up their food: fo that wanting victuals to fatisfie throats; for which cause he accounted them their hunger, they refreshed their weary his prisoners. These words, to them, who bodies with sleep. In the mean scason Ar-knew themselves to be free, were nothing taxerxes returning to his Camp, which he pleasant. Therefore, one told Phalinus, that gave him affurance, that if any of these own. Hereat Phalinus laughed, saying;

why did he not fetch them? or, whether he defired them in a way of friendship; forthen would they first know, with what courtese he meant to requite their kindness. To this The hard estate of the Grecks after the fight; question Phalinus a Grecian, waiting upon and how Artaxerxes in vain Jought to have Tiffaphernes, answered, That the King having flain Cyrus, knew no man that could pretend any Title to his Kingdom, in the middest T was now about the fetting of the whereof he held them fast enclosed with Sun, and they bringing home dark night great Rivers, being able to bring against entred by Torch-light, could not enjoy the having nothing left, but their Arms and Vapleasure of his good fortune entire, because lour, whilest they kept their Arms, their Vahe perceived that the baseness of his people, lour would be serviceable; but thould they and weatiness of his Empire, was now yield them, it was to be doubted, that plainly discovered to the Greek: which their bodies would not long remain their This young man the feeth at this deep they been kindly used, it may well be and made a pretty speech; but that his deep they been kindly used, it may well be and made a precty precursor to be very shall thought that some of them should have aclow, it he thought with his Arms and Valour to prevail against the great King. It to draw in the relt. Ariam being of too base four top revail against the Break and a temper, and birth, to think upon feeking feems that Phalinso being a Courtier, and a temper, and birth, to think upon feeking teems that a business of importance, the Kingdom for himself, with such assimplyed in a business of importance, mproyer in a control of states-man, thought himfelf too profound a States-man, thought himfelf too profound a States-man, thought himfelf too profound a States-man, thought him et al., with their authors the state of the state tobe checkt in his Embaffage by a bookith very well pleased to make covenant with dicourier. But his wildom herein failed them for mutual afficance unto the laft: him. For whatfoever he himfelf was (of Whereunto both parts having fworn, he adnm. rot whattoever the minutes when he wifed them to take another way homeward, whom no more is known, than that he wifed them to take another way homeward, whom no more is among the same with the same with the same way noneward, brought an unhoneft meflage to his own which should be somewhat longer, yet safer Country-men, perswading them basely to and fitter to relieve them with victuals, than surrender their Weapons, and Lives, to the that by which they came. The next day, merciles Barbarians) this young Scholar by having made a wearisome march, and tired him despited, was that great Xenophon, who, the Souldiers, they found the Kings Army when all the principal Commanders were furprised by treachery of the Persians, being a private Gentleman, and having never feen the wars before, undertook the conduct of the Army, which he brought fafe into Greece, freeing it from all those, and from greater dangers than Phalinus could propound. Some there were who promised to be faithful to the King, as they had been to Cyrus, offering their service in Egipt, where they thought Artaxerxes might have use of them. But the final answer was, That without Weapons they could neither do the King good as Friends, nor defend themselves from ed thence; Whereunto he required their answer. Clearchus the General told him They likedit. How (faith Phalinus) must I understand you? As choosing peace if we Embaffadour? To whom Clearchus (not willing to acquaint him with their purpose,) Let our doingstell you; and so dismissed him, no wifer than he came. All that day the Greeks were fain to feed upon their Horses, Asses, and other Beasts, which they rosted with Arrows, Darts, and wooden Targets, thrown away by the Enemies.

CHAP. X.

CHAP. X

ø. VI.

How the Greeks began to return homewards.

T night they took their way towards Arieus, to whom they came at midnight; being for saken by four hundred foot, and forty horse, all Thracians, who fled over to the King; by whom how they were entertained, I do not find. Like enough

This young man did feem a Philosopher, it is that they were cut in pieces, for had which had coasted them, lodged in certain Villages, where they purposed themselves to have encamped: towards which Clearchus made directly, because he would not seem by declining them, to shew fear, or weakness. That the Kings men were contented to remove, and give place to their betters, it cannot be strange to any that hath considered their former behaviour; Nor strange, that the Gracians, being weary and hungry, andlying among enemies in an unknown Countrey, should be very fearful:but it is almost past belief, that the noise which was heard of these poor men, calling one to another tumultuoufly, as the present condition the Kings further pleafure, which was to inforced them to do, should make the Perfigrant them Truce, whilft they abode where and fly out of their Camp, and so affright the they then were denouncing War if they ftirnext day very early came messengers from Artaxerxes, defiring free access for Embassadors, to entreat of peace. Were it not that fuch particulars do best open the quality of whether war or peace, quoth this politique the persons, by whom things were managed, neral passages of those times, than to dwell among circumstances. But surely it is a point very remarkable, That when Clearchus had willed the Messengers to bid the King prepare for battel, because the Greeks (as he laid) wanting whereupon to dine, could not endure to hear of truce till their bellies were full; Artaxerxes dissembling the indignity, was contented fweetly to swallow down this pill, sending them guides, who conducted them to a place where was plenty of victuals to relieve them.

6. VII.

ø. VII.

traved all the Captains of the Greeks.

own virtue, had rather advanced their on the contrary perswaded them, to rest affairs, than brought themselves into any contented whilst they were well, and not to traights or terms of disadvantage. But now cast themselves again into those difficulties. came unto them the fubril Fox Tiffapher- out of which they were newly freed by the nes, who circumventing the Chief Com- late Treaty; reciting withall their own manders by fine fleights, did mischievously wants, and the Kings means, but especially entrap them, to the extreme danger of the the Oathes mutually given and taken. Army. He told them, that his Province, wherewith he saw no reason why the enelying near unto Greece, had caused him my should have clogged himself if he meant greatly to defire, that their deliverance mischief, having power enough to do them might be wrought by his procurement; harmby a fair and open War. knowing well that in time to come, both they, and their Countrymen at home, (if honour may be valued by greatness and would not be unthankful for fuch a bene- place in Court) which caused his Oath to fit. Herewithall he forgot not to rehearse be the more esteemed; for as much as no the great fervice that he had done to his inforcement, or base respect, was like to have Master, being the first that advertised him drawn it from him. But his falshood was of Cyrus his intent, and having not only such, both in substance and in success. as brought him a good strength of men, but in may fitly expound that faying, which prothe day of battel shewed his face to the ceeded from the fountain of Truth, I hate a Greeks, when all others turned their backs: rich man alyar. A lye may find excuse when that he, together with the King, didenter it grows out of fear: for that passion hath their Camp, and gave chase to the Barbarians his original from weakness. But when Pothat stood on the part of Cyrus. All this wer, which is a Character of the Almighty, (quoth he) did I alledge to the King, en- shall be made the supporter of untruth, the treating that he would give me leave to fallhood is most abominable; for the offenconduct you fafe into Greece; in which fute ider, like proud Lucifer, advancing his own I have good hope to speed, if you will fend strength against the Divine Justice, doth a mild answer to him, who hath willed me commit that fin with an high hand, which to ask you, for what cause ye have born commonly produceth lamentable effects, Arms against me. The Captains hearing and is followed with sure vengeance. It was this, were contented to give gentle words, not long ere Tifaphernes found means to dewhich Tillaphernes relating to the King, pro- ftroy all the Captains, whom he subtilly got cured (though very hardly, as he faid)that into his power by a train; making the Genepeace should be granted: the conditions ral Clearchus himself the mean to draw in whereof were; That they should pass free- all the rest. The business was contrived allurements, that he daily grew more strange to the Greeks than formerly he had been. How Tiffaphernes, under colour of peace, be- This caused many to advise Clearchus, rather to pais forward as well as he might, than to rely upon covenants, and fit still whilst the Thereto the Greeks, relying upon their King layed fnares to entrap them. But he

CHAP. X

MAP. X.

Tiffaphernes was a very honourable man ly through all the Kings Dominions, paying thus : Having travelled fome days together for that they took, and committing no spoil: in such wise, that the Persians did not encamp yet that it thould be lawful for them to take with the Greeks, who were very jealous of victuals by force, in any place that refuled the great familiarity appearing between to afford them an open Market. Hercupon Tiffaphernes and Ariaus; Clearchus thought both parties having fworn, the League was it convenient to root out of Tiffaphernes his concluded; and Tijlaphernes, returning to the brains all causes of distrust, whereof many King to take leave, and end all business had grown in that short time. To which came unto them again after twenty dayes, purpose obtaining private conference with and then they fet forward. This interim of him, he rehearfed the Oath of Confederacy, twenty days, which Tiffaphernes did spend which had past between them, shewing how at the Court, ministred great occasion of religiously he would keep it; and, repeating mistrust to his new Consederates. For better the benefits, which the Greek did receive by fides his long absence, which alone sufficed the help of Tiffaphernes, he promised that to breed doubt, the Brethren, the Kindred their love should appear to him not unfruitof Arieus, repairing daily to him, and other ful, if he would make use of their service Perfians to his Souldiers, did work him and against the Myfians or Pisidians, who were them to with affurance of pardon, and other accustomed to infest his Provinces; or against the Egyptians, who were then Rebelsto the his own Brother, And Ariam, followed the egyptimes, followed for Great King. For which cause he desired him, with three hundred Horse, who called for that whereas all divine and humane respects the principal men in the Army, saying, That had linked them together, he would not they brought a mellage from the King, which nan macutation of the property of the property of the place to any close acculation of fulpicion, whereby might grow fudden inconvergate but having broken his faith, and the on, whereby might status, and the nience to either of them, upon no just league made, was justly rewarded with ground. The faithless Persian was very much death; that Mnemon and Proxenus, two other delighted with this speech, which ministred of the five Collonels, for detecting his fair occasion to the execution of his purpose. treachery, were highly honoured; and fi-Therefore he told Clearchus, that all this nally, that the King required them to furwas by him wifely confidered, withing him render their arms, which were due to him, further to call to mind how many waies as having belonged unto his fervant Crrss. he could have used to bring them to con- When some altercation had followed upon fulion, without peril to himself; especithis mellage, Xenophon told the Emballaally by burning the Country, through dors, that if Clearchus had in such fort offenwhich they were to pass, whereby they must ded, it was well that he was in such fort ouneeds have perished by meer famine. For nished: but he willed them to send back Meneeds have perished by meer famine. which cause he said, that it had been great non and Proxenus, whom they had so greatfolly, to feek by perjury, odious to God and ly honoured, that by them, as by common Man, the destruction of such as were already friends to both Nations, the Greeke might be inhis hands. But the truth was, that his own advised how to answer the Persian. Hereunto love to them had moved him to work their the Embassadors knew not how to frame any fafety, not only for those ends which Clear- reply, and therefore departed without the had recounted, of pleasures that might redound to himself, and the King, by their other four were sent to Artaxerxer, by whose affiltance; but for that he might by their commandment their headswere ftricken off. friendlihip, hope to obtain what cyrus had I hold it not amis to prevent the order of mist. Finally, he invited the credulous time, annexing to this perfidiousness of Tis-Gentleman to Supper, and fent him away fo faphernes, the reward which he afterward well affured of his good will, that he promi- received. He faw his Province wasted by the fed to bring all the Captains with him to the Greeks, against whom receiving from his Mafame place, where, in presence of them all, ster convenient aid of men and mony, he did Tiffaphernes likewise promised to tell open fo ill manage his affairs, that neither subtilly, which of them had by fecret information ty, nor perjury (to which he failed not to bands of Perstan Horsemen scoured the chief upon the whole Army. field, killing as many Greeks as they met, and riding up to the very Camp of the Gracians, who wondred much at the tumult, whereof they knew not the cause, till one, How Xenophon bearined the Greeks, and in escaping forely wounded, informed them of all that had been done. Hereupon the Greeke took Arms in hafte, thinking that the enemy would forthwith have affailed their Seemy would forthwith have a seemy would forthwith have a seemy would forthwith have a seemy would be affailed their Seemy would forthwith have a seemy would be affailed their Seemy would be affa fought to raise diffention between them. have recourse) availed him; finally, the King Clearchus himself being thus deceived, with was jealous of his cunning head, and sent a great importunity drew all the chief Com- new Lieutenant into those parts, who took manders, and many of the inferiour Leaders it from his shoulders. Such was the recomto repair with him to the Camp of Tissapher- pence of his treachery, which made him to nes, whither followed them about two mistrusted at home, that the service which hundred of the common Souldiers, as it had he could not do, he was thought upon pribeen to some common Fair. But being vate ends to neglect; and so hated abroad, there arrived, Clearchus, with other the five that he knew not which way to fly from the principal Collonels, were called into the stroke, all the world being that against Tent, the rest staying without, where they him. But now let us return to the prosperihad not waited long ere a fign was given, ty, wherein he triumphed without great upon which they within were apprehended, cause, having betrayed braver men than and the residue slain. Forthwith certain himself, and intending to bring the like mis-

o. VIII.

despight of Tillaphernes went off safely.

Camp. Anon they might perceive the Em- and no less their fear of the evil hanging baffadors of Tiffaphernes, among whom were over their heads, which they knew not well whose learning supplied his want of experifiend the Country, as granted by the enemy ence, finding the deep sadness of the whole himself to be theirs; others to make more Army, to be such as hindred them from ta- fires, if so perhaps the Persans might be king any course of preventing the danger at ashamed to do that which was the defire of hand, began to advise the under-officers of such as made passage in hostile manner; But Proxenus his Companies, whose familiar these were faint comforts. The best counsel friend he had been, to bethink themselves of was, that being near unto the Carduchi, a fome mean, whereby their latety might be people enemy to the Persian, they should wrought, and the Souldiers encouraged: enter into their Country, passing over some fetting before their eyes whatfoever might high mountains which lay between them. ferve for to give them hope, and above all, This course they followed, which could not perswading themin no wise to yield to the have availed them, if Tissaphernes had begun mercy of their barbarous enemies.

him the charge of that Regiment; and so together with him, the fame night calling up fuch as were remaining of any account, they made choice of the fittest men to succeed in the places of those who were flain, or taken. This being done, and order fet down for disburdening the Army of all superfluous impediments, they easily comforted themselves for the loss of Tiffaphernes his alli-Stance, hoping to take victuals by force better cheap than he had been wont to fell them; To which purpose they intended to force to defend themselves against the huge take up their lodging two or three miles fur- Armies of the Persian, were no way inferither, among some plentiful Villages, and so our to the Greeks indaring, but only in the to proceed, marching towards the heads of Art of War. They were very light of foot, those great Rivers, which lay in their way, skilful Archers, and used the Shing well; and to pass them where they were foordable. Many attempts were made upon them try were of much use against these poor traby Tiffapherners, whom they, ferving all on foot, were not able to requite for the harm they spent in that passage, far more than all which they received by the Persan Archers, the power of the Great King had done. Bewho shot at a farther distance than the tween the Territory of these Carduchi, and Greeks could reach. For this cause did Xeno- the parts of Armenia confining them, ran phon provide slings, wherewith he over-centrites, a great River, upon which the reached the enemy; and finding some horses Greek refreshed themselves one day, rejoyfit for service; that were employed among cing that they had so well escaped these danthe carriages, he fet men upon them; training likewise his Archers to shoot compas, prove easie. But the next morning they saw who had been accustomed to the point-certain troops of Horse, that lay to sorbid blank. By these means did he bear off the their passage. These were levied by the Perstans, who assailed him; and sometimes Kings Deputies in those parts; Tiffaphernes gave them chair with that band of fifty and his Companies having taken their way Horse, which being well backt with a firm towards Ionia. The River was broad and how to avoid. Among the rest, Xenophon, | hope of victuals cut off. Some advised to desooner to cut off their victuals, rather than Hereupon they defired him to take upon to feek to force, or circumvent them by his fine wit.

ø. IX.

The difficulties which the Greek Army found in palling thorow the Land of the Carduchi.

Ntring upon the Land of the Carduchi, L they were encountred with many difficulties of waies, but much more afflicted by the fierce Inhabitants, who, accustomed by which weapons in that mountainous Counvellers, afflicting them in seven daies which body of footmen, and seconded with troops deep, so that it was not possible for such as of the light-armed shot and slingers, com- would enter it, to make resistance against pelled the enemy to lye aloof. Tiffaphernes those which kept the opposite banks. To not daring to come to handy gripes with increase these dangers, the Carduchi, followthefere olute men, did possess the tops of ing upon them, lay on the side of a Mounmountains, and places of advantage, by tain, within less than a mile of the waterwhich they were to pass. But finally, when But it was their good hap to discover a their valour made way through all fuch dif- Foord, by which the greater number of ficulties, he betook himfelf to that course, them passing over, did easily chase away the which was indeed the fureft, of burning the Subjects of the Persian, and then sending Country. With great forrow did the Greeks back the most expedite men, gave succour behold the Villagesonfire, and thereby all to the Rear-ward, against which the CarTowns, and Places, mentioned by Xenowhich may indure the feverity of a Critick. graphers, add small light to this Expedition: garta, springing out of Niphates, and running by the Town of Sardeva in Gordene, a Province of Armenia the Great, wherein the Greeks having passed Centrites did arrive.

6. X.

How Teribafus Governour of Armenia, feek ing to entrap the Greeks with terms of feigned peace, was disappointed, and shame fully beaten.

THe Army finding in Armenia good 1 provision, marched without any disturbance about fifty or threescore miles to the heads of the River Tygris, and passing over them, travelled as far further without refistance, till they were encountred by Teribazus, at the River Teleboa, which Xenophon commends as a goodly water, though small, but Ptolemy and others omit it. Teribaxus

So without impediment they came to the governed that Country for the Persian, and

River Phasis, near whereunto the peowas in great favour with Artaxerxes, whose ple called Phasiani, Tacchi, and Chalybes he was discovered, and by a Souldier of his down the rocks, the very women throwing duchi being flightly armed, could not on that was taken pritoner, the whole plot was plain ground make refiltance hand to hand revealed. Hereupon the Greekt, taking this Mountains of Niphates, which are not far out; and coming upon his Camp, did to af from the Spring of Tygris, though Ptolemy fright him, that before the whole Army could place them far more to the East upon the arrive there, the shout which was rasted by River of Cyrus in Media; wherein he differs the Van-currors, chaired him away. They much from Kenophon, whose relation being took his Pavillion, wherein (befides many grounded upon his own knowledge, doth slaves, that were Artificers of voluptuousbestinthis case deserve credit. Of the Ri- ness) very rich furniture was lest by the ver Centrites (as of many other Rivers, treacherous coward, who returned no more to challenge it. From hence the Army went phon) I will not labour to make a conjecture, Northward, and passing Euphrates, not far below the fprings thereof, travelled with For Ptolemy, and the whole Nation of Geo-much difficulty through deep Snow, being followed aloof by the enemy, who durft only of this last, I think it the same which not approach them, but did cut off such as falleth into Tygris, not much above Artasi- they found stragling behind. The landsttants of the Country, thorow which they marched, had their wintering houses under ground, wherein was found great plenty of Victuals, and of Cattel, which likewife did winter in the fame Cellars with the owners. Having refreshed themselves in those parts, and taken sufficient ease after the na erable journey, which had confumed many of them with extreme cold ; they departed leading with them many bond-flaves, and taking away (besides other Horses and Cattel) fome Colts that were bred up for the Great

o. XI.

The passage of the Army to Trabyzond, thorow the Countries bordering upon the River of Phasis, and other obscure Nations.

Court may feem to have been a School, were feated. These Nations joyned togewhere the Art of falshood was taught as ther, and occupying the tops of a ledge of wildom. He desired peace of the Greeks, Mountains, which the Greeks were to pass, which was made upon this condition, That made countenance of war: but fome Comthey should take what they pleased, but not panies being sent by night to seize upon burn down the Towns and Villages in their a place of equal height to that whereon the way. As foon as he had made this league, enemies lay, making good the piece of helevied an Army, & besetting the streights ground which they had taken, secured of certain Mountains which they were to the ascent of the rest; which caused these pass, hoped well to make such benefit of peopleto thye, every one retiring to the their fecurity, as might give him the com- defence of his own. The first upon whose mendation of being no less craftily different Country the Greek did enter, were the than Tillaphernes. Yet his cunning failed of Tacchi, who conveying all their provition of fuccess. For a great Snow fell, which caused victuals into strong holds, brought the Arthe Greek to make many fires, and scatter my into much want, until with hard labour themselves abroad in the Villages. Teribazus one place was forced, wherein great store also made many fires, and some of his men of Cattel were taken; the people, to avoid wandred about feeking relief. By the fires captivity, threw themselves head-long down first their ownchildren, and then cast- means of Anaxibus the Lacedamonian Ading themselves upon them. Here was taken miral, who was his friend, that he would agreat booty of Cattel, which ferved to feed provide Vessels to embark them. Having them, travelling through the Land of the thus concluded, they likewife took order Chalpber, of whom they got nothing but for the staying of such thips as should pask ftrokes. The Chalibes were a very frout Na- that way, meaning to use them for their tion, wellarmed at all points, and exceed- Navigation. Left all this provision should be ing fierce. They encountred the Greeks hand found insufficient for the transportation of to hand, killing as many as they took pri- the whole Army, Xenophon perswaded the foners, and cutting off their heads, which Cities adjoyning to clear the wayes, and they carried away, finging and dancing, to make an ealie passage for them by Land; the great grief of their companions living; whereunto the Souldiers were utterly unwho were glad, when after seven dayes willing to give car, being desirous to return journey they escaped from those continual by Sea: but the Country, fearing whatinskirmilhes, wherewith they had been vexed convenience might grow by their long flay, by these Barbarians. Hence travelling did readily condescend to Xenophons rethrough a good corn-Country, inhabited by quest. Two ships they borrowed of the an obscure Nation called the Scythini, they Trapezuntians, which they manned and fent came to a rich Town, the Lord whereof, and to Sea: the one of them failed directly into of the Region adjoyning, used them friend- Greece, for saking their Companions, who had ly, and promifed to guide them to a Moun- put them in trust to bring ships into the Port tain, whence they might discover the Eux- of Trabizand: the other took Merchants ine Sea. From Gymnius (which was the name and passengers, whose goods were safely of his Town) he led them through the Ter- kept for the owners, but the Vessels were ritory of his enemies, defiring them to waste stayed to increase the fleet. After long it with sword and fire. After five dayes abode, when victuals began to fail, by reason march, they came to a Mountain called that all the Land of the Colchi, near unto the Teches, being (as I think) a part of the Camp, was already quite wasted, they were Mountains called Molchici, whence their fain to embark their fick men, with the woguide shewed them the Sea; towards men, children, and such of the baggage as which they bent their course: and passing might best be spared, in those few ships friendly through the Region of the Masrones, (with whom by means of an inter- of the Army took their way by Land to Cepreter, found among themselves, who born rasus, a Greek Town, where the Fleet likein that place had been fold into Greece, they wife arrived. Here the Army being mu-Land of Cholchos, wherein stands the City of * Trabisond, called then Trapezus, a Colo-Colony of them with hostility, were requited with the the Greek, them with nothinty, were required with the caufed them to joyn them with the weaker friends like; for the Army having now good leifure caufed them to joyn them with the weaker are. the bottom to repose themselves among their friends whom they left Masters of all. of the Eu sin Sta the Trapezuntians, did spoil the Country request.

CHAP. X.

ø. XII.

How the Army began at Trabizond to provide any house. Hereuponthe Souldiers entred which they had already provided. The rest made a good peace) they arrived in the stered, was found to confist of eight thoufand and fix hundred men. From hence they passed through the Country of the 'Moss. ny of the Greeks. The Colchi entertaining naci, who were divided into factions. The Main stronger party despising their friendship, of Portal

The next place of their abode was Coty-beans thirty dayes together, forbearing only the ora, a Greek Town likewife, and a Colony of Town Borderers upon Trabizond, at the Citizens the Synopians, as Trapezus and Cerasus were; in im but the entertainment which here they Region. found was very churlish, having neither an open Market afforded to them, nor the fick men that were among them admitted into a Fleet, wherewith to return home by sea: the Town by force, and (committing no bow they came into the Territory of Synope, outrage bestiowed those which were sickin and there prosecuted the same purpose. convenient lodgings taking into their own hands the custody of the Gates. Provision Aving now found an Haven-Town, the for the Army they made by strong hand, Souldiers were defirous to take ship- partly out of the Territory of the Paphlago-c Simple ping, and change their tedious Land-jour- mians, partly out of the Lands belonging to a Pernies into an easie Navigation. To which the Town. These news were unwelcome to Long, putpose Cherisophus a Lacedemonian, one of the principal Commanders, promised by the Camp, who complaining of these deal when lings, and threatning to joyn with the Pa- flerved his money carefully, was defirous to phlagenians, if redress could not otherwife be be foon at home, that he might freely enjoy had, were roundly answered by Xenophon, his gettings. By him the purpose of Xenophon That meer necessity had enforced the Army was divulged, which was interpreted acto teach those of Cotyora good manners in fo cording to the divertity of mens opinions 5 had a method: letting them know, that he fome approving the motion, but the greater feared not to deal with them and the Pa- part rejecting it. They of Single and Heraphlagonian at once 5 though perhaps the Pa-clea, being informed of this confaitation, phlagonian would be glad to take simple it were fore afraid, I ft the soverey of the tells to which, if cau'e were given, they Souldiers, who had not where with to mainwould they not put from the fliore.

ø. XIII.

how it was embarked.

would lend affiltance. Upon this answer the tain themselves at home, should give success Embaffadours grew better advised, promito the project. Which to prevent they profing all friendihip that the State of sinope mifed to fupply the Army with a furncient could thew, and commanding the Town of Fleet, and likewife offered mony of ome of corrora to relieve the Souldiers as well as the Captains, who thereupon undertook to they might. Further, they promifed to give the Souldiers pay, if they would preaffift them with thipping, letting them un- fently fet fail for Greec. One of these Capderstand how difficult the pallage by Land tains being a banished man, defired them to would prove, in regard of the many and follow him into Trous; another offered to great Rivers, as thermodon, Iris, Halyr, and lead them into Cherronesus. Xenethon, who Porthenius, which croffed their way. This defined only the common good, was pleafed good counfel, and the fair promites accom- greatly with thefe proportions, and profescanving it, were kindly accepted by the Ar- fed openly that he would have them to fet my, which well perceived, that the City of forward, and hold together in any cafe, pu-Simples, ould frare for no coft, to be freed nithing him as a Traytor that thould for fake from such a neighbourhood. It was there- the Army, before such time as they were arfore decreed that they would pass the rest rived at their journeys end. silanus the of the way by Sca ; provided, that if there South-fayer, who had uttered Xenophons flould want fuch number of Veilels as might purpose, was hereby stayed from out-runferve to imbark every one of them, then ming his fellows, and driven to abide with his wealth among poor men, longer than ftood with his good liking. Also the other Captains were much troubled and affraid, when they perceived, that thips were prepaof diffention, which arose in the Army, and red sufficient for their Navigation, but that the mony promifed to them, and by them to the Souldiers, came not. For the people of Hitherto the danger of Enemies, and Sinope and Heruelea, knowing that the Army miferies of weather and wants, had was now refolved for the voyage, and that kept the company in firm unity ; which now Kenophon whom they feared, had perswaded began to diffolve and to thaw, by the neight them to this refolution, thought it the wirest bouring air of Greece, warming their heads way to furnish them with a Navy, whilst with private respects to their several ends they were in good readiness, to depart, but and purposes. Whilst they, who were sent to keep the mony to themselves. The Capas Agents from the Camp, remained at &i- tains therefore, who being disappointed by nope; Xenophon confidering the strength and these Towns, found themselves in great danvalour of his men, and the opportunity of ger of their men, whom they had deceived the coast whereon they lay, thought it with fair hopes, repented much of their fair would be an honorable work to build a offers, and fignifying as much to Xenophon, City in those parts, which were soon like to prayed him to make proposition to the Arprove great and wealthy, in regard both of my, of taking the thips, and failing to Phasis, their own puillance, and of the great rep ir where they might feize upon Lands, and of the Greeks into that quarter. For this plant themselves in such wife as should stand cause he made facrifice, according to the su-best with their good liking. But finding perfection of his time and Country, divining him cold in the butiness, they began to work of his fuccess by the entrails of beafts. The the principal of their own followers, hoping South-fayer whom he imployed, had receiv- by them to draw in all the rest. These ed a great reward of Cyrus, for conjecturing news becoming publick, bred a suspition of aright, that Artaxerxes would not give but | Xenophon, as if he had won the rest of the tel intendays: he therefore, having pre- Captains to his purpole, and meant now

THAP. X.

CHAPY

to carry the Army quite another way from Camp, and been very beneficial unto them their ownhome. Wherefore affembling the in lending this for their transportation. Two Companies, begave them fatisfaction, and daies they had failed by the coaft of Afia, withal complained of some disorders, which when being past those great Rivers, which withat compare to the same enough system would have given impediment to their jourquificion was likewite made of offences com- ny by Land, they touched at Heraelea, where mit, ed fince the death of Cyrm; which be confulting how to take their way onwards, ing punified, all things were in quiet, whether by Land or Sea, one feditious man Shordy a ter came Embaffadors from co-began to jut them in mind of feeking to get rylus, Lord of the rapilingoniums, who fend-romewhat for themselves stelling them that ing presents, desired peace of the Greek: all their provision would be spent in three the Embatladors were triendly entertain- dayes, and that being now come out of the ed, and peace concluded, which needed no enemies Country, victuals and other necefto have been fought, for that the Greeks, finites could not be had without money; for having now their fleet in a readine's, did which cause he gave advice tofend mellenfoon weigh Anchors, and fer fail for Harm ne gers into the Town of Heraclea, giving the the Port of Sinope, whither Cherifophus came. bringing with him a few Gallies from the were, and demanding of them three thou-Admiral Anaxilius, who promited to give rand pieces of meny, called Cyzicens, which the Army pay as toen as they came into the pares of Greece.

510

s. XIV.

Another great disjention and distraction of the Army. How the mutmers were beaten by the Barbarians, and referred by Xenophon.

The nearer that they approached to Greece, the greater was their defire to make provision for themselves, that they might not return home empty-handed. fent; who in such wife delivered their info-Wherefore trufting well that if the charge of the Army were abfolutely committed to deliber as up on their r quest, brought what one fufficient man, he might the more conreniently procure the good of themall, they and the tring the Gates, did forthwith man determined to make Xenophon fole Com- the Wasis. When the Souldiers perceived mander of all; in whose favour as well the themselves to be disappointed of their rave-Captains as the common Souldiers were very nous purpose, they fell to mutiny, saying, earnest and violent. But he, either fearing That their Leaders had betrayed them: and to displease the Lacedemonians, who were being for the more part of them Arcadians jealous of him already (being incented by and Acheans, they for fook immediately chethat fugitive who for look the Army at Tra- rifophus and Xenophon, chufing new Leaders bizond tiying with one of their two thips) or out of their own number. Above four thoumoved by tome tokens appearing to him in fund and five hundred they were, all heavithe intrails that threatned ill fuccess to his ly armed, who electing ten captains, failed Government, procured with vehement con- into the Port of Calphas, which is in the midtention, that this honour was laid upon Che- way between Heraclea and Byzantium, with risophus a Lacedemonian. It scems that Xenopion, confidering the vexation incident to den. With Cherisophus there abode two the conduct of a voluntary Army, wanting thousand and one hundred, of whom one Eay, did wifely in yielding to fuch tokens as thousand and four hundred were atmed forbad him to accept it : especially, knowing weightily : Xenophon had two thousand foot, fo well their desire, which was, by right or three hundred whereof were lightly armed, by wrong, to get wealth wherefoever it and forty horse; which small band had done might be found, without all regard of friend good fervice already, and could not have or foe. Cherisophus had been General but fix been spared now. Cherisophus had agreed or feven days, when he was deposed; for with Cleander Governor of Byzantium, to having been unwilling to rob the Town of meet him at the mouth of the River Calpbas, having been unwilling to rob the Town of meet nimat the mount of the tolerand forme Heracles, which had fent presents to the whither Cleander promised to bring some Gallies

Cotizens to understand what their wants rum amounteth to two thousand and five hundred pound fterling, or thereabout. This motion was greatly applauded, and the sum raifed to ten thousand cyzicens at least; which to require, they thought Cherisophus, as being General, the fittest man; othershad more define to fend Xenophon, but in vain, for they both retuled it, and renounced the action as aithoneft. Left therefore either of thefe thould fail in managing the burness which agreed not with his disposition, others of more impudency and less discretion were lent manage that the Citizens taking timeto purpose to assail the Bythinians on the sudhad; who passing some part of the way by Sea landed upon the confines of Heraclea, and Thrafia Afiatica, intending to make a cut through the mid-land Country to the Fropost. The Mutiners who had landed at Calvantage the Thracians had, that being all to dif-joyn the Army, should suffer death. light armed, they could at pleasure make retrait from these Arcadians and Acheans, who wanting the affiftance of horse, and having neither Archers nor Slingers among them, were driven to stand meerly upon their defence, bearing off with greatdanger, and many wounds received, the Darts and Arrows of the Barbarians, till finally they were driven from their watering place, and enforced to crave parly. What soever the Articles of composition were, the Thracians yielded to all;but pledges for affurance they would give

Gallies to convey him over into Greece; for on a light flame, to the great terrour or the which cause he took his way thither by enemies, who thought that some huge Army Land, leaving to Xenophon fuch thipping as he and approached. That night he encamped on a hill, within five miles of the Arcadians, encreating still the number of his fires, which he caused hastily to be quenched soon after Supper. The enemies perceiving this, thought certainly that he would have fallen upon phar by night, with purpofe to take spoils in them in the dark, which caused them in all pharty in the next morning splinits, divided themselves into ten Com- haste to dislodge. Early in the next morning and the next morning panies, every Captain leading his own Re- Xenophon coming thither in very good orpames, into some Village, five or fix miles der, to have given battel, found that his defrom the Sea 3 in the greater Towns were vice, to affright the Thracians, had taken full rom Regiments quartered: and fo was that effect; but he matvelled that the Greeke part of the Country furprised on the fudden, were also departed, concerning whom he and facked all at one time. The place of learned by enquiry, that they removed at and acceptance of the state of where some of them arrived, finding no difurbance; others, not without much trou phas, in which journey he overtook them. ble and danger: two Companies were bro They embraced him and his, with great joy: hen and defeated, only eight men escaped, consessing that they themselves had thought the reft were all put to the fword. For the Thracians which had flipt at first out of the that he should have come by night; wherein Souldiers hands, did raile the Country; and finding themselves deceived, they were affinding the Greeks loaden with booty, took fraid left he had for laken them, and therethe advantage of their diforder, cutting in fore haftened away to overtake him, and pieces those two Regiments: which done, joyn with him. So they arrived at the Haven they attempted the reft, encompaffing the of Calphas, where it was decreed, That whohill whereon they encamped. One great ad- foever from thenceforth made any motion of divers pieces of service done by Xenophon 5 and how the Army returned into Greece. The occasions of the War between the Lacedemonians and the Persians.

ø. X V.

THE Haven of Calphas lay under a goodly Head-land, that was very strong, and abounding with all kind of Grain and Fruits, except Olives. There was none, without which the Greek well knew, also Timber for building and shipping, and that all promifes of such people, especially so a very convenient Sea for a great City. All incensed, were nothing worth. In the mean which commodities that might have allured time Xenophon holding his way quietly the Souldiers to ftay there, and to plant, through the In-land Region, did enquire of caused them to haste away, fearing lest fome Travellers, whether they knew ought | Xenophon should find some device to have of any Grecian Army, passing along those settled himself and them in that place. For parts: and receiving by them true information and receiving by them true information and receiving by them true information and receiving by them true information and receiving by them true information and receiving by them true information and receiving by them true information and receiving by them true information and receiving by them true information and receive to have settled himself and them in that place. For the parts of the p tion of the desperate case into which these live at home; neither did they so much for Gallants had foolifuly thrown themselves, he hope of gain follow Cyrm in that War, as in marched directly towards the place where regard of his Honour, and the love which they lay, taking with him for guides, them they bare unto him: the poorer fort were who gave him theintelligence. His horfemen such as left their Parents, Wives and Chilhe fent before to discover, and to scour the dren to whom (though failing of the riches ways; the light armed footmen took the which they had hoped to purchase) they all tops on either hand, all of them fetting were now defirous to return. But whether it fire on whatfoever they found combuftible were fo that Xenophon found advantage by whereby the whole Country seemed to be their own superstition, to make them stay, which they greatly inspected; or whether iftain them in the place, and ships to carry the figns appearing in the entrails, did in them away? Wherefore he willed them deed forbid their departure; folong they rather to fight well that day, having eaten were inforced to abide in the place till vi- their dinners, than another day falling; and Guals failed: neither would the Captains not to regard the uneafie return, which ctuals rathed; neither would the Capitalia inor to regard the uneathe return, which lead them forth to forrage the Country, under the Sacrifices should promite good fuccels, clarifythm was dead of an Ague, and his thips were gone, being returned to the Hera. These persuadions were followed with fo cleans, of whom they were borrowed. His valiant execution, that both Persians and Brfollowers were joyned to the rest of the Ar- thinians being chased out of the field, abanmy, which the greater it was, the more pro-doned the Country forthwith, removing vision it needed,& the sooner felt want For their Families, and leaving all that could which cause he that was chosen Colonelin- not suddenly be conveighed away, to the to the place of Cherisophus, would needs ad- discretion of the Greeks, who had good leisure venture to gratifie the Souldiers with the gathered the Harvest of these bad Neighfpoil of seme Villages that stood near at bours fields. This was the last fight which hand; in which enterprize he found ill fue- they had on the fide of Afia. For they were cefs, the whole Country lying in wait to in- not only suffered quietly to enjoy the sooil trap him, and an Army of Horse being fet by of the Country, but when the opinion grew Pharnabazus the Satrapa, or Vice-rey of Phry- common in those parts, that it was the intent gia, to the affiltance of these Eptimian Thra-of Xenophon to plant a Colony on the Portof cians, which troops falling upon the Greeks Calpas, Embassadours were sent from the that were scattered abroad in seeking booty, Neigbour people, to desire friendship, and flew five hundred of them, and chased the make offer of their best assistance. But the rest to a certain Mountain thereby. The Souldiers had no mind to stay. Wherefore news of this overthrow coming to Xenophon, entring further into Bythinia, they took a he led forth a part of the Army, to the rescue great booty, which they carried away unto of those that survived, and brought them Chrysopolis, a City near unto Chalcedon, fafe to the Campsupon which the Bythinians where they fold it. Pharnabazus, Lieutemade an offer that night, and breaking a nant in Phrygis to Artaxerxes, did greatly Corps du guarde, flew some, pursuing the rest fear, lest their long stay in that Country to the very Tents. This new courage of the might breed in them a defire to visit his enemy, together with the present condition Province, where they might have found of the Army, so disheartned and unfurnished great wealth, and little power to guard it. of necessaries, caused the Greeks to remove Therefore he sent to the Lacedemonian Adtheir Camp to a place of more strength; miral, intreating him with much instance which having intrenched, and committed to and large promifes to wast them over into the defence of such as were least able to en-dure travel. Xenophon with the firmest and condescending, promised to give the Souldibest able men went forth, both to bury those ers pay, as soon as they arrived at Byzantiwhich were lately flain, and to abate the um. So were they carried out of Alia at their pride of the Thrafians, and their affiftants. treaty of the Persian, who in the height of his In this journey his demeanor was very ho- pride had thought them so surely imprisonnourable. For having given burial to the ed with mighty Rivers, that he not only dedead, the enemy was discovered, lying on nied to permit their quiet departure, but the tops of the hills adjoyning, to whom willed them to furrender their Arms into (notwithstanding that the way was very his hands, and so to yield their lives to his rough & troublesome, so that some thought discretion. How discourteously they were it a matter of too great danger, to leave at intreated by Anaxibius, and how, to requite their backs a wood scarce passable) he his injurious dealings, they seized upon Bymarched directly, telling his men plainly, zantium, which by Xenophons perswasion that he had rather follow the enemy with they forbare to fack; I hold it superfluous half the number, than turn his back to them to relate. For the refidue of their doings with twice as many; and letting them further appertain little to the general course of know, that if they did not charge the Barbathings. But this expedition, as in all ages rians, he would not fail with the greater re- it was glorious, so did it both discover the folution to pursue themsfrom whom if they fecrets of Asia, and stir up the Greeks to could fafely retire to the camp, yet what think upon greater enterprizes, than ever should they do there, wanting victuals to su- their forefathers had undertaken. Likewise time afforded. For the Roman Wars did his fafer, than to fail into the hands of Tifapherthere extend no further than to the next next, who was now appointed Lieutenant, neighbouring Towns of Haly; and in Greece both of last old Province, and of all that all things were quiet, the Lacedsmonians ru- had belonged to Grus. Wherefore the Ismling infolently, but without diffurbance. and belought the Lucalemeters to tend Trucitis, that the feeds of the War shortly following, which the Lucedemonians ty, and obtained their request. For a power nign countries of sided with young Cyrus the Cities, and their Fields, but norto make against Tissaphernes, if not against the Great any offensive War.

it was the only remarkable action which the King; prepared to rebely which they thought by tonowing, which the Laccagnonian ty, and obtained their request. For a power made upon Artaxerxer, were already fown, was fant over, under conduct of Thombro a before these Companies returned out of the spartan, who befowed his men in such high Countries of Asta. For the Towns of Towns as had already revoked, to secure

CHAP. XI.

Of the Affairs of Greece, whilst they were managed by the Lacedemonians.

How the Lacedamonians took courage by example of Xenophons Army, to make War upon well perceive in how ill part Artax- Agefilant having both the same, and far great-Lexes took their favour shewed unto er forces, could have wrought proportionhis Brother, and yet were timorous in able effects. Sure it is, that in the whole beginning an open War against him, think- space of two years, which he spent in Asia, ing it sufficient to take all care that no his deeds procured more commendation of advantage might flip, which could ferveto magnanimity and fair behaviour, than of freugthen their Estate, by finding the Per- front courage, and great or prolitable atfin work beyond the Sea. But when Keno- chievements For how highly loever it pleaplons Army had revealed the baseness of sed Kenophon, who was his friend, and folthose effeminate Asiatiques, and rehearsed lower in this, and in other Wars, to extol his the many Victories which they themselves virtue; his exploits being onely a few incurhad gotten, upon terms of extreme disadvantage; then was all Greece filled with defire of undertaking upon this huge unweildy Empire, thinking it no hard matter for the joynt-forces of that whole Nation, to hew out the way to Susa, whereof one handful hadopened the pailage to Babylon; and further, finding no power that was able to give four and thirty thousand two hundred and his Wars in Asa and Greece, we shall speak fifty five furlongs, spent in going and returning, which make of English miles about four thousand two hundred fourscore and one, a very painful march of one year and threemonths. Nevertheless, the civil distraction, wherewith Greece was miserably torn, and especially that hot fire of the Theban War, which, kindled with Persian gold, brake forth suddenly into a great flame, all such as were willing to revolt from the drew back out of Affa the power of the La- Persian, who were many, and some of them cedemonians, to the defence of their own | fuch, as had been highly beholding to the

T feems that the Lacedemonians did Estate; leaving it questionable, whether carrying no proportion to Xenophons own journey, which I know not whether any Age hath parallel'd: the famous retrait of Conon the Briton with fix thousand men from Aqualeia, to his own Country, through all the breadth of Italy, and length of France, in despite of the Emperor Theodosius, being them refultance, in all that long journey of rather like it than equal. But of Ageflaus and

ø. II.

The prosperous beginnings of the War in Asia.

THimbro receiving Xenophons men, began to take in Towns, and to entertain

Kingswho feem to have had no other cause of bood out four daies (against the will of the discontent than that they were to live under Citizens, who were covetous of liberty) the Government of Tissphernes, whom all the Governor striving in vain to have kept others did as vehemently hate, as the King his Mafter did love him. The managing of the War begun by Thimro, was for his oppressions taken out of his hands, and committed to Dereyllidas a spartan, who behaved dors to Dereyllidas, defiring leave to speak himself as a good man or War, and a wife Commander. For whereas the Rule of the on the delivery of which, he islued out of low-Countries of Afia was divided between Pharnabazus and Tojaphernes, who did ill zorce. Tharnabazus being the Worthier man, but the other by his Princes favour the greater, and having the chief command inthose Wars against the Greeks; Dercylli das, who did bear a private hatred to Pharnabazus (knowing well that Tissiphernes was of a milehievous nature, and would not be in vain to strive against the Army, and the forry to fee his Corrival throughly beaten, though to the Kings lois) made an appointhe brought into his own power.

614

fame time fuffered a violent alteration, him, earneftly entreating that he might be which gave easie success to the attempts of suffered to retain Gergethe: but coming to Dercyllidas. Zenis a Dardanian had been the Gates, he was bidden to command Deputy to Pharnabazus in those parts; after his Souldiers that they should be opened; whose death his Wife Mania procured his for (quoth Dercyllidas) I must here likewise Office, wherein the behaved her felf fo well, do a facrifice to Minerva. The Traytor not that the not only was beloved of the people daring to make denial, caused his Merceunder her Government, but enlarged her naries to open the Gates, whereby Dercyl-Territory, by the conquest of certain Towns lidas, taking possession of the place tendred

t to the use of Pharnabazus. Now remain. ed only two Cities, Gergethe and Sceplis which the Traytor held; who fearing all men, as being loved of none, fent Embaffawith him, and pledges for his fecurity : up-Sceplis, and coming into the Camp, made offer to joyn with the Greeks upon fuch conditions as might feem reasonable. But he was plainly told by Dercyllidas, that other condition there was none, than to fer he Citizens freely at liberty. And presently upon these words they marched toward Sceplis. When Atidias perceived that it was Townsmen, who were all of one mind: he quietly went along with Dercyllidas, who ment with Tiffaphernes and forthwith entred remaining but a few hours in the City, dida Asir, which was under the jurisdiction of acrifice to Minerva, and then leading away Pharnabazus, which Province in few daies, the Garrison of Midias, he left the City free, and departed toward Gergethe. Midian That Country of Alie had about the did not forfake his company, but followed adjoyning; and fundry times gave affiftance pay to the Garrison, who did not refuse to to Pharnabazus in his Wars against the My- serve under his Ensigns. This done, all the fians and Perfians. For the had in pay fome goods of Mania were feized upon, as belong-Companies of Greeks, whose valour by her ling to one that had been subject to Phargood usage, did her great service. But some | nabazus, who was enemy to the Greeks: and what before the arrival of Dercyllidas in fo the murderous Wretch was fent away those parts, a Son in law of hers, called Mi- naked, not knowing in what part of the dias, whom she trusted and loved much, be- World he might find any place to hide his ing blinded with ambition, found means to detested head. Dercyllidas having in eight stille her, and kill her Son of seventeen years daies taken nine Cities, purposed for the ease old; which done, he seized upon two of of his Confederates to winter in Bythinia, to her principal Towns, wherein her treasure which end he took Truce with Pharnabalay, hoping to have been admitted into pof- zw, who had not any defire of War. That fession of her whole Estate. Being denied en- Winter, and the Summer ensuing, the trance by her Souldiers that lay in Garrison, Truce being continued, held; in which time, he fent Messengers with Presents to Phar- besides the wasting of Bythinia, the neck of nabazus, defiring him to make him Gover- Land joyning Cherronea to the Main, was nour in the place of Mania. His Presents fortified, being four or five miles in breadth; were not only rejected by Pharnabazus, but by which means eleven Towns, with much revenge of his foul treason threatned, where- good Land belonging to them, were freed by the wicked villain was driven into terms from the incursions of the wilde Thracians, of almost utter desperation. In the mean and made fit and able to victual the Camp. time came Dercyllidas, to whom the Towns Likewise the City of Atarne was taken, of Mania, that held against Midias, did which was of great strength, and very well quickly open their gates. One only Town stored with provision. After this, Dercyllidas Warinto cara, thereby it was thought damonians thould depart ata. and bever port uncasse to recoverall the Towns of lost the Towns to the Kings plea unable. Percey not uncome to Admiral of the fleet (which was of none effect conly is ferved to five the was yearly office) being appointed to joyn Greeks from the prefert donner was a gain was a years one cycleng appropriately that time unto Tifaphen s, who deared to a condition with him. Though it was manifely that time unto Tifaphen s, who deared to a condition and respected that neglected Pharmabazus in the War by procrattination, which bearet rimed necellity; yet washe not in his own not adventure to finish by tryal of a battel. danger requited with the like. For Pharna-Lizin, having respect to the Kings service, came to affift his private enemy Tillaphercame to annt ms private enemy apparate the state of the Laced minimum stock revenge upon net, and so passing into Caria, they thrust the Laced minimum stock revenge upon Carritons into all places or itreng h, which done, they marched towards Ionia, hoping to find the Towns ill manned for refiftance. As the e Perfians were defirous to keep the War from their own doors, fo was Dercylliand willing to free his Confederates the in Greece, began to call the Eleans to ac-Lanians from the spoil and danger of the compt for tome differences received by them War, by transferring it into Caria. For which during the late Wars, when leiture was cause he palled the River of Meinder 5 and wanting to the requiral of fach petty innot looking to have been to foon encoun juries. These Eleans being Pretalents of tred, marched carelelly through the Coun the Olympian Games, had let a fine upon try: when on the very fudden the whole Ar the Cuy of spart is for Non-payment of my of Tiff sphernes and Pharnabazus was difee | which, they torbad them to come to the vered, confifting of Perstans, Carians, and tome Solemnity; and publickly which one of Mercenary Greeks, who were all marihalled them that was of nove, for pre-uning to in very good order to present battel. The contend against their Deer e. Likewise edds was too apparent, both in numbers they hindred Age King of Sparta from doof men, and in readine is, as also in advantage ing facrince to jupiter; and in all points of ground: for the Persans had a great mul- used great contempt toward the spartans, titude of Horse, the Greeks very few and who now had no business that could himfieble, being to fight in an open plain, der them from taking revenge: and there-Therefore all the Ionians, together with the fore tent a peremptory melling to the life-had command from sparta to divert the enjoy than own liberty and Laws observed had command the was the feat of Tiffattrariwite on the other fice. That the three Warinto Caria, where was the feat of Tiffattrariwite on the other fice.

ø. III.

tents of the Corinthians and Thebans, conceived against the State of Sparta.

N the mean feafon the Lauedamonians, who found none able to withfrand them llanders and others, of fuch places as bor- ans, commanding them to least liberty me dered upon the Kings Dominions, did either Cities which they held in tubication. This betake them elves to prefent tiight; or was the usual pretence, which they made abiding a while for shame, did plainly dif- the ground of all their Wars: though litcover by their looks, hat they meant not the they cared for the liberty of fuch Towns, tobe more bold than wife. Only Dercyl which they caused afterwards to become lidar with his Peloponn: frant, regarding their followers, and little better than meer Vallals honour, prepared to endure the fight, of the Lacedamonians. In their late Wars which must needs have brought them to with Albers, the strong opposition which destruction, if the counsel of Pharnabazus they found, caused this goodly Title of hhad been followed; who perceiving the op- berty to work very flowly: but having now portunity of fo great a victory, was not wil- to do with a State of great fririt and small ling to let it flip. But Tiffaphernes, who na- force, it gave present succes to their desires. turally was a coward, feeing that counte- Two years together they fent an Army innance of refistance was made, began to con- to the Country of the Eleans : the first year sider, what strange defence the Souldiers of an Earthquake (held in those times a pro-Kenophon had shewed, and thinking that all digious sign, and which did always forbid the Greeks were of the like resolution, held the prosecution of any enterprize in hand) it the wifest way to crave parley; the con- caused them to retire : the second year, all clusion of which was, That a Truce should the Towns of the Eleans did halfily revolt, be made, to last until Tisapherner might re- and the City it felf was driven to submitceive answer from the King, and Dercyllidas sions consenting both to tuffer their old subfrom sparta, concerning the demands pro- jects treely to enjoy their liberty, and to pounded in the Treaty; which were, on the have her own Walls thrown down. Only one part, That all the Greeks in Asia might the Presidentship of the Olympian Games might have been avoided: as not loving to doubted that they would in time coming malice, that fending fome Companies of are modely, anding themselves to frond at horse, they threw down his facrifice from the material sparta. In this expedition all the Altar. It was not then convenient time the Great were additing to the Lacedamo-the Great were additing to the Lacedamo-the Great were additing to the Lacedamo-the Great were the Commission and Eco-Country in a new War; therefore waiting times, whose and having been of as much better opportunity of revenge, he quietly importance in the late Pelep nn. fran War, as Iwallowed the contumely, and followed his the force of sparta it telt, they could not main intendment. Having landed his men at from their dal ke of their unequal divi- Ephefus, he was enterrained by Tillathernee from following the victory: which gave to with a Treaty of peace, wherein Apellous Spata the commons of all Greece; to Theber peremptorily requiring that the Perfue and Corinib. onely fecurity against Athens , thould reftore to liberty all the Greek Towns but such a fecurity as was worse than the in Asia, was promised that the King, being first danger. For when the equal greatees of informed or his demand, should fend answer two mit hav Litate, did counterpolic each to his good liking, if he would in the mean the other, it was in the power of these New while make Truce. Truce was therefore trai Common-weak to adhere to either, a made, which Tifaphernes had fought, only the condition of their aliairs required; but to win time of making provision for the when to revenge injuries, they had by mor- War, and getting tupply of men and money tal harred projecuted the War to extremity from Arraneixes, whillt Acefilaus was buffer leaving the one City tok doi yower and in feeling the citates of his confederate Cifriends, the other mightly increased in lies on that fide of the Sea. The end of this both a trives then (if not necessary to obey long racation from war was at the coming the greatnets which them elves had made, down o, there Forces which drigging vet) (ooliaa and dangarous to provoke it had fent; at what time Agefilant received a Nevertheles, it was not the purpose of the plain mess ge from Tissaphernes, that either sy reams, to take occasion of any quarrel, he must forthwith depart out of Alia, or which they could not finish at pleasure, till make good his abode by strong hand. Agesfuch time as they had by victory or compo- law returning word, that he was glad to hear fitton made some good end with the Persian, that his enemies had by perjury deserved toward whom they bent all their care and vengeance from heaven, prepared to invade forces.

The refiner of Agelilaus into Alia. His War nes believe, that his intent was to invade that good.

A was definous to have the honour of the into that Countrey which was fittelf for victory, which not without cause, he ex- their service but the Greeks left him waiting pected upon those of Asia; and therefore these in vain, and marched directly into procuring a great Army to joyn with that Phrygia, where they took great spoil withof Dercyllidar, he took his way in great out relistance, till such time as the Horsepomp to Aulis in Beotia, a Haven lying or-men of Pharmabazus met him, who in a posite to the lland of Eubea; in which small skirmish having the better of the place Agamemnon (leading the power of all Greeks, were the occasion that Agefilam te-Greece to the War against Iron many Ages turned to Ephesis. Although in this last before) had imbarked his men. In imitation fight only twelve men were loft, yet Agefo sgamemon, he meant alio to do facrilans perceiving by that tryal how hardit fice in Aniss, which the Thebans, Lords of that Countrey, would not perm t, but fayof the field, without a greater strength of ing, that the performance of such CeremoHorfs, took all possible care to increate that mes in that place, belonged unto their Offi- part of his forces. By which means having was left unto them, which it was not to be cers; they were foundble to conceal their them; and fending word to all the Towns which lay between him and Caria, that they should provide victuals and other necessaries for his Army, did eafily make Tiffapherwith Tillaphernes. How Tillaphernes was Province wherein Tillaphernes dwelt, and put to death; and the War diverted into which was unfit for Horse, in which part another Province, through perjuasien and of his Forces the Persian had most configifts of Tithrautics his successor. How care- dence. Therefore Tissaphernes bestowing lefs the Perlian Lientenants were of the Kings all his Companies of foot in Caria, entred with his Horic into the plains of Meander, hoping thereby to flop the passage of a Gestlaus newly made King of Sparta, heavy foot-army, not suffering them to pass willed Limielf, whilit Winter lasted, he lithraustes, who bought his departure with carred upon the Country of Liffaphernes, as thirty Talents.

to no the feafen of the year would permit, This was a strange manner of War, both and not only took a great booty, but finding on the offentive, and the defensive part. the Horse-men of Tiffaphernes in the plain of For Agefilans having entertained great hopes Mender, without allistance of their infan- of vanquishing the great King, was contenttery, he gave them battel, and had a great ed to forbear his feveral Provinces, at the Victory, taking their Camp, in which he entreaty of the Lieutenants and those Lieufound great riches. The blame of this lofs tenants being employed by the King to mainfall heavy upon Tiffaphernes, who either up- tain his Estate, against all enemies, wherein ten and ablented himfelffrom the if they failed, they knew that their heads bottel, or following some other butiness, might eatily be taken from their shoulders) was then at Sardis. For which cause his were little offended at any loss that fell on Abler having him in diffruft, and thinking their next Neighbon-Prince, which were the prace might be the fooner had, which subject likewise to the same Crown of Perfia, he much defired, if the man, so odious to the so long as their own Government could be while Nation of the Greeks, were taken out preferved from walle and danger. The cause the way; he fent into those parts Tithran- of this diforder on the Persian side, I can Less Perfean, to cut off the head of Tiffapher-ascribe to nothing to deservedly, as to the not, and fucceed him in the Government. corrupted estate of the Court, wherein Euand was the end of this bale and cowardly nuchs, Concubines, and ministers of plea-Politician, who little caring to offend Fica-fure, were able, by partial conftruction, to ven when by perjury he could advance his countenance, or difgrace, the actions of such purpoles on Earth, failed at the last, through as had the managing of things abroad; and too much over-weening of his own wil-to that foolith manner of the Kings (which dom, even in that part of cunning wherein was fo ufual that it might be called a rule) he thought himself most perfect; for sup- to reward or punish the Provincial Goverpoling, that by his great skill in fubtile ne- nour, according to the benefit or loss, which gotiation he should one way or other cir- the Country, given in charge unto each of cumvent the Greeks, and make them weary them, received, during the time of his rule. of Alia; he did not feek to finish the War, Whereby it came to pa's, that as every one and according to his Mafters wifh, bring all was defirous to make his own territory yield things speedily to quiet, but rather to tem- a large increase to the Kings treasure, so no potize, till he might find some opportunity man was carefull to askit his borderers, if of making fuch end as might best stand with loss or danger might thereby grow to himthe Kings honour and his own. Wherein felf and his ; but fate still as an idle beholdit feems that he much miftook his Princes er, when perhaps by joyning their forces, disposition, who though he had highly re- it had not been unealie to recompence the warded him for the aid which he did bring spoil of one Country, by conquering anoin his time of danger, yet would be much ther, or defending a third from far greater more gladly have taken it, if he could have miferies. foundfuch means whereby the danger it felf have War, whilst by any conditions (honourable, or not) he might obtain peace. The War and Treaty between Agefilaus and And this appeared well by the course which Pharnabazus.

Tithraustes took at his first possession of the low-Countries. For he fent Embaffadours to Agefilans, in very friendly fort letting him A Tithranfles, entred Phrygia, burning know, that the man who had been Authour and wasting the Country without resistance. of the War, was now taken out of the way; He took the Palace of Pharnabazus, and by and that it was the Kings pleasure to let the his Lieutenant drave him out of the Camp. Greeks enjoy their own laws and liberty, These Actions, together with his honourupon condition, that they should pay him able behaviour, which added much to the tribute accustomed, and the Army be their lustre, were more glorious than proforthwith dismissed. The answer to this pro- fitable. For he did not win Cities and polition, was by Agellaus referred to the Places of strength, which might have en-Council of Sparta; in the mean feason he creased his power, and given assurance to was content to transfer the War into the the rest of his proceedings: but purchased Province of Pharnabazus, at the request of fame and high reputation, by which he drew CHAP. XI.

CHAP. VI

unto him fome that were difcontented and frood upon bad terms with the great King; whom he loft again as cafily, by means of some slight injury dene to them by his under Captains. Pharnabazus did not enclote himself in any Town, for fear of being beneged, but kept the field, lying as neer as he could fately to the enemies, with whom it was not his purpole to fight, but to make tome good end by composition, which he found not uncase to do. For the pleafores, by himtormariy done to the State of to look to her own, and give over her sparta, in the times of their most necessity, had been to speat, that when he (obtaining parley delifer before their eyes ten by many late victories, and faw her his beauty towards them, and his love, (which had be in such, that befides many bounds of her own Tetritory. Hefent inctior has date on his perion, he had for the refere of their tree, when it was driven ployed in railing war against the Lacedemoto tun a flore of librdus, adventured to nians, which treature was by the subtle pratible acto the Sam as far as he could find crice of him that was put in trust with it in any ground, and light on Horfe-back fuch wife diperfedamong the principal men against the Alexans) together with his of the Therans, Argives, and Corinthians, that faith which had never been violated in all thore Effates having formerly born enet word or deed: they knew not how to hate to that of sparta, were now definous excute their ingratitude, otherwise than of nothing so much, as of open war. And by telling him, That having War with left this great heat of the incenfed multihis Mafter, they were intorced against their tude thould for want of present exercise bewill to offendhim. Agesslaus did make a fair gin to faint and vanish away in idle words, offer to him, that if he would revolt from occasion was found out to thrust the Lacehis forces out of those parts, were not he had not invaded for want of more ne-Countrey would yield great booty, and for the hire of thirty Talents. By this means Friend into a hot Enemy, who afterwards requited their unthankfulness with full revenge.

818

6. VI.

The great commotions raised in Greece by the Thebans and others, that were hired with gold from the Perfian.

IN the mean while Tithrauftes, perceiving that Agefilius meant nothing less than to return into Grace, and let Artaxerxes reft quietly in Affa. took a wife courfe, whereby the City of sparta was not only driven great hopes of fubvering the Empire; but was beaten out of all that had been got-Dominion refrained unto the narrow to Greece fifty talents of filver, to be imthe King to them, they would maintain demonians into Arms, that they themselves him against the Persian, and establish him anight seem Authors of the quarrel. Some free Prince of the Countrey wherein he land there was in the tenure of the Locrius, was at that time only Deputy to Artax to which the Thebars had in former timelaid erxes. But Tharnabazus told him plain- claim; but the Phocians either having the ly, That if the King his Mafter did put better title or finding the greaterfavour, had him in trust to make war against them, it adjudged unto them, and received yearly he would not fail to do the best that he money for it. This money the Locrians were could as their enemy; if the charge were either hiredor perswaded to pay now to the taken out of his hand, and he commanded Thebans, who readily accepted it. The Photo obey another, he would then shift side, crans not meaning so to lose their Rent, made and betake himself to their alliance. The a dittress by strong hand, recovering a iffue of this parley was, That the Army great deal more than their own; which the should no longer abide in Phrygia, nor Thebans (as in protection of their new Teagain return into it, whilest employment | nants ) requited with an invasion made upon could be found elsewhere. The excuse Phocis, waiting that Countrey in the manner made by agefilaus, and the withdrawing of of open war. Such were the beginnings of protelled hostility between Thebes & Sparts, fufficient to appeale Pharnabazus, whom & the first breaking out of their close enmity, that had long time, though hardly, been ceffary business elsewhere; but because his concealed. For when the Phocian Embassiadors came to sparta, complaining of the violence done by the Thebani & requesting sucthe Lacedemonians changed an honourable cour, they had very favourable audience, & ready consent to their suit, it being the manner of the Lacedamonians to defer the acknowledgment of injuries received, until occasion of revenge were offer'd, &thento difcover their indignation in cold blood. At this time they hadvery good opportunity towork furb them in Greece, and hearing out of Afia advance the business in hand, came to Halino news that could offend or trouble them, artus, where, though Paulanias did not meet Wherefore they sent Lyfander to raise all the him, as had been appointed, yet he attem-Countries about Phocis, and with such forces pted the Town, and was slain in fight by the as he could levy, to attend the coming of Thebans, who came hastily to the rescue. Pausanias King of Sparta (for Sparta, as hath As this victory did incourage the Thebans, been shewed before, had two Kings) who so the coming of Paulaniar with his great thould follow him with the strength of Pelo- Army did again amaze them, with present ponnes. Lyfander did as he was appointed, tation of extreme danger; but their foirits and being of great reputation in those parts, were soon revived by the strong succour he drew the Orchomenians to revolt from which was brought from Athens, in conli-Thebes. Pansanias likewise raised all Pelopon- deration of which, and of the late battel, nelus, except the Corinthians (who refused, Pausanias durst not hazzard a new fight to affift him in that enterprise) meaning to with them, but receiving the bodies of those joyn with Lyfander, and make a speedy end that were slain, by composition, departed of the war. The confideration of so great a out of their Territory; for which, either danger, approaching fo swiftly, caused the cowardise or indifferetion, he was at his re-Thebans to feek what help they could turn to Sparta condemned as a Traitor, and abroad, forasmuch as their own strength driven to file unto Teges, where he ended his was far too little to make resistance against dayes in banishment. fuch mighty preparations. It was not unknown to them, that many followers of the Lacedamonians were otherwise affected in heart, than they durst utter in countenance 5 How Agesilaus was called out of Asia to help but the good wishes of such people were little available, confidering that the most which could be expected from them, was, that they should do as little hurt as they could: by which manner of tergiversation, the Corinthians did at that present cast themthe no great benefit of Thebes. Wherefore it their own wills, having no other war to di- being desirous to do somewhat that might bis Countrey. A victory of the Spartans. Conon the Athenian affifted by Pharnabazus, overcomes the Lacedæmonian Fleet; recovers the mastery of the Seas, and re-builds the walls of Athens.

«. VII.

felves into the displeasure of the Spartans, to His good success, and the confederacy made with Athens, gave luch reputawas thought the fafest course to procure the tion to the I bebans, that the Argives, Corinassistance of some Estate that might present- thians, Enbeans, Locrians, and Acarnanes, ly declare it felf on their fide, which would did forthwith fide with them, and raifing cause many others to follow the example, a strong Army, determined to give battel and make their party strong. To this end to the Lacedemonians as near as they might, they sent Embassadours to athers, excusing to their own doors; Considering that the old offences, as either not committed by force of sparta it self was not great, but publick allowance, or done in time of the grew more and more by the adjunction of general war, and recompenced with friend-their Confederates. The Magistrates of flip lately flewn in their refusal of affisting sparta perceiving the danger, sent for agerausanias, when he came in behalf of the silans, who readily obeyed them, and prothirty Tyrants against the good Citizens of miling his friends in Afia to return speedi-Athens. In regard of which, and for their ly to their affiftance, patied the Streights of own Honour Take, they requested them of Hellespons into Europe. In the mean time, aid in the present war, offering to do the the Cities of the new league had given batbest that they could for the restoring of tel to the Lacedemonians, and the remain-Athens to her former estate and dignity. der of their Associates, but with ill success. For Thrashbulus and his Friends, who, perfecuted when the right wing of each part had gotten by the Thirty, had been well entertained at the better hand, the Argives and Thebans re-Thebes, procured now the City to make a turning from the chale in some disorder, large requital of the courtefic which they were broken and defeated by the Lacedahad received. For it was decreed, that the monians, who meeting them in good order. State of Athens should not only refuse to won from them the Honour which they had aid the Lacedamonians in this War; but that gotten by forcing the left wing of the Laceit should assist the Thebans, and engage it self demonians, and made the victory of that day intheir cause. Whilst Pausanias lay still wait- entirely their own. The reporters of this bating the arrival of his Confederates; Lysander tell meeting Agefilaus at Amphipolis, were by CHAP. XI.

him fent over into Afia, wherein it is not many losses, much defaced. For the Thebane likely that they brought much contain did in the battel of Coronea vanquish the unto his friend, who had fince his deper- Orchomenians, who stood opposite unto ture feen the Spartan Fleet beaten, and Ir fander the Admiral flain. The same in a, whose endeavour had brought the Ato A ans into order by advancing the Sea-forces fute. Likewife Gylis was flain with a great of the Lacedemonians with money, and all part of his Army by the Locrians; and some manner of fupplies, was now the occasion that the power of Athens grew strong at 10 med against the Corinthians, were repay-Sea, when the City was despoyled of her old reputation and learcely able to maintain parts adjoyning; many Towns being eafily an Army by Land for her defence. Pharabazus confidering how much it imported the King his Mafter, to have the Greeks divided into fuch factions as might utterly disable waven of Corinth, to sue for peace, but could them from undettaking abroad, thought it not get audience, till fuch time as the news the fafeit way for him elf, during thefe came of a great victory obtained by Iphicra broils, to take fuch order, that he should les, General of the Athenian forces at Lethanot need any more to leek peace by intreaty | um; whereupon the Theban Embassadors and commemoration of old benefits, at their being fent for, and willed to do their mefhands, who unprovoked, had fold his love for lage, required only in fcorn, to have a fafe thirty Talents. To which purpose he furnish- conduct given them, that they might enter ed Conon the Athenian with eight fhips, who had escaped when the Fleet of Athens was furprized by Lyander at Egos-Potamos; ons, wherein the Acheans, Confederates of giving him the command of a great Navy, wherewith he requited the loss received at . £gos-Potamos, by repaying the Laceacmonians with the like destruction of their fleet Gold, as encouraged the Athenians to reupon recovering the Signiory which they had loft.

620

6. VIII.

Of fundry [mall victories gotten on each part. The Lacedemonians lose all in Asia; the Athenians recover some part of their old some years the honour of their Estate, enhorse-men from the Thessalians, who were Athens. accounted the best riders in Greece. He wasted Bætia, and fought a great battel at Coronea against the Thebans and their Allies, whom he overthrew; and by his Marshall Gylis forraged the Countrey of Locris: which done, he returned home.

The gain of these victories was not great, and the reputation of them was, by them, and retired unbroken to Mount Helicon, opening way perforce when Applilate charged them in the return from the purother exploits by the Lacedamonians pered with equal dammage, received in the aken and as eafily recovered. The variety of which enterfeats was fuch, that the Thebans themselves were drawn by the loss of the into Corinth. From this time forward the War was made for a while only by incursi-Sparta, felt much loss, their whole State being endaugered by the Acarnanians; who held with the contrary fide, until Agefilaus repayed these invaders with equal, or greater calaat Cnidus. After this victory Conon failed to mities, brought upon their own Lands, which Athens, bringing with him, partly as the libe- did to afflict the Acarnans, that they were rality of Pharnabazus, partly as the fruit of driven to fue for peace. But the affairs at his victory, to itrong a Navy, and fo much Sea were of most consequence, upon which the fuccess of all depended. For when the build their Walls, and think more hopefully Towns of Afia perceived that the Lacedemonians were not only intangled in a hard War at home, but almost disabled to pass the Seas, having loft their Fleet at Cnidus; they foon gave ear to Pharnabazus, who promised to allow that they should use their own laws, if they would expell the spartan Governours. Only the City of Abydus did ftand firm, wherein Dercyllidas lay, who did his best to contain all the Towns about Hellespont, in the Alliance of the Nevertheles, the Lacedemonians, by malustration because the Athenian Fleet under Thrashus. Lacedamonians; which he could not do, lus, took in Bizantium, Chalcedon, and other dangered very greatly by this loss at Sea. places thereabout, reducing the Isle of Lef-For Agesilans obtained the better with his bos to their ancient acknowledgment of

5. IX. The

6. IX.

other passages in the War. The Peace of Anralcidas.

A perceive how uneafie a thing it would from Lesbos toward Rhodes, was Ilain by be, to maintain the War against men as good the way at Aspendus. The City of Rhodes had os themselves, affisted with the treasures of long before joyned with the Lacedamoni-Persia: wherefore they craved peace of ans, who erected there (as was their man-Artaxerxes, most basely offering not only ner) an Aristocratie, or the Government of a to renounce the Greeks inhabiting Asia, and few the principal Citizens; whereas contrato leave them to the Kings disposition; but riwise the Athenians were accustomed to put withall to fet the Islanders, and every Town the Soveraignty into the hands of the peoin Greece, as well the little as the great, at ple, each of themseeking to assure themselves full and absolute liberty, whereby they said by erecting in the Town of their Confedethat all their principal Estates of their Coun- rates a Government like unto their own: try would be so weakened, that no one, nor which doing (where more especial caute did all of them should be able to stir against the not hinder) caused the Nobility to favour Great King. And fure it was, that the power | Sparta, and the Commons to incline to of the Country being to broken and rent Athens. The people of Agina roved upon the into many small pieces, could neither have coast of Attica which caused the Athenians disquieted the Persian, by an offensive War, to land an Army in Egina, and besiege their nor have made any good defence against Town: but this siege being raised by the afhim, but would have left it easie for him in sistance of the Licedemonian Fleet the Islancontinuance of time to have taken the Ci- ders began a-new to molett Attica, which ties one after another, till he had made him- caused the Athenians to man their thips felf Master of all. The spartans were not again, that returned beaten, having lost tour ignorant of this, but were fo carried with of thirteen. The loss of these ships was soon great actions worthy of remembrance. Thim- away into Cyprus a greater force than his

bro was flain by Strutbas, and in his place Diphridas was fent, who demeaned himfelf The base conditions offered unto the Persian by more warily. Dercyllidas was removed from the Lacedamonian. Of Jundry fights and his charge at Abjdus, because he had not impeached Thrasybulus in his enterprizes about Hellespont ; Anaxibius, who succeeded him. was furprized and flain in a skirmish by Ipri-Bout this time the Spartans began to crates the Athenian. Thras bulus departing envy, that perceiving how the dominion of recompenced by a victory which Chabrias the the Seas was like to return to Athens, they Athenian General had in Leina, whereupchose rather to give all from themselves and on the Islanders were fain to keep home, and others, and make all alike weak, than to per- leave to the Athenians the Seas free. It may mit that any of their own Nation should welfeem strange that the City of Athens. hagrowstronger than themselves, who solately ving but newly raised her walls, having not had commanded all. Yet this great offer by any fortunate and important Battel lecuwas not at the first accepted; both in regard | red her estate from dangers by Land; but that the other Estates of Greece, who had in only depending upon the assistance of such the Kings behalf joyned together against Confederates, as, carried unto different ends, the Lacedemonians, did by their several Em- had often discovered themselves irresolute balladors oppose themselves unto it; and in the common cause, would send a Fleet and for that it was thought fafeit for Artaxerxes an Army to Cyprus, in defence of Evigoras. rather to weaken the Lacedamonians yet when the Mastery of the Seas was so ill afmore, than by interposing himself to bring sured, that an Island in the eye of Pyraeus, friends and foes on the fudden to an equali- had ability to vex the coast of Attica. But as ty. Especially Struthas, whom Artaxerxes the over-weening of that City did canseit had fent as his Lieutenant into the low- usually to embrace more than it could com-Countries, did feek to repay the harmdone passiothe insolency and shameless injustice by Agefilans in those parts: which his in- of the people, had now bred in the chief tent appearing plain, and all hope of the Commanders, a defire to keep themselves peace being thereby cut off, Thimbro was sent far out of fight, and to seek employments at into Afia to make War upon Struthas; and fuch distance as might secure them from the others were appointed to other places: eyes of the envious, and from publick judgwhereby the War being scattered about, ments, out of which few or none escaped. For all the Isles and Towns on the firm Land, which cause Timotheus did pass away much grew almost to the manner of Pyracy and part of his time in the Isle of Lesbos; Iphicra-Robbery, affording many skirmishes, but few tes in Thrace; and Chabrias now did carry Country Country could well have spared: with which | risons, for which they wanted money ; and hereturned not when the business in Cyprus other States by the miseries of the war. came to an end, but fought new adventures whereof they faw no end; that all (excepting in Egipt; whereby arole neither thanks to the Thebant) did confent unto these Articles. hinleff, nor profit to his City, though ho- This was called the peace of Antalcidar: nour both to him and it. The Athenians be- whereof the Lacedamonians taking upon ing thus careless of things at hand, had a no-themselves the execution, did not only comtable blow given unto them, shortly after pell the Argives to depart out of Corinth. that Chabrias was gone to Cyprus, even with- ( which, under pretence of defending, they in their own Haven. For Teleutiar, a Lacede- held by Garrifons, lately thrust into it, notas monian, being made Governour of Agina, Patrons, but as Lords) and the Thebans to conceived a strong hope of surprizing the leave Baotia free, of which Province Thebre Navy of Athens, asit lay in Pirans, thinking had alwayes held the Government, the Thearight, that it was a harder matter to en- bans themselves being also comprehended counterwithten ships prepared for the fight, under the name of the Baotians; but caused than with twenty lying in harbour, whose the Mantineans to throw down their own Mariners were alleep in their Cabbins, or City, and to dwell in Villages: alledging that drinking in Taverns. Wherefore he failed they had formerly been accustomed to to by night into the mouth of the Port, which do, though purpoling indeed to chastise entring at the break of day, he found (ac-them, as having been ill-affected to Sparta in cording to his expectation) most of the men the late War. By these courses the Lacedeon shore, and few or none left aboard to monians did hope that all the small Towns make refultance: by which means he took in Greece would, when occasion should remany ships laden with merchandizes, many quire it, willingly follow them in their wars, fisher-men, passengers, and other Veslels, as Authors of their liberty; and that the also three or four Gallies; having sunk or great Cities having lost all their dependants. broken, and made unserviceable, as many of would be unable to make opposition. the rest as the time would suffer. About this time Pharnabazus, the Lieutenant of Phrygia, had one of the Kings Daughters given to him in marriage, with whom he lived about The War which the Lacedamonians made upthe Court; and many Officers that favoured the Lacedamonians, were placed in the lower Afia; by whose assistance the Fleet of Sparta grew victorious about Hellespont; in fuch wife, that perhaps they should not have out either victory or profit, consuneeded the peace, which they themselvs pro- med the riches and power of Greece, the Cicured by Antalcidas, from the Great King, the ty of Olynthus in Thrace was grown fo mighconditions whereof were fuch as are men-ty, that she did not only command her tioned before, giving freedom to all the Ci-neighbour-Towns, but was also become terties of Greece, and dividing the Country in- rible to places far removed, and to Spartait on Olynthus. They take Thebes by treafon; and Olynthus by Famine.

622

6. X.

to as many several States as were petty Bo- self. Great part of Macedonia, together roughs in it. Thus Artaxexes having bought with Pella, the principal City of that Kinghis own peace with mony, did likewise by dom, was taken by the Olynthians, who folhis mony become Arbitrator and decider of lowing the usual pretence of the Lacedamo-Controversies between the Greeks, disposing nians, to set at liberty the places over which of their business in such wise, as stood best King Amyntas did tyrannize, had almost now with his own good. The Tenor of Artax-driven him out of his Dominions, and taken erxes his Decree was, That all Asia and Cy- all to themselves. The Citizens of Acanthus, prus should be his own; the Isles of Lemnos, and of Apollonia, being nearest unto the dan-Imbrus, and scirus, be subject to Athens; all ger of those incroaching neighbours, acother Greek Towns, as well the little as the quainted the Lacedamonians with their fear, great, be let at liberty 5 and that wholoever affirming that this Dominion of the Olynthishould refuse this peace, upon them the ap- ans, would be too strong for all Greece, if provers of it should make war, the King af- continuance of time should give it reputafifting them by Land and Sea, with men, and tion, which only it wanted: wherefore they ships, and treasure. The Athenians were so requested affistance, but in such terms as did discouraged by their losses at Sea; the Lace- found of compulsion, protesting that either damonians by revolt of their confederates, they must war upon Olynthus, or become and the necessity of maintaining many Gar subject unto her, and fight in her defence-Hereupon Hereupon was made a hafty levy of men, into the confereacy. The day following, a the thousand being tent prefently away, folemn fealt being then held in the City, with fromife to be reconded by a greater Phyllidas promifed the Governo 18, who Agraning to the war, as egreed with their convey unto them that night the mott beauthey compelled at length by tamine to ren der it telf unto their obedience.

s. XI.

How the Thebans recovered their liberty, dri ving out the Lacedemonian Garrison.

ron, whom Phyllids rhe Scribe had drawn taken from the Lacedemonians, and not a

Araw. Whift thefetwo thou land gave such were in olent and bufful men, that he would real number, the body of the Army follow-titul Dames of the Town, with whom they though them, furnized the Cittacel of Theber. Though take their pleafure. Having cheared them with fuch hope, and plenty of good where was herrayed into the hand of Platie them with fuch hope, and plenty of good drive leaged committee, by fome of the Magi. Wine, he told them when the time of perirrate, who fought to ftrengthen their fa- formance (which they urged) came, that he Gorby the flavery of their Country. The gould not make good his promite, unless Giorgy the index; stated of sparts, but had they we uld offinis their to lowers because ret in any point violated the peace lately the Gentlevonen, who attended wit our made in tween them; which caused the Le she Chamber, would not endure that my or estamonians to doubt, whether this act of the fervants frould fee their face. Upon Tresides were more worthy of reward of this occasion the attendants were dismitted, regimes were more worthy or revealt of this occasion meattens attendants were demanded, or pen illiment. In conclusion, profit fo far and the Confiprators, attitud like La iss or resigned honefty, that the deed was and their Maios, brought into the places exproved, many principal Citizens of thebar who taking advantage of the Governors condemn d to death, many driven into bar loofe behaviour, flew the mail con the inctiliment, and the Traitors rewarded with den with Daggers, which they brought heathe Government of the City: by who'e au den under their garments. Then prefently troity, and the force of the Carrifon, the casting off their difguife, they went to other The art were compelled to terve the Lace- places, where feigning themselves to come demonstrati, in all, and more than all that they to the Governours upon business, they got could require. This access of power having admittance, and likewise flew those which trengthened the Lacedamorians, cauled were of the Lacedemorian faction. By the then to entertain the greater forces about like device they brake into the Prifon, flew Opullus, (which not with Ita: ding the loss of the Gaeler, and fet at liberty fach as they one great Battel, and some other disafters) thought meet; and being followed by these desperate men, proclaimed liberty, making the death of the Tyrants known. The Caprain of the Caftle hearing the fueden Froclamation, thought the Rebels to be itronger than indeed they were : the Citizens contrariwife mistrusted, has it was a practice ro discover such as would b forward upon occasion of revolting. But as 100n as day-A Fter this Olynthian War, which endured light revealed the plaintruth all the people A almost three years, it seemed that no took Arms and belieged the Cattle, sending Effate in Greece was able to make head hastily to Athens for succour. The Garriton against that of Sparta: but it was not long all o tent for aid unto the Towns adjoyning, tre the Thebans found a means to thake off whence a few broken troops coming to the their yoak, and gave both example and refeue, were defeated on the way by the means to others to do the like. One of the horfe-men of Thebes. On the other tide, the banisht men found by conference with a banished Thebans did not only make speed Scribe of the Theban Magistrates, coming to to assist their Country-men, but procured Athens, that the tyranny wherewith his some Athensans to joyn with them, & there-Country was oppressed, pleased him no bet- by came so strong into the City, that the ter than it did those, who for fear of it were Castle was yielded, more through fear than fed from home. Whereupon a plet was laid any neteflity, upon condition that the Soulbetween their two, that foon found very diers might quietly depart with their Arms; good success, being managed thus. Seven of for which composition, the Captain at his the banished men forlook Athens privily, return to sparta was put to death. When and entred by night into the fields of Thobes; the news of the doings at Thebes, and the where spending the next day secreely, they successarived at Sparta, an Army was raised came lare in the evening to the Gates like forthwith and all things prepared as earnelthusband-men returned from work, and fo ly for the recovering of that City, as it some palied undiscovered unto the house of Cha- part of their ancient Inheritance had been red to her own liberty. Cleombrotus, one of attempt upon the Haven of Athens; which the Kings, was fent on this Expedition, who failing to take, he wasted the Country adhaving wearied his followers with a toilfom joyning, and drave away Cattel, caufing by Winters journey, returned home without this outrage the Athenians to enter with all the Thebans 3 who doing them fome displea- they might possibly withdraw themselves.

Athenians

Town perfidioufly usurped by them, resto-fures, made large amends by a foolish any good or harm done; leaving sphodries, their power into the war, out of which they with part of his Army, at Thefpres, to infeft were before very carefully feeking how

CHAP. XII.

Of the flourishing Estate of Thebes, from the Battel of Leuctra, to the Battel of Mantinaa.

ø. I.

How Thebes and Athens joyned together against Sparta. How the Athenians made peace for themselves, and others, out of which the Thebans were excluded. The Battel of Leuctra. and beginning of the Theban greatness.

difinonourable Rule they held, That Alkens, and finding themselves, whilest earl respects with standing the commodity of gaged in such a War, unable to relieve Sparta were to be neglected; the practice their complaining friends, refolved to fettle of which Doctrine, even by the best and wi- the assairs of Greece, by renewing that form fest of them, did greatly blemish that Estate: of peace which antalcides had brought but when it was put in execution by infuf- from the Persian. Wherefore they sent ficient over-weening men, it feldom failed Messengers to Thebes, peremptorily signito bring upon them, instead of profit un-justly expected, both shame and loss. And the War, to which purpose they willed to it belell them in these enterprizes of the Thebans to send Embassadors along Thebidas, upon the Castle of Thebes, and with them to Sparta; who readily consphodriss upon the Piraus. For, howfoever descended, fearing otherwise that they Acestland did spoil the Country about Thebes, should be left out of the Treaty of Peace: ftronger than they were at the first.

abroad, failing to the Isle of Coregra, where did foon agree; but when the Thebans offerthey ordered things at their pleasure, and ed to swear to the Articles in the name of having in some fights at Sea prevailed, be- the Baotians, Agestlaus required them to gan, as in the Peloponnesian War, to surround swear in their own name, and to leave the Peloponnesus with a Navy; afflicting so the Beotians free, whom they had lately redu-Lacedamonians, that, had not the Thebans by cedunder their obedience. Whereunto Epatheir infolency wearied their friends, and minondas made answer, That the City of great Estates) left the City of sparta as but was heard with no patience: for Agest-

He Lacedamonians were men of great perceiving how Thebes encroached every refolution, and of much gravity day upon her weak Meighbours, not spain all their proceedings; but one ring fuch as had been dependants upon in which he spent two Summers, yet the which came to pass, being so wrought by diligence of the Thebans repaired all, who the couragious wisdom of Epaminondas, who by the good fuccess of some attempts, grew understood it far better than his Countrymen, what was to be feared or hoped. In this The Athenians likewife began to look Treaty the Lacedamonians and Athenians caused them to seek for peace, it had been sparts should give example to Thebes by setvery likely that the end of this War, should ting the Laconians free; for that the Signiohave foon come to a good end, which ry of Buotia did by as good right appertain nevertheless, being profecuted by the The- to the Thebans; as that of Laconia to the bans (who opposed at once both these two spartans. This was well and truly spoken; much dejected, as the beginnings found it laws bearing a vehement hatred unto those proud and tyrannous. But the Athenians of Thebes, by whom he was drawn back out of Aliainto Greece, and disappointed of all rated at Athens; where the general liberty the glory which he had hoped to atchieve of all Towns, as well fmall as great, was by the Persian War, did now passionately ratified under the stile of the Athenians, and errethat point of fetting the Beotians at li- their affociates. Hereupon began fresh garherry; and finding it as obstinately refused, boils. The Mantineans, claiming power by hedalht the name of the Thebans out of the this Decree to order their affairs at their league. At the fame time Cleombrotus the own pleasure, did (asit were) in despight of the Thebans with all his power; which he affected to Sparta. The Arcadians, a strong and effeminate.

ø. 11.

arising. Epaminondas invadeth and wafeth the Territory of Lacedamon.

bled the Deputies of all the estates confede- ponnesm, they received speedy assistance; the other King of Sparta, lay in Proces, who rethe spartans, who had enforced them to raze ceived command from the Governors of their Town, re-edificit, and allie themselves Sparts forthwith to enter upon the Land of with such of the Arcadians as stood worlt did, and was there flain at Leudra, and with Nation, confifting of many Cities, were him the Flower of his Army. This Battel of distracted with factions; some desiring to Leuttra, being one of the most famous that hold good correspondency with the Lacedeever were fought between the Greeks, was monians; some to weaken and keep them not fo notable for any circumstance fore-low; yet all pretending other ends. The going it, or for the managing of the fight it Lucedamonians durit not give impeachment felf, as for the death of the King, and many to the Mantineans, nor take upon them to Citizens of Sparta; but especially, for that correct their ill-willers among the Arcaafter this Battel (between which and the dians, till such time as the factions brake out conclusion of the general Peace, there passed into violence, and each party called in but twenty days ) the Lacedamonians were foreign help. Then was an Army fent from never able to recover the strength and re- sparta, as it were in defence of the people putation which had formerly made them re- of Tegea, against the Muntineans, but indoubted far and near: whereas contrariwife deed against them both. Agelilaus had the the The bans, whose greatest ambition had in leading of it, but effected nothing. The former times confined it felf unto the little Thebans had by this time subdued the Pho-Region of Beotia, did now begin to under- cians, and were become head of the Lotake the leading and command of many crians, Acarnanians, Eubwans, and many people and estates, in such wise, that soon others; with the power of which Countries after they brought an Army of threescore they entred Peloponnesus in favour of the and ten thousand strong unto the Gates of Arcadians, who had, up on expectation of Sparta. So much do the afflictions of an their coming, abstained from giving Battel hard War, valiantly endured, advance the to Agesslaws. The Army of the spartans beaffairs of the diffrested, and guide theminto ing dismissed, and Epaminondas joyned with the way of Conquest, by stiffening that re- the Arcadians, the Region of Laconia was infolution with a manly temper, which wealth vaded and spoiled : a thing to strange, that no and ease had through luxury, retchlesness, Oracle could have found belief it any had and many other vices or vanities, made rufty to retold it. Almost 600 years were spent, lince the Dorians, under the posterity of Hercules, had feized upon Laconia; in all which time the found of an Enemies Trumpet was not heard in that Country. Ten years were How the Athenians took upon them to maintain not fully past, since all Greece was at the dethe Peace of Greece. New troubles hence votion of the Spartans : but now the Region which neither Xerxes with his huge Army could once look upon, nor the mighty forces of Athens, and other enemy-States had THe Athenians refuting to take advan- dared to set foot on, saving by stealth, was all 1 tage of this overthrow fallen upon on a light fire, the very smoak whereof the their old Enemies, and new Confederates women of sparta were ashamed to behold. the Lacedemonians, did nevertheless finely All which indignity notwithstanding, the give them to understand, that their Domi- Lacedamonians did not issue out of sparta to nion was expired, and therefore their pride fight, but fought how to preserve the Town, might well be laid away. For taking upon fetting at liberty as many of their Heilotes themselves the maintenance of the Peace or Slaves, as were willing to bear Arms in lately concluded, which Agefilaus (perhaps defence of the State, and Iomewhat pitifully of purpose to make benefit of quarrels that entreated the Athenians, to give them sucmight arise) had left unperfect, they affem- cour. From Corinth, and some Towns of Pelohaving rebuilded the City of Mossen, and numbers which they brought into the field, peopled it a new by calling home the ancient Inhabitants, whom the Lacedamonians many ages before had chated away to other Countries, possessing their Territories themfelves.

6. III.

The Composition between Athens and Spartfor command in War against the Thebans who again moade and spoil Teloponnesus The unfortunate presumption of the Arcadians.

This journey therefore utterly defaced the regutation of the Spartans, in fuch wife, that they did no longer demand the conduct of the Army, which was to be raifed, nor any manner of precedence: but fending Emballadors from Sparta, and from all the Cities which held league with it, unto Athens, they offered to yield the Admiralty to the Athenians, requesting that they themselves might be Generals by Land. This had been a composition well agreeing with the fituation and quality of those two Cities but it was rejected, because the Mariners and others that were to be employed at Sea, were men of no mark or eltimation, in regard of those companies of horse and foot, whereof the Land-Army was compounded who being all Gentlemen or Citizens of sittens, were to have ferved under the Lacedemonians. Wherefore it was agreed that the Authority should be divided by tim the Athenians ruling five days, the Laceda monians other five, and fo fuccessively that each of them should have command of all. both by Land and by Sea. It is manifest. that in this conclusion vain ambition was more regarded than the common profit; which must of necessity be very slowly advanced, where consultation, resolution, and performance are so often to change hands. This appeared by a fecond invasion of Feloponn fus, wherein the Thebans found their enemies fo unable to impeach them, that having fortified Isthmus from Sea to Sea, as in former times they had done against Xerxes, they were driven out of their strength by Epaminondas, who forraged the Country without resistance. But as the Articles of by dividing the conduct in such manner, Athenians came forward more flowly, fo filling the enemies heads with the like vanithat Epimanondis returned without battel, ty. For the Arcadians conlidering their own and having found by many tryals that their reople were not inferiour to others in trength of body, in courage, or in good Souldiership, thought it good reason that they should in like manner share the Government, with their friends the Thebans; and not alwayes continue followers of others, by increating whose greatness they hould strengthen their own yoke. Hereupon they began to demean themselves very infolently, whereby they grew hateful to their Neighbours, and suspected of the Thebans in an ill time. For, a motion of general peace having been made (which took not effect, because the City Mellene was not abandoned to the Lacedemonians) the next enterprize of the spertans and their friends was upon these Areadians, who relying too much upon their own worth, were overthrown in a great battel, their calamity being as pleasing to their Confederates, as to their Enemies.

ø. IV.

The great growth of the Theban Estate. Embasfages of the Greeks to the Pertian, with the reasons why he most favou ed the Thebans. Troubles in the Pertian Empire. The fruitlessifine of the Embassages.

Tile Thebans, especially rejoyced at the Arcaciuns mistortune, considering, hat without their aid, the success of all enerrizes proved to ill; whereas they themfelves had by their own power accomplished very well whatfoever they took in hand, and were become not only victorious over the Laceda nonians, but Patrons over the Theffalonians, and moderators of great quarrels that had rifen in Macedonia; where compounding the differences about that Kingdom, as pleased them best, they carried Philip the Son of Amyntas, and father of Alexander the Great, as an Hostage unto Thebes. Having therefore obtained fuch reputation, that little feemed wanting to make them absolute Commanders of all Greece, they fought means of alliance with the Persian King, to whom they sent Embasfador the great and famous Captain Pelopidas, whose reputation drew Artaxerxes to this league between Athens and Sparta did, grant unto the Thebans all that they defired; whereof two especial points were, That disable the Society, and make it insufficient Messene should remain free from the Lacede to thole ends for which it was concluded; fo monians, and that the Athenians should forthe example of it wrought their good, by bear to fend their hips of War to Sea; only

CHAP. XII. the latter of these two was somewhat quali-these times; in that great rebellion of all the field with reference to further advice. The Maritimate Provinces. For had then the other States of Greece did also fend their affairs of Greece been so composed, that any Imballadors at the fame time, of whom few one City might without empeachment of on none received much contentment. For the the reft have transported an Army to affilt King having found by long experience, how the revolting Satrape, or Vice-roses of Caria. first concerned him to maintain a fure par- Phrygia, Lydia, Mylia, Lydia, Fifidia, Pamphyry in Greece, did upon many weighty coali- lia, Cilicia, Syria, and Phanicia; humane derations resolveto bind the Thebans firmly reason can hardly find the means, by which unto him 3 justly expecting, that their great- the Empire could have been preferred from ness should be on that side his own security. that ruine, which the Divine Counsel had The Athenians had been ancient Enemies to deferred unto the days of Alexander. But his Crown; and having turned the profit of this great Conspiracy of so many large and their victories upon the Perfians to the pur- wealthy Provinces, wanting a firm body of chase of a great Estate in Greece, maintained good and hardy Souldiers, was in thort space their Signiory in such puissant manner, that discussed, and vanished like a mist, without (fundry grievous misfortunes notwith- effect: these effeminate Asiatiques, wearied flanding) they had endured a terrible War, quickly with the travels and dangers inciwherein the Lacedamonians being followed dent to War, for taking the common cause, by most of the Greeke, and supplied with and each man striving to be the first, that by treasure, and all forts of aid by Darius No- treason to his company should both redeem thus, were not able to vanquish them till the former treason to his Prince, and purtheir own indiferetion brought them on chase withal his own promotion with eatheir knees. The Lacedemonians being victo- crease of riches. Of this commotion, which rious over Athens, had no sooner established in course of time followed some actions not their Dominion at home, than they under- as yet related, I have rather chosen to make took the Conquest of Asia, from which short mention in this place, than hereaster though by the commotion raifed in Greece to interrupt the Narration of things more with Persian gold, they were called back, yet important; but for that it was like a sudden having renewed their power, and letled ftorm, rashly commenced, idly followed, things in Greece, it was not unlikely, that and foolishly laid down, having made a they should upon the next advantage have puriod the same enterprize, had not they reference to any other action agreeable; as been empeached by this Theban War. But also because in the whole reign of Artaxthe Thebans contratiwise had always disco- erxes, from the War of Cyrus to the invasion vered a good affection to the Crown of Per- of Egypt, I find nothing (this insurrection, fis. They had sided with Xerxes in his inva- and a truitless journey against the Cadulians lion of Greece; with Darius and the Lacede excepted) worthy of any mention, much less monians against Athens: And finally, having of digression from the course of the business offered much contumely to Agefilian when in Greece. All, or the most of his time passed he put to Sea, they drew him home by ma away fo quietly, that he enjoyed the pleaking War on the Confederates of Sparta. fures which an Empire fo great and wealthy beneficial to the Estate of Persia shortly after things were to be measured and adjudged

Besides all these their good deservings, they could afford unto such an absolute Lord, with wereno Seamen, and therefore unlikely to little disturbance. The troubles which he look abroad; whereupon if perchance they found were only, or chiefly, Domestical; should have any defire; yet were they dii-growing out of the hatred which Parylatic abled by the want of good Haven-Towns; the Queen-Mother bare unto his wife Stawhich they could not feize upon without irra, and to fuch as had been the greatest open breach of that peace, whereof they in- enemies to her Son Cyrus, or gloried in his tended to become the Executors, giving li- death: upon whom, when by poylon and berty to all Cities that had at any time been mischievous practices she had satisfied her free. Wherefore Artaxerxes did wholly teminine appetite of revenge, thenceforth condescend unto the requests of Pelopidas, as she wholly applied herself to the Kings diffarforth as he might, without giving open polition, cherishing in him the lewd defire of defiance to the rest of Greece; and by that marrying his own Daughter, and filling him mean he purchased his own quiet, being ne- with the perswasion, which Princes not enver afterward molested by that Nation in dued with an especial grace, do readily enthe lower Asia. The ill means which the tertain; That his own will was the supreme Greeks had to disturb Artaxerxes, was very law of his subjects, and the rule by which all Kkkk 2

to be good or evil. In this imaginary hap- Estates of these two Cities, was brought very pine's Peleridas, and the other Embaliadors low, did now conjoyn their forces against of Greece, buth found and left him; but left the Thebans, who fought to make themselves him by to much more affured than they Lords of all. The Eleans, Corinthians, and found him, by how much the conclusion of Achaians, followed the party of these ancient this Treaty with them, being altogether to Governing Cities; either for the old reputales own a watage, did feem to promie, if tion of them, and benefits received, or in ros the perpetuity, a long endurance of the diffike of those, who by strong hand were tions felicity to him and his, or (at the leaft) ready to become Rulers, to which authority a fill security of danger from Greec, whence they could not fuddenly afpire without fome only could any danger be feated. But fuch injury and much envy. The City of Theles tour ations or eternity hid by mortal men abounding with men, whom necessity had in this transitory world, like the Tower of made warlike, and many Victories in few Lidel, are other shaken from heaven, or years had filled with greatspirits; and being prace vain and unprolimble, ere the frame to mighty independents, that the had reducan be taited to full height, by confusion of ced all the continent of Greece without Pelotargues among the builders. Hereof was ponnelus (the Region of Attica, and very littound a good example in the Thebant, and the part belide, excepted) under fuch acother idiates of Greece that had fent Embal-knowledgement, as wanted not much of faiors to the Person. For whereas it had meer Vasiallage, did hope to bring all Peloben concluded, that all Towns, as well the ponness to the like obedience, wherein allattle as the great, should be fet at liberty, ready she had set good footing by her conand the Thehans made Protectors of this junction with the States of Argos, and of Acommon peace, who thereby should become cadia. The Argives had been always bad the Judges of all Controversies that might Neighbours to the Spartans, to whom they arite, and Leaders in War of all that would thought themselves in ancient Nobility Suenter into this Confederacy 5 the Kings let- periors, but were far under them in valour, tersbeing tolerally publithed at Thebes; in having been often beaten out of the field by the presence of Embassadors drawn thi- them, and put in danger of losing all: which ther from all parts of Greece: when an oath caused them to suspect and envy nothing was required for observation of the form of more than the greatness and honour of peace therein fet down, a dilatory answer sparta, taking truce with her when the was was made by the Emballadors, who faid, at rest, and had leisure to bend her whole that they were fent to hear the articles, not force against them ; but firmly joyning with to fwear unto them. Hereby the Thebans were driven to fend unto each of the Cities rangled in a difficult War. As the Argines to require the Oath ; but in vain. For when the Corinthians had boldly refused it, saying, that they did not need it; others took courage by their example to do the like, difapto whom this negotiation with Artaxerxes gave neither addition nor confirmation of greatness, but left them as it found them to relye upon their own fwords.

ø. V.

Athenians and Lacedemonians on the one fide, and Thebans on the other. of the great tumults arising in Arcadia.

ers into a cruel and intestine War, by which found that howsoever these Arcadians were the whole Country, and especially the enemies to the Lacedemonians, they should her enemies whensoever they found her enwere, in hatred of Sparta, fure friends of Thebes, fo the Arcadians, transported with a great opinion of their own worthiness, had formerly renounced and provoked against pointing the Thebans of their glorious hopes, them their old Confederates and Leaders, the Lacedamonians, and were now become very doubtful adherents to the Thebans. In which regard, it was thought convenientby Epaminondas and the State of Thebes, to fend an Army into Peloponnesus, before fuch time as these wavering friends should fall further off, and become either Neutral, or, which was How all Greece was divided between the to be feared, open enemies. And furely great cause there was to suspect the worst of them, considering that without consent of the Thebans, they had made peace with Athens, which was very strange, and seemed no less He condition of things in Greece at to the Athenians themselves, who holding a that time did stand thus. athens and firm league with sparta at the same time Sparta, which in former times had com- when the Arcadians treated with them, did manded all that Nation, and each upon envy nevertheless accept this new Confederacy, of the others greatness drawn all their follow not relinquishing the old, because they of the History of the World.

Corinth, which lay upon the Ifthmus, and had been adverse to Thebes, was now, by mise-Neutral) took occasion hereby, and by fome diforders among the Arcadians, to vifit hereby be drawn fomewhat further from other hope of fecuring their own Effare their alliance with Theber, which without could not be thought upon) did now very them was unlikely to invade Peloponness gently yield to the Arcadians, that the conwith a strong Army. But this did rather ha- mand of the Army in chief, should be given tien, than by any means ftay the coming of forthe time to that City in whole Territory Framinondas; who finding the way fome- it lav. what more clear for him (because the City of

ø. VI.

pecul autorities of this grievous War, driven to become A terrible Invasion of Peloponnesus by Eparics of this grievous War, driven to become minoudas.

tome anothers among the meaning of all releponness with an Army, confisting of all the power of Thebes. A great tumult had did at that time require a very firm rifen in Arcadia about consecrated money, consent, and uniform care of the common which many principal men among them had fafety. For, befide the great forces raifed out which many principal men among them had ladely rol, being the greatforces raised out laid hands on, under pretence of employ- of the other parts of Greece, the Argives and ingit to publick uses. In compounding the Messenger with all their strength differences grown upon this occasion, such to joyn with Epaminondas; who having as had least will to render account of the lyen a while at Nemea, to intercept the Ather money which had come into their hands, pro- nians, received their intelligence, that the cured the Captain of fome Theban Souldiers, Army coming from Athens would pass by lying in Tegea, to take prisoners many of Sea, whereupon he dislodged, and came to their Countrymen, as people desirous of in- Tegea, which City, and the most of all Areanovation. This was done, but the uproar dia besides, forthwith declared themselves thereby caused was so great, that the priso- his. The common opinion was, that the first ners were forthwith enlarged, and the Arca- attempt of the Thebans, would be upon such dians, who had in great numbers taken of the Arcadians as had revolted; which Arms, with much ado scarce pacified. When caused the Lacedamonian Captains to forticomplaint of the Captains proceedings came fie Mantinea with all diligence, and to fend to Thebes, Epimanondas turned all the blame for Agestians to Sparta, that he bringing with upon them, who had made the peace with him all that small force of able men which Albens, letting them know, that he would remained in the Town, they might be ftrong be shortly among them to judge of their enough to abide Epaminondas there. But fidelity, by the affiltance which they should Epaminondas held so good espial upon his givehim, in that War which he intended to Enemies, that, had not an unknown fellow make in Peloponnesus. These Lordly words brought hasty advertisement of his purpose did greatly amaze the Arcadians; who to Agestians, who was then well onward in needing not the aid of fo mighty a power as the way to Mantines, the City of Sparta he drew along with him, did vehemently had suddenly been taken. For thither with suspect that great preparation to be made all speed and secrecy did the Thebans march, against themselves. Hereupon such of them who had surely carried the City, notwithas had before sought means to settle the af- standing any defence that could have been fairs of their Country, by drawing things to made by that handful of men remaining fome good conclusion of peace, did now withinit, but that Agesilans in all flying hafte forthwith fend to Athens for help, and with all dispatched some of the principal among Army of his Confederates followed thither them as Embassadors to Sparta, by whom to the rescue as fast it was able. The arrival they offered themselves to the common de- of the Lacedamonians and their friends, as it fence of Peloponnesus, now ready to be inva- cut off all hope from Epaminondas, of taking ded. This Embassage brought much comfort | Sparta, so it presented him with a fair advanto the Lacedemonians, who feared nothing tage upon Mantinea. It was the time of Harmore than the coming of Epaminondas, well, which made it very likely, that the against whom they well knew, that all their Mantineans, finding the War to be carried forces, and best provisions, would be no more from their walls into another quarter, would than very hardly sufficient. Forbearing use the commodity of that vacation, by therefore to dispute about prerogatives, they tetching in their Corn, and turning out their (who had been accustomed unto such a su- Cattel into the fields, whilst no enemy was Premacy, as they would in no wife communear, that might impeach them. Wherefore nicate with the powerful City of Athens, till he turned away from sparta to Mantinas, fending his horsemen before him, to seize, courage in their first growth, and leave some upon all that might be found without the memorable character of his Expedition, re-City. The Mantineans (according to the folved to give them Battel, whereby he reaexpectation of Epaminondas) were feattered fonably hoped both to fettle the doubtful abroad in the Country, far more intent up- affections of his own Affociates, and to leave on their Harvest business, than upon the war, the Spartans as weak in spirit and ability, as whereof they were secure, as thinking them- he found them, if not wholly to bring them felves out of distance. By which pretumpti- into subjection. Having therefore warned on it fell out, that great numbers of them, his men to prepare for that Battel, wherein and all their Cattel, being unable to reco- Victory thould be rewarded with Lording ver the Town, were in a desperate case; and of all Greece; and finding the alacrity of his the Town it felf in no great likelihood of Souldiers to be such as promised the accomholding out, when the enemy thould have plithment of his own defire 3 he made flew takenall their provition of victuals, with fo of declining the enemy, and entrenching many of the people as had not over-dearly himself in a place of more advantage, that lo been redeemed, by that Cities returning to by taking from them all expectation of fociety with Theber. But at the same time, fighting that day, he might allay the heat of the Athenians coming to the succour of their their valour, and afterward strike their Confederates, whom they thought to have fenses with amazement, when he should found at Mantinea were very earnestly en- come upon them unexpected. This opinion treated by the Citizens to rescue their deceived him not. For with very much tugoods, and people, from the danger whereinto they were fallen, if it were possible by any couragious adventure to deliver those who other wife were given as loft. The Thebans were known at that time to be the best Souldiers of all the Greeks, and the commendation of good Horsemanship had always the Laccilemonians and their friends were been given to the Theffalians, as excelling in short or this number, both in horse and in that quality all other Nations; yet the re- foot, by a third part. The Mantineans (begard of honour fo wrought upon the Athenians, that for the reputation of their City, which had entred into this War upon no necessity of her own, but only in defire of the Acheans, Eleans, and others of less acrelieving her diffressed friend, they issued forth of Mantines, not abiding so long as to Thebans stood in the left wing of their own refresh themselves, or their Horses, with Battel, opposite to the Lacedamonians, hameat; and giving a lufty charge upon the ving by them the Arcadians, the Eubwans, enemy, who as bravely received them, after Locrians, Sicyonians, Meffenians, and Thefaa long and hot fight, they remained Masters lians, with others, compounding the main of the field, giving by this Victory a fafe Battel; the Argives held the right wing, the and easie retrait to all that were without horsemen on each part were placed in the the walls. The whole power of the Bactians arrived in the place foon after this Battel, rear. Before the footmen could joyn, the whom the Lacedemonians and their affiftants were not far behind.

CHAP.XII

ø. VII.

by some notable act he should abate their tel in the rear, they brake upon them, routed mult, as in so great and sudden a danger, the enemy ran to Arms, necessity enforcing their refolution and the confequence of that days fervice, urging them to do as well as they might. The theban Army confifted of thirty thousand foot, and three thousand horse; cause the War was in their Country) stood in the right wing, and with them the Lacedemonians; the Athenians had the left wing; count, filled the body of the Army. The flanks, only a troop of the Eleans were in the encounter of the horfe on both fides was very rough, wherein finally the Thebans prevailed, notwithstanding the valiant refistance of the Athenians: who, not yielding to the enemy either in courage or skill, were The great Battel of Mantina: The honourable overlaid with numbers, and so beaten upon death of Epimanondas, with bis commenda- by Theffalian flings, that they were driven to forfake the place, and leave their infantery naked. But this retrait was the less disgrace-Paminondas, considering that his Com- ful, because they kept themselves together, mission was almost now expired, and and did not fall back upon their own footthat his attempts of surprizing sparta and ment; but finding the Theban horse to have Mantinea having failed, the impression of given them over, and withal discovering terror which his name had wrought in the lome Companies of foot, which had been fent Peloponnesians, would soon vanquish, unless about by Epimanondas, to charge their Batthem, and hewed them all in pieces. In the two of Fpimanondas, who being in the head them, and newed circuit and the Athenians had of that Warlike troop of men, which broke mean learon the batter of the Arginer, but was the Lacedemonians squadron, and forced it and only to do with Theban Hortemen, in to give back in diffaray, was furfoully charharmy picace by the first the begun to open, and was reasonable fundamentally, was ruriounly char-nech wife that it begun to open, and was reasonable fundamentally, was ruriounly charhechwhethat it began to open, and had to get of the spartans, who all at once threw their dy to turn back, when the Elean iquadron of the spartans, who all at once threw their dy to turn back, when the relief of it, and refto-Her ecame up to the relief of it, and refto-Hor exame up to the largerester vio- ny wounds, he nevertheless, with a lingular red anon true particles, with a fingular lence did the Lacedamonians and Thebans courage, manitained the fight, using against leace did the Laceston for Dominion, the the enemies many or their Dare, which he meet, there concerning to their ancient drew out of his own body; till at length by other for that equal courage, and equal a Spartin, called interates, he received to honour, to that equal the hope and appear violent a stroke with a Darr, that the wood lots on outcomes and their equally doubt- of it brake, leaving the iron and piece of ranceor victor, to the Lacedamonians being the trunchion in his breaft. Hereup in he hat; unicos persons and treem the more like-funk down, and was foon conveyed out of very min access, and bearing born the first brunt the fight by his friends; having by his fall by toprevails as maring over the on-fet, which was not hi-fomewhat animated the spartam, who fain and may of the control and being framed by dif-would have got his body) but much were inthere remittee and being manner of the flamed with revengeful indignation, the becipane, as it were the Thebans, by practice of a bans, who raging at his heavy mileh me. did nence, where cannot be thought to have got with great flaughter compel their diforderten shabit to ture and general. But Epami- ed enemies to leave the field; though long tenantion to title and solitinate stiffness of they followed not the chase, being wearied the Exemies to be fuch, as neither the bad more withthe fadness of this di after, than the Englands of their own horse, nor all the force with all the travel of the day. Examinondas nuccersor their Army, could abate fo far, as being brought into his Tent, was told by the to make them give one foor of ground sta- Physicians, that when the head of the Dart to make them give one fitte moit able men, should be drawn out of his body, he must whom he cast into the form of a Wedge, or needs dye. Hearing this, he called for his Diamond, by the advantage of that figure thield, which to have loft, was held a great against a squadron, and by his own exceed-dishonor: It was brought unto him. He again a iquation, and by its the great bade them tell him, which part had the Viing virtue, accompanies which fol- ctory; answer wasmide, that the Bestians behind their Army, and the retaining of Leudra and Mantinas were two fair daughtheir dead bodies; it was a ceremony re- ters, in whomhis memory should live. gardable only among the Greeks, and served So died Epaminondar, the worthiest man meerly for oftentation, thewing that by the that ever was bredin that Nation of Greece, fight they had obtained fomewhat, which and hardly to be matched in any Age or the enemy could not get from them other- Countrey: for he equalled all others in the wife than by request. But the Thebans arri- several virtues, which in each of them were vedat the general immediate end of the bat- fingular. His Justice and Sincerity, his Temtel; nonedaring to abide them in the field perance, Wildom, and high Magnanimity, whereof a manitest confession is expressed were no way inferiour to his Military virfrom them, who forfook the place which tue; in every part whereof he fo excelled, they had chosen or accepted, as indifferent that he could not properly be called a Wafor trial of their ability and prowess. This ry, a Valiant, a Politick, a Bountiful, or an was the laft work of the incomparable vir- Industrious, and a Provident Captain, Neilowedhim, did open their ranks, and cleave had won the field. Then faid he, It is a fair the whole Battel in despight of all resistance. time for me to dye; and withal sent for Thus was the honour of that day won by Iolidas and Diophontes, two principal men of the Thebans, who may justly be faid to have War, that were both Ilain: which being told carried the Victory, feeing that they remain him he advised the Thebans to make peace, ed Mafters of the ground whereon the Bat- whilst with advantage they might, for that tel was fought, having driven the Enemy to they had none left that was able to dicharge lodge farther off. For that which was al- the office of a General. Herewithal he willedged by the Atheniums, as a token that the led, that the head of the weapon should be Vidory was partly theirs, the flaughter of drawn out of his body, comforting his those Mercenaries upon whom they lighted triends that lamented his death, and want of by chance in their own flight, finding them iffue, by telling them, that the Victorics of ther was his private conversation unanswer-, offend her Neigbours, and therefore might able to those high parts, which gave him well be allowed to shew that anger in cepraise abroad. For he was Grave, and yet remonies, which had no power to declare it very Affable and Courteous; resolute in pub- self in execution. This Peace, as it gave lick butiness, but in his own particular ea- ome breath and refreshing to all the Counfie, and of much mildness: a lover of his try, so to the Cities of Athens and Sparta it people, bearing with mens infirmities, witty afforded leifure to feek after wealth by foand pleatant in speech, far from intolence. reign employment in Egypt, whither Agelilams Mafter of his own affections, and furnished was sent with some small Forces to assist, or with all qualities that might win and keep indeed as a Mercenary, to ferve under Tachos love. To these graces were added great King of Egypt in his War upon Syria. Chabriability of body, and much Eloquence, and as the Atheman, who had before commandvery deep knowledge in all parts of Philoso ed under Acoris King of Egypt, went now as phy and Learning, wherewith his mind being enlightened, refled not in the sweetness raise, by entreaty, and offer of good pay to of Contemplation, but brake forth into fuch the same service. These Egyptian Kings deeffects as gave unto Theber, which had ever- cended from Amyrtam of Sais, who rebelmore been an underling, a dreadful repu- led against Darius Nothus, having retained tation among all people adjoyning, and the the Country, notwithstanding all intestine highest command in Greece.

of the History of the World.

632

6. VIII.

Of the Peace concluded in Greece after the Buttel of Mantinæa. The Voyage of Agefilaus into Egypt. His death, and qualities; with an examination of the comparison made between him and Pompey the Ro-

His Battel of Mantinga was the greateft that had ever been fought in that Countrey between the Naturals; and the last. For at Maranthon, and Platea, the populous Armies of the barbarous Nations gave rather a great fame, than a hard trial to the Grecian valour; neither were the practice of good of his own Countrey, though it feem Arms and Art Military, fo perfect in the be- rather, that he grudged because the King ginnings of the Peloponnesian War, as long took upon himself the conduct of the Army, continuance, and daily exercise had now using his service only as Lieutenant, who had made them. The times following produced made full account of being appointed the no actions of worth or moment, those excep- General. Howsoever it came to pass, Tated, which were undertaken against foreign chos being shamefully betrayed by them, in enemies, proving for the most part unfortu- whom he had reposed his chief confidence, nate. But in this last fight all Greece was in- fled unto the Persian, who upon his submis-

a Voluntary, with fuch Forces as he could diffentions, and foreign invafions, during three Generations of their own race, were so well acquainted with the valour of the Greeks, that by their help (cally procured with gold) they conceived great hope, not only to affure themselves, but to become Lords of the Provinces adjoyning, which were held by the Persian. What the issue of this great enterprize might have been, hadit not fallen by Domestical Rebellion, it is uncertain. But very likely it is, that the Rebel-I on it felf had foon come to nothing, if Agefilans had not proved a falle Traytor, joyning with Nettanebus, who role against his Prince, and helping the Rebel with that Army which the money of Tachos had waged. This falshood Agefilass excused, as tending to the tereffed, which never had more able fouldiers fion gave him gentle entertainment; and and brave Commanders, nor ever contended Nettanebu (who feems to have been the Nefor Victory with greater care of the success, phew of Tachos) reigned in his stead. At or more obstinate resolution. All which, the same time the Citizens of Mendes had set notwithstanding, the issue being such as hath up another King; to whom all, or most of been related, it was found best for every the Egyptians yielded their obedience. But particular Estate, that a general Peace descitain fighting with him in places of adshould be established, every one retaining vantage, prevailed so far, that he left Nedawhat he presently had, and none being for- nebus in quiet possession of the Kingdom; ced to depend upon another. The Messenians who in recompence of his Treason to the wereby name comprized in this new league; former King Tachos, and good service done which caused the Lacedemonians not to en- to himself, rewarded him with two hundred ter into it. Their standing out hindred not and thirty Talents of silver, with which the rest from proceeding to conclusion, con- booty sailing homewards, he died by the fidering that sparta was now too weak to way. He was a Prince very temperate, and from coveronines, and not reproached with Town in Greece, had made a War in Alia. any blemin of Juit; which praites are the and medled in the butiness of the Feyptians, any declarable in him, for that the discipline in which variety he went beyond all his of sparta was fuch as did endue every one of Predecellors: yet not winning any Counof sparia was near assisted away by the vio-tice Gaucas (not carried away by the vio-ticat forcam of anill nature) with all, or the chart of these good qualities. He was ne-chart of these good qualities. He was neverthelels very arrogant, perverse, unjust them was the last great Captain which his and vain-glorious, measuring all things by Nation brought forth in time of liberty, and hoom will, and obstinately profecuting each of them ruined the liberty of his Counhistoric courses, whose ends were beyond try by his own Lordly wiltulness. We may hope. The Expedition of Xenophon had fil-therefore well fay, Similia magis omnia quam hallim with an opinion, that by his hand paria; the resemblance was nearer than the the empire of Persia should be overthrown; equality. Indeed the freedom of Rome was with which conceit being transported, and lost with Pompey, falling into the hands of finding his proceedings interrupted by the cafar, whom he had intorced to take Arms; Thebans and their Allies, he did ever after yet the Roman Empire stood, the form of hear fuch hatred unto Thebes, as compelled Government only being changed: But the were before him; so Agestlaus had at one things, in any other Nation.

valuate, and a good teader in War, free time or other fome quarrel with every that Estate by meer necessity to grow war- liberty of Greece, or Sparta it self, was not like, and able, to the utter diffionour of forfeited unto the Thebans, whom Agefilans sp.nta, and the irrepayarble loss of all her had compelled to enter into a Victorious former greatness. The commendations given War; yet the Signiory, and ancient renown to him by Xenophon his good friend, have of Sparta was prefently loft; and the freecauled Plutarch to lay his name in the bal- dom of all Greece being wounded in the Thelance against Pompey the great; whose acti- ban War, and after much blood lost, ill healons (the folemn gravity of carriage except- ed by the Peace enfuing, did very foon, uped) are very diffroportionble. Yet we on the death of Agefilans, give up the ghoft, may truly fay, That as Pompey made great and the Lordinip of the whole Country was Wars under fundry Climates, and in all the feized by Philip King of Macedon, whose Provinces of the Roman Empire, exceeding actions are now on foot, and more to be rein the multitude of employments all that garded than the Contemporary passages of

Finis Libri Tertia.

LIII

THE

THE FIRST PART OF THE OF THE

Intreating of the Times from the Reign of Philip of Macedon, to the Establishing of that Kingdom in the Race of Antigonus.

THE FOURTH BOOK.

CHAP. I.

Of Philip the Father of Alexander the Great, King of Macedon.

6. I. What Kings Reigned in Macedon before Philip.

vain contention for supe- them withall. riority, do still, as in fortion or each other.

fo little regarded what might come from have ferved them for a strong argument of

HE Greeks of whom weithem, who had so often forfeited the repuhave already made large tation of their Forces, as what soever could discourse, not as yet weat be spared from their own distraction at ried with intestine War, nor made wise by their font, as sufficient, to entertain and buse

CHARI

But, as it commonly falleth out with evemertimes, continue the invalion and valta- ry man of mark in the world, that they underfal, and perish by the hands and harms Against Xerxes, the greatest Monarch of which they least fear ; so fared it at this time that part of the world, they defended their with the Greeks. For of Philip of Macedon liberty, with ashappy fuccess as ever Nation had, and with no less honour, than hath ever been acquired by deeds of Arms. And violent in devouring each other, when the having had a tryal and experience more fast-growing greatness of such a Neighbour-than fortunate, against those Nations, they King; should, in regard of their own safeties,

CHAP. I. pered and made proud, raught them to neg-held it eight and twenty years. Cenus fuelett an inations but the power and purpoics of the Micedonians, because those and twenty years. Kings and States, which fate nearer them between them and this inundation, than by Perdiccas. feek to rampire and re-enforce their own fields, which by the Level of reason they ruled eight and twenty years. neight have found to have lien under it. It Philip the first, his successor, reigned eight 14/3.16 was therefore well concluded by Orofius: and twenty years. was therefore went concluded by copins. A Eropus tollowed Philip, and governed fix imperium omnes perdiderunt; The Cities of and twenty years: in whose infancy the them to command all.

faly and Epirus.

Media; Caranus of Argos, commanded by an Arustion. The like is reported by Aimo- 6 81. Oracle to lead a Colony into Macedon, de- nius of Clotarius the fon of Fredegunda. parted thence with many people: and as he Alcetas succeeded Æropus, and ruled nine was marching through that Countrey, the and twenty years. weather being rainy and tempestuous, he Ampitas the first, succeeded Alcetas, and reigned a great herd of Goats, which sled reigned sifty years; He lived a such time the storm as fast as they could, halting them as Darius Hystaspes, after his unprosperous totheir known place of covert. Whereupon return out of Segibia, fent Megabazus with Caranus, calling to mind, that he had also an Army into Europe, who in Darius name by another Oracle been directed, to follow required Amyntas to acknowledge him for 6the first troop of beasts, that should either his Supream Lord, by yielding unto him lead him, or flie before him; he purfued Earth and Water. But his Embassadors, as thee Goats to the Gates of Edalfa, and being you have heard before, were for their info-City without resistance, and possess it. Soon was the son of Amyutas, and his Successor.

union and accord. But the glory of their after this, by the overthrow of Ciffeus, Cara-range union and accord. But the giory of their mist client, by the overthrow of cijent, Cara-rent perfus victories, wherewith they were pam-nus became Lord of the relt of Macedon, and Canada an let all Nations but themselves, and the ra-

Perdiccas the first, the fon of Tyrimas 20than they did, had in the time of Anyntas, the one and fifty years: a Prince, for the father of Philip, so much weakned them, his great valour and many other virtues, and won upon them, that they were not (as much renowned: Solimus, Pliny, Juftine, Eu. salata and won upon them, million and febius, Theophilus, Antiochenus, and others, Philipsis at the Greetans perswaded themselves) in any febius, Theophilus, Antiochenus, and others, Philipsis the Greetans periwated themselves, in any period, aniocomms, and others, can, one age, likely to recover their own, much affirm, that he appointed a place of burial c. 10. one age, taken to detect against their bor- for himself, and for all the Kings of Alacedeters. And, indeed, it was not in their Phideters. And, notices, it was not in their Fire looping to confider, That all great alterations are, ftorm-like, fudden and violent; and his Line and Race, as they continued to lay ons are, norm-nke, number and violence, and the land reace, as they continued to lay that it is then over-late to repair the decayed and broken banks, when great rivers are it is faid, that because Alexander the Great one fwollen, fast-running, and inraged. No, failed, therefore the posterity of the Temethe Greeky did rather imploy themselves, in nede failed in him: a thing rather devised breaking down those defences which stood after the effect, as I conceive, than foretold mperium vanes persuand, by firiting each of Illyrians invaded Macedon, and having obtained a great victory, they purfued the same The Kingdomof Macedon, fo called of to the great danger of that State. Whereup-Macedon, the fonof Ofra, or, as other Au- on the Macedonians, gathering new forces, thors affirm, of Jupiter and Æthra, is the next and resolving either to recover their former Region towards the North which border- loss or to lose at once both their Kingdom eth Greece It hath to the East, the Ege- and their King, they carried him with them an Sea; it is bounded on the North and in his cradle into the field, and returned North-west, by the Thracians and Illyrians; victorious; for they were either consident and on the South and South-west by These that their Nation could not be beaten, (their King being present ) or rather they Their Kings wereof the family of Temenue, of the race of Hercules, and by Nation man so void of honour and compassion, as rys, far Argivers who are lifted as followeth. About to abandon their natural Lord, being an In-3th Ana. Argives; who are litted as followeth. About to abandon their natural Lord, being an in-sia, and fome fix years after the translation of the fant, and no way (but by the hands of his sia, so, or, Affrian Empire, Ambaces then governing fervants) able to defend himself from de-Amarica.

Argans succeeded unto Perdiceas, and

undifcovered by the Inhabitants, by reason lent behaviour toward the Macedonian La-HOLESS. of the darkness of the air, he entred their dies, flain by the direction of alexander, who father Amental, governed Macedon three and for- his return from the Afian expedition, to pass ty years. He did not only appeale the wrath by the way of Macedon into Greece. of Magazaw, for the flaughter of the Ferfin Embediadors by giving Gran his Sifter, Argans, and Alexander. Panjanias succeeded to Enlares of the blood of Perfia; but his father Eropus, and having reigned one by that match he grew fo great in Xer- year, he was driven out by Amyntas the fon act grace, as he obtained all that Region of Thilip, the fon of the first Perdiceas, the between the Mountains of Olympus and He- fon of Alexander the Rich; which Philip was to be united to the Kingdom of Mace was then preserved, when Archelans the don. Yet could not these benefits buy his Bastard flew his Brother Ferdiceas; his Uncle affection from the Greeks. For Kerxes being returned into Afa, and Mardonius made tas reigned (though very unquietly) four General of the Persan Army; Alexander and ewenty years; for he was not only infefors, Terdicar, dietar, and Thilip.

636

lived in the time of the Peloponnesian Wat, the other fide, the Olynthians, his Neighand reigned in all eight and twenty years. bours near the Agean Sea, made themselves The wars which he made were not much for a while Malters of Pella, the chief City remarkable: the Story of them is found of M. cedon. here and there by pieces in Thurydides his Amyntas the fecond, had by his wife Enfirst tix Locks. He left behind him two rydice the Illyrian, three fons ; Alexander fons; Perdiceas, who was very young; and the fecond, Perdiceas the third, and Philip the custody and care of Archelaus, was at se- He had also by his second wife Gyeen, three ven years of age cast into a well and drown- Sons; Archelaus, Argaus, and Menelaus, afed by his false Guardian : who excusing terward flain by their Brother Philip. He this fact to Gleopatra the Mother of the had more by a Concubine, Ftolomy firnamed young King, faid, That the child in following | Alorites, of the City of Alorus, whereinhe a Goole haltily, fell thereinto by miladven- was born. ture. But Archelaus stayed not here : for having thus dispatched his brother, he slew above one year, in which time he was invaboth his Uncle Alcetas the fon of Alexan- ded by Paufanias, the fon of Eropus, but der the Irich, and Alexander the fon of this defended by Iphicrates the Athenian, while Alcetas, his Coufin Germain, and enjoyed he was at that time about Amphipolis. He the Kingdom of Macedon himfelf four and was also constrained (for the payment of twenty years.

Archelans, who was base-born.

Aristotle make mention, though he made who had subjected his Father Amyntas to himself King by wicked murder, yet per- the payment of tribute. After this, Alexanformed many things greatly to the profit der being invited by the Alevade against of his Nation. It is faid, That he fought by Alexander the Tyrant of Pheres in Theffaly, all means to draw Socrates unto him, and having redeemed his brother Philips to draw that he greatly loved and honoured Eury- the Thebans to his affiltance, entred into Conpides the Tragedian. He had two fons, federacy with Pelopidas being at that time in Archelaus and Oreltes.

Archelaus the fecond succeeded his Father; and having reigned feven years, he was for the gage of his promifes to Pelopidas. flain in hunting, either by chance, or of But Eurydice his Mother falling in Jove with purpole, by Crataus.

years: the same who denied passage to Perdiccas the brother of Alexander. Diodore

Alexander funamed the Rich, the fon of Agofilaus King of sparia, who defired, after

This Uliuper left three fons, Paulanias, 102 alcetas, and his fon Alexander. This Amn. acquainted the Graks with all his intents Ited by Panfanias, affifted by the Thracians. and supplies against them. He had three and by his Erother Argans, incouraged by the Illyrians; and by the faid Argans, for Perdicus the second, the fun of Alexander, two years dispossest of Macedon: but on the fecond, Father of Alexander the Great: Perdiecas the third, being delivered to and one Daughter called Euryone or Exione.

Alexander the second reigned not much great fum or mony) to leave his youngest This Archelaus, of whom both Plato and brother Philip in Holtage with the Illyrians, the same Countrey, with whom he also left Philip with divers other principal persons, her Son in Law, who had married her Orefies his younger fon was committed Daughter Euryone or Exione, practifed the to the education of Eropus of the Royal death of Alexander her son, with a purpose blood of Macedon, and had the same mea- to confer the Kingdom on her Paramour, fure which Archelaus had measured to his which Ptolomy Alorites did put in execution: Pupil; for Eropus murthered him and usur- by means whereof, he held Macedon for ped the Kingdom, which he held some fix three years, but was soon after slain by hath it otherwise of Philip being made and that the Athenians with a Florit nata it otherwise of a day nath his Father by Sea, and three thousand Souldiers by pleages and faith. That day nath his Father by Sea, and three thousand Souldiers by pienges, and tand, hoftage to the Illyrians, Land under Alantias, did beat upon homen by whom he was conveyed to Thebes, there all fides and quarters of his Country: vet to be kept: others report that Philip (while after he had practifed the men of War of to be kept. Concertifying) was first ingaged Pannonia, and corrupted them with gits: to the Thebans, and delivered for hoftage a and had also bought the King of these from second time by Alexander his brother. stories his bale Brother, governed Macedon the first, he prevented their recovery of tre years, and was then flain in a Battel Amphipolis, a City on the frontier of Macagainst the Illyrians, according to Diodorus; don: and did then purfue Argans, the 10a but jufin affirmeth, that he perished by the of Aropus, fet against him by the Athenider did.

CHAP. I.

C HAP.L

ø. II.

The beginning of Philip's Reign: and how he delivered Macedon from the troubles wherein he found it intangled.

irrufted in all knowledge requifite unto the Attica. Whereupon a peace was concluded Government of a Kingdom, in that excellent between him and the Athensans for that education which he had under Epaminon pre ent, and for this elemency he was greatdu, making an escape from Thebes, returned by renowned and honoured by all the minto Macedon, in the first year of the hun- Greeks. dred and fitth Olympiad, which was after the building of Rome three hundred fourfcore and thirteen years: and finding the many enemies and dangers wherewith the King- The good success which Philip had in many endom was invironed, he took on him, not as a King (for Perdiccas left a fon, though but aning (or terminal letters) but as the Protector of his Nephew, and Commander of the men of War. Ow had Philip leiture to look North-ward, and to attend the Officians and Yet his fruitful ambition foon over-grew his Providers, his irreconcileable Enemies and modefty, and he was eafily perfeaded by borderers: both which he invaded with for the people to accept both the title of King, prosperous success, as he slew Excelling. King and withall, the absolute rule of the King- of the Illyrians, with seven thousand of his dom. And, to fay the truth, the necessity of Nation, and thereby recovered all those the State of Macedon at that time required places which the Illipians held in Macedon: a King both prudent and active. For, be- and withal, upon the death of the king of fides the incurfions of the Illyrians and Pan- Pannonia, he piere'd that Country, and effect fon of the late Uturper, Eropus: each of than (without flaying to take longer the labouring to place in Macedon a King breath) he halted speedily towards Lariffs, destroying all before them in Macedon; of Thrace, lest while he invaded Theefaly and Paufanias, he forthwith made heal against perdices the third, after he had flain the Athenians his stiffest enemies; and, for practice of Eurydice his Mother, as alexan- ans, and followed him fo hard at the heels, in his retrait from Ages, that he forced him to abide the battel: which Argaus loft, having the greatest part of his Army flain in the place. Those of the Athenians, and others which remained unbroken, took the advantage of a firong piece of ground at hand, which though they could nor long defend, yet avoiding thereby the prefent Philip the second, the youngest fon of sury of the Souldiers, they obtained of the Vanquillers life and liberty to return into

ć. III.

terprizes.

nonians, the King of Thrace did fet up in op- a main Victory obtained, he enforced them polition, Panjania; the Athenians, Argens; to pay him tribute. This was no fooner done, of their own election. These heavy burdens upon the River Peneus in Thessaly, of which when Philip could not well bear, he bought Town he foon made himfelf Mafter; and off the weightieft by mony, and by fair pro-thereby he got good footing in that Counmiles unloaded himfelf of fo many of the try, whereof he made use in time following. reit, as he ran under the remainder happily Now although he refolved either to subdue enough. For, notwithstanding that his the Thessalians, or to make them his own brother Perdicess had his death accompani | against all others, because the horse men of ed with four thousand Macedonians, beside that Country were the best, and most reared those that were wounded and taken pri- in that part of Europe; yet he thought it most foners; and that the Pannonians were for his fafety to close up the entrances out

Greece towards the South, those ample Na- only teach Philip how he might with half a tions lying towards the North, should either hand wrest the swordout of their fingers; withdraw him, or over-run Macedon, as in but the Greeks themselves, beating down former times. He therefore attempted Am their own defences, to give him an easie pasphipolis, scated on the samous river of stri- sage; and beating themselves, to give him Crowns.

Pynda with the territory, meaning nothing lawful to invade, and destroy themat their less than that they should enjoy it, or their pleasures. own Estate, many years.

ground upon the Greeks, he took the fair same dice of hazard that Cafar after many occasion to deliver the City of Pheres in Ages following did; but had not the same The flaty, from the Tyrants Lycophron and chance. Yet they dealt well enough with Tiliphonus: who, after they had conspired all the enemies of their own Nation. And with Thebe the wife of Alexander, who usur- the better to bear out an ungracious quarped upon the liberty of that State, they rel, of which there was left no hope of comthemselves (Alexander being murdered) held position, they resolved to sack the Temple it also by the same strong hand and oppress it self. For seeing that for the ploughing of from that Alexander did, till by the affiltance a piece of Apollo's ground, they had so much of Philip they were beaten out, and Pheres offended their Neighbour-god, and their restored to her former liberty. Which act Neighbour-Nations, as worse could not be the state of the st of Philip did for ever after falten the Thef- fal them than already was intended; they Calians unto him, and, to his exceeding great resolved to take the gold with the ground, advantage, binde them to his fervice.

ø. IV.

into Greece.

Ochus, began that War, called Sacred. Now, long over the Rocks. as all occasions concur towards the executias an occanonic forward for the state of the ceding preparation, though not at the first them, and to draw others into their quarrel, easily discerned; so did this revengeful rendred themselves to the Athenians. Philip hatred by the Thebans, The falians, and Locri prepareth to get them into his hands, and at men, which partieth Thrace from Macedon; Victory without peril; left nothingunperand won it. He also recovered Pynda, and formed towards their own flavery, faving (to the North of Amphipolis) the City of the title and imposition. Of this War the Crenides (sometime Datus) and called it af- Thebans (made over-proud by their Victory ter his name, Philippi: to the people where at Leudra) were the inflamers. For at the of. Saint Paul afterward directed one of his Council of the Amphydiones, or of the ge-Epiftles This place, wherein Philippi stood, neral Estates of Greece, in which at that time is very rich in mines of gold, out of which, they swayed most, they caused both the Lagreatly to the advancement of Philips af-cedamonians and Phocians to be condemned fairs, he drew yearly a thousand talents, in greater sums of money than they could which make fix hundred thousand French well bear; the one for surprizing the Castle of Cadmea in the time of peace, the other for And that he might with the more ease ploughing up a piece of ground belonging difburden the Thracian shores of the Atheni- to the Temple of Delphos. The Phocians an Garrisons, to which he had given a great being resolved not to obey this Edict, were blow by the taking in of Amphipolis, he en- secretly set on, and encouraged by the Lacetred into league with his Fathers malicious damonians: and for refusal were exposed enemies, the Olynthians; whom the better as Sacrilegers, and accurfed to all their to falten unto him, he gave them the City of neighbour-Nations, for whom it was then

The Phocians perfwaded thereunto by Now that he might by degrees win Philomelus, a Captain of their own, cast the and either to perish for all, or to prevail against all that had commission to call them to account. The treasure which they took out of the Temple in the beginning of the Of the Phocian War which first drew Philip War, was ten thousand talents, which in those days served them to wage a great many men; and such was their successin the A Bout this time, to wit, in the second beginning of the War, as they won three year of the hundred and sixth Olympi- great battels against the Thebans, Thessalians ad, eight years after the Battel of Mantinea, and Locrians; but being beaten in the fourth, and about the eighth year of Artaxerxes their Leader Philomelus cast himself head-

In the mean while the Cities of chersoneans, conceived against the Phocians, not the siege of Methone lost one of his eyes. It is CHAP. I. direct in all on the shaft thereof: After Philippo; both braved and beaten the Macedonians. written on the mate the test of the was called that gave It is faid, that Philip having put to death find the would. This City he evened with Archelaus his half brother (for Amyntus had while runny was building ingaged in the dead, he determined to rid himself a foot thrace, and the language with new Forces, the reft) the two younger held themselves holy War, entred the themselves the reft that the second th holy war, entreed and the first state of the two younger held themselves being affilted by Onomarchus, Commander within Olynthus; and that the receiving of of the Procian Army, in place of Philomelus. them by the Olynthians was the cause of the of the rection in the phocians hoped to to enter- War, Justine affirmeth. Just quarrels are ror nereby the metals at home, as they should ballanced by just Princes, but to this King and the designation at the state of the stat not that the feeded time called into Thessar turn; all his affections, and passions, how b; but both the Thessalians and Macedoni-divers soever in other men, were in his amby; but both the Anguard were utterly over-bition swallowed up, and thereinto convertthrown by Onomarchus, and great numbers ed. For he neither forbare the murder of of both Nations lost. From Theffaly, One- his own brothers, the breach of faith, the of both Nations ion. From Englary, on this own protiers, the breach of faith, the marchine drew speedily towards Beeria, and buying of other mens sidelity: he esteemed fix thousand tlain, and three thousand tathat fied, were in part received by the Athecommanded by Cares; but the greatest therein devoured ere they recovered them. Jaly, and Pheres made free as before.

ø. V.

Of the Olynthian War. The ambitious pradices of Philip.

Rom hence Philip resolved to invade Phocis it felf, but the Athenians did not favour his entrance into those parts; and therefore with the help of the Lacedamonians, they retrench'd his passage at the long before he had wooed to his alliance, spain:). So when in the contention between laid, That he that inot him, did purpofely [and bought his peace of them. For the olynaid, I nat ne that mot aim, and that it was thians were very frong, and had evermore direct his arrow toward him, and that it was thians were very frong, and had evermore The Tyrant Lycophron before mentioned, and three other fons by Gyge.1: but Philips while philip was builted on the border of elder Brother by the fame Mother being marchus arew specially can Army brake the no place ftrong where his Ais loaden with with the lame victorious star, and took from them gold might enter; nor any City or State unforces of the Beoliani, and took from them their City of Coronea. But Philip, impatient conquerable, where a rew of the greatest, to of hislate misadventure, after he had re-en-be made greater, could lose the sense of or instance annual transport of the formed his Army, returned with all fpeed in other mens for row and fubjection. And betorced his Aimy, recall and again the honour cause he thought it vain to practise the winto suegary, there to shad was the fecond ning of Osynthus, till he had inclosed all the when ne laterly lott. and was the technology and opinions, till ne had incloded all the time encountred by Onomarchus, who power they had within their own walls, he brought into the field twenty thousand entred their Territory, and by the advantage of the control of the contr brought into the held eventy thousand parties their territory, and by the advantage, and five hundred horse. All this great tage of a well-compounded and trained Article their tages of a well-compounded and trained Article their tages of a well-compounded and trained Article their tages of a well-compounded and trained Article their tages of a well-compounded and trained Article their tages of a well-compounded and trained Article their tages of a well-compounded and trained Article their tages of a well-compounded and trained Article their tages of a well-compounded and trained Article their tages of a well-compounded and trained Article their tages of a well-compounded and trained Article their tages of a well-compounded and trained Article their tages of a well-compounded and trained Article their tages of a well-compounded and trained Article their tages of a well-compounded and trained Article their tages of a well-compounded and trained Article their tages of the tages of the tages of the tages of the tages of the tages of the tages of the tages of the tages of the tages of the tages of the tages of the tages of the tages of the tages of the tages of tages of the tages of tag root, and live influence note. The case gives have the gave them two overthrows ere he was by Philip turmounted, both in numbers late down before the City it felf: which was by runny and in good fortune, his Army overturned, done, he bought Euthicrates and Lafthenes from their people, and from the lervice of ken: of which number himfelf being one, their Countrey and Common-weale, by was among others hanged by Philip. Thole whose treason he entred the Town, slew his nim Gallies, which failed along the coaft, bitants for flaves by the drum. By the spoil number of those that took the Sea, were had treasure sufficient to buy-in other Cities withal, which he daily did. For fo was he Lycophron was now again driven out of Thef advised by the Oracle in the beginning of his undertaking, That he should make his affinits with filver spears: Whereupon Horacc well and truly faid,

> __ Diffidit Urbium Portas vir Macedo, & Subruit amulos Reges muneribus .--

By gifts the Macedon clave Gates afunder, And Kings envying his estate brought under.

Har Cur.

(ti. 16.

And it is true, that he won more by cor-Streits of Thermopplis. Whereupon he re-ruption and fraud, than he did by force. For turned into Macedon, and after the taking ashe had in all the principal Cities of Greece ot Micherne, Torone, and other Towns, he his fecret workers (which way of Conquest quarrelled with the Olynthians, whom not was well followed by Philip the second of the Competitors had Arbitrator; he came not the superintendency of the Pytian games. to the Council accompanied with Piety and forfeited by the Corinthians, by being par-Justice, but with a powerful Army, and takers in the Phocian facrilege. having beaten and flain both Kings, gave fentence for himfelf, and made the Kingdom

CHAP

How Philip ended the Phocian War.

Phecian and the Allociates of the hothe Illyrians and Dardanians, and brought ly War: the Bustians, finding the mielves the Thracians to pay him the tenth part of unable to fubilit without iems greatent aid, all their Revenues. But his next enterprize feed wro their or fuce ut, who willingly against the Perinthians stayed his fury. Perinvicided to their necellities, and fent them thus was a City of Thrace, feated upon Prefuch approportion of men, as were neither tuf- pontis, in the mid-way between Seffor and ficient to matter their enemies, nor to affure byzantium, a place of great strength, and themselves; but yet to enable them to con- a people resolved to defend their liberty timuethe War, and to waite the strength of against Philip, where the Athenians incou-Greece. They also fent to Artaxerxes Ochus raged and affifted them. Philip fate downbefor fupply of treasure, who lent them thirty fore it with a puissant Army, made many fair talents, which makes a hundred and four- breaches, gave many furious affaults, built fcorethoujand Crowns:but when with these many over-topping and commanding Towfupplies they had ftill the worst against the res about it. But he was repelled with equal Thosium, who held from them three of the violence. For whereas Philip thought by his ftrongest Cities within Baotia it felf, they continual affauls to weary them, and waste then belought Philip of Macedon that he both their men and munition, they were would affilt themin person, to whom they supplied, not only from the Person with would give an entrance into their Territo- men and money, and succoured from Byzanry, and in all things obey his Command- tium, which stood upon the same Sea-coast, ments in War.

he knew himself in state to give the law to whatsoever was wanting to their necessity. both, and so quitting all his other purposes But because those of Byzantium by reason of towards the North, he marched with a spee- their neighbourhood, and easie passage by dy pace towards Baotia, where being arriv- water, gave them often and ready help, Phied, Phailechus who commanded the Phocian lip removed the one half of his Army, and Army, tearing to shock with this victorious belieged it, leaving fifteen thousand foot King, made his own peace, and withdrew before Perinthus, to force it if they could: himself with a Regiment of eight thousand But, to be short, he failed in both attempts, the Competitors for the Kingdom of Thrace, Amphylliones which the Phocians had, with

ø. VII.

How Philip with ill success attempted upon Perinthus, Evzantium, and the Scythians.

Philip, after his triumphant return into Macedon, by the Lieutenant of his Army He War still continued between the Parmenco, slaughtered many thousands of but they were relieved from Athens, Chio, and Now had Philip what he longed for ; for Rhodes, by the conduction of Phocion, with Souldiers into Peloponnesus, leaving the Pho- (as all Princes commonly do that undertake cians to the mercy of the Conqueror; and diversenterprizes at one time) and returnfor conclusion he had the glory of that War ed into Macedon with no less dishonor than called Sucred, which the Greesans with so loss: whereupon he made an overture of many mutual flaughters had continued for ten years; and, befides the glory, he posset with the Albenians, and greatly defired thinsfell of Orchomene, Coronea, and Corsa, in all he could, and that by the occasion offerthe Country of the Evotians; who invited him to be victorious over themselves. He dittions; yet Demossible with his eloquence brought the Phocians into servitude, and prevailed in the refusal. In the mean while, waited their Cities, and gave them but their Philip having digested his late affront, and Villages to inhabit, referving unto himself supplied his expence, by the taking of an the yearly tribute of threescore talents, hundred threescore and ten Merchants ships, which make fix and thirty thousand French he gathered new forces, and being accom-Crowns. He also hereby (besides the same of panied with his son Alexander, led them inpiety for service of the gods) obtained the to Scothia: but he was also unprosperous in fame double voice in the Council of the that enterprize : For the Triballi, a people of 13.4. fet on him in his return, wounded time in diffrace, and not imployed; in fo 100 m. and took from him the greatest part of much as when the Armies of Philip and the the ipoils which he had gathered.

ø. VIII.

Great of Greece. The death of Philip.

he spentome eight years; and in the ninth (in despite of all the Nations interjacent) fatiguitions espain scales, and the Holy War, he in Perfix, India, and Egypt; so it cut to the this great advantage, invited ground, and gave end and date to all the and gave end and date to all the spin by the Gracians to their affiliation of Gracian glory; Yea their liberty (faith for the Citizens of Amphiliation of Amph ed the decree of Amphydiones, in which with fo many difficulties, continued for to ed the accree of Amproposition 5 in which with 10 many ameunics, continued for 10 many Ages, and 10 often defended against for that the Thebans and Locrians gave the greatest Kings, was now lost in a mothat the and aid to the Amphiffonians, ment, and for ever lolt. the reference and of themselves able to Now this advised King (never passionate the ren were not belonght Philip to come to his ditadvantage) to the end he might obis person to their affiltance. Now you tain the Soveraignty over all Greece, and be not think that Philip was not long in re- acknowledged for their Captain-C and here there was the enterprites he needed against the Persiant, without any further fairing upon this enterprises he needed against the verifant, without any fartuer bearing on, whom nothing could keep hazzard or trouble, was content to let go had rou other diffusion than a maftering the Athenians that were taken at this barted of Cheroman, as he also farbare to attempt the first being compounded of thirty thou for Fort and two thousand Horse's and triumphed over the rest; he loaged a Gar-Ach a much expedition as could be made, rifon of Macedonians. And being toon acter into ted Letton all that Region.

their Oratours eloquence cost them dear, and was in like fort mistaken in the ex-It is true, that he could far more eafily mind polition. them of the vertue of their Ancestors, than strength of a contrary faction he was at this heinvited all his Friends and Allies, with the thousands of the Athenians did abide the killing, and the like number well-near of the Thebans died with them; yet the want philip everthrowing the Greeks in the of the worthy men on that fide to hold up and of Cheronxa, mas choire Captain-the reft, and to draw them on, and the many raged by a King of a growing fortune, as. Mong these Northern Nations (part it gave to Philip so thining a victory, that A Mong there the suppress, and part quieted alexander by the light thereof found his way be used Paces, won vistes, and brought (according unto the long delire which he The rest, and especially the Albenians, general States at Corinth, flyled the lift ablong they had good cause to year that a Commander of all the Gracium, and congreat part of this from would fall on them tribution of men and money granted him, he the year were they office added by Demoftless from accepting fuch realmable con- under the Commandment of Assalus and ditions of peace as Philip offered, and rather Parmenio, transported the same over the malechoice (having drawn the thebans to Hellelpont into Afra, to begin the War. Of joyn with them) to leave the enjoying of his enterprise against Perfin, he fought suctheir clases and their freedom to the chance eefs from the Oracle at Delphos, from whence of one battell; than to hold it either by com- he received fuch another convertible ridrossion, or by the grace of Philip. But this dle, as Crassus did when he attempted Cyrus,

But as it is hard to difcern and withstand make them fuch as they were. He might the flatteries of our own appetites, fo did repeat unto them (with words moving paf | Philips ambitious defire to invade Perfia, fion) the wonders they wrought at Mana- abuse his judgement, so far, that the death, thon, but he could not transform the Mace- wherewith himself was threatned, he undonians into Persians, nor draw from the deritood to be delivered of his enemy, whom dead, a Militades, an Ariftides, a Themistocles, he intended presently to invade. Before or a Cimon, or any of those famous Com- his purposed departure into Asia, he prepamanders, whole great vertues they had pay- red for the marriage of his Daughter Gleoed with the greatest ingratitude that ever patra, with Alexander King of Epirus; to Nation did. A Phocion they had, but by the which feaft and pastimes thereat appointed, from whom he received much honour subjection of that famous Nation of Greece, and many rich Prefents: but this was which for fo many Ages had defendindeed the Feaft of his Funeral. For ed it felf against the greatest Kings of the having refased to do justice to one Pan- World, and won upon them; He left unto fanias, a Gentleman of his Guard, whom his Son, and had bred up for him, fo Attalus (greatly favoured by Philip) had many choice Commanders, as the most first made drunk, and then less to be car- of them, both for their valour and judgenally abufed by divers bate perions; this ment in the War, were no lefs wor-Panfanias grew into fo great a deteftation thy of Crowns, than himfelf was that body, in confecturing his Sword unto Apollo, to acknowledge any man Superiour to by building for him a Monument, and other themselves. like Graces.

642

s. XI.

qualities and iffue.

battel.

fic to Alexander, though more glorious, better Physitian for evil speech than they than the beginnings unto Philip, though were. less famous. For, besides the recovery His Epistles to Alexander his Son are many Maritimate Cities taken, of great the Protection during his infancy ) had principal perfens of the Grecian Cities, ffrength and ancient freedom; and the of the Kings partiality in to foul a fact, as, ware a Crown: For it was faid of Parwhen this was patting towards the Theamenio (whom Alexander, ungratefull to ter, he drew a word from under his long fo great vertue, impioufly murthered) garment and wounded him to death, when That Parmenio had performed many things he had lived fix and forty years, and challenging eternal fame, without the reigned five and twenty. Justine reports it, King; but the King without Parmenio nethat Olympias incouraged Pausanias to mur-ver did any thing worthy of renown: as der the King her husband; which after his for the rest of his Captains, though condeath the bodily avowed, by the honour tent to obey the Son of fuch a Father, yet the did unto Panjanias, in crowning his dead did they not after Alexanders death endure

Of this Prince it is hard to judge, whether his ambition had taught him the exercise of more Vices, than Nature and his excellent education had enriched him with vertues. For, besides that he was What good foundations of Alexanders great-Valiant, Wife, Learned, and Master of n fs were haid by Philip. Of his landable his Affections, he had this favour of Piety, that he rather laboured to fatisfie those that were grieved, than to suppress from the World, when he had mawe find a good example in his dealing with frered all opposition on that side of the Arcadion and Nicanor. Whom when for Sea, and had icen the fruits of his hopes, their evil speech of Philip, his familiars and labours, changing colour towards perfivaded him to put to death, he anripenels and perfection; yet he was here-in happy, that he lived to fee his confidered, whether the fault were in Son Alexander at mans eftate, and had them that gave him ill language, or in himself been an eye-witness of his refolution and lingular valour in this last mans own power to be well spoken of; and this was shortly proved; for after The foundation of whose future great- Philip relieved their necessities, there ness he had laid so soundly for him, with were none within his Kingdom that did fo plain a pattern of the Buildings him more honour than they did. Wherewhich himself meant to creet, as the per-upon he told those that had perswaded formance and finithing was far more ea- him to use violence, that he was a of Macedon it self in competition be- remembred by Cicero and Gellius; and by tween him and the Sons of Fropus, the Dion and Chrysoftome exceedingly comone affifted by the Thracians, the other mended. His Stratagems are gathered by by the Athenians; and besides the re- Polyanus and Erontinus; his wise sayings, gaining of many places possess by the by Plutarch. And albeit he held Maco-Illyrians, the cruthing of all those Nor- don as in his own right, all the time thern Kings his Neighbours, the over- of his reign, yet was he not the true and throw of Olynthus, a State that de-next Heir thereof; for Amyntas the Son spifed the power of his Father, the of his Brother Perdiceas ( of whom he had daughter Gna, who had by him a daughter the was afterward by her Father-in-law Ancalled Furgdice, who was married to Philip's lipater put to death. base Sun Aridous, her Unkle by the Mothers

By Cleopatra the Neece of Attains, he had fide : both which cipropats, Philip's fait Wife, Caranus, whom others call Philip: ham Olymand Mother to Alexander the Great, put to prast the Mother of Alexander the Great. death: Aridaus by extreme torments, Eury- caused to be rosted to death in a Copper dice the strangled.

the race of Achilles ) Alexander the Great, murdered at the Mothers breit. and Coopatra. Cleopatra was married to her By Phila and Atola he had no time.

find Cina, married as is thewed before.

of theres, he had Theffalonica, whom Caffan- have much occasion to local hereafter.

the right. This Amintas he married to his der, after he had taken Pidna, married; but Fan. Others lay his murder to Alexander Thilip had by this Olympias, the daughter himfelf. By the fame Chapatrahe had likewife of Mentelemus, King of the Adolfians (of a daughter called Europa, whom O'mpiss allo

Links Alexander, King of Frirus, and was He had also two Concubines. Arstnoc. atter her Bother Alexanders death flain whom after he had gotten with childe, he at sordis, by the commandement of Anti-married to an obscure mancalled Lyos, who hare Ptolomy Know of Feyet, called the Son of Ly Andata an Illyrian, his fecond Wife, he Lagus, bur effected the Son of Philip: by Thinina, his fecond Concubine, a publick J. Nicalipolis, the Sifter of Jason, Tyrant Dancer, he had Arden, of whom we thati

CHAP. II.

Of ALEXANDER the Great.

6. I.

A brief rehearfal of Alexanders doings, before he invaded Afia.

instructed, and inriched in all forts of Learn- to those swelling humours, which might ing and good Arts. He began his reign over speedily have endangered the health of his the Macedonians four hundred and seventeen Estate. For after revenge taken upon the years, after Rome was built, and after his Conspirators against his Father, whom h. own birth twenty years. The strange dreams slew upon his Tomb, and the celebration of of Philip his Father, and that one of the gods his Funerals, he first followed auto him his in the shape of a Snake, begat him on Olym- own Nation, by freeing them from all exapius his Mother, I omit as foolish Tales; ctions and bodily slavery, other than their but, that the Temple of Diana (a work fervice in his Wars and used fuch Kingly au-Lexander, afterwards called the Great, years gave them hope of prevailing, and succeeded unto Philip his Father 5 his suspected severity increased courage in being a Prince no leis valiant by those, who could better resolve to die, than Nature, than by Education, we'll to live flavifuly. But Alwander gave no time the most magnificent of the World ) was sterity towards those that contemned his burnt upon the day of his birth, and that fo young years, and fuch elemency to the refr ftrange an accident was accompanied with that perfivaded themselves of the crucity of the news of three feveral Victories, obtained his disposition, as all affections being pacified by the Macedonians, it was very rmarkable, at home, he made a prefent journey into and might with the reason of those times be Peloponnesus, and so well exercised his pirits interpreted for ominous, and fore-shewing among them, as by the Counsel of the States the great things by Alexander afterward of Greece, he was, according to the great deperformed. Upon the change of the King, fire of his heart, elected Captain-General the Neighbour-Nations, whom Philip had against the Persians, upon which war Philip opprest, began to consult about the reco- had not only resoved, (who had obtained very of their former liberty, and to adven- the same title of General Commander) but ture it by force of arms. Alexanders young had transported under the leading of Par-received temp places on Mia-fide, for the again into his grace. Alexander was not lone tur. Jewest m'he wittied ail absenders affections; those fair easily drawn from great purposes by such marks of blockes, Honour, and large Domini- occasions as may eafily be taken off, neither only now i start chilecping and wakings bath any King ever brought to effect any all other thoughts and inaggnations were great affair, who hath intangled himfelf in wither priesens or hatefull. But a contrary many enterprifes at once; not tending to win 'e artieth : for he receive th advertite- one and the fame certain end. mean that the Athenians, Thebans and Lacedemonrars Lad united themselves against towards the South, he resolved to affire him and, by mutance from the vertian, hoped those Nations which lay on the North-fide for the recovery of their form r freedom of Mucdon, to wit, the Thracians, Triballer. Hercunto they were p riwaded by De- Peones, Getes, Agreens, and other falvage peomelikares, hinnelf being thereto perforaded ple, which had greatly vexed with incurfiby the gold of Ferfus: the device be used ons, not only other of his Predecessors, but was more fel tile than profitable; for he even Philip his Father: with all which, after consolid to be bruited, that Alexander was divers Overthrows given them, he made thin in a bandit egainst the Triballes, and peace, or else brought them into Subjection. brought into the attentity a companion Notwithstanding this good success, he could whom he had corrupted, to affirm that him- not yet find the way out of Europe. There is is his was preferd, and wounded in the battail, nothing more natural to man than liberty: There is indeed a certain Doctrine of Poli- the Greeks had enjoyed it over-long, and loft (as Velicy is now as-days defined by falfe- it too late to forget it; they therefore hood and knavery) that devifed rumours and flacke off the yoke once again. The Thebans, iles, if they ferve the turn but for a day or who had in their Cittadell a Garrison of two, are greatly available. It is true, Com- 3000 Macedons, attempt to force it; Alexmen people are fometimes mockt by them ander haftneth to their fuccour, and presents ar Souldiers are by faife alarmins in the wars is himfelf with 30000, foot, all old Souldiers, but in all that I have obterved, I have found and 3000. Horfe, before the City, and gave the fucces as ridiculous as the invention. For the Inhabitants some days to resolve, being as those that that themselves at one time abu- even heart-sick with the defire of passing insed by factions bruits, do at other times neg- to Afia. So unwilling, indeed, he was to draw less their duties, when they are upon true blood of the Gracians, by whom he hoped to 1070 ts,and 14 occasions perilous fummoned ferve himfelf elfewhere, that he offered the to all mble; so do all men in general con- Thebans remission, if they would only delidemothe Venters of such trumpery, and for verinto his hands Phanix and Prothytes, the them fear upon necessary occasion to enter- stirrers up of the Rebellion. But they, op-

the lift news of his preparation. Hereup-on all flagger, and the Athenians, as they Oracian Cities. were the first that moved, so were they the | Many arguments were used by Cleadas list that fainted, feeking by their Embassa- one of the Prisoners, to perswade Alexander menic and sitular, a part of his Army, to (dours to pacific the King, and to be received in refolving; for the Perfians perfwaded him the energial ramife the Perfin occu- to pardon the Grecians. Wife men are not

And having now quieted his borderers tain the truth it felf. I his labour unlooked poling the mounting fortune of Alexander, tor, and le is of time, was not only very griev- (which bare all reliftance before it, like the ons to slew ander, but by turning his tword breaking in of the Ocean Sea) instead of such from the ignorie and effeminate Persians, an answer, as men belieged and abandoned against which he had directed it, towards should have made, demanded Philotas and the manly and famous Gracians, of whose Antipater to be delivered unto them; as if additioned he thought himfelf affured, his Thebes alone, then layed in the ballance of present undertaking was greatly disordered. Fortune with the Kingdom of Macedon, and But he that cannot endure to strive against many other Provinces, could either have the wind, finall hardly attain the Port which evened the scale or swayed it. Therefore in he purpoleth to recover: and it no less be- the end they perished in their obstinacy. cometh the worthieft men to oppose missor | For while the Thebans oppose the Army aftunes, than it doth the weakest children to failant, they are charged at the back by the Macedonian Garrison, their City taken and He therefore made such expedition to- razed to the ground, six thousand slain, wards these Revolters, as that himself, with and thirty thousand fold for slaves, at the the Army that followed him, brought them price of four hundred and forty Talents.

perioraded of Alexander's death, they rebel- maternal Ancestor. led but against his successiour. He also be- But before he left his own coast, he put longht the King to remember, that his Fa- to death, without any offence given him, all they rivilip had his education in that City, his Mother-in-laws Kinfmen, whom Philip yea, that his Ancestour Hereules was born his Father had greatly advanced, not spatherein: but all perfivations were fruitless; ring fuch of his own as he fulpected. He also the times wherein offences are committed took with him many of his tributary Prindo greatly aggravate them. Yet for the ho- ces, of whose fidelity he doubted; thinking rout he bare to learning, he pardoned all by unjuft cruelty to affure all things, both in the race of Findarss the Poet, and spared, the present and suture. Yet the end of all and let at liberty Timoclea, the Sitter of The- fell out contrary to the policy which his gares, who dyed in detence of the liberty of Ambition had commended unto him, though woman being taken by a Thracian, and by for all that he had planted, was foon after Torsian tooped to loss the mouth thereof fiddenly thrush him into the mouth thereof When the knowledge of alexander's when the knowledge of alexander's and stoned him to death.

against him unprositable : for these good opia, or some other unhealthfull part of Leaders of the Gracians betook themselves Africa. to the service of the Persian, whom after a few dayes he invaded.

the Persians upon the River of Granicus.

to forbear the deftruction of Thebes. He my, confifting of two and thirty thoufand grayed the King to believe that they were foot, and five thouland horie, all old Soulrathermif-led by giving halty credit to falle diers, near unto Trey, where he offered a reports, than any way malicious; for being folems Sacrifice upon Achilles Tomb, his

Greece against his Father Philip. This noble agreeing very well with the Justice of God; him ravished, he threatned to take her life withered, and rooted up; those, whom he mules the would confels her treasure: the most trusted, were the most trusterous; his led that Thracian to a Well, and told him, mother, friends, and enildren, fell by such that the had therein cast it: and when the another mercile's sword as his own, and all Thracian ftooped to look into the Well, the manner of confusion followed his dead bo-

Now because the Athenians had received landing on Asia side was brought to Darius, into their City fo many of the Thebans, as he fo much feorned the Army of Macedon, had escaped and fied unto them for fue- and had so contemptible an opinion of alexcour, Alexander would not grant them under himself, as having stiled him his terpeace, but upon condition to deliver into vant on a letter which he wrote unto him, his hands both their Orators which perswa- reprehending his disloyalty and audacity ded this second revolt, and their Captains; (for Darius intitled himself King of Kings, yet in the end, it being a torment unto him and the Kinsman of the gods) he gave orto retard the enterprize of Persia, he was der withall to his Lieutenants of the lesser content that the Orators should remain, Afia, that they should take Alexander alive, and accepted of the banishment of the Cap- whip him with rods, and then convey him tains; wherein he was exceeding ill-advi- to his presence: that they should sink his fed, had not his fortune, or rather the pro- thips, and fend the Asserdors taken pritovidence of God, made all the relistance ners beyond the Red-Sea; belike into Athi-

In this fort did this glorious King, confident in the glittering, but heartless multitude which he commanded, dispose of the already-vanquished Macedonians: Eur the ill destinies of men bearing them to the ground, How Alexander passed into Asia, fought with by what strong considence soever armed. The great numbers which he gathered together, and brought in one heap into the Hen all was now quieted at home, hield, gave rather an exceeding advantage to his enemies, than any discouragement at ail. of Antipater both Greece and Macedon, in For, besides that they were men utterly unthe first of the Spring did pass the Helle- acquainted with dangers; men, wao by the font, and being ready to dif-imbark, he name and countenance of their King were threw a Dart towards the Asian thore, as wont to prevail against those of less courage a token of defiance, commanding his Soulthan themselves; men that took more care diers not to make any waste in their own how to embroider with gold and silver their Territory, or to burn, or deface those build- upper garments, as if they attended the inings which themselves were presently, and vasion but of the Sun-beams, than they in the future to possess. He landed his Ar- did to arm themselves with Iron and Steel against the sharp pieces, twords, and darts of Commanders, Spithridates and Kusaches ; and the hardy Minedonians: I tay, bendes all that the Perfian horse-men sought with great these, even the opinion they had of their fury, though in the end scattered; and lastownnumbers of which every one in parti- ly, how those Gracians in Darius his pay, cular hopeditastic would not fall to his turn holding themselves in one body upon a to fight, filled every one of them with the piece of ground of advantage, did (after care of their own fafety, without any intent mercy was refused them) fight it out to the at all to lazard any thing but their own lait; how then doth it refemble truth, that breath and that of their Horfes, in running such reliftance having been made, yet of away. The Maccelenians, as they came to Alexander's Army there fell but twelve footfight, and thereby to enrich them eives with men, and two and twenty horse-men? the Gold and levels of Perfix, both which they needed s to the Perhans, who expected nothing in that War but blows and wounds. which they needed not, obeyed the King who had power to contrain them in alfembling themselves for his services but their own fears and cowardife, which in time of a ger had not power over them. the conly then obeyed, when their rebellion again; fot rvile a partion old juffly and violently require it. For fath Legetius. Quemadmirdum bene exercitatus miles praisum cu- thereof without a blow, fome one or two pit. ita formidat indoctus : nam [cienaum efi in jugna ufum amphibs produce quam vires. As the Nations invaded have once been beaten the well-practifed Souldier defires to come to upon a great advantage of the place, as in the water. Great refistance (faith Curtius) Victory then gotten was exceeding easie, and that the twenty thousand Persian footbosoms by relifting. For had those twenty thousand foot, and two hundred and fifty horfe-men, or, after Plutarch, two thousand and five hundred horfe-men, dyed with their faces towards the Macedonians, Alexander could not have bought their lives at

ø. III.

A dierellion concer ing the defence of bard fulfages, of things following the Battell of Granick.

THe winning of this passage did great-I ly encourage the Macedonians, and brought fuch terrour upon all those of the leffer Afia, as he obtained all the Kingdoms Towns excepted. For in all invations, where battel, fo the raw one fears it : for we must defence of Rivers Streights, and Mountains, underfined, that in fight it more avails to have they will from have perswaded themselves, been accustomed unto the like, than only to that fuch an enemy upon equal terms and have rude fireigth. What manner of men the even ground, can hardly be refitted. It Persians were, Alexander discovered in the was therefore Machiavels counsel, That he first encounter : before which time it is said, which resolveth to defend a passage, should by those that write his story, that it was hard with his ablest force oppose the Assailant. to judge, whether his daring to undertake And to tay truth, few Regions of any great the Conquest of an Empire so well peopled, circuit are so well senced, that Armies of with an handfull of men, or the fucceis he luch force as may be thought fufficient to had, were more to be wondred at. For at the conquer them, can be debarred all entrance, River of Granick, which fevereth the Terri- by the natural difficulty of the wayes. One tory of Trey from Propontis, the Perfians passage or other is commonly left unguardfought to ftop his passage, taking the higher ed: it all be defended, then must the forces ground and bank of the River to defend, of the Country be diffracted; and yet lightwhich Alexander was forced (as it were) to ly some one place will be found that is declime up unto, and scale from the Level of rended very weakly. How often have the Alpes given way to Armies, breaking into was made by the Persians, yet in the end Alex- Italy & Yea, Where shall we finde that ever ander prevailed. But it feems to me, that the they kept out an Invader? Yet are they tuch as (to speak briefly) afflict with all difficulties those that travel over them; but men, faid to be llain, were rather killed in they give no fecurity to those that lye bethe back, in running away, than hurt in the hind them: for they are of too large extent. The Towns of Lombardy perswaded themselves that they might enjoy their quiet, when the Warlike Nation of the Smitzers had undertaken to hinder Francis the French King from descending into the Dutchy of Milan: but whilest these Patrons of Milan, to fmall a rate, as with the loss of four and whom their own dwelling in these Mounthirty of all forts of his own. And if it were rains had made fittest of all other for such a also true, that Plutarch doth report, how fervice, were busied in custody of the Alper ; Alexander encountred two of the Persian Francis appeared in Lombardy, so much the greater terrour of the Inhabitants, by arrival. What shall we say of those Mounthins, which lock up whole Regions in fuch The Inhabitants of which, with the people faints, which lock but one Gate open 5 The of the Countrey, he received with great strights or (as they were called) the grace, suffering them to be governed by Sates of Turns in Cilicia, and those of Ther-their own Laws. For he observed it wells mplie, have feldom been attempted, per- Novum Imperium inchoantibus, utilis elemenhap because they were thought impreg-tie fama; It is commodious unto such as lay rable; but how feldom (if ever) have they the fame of being mercifull. He then by Parfree lim, the Romans, forced the entrance of menio wan Atletus, and by force maltered Thermetyle; Cyrus the younger, and after Im dexander, found the Gates of Cilicia wide open ; how ftroughy foever they had heen locked and barred, yet were those Queen, who had been cast out of all that Constrict open enough to a Fleet that the held (except the City of Alinda) by Dafrod enter on the back-fide. The defence rius his Lieutenants, prefented her felfuror havers, how hard a thing it is, we find exor des in all histories that bear good wit- cellor; which Alexander accepted in so graown disadvantage, fill the heads of his Soul- his feet. diets with an opinion, that they are in ill | While he gave order for the government cale, having their means of faicguard taken and fettling of Lycia, and Pamphylia, they from them, by the skill or valour of fuch as fent Cleander to raife some new Captains are too good for them. Certainly, if a River in Peloponnesses, and marching towards the were sufficient defence against an Army, the North, he entred Celenas, seated on the Ri-Isle of Mona, now called Anglesey, which is ver Meander, which was abandoned unto Julius Agricola. But he wanting, and not by Sea, that furely believing nothing could were very dastards.

It was therefore wifely done of Alexander, to pass the River of Granick in face of cy, by hewing it in pieces. the enemy; not marching higher to feek an easier way, nor labouring to convey his men asia the less towards the east, he took care to over it by fome fafer means. For, having clear the Sea-coalt on his back, and to thruft beaten them upon their own ground, he did the Persans out of the Islands of Lesbos, thereby cut off no less of their reputation, Chio, and Coos: the charge whereof he than of their strength, leaving no hope of committed unto two of his Captains, giving fuccour to the partakers and followers of them fuch order as he thought to be most fuch unable Protectors.

Soon after this Victory he recovered Surhow much the less they had expected his dis, Ephofus, the Cities of the Tralians, and Magnefia, which were rendred unto him. stinately, he razed to the ground. From whence he entred into Caria, where Ada the to him, and adopted him her Son and Suc-The deepeft have many Foords; the cious part, as he left the whole Kingdom to f atest and broadest may be passed by her disposing. He then entred into Lycia, Buc, in case it be found a matter of diffi- and Pamphylia, and obtained all the Seacity to make a bridge. He that hath men coasts, and, subjecting unto him Pifidia, he tow to defend all the length of his own directed himself towards Darins (who was bank, hath alfo enow to beat his enemy; faid to be advanced towards him with a and may therefore do better to let him come marvellous Army) by the way of Phryeia: over, to his loss, than by ftriving in vain to For, all the Province of affa the lefs, borderhinder the pailage, as a matter tending to his ing upon the Sea, his first Victory laid under divided from North-Wales by an Arm of him; the Castle only holding out, which the Sea, had been fate enough against the also after forty dayes was given up : for so Romans, invading it under the conduct of long time he gave them to attend fuecour from Darius. From Celenas he pass'd on meaning to spend the time in making Ves- through Phrygia towards the Euxine Sca, fels to transport his forces, did affay the till he came to a City called Gordium, the foords. Whereby he fo amozed the enemies Regal Scat, in former times, of King Midas. attending for ships and such like provision In this City it was, that he found the Gordian-knot, which when he knew not how to be hard or invincible to men, which came undo, he cut it afunder with his Sword. For fo minded to War, they humbly intreated there was an ancient Prophecy did promife for peace, and yielded the Island. Yet the to him that could untie it, the Lordilip of Britains were men flout enough, the Perstans all Asia ; whereupon Alexander, not respecting the manner how, to it were done, affumed to himfelf the fulfilling of the Prophe-

But before he turned from this part of convenient for that fervice 5 and delivering

unto them trity Talents to defray the lefs material, as were also the forces and clarges and withall out of his lift fpoyl power of command, by which it wrought. coven, he can threefeore Talents more to But he that would find the exact pattern of Artifician the Learnmant in Greece and Ale a noble Commander, must look upon such sedon. From George he removed to Ancira, as Fpaninondas, that encountring worthy now colled Actueri, standing on the same Re Captains, and those better followed than ver ex Sungaria, which runneth through themielves, have by their fingular vertue Gerdam: there he marketed his Army, and over-topped their valiant enemies, and ftill then cutted Paphlagenia, whose people sub-prevailed over those, that would not have mitted themicives anto hum, and obtained yielded one foot to any other. Such as there freedom of tribute: where he left Caim are, do feldom live to obtain great Empires. Covernous with one Regiment of Macdoni- For it is a work of more labour and longer ans lately arrived.

Here he underflood of the death of Memgen, Darine 1 cutenam, which neartned him and utterly subduc a multitude of fervile greatly to pals on towards him; for of this Nations, compounding the body of a groß by Captain he had more respect than of unweildy Empire. Wherefore thele Parsowithe multitude by Davius allembled, and Potentes, men that with little have done er all the Commanders he had belides. For much upon enemies of like ability, are to be the table to the spirit of some one man regarded as choice examples of worth; but excelled as le high undertaken and effected great Conquerours, to be rather admired the alteration of the greatest States and for the substance of their actions, than the Consumon weakers of crion of Monarchies, exquifice managing: exactness and greatness one Cores, and han some and Empires, concurring to feldom, that I can find no inspecially of also or a tragginal multitudes thance of both in one, take only that brave or equal reaches arrength, contrived victories Roman, Cafir. beyond the hope and discovery of reason, Having thus far digressed, it is now time convert d the fearfuil pullions of his own that we return unto our Eastern Conqueschool estimo magnaniumty, and the valour our; who is travailing halfily towards Gof his enemies into cowatolers, fach fpirits lieia, with a cei, eto recover the Streights have been firred up in fundry ages of the thereof before Darius should arrive there. world, and indivers parts thereof, to cred but full making a dispatch unto Greece, he and call down again, to establish and to de-first to those Cities, in which he reposed irroy, and to bring all things, Perfons and most trust, some of the Persian Targets States, to the same certain ends, which the which he had recovered in this first battel; infinite Spirit of the Universal, piercing, upon which, by certain inscriptions, he made moving, and governing all things, hathor- them partakers of his Victory. Herein he dained. Certainly, the things that this King well advised himself; for he that doth not did, were marvellous, and would hardly as well impart of the honour which he gains have been undertaken by any man else: and in the Wars, as he doth of the spoils, thall though his Father had determined to have never belong followed of those of the betinvaded the letter Afia, it is like enough that ter fort. For men which are either well-born, he would have contented himfelf with fome or well-bred, and have more of wealth than River of Inaus, as this man did. The swift with the purchase of glory, as the weakin courte of victory, wherewith he ran over fo tortune, and strong in courage, do with the large a portion of the World, in fo short a gain of gold and silver. fpace, may justly be imputed unto this, that he was never encountred by an equal spirit, Alexanders coming on, left some Companies concurring with equal power against him, to keep the Streights, which were indeed Hereby it came to pais that his actions being very defenfible; and withall, as Curtius nolimited by no greater opposition, than defart teth, he began over-late to prise and put in places, and the meer length of tedious jour- execution the Counsel of Memnon: who in nies could make, were like the colojjus of the beginning of the Wars advised him to Rhodes, not so much to be admired for the waste all the provisions for Men and Horse, worthy, as for the huge bulk. For certainly and alwayes to give ground to the Invader, the things performed by Xenophon, discover till he found some such notable advantage no less enquiredly, though the effects were ing of Victory. For the fury of an invading time to maiter the equal forces of one hardy and well-ordered State than to tread down

part thereof, and not have discovered the of reputation, do as often satisfic themselves

The Governour of Cilicia hearing of weakmanship, though therein also praise that could not be lodged in strong places, as brave a prit as Alexanders, and working as might affuredly promife him the obtaindiet, and want, eating fometimes too little, time by an orderly parfuit have been wasted and fometimes too much, fometimes repoling to nothing) constrained the black Prince themselves in beds, and more oftner on the with great fury, neer Poitiers, to joyn battel cold ground. These and the like sudden al with him: But all men know what lamentterations bring many difeases upon all Nati- able success these two French Kings found. ons out of their own Countries. Therefore Charles the fifth of France made another kind ons out of the Macedonians but a of Fabian-Warfare; and though the English while from meat and fleep, and, refusing to burnt and wasted many places, yet this Knaz give of take battel, had wearied them with held his resolution to forbeat blows, and his light horse, as the Parthians afterward followed his advice, which told him. That didthe Romans, he might perchance have the English could never get his inheritance faved his own life, and his eftate. For it was by smoak. And it is reported by Bellog and one of the greatest incouragements given by Herrault, that King Edward was wont to say Mexander, to the Macedonians, in the third of this Charles, that he wan from him the and last fatal battel, That they were to fight Dutchy of Gujen without ever putting on with all the strength of Persia at once.

fought abroad, in being beaten, loft only wife men grow thort-lived, and the charge tought abroad, in being invaded by the of things is committed unto such as either Greeks, and fighting at home, by being bea- cannot fee what is nor their good, or know ten, loft his Kingdom. Pericles though the not how to put in execution any found adten, forthis Kingaom.

Lacedemonians burnt all in Attica to the vice. The course which Memnon had pro-Gates of Ashens, yet could not be drawn to pounded, must in all appearance of reason barard a battel: for the invaded ought have brought the Macedonians to agreat perof their destruction.

the freedom of Rome, and his own life. would needs fight a battel with the French by painful travel. to his confusion, though it was told him by honorable enough.

The Constable of France made frustrate of Orange in the Low-Countries.

their General, would needs fight a battel from the place of advantage, have found fe; and King John (when the English were Alexanders coming; and as great cause

Army is belt broken, by delays, change of well-neer tired our, and would in thort his Armour.

the attempts when he invaded Greece and But where God hath a purpose to destroy. evermore to fight upon the advantage of plexity, and made him stand still a while at time and place. Because we read Histories the Streights of Cilicia, doubting whether it to inform our understanding by the exam- were more shameful to return, or dangerous ples therein found, we will give fome in to proceed. For, had Cappadocia and Paphlaples therein founds, that have perished by ad- gonia been wasted whilst Alexander was far venturing in their own Countries, to charge off; and the Streights of Cilicia been defendan invading Army. The Romans, by fighting ed by Arsenes, Governor of that Province, with Hannibal, were brought to the brink with the best of his forces; hunger would not have suffered the enemy, to stay the trial Pompey was well advised for a while, when of all means that might be thought upon, of he gave Cefar ground; but when by the forcing that passage: or if the place could importunity of his Captains he adventured not have been maintained, yet might Cilicia, to fight at Pharsalia, he lost the battel, lost at better leisure have been so throughly spoiled, that the heart of his Army should Ferdinand, in the Conquest of Naples, have been broken, by seeking out miseries

But Arsenes leaving a small number to dea man of found judgement, that those Counfend the Streights, took the best of his Army sels which promise surety in all things, are with him, to waste and spoil the Country; or rather, as may feem, to find himfelf fome work, by pretence of which he might hothe mighty preparation of Charles the Fifth, neftly run further away from Alexander. when he invaded Provence, by wasting the He should rather have adventured his per-Country, and forbearing to fight ; so did the ton in custody of the Streights, whereby he Duke of Alva weary the French in Naples, might perhaps have faved the Province; and and diffolve the boistrous Army of the Prince in the mean time, all that was in the fields would have been conveighed into strong The Leigers, contrary to the advice of Towns So should his Army, if it were driven with the Bourgonians, invading their Coun-good entertainment within walled Cities, try, and could not be perswaded to linger the and himself with his horsemen have had time, and stay their advantage; but they lost the less work in destroying that little which eight and twenty thousand upon the place, was left abroad. Handling the matter as he eight and twenty thousand upon the place, was left abroad. Handling the matter as he Philip of Valor set upon King Edward at Cref did, he gave the Cilicians cause to wish for C HAP. II to the Keepers of the passage not to hinder I twelve several Nations, which the better to it. For cowards are wife in apprehending all avoid confusion, did hardly understand each forms of danger. These Guardians of the others language; and these marshall din the Streights, hearing that Arsenes made all head of the rest, being beaten, might serve hafte to joyn himlelf with Darins, burning very fitly to diforder all that followed them: down all as he went, like one despairing of in the tail of these Horses the Regiment of the defence, began to grow circumspect, and foot marched, with the Persians called Imto think that furely their General, who gave mortal, because if any died, the number was as lost the Country behind their backs, had presently supplied: and these were armed exposed themselves unto certain death, as with chains of gold, and their coats with the exposed themselves unto certain during a with the menthat were good for nothing elfe but to fame metal imbroidered, whereof the fleeves dull the Macedonian (words. Wherefore were garnished with pearl: baits, either to not affecting to dye for their Prince and catch the hungry Macedonians withal, or to Country (which honour they faw that Arle- perswade them that it were great incivility nes himself could well torbear) they speedi-to cut, and to deface such glorious garments. ly followed the foot-steps of their General, But it was well faid, Sumptuose indutus miindifcretion.

650

s. IV.

Of the unwarlike Army levied by Darius against Alexander. The unadvised courses which things following the battel of Iffus.

ed an Army of more than two hundred and lum; For these plumed crests would wound no ninety thousand Souldiers, out of divers body, and the Roman pile would bore boles in Nations; Juftine musters them at three painted and gilded shields. hundred thousand Foot, and a hundred To second this Court-like company, fit thousand Horse; Plutarch, at six hundred teen thousand were appointed more rich and thousand.

describes it, was rather like a Masker than ror) and these were honored with the Tia man of War, and like one that took more the of the Kings Kinsmen. Then came Dains provide for his own safety, perswading him- riding before his Chariot, which was support-Vantguard of their horie, compounded of cedonian blood, for fear of marring their gleaning after his Harvest. Thus Alexander les, se virtute superiorem aliis non existimet. without labour got both the entrance of Ci- cum in prælies oporteat fortitudine animi. licia, abandoned by the cowardize of his non vestimenti muniri , quoniam hostes vesti-Enemies, and thewhole Province that had bus non debellantur; Let no man think that be been alienated from the Persian fide by their exceedeth those in valour, whom he exceedeth in gay garments; for it is by men armed with fortitude of mind, and not by the apparel they put on, that enemies are beaten. And it was perchance from the Roman Papyrius that this advice was borrowed, who, when he fought against the Samnites in that fatal battel, Darius took in this expedition. He is van- wherein they all sware either to prevail or quished at Issis; where his Mother, Wife dye, thirty thousand of them having appaand Children are made prisoners: of some relled themselves in white garments, with high crefts, and great plumes of feathers, bade the Roman Souldiers to lay aside all TN the mean season Darius approached, fear: Non enimeristas uninera facere, & per who (as Curtius reports) had compound- pilla atque aurata scuta transire Romanum pi-

outand.

The manner of his coming on, as Curtius like Women (belike to breed the moretercare to fet out his glory and riches, than to himfelf, the Gentlemen of his Guard-robe, felf, as it seemed, to beat Alexander with ed with the gods of his Nation, cast and cut pomp and sumptuous Pageants. For, before in pure gold; these the Macedonians did not the Army there was carried the holy Fire, ferve, but they ferved their turns of thele, which the Persians worthipped, attended by by changing their massie-bodies into thin, their Priests; and after them three hundred portable and currant coyn. The head of this and threefcore and five young men, answer- Chariot was set with precious stones, with ing the number of the days of the year, co- two little golden Idols, covered with an vered with Scarlet; then the Chariot of Ju- open-winged Eagle of the same metal: The piter drawn with white Horses, with their hinder part being raised high whereon Dais diders cloathed in the same colour, with us sate, had a covering of inestimable value. rods of gold in their hands; and after it, the This Chariot of the King was followed with Horse of the sun: Next after these follow ten thousand Horsemen, their Lances platen sumptuous Chariots, in-layed and gar-nisht with filver and gold; and then the which they meant not to imbrue in the Miown person, two hundred on the blood Roy- Nations; for as the needy are always adown perions as a blood, too Royal and precious to be spilt venturous, so plenty is wont to shun peril and by any valorous adventure (I amof opinion | men that have well to live, do rather study that two hundred flurdy fellows, like the how to live well, I meanwealthily than care Smileers, would have done him more to dyc (as they call it) honourable. Caroù tervice) and these were backt with thirty it ny arien agaigner que des coups, volontiers thousand toot-men, after whom again were it n'y va pas. No man makes baste to the marled four hundred thate horfes for the ket, where there is nothing to be bought but King, which it he had meant to have used, blows. he would have marfhalled fomewhat nearer being led by sifigambie the Kings Mother, the outfides of the Perfuns, and never have and by his Wife, drawn in glorious Chariots, looked into the intrains of Bealts for fuecels. followed by a great train of Ladies their at- For leaving the description of this second tendants on horse-back, with fifteen Wa- battel (which is indeed no where well degons of the Kings children, and the wives of icribed; neither, for the confusion and hatty the Nobility, waited on by two hundred and running away of the Assaus, could it be, we fifty Concubines, and a world of Nurfes and have enough by the flaughter that was made Ennuchs, most sumptuously apparalled. By of them, and by the few that fell of the Macco which it should seem that Darius thought donians, to inform us what manner of refithat the Macedonians had been Comedians stance was made. For if it be true that threeor Tumblers ; for this troop was far fitter forethousand Persian footmen were slain in to behold those sports than to be present at this battel, with ten thousand of their horsebattels. Between these and a company of men; Or (as Curtius faith) an hundred thouflight-armed flaves, with a world of Varlets, fand to tmen, with the fame number of was the Kings treasure, charged on fix hun-horsemen, and besides this slaughter, 40000 was the Kings treature; charged on the hundred damels, taken prifoners, while of Alexanders Army brought, as it proved, to pay the Macedoni-there minearried but two hundred and tourans. In this fort came the May-game King score of all forts, of which numbers Arrianne into the field, incumbred with a most un- and other Historians cut off aimost the one necessary train of Strumpets, attended with half; I do verily believe, that this small troops of divers Nations, speaking divers number rather died with the over-travel languages, and for their numbers imposible and pains-taking in killing their enemies, to be marlhalled; and for the most part so than by any strokes received from them. And effeminate, and so rich in gold and in gar- surely if the Persian Nation (at this time dements, as the fame could not but have en- generate and the bateft of the World) had couraged the naked'ft Nation of the world had any favour remaining of the ancient vaagainst them. We find it in daily experience, sour of their fore-fathers, they would never that all discourte of Magnanimity, of Nati have fold so good cheap, and at so vile a onal Virtue, o. Religion, of Liberry, and price, the Mother, the Wife, the Daughters, whatforver elfe hath been wont to move and and other the Kings children; had their own encourage: Virtuous men, hath no force at honour been valued by them at nothing, and all with the common Souldier, in comparithe Kings fafety and his estate at less. Darius fon of spoil and riches. The rich ships are by this time found it true, that Charidenus a boorded upon all disadvantages, the rich panished Gracian of Athens had too him, Towns are turiously assaulted, and the plen- when he made a view of his Army about Batiful Countries willingly invaded. Our Eng- bylon, to wit, That the multitude which he lift Nation have attempted many places in had affembled of divers Nations, richly atthe Indies, and run upon the Spaniards head-tired, but poorly armed, would be found long, in hope of their Royals of plate, and more terrible to the Inhabitants of the coun-Piffolets; which had they been put to it up-try, whom in passing by they would devour, beauty. He had for the proper Guard of his faccefs, that is ordained against the richest

Now if Alexander had beheld this preparation before his confultation with his South-Now followed the Reer-ward, the fame fayers, he would have fatisfied himself by on the like difadvantages in Ireland, or in than to the Macedonians, whom they means any poor Country, they would have turned to affail; who being all old and obedient their Pieces and Pikes against their Com- Souldiers, imbattelled in gross squadrons, manders, contesting that they had been which they call their Phalanx, well covered brought without reason to the butchery and with Armour for desence, and furnished flaughter. It is true that the War is made with weapons for offence of great advanwillingly, and for the most part with good tage, would make so little accompt of his Nnnn 2

palat, being withall ill armed, and worse acquainted with dangers, fear them not. disciplined, as except it would please him to That, Negletto periculo imminentis mali, opus entertain (having to great abundance of ipsim, quantumvis dissibile, aggrediantur; treasure to do it withal) a sufficient number They go about the business it felf, how hard so of the same Gracians, and so to encounter everit be, not standing to consider of the danthe Macedonians with men of equal cous ger, which the mischies hanging over their rage, he would repent him overlate, as heads may bring: and astruly of those that taught by the miserable success like to tol-

But this discourse was so unpleasing to Darius (who had been accustomed to nothing fo much as to his own praises, and to nothing fo little as to hear truth) as he com leone. manded that this poor Gracian should be presently flain: who while he was a fundring trait, advised Darius to retire his Army into in the Tormentors hand, used this speech to the plain of Mesopotamia, to the end that the King, That Alexander, against whom Alexander being entred into those large he had given this good counsel, should af fields and great Champians, he might have furedly revenge his death, and lay deterved invironed the Macedonians on all tides with advice.

It was the faying of a Wife man: Defperata ejus, Principis falus eft, cujus aures ita formate funt, ut affera que utilia, nec quicquam nist jucundum accepiat; That Princes Safety is in a desperate case, whose ears judge all that is nothing that is unpleasant.

effentia, qua erepta constitum evanescit.

fight in the Streights: But had they been Governours, fo as they can neither give nor ly and confused rabble, those Gracians, under their Captain Amontas, held firm, and Vanquishers. Old Souldiers are not easily modern, what brave retraits have been made by them, though the rest of the Army broken.

he was overturned and flain in the place. For the imbraced the Wife of the valiant Mem-

delicate Persians, loving their ease and their sit is truly said of those men, who, by being know the Wars but by hear-fay ; Quod valentes funt & pravalentes ante pericula, in ipfis tamen periculis discedunt ; They have ability enough, and to spare, till dangers appear; but when peril indeed comes, they get them

These Gracians also that made the repunishment upon Darius for despiting his his multitude; and withal they counselled him to divide that his huge Army into parts, not committing the whole to one stroke of Fortune, whereby he might have fought many battels, and have brought no greater number at once than might have been well marshalled and conducted. But this Counsel profitable to be too fharp, and will entertain was fo contrary to the cowardly affections of the Persians, as they perswaded Darius to in-For, liberty in Council is the life and effence viron the Gracians which gave the advice, of Council; Libertas consilii est ejus, vita, @ and to cut them in pieces as Traytors. The infinite wisdom of God doth not work al-Darius did likewife value at nothing the ways by one and the fame way, but very advice given him by the Gracian Souldiers often in the alteration of Kingdoms and that ferved him, who intreated him not to Estates, by taking understanding from the Counsellers and Directors in that War, as discern of Counsels. For Darius that would they were underlings and commanded by needsfight with Alexander upon a streightothers, they had with the help of a good ned piece of ground, neer unto the City of troop of horsemen been able to have op tijus, where he could bring no more hands posed the fury of Alexander, without any to fight than Alexander could (who by the assistance of the Persian foot men. For when advice of Parmenio stayed there, as in a place Darius was overthrown with all his coward- of best advantage) was utterly overthrown, his Treasure lost, his Wife, Mother, and Children (whom the Gracian his followers marched away in order, in despight of the had perswaded him to leave in Babylon, or elswhere) taken prisoners, and all their train difmayed: we read in Histories ancient and of Ladies spoiled of their rich Garments, Jewels, and Honour. It is true, that both the Queen, with her Daughters, who had the in which they have ferved, hath been good hap to be brought to Alexanders prefence, were entertained with all respect due At the battel of Ravenna, where the Im- unto their birth, their Honours preserved, perials were beaten by the French, a fqua- and their Jewels and rich Garments restored dron of Spaniards, old Souldiers, came off unto them; and though Darius Wife was a unbroken and undifmayed; whom when most beautiful Lady, and his Daughters of Gaston de Foix, Duke of Neumours, and Ne- excellent form, yet Alexander mastred his thew to Lewis the twelith, charged, as hold- affections towards them all: only it is reing the Victory not entire by their escape, ported out of Aristobulus the Historian, that non, her Husband lately dead, who was ta- peace, but such as rather became a Conquerken flying from Damajeus by Parmenio, at or, than one that had now been twice shamewhich time the Daughters of Ochus, who fully beaten, not vouchfafing in his direction. reigned before Darius, and the Wives and to Itile Alexander King. It is true, that the Children of all the Nobility of Persia in ef-Romans, after that they had received an fed, fell into captivity; at which time also overthrow by Pyrrhus, returned him a more tec., 1eu met (not lost at Illus) was seiz- seornful answer upon the offer of peace, than ed, amounting to fix thousand and two they did before the tryal of his force. But td, amounting to hundred talents of coyn, and of Bullion five as their fortunes were then in the Spring, fo hundred talents, with a world of riches be- that of Darins had already calt leaf; the escaped. After this overthrow given unto Darius, all Phanicia (the City of Tyre excepted) was yielded to Alexander, of which Parmenio was made Governor.

Aradus, Zidon and Biblos, Maritimate Cities of great importance, of which one strato was King (but hated of the people) acknowledged Alexander. Good fortune followed him for aft; that it trod on his heels; for Antigonus, Alexanders Lieutenant in Asia theles, overthrew the Cappadocians, Paphlar theles, overthrew the Cappadocians, Paphlar and other presents, which he took very come to divide Kingdoms.

his felicity.

he received a letter from Darim, importing the ransom of his Wife, his Mother, and his (faith Diodore) thirteen thousand; Arriation, with some other conditions of must reckons them at thirty thousand. Many Ariation.

one a refolved, well armed and disciplined Darius himself leaving his brother dead, Nation, the other cowardly and effeminate. with divers other of his chief Captains, Alexander disdained the offers of Darius. (casting the Crown from his head) hardly and sent him word, that he not only directed his letter to a King, but to the King of Darius himfelf.

ø. V.

How Alexander beforged and wan the City of

gonians, and others lately revolted; Arifto thankfully, returning them answer. That he defired to offer a Sacrifice to Hercules, the taken, and in part drowned by the Macedo- Protector of their City, from whom he was nists newly levied; the Lacedamonians that descended. But the Tyrians like not his comwarred against Antipater were beaten ; four pany within their Walls, but tell him that thousand of those Greeks which made the the Temple of Hercules was seated in the old retrait at the last battel, for saking both the City a Jjoyning, now abandoned and desoparty of Darius and of Alexander, and led by late. To be thort, Alexander resolved to Amyntas into Egypt, to hold it for themselves, enter it by force: and though it were a wereburied there; for the time was not yet place in all mens opinion impregnable, because the Island whereon it was built, was Alexander to honor Ephestion, whom he eight hundred furlongs from the Main, yet loved most, gave him power to dispose of the with the labour of many hands, having great Kingdom of Zidon. A man of a most poor store of stone from the old Tyre, and timber estate, that laboured to sustain his life being sufficient from Lybanus, he filled the passage of the Royalblood, was commended by the of the Sea between the Island and the Main, people unto him, who changed his Spade which being more than once carried away into a Scepter, so as he was beheld both a by the strength of the Sea upon a storm of Beggar and a King in one and the same wind, sometime by the Trians fired, and fometime torn afunder; yet with the help It was a good defire of this new King, of his Navy which arrived (during the fiege) when speaking to Alexander, he wisht that from Cyprus, he overcame all difficulties and he could bear his prosperity with the same prevailed, after he had spent seven months moderation, and quietness of heart, that he in that attempt. The Tyrians in the beginhad done his advertity; but ill done of ning of the fiege had barbaroufly drowned Alexander, in that he would not perform in the messengers sent by Alexander, perswadhimself that which he commended in ano- ing them to render the City, in respect ther mans defire: for it was a fign that he whereof, and of the great loss of time and did but accompany, and could not Govern men, he put eight thouland to the fword, and caused two thousand of those that esca-While he made some stay in those parts; ped the fury, to be hanged on Grosses ferved Alexander, conveyed great numbers He found better men in this place than he away by thipping unto their own City.

was taken: for one of the Tyrians having Gaza, that he was forced to fend for a new dreamt, that this god meant to forfake the supply into Greece. Here it was that Alexan-City, they bound him falt with a golden der first began to change condition, and to chain to the Idol of Hercules; but Alexander, exercise cruelty. For after that he hadenlike a gracious Prince, loofed him again.

prize, and a difficult, but great things are new withmany wounds, and who nevergave made greater. For Nebuckodonnofor had to-groups to the Affailants; he bored holes ken it before, and filled up the chand that je more hore is, and caused him to be drawn lay between the Island and the Main.

cave to Thillian the Son of Farmening Cientes, dained to ask him either life or remillion of he committed to Surates, and Andromachus just corments. And what had he to counte-Lieutement under Parmenio; Epergeon had nance this his tyranny, but the imitation of charge of the Fleet, and was directed to find his Ancestor Achilles, who did the like to Alexander at Casa towards Egipt.

Alexander. Alexander wins Gaza, and unto him while he lay before Tre; He had deals gracionity with the lews.

Alexander, fets before him all the difficul- fore fearing his revenge, and unable toreties of passing on towards the East, and lay- fift, committed the care of their estates and eth the lois of the last Battel to the streight- lasety to Jaddus, who, being taught by God, ness of the place: he hoped to terrifie him liftued out of the City covered with his Ponby threatning to encompass him in the plain tifical Robes, to wit, an upper garment of Countries, he bids him to confider, how im- Purple, embroidered with gold, with his possible it was to pass the Rivers of Euphra- Mitre, and the plate of gold wherein the tes, Tigrie, Araxes, and the rest, with all such Name of God was written, the Priests and other featful things: for he that was now Levites in their rich ornaments, and the peoother rearrit tings: for ne that was now left in the filled with nothing but fear, had arguments penow of that nature to prefent unto another. All the Kingdoms between the River admired it. Jojephus reports it, that he fell to the ground before the High-Prieft, as rein Dower with his beloved Daughter. But Alexander answered, That he offered him menio reprehended him for it. Howsoever nothing but his own, and that which victo- it was, I am of opinion, that he became so ry and his own virtue had possett him o. , considert in his enterprize, and so assured of That he was to give conditions, and not to the fuccels after the Prophecy of Daniel receive any, and that he having passed the had been read unto him, wherein he saw Sea it felf, disdained to think of relistance in himself, and the Conquest of Persia so directly That Parmenio, who was now old, and full discourage him, or fear him. He confessed to more had died, had not the Zidonians, that rous, and a blow on his leg with a frone did at the former Battels; for he left fo many away by improve and Apollo that the Town of his Asacedonians buried in the Sands of tred Gaza by affault, and taken Betis (whom It is true, that it was a notable enter- In ep'as calleth Babemess) that was weakabout the lirest, whilft he was as yet alive; The Government of this Territory is who being as valiant a man as himfelf, dif-Hector & It is true, that cruelty hath always somewhat to cover her deformity. From Gaza (faith Josephus) he led his Ar-lang my towards jerusalem, a City, for the anti-How Darius offered Conditions of Peace to quity and great tame thereof, well known fent for some supply thither, which Jaddus the High-Prieft, being subject and sworn to N the mean while Darius fends again to Darius, had refused him. The Jews theretransporting himself over Rivers. It is said, pointed at , as nothing thenceforth could of honour and riches, told the King, That Parmenio (faith Jejephus) that in Dio a City were he Alexander, he would accept of Da- of Macedon, when his mind laboured the rius his offers; to which Alexander answer- Conquest on Asia, he saw in his sleep such a ed, That so would be, if he were Parmenio.

But he goes on rowards Egypt, and combining one and the same God; by whom he was ing before Gaza, Getis, a faithful fervant to encouraged to purfue the purpose he had in Dirius, shuts the Gate against him, and de-hand, with assurance of victory. This appafends the Town with an obstinate resoluti- rition, formerly apprehended only by the on, at the fiege whereof Alexander received light of his fantalie, he now beheld with his a wound in the shoulder, which was dange- bodily eyes, wherewith he was so exceedingly pleased and emboldened, as contrary fell drops of blood; and that the like drops they defired, both of liberty and immunity, he lay before Gaza, out of which there flew Religion.

ø. VII.

Alexander wins Egypt: and makes a journey to the Temple of Hammon.

riss Lieutenant, Affaces, received him, from them to the Switzers, leaping and and delivered into his hand the City of fawning upon them, as if they had been bred Memphis, with eight hundred talents of trea- and fed by them all their lives, and in the fure, and all other the Kings riches. By this moraing following, Trivulzi and Tremonille. we fee, that the King of Perlia, who had more Generals for Lewis the twelith, were by of affection than of judgement, gave to the these imperial Switzers utterly broken and valiantest man he had, but the command of put to ruine. one City, and to the veryest coward the government of all Egypt. When he had set is ill described by Curtius: for he bounds it things in order in Egypt, he began to travel by the Arabian Troglodites on the South, beafter God-bead, towards Jupiter Hammon; fo tween whom and the Territory of Hammon, foolish had prosperity made him. He was to the Region Thebais, or the superior Egypt, pass over the dangerous and dry Sands, with the Mountains of Lybia, and the River where, when the water which he brought of Nilus, are interjacent; and onthe North on his Camels back was spent, he could not but have perished, had not a marvellous who bordering the Sea-shore, live (suth howr of rain fallen upon him, when his he) upon the spoils of ship-wrack: whereas Army was in extreme despair. All men that the Temple or Grove of this Idol hath no know Egpt, and have written thereof, af Sea near it by two hundred miles and more. firm, That it never rains there: but the being found on the South part of Lybia; purposes of the Almighty God are secret, these Nasjamones being due West from it, in and he bringeth to pass what it pleaseth him; the South part of Marmarica. and neoringetic to pais what a person in the for it is also faid. That when he had lost his When Alexander came near the place, he way in those valt defarts, that a flight of fight some of his Parasites before him to pra-Crowsflew beforethe Army; who making this the Priests attending the Oracle, That faster wing when they were followed, and their answer might be given in all things, fluttering flowly when the Army was cast agreeable to his mad ambition; who affect-back, guided them over those pathless Sands ed the title of Jupiter's Son. And so he was sato Jupiters Temple.

Son of Lagut, fays, That he was led by rather (as some think) defective in the Greek two Dragons; both which reports may be Tongue; For whereas he meant to say, o alike true. But many of those wonders and padion, he said, O pai dios; that is, O Son of prodigious things, are fained by those that Jupiter, instead of O dear son: for which have written the Story of Alexander; as, Grammatical errour he was richly reward-That an Eagle lay hovering directly over ed, and a rumour prefently spread, that the his head at the battel of Ifus; That a Swal- Great Jupiter had acknowledged Alexander low flew about his head when he flept, and for his own. could not be feared from him, till it had wakened him at Halicarnasseus, fore-shewing had formerly consulted with this Oracle, the treason of Eropus, practifed by Darius to The one when he was employed against have flain him; That from the Iron bars of Gorgon; The other against Anteus and Bustwhich the Tyrians made their defensive En- ris; and feeing these men had derived thems to the practice of the Phanicians (who ho- were found in a loaf of bread, broken by a to the practice facked and destroyed Jernsa- Macedonian Souldier, at the same time; That be gave the Jens all, and more than a Turf of earth fell on his shoulder, when with permission to live under their own a Bird into the Air. The Spaniards in the Laws, and to exercise and enjoy their own Conquest of the West Indies have many such pretty tales; telling how they have been affisted in battel by the presence of our Lady, and by Angels riding on white hories, with the like Romish miracles, which I think themselves do hardly believe. The strangest thing that I have read of in this kind, being certainly true, was, That the Rom Jerusalem, Alexander turned again night before the battel at Novara, all the towards Eg. pp., and entredit; where Da- Dogs which followed the French Army, ran luted, son of Jupiter, by the Devils Prophet, Arrianus, from the report of Piolomy, the whether prepared before to flatter him, or deed he made himself one, by thinking to man Emperors also followed, not daring to cover from the worlds knowledge his vani- commit the Government of Egypt to any of tics and vices; and the better to confirm their Senators, but to men of meaner rank his followers in the belief of his Deity, he and degree. He then gave order for the had practifed the Priests to give answer to founding of Alexandria upon the Westertuch as confulted with the Oracle, that it most branch of Nilus. And having now setthould be pleasing to Justier to honor Alex-led (as he could) the estate of Egypt, with the ander as his Son.

655

He had heard that Perseus and Hercules gines, when Alexander besieged them, there selves from the gods, Why might not he?

6:51

ten, Strabo and Plutarch witness.

than in the day.

ø. VIII.

How Alexander marching against Darius, was opposed very unskilfully by the Enemy.

Rom the Temple of Hammon he returned to Memphis, where, among many other learned men, he heard the Philosopher Psammones, who, belike understanding of the world, by the surfeit of misgovernthat he affected the title of Jupiters Son, ment have been subject to many grievous, told him that God was the Father King of and sometimes mortal diseases: So had the all men in general; and refining the pride Empire of Persia at thistime brought it self of this haughty King, brought him to fay, into a burning and confuming Feaver, and That God was the Father of all mortal men, thereby become frantick, and without unbut that he acknowledged none for his childerstanding, fore-shewing manifestly the difdren, save good men.

Hegave the charge of the several Provinces of Egypt to several Governors, follow- Eastern shores of Tygris, without any other ing the rule of his Master Aristotle, That difficulty, than that of the nature of the

By this it feems, that he hoped to make his a great Dominion should not be continued in Many followers and the world fools, though in the hands of any one: whom therein the Ro-Big. Kingdoms of the leffer Afia, Phanicia, and Who this Ammon was, and how represen- syria (which being but the pawns of Darited, either by a Bois carried in a Boat, or in his ill fortune, one happy victory would by a Ram, or a Rams head, I fee that many readily have redeemed) he led his Army towife men have troubled themselves to find wards Euphrates, which passage, though the out; but, as Arrianus speaks of Doingsus or same was committed to Mazeus to defend, Liker Pater (who lived, faith S. Augustine, yet was it abandoned, and Alexander within Atoses time) Es que de dis veteres fabilis out relistance past it. From thence he march-Sui conscriptive, non funt nimium curiose per- ed towards Tigris, a River for the swiftness refing inda; We must not over-curiously search thereof called by the Persians, The Arrow. Cont. into the fables which the Ancients have written Here, as Curtius, and Reason it self tells us, might Darius easily have repelled the inva-But this is certain and notable, that after ding Macedonian: for the violent course of the Gospel began to be preached in the the stream was such, as it drave before it World, the Devil, in this, and all other Idols, many weighty stones, and those that moved became speechless. For, that this Hammon not, but lay in the bottom, were so round was neglected in the time of Tiberius Cafar, and well polithed by a continual rolling, and in the time of Trajan altogether forgot-that no man was able to fight on fo flippery o footing; nor the Macedonian footmen to There is found near his Temple a Foun- wade the River, otherwise than by joyning tain called Fons folis (though Ptolomy in his their hands, and enterlacing arms together, third African Table fets it farther off) that making one weighty and entire body to reat Mid-night is as hot as boiling water, and fift the swift passage, and furiousrace of the at Noon as cold as any Ice: to which I can- stream. Besides this notable help, the Chanot but give credit, because I have heard of nel was so deep towards the Eastern shore, fome other Wells of like nature, and because where Darins should have made head, as the it is reported by S. Augustine, by Diodore, footmen were enforced to lift their Bows, Herodotus, Pliny, Mela, Solinus, Arrianus, and Arrows, and Darts, over their heads to Curtius, and others; and indeed our Bathes keep them from being moistened, and made in England are much warmer in the night unferviceable by the Waters. But it was truly and understandingly said of Homer,

> Talis est hominum terrestrium mens, Qualem quotidie ducit pater virorumq; (Deoruma)

The minds of men are ever so affected, As by Gods will they daily are directed.

And it cannot be denied, that as all Estates Solution and death thereof.

But Alexander hath now recovered the place; where Mazeus ( who had charge to ) defend the Pallage both of Euphrates and tus indocta, quam ars & exercitium scient it ) presented himself to the Macedonians, prostare victoriam. In every Battel skill and followed with certain companies of Horse- practice do more towards the Victory than mulmen, as if with uneven forces he durst have titude and rude andacits. charged them on even ground, when as with a multitude far exceeding them, he for- after the pallage over Tygris, there happened his enemies could easily have overcome. donians not knowing the cause and reason, But it is commonly feen, that fearfull and were greatly affrighted. All that were innoalready loft.

It is true, that he fet all provisions afire, wherewith the Macedonians might ferve themselves over Tygris, thinking thereby greatly to have diffrested them; but the execution of good counsel is fruitless, when unwanting to the competency of the Army the Heavens themselves. out of fight, and far behind.

ø. IX.

The new Provisions of Darius. Accidents foregoing the Battel of Arbela.

refistance. Arrianus hath numbred them whole Army in effect perithed. with their Leaders; and finds of foot-men the invading Army. But it is a Rule in the ter of terrour. Philosophy of the War 5

In omni pralio non tam multitudo. & vir-

While Alexander gave reft to his Army fook the advantage which no valour of an Eclipse of the Moon, or which the ALacecowardly men do ever follow those wayes rant (as the multitude alwayes are) took it and counfels, whereof the opportunity is for a certain prefage of their overthrow and destruction, infomuch as they began not only to murmure, but to peak it boldly 5 That for the ambition of one man, a man that difdained Philip for his Father, and would needs be called the Son of Jupiter, they flould all periff; for he not only enfeafonable. For now was Alexander fo well forced them to make War against worlds of furnished with carriages, as nothing was enemies, but against Rivers, Mountains, and which he conducted. Those things also Hereupon, Alexander being ready to which he fought to waste, Alexander being march forward, made a halt, and to quiet now in fight, were by his Horse-men faved the minds of the multitude, he called before and recovered. This Mazeus might have him the Egyptian Astrologers, which foldone fome dayes before at good leifure; or lowed him thence, that by them the Soulat this time with fo great a strength of horse- diers might be assured that this defection men, as the Macedonians durft not have pur- of the Moon was a certain prefage of good fued them, leaving the strength of their foot success; for, that it was natural, they never imparted to the common people, but referved the knowledge to themselves, fo as a forry Almanack-maker had been no imall fool in those dayes.

Of this kind of superstitious observation Cafar made good use, when he fought against Ariovillus and the Germans: for they being Arius, upon Alexanders first return out perswaded by the casting of lots, that if they fought before the change of the Moon, which those Regions next him could furnish, they should certainly lose the Battel, Casar and now also were the Arians, Scythians, forced them to abide it, though they durst Indians, and other Nations arrived; Na- not give it; wherein, having their minds altions (faith Curtius) that rather ferved to ready beaten by their own superstition, and make up the names of men, than to make being resolutely charged by the Romans, the Thefe Egyptians gave no other reason than of all forts ten hundred thousand, and of this, That the Grecians were under the horse four hundred thousand, besides armed aspect of the Sun, the Persians of the Moon; Chariots, and some few Elephants. Cur- and therefore the Moon failing and being tius, who musters the Army of Darius at darkened, the state of Persia was now in two hundred thousand foot, and near fifty danger of failing, and their glory of being thousand Horse, comes (I think) nearer to obscured. This judgement of the Egyptian the true number; and yet seeing he had Priests being noised through all the Army, more confidence in the multitude than in all were fatisfied, and their courage rethe valour of his Vassals, it is like enough doubled. It is a principle in the War, which, that he had gathered together of all forts though devised fince, was well observed some three or four hundred thousand, with then: Exercitum terrore plenum Dux ad pugwhich he hoped in those fair plains of Asy- nam non ducat; Let not a Captain lead his ria, to have overborn the few numbers of Army to the fight when it is possessed with mat-

It is truly observed by Curtius, that the 0000 pcople and often in our own, that by such inventhem to draw breath in the world within a tions, devifed tales, dreams, and Prophecies, few years after. The truth is, That Alexanthe people of this Land have been car- der in going to far into the East, left behinde ried head-long into many dangerous tu- him the reputation which he brought out of mults and inferrections, and full to their Macedon; the reputation of a just and pruown lofs and ruine.

The fourth Book of the first Part certain Letters were furprized, written by abundance of prosperity, became a lover of Darius to the Gracians, perswading them wine, of his own flattery, and of extreme for great fumms of money, either to kill or cruelty. Yea, as seneca hath observed, the betray Alexander. But these, by the advice taint of one unjust slaughter, amongst maof Parmenio, he suppressed.

preit with forrow, and wearied with tra- ctories obtained. But the Perfian Embassavel. died. Which accident Alexander feem- dours ftay his answer, which was to this efed no less to bewail than Darius, who upon fect, That what foever he had bestowed on the first bruit, suspected that some disho- the wife and children of Darius, proceeded nourable violence had been offered her 5 from his own natural elemency and magnabut being fatistical by an Eunuch of his own nimity, without any respect to their Master; that attended her, of Alexanders Kingly but thanks to an enemy was improper: that respect towards her, from the day of her he made no Wars against adversity, but being taken, he defired the immortal gods, against those that resisted him; not against That if they had decreed to make a new Women and Children, but against armed Master of the Persian Empire, then it would enemies: and although by the reiterated please them to conferr it on so just and conti-please them to conferr it on so just and conti-please them to conferr it on so just and conti-please them to conferr it on so just and conti-please them to conferr it on so just and conti-please them to corrupt his Souldiers, nent an enemy as Alexander 5 to whom he and by great summs of money to persuade once again, before the last tryal by Battel, of- his friends to attempt upon his person, he had fered these conditions of Peace.

would deliver up, and refign all Asia the not (were it otherwise and faithfull) resolve less and, with Egypt, all those Kingdoms be- in haste to accept the same, seeing Darius tween the Phanician Sca, and the River of had made War against him, not as a King Euphrates; That he would pay him for the with Royal and overt-force, but as a Traitor Ransome of his Mother, and his other by secret and base practice; That for the Daughters, thirty thousand Talents, and Territory offered him, it was already his leave his Son Occhus in hostage: To this again over Euphrates, which he had already bounded his ambition within those limits, second Person, and his Inferiour. he might have lived as famous for virtue, as for Fortune, and left himself a Successour of able age to have enjoyed his estate, which afterward indeed he much enlarged. rather to the greatning of others than him-

people are led by nothing fo much as by felf: who, to affure themselves of what they superstitutions, yea, we find it in all stories, had usurped upon his lifues, left not one of dent Prince, a Prince temperate, advised and As Alexander drew near the Persian Army, gratefull: and being taught new Lessons by ny, defaced and withered the flourishing At this time also Darius his fair Wife, op- beauty of all his great acts, and glorious vireason to doubt that the peace offered was That with his Daughter in marriage he rather pretended than meant; yet he could that for the performance thereof, he would own, and if Darins could beat him back they fought to perswade alexander by such past, he would then believe that he offered arguments as they had. Alexander caufing him somewhat in his own power: Other-the Embassadours to be removed, advised wise he propounded to himself for the rewith his Council, but heard no man speak ward of the War which he had made, all but Parmenio, the very right hand of his those Kingdoms as yet in Darius possession; good fortune; who perswaded him to ac-wherein, whether he were abused by his cept of these fair conditions. He told him, own hopes or no, the Battel which he meant That the Empire between Euphrates and to fight in the day following should deter-Hellespont, was a fair addition to Macedon; mine. For in conclusion he told them, that that the retaining of the Persian Prisoners he came into Asia to give, and not to rewas a great cumber, and the treasure offer- ceive; That the Heavens could not hold ed for them of far better use than their per-two Suns: and therefore if Darins would fons, with divers other arguments; all which be content to acknowledge Alexander for Alexander rejected. And vet it is probable, his Superiour, he might perchance be perthat if he had followed his advice, and swaded to give him conditions fit for a 6. X.

The Battel of Arbela: and that it could not be jo firong'y Jought as report bath made it.

fines Atazens to defend a pallage, which he perfor wrongit womders, being charged in new dared yet fo much as to hazard. Alex- his retrait. But in conclusion, Cartin delinever anter year that Captains. Parmenie vers us in account but three hundred dead anair committee the force Darius his Camp by diacodonium, in all this terrible dayes work, pertwaces min to toler and service and the multitude of enemies might faying. That Fphyllian, Perdicese, and others inguistorial the interference of the Articologisms being of name were wounded. Artisams finds but few. Alexander disdains to steal the not a third part of this number slains of the Victory, and refolves to bring with him the Perfame there fell forty thousand (faith day-light, to witness his valour. But it was Contine) thirty thousand according to Arrisday-ngue, to write and Alexander's re- ran: ninety thousand, if we believe Disfoliation, though the countel given by Par- dore. But what can we judge of this great mento was more found: For it is a ground encounter, other than that, as in the two in War, si panei necessario cum multitudine former Eastels, the Persiani upon the sirst pagnare coganiur, conssiinm oft notis tempore charge ran away, and that the Macedonians belli fortunam tentare. Notwithstanding up pursued; For it of those four or five hunon the view of the multitude at hand, he dred thousand Asians brought into the field fleggers and trenches himfelf upon a ground by Darins, every man had eaft but a dart or of advantage, which the Persan had aban- a stone, the Maccdonians could not have doned: And whereas Darius for fear of fur-bought the Empire of the East at to easte a prize had flood with his Army in Armour rate, as fix or feven hundred men in three all the day, and forborn fleep all the night, notorious Battels. Certainly, if Darius had Akxarder gave his men reft and store of fought with Alexarder upon the banks of foed; for reason had taught him this Rule Engliners, and had armed but fifty or threein the War, In pugna Militer validitis reft- fcore thousand of this great multitude, onflunt, si cibo potuque resetti suerint: nam sames ly with Spaces (for the most of all he had intriplecus magis pugnat, quam ferrum exte- were fit for no other weapon) it had been rin: souldiers do the bester find to it in impossible for Alexander to have past that fight, if they have their bellies full of meat and River to easily, much less the River of Tidrink, for hunger within, fights more engerif gris. But as a man whose Empire God in than feel without.

little Rhetorick 5 for by the two former Regions to run into from those that invaded Battels upon the River of Granck, and in them. Cilicia, the Macedonians were best taught with what men they were to encounter. And it is a true faying, Victoria victoriam parat, animumque victoribus auget, & adversariis of things following the Battel of Arbela. The ausert; One victory begets another, and puts courage into those that have already had the better, taking spirit away from those that have

9. X.

Perstant, sometime to the Macedonians; That greedy of spoyl and riches, would rather Parmento was in danger of being overthrown, who led the left wing : That Alexander's Rere-guard was broken, and his carriages lost; That for the fierce and valorous incounters on both Edes, Fortune her felf White this Answer the Embassadors return; During prepares to light, and the Garland: And lattly, that Alexander in his Providence had determined, he aban-The numbers which alexander had, faith doned all places of advantage, and fuffered Arianus, were forty thousand foot, and se- Alexander to enter to far into the bowels of ven thousand horse 5 these belike were of his Kingdom, as all hope and possibility of the European Army : for he had belides, both escape by retrait being taken from the Ma-Sprians, Indians, Egyptians, and Arabians, cedonians, they had prefented unto them that followed him out of those Regions. He the choice, either of death or victory; to used but a short speech to his Souldiers to which election Darius could no way conencourage them. And I think that he needed strain his own, seeing they had many large yielding of Babylon and Sula.

6. X L

Arius, after the rout of his Army, re-covered Arbels the same night, better Arrianus and Curtius make large descrip- followed in his flight, than in the fight. He tions of this Battel, fought at Gangamela; propounded unto them that ran after him, They tell us of many charges and re-charges; his purpole of making a retrait into Me-That the Victory inclined fometime to the dia, perlivading them that the Macedonians, CHAP. I led with treature, than purfue the vanquish- ercise; which so much softned the minds ed. This miferable resolution his Nobility of the Macedonians, not acquainted till now rather obeyed than approved.

arrives at Arbela, which with a great mas rances of hunger and thirst, of painful traof treasure, and Princely ornaments, was vel, and hard lodging, began rather to be rendred to him: for the fear which con-torgotten, than neglected. ducted Darius, took nothing with it but shame and dishonour. He that had been Souldiers were erected, and Commanders twice beaten, should rather have fent his appointed over them, who thereupon were treasure into Media, than brought it to Ar- triled Chiliarchi. This new order Alexander bela, fo near the place where he abid the brought in, was to honour those Captains coming of his enemies; if he had been vi- which were found by certain felected Judges ctorious, he might have brought it after him to have deferved belt in the late War. For at leifure; but being overcome, he knew it before this time the Macedonian companies unpossible to drive Mules and Cameis laden consisted but of five hundred. Certainly the with gold from the purficing enemy, feeing drawing down of the foot-bands in this himself, at the overthrow ne had in Cilicia, latter age hath been the cause ( faith the cast the Crown from his head, to run away Marshall Monluct) that the title and charge paft.

burnt Frankincense upon Altars of filver, as quality Commanders in one ship: but all or-Alexander passed by, and delivered unto ders and degrees are fallen from the reputahim whatfoever was committed to his truft. tion they had. The Atagi (the Chaldean Astrologers) fol- While Alexander was yet in Babylon, there lowed this Captain in great folemnity to en- came to him a great supply out of Europe; tertain their new King: after thefe came for Antipater fent him fix thousand foot, the Babylonian horse-men, infinite rich in and five hundred horse out of Miacedon; of attire, but exceeding poor in warlike fur- Ibracians three thousand foot, and the like niture. Between these (though not greatly number of horse; and out of Greece four to be feared ) and himself, Alexander cau- thousand and four hundred horse, by which fed his Macedonian foot-men to march. his Army was greatly strengthened: for When he entred the Calile, he admired the those that were infected with the pleasures glosy thereof, and the abundance of trea- of Babylon, could hardly be brought again, fure therein found, amounting to fifty thou- De quitter la plume pour dormir fur la dure; fand Talents of filver uncoyned. The City To change from foft beds to hard boards. it felf I ave eliewhere deferibed, with the He left the Castle and City of Babylon, Walls, the Towers, the Gates and Circuit, with the Territories about it, in charge with with the wonderful place of pleasure about three of his own Captains, to wit, Agathon, two miles in Circuit, surrounded with a wall Minetus, and Appolidorus; to supply all of fourfcore foot high, and on the top wants, a thousand Talents: but to grace thereof (being under born with Pillars) Mazeus, who rendred the City unto him, a Grove of beautifull and fruitfull Trees, he gave him the title of his Lieutenant over other Princesses might walk privately there-in. In this City, rich in all things, but most Babylon, and entred into the Province Sa-attempt Babyion, Sufa, and other Cities fil- quetting, and in all forts of effeminate exwith the like delicacies, as the severe disci-Alexander foon after Darius his departure pline of War, which taught them the fuffe-

Here it was that those bands of a thousand with the more speed. But erroars are then of a Captain hath been bestowed on every best discerned when most incurable; Et præ- Picque-Ewanf, or Spurn-Cow; for when the terita mogis reprehendi poffunt quam corrigi 5 Captains of foot had a thousand Souldiers It is easier to reprehend than amend what is under one Ensign, and after that five hundred, as in the time of Francis the first, the From Arbela Alexander took his way to- title was honourable, and the Kings were wards Babylon, where Mazens, in whom less charged, and far better ferved. King Darius had most considence, rendred him- Henry the eighth of England never gave the felf, his Children, and the City. Also the Command of any of his good Ships, but Captain of the Calife, who was keeper of the to men of known valour, and of great estate; treasure, strewed the streets with flowers, nay sometime he made two Gentlemen of which it is faid that one of the Kings of Ba- all, and took with him Bagistines that gave bylon caused to be built, that the Queen and up the Castle; and having distributed to eveof all in voluptuous pleatures, the King trapene: from thence he went on toward rested himself and the whole Army sour and Suja in Persia, the same which Ptolomy, Hethirty dayes, confuming that time in ban-rodotus, and Elianus call Memnonia, fituate CHAP. II. on the River Enters, a City formetime go- the Duke ( revolted from his Mafter ) very Governour of this famous City, gave it up favour. to the Conquerour, with fifty thousand talents of filver in bullion, and twelve Elephants for the War, with all other the treafures of Darins. In this fort, did those Vallals How Alexander came to Persepolis, and of fortune, lovers of the Kings prosperity, not of his person, (for so all ambitious men are) parchase their own peace and fasety. Rom Susa Alexander leadeth his Army with the Kings treasures. And herein was roward Persepolis, and when he sought Alexander well advised, that whatsoever to pass those Mountains which funder suffer titles he gave to the Fersiums, yet he left all na and Fersia, he was foundly beaten by places of importance in trust with his own Ariobarzanes, who defended against him Captains, to wit, Babylon, Susa, and Persepolu, those Streights, called Pila Persidis, or Suwithother Cities and Provinces by him con faide, and after the lots of many Companies quered; for if Durins (as yet living) had of his Macedonians, he was forc'd to fave beaten the Macedonians but in one battel, himself by retrait, causing his Foot to march all the Nobility of Persia would have re-close together, and to cover themselves turned unto their natural Lord. Those that with their Targets from the stones tumbled are Traitors to their own Kings, are never on them from the Mountain top. Yet in the tobe used alone in great enterprises by those end he found out another path, which a Ly-Princes that entertain them, nor ever to be cian, living in that Country discovered unto traded with the defences of any frontier- him, and came thereby fuddenly in view of Jown, or Fortress of weight, by the ren- Ariobarzanes, who being inforc'd to fight dring whereof they may redeem their liber- upon even ground, was by Alexander broty and eltates loft. Hereof the French had ken, whereupon he fled to Perfepolis; but experience, when Don Pedro de Navarra, (after that they of Persepolis had refused to with Fonterabe, in the year 1523.

him; for the great mass of Treasure was payd for their hard lodging on those Hills. laid up in that City. But who hath fought out and friended fearful adversity? It is cerfine numbers them but at eight hundred) own greatness.

Mazeus and others, in giving them titles, but Lands as they liked to live upon. dren to repose themselves.

thing less than the performance of that pro- was lest to the liberty of the Souldiers, to mife, because he should thereby have left spoil and kill at their pleasure. There was verned by Daniel the Prophet. Abulites also, well wherewithall to have recovered his

6. XII.

burnt it.

being banished out of spain, was trusted, receive him) he returned and gave a second charge upon the Macedonians, wherein he While Alexander spoiled Arbela, Mazens was flain. In like manner did King Francis might have furnish'd the King from Babylon; the first, in the year 1515, find a way over and while he stayed four and thirty dayes the Alpes, the Switzers undertaking to deat Babylon, Abulites might have holpen him fend all the passages, who if their sootmanfrom Sula; and while he feasted there, Tri-thip had not faved them upon the Kings dates from Perfepolis might have relieved descent on the other fide, they had been ill tain, that benefits bind not the ambitious, having been taken prisoners by the Persians, but the honest? for those that are but gree- presented themselves to Alexander now in dy of themselves, do in all changes of for- light of Persepolis. These had the barbarous tune only confult the conservation of their Persians so maimed and defaced, by cutting off their hands, noses, ears, and other mem-The Government of Sufa, with the Castle bers, as they could no way have been known and Treasure, he committed to his own Ma- to their Countrey-men, but by their voices; cedonians, making Abulites, who rendred it to each of these Alexander gave three hununto him, his Lieutenant, as he had done dred Crowns, with new garments, and fuch neither trust nor power; for he left three Tiridates, one of Darius his false-hearted thousand old Souldiers in Garrison to assure Grandees, hearing of Alexanders approach, the place; and Darius mother and her chil-made him know that Persepolis was ready to receive him, and prayed him to double his It is faid that Charles the fifth, having pro- pace, because there was a determination in mised Charles of Bourbon the Government of the people to spoyl the Kings treasure. This Marseilles, if he could have forc'd it, and City was abandoned by many of her Inhabiwhereof he made fure accompt, told some of tants upon Alexanders arrival, and they that his nearest Counsellors, that he meant no-stayed followed the worst Counsel; for all

no place in the world at that time, which, if cups all the regutation of his actions past. it had been laid in the ballance with Perfepo- and that by deteending, as it were, from the Is, would have weighed it down. Babylon reverend I brone of the greatest King, into indeed, and Sula, were very rich; but in Per- the company and familiarity of bate Har-Jepolis Lay the bulk and main frore of the loss, he began to be definied both of his own Perfians. For after the fpoyl that had been and all other Nations. For being perfixaded. made of money, curious Plate, Bullion, Ima | when he was inflamed with wine by the inges of Gold and Silver, and other Jewels, famous Strumpet Thair, he canfed the most there remained to Alexander himself one sumptions and goodly Castle and City of hundred and twenty thousand talents. He Perjepolis to be contained with fire, notwithleft the fame number of three thousand Ms- standing all the arguments of Parmenio to cedonians in Periefolis, which he had done in the contrary, who told him that it was a sula, and gave the same termal henour to dishonour to destroy those things by the the Traitor Tandates, that he had done to periwalions of others, which by his proper Abulites; but he that had the truft of the vertue and force he had obtained; and that place was Nicarides, a creature of his own, it would be a most strong periwasion to the The body of his Army heleft here for thirty Afans, to think hardly of him, and thereby clayes, of which the Commanders were Par- alien their hearts; for they might well bemenio and Craterus, and with a thousand lieve that he which demolathed the goodlieft Horfe, and certain troops of chofen foot, he Ornaments they had, meant nothing less would needs view in the Wimer-time these than (after such vastation) to hold their parts of Poffa, which the Saow had covered a possession. Poff conclentian crudelitas sequi-settle a truities and toolith enterprise but, as Se lur; Crucity doth commonly follow dranken-2+ neca faves: Non the re vuit, fed non potest ness: For it so fell out foon after, and often, fiare: He hall rot a will to go, but he is una-ble to fland field. It is faid and tooken in his praife. That when his Souldiers cryed out against him, becau e they could not endure the extreme froit, and make way, but with The Treason of Ressus against Darius. Darius extreme difficulty, through the fnow, that Alexander torlook his Horfe, and led them the way. But what can be more ridiculous than to bring other men into extremity, thereby to firew how well himself can en- on to find Darius in Media. Darius had there dure it? His walking on foot did no other-compounded his fourth and last Army, wife take off their weariness that followed which he meant to have increased in Badria, him than his fometime forbeating to drink, had he not heard of Alexanders coming did quench their thirst, that could less en- on, with whom (trusting to such compadure it. For mine own little judgement, I nies as he had, which was numbred at thirty shall rather commend that Captain that or forty thousand) he determined once makes careful provision for those that fol- again to try his fortune. He therefore calls low him, and that feeks wifely to prevent together his Captains and Commanders, and importance.

(meaning War) must begin with his belly.

6. XIII.

his death.

Bout this time he received a new sup-Ply of Souldiers out of Cilicia, and goes extreme necessity, than those witless arro- propounds unto them his resolution, who gant fools, that make the vaunt of having being desperate of good success, used silence endured equally with the common Souldier, for a while. Artabazus, one of his eldest men as if that were a matter of great glory and of War, who had sometime lived with Philip of Macedon, brake the ice, and protefting We find in all the Wars that Cafar made, that he could never be beaten by any adveror the best of the Roman Commanders, that sity of the Kings, from the faith which he the provision of victuals was their first care. had ever ought him, with firm confidence, For it was a true faying of Coligni, Admiral that all the relt were of the fame condition of France; That who jo will shape that Beaft | ( whereof they likewise assured Darins by the like protestation) he approved the Kings But Alexander is now returned to Persepo- resolution. Two only, and those the greatest, lis, where those Historians that were most to wit, Nabarzanes and Bessus, whereof the Con. Li. 5. amorous of his vertues, complain, that the later was Governour of Battria, had conopinion of his valour, of his liberality, of his common of his valour, of his liberality, of his common their Mafter; and therefore clemency towards the vanquished, and all advised the King to lay a new foundation other his Kingly conditions, were drowned for the War, and to purfue it by some such in drink; That he smothered in carowing person for the present, against whom neither

CHAR. II. cared themselves to be an enemy: this preamble Naburganes used, and in conclusion those ambitious Monsters that laid hand on anone accided the election of his fellow Traytor him, whom neither the confideration of his with promite that, the Wars ended, former great estate, nor the honour he had the Empire thould again be reflored to Da- given them, nor the truft reposed in them, the king fwollen with diddin, preft nor the world of benefits beltowed on towards Naburzanes to have flain him, but them, could move to pity: no, nor his towards because the Badfrians whom he command-prefent advertity, which above all things being more in number than the reft, should have moved them, could pierce their with-held him. In the mean while Nabursames with-drew himfelf, and Beffus followed him, making their quarter a-part from compassion. the rest of the Army. Artabazus, the Kings fishfull fervant, perfwaded him to be advi- laid in a Cart, covered with hides of Beafts, fed and ferve the time, feeing Alexander was to the end that by any other ornament he but he inclined still to Besser, who told him, and an Idolater. that the Greeke, with Patron their Captain, Alexander having knowledge that Darius were corrupted by Alexander, and practifed was retired towards Baltria, and durst not fafety, and honour.

discovered the purposes of Bessars, and being of Bessars, and secretly forfook him, gave overcome with pallion, as thinking him(elf knowledge to Alexander of all that had unable to make head against these ungrate- happened, informing him of the way that lows. It had been far more Man-like, and person. This done, they all fled that could, King-like, to have dyed in the head of those leaving therest to the mercy of the Macedotour thousand Greeks, which offered him nian swords. rous thousand Greec, which office disposition of their lives, (to which Arive disposition of the article disposition of the a tac gods nor fortune had in all things de | bewailing himfelf on the ground, and i viperous and ungratefull hearts. Vain it was indeed to hope it; for, Infidelity hath no

Now Darius, thus forfaken, was bound and ted and terve the time, seeing at least make might not be discovered; and, to add degree hand, and that he would at least make might not be discovered; and, to add degree hand, and that he would at least make might not be discovered; and, to add degree hand, and that he would at least make might not be discovered; and, to add degree hand, and that he would at least make might not be discovered; and, to add degree hand, and that he would at least make might not be discovered; and, to add degree hand, and that he would at least make might not be discovered; and, to add degree hand, and that he would at least make might not be discovered; and, to add degree hand, and that he would at least make might not be discovered; and, to add degree hand, and that he would at least make might not be discovered; and, to add degree hand, and the would at least make might not be discovered; and the would at least make might not be discovered; and the would not be discovered as a second not be discovered. thew of forgetting the offence made; which fpight and derifion to his advertity, they the King being of a gentle disposition, wil- sattned him with Chains of Gold, and so lingly yielded unto. Beffer makes his submit- drew him on among their ordinary Carrifing, and attends the King, who removes his ages and Carts. For Beffus and Naburzanes Army. Patron, who commanded a Regiment perfixed themselves to redeem their lives of four thousand Greeks, which had in all and the Provinces they held, either by delithe former battels ferved Darius with great vering him a prisoner to Alexander, or, if that fidelity, and alwayes made the retrait in hope failed, to make themselves Kingsby his fight of the Macedonians, offered himfelf flaughter; and then to defend themselves to guard his person, protesting against the by force of Arms. But they failed in both-Treason of Bessins; but it was not his destiny For it is against the nature of God, who is to follow their advice who from the begin-most just, to pardon so strange villany, yea, ing of the War gave him faithful counfel, though against a Prince purely Heathenish

the division of his faithful fervants. Besses abide his coming, hastened after him with a had drawn unto him thirty thousand of the violent speed, and because he would not Army, promiting them all those things, by force his footmen beyond their powers, he which the lovers of the World and them- mounted on horfe-back certain felected comfelves are wont to be allured, to wit, riches, panies of them, and best armed, and with six thousand other Horse, rather ran than march-Now the day following, Darius plainly ed after Darius. Such as hated the Treason ful and unnatural Traytors, he prayed arta- Befus took, and how near he was at hand: beaus his faithfull servant to depart from for many men of worth daily ran from him, and to provide for himfelf. In like fort him. Hereupon Alexander again doubled his he discharged the rest of his attendants, all pace, and his Vant-guard being discovered fave a few of his Eunuchs; for his Guards by Bessur his Rear, Bessur brought a Horseto had voluntarily abandoned him: His Perstans the Cart, where Darius lay bound, perswabeing most base cowards, durst not under- ding him to mount thereon, and to save himtake his defence against the Battrians, not- self. But the unfortunate King refusing to withstanding that they had four thousand follow those that had betrayed him, they Greek to joyn with him, who had been able cast Darts at him, wounded him to death, to have beaten both Nations. But it is true, and wounded the Beafts that drew him, and that him, which for fakes himself, no man fol- flew two poor Servants that attended his was refreshing himself with some water that defended certain passages for a while. He he had discovered, espying a Cart with a passeth the River of Zioberu, which taking Team of wounded beafts breathing for life, beginning in Parthia, dissolves it self in the and not able to move, fearched the fame, Caspian Sea: it runneth under the ledge of and therein found Darius bathing in his own Mountains, which bound Parthia and Hireablood: And by a Persian Captive which fol- nia, where hiding it self under ground for lowed this Polyliratus, he understood that it three hundred furlongs, it then rifeth again. was Darine, and was informed of his barbarous Tragedy. Darius also seemed greatly comforted (if dying men ignorant of the Ptolomy writes Hyrcania, the Metropolis of living God can be conforted) that he cast that Region, he rested fifteen dayes, bannot out his last for rows unheard, but that by quetting and feafting therein. this Macedonian, Alexander might know and take vengeance on those Traytors, which Commanders, with others of his best followhad dealt no less unworthily than cruelly ers, submit themselves to Alexander, and with him, recommending their revenge to were restored to their places and Govern-Alexander by this mellenger, which he be- ments. But of all other he graced Artabazus fought him to purfue, not because Darius had most highly for his approved and constant defire dit, but for his own honour, and for faith to his Master Darius. Artabazus brought the fafety of all that did, or should after with him ten thousand and five hundred wear Crowns. He also having nothing else Greeks, the remainder of all those that had to prefent, rendred thanks to Alexander for ferved Darius; He treats with Alexander for the Kingly grace used towards his Wife, their pardon, before they were yet arrived Mother, and Children, defiring the immor- but in the end, they render themselves simtal Gods to submit unto him the Empire of ply without promiseor composition: heparthe whole World. As he was thus speaking, dons all but the Lacedamonians, whom he impatient Death pressing out his few re- imprisoned, their Leader having slain himmaining spirits, he defired water, which Po- felf. He was also wrought (though to his lyfratus presented him, after which he lived great dishonour) to receive Nabarzanes that but to tell him, that of all the best things had joyned with Bessies to murder Darius. that the world had, which were lately in his power, he had nothing remaining but his last breath, wherewith to desire the gods to reward his compassion.

CHAP. 11.

666

s. XIV.

How Alexander pursued Bessus, and took into Here it is said, that Thalestris or Mino-bis grace Darius his Captains. Head, a Queen of the Amazons, came to TT was now hoped by the Macedonians, easily obtained) that she might accomman preparing for his return. Hereof when him: which done (refuling to follow him Alexander had knowledge, he was greatly into India ) she returned into her own grieved, for the bounded earth sufficed not Country. his boundless Ambition. Many arguments he therefore used to draw on his Army far- ing this meeting of Thalestris with Alexanftrength, was, that Beffus, a most cruel Tray- the letters of Alexander himself to Antipater, tor to his Master Darius, having at his devo- recounting all that befell him in those parts, tion the Hyrcanians and Baltrians, would in and yet omitting to make mention of this and followeth its former courle. In Zadracarta, or Zenaracarta, the fame City which

Phataphernes, one of Darius his greatest

6. X V.

Of Thalestris Queen of the Amazons; where, by way of digression, it is shewed, that such Amazons have been and are.

visit him, and her sute was, ( which she that their travels were near an end, every pany him till she were made with childe by

Plutarch citeth many Historians, reportther into the East, but that which had most | der, and some contradicting it. But indeed, short time (if the Macedonians should re- Amazonian business, may justly breed suspiturn) make himself Lord of the Persian Em- tion of the whole matter as forged. Much pire, and enjoy the fruits of all their former more justly may we suspect it as a vain tale, travels. In conclusion he wan their consents because an Historian of the same time reato go on: which done, leaving Craterus with ding one of his books to Lysimachus (then certain Regiments of foot, and Amyntas with King of Thrace) who had followed Alexanfix thousand horse in Parthenia, he enters not der in all his voyage, was laught at by the without some opposition into Hyrcania; for King for inserting such news of the Amathe Mardons, and other barbarous Nations, zons; and Lysimachus himself had never heard took upon him to write his acts; which to Amazons, whom he tells us that the Si vilians molifie, He told how the King had fought call Eurpatus, which is as ouch as Vinciingle with an Elephant, and flain it. The day, or men-killers. And that they made inking heating fuch stuff, caught the book, cursion into affathe less, tacket Friedlin, and and threw it into the river of Indus; faying, burnt the Temple of Diana, Maneikon and That it were well done to throw the Writer Avintinus reports which they performed we believe and know that there are Ele- flea, that the came to the fuecour of phants, though it were falle that Alexander Priamus. fought with one; fo may we give credit unto Writers making mention of fuch Ama- inhabiting upon the River of Thermodoon. gons, whether it were true or false that they speaking considently of the wars they made met with Alexander; as Plutarch leaves the with divers Nations, and of their overmatter undetermined. Therefore I will here throw. take leave to make digression, as well to flew the opinions of the ancient Historians, lochorus, Hellenicus and other ancient Historians Cosmographers, and others, as also of some rians, reports the taking of Antiopa Queen modern discoverers touching these warlike of the Amazons by Hercules, and by him grandern los proximos Amazonibus fuisse; It is certain biting between them and the Albanians. that the Cimerians were the next Nations to the Amazons. Ptolomy fet them farther inwhom all the rest derive them elves. Claudi an affirms, Thatthey commanded many Na-

- Medis levibusque Sabæis Imperat hic Sextus: Reginarumque sub armis, Barbariæ pars magna jacet.

Poet) thus:

Over the Medes, and light Sabaans reigns Great part of the Barbarian Land remains.

neer Heraclium.

heard of. One that accompanied Alexander, Herodotus doth also make repost of these that it who by inferting fuch fables, difpar forty years efter Trey was taken. At the stake, raged the truth of his great exploits. Yet as liege of Tray it fell we read of Testile . ;

Am. Marcellinus gives the cause of their Lands

Plutarch in the life of Thefeus ; out of Phi-Women, because not only strabo, but many ven to Theseus; though some affirm, That others of these our times make doubt, whe Theseur himself got her by stealth, when she ther or no there were any fuch kind of peo- came to vilit him aboard his ship. But in Julius Solinus feats them in the North fubstance there is little difference; all conparts of Affathe less. Pom. Mela finds two felling, That such Amizons there were. The Regions filled with them; the one on the same Author in the life of Pompey speaks of River Thermodoon, the other neer the Ca- certain companies of the Amazons, that came Bian Sca; Quas (faith he) Sauromatidas ap to aid the Albanians against the Romans, by pellant; Which the people call Sauromatides whom after the battel, many Targets and The former of these two had the cimerians Buskins of theirs were taken up: and he faith for their Neighbours; Certum est (laith Va-diams, who hath commented upon Mela) it Gela and Legales once a year, Nations inha-

But to omit the many Authors, making mention of Amazons that were in the old High Ind. 36 to the Land North-wards, near the Mountimes, Fran. Lopez, who hath written the na- 2014 128. tains Hippaci, not far from the Pillars of vigation of Orellana, which he made down Alexander. And that they had Dominion in the river of Amazon from Peru in the year. Alls it felf toward India, Solinus and Pliny 1542. (upon which river, for the divers tell us. Where they governed a people cal turnings, he is faid to have failed fix thouled the Pandeans or Padeans, fo called after fand miles) reports from the relation of the Pandes the Daughter of Hercules, from Said Orellans, to the Council of the Indies. That he both faw those women, and fought with them, where they fought to impeach tions: For he speaks (largely perhaps as a his passage towards the East-Sea.

It is also reported by Ulrichus Schmidel, that in the year, 1542, when he failed up the Rivers of Paragua and Parabol, that he came to a King of that Country, called Scherver, inhabiting under the Tropick of Capricorn. who gave his Captain Ernando Rieffere, a Crown of filver, which he had gotten to This female fex : and under arms of Queen, fight from a Queen of the Amazons in the e parts.

Ed. Lopez, in his description of the King. Diodorus Siculus hath heard of them in domof Congo, makes relation of fuch Amazons, Lybia, who were more ancient (faith he) telling us, That (agreeably to the reports than thou which kept the banks of Thermoof elder times) they burn off their right doon, a River falling into the Euxine Sea, breafts, and live apart from men, fave at one time of the year, when they feast and accompany company them for one month. These (saith | impoverished in their virtues, than inriched he) policisa part of the Kingdom of Mono- by their victories; and that it was hard to motaba in Africa, nineteen degrees to the judge whether the Conquerors, or the Con-Southward of the line: and that these women quered, were the baser slaves. Neither were are the strongest Guards of this Emperour, these opinions so reserved, but that the noise all the East-Indian Portugals know.

Pppp

to justifie mine own relation of these Ama- fort, and those of whose judgements he was zons, because that which was delivered me most jealous; and making it known to the for truth by an ancient Cacique of Guiana, Army, that Bellis had allumed the title of how upon the River of Papamena (fince the a King, and called himself Artaxerxes, and Spanish discoveries called Amazons) that that he had compounded a great Army of these women still live and govern, washeld the Badrians, and other Nations, he had tor a vain and unprobable report.

6. XVI.

How Alexander fell into the Persian Luxury and how be further purfued Beffus.

polis: fo at this time his prosperity had so place, he, together with his own, caused all to much over-wrought his virtue, as he ac- be confumed with fire. Certainly, this could counted elemency to be but baseness, and not but have proved most dangerous unto the temperance which he had used all his him, seeing the common Souldiers had life-time, but a poor and dejected humour, more interest in these things which they rather becoming the instructors of his youth, had bought with their painful travels, than the condition and state of so mighty a and with their blood, than in the Kings King as the World could not equal. For he ambition; had not (as Seneca often obwere in the end of fo many travels, more with their Horses, by the Country-people, of them came to his ears. He therefore I have produced these authorities in part, with great gifts sought to pacifie the better arguments enow to perswade them to go on, to the end that all already gotten, might not with themselves (10 far engaged) be cast away. And because they were pestered with the spoils of so many Cities, as the whole Army seemed but the guard of their carriages not much unlike the warfare of Now as Alexander had begun to change the French) having commanded every mans his conditions after the taking of Perfetardels to be brought into the Maketperiwaded himself, that he now represented (served) his happy temerity overcome all the greatness of the gods; he was pleased things. As he was in his way, news came that those that came before him, should fall to him, that Satribarzanes, whom he had to the ground and adore him; he ware the established in his former Government over robes and garments of the Perstans, and com- the Arians, was revolted; whereupon leamanded that his Nobility should do the like: ving the way of Bastria, he sought him he entertained in his Court and Camp, the out; but the Rebel, hearing of his comfame shameless rabble of Curtifans, and So- ing, fled to Besses, with two thousand Horse. domitical Eunuchs, that Darius had done; He then went on towards Beffus, and by and imitated in all things the proud, voluptu- fetting a great pile of wood on fire, with the ous, and detelted manners of the Persians, advantage of a strong wind, won the paswhom he had vanquished. So lincentious is fe- sage over an high and unaccessable Rock, licity, as notwithstanding that he was fully which was defended against him with thirperswaded, that the gods whom he served teen thousand foot. For the extremity of the detesting the vices of the invaded) assisted slame and smoak forced them from the him in all attempts against them, he himself, place, otherwise invincible. I saw in the third contrary to the Religion he profest (which civil War of France, certain Caves in Lanhow Idolatrous soever it were, could not be guedoc, which had but one entrance, and but fearful unto him by neglecting it) became that very narrow, cut out in the mid-way of by impration, and not by ignorance or edu high-Rocks, which we knew not how to encation, a more foul and rearful Monster than ter by any ladder or engine, till at last, by Durius, from whose tyranny he vaunted to certain bundles of straw, let down by an have delivered to many Nations. Yea, those Iron chain, and a weighty stone in the midst, that were dearest and necrest unto him, be- those that defended it, were so smothered, gan to be athamed of him, entertaining each as they rendred themselves, with their plate, other with this, and the like fcornful dif- mony, and other goods therein hidden. course; That Alexander of Macedon was There were also some three year before my become one of Darius his licentious Cour-arrival in Guiana, three hundred Spaniards tiers; That by his example, the Macedonians well mounted, smothered to death, together being alwaies Eaft) fo as, notwithstanding undertaken it. There were nine or ten of their flying from the smoak, there was not them, all men of rank, whose names Dimnus any one that escaped. Sir John Burrowes to countenance the enterprize) reckoned and one that competed English was in great up to Nichomackus. Nichomackus had no danger of being lost at Margarita, in the looner freed bimielt from the company of Welf-Indies, by having the grafs fired behind this Traytor Dimnus, than he acquainted his him; but the smoak being timefully disco own Brother Ceballinus with the whole Hiwered, he recovered the Sea-shore with the story: whereupon it was agreed between lois of fixteen of his men. I remember these them, that Ceballinus (who might with least things; but to give caution to those that suspicion) should go to the Court, and utrer fhall in times to come invade any part of all. Ceballinus, meeting with Fhilosas, told those Countries, that they alwaies, before him the whole business; desiring him to ac-

6. XVII.

A Conspiracy against Alexander; The death of Philotas and Parmenio.

and Dranginia.

him for focurity of his own life. So, con- note as much better, as it is most general, in strained by tear, he made thew as if he had his Philotas: been won by perswasion; and by seeming at who did fet the long dry grass on fire to the liength to like well of the butiness, he was Faltward of them (the wind in those parts told more at large what they were that had they pass into the Land, burn down the quaint the King therewith: which he prograls, and fedge, to the East of them; they mised to do, but did not. Two dates pasmay otherwife, without any other enemy led, and Philotas never brake with the King than a handful of straw set on fire, dye the about the matter, but still excused hims if death of Hony-Bees, burnt out of the Hive- to Ceballinus by the Kings want of leifure. This his coldness bred suspicion, and cauled Ceballinus to address him elf to another, one Metron, Keeper of the Kings Armory, who forthwith brought him to Alexanders prefence. Alexander, finding by examination what had paffed between Ceballinus and Phi-Lexander was, after he parted hence, lotas, did fully perswade himtelf that this A no where refilted, till he came into concealment of the treason, argued his trand Aria, to the East of Badria, where the chief to have been in the buliness. Therefore City of that Province, called Artacoana, was when Dimnus was brought before him, he a while defended against him, by the revolt asked the Traytor no other question than of satribarzanes; but in the end he received this: Wherein have I fo offended thee, that thou the Inhabitants to mercy. At this place his Shouldest think Philotas more worthy to be a Army was re-enforced with a new supply King than 1? Dimnus perceiving when ne of five thousand and five hundred foot, and was apprehended, how the matter went, had or twe mounted horie, out of Greece, Thef to wounded himleff, that he lived no longer, falle, and other places. His journey out of than to give his last groan in the Kings pre-Perfiaintothese parts, is very confusedly de-sence. Then was Philotas called, and charferibed. For, having (as all his Historians ged with the suspicion, which his silence tell us) a determination to find Besses in might justly breed. His an wer was, That Badria, he leaves it at the very entrance, when the practice was revealed unto him by and takes the way of Hyrcania; from thence Nichomachus, he judging it to be but trihe wanders Northwards towards the ob- volous, did forbear to acquaint Akxanaer feure Mardi, upon the Caspian-Sea, and therewithal, until he might have better thence over the Mountain Coronus into Aria information. This error of his, (it it were only an error) although Alexander, for the At this time it was that the treason of notorious services of his Fatner Parmenio, Dimnus brake out, of which Philotas the Son of his Brother Nicanor lately dead, and of of Parmenio was acculed, as accessary, if not Philotas himself, had treely pardoned and principal. This Dimnus, having (I know given his hand for assurance; yer, by the innot upon what ground)conspired with some stigation of Craterus, he again (wallowed his others against the life of Alexander, went Princely promise, and made his enemies his about to draw Nicomachus, a young man Judges. Curtius gives a note of Craterus in whomhe loved, into the same treason. The this business; How he perswaded himself, Youth, although he was first bound by oath that he could never find a better occasion to secrecy, when he heard so foul a matter to oppress his private enemy, than by preuttered, began to protest against it so vehe- tending Piety, and duty towards the Kingmently, that his friend was like to have flain Hereof a Poet of our own hath given a

See how thefe great men cloathe their private In these fair colours of the publick good; And to effect their ends pretend the State, As if the State by their affection stood: And arm'd with Power and Frinces jealousies, Will put the least conceit of discontent Into the greatest rank of treacheries. That no one action (ball feem innocent: Yea, valour, bonor, bounty fhall be made As accessaries unto ends unjust : And even the serioce of the state must lade The needfull it undertaking with diftruit; So that base vileness, idle Luxury, Seem fafer far, than to do worthily, &c.

670

Now, although it were fo, that the King following the advice of Craterus, had refolved the next day to put Philotas to torment, yet in the very evening of the same night in should exceed in hatred towards him. which he was apprehended, he called him to Among many other arguments, which he a Banquet, and discoursed as familiarly used in his own defence, this was not the with him as at any other time. But when in weaken; That when Nichomachia defired to the dead of the night Philotos was taken in know of Dimnus, what men of mark and his lodging, and that they which hated him power were his partners in the confpiracy began to bind him, he cryed out upon the (as feeming unwilling to adventure himself King in these words; O Alexander, the malice of mine Enemies bath (urmounted thy mercy, and their hatred is far more constant than the word of a King. Many circumstances were others; but spake not a word of Philotas. urged against him by Alexander himself (for who by being Commander of the Horse, the Kings of Macedon did in person examine would greatly have valued the party, and the acculations of treason) and this was not have incouraged Nichomachus. Indeed, as the least (not the least offence, indeed, Philotas said well for himself, it is likely that against the Kings humour, who defired to be glorified as a god) That when Alexander wrote unto him concerning the title given though he had never dealt with him in any ed into that facred Fellowship of the gods, but tears, and forrow had so wasted his spi- death it self.

(bate, frits, as he fank under those that led him. In the end, the King asked him, In what language he would make his defence; he anwered. In the same wherein it had pleased the King to accuse him; which he did, to the end that the Persians, as well as the Macedonians, might understand him. But hereof the King made his advantage, perswading the affembly, that he disdained the language of his own Country; and so withdrawing himfelf, left him to his mercilefs enemies.

This proceeding of the Kings, Philotas greatly lamented, feeing the King, who had to tharply inveighed against him, would not vouchtafe to hear his excule. For not his enemies only were emboldened thereby against him, but all the rest, having discovered the Kings disposition and resolution; contended among themselves, which of them with mean and base Companions ) Dimnus named unto him Demetrius of the Kings Chamber, Nicanor, Amyntas, and fome Dimnus, thereby the better to have heartned Nicomachus, would have named him, him by Jupiter Hammon; He answered, That such practice. And for more certain proof, he could not but rejoyce that he was admit- that he knew nothing of their intents that practifed against the King, there was not and yet he could not but withal grieve for any one of the Conspirators, being many, those that should live under such a one as inforced by torments, or otherwise, that would exceed the nature of man. This could accuse him; and it is true, that adwas (faith Alexander) a firm perswasion un- versity being seldom able to bear her own to me, that his heart was changed, and that burthen, is for the most part found so malihe held my glory in despight. See what a cious, as she rather desires to draw others strange Monster Flattery is, that can per- (not always deserving it) into the same danfwade Kings to kill those that do not praise | ger, than to spare any that it can accuse. Yet and allow those things in them, which are at the last, howsoever it were, to avoid the of all other most to be abhorred. Philotas extremity of resistless and unnatural torwas brought before the multitude to hear ments, devised by his profest enemies Cratethe Kings Oration against him: he was rue, Cenus, Ephestion, and others, Philotas brought forth in vile garments, and bound accused his own self; being perswaded that like a Thief; where he heard himfelf, and they would have flain him forthwith. But he his absent Father, the greatest Captain of the failed even in that miserable hope, and suf-World, accused; his two other Brothers, fering all that could be laid on flesh and H. tor and Nicanor having been lost in the blood, he was forced to deliver, not what present War. He was so greatly opprest with he knew, but whatsoever best pleased their grief, as for a while he could utter nothing ears, that were far more merciless than ved thereat, because he was greatly suspectof Alexander, faith thus, Crudelitas minime never effect any thing worthy of praise. bumanum malum est, indignum tam miti animo; ferina ista rabies est sanguine gaudere & vulneribus, & abjecto homine, in silvestre animaltransire; Cruelty is not a humane vice, it How Alexander subdued the Bactrians, Sogis unworthy of so mild a spirat: It is even a beastly rage to delight in blood and wounds. and casting away the nature of man, to become a savage Monster.

For the conclusion of this Tragedy, Curtim makes a doubt, whether the confession

Of this kind of judicial proceeding St. Au- loved of the men of War, and, to fav the gustime greatly complaineth, as a matter to truth, he that had made the purchase for be bewailed, faith he, with Fountains of the King of the Empire of the East, and of tears, Quid cum in sua causa quisque tor quetur; all the glory and same he had: That he teats, 2 might not therefore revenge the death of of innocents luit pro incerto scelere certissimas his Son, though not upon the King (for it ronas: non quia iffud commissife detegitur sed was unlikely that he would have dishonoronis non commissife nescitur. What shall me ed his fidelity in his eldest age, having now fay to it, when one is put to torture in his own lived threefcore and ten years) yet upon coules and tormented whill yet it is in que- those that by the witchcraft of flattery had fion whether he be guilty; and being innocent, possest themselves of his affection, it was reluffers affured punishment for a fault, of which tolved, thathe thould be dispatcht. Polvdathere is no certainty: not because he is known mas was employed in this business, a man to have committed the offence, but because whom of all other Farmenio trusted most. others do not know that he hath not committed and loved belt, who (to be short) finding him in Atidia, and having Cleander and It had been enough for Alexanders fafe- other murderers with him, flew him walking ty, if Philotas had been put to death without in his Garden, while he was reading the torment, the rest would not much have grie- Kings Letters. His exitus Parmenionis fuit, militiæ domique clari viri ; Multa fine Rege ed. But Hemolaus, who afterward conspired prospere, Rex fine illo nibil mignæ rei gesserat; against him, made the Kings cruelty and de- This was the end of Parmenio (faith Curtius) light in blood, the greatest motive of his who had performed many notable things withown ill intent. Therefore, seneca, speaking out the King; but the King, without him, did

6. XVIII.

dians, and other people. How Beffus was delivered into his hands. How he fought with the Scythians.

W Hen these things had end, Alexander went on with his Army, and brought that Philotas made, were to give end to the under his obedience the Araspians, or Evertorments which he could not any longer en- gitans; he made Amenides (fometime D.tdure, or that the same was true indeed; For rim his Secretary) their Governor, then (faith he) in this case, they that speak tru- he subdued the Arachosians, and left Menon ly, or they that deny fallly, come to one and to command over them. Here the Army, the same end. Now while the Kings hands somtimes led by Parmenio, finds him, conwere vet wet in blood, he commanded that lifting of twelve thousand Macedons and Lyncestes, Son in Law to Antipater, who had Greeks, with whom he past through some been three years in prison, should be slain : cold Regions with difficulty enough. At The same dispatch had all those that Nico- length he came to the foot of the Mountain machus had accused: others there were that Taurus towards the East, where he built a were suspected because they had followed City, which he honoured with his own Philotas; but when they had answered for name, and peopled it with seven thousand themselves, that they knew no way so di- of his oldest Macedons, worn with age, and rect to win the Kings favour, as by loving with travels of the War. The Arians, who those whom the King favoured, they were since he left them were revolted, he subdudismist. But Parmenio was yet living; Par- ed again by the industry and valour of Camenio, who had ferved with great fidelity ranus and Erigius. And now he refolves to as well Philip of Macedon the Kings Father, find out the new King Beffus in Baltria. Befashimself; Parmenio, that first opened the first, hearing of his coming, prepares to pass way into Asia; that had deprest attalus the over the great River of Oxus, which divides Kings enemy; that had alwaies, and in all Badria from Sogdiana; Artabazus is made hazards, the leading of the Kings Van-Governor of Badtria abandoned by Beffus; guard, that was no less prudent in counsel, The Macedonian Army suffereth for want of than fortunate in all attempts; A man be- Water, infomuch as when they came to the River loft in any one Battel against the Persians. livered into his hands the Traytor Belling. And it may well be; For (as Clytus did after Many Cities were refolvedly defended object unto him) he fought against women, against him, all which, after victory, he deand not against mensand not against their per- faced and razed, killing all therein. At one fins, but their shadows. He found on the of these he received a blow on the neck, backs of this great River no manner of Tim- which struck him to the ground, and much ber or other materials, tomake either boats, difabled him for many days after. In the bridges, or raff, but was forced to few toge- mean while spitamenes had recovered Mather the hides that covered his carriages, racanda, against whom he employed Meneand stuff them with straw, and on them in demus with three thousand foot, and eight tix days to pals over his Army; which Beffus hundred horfe. reight callly have diffrest, if he had dared by to behold the Macedonian Army afar marched on (if we may believe Curtius and Oil. He had formerly complained against others) till he came to the River of Tanais; Derins for neglecting to defend the banks of upon whose bank he built another Alexan-Treria, and other pallages; and yet now, dria, threefcore furlongs in compals, which. when this trayterous flave had stiled himself he beautified with houses within seventeen a King, he durit not perform any thing wor- days after the walls built. The building of thy of a flave. And therefore those that were this City is faid to have been occasion of a negreft unto him, and whom he most trust- War between him and the Scythians; the c to wit, Spiramenes, Dataphernes, Cata- Scythian King perswading himself, that this zer, and others the Commanders of his Ar- new Town was fortified of purpose to keep my, moved both by the care of their own him under. I do not well understand, why fatery, and by the memory of Bessia his trea- the Soythians, offering war in such terrible fon and crucky against Darins, bound him manner, that Alexander was judged by his in the like manner, that he had done his Ma- own Souldiers to counterfeit fickness for vefter, but with this difference, that he had ry fear, should nevertheless make sute for the chain closed about his neck like a Ma- peace: neither find I the reason why Alexftiff-Dog, and fo was dragged along to be ander (not intending the Conquest of those pre ented to his Enemy.

at a certain Town inhabited with Greeks of alone, with whom he could not meddle fur-Miletum, brought thither by Xerxes, when ther than they should agree to suffer him. long before he returned out of Greece; whose Yet hereof is made a great matter; and a Hines had well-neer forgotten their Coun- victory described; in pursuit of which the try language. These most cruelly (after Macedons ran beyond the bounds and mothey had received him with great joy) he numents of Bacchus his Expedition. put to the fword, and destroyed their City. The truth is, That Curtius and Trogus At this place he received Beffus, and having have greatly mistaken this River, which rewarded Spitamenes with the rest that de- they call Tanais. For it was the River of Jaxlivered him, he gave the Traytor into the artes, that runs between Sogdiana and Scyhands of Oxatres, Darius his Brother, to be thia, which Alexander past over, while Menetormented.

ted his Camp; in repelling whom he received frant from any part of Ballria and Sogdiana, a flot in the leg, the arrow-head flicking and the way defart and unknown. So that in the fielh, fo as he was carried in a Horfe- Alexander had (belides Jaxartes) the great litter, fometime by the Horlemen, fome- River of Volga, and many others to swim time by the foot.

which Petrus Teronainus takes to be Samar- hardly have discovered with the Army that chand, the regal City of the great Tamerlain. followed him, if he had employed all the It had in compals threetcore and ten furlongs (Curtius faith. Here he received the Embar adors of the Seythians (called dvi- the Astatique Scythians, making some offer ans) who offered to ferve him.

R. verof Oxus, there dyed more of them by drinking inordinately, than Alexander had Spitamenes and Catanes, who had lately de-

In the heat of these tumults Alexander Northern defarts, but only the defence of In the mean while Alexander was arrived his own bank) thould refuse to let them

demus was employed in the recovery of Sa-But while he now thought himself secure, | marchand: But Tanais, which divides Asia twenty thousand Mountainers assaul- from Europe, is neer two thousand miles diover, ere he could recover Tanais: which Soon after he came unto Maracanda, (from the place where he was) he could time that he lived in Asia in that travel.

Wherefore ir is enough to believe, that in disturb the erection of his new City, The Badrians are shortly again with the which was like to give some hinderance to men executions; and being naked of defensive new start-up-Rebel, called Arimases (a Arms, eafly chased some ten or twelve miles; Sogdian) followed with thirty thousand whichis the fubltance of Curtius his report. Souldiers, that defended against him a As for the limits of Bacchus his journey, like strong piece of ground on the top of a high enough it is that Bacchu (if in his life- Hill; whom when Alexander had fought in rime he were as fober a man, as after his vain to win by fair words, he made choice time in words held a drunken god) went not of three hundred young men, and promifed very far into that walte Country, where he tentalents to the first, nine to the second, could find nothing but trees and stones, and so in proportion to the reit, that could nor other business than to set up a Monu- find a way to creep up to the top thereof-

ment. to have been flain, and one thousand one a fign to Alexander, that they had performto nave been man, that they mad perform-hundred hurt in this fight, which might ea- ed his commandment. Hereupon he fent one hundred nurt in this ignt, which might dead if ye in passing a great River, defended Copber to perswade Aribuszer to yield the against them by good Archers. Of Septhian place; who, being shewed by Copber that the against them of Sold eight hundred were Army of Macedon was already mounted up, houghtinto the Camp, and many prisoners. yielded simply to Alexanders mercy, and t is forbidden by fome Historians, and in- was (with all his kindred) feourged and deed it is hardly possible, to set down the crucified to death; which punishment they numbers of such as perish in Battel: yet Ce- well deserved for neglecting to keep good far commonly did it. And where the dili- watch in fo dangerous a time. For the place, gence of the Victors hath been foinquisitive as feems by the description, might easily into the greatness of their own succeis, that have been defended against all the Armies Writers have been able to deliver such par- of the World. But, what strength cannot do, ticulars by credible report, I hold it not un- Mans wit, being the most forcible engine, lawful to fet down what we find; especially hath often effected. Of which I will give when it serves to give light to the busines you an example in a place of our own. inhand. The small number which the Macedoniant loft; the omission of the number and of that Government, was in Queen Maw, who forbears nothing that may fet out never have been recovered again by ftrong the greatness of Alexander) and the little hand, having cattel and corn enough upon booty that was gotten, do make it probable, the place to feed fo many men as will lerve a great exploit by others.

new Governor in that Province.

their excursions, were driven away by the other for mutual succour. But he finds a This they performed with the loss of some Threescore of the Macedonians are said two and thirty of their men, and then made

The Illand of Sark, joyning to Garnsey, which they slew (a thing not usual in Curti- ries time surprized by the French, and could that this War was no better than the repul- to defend it, and being every way so inacfion of a few roving Tartars (the like being cessible, that it might be held against the yearly performed by the Moscovite, without Great Turk. Yet by the industry of a Gentleany boaft) and therefore better omitted by man of the Netherlands, it was in this fort fome Historians, than so highly extolled as regained. He anchored in the road with one Ship of small burthen, and pretending the While Alexander was affuring himfelf of death of his Merchant; befought the French, those Scythians bordering upon Jaxartes, being some thirty in number, that they he received the ill news that Menedensus might bury their Merchant in hallowed was flain by spitamenes, the Army (by him Ground, and in the Chappel of that ille; of led) broken, and the greatest numbers slain, fering a present to the French of such Comto wit, two thousand foot, and three hun- modities as they had aboard; whereto (with dred horse. He therefore, to appeale the re- condition that they should not come alhore bellion, and to take revenge of spitamenes, with any weapon, no not fo much as with a makes all the haste he can; but spitamenes Knife) the Frenchmen yielded. Then did the flies into Battria. Alexander kills, burns, and Fleming, put a Coffin into their Boat, not lays waste all before him, not sparing the filled with a dead catkass, but with Swords, innocent children, and so departs, leaving a Targets, and Harquebusses; The French received them at their landing; and searching To repair this loss, he received a great every of them so narrowly as they could not Supply of nineteen thousand Souldiers out of hide a Pen-knife, gave them leave to draw Greece, Lycia, and Syria; with all which, and their Coffin up the Rocks with great diffithe old Army hereturns towards the South, culty ; some part of the French took the Fleand passeth the River of Oxus ; on the South mish Boat, and rowed aboard their Ship, to fide whereof he built fix Towns neer each fetch the commodities promifed, and what el e they pleated; but being entred, they head presented to Alexander. Spitamenes bewere taken and bound. The Flemings on ing taken away, the Dacons also seized upon the Land, when they had carried their Cof- his Fellow-Conspirator Dataphernes, and in into the Chappel, that the door to them, delivered him up. So Alexander being now and taking their weapons out of the Coffin, freed from all these petty Rebels, disposed fer upon the French; they run to the Cluff, of the Provinces which he past over, and and cry to their company aboard the Fleming went on with his Army into Gabaza, where to come to their fuccour, but finding the it fuffered fo much Hunger, Cold, Lightning, Boat charged with Flemings yielded them- Thunder, and Storm, as he loft in one Temskin that elfe would be too thort.

CHAP. II

of the Hiftory of the World.

6-1

s. XIX.

How Alexander flew bis own friends.

Fter thefe Sogdian and Scythian Wars, we read of Alexanders killing of a Li on, and other Frivolous matters, and that he committed the Government of Maracan da, and the Country about it, to Clyius, and how he flew him foon after, for valuing the virtue of Fhilip the Father before that of Alexander the fon, or rather because he ob jected to the King the death of Parmenio, and derided the Oracle of Hammon: for therein he toucht him to the quicksthe fame being delivered in publick, and at adrunken honelt arguments used to the affembly, he Banquet. Clyin, indeed, had deferved at the Cleo, That he thought, that Alexander much at the Kings hands, as any man living would disdain the gift of God-head from his had done, and had in particular faved had Vanids; That the opinion of Sanctity, life, which the King well remembred when though it did sometime follow the death of he came to himself, and when it was too late. those, who in their life time had done the Yet, to fay the truth, Clytus his in olency was greatest things, yet it never accompanied any intolerable. As he in his Cups forgat whom one as yet living in the world. He further he offended, so the King in his (for neither told him, That neither Hercules nor Bacchus of them were themselves) forgat whom he were Deified at a Banquet, and upon drink went about to flay: for the grief whereof (for this matter was propounded by cleo at he tare his own face, and for rowed to inor- a carowing feaft:) but that, for the more dinately, as, but for the periwasions of Ca- than manly acts by them performed while listhenes, it is thought he would have slain they lived, they were in future and succeed-

tance: But preceding muchiefs are not that was spoken, waiting but an opportunity amended by fucceeding bewailing: omne to be revenged on Califthenes, who being a vitium ebrictas & incendit, & detegit; obstantem malis conatibus verecundiam removet ; ver of the Kings honor, was yet toon after whi possed to death; not for that he had bemult latebat, emergit; non ficit ebriefus viria, traved the King to others, but because he (ed protrabit; Drunkenness both kindles and never would condescend to betray the King lays op n every vice; it removes out of the to himfelf, as all his detestable flatterers did.

felves and the place. Thus a Fox-tail doth peft a thoufand of his Train. From hencehe fometims help well to piece out the Lyons-invaded the Sacurs, and destroyed their Country. Then came he into the Territory of Cohortanes, who submitted himself unto him, feafted him greatly, and prefented him with thirty beautiful Virgins, among whom Resema, afterwards his Wife, was one: which although all the Micedoniani difduned, yet none of them durft use any freedom of speech after Clytus his death. From hence he directed his course towards India. having to increased his numbers, as they amounted to an hundred and twenty thoufind armed men.

In the mean while he would needs be honored as a god: whereto that he might allure the Macedonians, he employed two pernicious Parafites, Hagis and Cleo; whom Califebenes opposed: For, among many other ing ages numbred among the gods. Alexan-Wine begat Fury, Fury matter of Repen- der stood behind a partition, and heard all man of free speech, honest, learned, and a loway that shame which gives impediment unto For in a conspiracy against the King made bad attempts; where wine gets the maftery, all by one Hermolaus and others (which they the ill that before lay hidden breaks out : drun- confest) he caused Califthenes without conkenness indeed rather discovers vices, than fession, accusation or trial, to be tornasunder upon the rack: This deed unworthy of a Soon after this, Spitamines, who flew King, Seneca thus cenfureth, Hoc eft Alexan-Beffus, and had lately revolted from Alex- dri crimen eternum, quod nulla virtus, nulla ander, was murthered by his Wile, and his bellorum falicitas redimet: Nam quoties quis dixerit . Occidit Perfarum multa milita ; opportur & Califthenem. Quoties didum erit Quidit Darium; opponitur, & Califrhenem. Quoties didum crit. Omnia Oceano tenus vicit. num quoq; tentavit noris classibus, & Imperium ex angulo Thracia ufq; ad orientis terminos protulit; dicetur, fed Califthenem ocedit. Omnia licet antiqua Ducum Regumque magnum erit quam scelus Califthenis; This so the eternal crime of Alexander, which no able to redeem: For as often as any man shall say. He flew many thousand Perfians; it shall be him have out-gone all the ancient examples of Captains and Kings; none of all his acts make

ø. XX.

between him and Porus.

taken by Polysperchon, and a Rock of great half a mile, and withall deep and twift. It trength by lamiels, he can see a parage upon one Figs, who was then by his combany, and his head prejented to allow their. This is the fum of Alexanders deling on those parts, before tuckning as he arrived at the River of Indus. Coming to Indee, he found there Fpkeylion, who tomag dent before ) had prepared Boats for the transpariation of als exempla transferit, ex bis que secit nibil tam Army, and ere Auxanders graved, had per-(waded Omphis King of that part of the Country, to fubmit man'ele to this great werthe nor felicity of his in War shall ever be Conquerour. Therefore, toon wood Maranders coming, Omphis pretented himself with all the ffrength of ms. Courtieve and re pier man, and he flew Califthenes. It x and hity Elephants, thin hand collecting then it fall be faid, he flew Darius; it flad him his tervice and chinance. He was he relyed, and Califthenes. When it shall be Alexander know, that he was an Enemy to faid, he wan all as far as the very Ocean, thereon the next two great Kings of that part of allo be adventured with unusual Navies, and India, named Abiajares and Forus; where extended his Empire from a corner of Thrace, with Alexander was not a little pleased, histo the utmost bounds of the Orient; It shall be ping by this dif-union to make his own Vifaid withall, But be killed Calisthenes. Let Ctory by far the more case. He preferred Alexander with a Crown of Gold, to did be the rest of his Commanders, and withall so much to his glory, as Califthenes to his fourfcore Talents of Silver Coyn; which Alexander not only refuted, but to hew that he was covetous of glory, not of gold, he gave Omphis a thouland Talents of his own treasure, besides other Persian rarities. Abiaof Alexanders journey into India. The battel fares, having heard that Alexander had received his enemy Omphis into his protection, refolved to make his own peace alto: For, With the Army before remembred, of knowing that his own frength did but one hundred and twenty thousand equal that of Omphis, and that there was no foot and horse, Alexander did enter the bor- other difference between them, than that dersof India, where such of the Princes, as which the chance of War gave, he thought submitted themselves unto him, he enter- it an ill match, when Alexanuer, who had tained lovingly, the rest he constrained, already beaten under foot all the greatest killing, Man, Woman, and Childe, where they Princes of Afia, thould make himfelt a Party refisted. He then came before Nifa, built by and Head of the quarrel. So had Alexander Bacchus, which after a few dayes was ren- none now to stand in his way but Porus, to dred unto him. From thence he removed to whom he fent a commandement, that he a Hill at hand, which on the top had good- should attend him at the border of his Kingly Gardens, filled with delicate fruits and dom, there to do him homage. But from Vines, dedicated to Bacchus, to whom he Porus he received this manly answer; That made fealts for ten dayes together. Now he would fatisfie him in his first demand, when he had drunk his fill, he went on to- which was to attend him on his borders, and wards Dedula, and from thence to Acadera, that well accompanied; but for any other Countreys spoyled and abandoned by the acknowledgment he was resolved to take Inhabitants; by reason whereof, victuals fail- counsel of his Sword. To be thort, Alexaning, he divides his Army: Ptolomy led one der refolves to pass over the River Hydrifes, part, Cenon another, and himself the rest. and to find Forus at his own home. Porus They take many Towns, whereof that of attends him on the farther bank with thirty greatest fame was Mazage, which had in it thousand foot, fourscore and ten Elephant., three hundred thousand men; but after and three hundred armed Chariots, and a fome refistance, it was yielded unto him by great troop of Horse. If Darius had done the Cleophe the Queen, to whom again he re- like on Tigris, Alexander had furely stayed flored it ; at the fiege of this City he receiv- somewhat longer ere he had feen India. The eda wound in the leg. After this, Nora was River was four furlongs broad, which makes had in it many Itlands, among which there! querour, from whom again he received his we one well fradowed with wood, and of estate with a great enlargement. good capacity. Alexander fent Ptolomy up the River with a great part of the Army, throwding the reft from the view of Porus: who by this device being drawn from his How Alexander finished his Expedition . and first incamping, fets himself down opposite to Ptolomy, supposing that the whole Army of Macedon, meant to force their pallage there. In the mean while Alexander recovers the farther shore without resistance. He orders his troops, and advanceth to- ans found in these their travels: or of those wards Form, who at first rather believes, petty Wars which Alexander made between that Aliafares his Confederate (but now the the overthrow of Porus, and his failing down Confiderate of fortune) had been come the River of Indus. The descriptions of over Hydasper to his aid, than that Alexander places about the head and branches thereof had jaft it. But he finds it otherwise, and are better known unto us in this Age, by finds his brother Hack with four thousand means of our late Navigations into those Hule, and a hundred armed Waggons to parts, than they were in any former times. entertain him. Each Waggon had in it four The magnificence and riches of tho Kings to hight, and two to guide it; but they were we could in no fort be perswaded to believe, at this time of little ufe : for there had fallen till our own experience had taught us, that to much rain, and thereby the fields were fo there were many stranger things in the moistned, as the horses could hardly trot. World, than are to be seen between London The Softhians and Dahans had the Vant- and Stanes. guard, who fo galled these Indians, as they brake their rains, and other Furniture, in the year 1372, and had feen so much of overturning the Waggons, and those in the World, and of the East India, we acmanding Conus or Conon to invade the right;

Qqqq

Antigonus and Leonatus, he directed to break upon Porus his battel of foot, firengthened with Elephants, Porus himself being carried Spes, Zaradis, Acesines, and the rest fall into upon one of them, of the greatest stature. the main stream, are now possess by the By these beatts the Macedonian foot were great Mogol the ninth from Tamberlain, who most offended; but the Archers and Darters, commands all the tract between Persia and being well guarded with the long and Indus towards the West, as also a great who also far exceeded Form in number: for Dionyfopolis. belides the Bucedonians and other Eastern and Northern Nations, Porus was attailed by us, speaking of the expedition of Bacchus and returned out of India.

o. XXI.

T Forbear to trouble my felf and others with a frivolous discourse of Serpents. Apes and Peacocks, which the Macedoni-

Our great traveller Mandevile, who died them. Perdices also gave up the Indian counted the greatest fabler of the World; horse-men, and the one and the other were yet had he another reputation among other forc'd to recoil. Form moves forward with the gross of his Army, that those of his Van-guard scattered might recover his Rear; the Monument made of him in the Coven of the Friers Guillimius in Liege, where the Alexander being followed with Ephellion, Religious of that place keep fome things of Ptolomy, and Perdice, took on him to charge his, Comme pour honourable memoire de for the Indian horse-men on the left wing, com- Excellence; For an honourable memory of his meta ftrong pikes of the Mucedonians, fo galled extent of Country towards Ganges. In the them, as being inraged, they turned head, mouth of Indus, the Ascension, a Ship of Lorand ran over the foot that followed them: don, suffered shipwrack, in the year 1609. In the end, and after a long and doubtfull and some of the company travelled over fight, by the advantage of weapon, and by Land till they came to Agra, the same great the courage and skillfulness of the Macedon: City (as I take it) which our later Cosmoan Captains, the victory fell to Alexander, graphers call Nagra, being named of old his own Confederate and Country people. Hercules into the East India, tells us, that Yet for his own person he never gave those two great Captains (whom Alexander ground otherwise than with his sword to- sought by all means to out-fame) when they wards his enemies, till being weakened endevoured to subject to them the Oxidrate, with many wounds, and abandoned by his a people inhabiting between the Rivers of Army, he became a prisoner to the Con-Hiphasis and Ganges, they were beaten from beyond Indus and Ganges, more terrible Targets, with many other things rare and unto them than the greatest Army that the East could gather. Yet at the last contented than Horses could feed in. He caused all Serpent. furniture of men and horses to be made make it thought more than it was. he called Nicea, and the other Bucephalen, therein, and other the marvellous provisions after the name of his beloved Horse Bucepha- made.

the attault of their Cities with thunder and has. Here again he received a tour thrupply lightnings. This may well be understood by of fix thousand Thracian Florie men, seven the great Ordnance that those people had thousand Foot 5 and from his Licutement at then in u.e. For it is now certainly known, Babylon five and twenty thou and Armoure, that the great Kings of the uttermost East, garnished with alver and go'd, which he dehave had the use of the Cannon many Lun stributed among his Sorbiness. About these dreds of years fince, and even fince their first Rivers he wan many Towns, and committed evility and greatness, which was long before great thughter on those that resisted; It is Alexander's time. But Alexander piere'd not then written of him, that ail adding a Gi vor fo fir into the East. It sufficed, that having the Oxidracans, he least from the top of the already over-wearied his Army, he disco- wall into it, and fought, I know not how vered the rest of India by fame. The Indian long, against all the Inhabitants 5 tales like Kings whom he had subdued, informed him, those of Bears of Southampton, frivolous and that a Prince called Aggramenes, who com- incredible. Finally, he pais'd down the River manded many Nations beyond the River with his fleet, at which time also the news Ganges, was the powerfullest King of all came unto him of a rebellion in Bactria, and those Regions: and that he was able to then of the arrival of an hundred Embaffabring into the field two hundred thousand dours from a King of India, who submitted Foot, three thousand Elephants, twenty himself unto him. He feated these Embasthousand Horse, and two thousand armed sadours upon a hundred beds of gold, with Chariots. With this report, though Alex- all the sumpruosity that could be devised. ander were more inflamed than ever to pro- who, foon after their dispatch, returned ceed in this discovery and conquest, yet all again with a present of three hundred the arthe had, could not perswade the Soul- Horses, one hundred and thirty Waggons, diers to wander over those great Defarts and to each of them four Horses, a thousand

Their entertainments ended, he failed they were, after many perswasive Orations, towards the South, passed through many to follow him towards the South, to disco- obscure Nations, which did all yield unto versuch part of the Ocean Sea, as was nearer him either quietly, or compelled by force: at hand, whereunto the River of Indus was among these he builded another Alextheir infallible guide. Alexander seeing that andria. Of many places which he took it would be no otherwise, devised a pretty in this passage, Samos was one, the Inhatrick, wherewith he hoped to beguile po- oitants whereof fought against him with ficrity, and make himfelf feem greater than poyfoned fwords, with one of which Ptolohe was. He enlarged his Camp, made greater my (afterward King of Egypt) was woundtrenches, greater Cabbins for Souldiers, ed, and cured by an herb which Alexander greater Horse-stalls, and higher Mangers dreamt he had seen in the mouth of a

When he came neer the out-let of Indus larger than would serve for use; and scat- (being ignorant of the tides of the Sca) his tered these Armours and Bridles about his Gallies, as they were on a sudden shuffled one Camp, to be kept as reliques, and wondred upon another by the Flood, fo on the Ebb at by the Savages. Proportionable to these they were left on the dry ground, and on he raised up twelve great Altars to be the the sandy banks of the River, wherewith the monument of his journeys end. This was a Macedonians were much amazed; but after ready way to encrease the same of his big- he had a few dayes observed well the course nels; to his greatnels it could add nothing of the Sea, he past out of the Rivers mouth fave a suspition, that it was less than is some few miles, and after Sacrifices offered thought, feeing he strove so earnestly to to Neptune, returned: and the better to inform himself, he sent Nearchus and Onesicri-This done, he returned again to the bank | tus, to discover the coast towards the mouth of Acesmer, and there determined to set up of Euphrales. Arrianus in the beginning of his his sleet, where Acesmus and Hydaspes instructions, where to testifie by a surer monnth River of Indus at length, with the manment, how far he had past towards the East, ner of the Vessels in which he transported he built by those Rivers two Cities: the one his Army, the Commanders that were used

Qqqq 2

Near the out-lets of this River, he spent | certain loose fellows to witness against or-Caves march from thence recovered Gedro- which he was condemned to dye; but he for in which patlage his Army fuffered fuch affifted the Hang-man with his own hands mi ery for want of rood, that of a hundred and twenty thousand foot, and twelve thounand horse, which he carried into India, not his greatness. Caperat (faith Curtius) esse prathe fourth part returned alive.

ø. XXII.

Of Alexanders Riot, Cruelty, and Death.

Rom Gedrofia, Alexander led his Army into Carmania, and fo drawing near to Perlia, he gave himself wholly to feating Philosopher burnt himself, when he had and drinking, initating the triumphs of lived threefcore and thirteen years. Whe-Backlus. And though this Swinish vice be ther herein he followed the custome of his hatefull enough in it felf, yet it alwayes in- Country, being an Indian, or fought to preflamed this King to Cruelty. For (faith vent the griet and incommodity of elder Curtius ) the Hang-man followed the feast: for age, it is uncertain: but in this the Histori-Afpaftes, one of his Provincial Governours, he ans agree, that fore-feeing and fore-shewing commanded to be flain; so as neither did the Alexanders death, he promised to meet him excels of voluptuousness qualifie his cruelty, shortly after at Babylon. nor his crueity binder in ought his voluptuousness. sters of his Ire.

Euphrates, and find the King at Babylon.

hath a far Sepulchre of Cyrus in Pafargada, now called pest of their fury. But afterward, as Whales different actions of the description Chalquera: where he was presented with are drawn to the Land with a twine-three, me part of the Winter, and in eighteen fines, that he had robbed cyrus Tomb, for in tormenting him. At which time also Alexander caused Phradites to be Ilain, suspecting ceps ad reprasentanda supplicia, item ad diteriora credenda; He began head-longly to fled blood, and believe falle reports. It is time that he took a way to make all men weary of his Government, feeing cruelty is more fearful, than all adventures that can be made against it.

At this time it is faid, that Calanus the

From Palargada he came to Sula, where he married Statira Darius his eldeft Daugh-While he refreshed his Army in thefe ter, giving her younger fifter to his beloved parts, a new supply of five thousand foot and Ephestian, and fourscore other Persian Ladies a thousand horse, was brought him by cle- to his Captains. There were six thousand ander, and his fellows, that had been employ- guests invited to the feast, to each of which ed in the Killing of Parmenio. Against these he gave a cup of gold. Herethere came unto Murderers, great complaint was made by him three thousand young Souldiers, out of the Deputies of the Provinces, in which they his conquered Provinces, whereat the Macehad commanded; and their offences were donians greatly murmured. Harpalus, his fo outragious, as Alexander was perswaded, Treasurer in Babyle o, having lavishly conthat, had they not altogether despaired of sumed the moneys in his keeping, got him his return out of India, they durst not have going with five thousand Talents, and fix committed them. All men were glad of thousand hired Souldiers; but he was rethe occasion, remembring the vertue of jected in Greece, and there Ilain. Alexander him, whom they had flaughtered. The greatly rejoyced at the fidelity of the Greeks, end was, That Cleander, and the other chief, whom Harpalus with these forces and treawith fix hundred Souldiers by them em- fures could not ftirr : yet he fent commandployed, were delivered over to the Hang- ment, that they should again receive their man: every one rejoycing that the Ire of banished men, whereunto (fearfull of his inthe King was at last executed on the mini- dignation) all submitted themselves (except the Athenians ) though they refolved, that Nearchus and Onesicritus were now re- it was a manifest preparation towards their turned from the coast, and made report of bondage. After this, there followed a maran Island rich in gold, and of other strange vellous discontentment in his Army, because things; whereupon they were commanded he had refolved to the bas Macedon all to make fome farther discovery: which those old Souldiers wand could no longer done, that they should enter the mouth of endure the travel of Was and to keep the rest in Asia. He used many Orations to satis-As he drew near to Babylon, he visited the fie them, but it was in vote during the temmany rich gifts by Orfines, one of the Princes when they have tumbled a while; fo are of Persia, or the race of Cyrus. But because the unconsiderate multimade easily con-Bagoas, an Eunuch in special favour with the ducted when their first patiens are evapo-King, was neglected; he not only practifed rate. With fuch as were ironfed to depart, being now at an end. For Antipater faw no- followed in all the former War. thing in this remove, but the Kings disposition to fend him after Parmenio, and the rest. With this Antipater, the King, notwithstanding his great courage, had no great appetite to grapple: Princes, though jealous, do not fland in doubt of every man ill-affected, how fland in doubt of every man ill-affected. How for every man ill-affected, flow for every fland in the executed, no more though valiant: but there is a kind of King-ed the World within a few dayes. domsten or twelve years, knew not how to persons: for whereas virtue is ever limited

he fent Craterus, to whom he gave the Lieu- play any other part; no more than Caylo renanthip of Mucedon, Theffaly, and Thruce, did, after he had to long a time governed which Antipater had held from his first de- the Gauls, where he utterly torget the art parture out of Europe, who had beaten the of obedience. A most cruel and ungrateful partitions Greeks in his absence, discharged Traitor Antipater was, it Curtus do not bethe trust committed unto him with great fi-lye him: For though he scared some ill deity, and fent him to many strong supplies measure upon his remove (the fragedies of into Afia from time to time. Certainly, if Parmenio, Clytus, and Callillhones, having mo of man and not taken counsel of his cups, been so lately acted) yet he knew nothing he would have cast some better colour on to the contrary, but that the King had rethis alteration, and given antipater a strong-solved to have given him some other great er reason for his remove, than to have im-Government in Asia: The old Souldiers ployed him in the conduction of a new fup-thence returned, having perchance defired ply to be brought him to Babylon, the War to be governed by Craterus, whom they had

ø. XXIII.

of Alexanders person and qualities.

ly courage, compounded of hardiness and than his vanity to be esteemed the Son of understanding, which is many times so fear- Jupiter, with his excessive delight in drink full unto them, as they take leave both of and drunkenness, which others make the Law and Religion, to free themselves cause of his seaver and death. In that he lamented his want of enterprising, and griev-After he had sent for Antipater, he made a ed to consider what he should do when he journey into Media to fettle things there; had conquered the World, Augustus Casar where Ephestion, whom he favoured most found just cause to deride him, as if the wellof all men, dies. The King, according to the governing of fo many Nations and Kinggreatness of his love, laments his loss, hangs doms, as he had already conquered, could his Physician, and bestows upon his Monu- not have offered him matter more than ment twelve thou (and talents: After which aboundant, to busie his brains withall. That he returns to Babylon. Thither Antipater he was both learned, and a lover of learncame not, but sent; and not to excuse him-ing, it cannot be doubted. Sir Francis Bafelf, but to free himself. For if we believe con, in his first Book of the Advancement of Curius ( whom Plutarch and others gain- Learning, hath proved it sufficiently. His lifay) Antipater by his Sons, Cassander, Philip, berality, I know not how to praise, because and Iolla, who waited on Alexanders cup, it exceeded proportion. It is faid, That gave him poyson; Thessands (who was of the when he gave a whole City to one of his Conspiracy) having invited him to a drink- servants, he, to whom it was given, did out ing-feast of purpose. For after he had taken of modelty refuseit, as disproportionable to a carouse in Hercules his cup, a draught of his fortune : to whom Alexander replyed. drink stronger than Hercules himself, he quit- That he did not enquire what became him to accept, but the King to give : of which Certainly the Princes of the World have Seneca; Animosa vox videtur & regia, cum Ladi bis. seldom found good, by making their Mini- st stultistima. Nibil enim per se quenquan e 1. sters over-great, and thereby inspicious to decet. Refert quid, cui, quando, quare, ubi. themselves. For he that doth not acknow- oc. fine quibus facit ratio non constabit; buledge fidelity to be a debt, but is perswaded, beatur personarum & dignitatum proportio. & that Kings ought to purchase it from their cum sit ubiq; virtuis modus, aque peccat quod Vassals, will never please himself with the excedit, quam quod deficit; It scems a brave price given. The only restorative, indeed, and Royal speech, whereas indeed it is very that strengthens it, is the goodness and vir- foolish. For nothing simply considered by it self tue of the Prince, and his liberality makes beseems a man. We must regard what to it more diligent; so as proportion and di- whom, when, why, where, and the like; withstance be observed. It may be, that Antipa- out which considerations, no alt can be approter, having commanded two or three King- ved. Let honours be proportioned unto the

Near the out-lets of this River, he spent | certain loose fellows to witness against orone part of the Winter, and in eighteen fines, that he had robbed Cyrus Tomb, for cayes march from thence recovered Gedro- which he was condemned to dye; but he fer in which patlage his Army suffered such affished the Hang-man with his own hands milery for want of food, that of a hundred and twenty thousand foot, and twelve thounand horse, which he carried into India, not his greatness. Caperat (faith Curtius) esse prathe fourth part returned alive.

ø. XXII.

of Alexanders Riot, Cruelty, and Death.

Rom Gedrofia, Alexander led his Army against it. into Carmania, and fo drawing near to Persia, he gave himself wholly to feasing Philosopher burnt himself, when he had and drinking, imitating the triumphs of lived threefcore and thirteen years. Whe-Bacchus. And though this Swinish vice be ther herein he followed the custome of his hatefull enough in it felf, yet it alwayes in- Country, being an Indian, or fought to preflamed this King to Cruelty. For (faith vent the grief and incommodity of elder Curtini) the Hang man fullowed the scass for age, it is uncertain: but in this the Historian Aspaltes, one of his Provincial Governours, be commanded to be flain; so as neither did the Alexanders death, he promised to meet him excess of voluptuousness qualifie bis cruelty, shortly after at Babylon. nor his cruesty hinder in ought his voluptuousness. parts, a new supply of five thousand foot and Epheltion, and fourscore other Persian Ladies a thousand horse, was brought him by Cle- to his Captains. There were six thousand ander, and his fellows, that had been employ- guests invited to the feast, to each of which ed in the Killing of Parmenio. Against these he gave a cup of gold. Here there came unto Murderers, great complaint was made by him three thousand young Souldiers, out of the Deputies of the Provinces, in which they his conquered Provinces, whereat the Matehad commanded; and their offences were donians greatly murmured. Harpalus, his fo outragious, as Alexander was perswaded, Treasurer in Babylen, having lavishly conthat, had they not altogether despaired of sumed the moneys in his keeping, got him his return out of India, they durst not have going with five thousand Talents, and six committed them. All men were glad of thousand hired Souldiers; but he was refters of his Ire.

Nearchus and Onesicritus were now redone, that they should enter the mouth of Euphrates, and find the King at Babylon.

hath a far Sepulchre of Cyrus in Pafargada, now called post of their fury. But afterward, as Whales different decomption Chalquera: where he was presented with are drawn to the Land with a twine-thred, of Gras many rich gifts by Orfines, one of the Princes when they have tumbled a while; fo are in tormenting him. At which time also Alexander caused Phradites to be flain, suspecting ceps ad repræsentanda supplicia, item ad diteriora credenda; He began head-longly to fleed blood, and believe falle reports. It is true that he took a way to make all men weary of his Government, feeing cruelty is more fearful, than all adventures that can be made

At this time it is faid, that Calanus the

From Pasargada he came to Susa, where he married Statira Darius his eldest Daugh-While he refreshed his Army in these ter, giving her younger sister to his beloved the occasion, remembring the vertue of jected in Greece, and there Ilain. Alexander him, whom they had flaughtered. The greatly rejoyced at the fidelity of the Greek, end was, That Cleander, and the other chief, whom Harpalus with these forces and treawith fix hundred Souldiers by them em- fures could not ftirr : yet he fent commandployed, were delivered over to the Hang-man: every one rejoycing that the Ire of banished men, whereunto (fearfull of his inthe King was at last executed on the mini- dignation) all submitted themselves (except the Athenians ) though they resolved, that it was a manifest preparation towards their turned from the coast, and made report of bondage. After this, there followed a maran Island rich in gold, and of other strange vellous discontentment in his Army, because things; whereupon they were commanded he had refolved to feed into Macedon all to make some farther discovery: which those old Souldiers which could no longer endure the travel of War, and to keep the rest in Asia. He used many Orations to satis-As he drew near to Babylon, he visited the fie them, but it was in vain during the temof Persia, of the race of Cyrus. But because the unconfiderate multimade easily con-Bagoss, an Eunuch in special favour with the ducted when their first patiens are evaporating, was neglected; he not only practifed rate. With such as were iteened to depart, being now at an end. For Antipater faw no- followed in all the former War. thing in this remove, but the Kings disposition to fend him after Parmenio, and the reft. With this Antipater, the King, notwithstanding his great courage, had no great appetite to grapple: Princes, though jealous, do tite to grappie. It files, in oga jean and in affected, not fland in doubt of every man ill affected, though valiant: but there is a kind of Kingly courage, compounded of hardiness and than his vanity to be effected the Son of thereof.

where Epheftion, whom he favoured most found just cause to deride him, as if the wellof all men, dies. The King, according to the governing of fo many Nations and Kinged the World within a few dayes.

domsten ortwelve years, knew not how to persons: for whereas virtue is ever limited

he fent Craterus, to whom he gave the Lieup play any other part; no more than Cafar renanthip of Macedon, Theffaly, and Thrace, did, after he had so long a time governed which Antipater had held from his first de- the Gauls, where he utterly forgat the art parture out of Europe, who had beaten the of obedience. A most cruel and ungrateful partitions Greeks in his absence, discharged Traitor Antipater was, il Curtus do not bethe trust committed unto him with great fi-lye him: For though he scared some ill deity, and fent him to many strong supplies measure upon his remove (the Tragedies of into Afia from time to time. Certainly, if Parmenio, Clytus, and Calliflhenes, having mo and anot taken counsel of his cups, been so lately acted) yet he knew nothing he would have cast some better colour on to the contrary, but that the King had rene would to have given him some other great this alteration, and given antipater a strong-solved to have given him some other great er reason for his remove, than to have im- Government in Asia: The old Souldiers ployed him in the conduction of a new sup-thence returned, having perchance defired ply to be brought him to Babylon, the War to be governed by Craterus, whom they had

o. XXIII.

of Alexanders person and qualities.

understanding, which is many times so fear- Jupiter, with his excessive delight in drink full unto them, as they take leave both of and drunkenness, which others make the Law and Religion, to free themselves cause of his seaver and death. In that he lamented his want of enterprising, and griev-After he had sent for Antipater, he made a ed to consider what he should do when he journey into Media to fettle things there; had conquered the World, Augustus Cafar greatness of his love, laments his loss, hangs doms, as he had already conquered, could his Physician, and bestows upon his Monu- not have offered him matter more than ment twelve thou (and talents: After which aboundant, to busie his brains withall. That he returns to Babylon. Thither Antipater he was both learned, and a lover of learncame not, but fent; and not to excuse him-ing, it cannot be doubted. Sir Francis Bafelf, but to free himfelf. For if we believe con, in his first Book of the Advancement of Curtius ( whom Plutarch and others gain- Learning, hath proved it sufficiently. His li-Carnin (whom rimates and fall and riverse that the state of the state gave him poyson; Thessalus (who was of the when he gave a whole City to one of his Conspiracy) having invited him to a drink- fervants, he, to whom it was given, did out ing feast of purpose. For after he had taken of modesty refuseit, as disproportionable to a carouse in Hercules his cup, a draught of his fortune : to whom Alexander replyed, drink stronger than Hercules himself, he quit- That he did not enquire what became him to accept, but the King to give : of which Certainly the Princes of the World have Seneca; Animosa vox videtur & regra, cum L.z.de Bis. seldom found good, by making their Mini- st stultissima. Nibil enim per se quenquame 1. Rets over-great, and thereby inspicious to decet. Refert quid, cui, quando, quare, ubi. themselves. For he that doth not acknow-ledge sidelity to be a debt, but is perswaded, beatur personarum & dignitatum proportio, & that Kings ought to purchase it from their cum sit ubiq; virtutis modus, aque peccat quod Vassals, will never please himself with the excedit, quam quod desicit; It seems a brave price given. The only restorative, indeed, and Royal speech, whereas indeed it is very that strengthens it, is the goodness and vir- foolish. For nothing simply considered by it felf tue of the Prince, and his liberality makes it more diligent; so as proportion and diwhom, when, why, where, and the like; withstance be observed. It may be, that Antipa- out which considerations, no act can be approter, having commanded two or three King- ved. Let honours be proportioned unto the no mersture, the excess is as faulty as the de- ed: nor was ever encountred with any

was as valiant as any mansa disposition, taken ders, every one of his Fathers old Captains by it (elf not much to be admired: For I am by far exceeding the best of his Enemies resolved, that he had ten thousand in his But it seems Fortune and Destiny /if we may Army as daring as himfelt. Surely, if ad- use those terms ) had found out and prepaventi rous natures were to be commended red for him, without any care of his own. amply we thould confound that virtue with both heaps of Men, that willingly offered the hardine's of Theeves, Ruffians, and Ma-their necks to the yoke, and Kingdoms that fiff-Dogs. For certainly it is no way praife- invited and called in their own Conqueworthy, but in daring good things, and in rours. For conclusion, we will agree with the performance of those lawful enterprises, Seneca, who speaking of Philip the Father. in which we are employed for the fervice of and Alexander the Son, gives this judgement our Kings, and Common-weals.

warlike Nation, the naked Scythians except- tures are scorched up.

Army of which he had not a most mastering For his Person, it is very apparent, That he advantage, both of Weapons and Commanof them: Quod non minores fuere peftes mor-If we compare this great Conquerour with talium, quam inundatio, qua planum omne other trout lers of the world, who have perfusum est, quam conflagratio, qua magna bought their glory with to great destructi- pars animantium examit; They were no ble on and effution of blood, I think him far in- plagues to mankind, than an overthrow of waferiour to Cafar, and many other that lived ters, drowning all the level; or some burnine after him, feeing he never undertook any drought, whereby a great part of living crea-

CHAP. III.

The Reign of Arideus.

ø. I.

Of the Question about Succession to Alexander.

phemus, having lost his only eye. For stowing upon him in marriage a Daughter that which is reported in Fables of that of his own: by which bond, and much great Cyclops, might well be verified of the more by his own proper strength, he affured Macedonians: their force was intolerable, the Crown unto himself: Amyntas never but for want of good guidance uneffectu- attempting ought against Philip; though al. and harmfull chiefly to themselves. (with price of his life) he did against Alex-The causes whereof (under the divine or- lander in the beginning of his reign. Wheredinance) were partly the uncertainty of fore Eurydice, the fole iffue of this marriage, Title to succession in the Kingdom of Ma- ought in reason to have been acknowledged object faileth.

lip ( the Father of alexander ) governing in \ mand of their posterity, had they left any

HE death of Alexander left his Macedon as Protector, assumed unto him-Army (as Demades the Athenian felfthe Kingdom, not rendring it unto Ammthen compared it ) in such case, tas, (the Son of his elder Brother Perdicus) as was that monstrous Gyant Poly- when he grew to mans estate; but only beceden, partly the stubborn pride of Alexander | Queen after Alexander; as having better himself, who thinking none worthy to be Title thereunto, than either He or Philip his heir, did refuse to establish the right in had, when they lived, unless (peradventure) any one, leaving every one to his own for- some Law of that Nation forbad the reign tune: but especially the great ambition of of Women. But the excellent virtue of these his followers, who all had learned of their two Princes had utterly defaced the right of Mafter to fuffer no equals; a leffon foon all Pretenders, not claiming from their own tought unto spirits reflecting upon their own bodies : and so great were their Conquests, worth, when the reverence of a greater | that Macedon it felf was (in regard of them) a very fmall Appendix, and no way deferv-It hath formerly been shewed, That Phi- | ing to be laid in ballance against the demore folemnly married) was left by him great puissance. with child. But the baseness of the Mothers, But as these counterfeit shews of different with child.

name of Alexanders children.

riness to take what comes next to hand.

the company of Arfinoe Ptolomy's Mother, In the present business a foolish over-weenable to make challenge of the Royal Scat. 10my had conceived the form of their con-Alexander having taken many Wives, had fultations, or to let in the Chair fuch a King iffue by none of the principal of them. Bar as Aridaus, no wifer than the Chair it felf. ine the Daughter of Artabazus a Persian, had Also the Controversies arising were deterhorn unto him a young Son: and Roxane mined by the greater part of the Captains; the Daughter of Oxyartes (whom he had by the greater part, if not in number, yet in and contempt of the conquered Nations, bling afpirers do often take check by the was generally alledged in Barr of Plea made plain-dealing of them who dare to go more for them, by fome that would (perhaps) directly to work: fo was it like to have fared have wrought out their own ends, under the with Ptolomy and the rest, when Aristonus, another of the Captains, interpreted the very Cleopatra a Sister of Alexander, widow to words of Alexander, saying, That he left his the King of Epirus, and Arideus his base Bro- Kingdom to the worthiest, as designing Perther (Son to Philip by a Concubine of no ac- diccas, to whom (lying at the point of death) count) who had marryed the Lady Eurydice he delivered his ring. It feemed good in reabefore mentioned, were next in course. Of son, that Alexander should be disposer of his Clepatra there was no speech, which may own purchases: and those tokens of Alexanand fuspition, that either Law or Custom ders purpose appeared plain enough, so long had made that Sex uncapable of the Sove- as no man would interpole anothers construraignty: Aridaus (besides his bastardy) was ction: every one being uncertain how the neither for person nor quality fit to rule as secret affections of the rest mucht be incline King; yet upon him the election fell, but ned. Many therefore, either out of their love, flowly, and (as happeneth often) for lack of or because they would not be of the latest, a better: when the Counsellors having over- urged Perdices to take upon him the estate laboured their disagreeing wits in devising Royal. He was no stranger to the Royal what was best, were content for very wea- blood; yet his birth gave him not such reputation, as the great favour of his dead Ptolomy (foon after King of Egypt) concur. King, with whom he had been very inward, ring with them who rejected all mention of and that especially since the death of Ephethe half-Persian brood, King Alexanders stion (a powerfull Minion) into whose place children, was of opinion, that the rule of all he was chosen. For his own worth he might should be given to the Captains; that going well be commended, as a good man of War, for Law, which by the greater part of them and one that had given much proof of his should be decreed: fo far was he from ac- private valour. But very furly he was: which knowledging any one as true Heir to the quality (joyned with good fortune) carried a shew of Majesty: being checkt with mis-This Piolomy was called the Son of Lague, adventure, it was called by a true name, but reputed of Philip: who having used Pride; and rewarded with death.

delivered her in marriage to Lagus, being ing did him as great harm, as it had been great with child. Therefore, whether it were great happiness to have succeeded Alexanders for that he hoped well to work his own fortune out of those diffentions, which are in- of the Souldiers, approving the sentence of cident unto the consultations of many ambi- Aristonus, he would needs counterfeit modetious men, equal in place, forcing them at sty; thinking that every one of the Prinlength to redeem their quiet with subjection ces would have intreated him to take the to one, deferving regard by his blood, and weighty burden of an Empire, which would trust for his even carriage; or whether he be the less envious, the more solemnity he desired only to get a share to himself, which used in the acceptance. It is truly said, He could not have come to pass, had all been that feigneth himself a Sheep, may chance to given to one: plain enough it is, that he be eaten by a Wolf. Meleager, (a man by nathought not on preferring Aridans before ture envious, and bearing a particular had himself: and therefore gave such counsel as tred to Perdiccas) took advantage of his irfitted his own and other mens purpofes. refolute behaviour, and very bitterly in-Yea, this device of his took place indeed, veighed against him. In conclusion, he prothough not in form as he had propounded nounced, That whosoever was Heir to the it; For, it was in effect all one, to have af- Crown, the fouldiers ought to be heirs to the sembled at Alexanders empty Chair, as Pto- Treasure; and therefore he invited them, who were nothing flow, to share it. This ling was not unexpected: and they were hu diffurbedall the Consultation The Captains Perdicess rebuked with such gravity, that were left alone, far enough from agreeing, they departed honester than they came; beand not able to have brought any conclusi- ing forry for their bad enterprise. Upon the en to good effect without confent of the news of this attempt, the Camp was in an Souldiers, who greedy of fooil, thronged up-roar, which the King feeking to pacific. about Meleger.

Frances.

ed with good liking of many, untill at last it King by offering to relign his estate unto grew to the voice of the Army. Melesger them, renewed out of their pity that fahaving withdrawn himself tumultuoully vourable affection, which had moved them from the company of the Lords, was glad of to fet him up at the first. fo feir an occasion to make himfelt great : Perdicess having now joyned himself with therefore he produced Aridaus, commended Leonatus, kept the fields, intending to on him to the Souldiers, who called him by off all provision of victuals from the City. his Fathers name thing, and brought him But after fundry Embassies passing between into the Palace, investing him in Alexan- the King and the Nobles, (they requiring to der's Robes, and proclaiming him King- have the Authors of fedition given up into Many of the Nobles withstood this electi- their hands; the King, that Meleager might on, but in vain: for they could not re- be joyned with Leonatus and Perdicess, as a folye what courie to follow, rejecting this. Third in government of the Army) things Only Python, a hot-headed man, took upon were compounded according to the Kings him to proclaim the Son of Alexander by defire. Meleager should have done well to Rexane, according to the counsel which consider, That such men as had one day de-Perdiceas at first had given, appointing Per- manded his head, were not like the day foldiceas and Leonatus his Protectors. But the lowing to give him a principal place among child was not yet born, which made that them without any new occasion offered, had attempt of Python vain. Finally, Perdiccas not some purpose of treachery lurked under with fix hundred men, and Ptolomy with their great facility. General peace was rethe Kings Pages, took upon them to de- newed, and much love protested where little fend the place where Alexanders body lay: was intended. The face of the Court was but the Army conducted by Meleager, who the same which it had been in Alexanders fide faithfully meant.

wanted authority, as having newly got the Crown by them, and holding it by their courtefie. The matter it felf afforded no good excuses, and his indifcretion made them The Flifting of Aridaus, with the troubles worfe. He faid that no harm was done, for thereabout arifing; the first Direction of the Perdiccas was alive: but their exclamations were against the tyrannous enterprise, which he imputed to Meleager; abandoning the Uring this up-roar, mention was made furest of his friends to the rage of the multitude, who were not appeared, untill the carried the new King about whither he time: but no longer now did the same heart listed, easily brake in upon them, and in- give it life; and windy spirits they were forced them to accept Aridaus for their So- which moved in the arteries. Falle reports veraign Lord. Then by the intercession of were given out by appointment of Perdices, the ancient Captains, a reconciliation was tending to his own disgrace, but in such terms propounded and admitted, but on neither as might feem to have proceeded from Meleager: who finding part of the drift, but not Leonatus, who was of Royal blood, a all, took it as an injury done to himself; and goodly Gentleman and valuant, iffued out of (as defirous of a true friendship) defired of Balglon, Leing followed by all the horse, Perdicess, that fuch authors of discord might which confifted (for the most part) of the be punished. Perdices (as a lover of peace) Nobility. Perdice as abode in the City (but | did well approve the motion; and therefore standing upon his guard) that he might be agreed that a generall Muster should be ready to take the opportunity of any com- made, at which time the disturbers of the metton that frould happen among the Infan- common quiet should receive their punishtry. The King (who was governed by Melea- ment (as was the manner for Souldiers ofger) commanded, or gave leave to have Per- fending) in presence of the Army. The plot dicess made away; which attempt succeed- was mischievously laid. Had Meleager given ed ill, being neither fecretly carried, nor way to feditious rumours, he must needs committed to fure executioners. Their com- bave incurred the general hatred of all, as a having often offended in that kind; his appearing, how great foever the suspicion ung redress of these disorders, he hastened committed to Arideus, one of the Captains. his own ruine, by a less formal, but more who was two years preparing of a great focedy way. This kind of Muster was very and costly shew, making a stately Chariot folemn, and practifed with many ceremonies, in which the corps was laid; many coarses as for cleaning the Army. The Horse-men, of his friends being laid in the ground before the Elephants, the Macedonian foot, the that of Alexander was bestowed in Alexan-Mercenaries were each according to their dria, a City of his own building, in Egypt. quality set in array, apart from others, as if they had been of fundry forts, met at adventure: which done, the manner was to skirmish (as by way of exercise) according to the direction of their several Captains. But at that rection of their leveral capitalism. Pikes, time the great battel of Macedonian Pikes, WHilest these things were in doing, or presently after, Antipater and Crashich their called the Fhalanx, led by Melethither they fent and flew him.

into the City, where a new Council of the and to keep it lin a readiness for their use. Princes washeld, who finding what manner This was no hard thing for Leofthenes to of man their King was, divided all the Pro- do: great numbers of Greek Souldiers being vinces of the Empire among themselves; lately returned from the Alian War in poor leaving to Aridem the office of a Visitor, and estate, as defrauded of their pay by the yet making Perdiccas his Protector, and Captains. Of these he had gathered up eight Commander of the forces remaining with thousand, when the certain news was him. Then were the funerals of Alexander brought of Alexanders death: at which the fower of differtion, and thereby with a pub- | ven days neglected, was opened and emlick approbation might have been cut off, as balmed by the Egyptians: no fign of poviou Prince being too weak a Patron. Now feek- might be. The charge of his build was ager, was of purpose bestowed in a ground terus, two principal Noblemen, and infeof disadvantage; and the countenance of the rior to none of Alexanders followers, if Horse and Elephants beginning to give not greater than any of the rest, were bucharge upon them, was such, as discovered fied in Greece with a War, which the no jelting paltime, nor good intent. Kings Athenians more bravely than which the were always wont to fight among the horfemen: of which custom Perdicess made great secure more boldly than before, upon the use that day, to the utter confusion of his courage which they had taken by his death. enemies. For Aridem was always governed Alexander, not long before he died, had by him, who for the present had him in commanded that all the banished Greeks possession. Two or three days before, he (few excepted) should be restored unto their lought the death of Perdiccas at the instiga- former places. He knew the factious quality tion of Meleager: now he rides with Perdiccas of the Grecian Estates, and therefore thought up and down about the footmen, command- fo to provide, that in every City he would ing them to deliver unto the death all fueh have a fure party, But it fell out otherwise: as Perdice as required. Three hundred they For he loft the hearts of many more than he were who were cast unto the Elephants, and won by this proud injunction. His pleasure by them sain, in the presence of the King indeed was suffilled; yet not without great (who should have desended them) and of murmuring of the whole Nation, as being their affrighted companions. But these three against allorder of Law, and a beginning of hundred were not the men whose punish- open tyranny. The Athenians greatly decayment Meleager had expected: they were fuch ed in estate, but retaining more than was as had followed him, when he disturbed the needful of their ancient spirits, forbad the first consultation that was held about the execution of this Decree in their Dominielection of a new King, and some of them his ons; so did also the Atolians who were valiespecial friends. Having therefore kept him- ant men, and inhabited a Region well forself quiet a while, as unwilling to give of tified by nature: yet neither of them took fence to them that had the advantage; when Arms, but seemed to bear themselves, as men he faw their proceedings tend very mani- that had done no more than they might we'l feltly to his destruction, he fled away into Justifie by reason: nevertheless to prevent the a Temple, which he found no Sanctuary: for worst, the Athenians gave secret instructions to Leofthenes, a Captain of theirs, willing The Army being thus corrected, was led him to levy an Army, but in his one name, thought upon; whose body having been se- City of Athens declared it self, and more honorably than wifely, proclaimed War [the ground of effects to be produced in veagainst the Macedonians for the liberty of ry few years. Greece. Hercupon Leofthenes drew in the Etolians and some other Estates, gave bat-tel to the Bestians, who sided with Antipa- solicited to make haste. Not without cause: ter, and overthrew them; growing so tast For in Macedon there could not at that time in reputation, and fo ftrong in adherents, be raifed more than thirteen thousand foot: that Antipater (arming in all hafte, yet fuf- and fix hundred horse; which Muster was pecting his own (trength) was fain to fend of raw Souldiers, all the force of the Couninto Alia to Craterus for fuccour.

> 6. III. The beginning of the Lamian War.

684

hopes of men, shunning or pursuing their and Alexander, who also were the best horsedestinies a far off, which deceive all mortal men of Greece, furnished him with very wission, even when they seem near at hand, brave troops, that might have done great One month was scarcely past, since nothing service, had their faith held out, which fo heavily burthened the thoughts of Anti- they changed for the liberty of Greece. With pater as the return of Crateria into Mace-these forces did Antipater in Thessal try the dom; which he then feared as death, but cortune of a battel with Leosthener; rather now defired as the most likely affurance of (as may seem) fearing the increase of his his life. Craterus, whom Alexander held as enemies power, and rebellion of the Greeks, of all men the most affured unto him, was (were they not checkt at the first) than prefent into Macedon to convey home the old fuming on his strength. For Leosthenes had of Souldiers (that was the pretence) and to Athenians, Etolians, and Mercenaries, two fucceed Antipater in the government of Ma- and twenty thousand foot, besides the assicedon and Greece. The suspitions were strong stance of many petty Signories, and of some that he had a privy charge to put Antipater Illyrians and Thracians: of horse he brought to death: neither did that which was com- into the field about two thousand and five monly published found much better; which hundred; but over-strong he was that way was, That Antipater should be sent unto the also, when once the Thessalians had revolted King, as Captain of the young Souldiers, unto him. So Antipater loft the day; and his newly to belevied in Europe. For Alexander loss was such, that he neither was able to was much incensed against him by his Mo-keep the field, nor to make a safe retreat ther Olympias: and would fometimes give into his own Country; therefore he fled into out speeches, testifying his own jealousie and the Town of Lamia, which was well fortifihatred of him; but yet he strove to smother ed, and well provided of all things necesit, which in a cruel Prince betokeneth little fary to bear out a fiege. Thither did Legood. Few of Alexanders Lieutenants had oftheres follow him, present him battel again, escaped with life: most of them indeed were and upon refusal close up the Town with mean persons in regard of those who follow- Earth-works, and a Wall. There will we ed him in his Indian expedition, and were leave him for a while, travelling in the last therefore (perhaps) removed to make place honorable enterprize that ever was underfor their betters. But if the Kings rigour taken by that great City of Athens. was fuch, as could find rebellious purpofes (for fo he interpreted even lewd government ) in base persons; little might Antipater hope for, who having fitten Vice-roy ten years in the strongest part of the Empire, was called away to the prefence of to fell a Master, and the envy of a Court, King Aridam living under the rule of to fell a Master, and the envy of a Court, When all the Princes were wherein they had been his inferiours, gone each to his own Province, kept anaked which would now repine to see him their Court: all his greatness confisting in a equal. Therefore whether his fear drew bare Title, supported by the strength of him to prevention, working first the Kings his Protector, who cared not for him other-death by poyson, given by his Son Is-wise than to make use of him. Perdices had laws, Alexanders Cup-bearer; or when no Province of his own peculiar, neither ther it brake not forth untill opportuni- was he like to be welcome to any whom he ty had changed it into the passion of re-should visit in his Government. A stronger venge, which was cruelly performed by Army than any of the rest he had, which he his fon Cassander; great cause of much might easily hope in that unsettled condi-

At the present, Craterus was sent for, and trey being emptied into Asia. The Thestalians Nothing is more vain than the fears and indeed who had long stood firm for Philip

6. I V. . How Perdiccas employed his Army.

Gar he had; which I note in this place, as tion of things to make better worth to him than many Provinces could have been. The fiftroy them : which intent of his Perchecas di herter to accomplish his defires, he closely covering, did both give him in charge to put fought the marriage of Cleopatra, the fifter all those Robels to the tword, giving the of Alexander; yet about the same time he spoils of them to his Souldiers, and further either married Nicea the daughter of Anti njoyned it upon Pythons Captains (his own gater, or made such love to her as blinded creatures) that they should see his commandtheir eyes, who did not somewhat narrowle fearch into his doings.

CHAP. III.

that name, and tenth King of that Country, of the Rebels commanding over three thouhad continued faithful to the Persian Em land, corrupted by Python, did in the heat pire as long as it flood: following the exam- of the fight (which was very doubtful) reple of his to re-fathers, even from Pharnaces tire without necessity to a hill not far the first that reigned in Cappadocia, who mar- off. This dismayed the rest, and gave the ried Atoffa fifter to the great Cyrus. Some day to Python: who being far enough of his Ancestors had (indeed) been oppres- from Perdicess, offered composition to the fedby the Persian: but what Fortune took vanquished, granting unto them their lives from them at one time, Vertue restored at and liberty, under condition of laving down another, and their faithful Princes had much their arms; and hereupon he gave them encreased all. But now in the fatal Period his faith. Being Master of these companies, of fogreat an Empire, with much wisdom, he might well have a good opinion of his and (Darius being flain) with fufficient ho- own power: all power being then valued by count, being occupied with great cares. But thousand eight hundred horse, besides there Perdiccas, who had no greater business new Companions, whom needless fear withwherein to entertain his Army, found it ex- out great loss had caused to leave the field: redient both for the honor of the Empire, but in true estimation, all the greatness to take that in-land Kingdom, furrounded whereof Python might think himself affured, victory: for having taken Ariarathes prifo- themselves; leaving Python as naked as he ner, with many others, he crucified him, and came forth to return unto his great Master. as many of his Kindred as he could light upthan as to the most affured. Python was to Lamian War taketh ending. fubdue the Greeks rebelling in the high Countries of Asia. About twenty thousand fort, and 3000 horse they were (all old Souldiers) who planted in Colonies by Alexander to bridle the barbarous nations, were foon weary of their unpleasant habitations, and therude people, among whom they lived:

ment executed. These directions for use of the victory, might have proved needless; so Ariarathes the Cappadocian, the second of uncertain was the victory it felf. A Captain not, he might have acknowledged the Markenian in the Persan room. This he did not; neither did Alexander call him to acwith Provinces of the Macedonian conquest, was (and soon appeared to be) inherent in and for his own particular, to have one op- | Perdiceas. For by his command were ten portune place of fure retreat, under the go- thousand foot, and eight thousand horse, of vernment of a stedfast friend. Therefore he those which followed Python, levied; the entred Cappadocia, fought with Ariarathes, Rulers of the Provinces carefully obeving who drew into the field 30000 foot, and the letters of Perdiccus, by which they were 15000 horse (a strong Army, had it not en- enjoyned to give assistance to that business; countred a stronger, and better trained) wan and by virtue of the precept given unto them the victory, and thereby the whole King- by Perdiccas, did the Macedonians cut in dom. But with much cruelty did he use the pieces all those poor men who had yielded

Now was Perdiceas mighty above the on, and so delivered that Province to Est- mighty, and had fair leifure to pursue his menes, whom of all men living he trusted hopes of marriage with Cleopatra, and theremost. Another part of his forces he had com- by to make himself Lord of all: but this mitted to Python, rather as to the most ho- must be secretly carried for fear of opposinorable of fuch as remained about him, tion. How it succeeded, will appear when the

6. V.

The process of the Lamian War.

WE left Antipater hardly besieged, wanting means to free himself withand therefore took advantage of the present out succours from his friends in Asia. Those troubles to feek unto themselves a better helps not appearing so soon as he expected, for une. Against these Python went, more he came to parley with Leosthener, and delirous to make them his own, than to de- would have yielded unto any terms of Rrrr 2 reason, wherewith men possessed with shad (notwithstanding the departure of the hope of victory, do feldom limit their de- Etolians) the advantage of Leonatus in fires. Leostkenes willed him without fur-horse, by the odds of two thousand Thessalither circumstance to submit himself to dif- ans; in other things he was equal with him; cretion. This was too much for him that neause he thought himself Superior, in the had once commanded over them, who now fortune of that day he proved fo: for he required of him fuch a dishonourable com- wan a great victory (chiefly by virtue of the other for winning the Town, which felt he desperately had sought among the Indi-great want of victuals. ther weary of fitting still at a fiege, or have- first of Alexanders Captains which dyed in ing business which they pretended at home) pattel; but all, or most of the rest shall follow took their leave, and returned into their him the same way. After this day, the Ather own Countrey. Their departure left the nians did never any thing suitable to their trenches fo thinly manned, that Antipater ancient glory. found means to fally out upon his enemies to The vanquished Macedonians were too their great loss: for many were slain, and weak to renew the fight, and too proud to Leofthenes himself among them, ere he could flie. They betook themselves to high grounds be repulfed into the Town. Yet hereby the unfit for fervice on horseback, and so abode Macedonians were nothing relieved, their in the fight of the enemy that day; the day victuals wasted, and they were not strong following, Antipater with his men came into enough to deal with the Greeks in open their Camp, and took the charge of all. The fight. Craterus was long in coming. Lyfima- Athenians perceiving their strength to be chus, who was neerest at hand in Thrace, had at the greatest, and fearing lest that of the work too much of his own, leading no more enemy should increase, did earnestly seek than four thousand foot, and two thousand to determine the matter quickly by another horse, against Seuthas the Thracian King , battel. But still Antipater kept himself on who brought into the field above four ground of advantage; which gave more times that number; and though Lysmachus, than reasonable confidence to the Greek, not without loss, had gotten one victory, yet many of whom departed to their homes, the enemy abounding in multitude, felt accounting the enemy to be vanquished. not the blow so much as might abate his. This wretchlesness (incorrigible in an Ar-Courage. Therefore Leonatus was earnestly my of Voluntaries) was very inexcusable; folicited by Antipaters friends, to make all feeing that the victories by Land were haste to the rescue. He had the government very much desaced by losses at Sea, where of Phrygia the less, and was able to raise an the Athenians, labouring to have made Army of more than twenty thousand foot, themselves once again Masters, were putto and two thousand five hundred horse; whe- the worst. ther levied out of his Province, or appointed unto him out of the main Army, it is un- came on, of which she never could be decertain. Certain it is, that he was more livered unto this day. Craterus with a strong willing to take in hand the journey into Army having made great marches from Ci-Greece, than Antipater was to have him come. licia, paffed over into Europe, and coming For Cleopatra had written unto him, desiring into Thesaly, joyned himself with Antipahis presence at Pella, the chief City of Mace ter. The forces of Leonatus, Antipater, and don, and very kindly offering her felf to be | Craterus being joyned in one, contained forhis Wife; which letters he kept not so close ty thousand weightily armed, three thousand as had been requifite, and therefore brought light-armed men, and five thousand horse; himself into great suspicion, that soon ended of which numbers the Greek wanted a with his life. Antiphilus, chosen General by thousand and five hundred in horse; in foot, the Athenians in place of Leosthenes, hear- eighteen thousand. Carefully therefore did ing of his approach, forfook the fiege of Antiphilus labour to avoid the necessity of a Lamia, and took the ready way to these battel, until such time as the Townsconfegreat Conquerors of Asia, with purpose to derate should return unto the Camp those give them an evil welcome home, belore bands which had straggled from it. But polition. Wherefore knowing that the The[faliant) which appeared the greater by extremity, from which as yet he was far the end of Leonatus him(elf; who fighting enough, could bring no worse with it, Anti- valiantly, was driven into a marish piece of pater prepared for the defence; and the ground, where he found his death, which ans, but it waited for him at home, not far In this lingring War the Atolians (whe-from the place of his nativity. He was the antipater and they should joyn in one. He those companies were so slow in coming,

636

But now the fatal captivity of Greece and Antipater fo urgent upon the Greeks , | the Orator, and Xenocrates the Philosopher. that compelled they were to put the matter were chief of this Emballage; Phocion, as in hazard without further attendance. Like the most honorable; Demades, as a strong enough it is, that with a little more help they perswader (both of them well respected by had carried away the victory: for the Thef Antipater; ) and Xenocrates, as one admired faltans had the upper hand, and held it, un- for wisdom, gravity of manners, and virtil fuch time as they perceived their battels tue; but all these ornaments consisting in (over-laid with multitude) retire unto the speculation, and therefore of less regard, higher ground, which caused them also to fall when their admiration was to cost them back. So the Macedonian became Lords of much in real effects. the field, having little else to boast of, considering that with the loss of an hundred and Leosthenes, required of the Ashenians, that defining that with bisso an intended at the them should wholly submit them cleves to his death of some five hundred enemies. Yet pleasure; which being (perforce) granted, hereof wasgreat use made: For the Greek, he commanded them to defray the charges as not subject unto the full command of one of the War past, to pay a fine, and entertain General, and being every one desirous to a Garrison. Further, he abrogated the popreferve his own estate and City: concluded pular estate, committing the government of to make a treaty of peace with Antipater; the City to those of most wealth, depriving who being a fubtle Artificer, and well un- of the right of suffrageall such as wanted a derstanding their aptness to division, refused convenient proportion of riches. to hearken to any general composition, but willed every City to deal apart for it felf. of good substance, to whom the administra-The intent of his device was so apparent, tion of the Commonwealth was given; a that it was rejected: the Greeks choosing number great enough to retain the name rather to abide the coming of their affi- and form of a Democracy. But the rascal stants, whose unreasonable carelesness be-multitude of beggarly persons, accustomed traved the cause. Antipater and Craterus to get their livings out of the common belieging and winning some Towns in Thef-troubles, being now debarred from bearing [aly, which the Army of the Confederates offices and giving their voyces, cryed out, ried that Nation from attending any longer usurpation of a few incroaching upon the own affured and present calamity.

ø. V I.

of the peace granted to Athens by Antipater. of Demosthenes bis death.

He Thessalians falling off, all the rest his own suspitions and hatred ) he caused peace; the gentle conditions given to the with some others, to be flain. Had the most forward, inviting such as were slack. death of these two, especially of Demosthe-Only the Athenians and Atolians held out, nes, been forborn, the rest of his proceed-Little favour could they hope for, having ings in this action might well have passed been Authors of this tumult, and their fear for very mild; whereas now, all such as was not great; the feat of the war being either are delighted with the Orations of far from them. But the celerity of Antipa-Demosibenes, or have surrendred their confounded all their imaginations; who judgements to Authors justly admiring him, fate still at Athens, devising upon courses of as the most eloquent of all that ever did profecuting the War to come, which came speak and write, condemn him utterly, calto their doors before their confultation ling him a bloody Tyrant. Such grace and could find iffue. He was ready to enter up- reputation do the Learned Arts find in all on their Frontiers; they had no ability to Civil Nations, that the evil done to a man, relift, and were as heartless as friendless. All famous in one of them, is able to blemith that remained was to fend Embassadors, any action, how good soever otherwise it defiring peace upon some good terms: ne- be, or honorably carried. ceffity enforcing them to have accepted Demosthenes had taken Sanctuary in the even the very worst. Phocion, with Demades Temple of Neptune, in the Isle of Caliuria;

About nine thousand they were, all men wanted means and courage to relieve, wea- that this was a meer Oligarchy, the violent upon other mens unlikely hopes, with their publick right. These turbulent fellows (of whom King Philip had been wont to fav. That war to them was peace, and peace war) Antipater planted in Thrace, and gave them lands to manure; leaving as few of them as he could to molest the quiet of Athens.

To the same end(yet withal for satisfying foon followed feverally, and fued for Demosthenes and Hyperides famous Orators, there ded Archias (fent with Souldiers by werful State of Athens had been. Their Coun-Assistator for the purpose) find him, and try was rough and mountainous, having masent'y perfivaded him to leave the place iny places of great fastness, into which they but no to prevailing, he threatned violence conveyed fuch of their goods as they most Then Demolibrate entreating a little respite, esteemed, and of their people, as were least as it hadbeen to write somewhat, secretly fit for War: with the rest they fortified the teek poyfon, which he had kept for fuch a strongest of their Cities, and so abode the needers, end fo died stather choosing to do coming of the Mucedonians, whom they the last execution upon himfelf, than to fall manfully refifted. With great obstinacy did into the hands of such as hated him. Only the Macedonians contend against the diffithis act of his (commendable perhaps in a culties of the places, which the Etolians Heathen man) argued some valour in him 5 made good as long as their victuals held out. who was otherwife too much a coward in But when Craterus had shut up all passages, battel, howfoever valiant in perswading to and utterly debarred them of relief, then were enterprizes, wherein the way to very ho- they put to a milerable choice; either to denourable ends was to be made through pal- freend from their strong holds, and fight upfages expeeding dangerous. He loved money on equal ground, with unequal numbers, or well, and had great fums given him by the to endure the miferies of hunger and cold, Persian, to encourage him, in finding work against which they could make no long refor the Mac donians at home. Neither did fiftance; or to yield themselves to the Maceheill (me thinks) in taking from the Perstans donians, who, incensed by the loss of many which loved not his Country, great reward, good Souldiers, were not like to leave to for speaking such things as tended to his stubborn enemies in places which might give Countries good; which he did not cease to confidence to rebellion. In ca. es of extremity procure, when the Persians were no longer much fineness of wit apprehend as all curable to give him recompence. Such as in ten- cumftances of danger, commonly documore der contemplation of his death can endure hurt than a blunt confideration of that only nohonorable, though true, mention of An- which at the present is in hand. These Etolitipater, may (if they can) believe Lucian, that he was a stedfast enemy to the Mace. he should be cut off.

voured carefully to preferve.

ø. VII.

How Craterus and Antipater were drawn from their Ætolian wars into Afia. The grounds of the first civil war between the Macedonian Lords.

So Antipater with Craterus returned into Macedonia, where they strengthened their triendship with a new alliance; Craterus taking Phila, tire Daughter of Antipater

Shortly after they went against the £tolians, whose poverty was not so easily daundency, and the present rule which he bare ted, as the luxurious wealth of the more co- lin the parts of Europe. The other, as of all ans did not as yet want meat; but their enewho tells us, Thatit was Antipaters purpole mies daily molested them: wherefore as yet to have done him great honour. Sure it is, they thought upon nothing but fighting. Fortune was gracious to their courage. For donians ; therefore diferetion required that fuch news came out of Affa into the Macedonians Camp as made Antipater and Craterus The matters of Albens being thus order-think every hour a month, till they had rid ed, the chief command was left in the hands their hands of these Ætolians, giving them of Phocion, a vertuous man, and lover of his whatfoever conditions they would ask: yet Country, yet applying himself to the neces- with purpose to call them to severe account; fity of the times; by which commendations yea, to root them out of Greece by death, or he had both at other times done the City by captivity, when once they should have muchgood, and now procured this peace, lettled the affairs of Affa; as they hoped and which (though grievous to free-men, yet defired. But of mens purposes God is dispofavourable to the vanquished) he endea- ser in whose high Counsel it was ordained, that this poor Nation should continue 2 troublesome bar to the proceedings of Macedon and Greece, and (when time had ripened the next Monarchy) an open gate to let the Roman Conquerors into those and other Provinces. Likewise concerning the matters of Afia, the reformation intended by Antipater and Craterus, was fo far from taking effect, that it served meerly as an introduction to all the civil Wars enfuing.

The grounds of the Aftatique Expedition, which did fet the world in an uproar, were thefe. Antipater and Craterus were of Alexanders Captains the mightiest in reputation: The one, in regard of his ancient precemen the best beloved, and most respected, might easily be made. So should greatness both of Alexander and of the whole Army. meet with a good title; and what more Next unto these had Perdicess been; whom could be wished? Some impediment the the advantage of his presence at the Kings power of Ptolomy might give, who held deathdid makeequal, or superior, to either Egypt well fortified with men, but much of these, if not to both together. The first better with love of the people; yet if the intents of Perdiccas were, to have conforted business prospered in Macedonia, like with these two, and to have been with them enough it was that either Ptolony would a third partner in the Government of all; to follow of himself, or be driven to come to which purpose he entertained the discourse reason. Antigonus likewise then Governing of marriage with one of Antipaters Daugh- in Phrygia, a busic-headed man, and ill affectters. But feeling in short space the strength ed to the side, was to be looked into and of that gale of wind which bore him up, he made away, for fear of further trouble. So hegan to take wing and foar quite another thought Perdicess, and was deceived in fo way. Aridaus was a very fimple man, yet thinking. Antigonus was as good a man of ferved well enough to wear the title of that War, of as deep a judgement, as high a spirit, Majestie, whereof Perdiccas being Admini- and as great undertaking, as any of Alexanfirstor, and hoping to become Proprietary, ders Captains. His imployments had been the practice was more severe than had been less than some of theirs, which made him also in the days of Alexander: the defire to the less respected. But his thoughts were as frinces, and their ambitious Officers, who Princes, and their ambittous Cinecis, who me is with careful attention had he watch-felves from contempt, and of giving fuch a fiery luftre to their actions, as may dazle the purposes, which it was now high time to eves of the beholders. How cruelly the poor discover. For Perdiccas having with a jealous Greeks in the higher Alia were all put to the eye pryed into the demeanor of Antigonus, fword; and how tyrannoully the King and and finding him no way fit for his turn Princes of Cappadocia were crucified, hath caused him to be charged with such accusaalready been thewed. The Pifidians were tions, as might fuffice to take away his life, the next who felt the wrath of these coun- especially by a Judge that sought his death. terfeit Alexanders. One City of theirs was This device Antigonus would not feem to utterly razed; the children fold for flaves, perceive, but prepared himself in shew to and all the rest massacred. The Isaurians, by make answer, indeed, to make escape; which this example grown desperate, when after easily he did, putting himself and his Son two or three days trial they found them- Demetrius aboard of some Athenian Gallies, felves unable to continue the defence, lockt that carried him to Antipater, laden with themselves into their houses, and set the such tidings as sinished the Etolian War be-Town on fire, into the flame whereof the fore mentioned. young mendid throw themselves, after that As the coming of Antigonus made Craterus from the walls.

holding authority, the match with Cleopatra ing against him.

they had a while repelled the Macedonians and Antipater manifestly perceive their own danger: fo his flight gave Perdiceas to un-These exploits being performed, the deriftand that his intentions were laid open, Army had no other work than to sift the and must now be justified by the sword. althes of the burnt City for gold and filver is Therefore he prepared as faft as factould, but Perdiceas had business of greater impornot only for defence, but (as having on his tance troubling his brains. Nothing was fide the Kings name) to meet with them at more contrary to his ends, than to fit still home, who were nothing slack in providing without employment, letting his Souldiers to encounter him. Ptolomy being advertised grow idle about him, whilst others grew of these proceedings, and considering how great, and took deep root in their feveral nearly they concerned him, fided with An-Provinces. He purposed therefore to trans- tipater. To his Government of Egypt he had port his forces into Europe, under pretence annexed the Dominion of Cyrene, not withof bringing the King into Macedonia, the feat out confent of the chief Citizens; and now of his Ancestors, and head of the Empire. in the midst of these garboyls he celebrated The Kings presence would make the Offices the funeral of Alexander with great solemniof his Vice-Roys (during the time) actual- ty, purchasing thereby to himself much good ly void; Antipater with Craterus being once will and many partakers, notwithstanding in case of private men, and only Perdiccas the terrible report of the Kings Army com-

6. VIII

690

upon Ptolony; leaving Eumenes to keep to codiles, a miserable spectacle evento such as his use, against Craterus and Antipater, the were out of danger; such as were strong parts of Alia bordering upon Europe.

It may feem strange, that he did not rather make head against those who were to to the contrary bank, whereby they fell into come out of Greece with a great number, the hands of their enemies. and of more able men than Ptolomy could bring. Perhaps he thought to make a quick end with Ptolomy; or believed that tongues, which long time had concealed the Graters would not be ready for him foon evil thoughts of their hearts. While they and made it worse with ill handling.

many to his party, without help of any bad fion on those who fell into his hands alive. many to his raily, arts. Ferdicess contrariwife was full of info-but performed all rights of Funeral to the lency, which never fails to be rewarded dead carkalles, which the River had casturwith hatred; which is truly defined, An affe- on his fide: and finally, fent their bones and ction founded upon opinion of an unjust con- ashes to be interred by their Kinsmen or tempt. The whole story of his proceedings in Egypt is not worth relation: for he did in Egypt is not worth relation. nothing of importance; but (as a wilful to mutiny, thinking it unreasonable to make man) tired his followers, and wasted them in war upon so vertuous and honorable a hard enterprizes without fuccefs. His most person, to fulfil the oleasure of a Lordly hard enterprizes without necess. This most perion, to ruint the obsaure of a Lordly forecable attempt was upon a little Town, ambitious man, ufing the nike flaves. The called the Camels Wall: thither he marched fedition growing strong, wanted only a head, by night, with more haste than good speed; which it quickly found. Python was there, for Ptolomy preventing him, did put himself who inwardly hated Perdicess, for the difinto the place, where behaving himself not grace which he had suffered by his procure only as a good Commander, but as a front ment, after the victory upon the rebellious only as a good commander, out as a nout ment, after the victory upon the rebellious Souldier, he gave the foil to Perdicess, Greeks. Python had lived in honorable place causing him to retire with loss, after a vehe- about Alexander; he was in the division of ment, but vain all ault, continued one whole the Provinces made Governor of Media; he day. The night following, Perdices made had followed Perdices, and being in all another journey (which was his last) and things (the Protectorship excepted) equal to came to the divitions of Nilus, over against him, had nevertheless been scornfully used Memphis. There with much difficulty he by him, which now he requited. Drawing began to pass over his Army into an Island, together a hundred of the Captains, and a where he meant to incamp. The current good part of the Horfe, which confided was ftrong, the water deep, and hardly foordable. Wherefore he placed his Elethemselves before) he entred the Tent of phants above the pallage, to break the vio- Perdiccas, where without further circumlence of the stream, and his horsemen be- stance they all ran upon him, and slew him. neath it, to take up fuch as were carried Such end had the proud mif-governing auaway by swiftnessor water. A great part of thority of Perdiccas. He might have lived that whereas the former companies had of all, had he not been too masterly over waded up to the chin, they who thould have those which were already his. waded up to the ching they will allow a later thanks were already his followed could find no footing. Whicher this came by the rifing of the water, or fit- where he was joyfully received; he excufed ting away of the ground; (the earth being himself of things past, as not having been broken with the feet of 10 many Men. Horse, Author, or given cause of the War, and and Elephants) no remedy there was, but was easily believed: the favour of the fuch as had passed must repais again, as well Army being such toward him, that needs as they might: for they were too weak for the enemy, and could not be relieved by Perdiccas his voyage into Egypt, and his death. their fellows. With great confusion therefore they committed themselves to the Ri-Pardiecas, uncertain which way to bend ver, wherein above two thousand of them perished, a thousand were devoured by Croand could fwim, recovered the Camp; many were carried down the stream, and driven

This misfortune exasperated the Souldiers against their General, giving liberty to their enough. Sure it is, that he took a bad course were thus murmuring, news came from Ptolomy, which did fet them in an up-roar. Ptolomy by his fweet behaviour allured Ptolomy had not only showed much compashis Army being arrived on the further as great as any, could he have fuffered any as bank, the channel began to wax deep; so great ashimself; yea, peradventure master against Perdiccas.

hereafter.

6. IX.

Vidories of Eumenes in the lower Afia.

b things happening about the person of Antipater, and his Associates, vilifying Eudices, and Neoptolemus, had received com- voice were but heard by any Macedonian Horse, giving many priviledges to such as ners of their native Country. So Antipater they would have made him Protector in the were ferviceable, and training them well up. they would have made this he refuted. It Not without great need. For when upon adwas an Office fit for one that would feek to vertilement of the great preparations made was an one greatness with his trouble. Pto- by Craterus and Antipater ( who had newly long was well enough already; wherefore, patied the Helielpont) for the invation of his for his own quiet he forbare to accept it, Provinces, he willed Neoptolemus to come to and for their well-deferving of him, he pro- him with all his power; Neoptolemus did (inand tot that honourable charge to Python, and deed) advance, but in hostile manner, though to Aridaus the Captain, who having had unprovoked, prefented him Battel. Neoptofome companies of Souldiers, to furnish with lemus had fecretly covenanted with Antipatheir attendance the folemnities of Alexan-ter to lay open the way for him to the Conder Funerals, did with them adhere to him quest of Asia, which now intending to perform, he was shamefully disappointed. For, In the midst of these businesses came news though his foot-men, being all Macedonians. of two great Victories obtained by Eume- had much the better, and prevailed far upon nes; which news, had they arrived two or Emmenes his Battels; yet were his horse drithree dayes fooner, had been entertained ven out of the field, and himself compelled. with joyfull acclamations; and would have with a few of them, to run away, leaving given such reputation to Perdiccas, as had naked the backs of his Maceabnian soot-men caused both his private maligners to con. to be charged by Enmenes, who forced them tinue his open flatterers, and his open in such wise, that casting down their Pikes, enemies to have accepted any tolerable they cryed for mercy, and gladly took their composition. But these good tidings coming oath to do him faithful service. Antipater in ill time, when death had stopped the and Graterus endeavoured with many goodears which would have given them welcome, ly promifes to draw Eumenes into their fofound bad acceptance, as shall be shewed ciety, who contrariwise offered himself as a mean of reconciliation, between Perdiccas and Craterus, whom he dearly loved ; profesfing withall his hatred to Antipater, and confrant faith to the cause which he had undertaken to maintain.

Whilest these negotiations were on foot. DEfore we proceed in the relation of Neoptolemus came with his broken crew to the King, it is meet that we speak of those menes, and calling him a Scribe (at which bufinefles in the lower Afa, which were foolith railing they laught) but extolling the handled by Eumenes with notable dexteri- virtue of Craterus (as well he might) with tv. whilest Perdiccas was occupyed in the high commendations; affuring them, that if Egyptian Wars. Alcetas the Brother of Per- Craterus did but once appear, or that his mand from Perdiceas to be affistant to Eu- in Eumenes his Camp, the Victory was won; menes, and to follow his directions. But Alce- for they would all forthwith revolt unto to made flat answer that he would not; al- him. Earnestly therefore he desired them to ledging the backwardness of his men to bear give him aid against Eumenes, and especial-Arms against fo great a person as Antipater, by requested that Craterus might have the and a man fo much honoured as Craterus. leading of the Army to be fent. Their own Neoptolemus was content to make fair shew, affections did easily lead them to condescend but inwardly he repined at the precedency to his motion: a good hope there was, that given to Eumenes, as thinking himself the the reputation of Craterus might prevail as better man. Eumenes discovering, through much as the force which he drew along. For the counterfeited looks of Neoptolemus, the he had in the midst of Alexanders vanities, mischief lurking in his heart, wisely diffem- when others (imitating their King) betook bled with him, in hope to win him by gentle themselves to the Perstan fashions of garbehaviour, and fweet language, that comments and customs, retained the ancient monly are lost, when bestowed upon arro- Macedonian form of behaviour, and appargant creatures. Yet the better to fortifie rel; whereby he became very gracious with himself, that he might stand upon his own the common Souldiers, who beheld these strength, he raised out of the Countries new tricks of Asia with discontented eyes, as under his jurisdiction, about six thousand reproachful and derogatory to the man-took the way toward Cilicia, to hold Per- which over-hastily they had made, seeking diecas at bay, and to joyn with Ptolomy. Cra- the deceitful issue of sivolous hopes. Then terns used great celerity, to have taken En- was it high time for Craterus (having failed menes revelling (as he hoped) according to in surprising them as enemies) to discover the common fathion of Captains, after a himself to his old friends, and fellow-soulgreat Victory. But he had a wary and well-diers, of whom he could fee none. Phenix advised enemy to encounter, who kept good a Tenidian, and Artabazus a Persian, had the espial upon him, and with much wisdom leading of that side, who, mindful of their fore-faw all that was to be feared, and the instructions began to give battel upon him. means of prevention, which his courage did with such countenance as told him his error: not fail to execute. Fumenes was not igno- which to redeem, he bade his men fight, and rant that Craterus was able to defeat him redeem the day, and take the spoil to themwithout Battel, yea without froke; him felves; but the Bear, whose skin he fells, is therefore he feared more than the Army not yet caught. The ground whereon the following him: (yet the Army following him Battel was fought, gave most advantage to was fuch, as much exceeded his own toot the horse, who encountred very roughly on men, but was inferiour in horse-men) and all parts: especially about Eumenes and Nethought it more uneasse to keep the Mace- optolemus; who, as soon as they had discovedonians from revolting to him, than from red one another, could not contain themknowing him. Hereupon he took in hand a felves, but with great rage met body to bostrange piece of work, which desperation of dy, and letting loofe their bridles, grappled, all courses else taught him, and wise manage fo violently together, that their hories ran ing prosperously accomplished. He gave from under them, leaving both of them tumout reports, that Neoptolemus was returned bling on the ground. Neoptolemus role first with fuch company as he could gather to-gether, and had gotten Pigres (a Captain of wherewith he houghed the other, causing no great estimation, who lay not far off) to him to fall down and fight upon one knee. joyn with him. Having animated his men In this conflict they received many wounds, against Neoptolemus, whom he knew to be but Neoptolemus giving slight ones, took such despised and hated among them, (as having as were deadly, by which he died in the been vanquished by some of them, and for-sheen vanquished by some of them, and for-slaken others in plain field, whilest they vali-alive) stripped by his mortal enemy, whose antly fought in his quarrel) he took great revilings he requited, lying even at the last care to keep them from receiving any in- gate, with one wound in the groin, dangetelligence of the enemies matters. Peremp- rous had it not wanted force. The death of torily he commanded that no messenger nor Neoptolemus caused his followers to run trumpeter should be admitted; and not here- away upon the spurre, and seek shelter bewith fatisfied, he placed against Craterus no hind the Battels of their Foot. They were one Macedonian, nor any other that much nothing hotly pursued. For Eumenes pained would have regarded him, had he been himself to carry succour to his left wing, known: but Thracians, Cappadocians, and which he suspected much to be distressed; Persians, under the leading of such, as thought but found accompanied with the same for-more highly of none, than of Perdiccas and tune, that had affifted him when he fought himself. To these also he gave in charge, in person. Craters hadgallantly born him-that without speaking or hearkning to any self a while, and sustained the impression word, they should run upon the enemy; and of Artabazus and Phanix with more cougave him no leifure to fay, or do any thing rage than force; holding it nothing agreebut fight. The directions which he gave to able with his honour to retire and protract others, he did not fail to execute in his own the fight, when he was charged by men of person: but placing himself in the right little estimation or note. Otherwise it is wing of his Battel, opposite to Neoptolemus, not unlikely that he might have either carwho (as he understood) conducted the left ried the day, or preserved himself to a better wing on the contrary side, he held the Mace- adventure by giving ground, as the rest donians arranged in good order, and ready (when he and Neoptolemus were flain) did. to charge the enemy as foon as the distance But whilst he fought to preserve his reputawould give leave. A rifing piece of ground tion, he loft his life by the fall of his Horse, lay between them, which having afcended, or his falling from his horse, through force the Armies discovered each other: but that of a wound received; upon which accident of Eumenes every way prepared for the he was trampled under foot by many that fight, the other wearied with long journeys, knew him not, and so perished unknown, till to the place where he lay, made great la- King Terdiceas, Philips elder Brother. mentation, as having alwayes loved and homentation, as whose death he was now led Armies, and (as a true Sitter of Alexanhecome the instrument. The vanquished Ar- der) fighting hand to hand with Carra my entertained a treaty of peace with Fu- Queen of the Phrygians, a Vrago, like unto my enters, making thew of willingness to become her felf, had than her. She brought up this his followers; but their intent was only to Eurydice in the fame unwomanly Art of nis tomored themselves, which (by his permissi- | War, who now among the Souldiers began on) having done; they stole away by night, to put in practice the rudiments of her edu-

and fled toward Antipater. the former, wan to Eumenes more reputation medling in his charge. Whether it were fo. rhan good will: for his own Souldiers took that Python had fome purpote to advance the death of Crateris heavily; and the Ar- the Son of Alexander by Roxane, to the Kingmisslying further off were inraged with the dom, (as once he had fought to do;) or news. But other matters there were which whether the Queen did futpect him of some incenfed men against him, besides the death such intent; or whether only desire of rule of craters, whereof it manifeftly appeared, caufed her to quarrel with him; quarrel the that he was as forry as any that pretended did, which diffurbed the proceeding against greater heaviness. His Army wanted pay. Fumenes. The Army having shaken off such This was a great fault; which he wifely a rank-rider as Perducas, would not afteramended, by giving to them the spoil of ward be reined with a twined thread. Python tence, than to put it in execution.

ø. X.

Quarrels between Eurydice the Queen, and Office, into which Antipater is chosen.

it was too late to know it. Eumenes coming Kingdom of Macedon, being the only Son of

This Cina was a warlike woman; the had cation, to the fmall contentment of Python, This Battel fought within ten dayes of that could not brook her too curious interfuch Towns as were ill-affected to him. So bearing himfelf upon his office, took upon him he redeemed the love of his own men, who to give directions in the Kings name, which of their meer motion appointed unto him the Queen did oftentimes controll, using the a Guard for defence of his person. Others same name with more authority, and better were not so easie to be reconciled. They liking of the Souldiers. Python seeing this, who had been Traitors to Perdiccas, hated would needs refign his office, whether upon him for his faithfulness, as greatly, as they weariness of the contentions daily growing, thought he would hate them for their falf- or on purpose to bring the Queen into enhood; neither found they any fairer way of vy, it is uncertain. Perhaps he thought, that excusing their late revolt, than by accusing now being the far worthiest man in the and condemning the fide which they had Camp, he should be intreated to retain the forfaken. Wherefore they proclaimed Eu- place, and have his authority confirmed, or menes a Traitor, and condemned him to dye: (as might be) increased, were it but for but it was an easier matter to give that fen- want of a fit Successor. Eurydice was nothing forry at this course; for now the thought to manage the affairs of the Empire at her own will, being freed from the troublefome affistance of a Protector. But the Souldiers Python the Protector. Python resigns his disappointed both her and Python of their contrary expectations; chusing Antipater, the only powerful man of Alexanders Cap-Thon and Arideus being chosen Pro- tains, then living, into the room of Python. tectors of King Aridaus, and the chil- Hereat the Queen fretted exceedingly, and dren of Alexander; took the way to Asia began to deal earnestly with the Macedonithe less, conducting the Army thorow sy- ans, that they should acknowledge no Lord ria. Of these two, Python was the greater in save only the King their Soveraign. Yet she reputation, yet far too weak to sustain so failed of her purpose, being hindred (as may important a Charge. For Eurydice, wife to feem) by three things: the apparent weak-King Aridaus, was come to her husband, a ness of her husband; the growth of Alexan-Lady of a malculine spirit, well understand-derr children, who (though born of outing what she was or should be, and thinking landish women) were bred in the Macedoher self able to support the weight which nian Camp; and the mightiness of Antipafortune laid upon her foolish husband, being ter, who commanding a great Army near at due to her own title. Her mother cyna, Si- hand, arrived in few dayes at the Camp, and fter to Alexander, by her Father King Phi- enforced Eurydice to hold her felf content. lip, was married (as hath been shewed) to Antipater was of such power, that he needed Amontas, who was the right Heir to the not to work by any close devices, as Ferthe Governours of Provinces that remained not. Eumenes perceiving the irrecoverable alive, acknowledged him their better; yea mischief which this traiterous practice had many of them he displaced out of hand, pur-brought upon him, pursued the villain, and ting others in their rooms. This done, he cut him off before he could thrust himself intook the King, Queen, and Princes along to the troops of Antigonus, and boast of his with him into Mucedonia, leaving Antigonus treachery. This was some comfort to Eu-General of the Royal Army: to whom for menes in the loss of that Battel, which dis his good services done, and to be done abled him utterly to keep the field, and left against Eumenes, he gave the rule of susana, it very hard for him to make a sase retrait. besides his former Provinces, and committed Yet one thing he did which much amazed into his hands the Government of Alia du- his enemies, and (though a matter of small ring that War.

ø. XI.

Autigonus Lieutenant of Afia, wins a Battel of Eumenes, and beliegeth him in Nora: He vanguisheth other followers of Perdiccas.

TEre begins the greatness of Antigonus, whose power in few years over-grow- and common Souldiers apart, raising up ing the rest, wanted little of spreading it self heaps of earth as mountains over them, and over the whole Monarchy. He was to make fo went his way. As this bold adventure bred War upon Eumenes, Alcetus, the Brother, and in the Macedonians (returned to their Camp) Attalus the Brother-in-law to Perdiccas: great admiration of his brave spirit: so the work enough to keep his Army imployed news which Menander (who was fet to look in the publick fervice, till fuch time as he unto their carriages) brought and published might find occasion to make use of it in his among them, enticed them to love him as own business. The first of these which he their honourable friend. He had found Me undertook, was Eumenes, with whom Alce- nander in an open Plain, careless, as after an tus and Attalus refused to joyn, having un- affured Victory, and loaden with the spoils feafonably contended with him in time of of many Nations, the rewards of their long common danger about the chief place. Eu- vervice; all which he might have taken: menes had an Army strong in number, cou- but fearing left such a purchase should prove rage, and all needful provisions; but obedi- a heavy burden to him, whose chief hope ent only at discretion. Therefore Antigonus consisted in swift expedition, he gave secret tryed all way es of corrupting his Souldiers; warning to Menander to fly to the mountempting first the whole Army with letters: tains, whilest he detained his men (whom audiceas had done: he had no concurrents, all followed by some, whose company he defired importance) caused Antigonus himself to admire his high resolution. It was held no small part of the Victory, to get possession of the dead bodies. Eumenes, whilest Anticonus held him in chase, turned out of the way, and fetching a compass, returned to the place where the Battel had been fought; there he burned (according to the manner of the time) the bodies of his own men, and interred the bones and ashes of the Captains which practice failing by the cunning of Eu-thority could not have restrained ) by this menes (who made show as if he himself had sleight, setting them to bait their horses. scattered abroad those Letters to try the The Macedonians extolled him for this faith of his men ) he dealt apart with such courtesie, as a noble Gentleman, that had Captains as he thought most easie to be forborn when it lay in his power to strip won. Of these Captains one rebelled break-them out of all their wealth, and make ing out too hasfily before any help was near their children slaves, and to ravish their him, yet looking to carelefly to himself, that wives: but Antigonus told them, that he had he and his were furprifed, when he thought not forborn to do this out of any good will his enemies far off. Another follower of Eu- to them; but out of meer subtilty had avoidmenes (or rather of good fortune, which he ed those precious fetters, which would have thought now to be in company with Anti- hindred his speedy flight. He told them true. gonus) kept his treachery fecret, referving it For Eumenes did not only think all carriafor the time of execution. Upon confidence ges to be over-burdensome, but the number of the treaton which this falle man, Apolloni- of his men to be more troublesome than des, had undertaken. Antigonus prefented available in his intended course. Wherefore battel to Fumenes; in the heat whereof Apollo- he sent them from him as fast as he could, nides, General of the Horse to Eumenes, fled wishing them to shift for themselves; and over to the contrary fide, with fuch as he retaining only five hundred horse, and two could get to follow him: but was closely hundred foot. When he had wearied AntiCHAP. III. oonus a while in following him up and ther feeking to enjoy their Governments ed him pardon and his love; Eumenes reter cares, than with feeking to maintain quired restitution of his Provinces, which him in his Office. quinted not be granted without Antipaters Antipater was old and fickly, defirous of confent. Then was Nora closed up; where rest, and therefore contented to let Antigo-Anticonus leaving fufficient strength for con- nus pursue the dispatch of those businesses rinuance of the liege, took his journey into in Asia. He had with him Polysperchon, one pilidia against Alcetus and Attalus, with of the most ancient of Aexanders Captains. whom he made short work. He came upon that had lately suppressed a dangerous inthem unexpected, and feifed on passages, surrection of the Etolians, which Nation which wanted not men, but such a Cap- had stirred in the quarrel of Perdiccas, pretain as Eumenes, to have defended them. vailing far at the first, but soon losing all that Aletus and Attalus, as they had been too they had gained, whilest Antipater was fecure before his coming, fo were they too abroad in his Cilician Expedition. In this adventurous, in fighting at the first fight, Polysperchon, Antipater did repose great confiupon all disadvantages: and their folly was dence; so far forth, that (suspecting the youth attended with suitable event. Attalus, with of his own Son Cassander of insufficiency in so many principal Captains was taken; Alcetus great a charge) he bequeathed unto him on fled to the City of Termefus, where the love his death-bed the Government of Macedon of the younger fort toward him was so ve- and Greece, together with his office of Prohement, that stopping their ears against all tectorship. So Antipater died, being fourperswasions of the ancient men, they needs score years old, having alwayes travelled in would hazard their lives, and their Coun-the great affairs of mighty Princes, with such try in his defence. Yet this availed him no- reputation, that Alexander in all his greatthing: for the Governours of the Town ness was jealous of him, and the successors using the time of advantage, they with their oppositions. In his private qualities, he was fervants did fet upon Alcers, who unable to a subtle man, temperate, frugal, and of a Phi-Antigonus was gone, the young men interred ed by Olympias, Alexanders Mother; whom once been minded to set on fire their own abstain from coming into Macedonia, or en-

ø. XII.

how great foever, is insufficient.

Ptolomy wins Syria and Phoenicia. The death of Antipater.

Hilest these things were in doing, the rest of the Princes lay idle, ra-down, he came to Nora, where again keep- for the present, than to confirm or enlarge nown, is not about him than necessity retiem. Only Italiany looking abroad, want quired to make good the place, he lovingly all syria and Planicia: an action of great difinified all the reft. Nora was a little for-importance, but not remarkable for any trefs in the borders of Lycaonia and Cappa-circumfrance in the managing. He fent decia, fo ftrougly fituated, that it feemed a Lieutenant with an Army, who quickly impregnable, and to well victualled and took Laomedon prisoner, that ruled there fored with all necessaries, that it might hold by appointment of Antipater, and formerout for many years. Thither did Antigonus ly of Ferdices; but (as may feem ) withfollow him, with more defire to make him out any great strength of Souldiers, far his friend, than to vanquish him in War. To from Assistants, and vainly relying upon this purpose he entertained parley with him, the Authority which had given him that but in vain. For, whereas Antigonus offer- Province, and was now occupied with grea-having secretly compounded with Antigo- of Alexander did either quietly give place mus, caused the young men to fally out; and unto him; or were unfortunate in making refift, flew himself. His dead body was con- losophical behaviour, not unlearned, as haveyed to Antigonus, and by him barbaroufly ving been Scholar to Ariftotle, and written torn, was cast forth without burial. When some Histories. He had been much molestthe carka(s with folemn Funerals, having after the death of her Son, he compelled to Town in revenge of his death. Such favour termedling in matters of State: yea, at his had he purchased with courteous liberality. own death he gave especial direction, that But, to make an able General, one virtue, no woman should be permitted to deal in the administration of the Empire. But this precept was foon forgotten; and yet, ere long, by forrowfull experience approved to have been found and good.

ø. XIII.

CHAP. III

646

of Caffander against him.

Dolysperckon was very skilfull in the Art tyrannous power which they had formerly rice in that occupation; other qualities, kept in order, obeying their betters perforce. requifite in fo high an Office as he under-Betides all thefe helps, Callander had the went, either Nature had not given to him, fecret love of Queen Eurydice, who had in or Time had robbed him of them. He mana- private rendred him fuch courteile, as was ged his bufiness more formally than wifely, due only to her husband. But neither the as a man of a fecond wit, fitter to affilt, than Queens favour, nor all his other possibilities. command in chief. At the first entrance gave him confidence to break out into open mon the stage, he called to counsel all his rebellion; because he saw Polysperchon much friends, wherein for weighty confiderations reverenced among the Mucedonians, and (as they who weighed not the contrary rea- frong enough to suppress him, before he fons held them) the Queen Olympias was could have made head. Therefore he made revoked out of Epirus into Alwedon, that thew of following his pleasures in the Counthe prefence of Alexanders mother might try, and calling many of his friends about countenance and strengthen their proceed- him, under pretence of hunting, advised ings. For, the condition of the times re- with them upon the fafeft course, and most quiring, that the Governours of Provinces free from all suspicion. The necessity was abroad thould keep greater Armies, than apparent of raifing an Army, before the buwere needful or easie to be retained about finess was set on root; and to do this, opthe person of the King in Micedonia; it portunity presented him with fair means. feemed expedient, that the face of the Ptolomy had by fine force, without any comlying too far off.

The like hope was of the Magistrates, and same coin, saying, That for his own sake, and others of principal authority, in those Com- his dead Fathers, whom he had very dearly mon-weaks, whose forms had been correct-loved, he would not fail to give him all

ed by Antipater, that they would follow the fide, and draw in many partakers: it conof Polysperchon, who fucceeded unto Anti-cerned these men in their own particular to pater in the Protestorflap. The injurrection adhere unto the Captains, by whom their faction was up-held; and by whom the raical multitude, coverous of re-gaining the of War, having long time been Appren- exercifed over the principal Citizens, were Court should be filled with all Majesty, mission, annexed Syria to his Government of that might give authority to the Injuncti- Egypt and Cyrene: this was too much either ons from thence proceeding, and by an aw- for the King to trust him with, or for himto full regard contain within the limited part with. Antigonus upon the first news bounds of duty fuch as could not by force of Antipaters death, began to lay hold upon have been kept in order, being strong, and all that he could get, in such fort, that he manifestly discovered his intent of ma-Such care was taken for prevention of king himself Lord of all Asia. These two imaginary dangers and out of fight, whilest therefore stood in need of a Civil War; present mischiefs lay unregarded in their which Cassander well noted, and presumed bosoms. Cassander, the Son of Antipater, withall, That the friendship which had was not able to discover that great sufficiency passed between his Father and them, would in Polysperchen, for which his father had re- avail him somewhat. Whereupon he seposed in him to much confidence: neither cretly dispatched messengers to them both; could be differn such odds in the quality of and within a little while conveyed himself himself and rolysperchon, as was in their for- on a sudden over the Hellespont, that he tune. He was left Captain of one thousand; might in person advance the business with which Office by practice of those times was greater speed. Much perswasion is needless of more importance, than the title now in winning a man to what he defirethfeems to imply. He thould thereby have Antigonus coveting nothing more, than to been as Camp-mafter, or Lieutenant general find Polysperchon work, by raifing some comto the other: a place no way fatisfying his motion in Greece. Yet (as formalities mult ambition, that thought himself the better not be neglected) Cassader did very earman. Therefore he began to examine his neftly prefs. him, by the memory of his Faown power, and compare it with the forces ther, and all requifite conjurations, to affilt likely to oppose him. All that had relyed him in this enterprise; telling him, that on his Father, were his own affured, especi- Ptolomy was ready to declare for them, and ally such as commanded the Carrifons be- urging him to a speedy dispatch. Antigonus flowed in the principal Cities of Greece. on the other fide repayed him with the manner of fuccour. Having thus feafted one I another with words, they were nothing flack in preparing the common means, lead ing to their feveral ends.

6. XIV.

The unworthy courses held by Polysperchon, for the keeping down of Cassander.

Reat necessity there was of timely pro-I vision. For , Polysperchon needed no other instructions to inform him of Cassan- his pen. For the main point was, That they der drift, than the news of his departure. thould follow such directions, as Folysper-He was not ignorant of the ready dispositi- chon gave, and treat with him about all disfion, which might be found in Antigonus culties. In the rest it contained such a deal and Ptolomy, to the strengthening of rebel- of kindness as proceeding on a sudden from lion; and well he knew that one principal those who had kept them in hard subjects hope of Cassander was reposed in the con on, might well appear to have some other fidence of fuch as ruled in the Grecian root than the pretended good will; and Estate. Therefore (loving to work circum- was of it self too base and unlit for a King feedly ) he called another Council, wherein to use toward his conquered Subjects, and it was concluded, That the popular form of often-subdued Rebels. Government should be erected in all the Cities of Greece; the Garrifons withdrawn; and that all Magistrates and principal Men. into whose hands Antipater had committed of the great Commotions raised in Athens by the supreme Authority, should forthwith be either flain or banished. This was a fure way to diminish the number of Cassanders friends, and to raise up many enemies to him Evertheless the Athenians with immo-in all quarters. Yet hereby was disclosed derate joy entertained this happyboth an unthankful nature in Polysperchon, seeming Proclamation, and sought how to and a factious malice in his adherents. For, put it in execution without further delay. how could he be excused of extreme ingra- But Nicanor, Captain of the Garrison, which could be faid in their defence, who fought pleafing to their hafty defires. civil Wars, and ancient hatred called to that he should find means to thrust some ounfel against injurious friends. Of this Sault Nature is not guilty; the hath taught he arm to offer it felf unto manifest loss in beforce of the head: They are deprayed iffections, which render men fenfible of their own particular, and forgetfull of the more general good, for which they were created.

The decree, whereby the Greeks were presented with a vain shew of liberty, ran under the Kings name; but fo, as one might eafily difeern, that Polyfyerchon had guided

ø. X V.

Polysperchons decree. The death of Pho-titude that for hatred of the Son went about kept one of their Havens, called Munychia. to dishonour the Fathers actions, whose only in the lower part of the Town, would needs bounty had inabled him to do it? Or what take longer time of deliberation, than was to destroy many worthy men, friends to Nicanor, as a trusty follower of Cassander, the State, by whom the Greeks were held was by him shifted into the place, and Merestrained from stirring against the Mace | nillus (that was Captain there before) disdonians? and in opposition to their private charged, when Antipater was newly dead. enemy, gave the rule of things to base Com- His coming to Athens was no way gratefull panions, and fuch as naturally maligned the to the Citizens, who foon after hearing the Empire? But as in mans body, through news of Antipater's death, cried out upon finews newly iffuing from one branch, a Phocion, faying, That he had fufficient intelfinger is more vexed by inflammation of his ligence of that accident, and might, by adnext neighbour, than by any distemper in vertising them in due time, have put into the contrary hand: fo in bodies politick, their hands a fair opportunity of thrusting the humours of men subdivided in faction, out the Macedonians. But these exclamaare more inraged by the difagreeable qua-tions argued no more than a defire to shake lities of fuch as curb them in their nearest off the Macedonian yoke. Far more grie-Purposes, than they are exasperated by the vously would they have been offended, had general opposition of such as are divided they known the instructions which Cassander from them in the main trunk. Hereby it had given to Nicanor, and his resolution to comes to pass, that contrary Religions are follow them. It was concluded, That he invited to help against Neighbour Princes; should not only retain Munychia, any injunbordering enemies drawn in, to a part in ction to the contrary notwithstanding; but which was the principal Haven, against the rather wished in theirs, than in Cassanders. high Town. How to accomplish this, he HisSon Alexander, not ignorant of this, made rather wanted some reasonable pretence, fair shew to the Athenians, and spent much than good ability. But the Athenians were labour in communing with Nicanor, but fufnot long in giving him sufficient cause to do sered not them, for whom he seemed to lathat, which he would have done without bour, to intermeddle with the bufinels.Hereany cause given. They desired him to come upon the Citizens grew jealous, and the diffusion their Council, all embled in the Fireus, there to confider of the Kings Proclamati-on: whither upon Phocions word and fafe his office. This was done with much tumult: conduct he came, and earnestly pressed them banished men and strangers thrusting themto hold with Caffander in the War which was ready to break forth. Contrariwife, distracted with sundry pathons, growing out they urged him first of all, to make them of their present mistortunes, thought every malters of their own, which how to use, they one that best could inveigh against things might confult afterwards. Each of them past, a most likely man to finde some remedy refuling to condescend unto the others de- for the evil threatning them. In this hurlymand; the Athenians (who did alwayes burly was Alexander deviling how he might measure justice by profit, yet feldom thri- come to some good peins of composition wed by that course ) practised with Dercillus, with Nicanor, and held much privy confea Captain following Polifferchon, and then rence with him; which he could not folelying near at hand, that he should enter in-cretly carry, but that his negotiation was to the Town, and take Nicanor prisoner. But discovered, whereby the uproar in the to depart and fave himself.

698

taking Pirens, not as following now the pro- to take them into his protection. ject of Cassander but profecuting his own just revenge. He levied as many Souldiers as he ready to enter with an Army into Attica. could, and drew them closely into Munychia; Thither came Phocion with his companions, which done, he issued into Pireus, took it, hoping well that the letters which they and intrenched himself therein, to the ex- brought, and their own deserts (having alceeding discomfort of the Athenians, who wayes been friends to the Macedonians, as far lately impatient of his keeping the one Halas the good of their Country gave leave) ven, saw him now master of both. Alexan- should be enough to get patronage to their Thortly after with an Army. Then were the thian, Polysperchons familiar friend, went vain Epistles of his Father, and of Olympias to command, before the durst well adventure to return into Macedon, had peremptorily charged Nicanor to restore to the Athenians the places which he held: but he would first consider more of the matter. Polysperchon had further ordained, that the Isle of Samos should be rendred unto them: a goodly offer, had it accorded with his power and meaning. He was (indeed) fo far from Havens was such, as he would rather get in Lishonourable man, he stood wavering be-companies into Piraus, and fortific that alfo, to his own hands, than leave in theirs; ver Phocion, who then governed in Athens, a Town was fo far increased, that Phocion with man very unlike to the rest of the Citizens, many of his friends were accused, and driven being nothing pleased with such a trick of to seek safeguard of their lives by flight. So politick dishonesty, did quietly suffer him they came to Alexander, who entertained them gently, and gave them his letters of Nicanor hereupon began to devise upon commendation to his Father, desiring him

Polysperchon was in the Country of Phocis, der, the fon of Folyperchon, came thither innocency, Besides all this, Dinarchus a Corin-Citizens in great hope of recovering all, and along with them(in an evil hour) who proaddressed themselves unto him; who made mised to him elf and them great favour, by fair shews, intending meer mischief, which means of his acquaintance. But Polysperchon they perceived not, being blinded with the was an unstable man, very earnest in whathe took in hand, yet either for want of judgethe old Queen. Olympias, taking upon her ment in following them, or of honefty in holding the best of them, easily changing his intended courses, and doing things by the halves, which made him commonly fail of good fuccess. For fear of cassander he had offered wonderful kindness tothe Athenians; this had caused them to love him; out of their love he gathered hope of deceiving them, which made him to change his mind, and feek how to get into his own hands purposing to let them have samos, that as shose keys, with which Cassander held them yet he did not throughly intend to let then aft lockt up : finding himfelf disappointed have themselves. The commodity of their of this purpose, and suspected as a falle reputation. Tokeep the Athenians perforce on him; resting well contented with his at his devotion, would indeed have done honest poverty: wherein he lived about well: but the effecting of this began to grow fourfcore years, and then was compelled by desperate; and many Towns of importance the unjust judgement of wicked men, to drink in Greece, began to cast their eyes upon his that poyson, which by just judgement of the proceeding in that action. Wherefore he righteous God, so intected the City of thought it the wifest way to redeem their Athens, as from that day forwards it never good opinion, by giving all contentment brought forth any worthy man refembling unto the popular faction, which was then the virtue of their Ancestors. grown to be Master of that City. And in good time for this purpole were the Athenian Embassadors come, treading (as one may fay) upon Phocions heels, whom they of Polysperchon his vain Expedition against were sent to accuse. These had solemn audience given to them in the Kings presence, who was attended by many great Lords, and for oftentations fake was glorified Cassander, with such forces as Antigoupon them, was (for honors fake) referred | Cassander had many friends. unto the City of Athens, because they were Burgesses. Then were they sent away to they had been in other parts of Greece. First, Athens, where the rascal multitude, not he began to fight with Edicts, restoring the fuffering them to speak for themselves, con- Democraty, or popular form of Governdemned them to dye. So they perished be- ment. He commanded that the principal ing innocent. But the death of Phocion be- Citizens, that had by Antipater been made ing very conspicuous, made the fortune of Rulers, should be either slain, or driven inthe rest to be of the less regard. Five and to exile. This Decree took immediate effect forty times had he been chosen Governor in most places: the vulgar fort being very of the City, never fuing for the place, but ready to feal the Charter of their freedom fent for when he was absent, so well was his and authority, with the blood of those who integrity known, and so highly valued, had kept them in subjection. Yet many Cieven of such as were no pretenders to the ties there were, which delighted in the rule fame virtue. He was a good Commander of the chief Citizens; and many which wishin War, wherein, though his actions were ed well to Cassander, especially they of Menot very great, yet were they of good impor- galopolis, on whom Polysperchon meant to tance, and never unfortunate. Never did inflict an exemplary punishment of disbethe City repent of having followed his dience to him, which he termed Rebellion. counsel: nor any private man of having Meealopolis had in it fifteen thousand sertused his word. Philip of Macedon high-ly esteemed him; 60, and much more did resolved to endure the worst. And need there Alexander, who (besides other signs of his was of such resolution. For Polysperchon love) fent him two hundred talents of coming thither with all his power, did fo filver, and offered to bestow upon him of much, that he overthrew, by a Mine, three of

CHAP. III.

CHAP. III

tween the contrary allurements of profit and gifts, howfoever importunately thrust up-

6. XVI.

Cassander.

with all exterior shews of Majestie; yet all mus lent him, entred into Fireus; which too little to change Arideus into Alexander: news drew Polysperchon headlong into Atfor he did nothing there, but either laugh tica, with a great Army, but so ill victualled, or chafe, as he saw others do. For begin-that he was fain to depart without any ning of the busines; Polysperchon commanded thing done. Only he had given some imthat Dinarchus should be tortured and slain. pediment to the enemy; who, not contented This was enough to testifie his hearty af- with defending what he held, began to look fection to the Commonalty of Athens, in out, and made new purchases abroad. Findthat he spared not his old acquaintance for ing therefore himself funable to drive Cassantheir sake; whose Embassadors he then der out of Athens, he left his Son Alexander, bade to speak. When their errand was done, with such number of men as exceeded not and answer to it made by the accused, who the proportion of victuals, to withstand his had no indifferent hearing, Phocion and the further incroaching. The greatest part of rest were pronounced guilty of Treason; his Army he carried into Peloponnesus, to but to give sentnece, and do the execution make the Country sure to himself, wherein

His doings in Peloponnesus were such, as four Cities in Asia, any one which he would their Bulwarks, and all the space of wall bechuse. But Phocion refused these and other tween them. But the Defendants manfully

CHAP. III.

the breach; and at the fame time with great was not able to give them protection against labour they raifed up animer wall, to bear the enemy which lay in their bosomes. out the next assault. The Assailants having came to agreement with Cassander; acceptout the next analit. The thankals having a control of his appointer; accepted took much pains to clear the ground, and refforing all things to the same state wheremake fair way for their Elephants, whose in Antipater had left them. The like incliviolence was likely to overthrow all that nation to the party of Cassander, was found came in their way. But the Townsmen per- in very many Cities of Greece, which daily ceiving their drift, prepared boards driven and willingly revolted unto him, as to an thorow with long nails, which they used as industrious man, and likely to prevail in the gall-throps, bestowing them sleightly cover- end. Thus was the whole Country set in ed, with the points upward, in the way by a combustion, uneasie to be quenched; which which the bealts were to pass. Neither did presented unto Antisonus an opportunity, they set any to encounter them in front, but that he neglected not, of making himself appointed certain light-armed men to beat Lord of Alia. upon their sides with Arrows and Darts, as they were instructed by some that had learned the manner of that fight in the Asian Wars. Of these provisions they made happy use in the next assault. For, by them were the Elephants (wherein the enemy chiefly trusted) either forely hurt, or driven back upon the Macedonians, whom they trampled under feet. Polysperchon came as ill furnisht for long abode to Megalopolis as before to the Town for his credit.

Sea, to joyn with Arideus that was come the fiege of Nora, a small thing of it self, out of Phrigia, and to cut off all succour but as hard as a greater matter; and requiwhich might come to the enemy out of Asia. ring few men, but much time ; when time Callander also sent his whole fleet under Ni- of all things was most precious. Eumenes canor, who taking along with him some ships lay in that Fort of Nora, able to make the of Antigonus, came to the Propontis, where place good, and hoping that the mutability. he fought with Clitus, and was beaten. But to which the present Estate was manifestly Antigonus hearing of the overthrow, ga- subject, would in continuance of some years thered together the ships that were escaped, (which he might abide ) work more for ped them.

This loss at Sca, together with his bad suc Antigonus knowing the great sufficiency cess by Land, brought Polysperchon into of Eumenes, and considering his fidelity great contempt. He had a good faculty in shewed unto Perdiccas, thought that he could penning bloody Decrees, but when the not find in all the world a fitter man than penning bloody Decrees, but with the matter more difficult. If gins wherein he doubted not that he inoud repelled the Macedonians which came up to she had left them to shift for themselves, and

6. XVII.

Antigonus seeks to make himself an absolute Lord: and thereupon treats with Eumenes who disappointeth him. Phrygia and Lydia won by Antigonus.

Ntigonus had in Antipaters life-time a firm resolution, to make unto himself athens. Therefore being neither able to the utmost benefit that he might of the Ardispatch the business quickly, nor to take my committed to his charge. And in fair fuch leifure as was requifite, he forfook the feafon for advancement of his purpofes came fiege, with fome loss, and much dishonour, the news of Antipaters death; even then, leaving some part of his Army to lie before when all the business in Pildia was dispatched, and no more employment for the Ar-After this he fent Clitus, his Admiral, to my remaining, fave only the continuance of and manning them very well, fent out Ni- him, than his enemies in that space could canor again, affuring him of the Victory, as work against him. His most fear was, that well he might. For he fent out sufficient for want of exercise in that narrow Castle, numbers of light-armed men, whom he cau- his men and horses might grow fickly and fed to be watted over the Streights in small unserviceable: which made him to practife Vessels by night; these before day-light set- many devices of keeping them in health and ting upon Chiw, drave his men, that lay fecurely on the Land, head-long into their in this manner about a year, his hopes came thips; in which tumult Nicanor arriving, did to good pass, and he was eased of his cares affail them fo lustily, that few or none esca- by Antigonus himself, whose forcesheldhim befieged.

Wherefore the Athenians, perceiving that be withstood by the mightiest Princes of one that was friend to them both, acquaint- after his death? To give a fair colour to nomifing to make him a better Lord than not herewith fatished, he had threefcore ever he had been, and the next man to him- thouland footmen, ten thouland horse, and felf, if things fell out as he defired : in regard thirty Elephants in a readine's to answer whereof he required only his friendship, and them. thereupon sent him an oath to take; which ment, which might perhaps be long in com- already been declared. ing: but seeming to be well agreed with Antigonus, he prepared to give up his Hold and depart. As for the oath it felf, when he came to take it, he made shew of dislike, in that it was not folemn enough for fuch personages as they were, who could not be too ceremonious in testifying in their allegiance. The Macedonians which lay incamped before Nora, liked his words, and gave him leave to put in Olympias, and the children of he departed.

the Empire. He fent therefore to Eumenes by not to dispose of things that should happen ing him with fome part of his intent, and his ambition, this was enough: if any were

The first that perceived his drift, and done, he might at his good pleasure iffue safe- provided to resitt him, was Arideus Goly out of Nora, and enjoy his perfect liberty. vernor of Phrygia; who fortified the Towns Fumenes peruling the form of the oath, did of his own Province, and fought to have perceive the meaning of Antigonus; which won Cizicus, a fair Haven Town, and feated was, rather to make him his follower than very conveniently for him, but was fain his fellow. For whereas, in a few words, it to go away without it. Hercupon Anticonus mentioned the King and Princes of the blood, took occasion to command him out of the rather to keep the Decorum, than upon any Country. Arideus was fo far from obevloyal intent, the binding words and fum of ing him, that he fent forces to relieve Euall were such, as tied him fast only to Antigo- menes. Nevertheless finding that he was nus, omitting all refervation of duty, to the unable of himself to make long relistance, he King or any other. This he liked not, holding took fuch companies as he could draw along it infeemly to become a fworn man to him, with him, and so passed over into Europe, with whom he had fought for the mastery; to complain at the Court. The like forand being affured that his voluntary affi-tune had Clytus, who ruled in Lydia, and france, which way soever he gave it, would be sought the like remedy of his fortune, with more acceptable, and far more honourable, some hope at the first (for both of them than the course propounded. Yet would he were entertained with very good words) not therefore break off the negotiation, and which quickly vanished; and grew despewait for some better occasion of inlarge rate, when they were beaten at Sea, as hath

ø. XVIII.

Antigonus pursues Eumenes. Eumenes Laving authority from the Court, raiseth great war against Antigonus in defence of the Royal boufe.

Ntigonus having thus gotten into his hands all, or most of all Alia the less, Alexander, binding himself to them and their was able to have entred Mucedon and seized adherents, as well as to Antigonus; and fo upon the Court; which that he forbare to do, it proceeded (as may feem) from fome Antigonus hadtaken upon him, as soon as of these reasons. It would have bred as he came down to the Sea-side, to remove much jealousie in Cassander, as fear in Posome of the Governors of the Provinces, lysperchon, which might have brought them behaving himself according to the authori- to terms of reconciliation: It would ask ty which he had received of Antipater, to more time than he could spare; and the exercise in the time of War. Neither did envy which followed the Protectorship was he want sufficient pretence whereby to ju- such, as he that had power enough without fifie his proceeding. For, if Polyferchor the office, ought rather to fluo, thanto purfuel havfully hold the Protectorship, which the old man doting on his death-bed mencs would not only refuse to take his bequeathed unto him, as a Legacy, without part, but would make war upon him in deconsent of the Princes and Souldiers; why tence of the Royal house, to which it was might not he himself as well retain the Lieu- found that Antigonus did not stand well-attenantship of Asa, that was granted unto fected. Against him therefore he bent his him for the general good of the State, in course, and with an Army of twenty thoupresence of the whole Army, by the King, sand foot, and four thousand horse, made and by Antipater, who had power to ordain great haste towards Cilicia, hoping to suppress what should seem convenient whilst he lived, him before he should be able to make head.

Tttt 2

Eumenes was one of those few that conti-jinto the particulars of the War it self nued faithful to their dead Master, which be- to shew briefly how the great Ones did muing well known in the Court, he had com- tually stand affected; and by what passions mission sent unto him from thence to raise they were drawn into those courses, which an Army, and make war upon Antigonus, ta- overthrew most of them, and out of their king of the Kings treasure as much as he ruines built the greatness of a few: as likeshould need. Other letters also there were wise to what extremity the faction brake. directed to all the Governors of Provinces, out in Macedon it felf, about the main Conrequiring them to give affiftance to Eume- troversie of the Title to the Crown, wherenes, and be ordered by his direction : especi- upon all other quarrels were or should have ally to the Captains of the old Souldiers, been depending. called the Argyraspides, or Silver-shielded bands, commandment was given to be at his ful, did only what he was bidden. appointment. He had of his old followers gathered together two thousand foot, and Office, had a purpose to advance the Son of tive hundred horse, before this Authority Alexander by Roxane to the Kingdom, and was given him : but now he purposed with become Governor to a King of his own all the strength which he could make, to making. fight with Antigons indefence of the Royal blood. Olympias had written to him, defiring this intent, and meaning nothing less than him to bring help to her, and her Nephew the to let her husband ferve as a Stale, keeping Son of Alexander; and in the mean time to the Throne warm till another were grown give her his advice in that which Polysperchon old enough to fit in it, grew acquainted with required of her: for the was defirous to re- Cassander, who hated the memory of Alexturn into Macedon, but suspected his ambi- ander, and was therefore the fitter for her tion, as not contained within lawful turn. bounds. Eumenes therefore counselled her to remain in Epirus, till such time as he wherein his family had been through Alexcould bring the war to a good iffue; which anders malice, together with the indignity done, he promised that his faith and care offered to himself by Alexander, who knockshould not be wanting to the feed of Alex- ed his head against a wall for deriding one ander.

Empire, scarce any one could be found which he took in the amorous Queen, made among the Noblemen, in whom Alexanders him to resolve, both to suppress the linage Mother, Wives and Children, might repose which he hated, and to maintain his befirm confidence, faving only this Eumenes, a loved Mistress, either by supporting her stranger to the Maceuonian blood, born at weak Husband, or by taking her to be his Cardia, a City of Thrace. His reputation was own Wife. no more than his own virtue had made it; The reft of the Lords held it a thing in-his followers obeyed at their own difere-different, who reigned over all, so as they tion; and compelled he was to travel as far might reign in their several Countries, and as Persia, to gather together an Army suf-establish their authority in such wise, that ficient to relift the enemies that purfued his it might not be taken from them. heels.

o. XIX.

intermeddle; and great alterations happen- accomplish. ed, not only in the parts of Asia, but Macedon it felf, which brought a new face unto with step-dames) hated the children of her house of Philip and Alexander: I hold it that the had given poylon to Aridans, which

Ariders the King, being simple and fear-

Polysperchon, desirous to continue long in Eurydice the Queen discovering plainly

Cassander held fresh in mind the danger that adored him after the Persan manner. Strange it is to confider, that in all the The displeasure hereof, and the pleasure

Among these, Ptolomy and Antigonus were well enough already, if their ambition would have fuffered them to fee it.

Pitho and Seleuchus lying far off, and being How the Princes of Macedon food offetted strong, had some good hope to incroach upmutually. Olympias takes Aridæus and on their neighbours. Against these, Peucestes, Eurydice, whom she cruelly puts to death, and some others, with much ado hardly made refistance, until such time as Eumenes Now, forasmuch as in this present War came to them; who propounded to him-all the Rulers of the Provinces did self great matters, which he lived not to Olympias the old Queen (asit is common the State, by the extirpation of the Royal husband by his lother wives. It was thought convenient in this place, before we enter failing to take away his life, had much impaired both his body and wits. Now she ried, she accused of poyson given to Alexanto joyn with Polysperchon, and set up, as were able to defend him. To this intent she procured men among her kindred in Epirus, and fo took her way towards Polysperchon. who joyning with her, entred into Macedon.

Eurydice hearing these news, wrote very earnestly to Cassander, praying him to set afide all other bufiness, and come to fuccour her. She her felf by entreaty, gifts, and promiles, drew to her party as many of the Macedonians as the could, until the thought her own fide strong enough; and then taking her husband with her, went boldly forth against Olympias, and the Traytor Polysper-up Arideus and his wife in a close room, considering, that Eumenes was too full of der, and thereupon caused his Tomb to be business to come home so soon as she wished thrown down, and his bones to be scattered that he should; and that Cassander daily abroad. The Macedonians wondring at this prevailed in Greece: thought it the best way fury, began to condemn themselves, and the folly of Polysperchon, who had, quite contra-King, her Nephew Alexander, the Son of ry to Antipaters charge given on his death-Roxane, removing Aridaus before Cassander bed, called this outragious woman to the Government of the Empire.

These two Queens met armed, as if the matter should have been determined by ner with her Husband.

ø. X X.

How Cassander was revenged upon Olympias

The great Expedition of Caffanger. Olympias fouts ber felf into Pydna, where Callander belieged ber. Eacides King of Epirus, coming to succour Olympias, is for saken and banished by his own Subjects, Affander at that time lay before Tegea, in Peloponne fus ; whither when all the e their own hands, which ended without any ill tidings were brought to him, he never froke stricken, by the revolt of those who stayed to take the City, nor to give order followed Eurydice. For as foon as the Mace- for the state of things in that Country, domans beheld Olympias; calling to mind (though Alexander the Son of Polyberchon, her former Estate, and the victorious reigns (were there with an Army) but compoundof her Husband and Son, they refused to lift ling with them of Tegea, he willed his assoany weapon against her. Eurydice finding ciates to look to themselves as well as they her felf thus forfaken, fled towards Amphi- could, till his return; and fo in all hafte he polis, but was intercepted, and made prifo- took his journey towards Macedon, carried headlong with the greedy defire of just re-Olympias having obtained this Victory venge. The Atolians had taken the without blood, thought that all things Streights of Thermopyle, in favour of the would fucceed as eafily, and upon the fame Queen and Polysperchon, to hinder his pafconfiderations for which they had refused to sage; but he, not willing to mispend any bear Arms against her, the Macedonians time in dealing with them, got together as would not flick to maintain her, whatfoever many thips ashe could, great and fmall, with her proceedings were. Having therefore that which he transported his Army into Theffaly. There he divided his companies, appointing where they could scarce turn round, she fed some under Calles, a subtil Captain, to hold them thorow a little hole, till after a while Polysperchon busied, who then lay incamped it came in her head (for fear lest the peo- neer to Perbabia, with the rest he marched ple should have commisferation of him, that directly against Olympias. She, having once had reigned almost fix years and a half) prevailed by the respect given to her dignity to put them to death. So the delivered Ari- took more care how to appear Majetical, dem to some barbarous Thracians; who took than to make her self strong. To this end away his life by cruel torments: to Eurydice the made a folemn progress to Pydna, a Scashe sent a sword, a halter, and a cup of poy- Town, and well senced, having in her comom, willing her to chuse the instrument of pany all the slower of the Court, especially her own death, who praying that the like the great Ladies, among whom was Roxane, presents might one day be sent to Olympias, and her young Son Alexander, heir to the yielded her neck to the halter, having spent great Alexander, by his Grand-mothers deher last curses not in vain. Nicanor the Bro- fignment: who during his minority, kept ther of Cassander, and a hundred the chief of his Soveraign power in her own hands. But his friends, did Olympias then chuse out, all all this pomp served to little use against the whom the commanded to be flain. His Bro- violence of the enemy, that foon presented ther Iolana that was already dead and bu- himfelf before the walls; only it fed the beCHAP. III

fieged with a vain hope of succour, that | fit for no other business of war, than a swift would from all parts arrive, to rescue per- retrait. When samine had so far prevailed fons of their quality. And hereof there foon in the City, that the horses were killed asa appeared fair likelihood, which as foon precious food, many men feeding on the vanished, and went away in smoak.

with whom Deodamia his daughter was also the Queens leave (who could not denvir) shutup. Nevertheless, his Subjects were others, without asking leave, yielded themnothing forward in this Expedition; but felves to the enemy, and were by him gentled them forth to war.

ons were managed abroad.

t. II.

Pydna. Olympias yields to Cassander.

continue to an end one History, that we may vation. not be therewith distracted, when we shall come to the relation of another. All the hope of the belieged, remaining in Polysperchon, was in like manner disappointed as their former trust had been, which was rerosed in the succours of the Epirots. For Calles, who was sent against him, found the means to corrupt the greatest part of his self-was called into question, and accused in Army with mony, leaving him within a little an Assembly of the Macedonians, for the mur-dead carkafles of their fellows, and faw-For Hacides King of Epirus made great dust being given to the Elephants for prohaste to bring succour to Olympias his Cousin, vender; some of the Souldiers obtaining finding certain passages taken in the way by ly relieved, and sent abroad into the Coun-Callanders men, they called upon him to re- try. The news of the Queens affairs, diftire, and quit the enterprize. The Kings im- perfed by these men, did so affright her wellportunity urging them to proceed, and the willers, that such as had referved themselves obstinate refusal of the Army, brake out at to the event, came in apace, and submitted length into such terms, that when he had to Cassander. At length, when the morraliraged in vain against the multitude, his auty was so great in the Town, that the living thority, with which he thought to have pre- were even poyfoned with the noisome fent vailed upon them, was by them taken from of the dead; Olympias bethought her self him, and he compelled to for sake his King- of stealing away by Sea in a Galley that she dom, and to wander up and down in foreign had: wherewith her success was as bad as Countries a banished man, his people joyating with the enemy, against whom he had Town, by her chosen as a place of refuge, to be unto her as a house of torment, and a Pydna in the mean time was closed up Gaol, out of which she should not be delitreightly, both by Sea and Land, fo that vered, but unto an evil death. Being thereither any could flue out of the City, nor fore utterly broken with mileries, which any relief be conveyed into it, but it held out daily afflicted her and the other Ladies, unas long as any food was left; no memorable accustomed to so wretched a kind of life, she fervice being done there, whilst great acti- offered composition, and with much labour hardly obtained of Cassander ( who having fetcht her Gally out of the Haven, accounted himself as good as master of her body) a grant of her own life. Immediately upon A continuation of Olympias her story. Poly- her apprehension, Pella, the chief City of the sperchon defeated. Extreme Famine in Kingdom, was yielded to Cassander. Amphipolis did frand out : for Aristonus (to whom Olympias had given charge of such Forces Now, though order of time require it, as were left abroad in the Country, taking that we should rehearse the doings of courage from the success of some petty services. Eumenes and Antigonus in this place, leaving vices wherein he had prevailed ) began to Olympias yet a while to the hour of her de- promise himself great unlikelihods. But ftiny; which grows the faster upon her, be- Olympias, to win Cassanders favour, very earcause she may discernit coming: yet that nestly required him upon his faith to her, we may not be compelled to interrupt the that he should give it up. He did so, and precourse of our narration, by inserting her sently after was killed by his private ene-Tragedy in the midst of things not manifest- mies, that were set on by Cassander, who ly coherent with it; we will here (as else- partly hated him upon old respects, partly where we have done, and elsewhere must) doubted him, as a man likely to seek Inno-

†. III.:

The death of Olympias, and ber conditions.

while follenderly accompanied, that he was there (they were fo stiled in her affliction, flice)by her committed. There was she (be- her own head. ing not heard, nor called to speak) condemned to die. The fute was commenced and profecuted against her, by the kindred of projection again. But it was at Caf- Cassander celebrates the Funeral of Aridaus Canders instigation, who (to hasten the execution) fent her word, that he would furnish her with a ship, and other necessaries, to save herself by slight: which when she refused, him and others; ) after all which, he re- ces.

which in time of prosperity she called ju- warded her malice, by returning it upon

t. IV.

and Eurydice; and seeks to make himself King of Macedon.

herself by flight: which when she refused, faying, that she would plead for her self, A fter her death, Cassander gave honor-faying, that she would plead for her self, A sale burial to Aridam and Eurydice, and tell her own tale; he diffembled no lon- among their Progenitors, Kings of Macedon. ger, but fent unto her fuch men, as hated her And looking further into his own poffibiliger, unt tent day and her miserable life. She ties of greatness, he married the Lady Thefwas Daughter, and Sifter, unto two Kings of Salonica, whom he had taken at Pydna, being Was Daughter of King Philip, by another of mightiest Kings, of that, or many other ages; his Wives; that by her he might have some a front Lady, and of unreproveable chaftity; title to the Crown. For the same end he a nout Lauf, and her young Son but her ambition was boundless, her hatred committed Roxane, and her young Son unappeasable, and her fury in revenge most to close Prison, removing thereby some unwomanly. Her perverse conditions made part of his impediment. And, the better her Husband seek other Wives and Concu- to encrease his fame, and purchase love, hines, which caused her to hate both him, built a City, called by his own name Casand them. She was thought privy to her fandria, that foon grew to be very great Husbands death; after which, very cruelly and powerful. He re-edified likewife Thebes the flew his late Wife Cleopatra, having first in Greece, and restored it unto the old muthered one of her two children in her Inhabitants, after it had lain twenty years arms, and with a beaftly fury broiled the waste, being utterly razed by Alexander. other alive in fire, in a Copper-bason. For By these means, especially by the restaurathese things, her Son Alexander (otherwise tion of Thebes, whereunto all Greece volunloving her well) forbade her to meddle in tarily contributed, he grew fo strong, tarily contributed, he grew so strong, that sovernment of Macedon. But God, more severe unto cruel Tyrants, than only to hinder them of their wills, permitted her to live and fulfil the rest of her wickedness (which was his justice upon the adultities of Philip, and the oppression done by him and others) after all which he terms of the provinces, with greater for him and others all which he terms.

CHAP. IV.

Of the great Lordship which Antigonus got in Asia.

The Journey of Eumenes into Persia. His wife dealing with those that joyned with him.

company the Argyraphues, made fing forward was too great, his Army hafte into the Eastern parts, to take fing forward was too great, his Army cording to his Commission, and strengthen to return their due obedience, none at himself against Antigonus. He took his all. Besides all which Impediments, one journey through Caloffria and Phanicia, inconvenience troubled him in all his prohoping to reclaim those Provinces, usurp-ceedings, making them the less effectual. ed the rest of Syria (as hath been shew- The Captains of the Agyraspides were so Comment, having joyned unto his ed) by Ptolomy, to the Kings obedience: company the Argyrasides, made But to effect this, his haste of his paspossession of those Countries, ac- too little, and the readiness of the people,

CHAP. IV.

When they came into Persia, Feucestes ruling there, feasted them royally, and love to himself. Eumenes perceiving whereunto those doings tended, suffered him a

War drew near. Then did he feign an Epi-froward, that they scorned to repair to him, from the Kings treasures, which were kent and take his directions; and their fidelity there. To which end, as foon ashe had was fo unfteady that they might more easily made himself strong enough, he removed have dealt with open Traytors. It was not out of Mesopotamia, where he had wintered: expedient, that he, being General, should and taking to him Pytho and Selences, with weaken his authority by courting them; their men, he marched directly against the neither lay it in his power to keep them in chemics, with intent to give them battel. order by compulsion. Therefore he feigned, Eumenes had fortified the Castle of Susa, and that Alexander had appointed unto him, in was retired back toward Perlia, keeping the a dream, a place for their meeting, namely, River of Tigris between him and his purin a rich pavilion, wherein an empty throne fuers. The passages of the River were well was placed, as if Alexander himself had been guarded, and good espial kept upon Antieocresent at their consultations. Thus he freed nut, to observe which way he took. Before himself from their vain pride; but of their he came to Tigris it self, he was to pass over faith he could have no aflurance. Yet when Coprates, a great River, and not foordable, Pholomy requested them, and Antigonus bribed them to forfake him, they continued whereof he had no great store. A great though not without confidering of the mat-ter) to take his part. So he marched on, finding before him the Kings Warrant; which Pytho and Schuess refuted to obey; not as rejecting the Kings Authority, but ing them out of order, charged them, brake excepting the person of Eumenes, as a man them, and drave them headlong back into condemned to die by the Micedonian Army, Coprates, wherein most of them were for the death of Craterus. Eumenes, know-drowned; very few escaping with life, exing well that he was not to rely upon their cept four thousand that yielded themselves aflistance, who stood otherwise affected prisoners in light of Antigonus, that was not than his affairs required, and were not to be able to relieve them. This loss made Andealt with by perswasion, sought passage by tigonus glad to fall off; and the heat of that ftrong hand through the Country of Baby- Country in the Dog-days, breeding diflon; in such wise that Seleucus, having in vain eases in his Army, by which many perished, affayed to hinder him, by opening the fluces caufed him to remove as far as into Media. of Euphrates, was glad at length to grant So he took Python with him; (leaving Sehim friendly way, as defirous to be rid of lencus to befiege the Castle of susa) and him. Thus he came to Penceste and the rest seeking to go the nearest way, palled of the Eastern Lords, who were glad of his through savage Nations, that continually company, because of the differences be- vexing him with skirmishes, slew great tween Pytho, selcucus, and themselves. Yet numbers of his men, before he could arrive the contention about superiority grew very in Media, with his Troops that were quite hot among them, every one finding matter heart-broken. enough to feed his own humour of felfworthines. But the former device of affembling in one pavilion, made all quiet; the conclusion ever being sure to follow that of Eumenes his cunning. A Battel between which Eumenes propounded, who was both wifest in giving advice, and best able to reward, by means of the authority given him, to take what he pleased of the Kings treafures. By these means he won to himself the remainder of their business. Fain he many of those, who had most power to do would have had them to enter upon those good or hurt.

ø. I I.

How Antigonus, coming to fet upon Eumenes, was driven off with lof.

defire to follow him, and drive him further vide it felf into parts.

bim and Antigonus.

Fter his departure, Eumenes with his A affociates fell into confultation, about Provinces, which Antigonus had left behind him; to which also the Captains of the Argyraspides or Silver-Shields, were very inclinable, as defiring to draw near to Greece. But Penceftes, and the rest, whose dominions lay in the high Countries, had more care of their own particular Estates, and would Nigonus, hearing that Eumenes lay in needs march Eastward. These carried it; the Province of Susa, had an earnest for the Army was not strong enough to di-fought by all means to win the Souldiers of divers stratagents pactifed by Antigonus. and Eumenes, one against the other.

unto thole doings tensus, ill the time of while to keep good chear, till the time of and was protracted to a greater Then did he feign an Epithe directed, as from Orontes Governor of length, each part having from Souldiers, me, and skilful Generals: but the fide which whereof was; that olympias had vanquithed had hitherto prevailed, being hindred by Cassander, and fent over a great Army under the equal authority of many, from pursuing Polyperchon, to joyn with Eumenes. These all advantanges to the best, Antigonus grew rougher and a day and any with vain joy, daily weaker, in men and reputation, forthat to repair himself he could find no way fafer, willingness toobey Eumenes, by whom was than to put all to adventure. He knew that the likelieft appearance of their preferment; his enemies lay in their wintering places, wherein they dealt wifely, he being far the quartered far afunder, fo that if he could most sufficient Commander, as they found suddenly come among them, he was likely foon after. For when Antigonus, coming to put them in great diffres. Between him out of Media, drew near unto them, Eume and them, the way was not long, being only ner, by some mischance was fallen sick, and nine days journey, but very bad, through fain to be carried in a Litter; the Army a rough dry wilderness, hardly patiable. marched in very bad array, and was likely Another way, fairer and leading through a to have been forced to take battel in that Country well peopled, but requiring twenty diforder. But Eumenes, when the rest of five days journey, he for sook; partly for the diforder. But Euments, when the rett of the days journey, he torlook; partly for the the Captains were amazed, was carried length, partly, and chiefly, because he would about the Army in his Litter, and upon the come undiscovered. So therefore taking his fidden did cast his men into so good form, journey in the dead of Winter, he forbade that Antigonus, perceiving him afar off, unto his men the use of fire by night, because could not refrain from giving him deserved he would not have them discryed afar off. commendations. Yet he did not cease to This commandment had been well observed promife great rewards to the Captains, and ved four or five days, when continuance of all forts of men, if they would for sake En-time (as commonly) breeding negligence. menes: which hopes deceiving him, he came and the cold weather pinching them, they to the trial of a battel. Eumenes had more were bold to cherish themselves, being near Elephants than Antigonus; otherwise, he to their ways end. The light of these fires was inferiour in number both of horse and gave notice of their coming; which being foot by a third part. The battel was fought reported to Peucestes, and other Captains, with variable fucces, and great loss on both they were so astonished with the sudden fides, continuing a great part of the day, and danger, that in all hafte they betook themof the night following. Yet the victory was selves to flight. But Eumenes, meeting with uncertain. For Eumenes could not force his the news, began to hearten his affrighted men to lye far from their carriages: by companions, promifing to make Antigonar which means Antigonas (who had a more march leifurely, and willing them to abide, absolute command over his) incamping on and draw up their men together. They the ground whereon they sought, had in could scarce believe him, yet they were his power the dead bodies, which was ac- content to be ruled, and did as he appointcounted the fign of victory; for he buried ed, who failed not in making his word good. his own, and gave leave to his enemies cra- He took with him some companies of the ving it, to do the like. But a greater sign readiest men, wherewith he occupied cerof victory had Eumenes. For he abode tain tops of mountains, looking toward the still in the same place, and not only bu- Camp of Antigonus: there he chose a conried his men very honourably, at great venient ground to encamp upon, and made leisure, but held the Country round about ; great store of fires in sundry places, as if the whereas Antigonus was glad (having tar- whole Army had been present. This was a ried but one day) to steal away by night, sorrowful spectacle to Antigonus, who and return into Media, from whence he thought himself prevented of his purpose; and began to fear lest he should be compelled to fight, whileft his menwere tired with a long and painful journey. There-way to such places, as night better serve to transported with Envy, that they could refresh his Army. This he did with great no longer contain their vile thoughts, but care and circumspection, at the first, as know-held communication, as upon a necessary ing how ready Eumenes would be upon all point, how they might find means to muradvantages. But after a while, confidering ther him. that no enemy stirred about him, he began to paufe, and think in himfelf, that somewhat mischief contrived against worthy men, to or other was not fallen out according to his their own proud carriage, or some other ill opinion. To be the better informed in the deserving: For, though it often happen, that matter, he caused some Inhabitants of that small vices do serve to counterpoize great defart to be taken, and brought before him; vertues; (the fense of evil being more quick of whom he learned, that they had feen no and lasting than of good) yet he shall beother Armythan his thereabout, but only a wray a very foolish malice, that, wanting few men that kept fires on the hill-tops. It other testimony, will think it a part of wilvexed him exceedingly to find that he had dom, to find good reason of the evils done been so deluded. Therefore he went against to vertuous men, which oftentimes have no these Troops with great fury, meaning to other cause than vertue it self. Eumenes. take flarp vengeance on them, for having among many excellent qualities, was noted (trength was arrived there, which could not conversation among his friends, and careful vided the remedy.

CHAP. IV

709

ø. V.

The conspiracy of Peucestes and others, against Eumenes bis life.

fore herefolved to turn a fide, and take the their own much infufficiency, were fo

Surely, it is great injustice to impute the fo deceived him. But by this time, fufficient to be of fingular courtelle, of a very fweet beforced without much business, and long by all gentle means to win their love, that flay. All the Army was come, fave only En Geemed to bear him any fecret ill affection. danns, Captain of the Elephants, who, be- It was his meer vertue that overthrew him. fides those beafts, had no more than four which even they that fought his life achundred horsemen in his company. Antigo- knowledged. For they concluded that he nus hearing of this supply coming to his ene- should not be slain, before the battel were mies, sent above two thousand horse, and all fought with Antigonus, wherein they conhis light-armed foot-men, to cut it off by the feffed that it stood best with their safety, to way. Eudamus being fallen into this danger, be governed by his direction. Of this treason was fain to place his Elephants round about his carriages, and for to defend himself as well whom he had done many pleasures, and by as he could; for his horse-men, overlaid some others of whom he used to borrow with multitudes, were quickly broken, and money when he needed not, to the end that driven to run away upon the four. Neither they should be careful of his good, for fear knew they, who fate upon the Elephants, of losing their own. Considering therewhich way to turn them, for on all sides they received wounds, and were not able villany intended against him, he made his to requite them with the like. In this ex- last Will, and burnt all his Writings that tremity there appeared brave Troops of contained any matter of secret: which done, horse and foot, that came unexpected to the he revolved many things in his mind; being rescue; and charging the Assailantsupon the doubtful what course he were best to folback, drave them to feek their own fafety low. All the Nobles of the Empire stoodill by speedy flight. These were sent by Eu- affected to the Royal blood, excepting those menes; who though he knew not what his which were with him, that were more in Adversary meant to do, yet he knew very number than in worth. How things at that well what was fittest for him to do : and time stood in Macedon and Greece, either he therefore, playing both games himself, pro- knew not, or, knowing the truth, knew nothing that might encourage him to feek their help, that needed his. To make his own peace with Antigonus, had been against his faith to Olympias, and the Princes, that had committed this great power into his hands. For which cause also it may be thought, that he forbare either to lofe the TY these means Eumenes won great ho- battel willingly, or to fly into Cappadocia, nor, and was by the whole Army ac- and make shift for himself among his old knowledged a most expert General, and friends. At length he resolved to do his best well worthy of the chief command. But against the common enemy, and afterwards Pencefter, and the other Captains, guilty of to look to himself as well as he might.

6. V I.

menes.

Fumenes perplexed, and not knowing the win fuch a victory upon his open enemies, as cause, entreated him not to doubt of the might give him leisure and opportunity to victory, but only to bring them in the deal with his falle friends. field, and fet them in array; for the rest, they alone would take sufficient order. The their own opinions, far inferior to those like alacrity was generally found in the whom they must encounter, were at the common Souldiers faces; but the chief first brunt presently deseated by the Silver-Commanders were so mischievously bent shields, who slew above five thousand of against him, that they could not endure to them, losing of their own not one man. But think of being beholding to him for the in Horse, Emmener was so over matched that victory. Yet he ordered the battel fo well, he could not repel Antigonus, who prefied that, without their own great fault, they him very hard, but was fain to frand whol-kenin vain. For the silver-shields were men his back. of threescore or seventy years old, and strengtry their last hope with these resolute war- to incline. riors, the most Ancient and best regarded uttered would prove true.

to give him a sharp entertainment.

Elephants, under one Philip, an honest man, tinue where he was.

and (which was enough at fuch a time) obedient: commanding him to protract the The last battel between Antigonus and Eu- fight, and make a rea onable retrait, expecting the event of the other fide.

So they joyned very fiercely; Antigonus, He Souldiers, especially those old labouring to make himself master of all; bands of the silver-shields, finding Eumenes, to die an honorable death, or to

The footmen of Antigonia, being, even in could hardly fail of getting the upper hand-Before the Armies came to joyning, a lowell by example, among his followers, horfeman from the fide of Emmene.proclaim-that the Enemy could not win one foot of ed with a loud voyce unto the followers of ground upon him, until such time as Peantigonas, That their wickedness in fighting cester, with one thousand five hundred Annuones, I had their wheelest an agent Horfe, withdrew himfelf out of the battel, nilhed, as it well deferved. This was not fpolerating his companions fighting to defend

Then did Eumenes desperately rush thened more by continual exercise, than de- amongst his Enemies, labouring to break cayed by age, and excelling in courage, as open the way unto Anigona himfelf. And having palled through greater dangers, though he failed of his purpose; yet with than any like to be presented in that fight. | great slaughter he did so beat upon them Therefore Antigonus his men (who had which came in his way, that the victory hung oftenbeen beaten by them, and were now to a long time in suspence, uncertain which way

The ground whereon they fought, being tile mont anticent and bett regarded of all glexanders Souldiers) grew very pen- of a flight fangy mould, through the tramfive, and advanced heavily, inspecting their pling of horses, men and Elephants, did cast own cause, and fearing that the threatnings up such a cloud of dust, as hindred the prospect, so that no man could see what was done Antigonus was now again far the stronger a little from him. Antigonus sinding this adin horse, which gave him cause of great hope; the ground, on which they were to of Horse, that passed undiscovered beyond fight, being a plain levelled field. Placing Eumenes his battels, and came to his carritherefore himself and his son Demetrins in ages, which lay about half a mile from the the right wing, and committing the left place of fight, flenderly guarded (for that wing to Python, he did fet forward couragi- the whole body of the Army lay between oully against the Enemies, that were ready them and danger) and therefore easily taken. Had Peucestes retired himself no further Eumenes took unto him Penceftes, with the than unto the carriages, he might not only rest of the Lords, and stood in the left wing have defended them, but peradventure have of his battel, in the face of Antigonus; mean- furprized those which came to surprize them, ing both to prevent the Traytors, his Com- and so have done as good a piece of service Panions, of all means to make head against as a better man. But he was gotten somehim on the sudden; and (withal) to give what further, to a place, where out of danproof of his own valour, which perhaps he ger he might expect the event; and Eumenes thould no more do, in the face of all his Ene- was fo over-laboured both in body and mies. In the right wing, opposite unto Python, mind, that he could not possibly give an eve he bestowed the weakest of his Horse and to every place, being not well able to con-

ing together, those of Antigonus had the needs return into the high Countries; and better hand; whereupon Eumenes, finding the Souldiers had no defire either to fly or himlelf every way overcharged, began to to fight, but only to recover their goods. give back, and withdrew himtelf and his Wherefore Tentamus, one of the two Capcompanies in good order, to the other fide tains of the Silver hields (who had in forof the battel, where thilip (as he was di-mer times readily confented unto trayterous rected) had by fighting and retiring toge- motions, in hope of gain, but was letted by ther, kept that wing from lofs. The Antigo- his partner Antigenes ) finding, as he thought nians had felt so much of Fumenes that day, a fit occasion of making himself great, and that they were well content to let him de- winning the love of those bands, dealt separt quietly, and wished nor to see him come cretly with Antigonus, requesting him to reagain; as tain he would have done.

unto him, as food as he had any leiture to of their fervices, in the Wars of Philip and hear how things went : whereupon he pre- Alexander. tently ordered his men for a freth charge, and fent for renefics that was not far off, request- well, that they which requested more than ing him to bring in his men, and renew the they had reason to expect, would also with fight, whereby he trufted, not only to reco- little entreaty, perform a great deal more ver their own goods, but to enrich them than they promifed; and therefore he lofelves with the spoils of the enemies. Pauce- vingly entertained the messengers, filling thes not only refuted to joyn with him, but them with hopes of far greater matters than immediately withdrew himfelf into a fafer they defired, if they would put Eumenes into dangerous temptations.

return into their Camps. Yet Antigonus con- about him, as at other times, to do their duty, tor all his other loffes.

o. VII.

flain.

finding the silver-shields extremely difcontented with their misfortune, began to rest were desirous to be rid of him quickly; cheer them up, and put them in hope of re- thinking belike, that if he were faved, he covering all with advantage. For their would foon be the chief in reputation, for brave demeanor that day had fo crushed his great ability. So, after long deliberation, the enemy, that he had no power left, where- Antigonus concluded that it was the fafelt with to abide them in openfield, and was way to put him to death; which intending much less able to draw their Carts after him, to have done by famine (perhaps because he through that great wilderness, over the high would keep it a while in his own power, mountains.

It harned to, that the Elephants meet- | Peucestes was gone; the other Captains would ftore unto those old Souldiers their goods. The lofs of the carriages was reported which he had taken, being the only reward his hands, by whom they were feduced to make War against him. This answer pleased By this the night grew on; and both Ar- them fo well, that they forthwith devised mies, wearied with fighting, were defirous to how to deliver him alive. Wherefore coming ceived hope of doing fomewhat more, and therefore taking half his horfemen, he wait-than forrow of their lofs, which they faid ed upon Eumenes a part of his way home- they would redeem by another fight; in the wards, but found no opportunity to offend midst of this goodly talk, they leapt upon him: the other half he committed to Python, him, caught hold of his fword, and bound willing him to fet upon the silver-flields in him fast. So they haled him away 3 and, stoptheir retrait; which yet he forbare to do, ping their ears against all perswasions, would because it appeared too full of danger. So not yield so far as to loosen one of his hands, the battel ended; wherein Antigonus had and let him kill himself, but brought him not so much the better in horse, as the worse alive (that was their own General, under in foot: but the spoil which he got, by sur- whom they had obtained many victories) as prizing his enemies carriages, made amends it had been in triumph, into the Camp of their enemies.

Antigonus, as a subtile man, knew very rlace, where he might be further from such dangerous temptations.

The press of men, running out of the Camp to fee him, was fo great, that Antigonus was fain to fend a guard of Horsemen How Eumenes was betrayed to Antigonus, and and Elephants, to keep him from being smothered; whom he could not fuddenly refolve either to kill or fave. Very few they Omenes, coming into his Camp, and were that fued for his life, but of thefe, Demetrius the fon of Antigonus wasone, the to reverse the sentence, as desiring, if it to reverse the sentence, as desiring, if it much these persuasions availed nothing, might be, to have him live his friend) haste CHAPIV.

worthy General Eumenes; who had with (nothing like to Python) diffembled his inworting October and patience, labour dignation, and rebuked the informers, as vernier never lessened his courage, nor pro- daily to his ears, did finely delude Python. By a thousand times. Wars; but with a privy charge, to consume first he doubtfully waded. them all, as perjured wretches, letting none of them return alive unto his friends and Seas that beat upon the shores of Greece and

Macedon.

ø. VIII.

How Antigonus flew Python, and occupied Media. How he removed Governors of Provinces, and made himself Lord of Perfia, carrying away Peuceites.

they spent the rest of the Winter: the com- easily. mon Souldier idly; the principal men intentively bent unto the business ensuing. Python following this course he was driven by ne- obscurely a man forgotten. ceffity to trust many, of whom he stumbled of other butiness made him do it by the upon some, that were unsecret, and others, bearing him no fincere affection. Thus was To this end came all the travels of that his purpose discovered to Antigonus, who great windows interregional productions and recorded the informers, as edin vain to uphold the family which God breeders of differition between him, and his had purposed to cast down. He is reckoned honorable friend, unto whom he meant among the notable examples of Fortunes to commit the Government of all those among the notation mutability, but more notable was his Go- Countries: his own business calling him invernment of himfelf, in all her changes. Ad- to the lower Afra. These reports coming feerity his circumspection. But all his virtue, his greatness with Alexander; his authority indultry and wit, were cast away, in leading in that Province where they lay, whereof he an Army, without full power, to keep it in was Governor; and the love of the Soulan Army, without this power, to keep it in was Governor; and the love of the Souldue obedience. Therefore it was not ill and diers which he had bought with money; he was frong enough to maintain, even an of-France in our days, to one that foretold his fensive War. But what need had he to use death, which enfued foon after in the maf- the fword, when he was likely without confacre of Paris: That rather than to lead tention, to obtain more than his own askagain an Army of Voluntaries, he would dye ing? Therefore he came as foon as he was fent for, to take his farewell of Antigonus, Antigonus himfelf gave to the body of and to divide the Provinces with him, that Famenes Honourable Funerals; and re- meant nothing less than to yield to any such warded the Treason, wrought against him, division. As soon as he came, he was taken, with deserved vengeance. One chief Cap- and accused, condemned to dye, and slain of the Sibver-shields he burnt alive: out of hand. For Antigonus, having begun many of the other Captains he flew; and to with Eumenes his ancient friend, was not afthe whole multitude of the silver-shields, terward restrained by any consideration of that had betrayed fo worthy a Commander, old acquaintance, from cutting down indifhe appointed a Leader that should carry ferently all that stood in his way : but swam them into far Countries, under pretence of carelefly thorow the blood, wherein at the

When this business was ended, he appointed a new Governor in Media, to order kindred, or fo much as once behold the Province, and a Captain, to suppress all commotions: thinking belike that the power and authority, fo divided, would hardly agree in one against him, from whom both were derived.

After this he marched into Persia, where he was entertained as absolute Lord of Asia. There began he to shew how well he understood his own mightiness. For he placed and displaced at his own pleasure, Governors in all Provinces, leaving none in Of-"He two Armies being joyned thus in fice, that were not his own creatures, exone, were carried into Media, where cept fuch as lay too far off to be dislodged

Pencestes, who ruled in Persia, thought with good cheer to redeem old offences; began to confider his own defervings; for but was deceived, having to do with one the whole War had been chiefly maintained that could not be taken with such baits: by the strength, and riches of this Province. he was carried away, and feasted with Befides, he thought himself as good a man goodly words of promise, that never after as Antigonus, unless it were in the Souldiers took effect. Thus he, that envied the viropinion, which he judged casic to be pur- tue of his friend, was driven to flatter (in chased with gifts, and therefore spared not vain) the fortune of his enemy, after which to assay them with great liberality. But in he led a most contemptible life, till he died 712

Antigonus. The great riches of Antigonus.

CElencus was the next in this Visitation; the defire to pick matter of quarrel against One that had from time to time continued him, whereof it was likely that he should in the same tenor of good will to Antigonus, find such iffue, as Python and Peucestes had and now gave proof of his hearty affection done. Therefore taking with him only fiftoward him, by making the Captain of the ty horse, he conveyed himself away, and Cafte of Sula to meet him on the way, ren- fled into Ptolomies Dominions; desiring dring unto him that strong Piece, and all him to protect him from such a man as went the treasures therein bestowed. This offer about to oppress all, that in former times was fo great, that Antigonus (though ha- had been his betters, or at least his equals. ving in his hands the Keeper of the place ) Antigonus was glad of his flight; for now could hardly believe it; but used him with all those Countries were yielded unto him excessive kindness, for sear so good a mood without battel, whereas to sight with seshould change. In that Castle he found all leneus for them, he wanted all pretences the treasures of Alexander, with the Jewels and to kill him it was not his defire, having of the Persian Kings, which, added to his received many benefits of him, and those former store of money, made up five and not intermixed, as commonly it happens. twenty thousand talents. Having all this, he with any injuries. Yet it is reported. that might well account himself a happy man, if the Chaldeans brought a strange Prophecy riches were sufficient to happiness. But large to Antigona, bidding him look well to dominion was the mark at which he aimed; himself; and know, that if Seleucus did therefore he proceeded, with intent to leave escape his hands, he should recover Babilon. no Country behind his back, that should yea, win all Asia, and kill Antigone in not acknowledge him for Soveraign Lord. battel. Easie believers may give credit to Coming to Babylon, he was entertained by this tale. Had it been true, methinks Anseleucus, with all possible demonstration of tigonus rather should have hanged those love, and honored with presents beseem- Chaldaans, for giving him no warning tillit ing the Majestie of a King. All this he accepted with great gravity, as being due to him; fay that he did) after him, whom the Destiand began to require an account of the re-nies preferved for fo great purpofes. When venues of that Province. This demand se-he had fettled things at Eabjon, he took his leuens held unreasonable; saying, That it journey into Cilicia, where he wintered. fervices to the State. But whether he spake amount unto eleven thousand Talents.

reason or no, it sufficeth, that Antigonus was powerful; who urged him daily to come to How Scleueus was chased out of Babylon by a reckoning. Manifest it was, that neither want of money, nor any other necessity, mon ved Antigonus to press him thus, but only was not needful for him to render unto any There he took up ten thousand Talents man an account of that Province, which was more of the Kingstreasures, and casting his given unto him, in respect of his many good accounts, found his yearly in-come to

CHAP. V.

Of the great War between Alexanders Captains: and how they affumed the Name and State of Kings.

The Combination of Ptolomy, Cassander, and others against Antigonus. Their demands, and bis Answer.

by he quickly was embarked in a like to yield unto. Of their practices new War. Prolomy, Cassander and Lysima- he had some notice; the good enter-

His great riches, and the rest of together, intending to hinder his furhis Power, made Antigonus dread-ed, envied and suspected, where-reason than of his own accord he seemed chus, had privily combined themselves tainment given unto Selencus, giving him make over Cappadocia, with Lycia, to Cassanter him to deal with others, if they continue der, and Phrygia, bordering upon the Hellefont, to Lysimachus: for whereas his own Dominions were fo much extended Eastward by his late victory, he might well spare some of those Western Provinces, to those that were feated in the West. As for Ptolomy, he would not crave any new addition, but rest contented within his own Territo-

CHAP. V.

CHAP. V

dors, that it was no part of his meaning to invaded Syria, that was not held against fufficient cause of mistrust. Therefore he communicate with other men the profit of full Emballadors to them feverally, en that victory, which he alone without other treating them to continue firm in their love mens help had obtained. Though indeed treating time, that would be ready to rethey had already fufficiently gained by him, quite then with the like. The cold answers if they could see it, having by his means which they made, occasioned his hasty pre- kept their Government, whereof they were paration against the most forward of them, like to be dispossessed by Polygerchon, and which was Ptolomy, it being likely that a the counsel of estate in Macedon. But what good Army should prevail more than a tair marvel was it, if they considered not how he mefize. Therefore, as foon as the feafon of had faved them, feeing one of them had forthe year would permit, he took the way to- gotten the time, when coming to him as a ward Syria, and was encountred by Embai- fugitive, and begging succour, he was by fage from them all. These told him, that their his meer bounty relieved, and enabled to lords did much rejoyce at his victory ob- get all that he nowheld? Cassander did not rained against Eumenes their common ene- (said he) in those days command me to surmy, and the honor that he had thereby render Provinces, and give him his equal gotten. In which War, for a fmuch as they there of my treatures; but (for his Fathers being his Confederates, must have indured fake) defired me to pity him, and help him great loss, with hazard of their whole against his enemies: which I did; by lend-Effates, if the contrary faction had prevail- ing him an Army, and Fleet, on confidence ed; they held it very just, that all should be whereof he now presumes to threaten me. partakers in the fruits of that voyage, where-partakers in the fruits of that voyage, where-inthey had been all adventurers. Wherefore wrong, that durft not flay to plead his they defired him, that making between them right? I did use him well, but his conscience all an equal division of the treasures that told him that he had deserved ill; else he werein his hands (a thing easie to be done) would not have fled. Let them that so cuhe would also take some convenient order riously search intomy doings, consider well for enlarging their Dominions, according to their own, which some of them can hardly the rate of his new purchases. This might justifie. I am now in the way to Syria, meanbelt be to every ones liking, if he would ing to examine Ptolomies proceedings, and af-

The preparation and beginnings of the Wars.

WHen the Embassadors were dismif-sed with this answer, nothing was ries. Provided always, that Seleucus their thought upon but War. Antigonus perceicommon friend, and partner in the late War, ving that he should be invaded from Europe, might be restored to his own, out of which as soon as he was entred into syria, left his he had been driven to injuriously, that all Nephew Ptolomy to guard the Sea-coast, and of them were forced to take it deeply to hinder Caffander from landing in Alia: giveheart; requiring amends, with his friendly ing him also charge, to drive out of Cappaconsent unto their demands, which other- docia, some that were already sent over to wisethey must labour to obtain with armed molest him. Likewise he dispatched Mesfengers into Creece and Cyprus, not unfurnish-Antigonus knew, that after many losses ed of mony; to draw friends to his side, and received, he should yet be able to redeem raise up troubles to his enemies. Especially, Peace whenfoever he lifted, with these, or he laboured to make himself the strongest Perhaps with easier conditions. Neither was by Sea; to which purpose he rather hahe foweak, to give away quietly any part stened, than foreslowed his journey into of his strength into the hands of such bad Syria, that he might get possession of Mount friends, for fear only, lest it should be taken Libanus, which afforded many excellent from him perforce. Rather he hoped that commodities for building of a Navy. Therehethould be able to find them work, more fore, having erected Beacons, and laid than enough to defend their own. There-post-horses throughout all Asia, to give fore he roundly answered the Embassa- swift advertisement of all occurrences, he CHARV.

him by any power fufficient to maintain the Ptolomy lay in Fgypt, the firength and How each party fought to win the alliftance of heart of his Dominton, where he was beloved and honored of the people as their natural Lord: his other Provinces be kept with a few Garrisons, better serving to contiin the people within obedience, than to confront a foreign enemy. So Antigonus took many Cities and Places of that Country, and began to set great numbers of Artificers on the people of Greece, whose aid, which was work in making thips, which was one of his foever inclined, was of great importance. most earnest cares. In these businesses he Herein at the first, Antigonus sped so well confumed a year and three months; not by large effusion of his treasure, that he idly. For he took Joppe and Gaza, which drew to him the Lacedamonians, and other were yielded unto his discretion, and well Peloponnessans, of whom he waged eight used. The strong City of Tyrus held out thousand; and caused Polysperchon (who had long, but was compelled in the end by fa- a good while made hard thifts) to rowfe mine, to render it felt upon composition, that himself again, and taking upon him the title Ptolomies Souldiers might depart with their of Captain of Peloponnesus, to make head Arms; which was permitted.

Ptolomy was not affeep, whilft thefe things were in doing, though he kept himfelf within the bounds of Egypt, as indeed it behoved him to do. His forces were not able to stand against Antigonus in plain field, but likely they were to encrease, which made him willing to protract the time. Nevertheless by Sea (where his enemy was as yet unready) he fent his Fleet into all quarters, whereof selencus had the chief command.

all the rest.

Seleucus passed with an hundred fail along the coast of Syria, in the full view of Anticonus and his Army, to their no little difcomfort. He landed in Cyprus, which was then governed by many petty Lords: of whom the greatest adhered to Ptolomy, the greater parentage than he, to joyn with him rest were by the Factors of Antigonus, bought in marriage. That in meer despite of those the Fgyptian with tharp fteel.

The same commodity of aid by Sea, encouraged the President of Caria (cal- by his own name Cassandria; and had reled also casander, but not the Son of edified the City of Thebes, which for the Antipater, howfoever by the painful great treason of the Inhabitants, was leveland Learned Writer Reinerus Reineccius, ed with the ground by the victorious hand he is, by some overlight, counted for of Alexander. For these reasons he required the fame) to declare for Ptoloms and them to make a Decree, that Cassander his Confederates, and bufily imploy in should restore to absolute liberty the Lady their quartel all his forces, which he Roxane, and her Son; and should yield obehad hitherto kept in good neutrality, and dience to the Lord Lieutenant General of

6. III.

Greece. Antigonus his declaration against Cassander the son of Poly. sperchon revolteth from Antigonus, who had fet bimup.

IN the mean feafon all care possible was taken on both fides, to affure unto them against Cassander.

These hopeful beginnings encouraged him to proceed further in the same kind. Wherefore to make Cassander the more odious, he called together both his own Souldiers, and all the Greeks and Macedonians that were to be found thereabouts. To these he declared, that Cassander had very cruelly (lain Olympias, Mother to the great Alexander; and not herewith contented, had thut up in close prison the poor Lady Roxane, Alexanders Wife, and his Son begotten on her body. That all this proceeded from a defire to make himself King over the Macedonians; which well appeared by his enforcing the Lady Theffalonica . Daughter to King Philip, a match unfit for a man of no for him with gold, but now redeemed by dead Princes, Philip and Alexander, he had planted the Olynthians, rooted out by Thilip, in a new City by him built, and called thereby enjoyed rest; but now he threw the Empire (by which name Antigonus himhimself into dangerous War, chusing ra- self was understood) or else should be reputher to undergo trouble at hand, than to teda Traytor, and open Enemy to the State. fall under certain ruine, though some- Furthermore he propounded, that all the what further distant, which would have Cities of Greece should be restored into freeoverwhelmed him, if Antigonus had beaten dom: this hedid, not because he was care ful of their good, but for the need which he had of their affistance.

These things being decreed, Antigonus opinion, and think him the most faithful of others. all others to the Royal blood. But concernwhich afforded men far more serviceable in trol. War, than were to be found in any Province of the Empire.

was openly pretended.

much blood-shed, grievously afflicted the her Subjects and Neighbours. contrary faction, and he himself perceiving, that they were more easily spoiled as ene mies, than retained as friends, thought it the best way to make what use he could of them, that were not long like to continue his. Finally, perceiving that Alexander came furnished with plenty of gold, wherewith he was able not only to win the doubtful, but to corrupt fuch as might feem best affured; he thought it a part of wildom, to furrender upon fair conditions, that which he could not affure himself to hold any long was perswaded, that not only the Greeks well perswade himself, that the Country was beautify would adhere unto him, as to their loving which his Father could not keep, when he Patron, and fall off from Cassander, but that was indeed the Lieutenant of the Empire. the rulers of Provinces, who had hitherto should not in haste be won by him, that was fulpected him as a man regardful of nothing only the Factor of a proud injurious man, for but his own benefit, would correct their stiling himself, but not acknowledged by Alexander had lived a while with Antigoing his loyalty to the young Prince, the new fince the beginning of these wars, among world was too wife to be deceived with vain whose followers it was not hard to discover the intent (which he did not carry very fe-Greek was more effectual, and got easie be- cret) of making himself absolute Lord of all. lief, in regard of his present hatred to Cas- Therefore he was soon entreated to accept Guder. Yet hereinalso Ptolomy strove to be so good an offer; and did not stick to enter as earnest as he, making the like decree, in into that league, whereby he was to become hope to win to himself that valiant Nation, a free Lord, and subject unto no mans con-

Howbeit, this his honor continued not long, ere he lost both it and his life together, And this indeed was the point at which by treason of the Sicyonians; who thinking both fides aimed. Wherein Antigonus think- thereby to have made themselves free, were ing to make all fure, deceived himself, not soon after vanquished in battel by Crateshowithout great cost. For he gave to Alexander lu, Alexanders Wife, a discreet and valiant the Son of Polysperchon five hundred talents, Lady. She in revenge of her Husbands death a willing him to set the War on foot in Pelo- crucified thirty of the Citizens taken in ponnelus, whereby it might appear, that on fight; and having by severity taught them his fide was meant nothing elfe, than what obedience, did afterwards continue her Army in good order, and governed those pla-In Peloponne fue, Caffanders men had with ces that the held, with the commendation of

s. IV.

The Ætolians rife against Cassander in favour of Antigonus, and are beaten. A Fleet and Land Army of Antigonus utterly defeated by Ptolomies Lieutenant. In what terms the War stood at this time. Antigonus draws nearer to Greece.

Ntigonus, when he found, that with fo much money he had only bought an time by force. Therefore he sent one to deal enemy, began to raise troubles to Cassanwith Alexander about the matters in contro- der, and his other Adversaries in Greece, versie; telling him, that Antigonus was very by stirring up the Etolians against them: skilful in fetting men together by the ears, Likewise he laboured to win to his party not caring who prevailed, but only defiring the Islands in the Greek Seas, by whole afto have them weary themselves, whilst he sistance he might be the better able to deal was busied elsewhere; that so at length he with Ptolomy, that greatly prevailed by reamight find opportunity to let upon the strong- lon of his strong Fleet. But neither of these er. If therefore Alexander were fo wife, as attempts had the success which he expected. to keep in his purse the five hundred talents The Ætolians, a factious Nation, and which he had, and, without stroke stricken, to alwayes envying the greatness of their receive the whole Lordship of Pelopomelia, Neighbours, were often in commotion, but it should be freely put into his hands by Caffo, that commonly their gains equalled not their losses, provided that he should from thenceforth renounce all confederacy made with Gountry, fortified the Acarnanian against thingons, and enter into a sure and faithful them, and compelled Glassian, King of the Illyrians, whom he vanquished in batof the Confederates. Otherwise he might |tel, to forsake their side, and bind him-Xxxx felf, friends. were drawn to joyn with Antigonus; so the commonly is not long wanting to them, that Fleet of the Rhodians under Theodatus, who want no money. was Admiral to Antigonus, paffing along the coast of Asia towards Cyprus, with an Ar- attempts of his enemies upon Asia the less: my under conduct of Perilans marching on wherein though as yet they had gotten litthe shore for mutual affistance, was quite tle, yet had he cause to fear, lest the people overthrown by Ptolomies Navy. Polycytus, being tied unto him by no bond of allegiwho in Ptolomies behalf had been fent into ance, might upon fmall occasion revolt from reloponnesus against Alexander, finding no him, to men of as honorable reputationas need of his fervice in that Country, because he himself. To prevent this, and to be neerer Alexander was come over to their fide, re- to Greece, he held it expedient for him to be turned homewards, and by the way heard there in person, where his affairs did seem to of the course which these Antigonians held, prosper the worse, by reason of his absence. whom he very cunningly furprized. He rode Therefore he left part of his Army in Spria. with his Fleet behind a Cape, which the under his Son Demetrius, to whom being enemies were to double; his Land-forces he then but two and twenty years old, he applaced in ambush, whereinto Perilans fal- pointed many ancient Captains, as Affistants, ling was taken prisoner, with many of his or rather as Directors: the rest he carried men, and many were flain, making littlere- with him into Phrygia, where he meant to fistance. Theodatus the Admiral perceiving winter. this, made all haste to help his fellows that were on Land; but whilft he with all his Fleet were intentive only to that business. Polyclytus appeared at their backs; who as How Lysimachus and Cassander vanquished foon as he perceived their disorder, hastened about the Cape, and charging them behind, suffered not one of them to escape him. These ill tidings caused Antigonus to deal with Ptolomy about some composition. First, he sent Embassadors; afterwards they met in person. But Antigonus would not yield unto the demands of Ptolomy: fo the parley the process of his business thereabouts. For was vain. differently sped in the War, and thereby to were held over-hardly to their own work have equal cause of hope and fear. This on Europe side. Seuthes a King of the Thralate Victory, with the good success of his cians, joyning with some Towns that reaffairs in Coprus, did seem to make amends belled against Lysimachus, brought also the to Ptolomy for his losses in Syria. Likewise bordering Soythians into the quarrel. All the revolt of Alexander from Antigonus did these relied upon Antigonus, who was to equal the confederacy made between the help them with money and other aid. The Ætolians and him; as also those petty skir- Ætolians likewise took courage, and rose mishes, that had been in Asia the less, to against Cassander, having Bacides, lately reof his own Empire. Concerning other act them his own Bands. The like success had felf to bear no Arms against Cassanders cidents, whereof the good were hitherto sufficient to counterpoize the bad, he means On the other side, as many petty Islands to proceed as occasion should direct, which

716

That which most molested him, was the

ø. V.

some enemies, raised against them by Antigonus. The good success of Antigonus in Asia and Greece: with the rebellion of mamy Cities against Cassander.

"He coming of Antigonus into those parts, wrought a great alteration in his enemies had short leisure to think upon Hitherto each part seemed to have in- molesting him in Asia: they themselves Antigonus his advantage, were sufficiently stored to the Kingdom of Epirus, their Afrecompenced by others of like regard, but liftant. But Lylmachus gave unto his Readverseto him, and by the troubles brought bels no time to confirm themselves. He sudupon his estates in those parts by the two denly presented himself before two of the Cities that had rebelled, and compelled them Contrariwise, Antigonus valued the loss by fear to return unto their former duty. of his men, money and ships, no otherwise He fought a battel with the scythians, and than as the pairing of his nails, that were left wilde Thracians, and drave them out of the long enough, and would easily grow again, Country. Finally, he overcame Seuthes; but the enlargement of his Territory by ad- and following the heat of his Victory, flew dition of Syria, he prized at a higher rate; Pausanias in Battel, whom Antigonus had as if thereby he had fed upon a limb of Pto- fent over with an Army; and all his menhe lomy his enemy, and strengthened the body did either put to ransome, or fill up with Philip, Caffanders Lieutenant, against the yond all measure, than backward upon Atolians. For he wasted their Country; their miserable nullity, that held them unfought with the Epiroles, that came to help capable of being any thing. them: and after the victory, fought again with their forces joyned in one, overthrowing them, and, killing Eacides that unfortunate King. Finally, he drave the Atolians out of most of their Countrey, and forced them to feek their fafety among the wild Mountains. Of the Epirotes he fent as prisoners to Cassander, the principal Authors of the Kings restitution, and of the present

s. VI.

Victories of Ptolomy by Sea. A great Battel at Gaza, which Ptolomy and Seleucus wan, against Demetrius the Son of Antigonus.

A S the presence or neerness of Antigonus gave life to his affairs in the lower Yet these actions required some time, and Asu and Greece; so the designs of his encwearied Antigonus his Adversaries with mies, taking advantage at his absence, painful travel; after which they remained ruined the very foundations of those great only favers. Antigonus himself at fair works in the Eastern parts, wherewith in leifure wan all Caria the whilft, and fent the year preceeding he had over-topped Armies into Peloponnesus, and other parts of them. The Isle of Cyprus, whose Princes Greece, bestowing liberty upon all the Cities wavered between contrary affections, inhe took out of Cassanders hands. The clining one while to Antigonus, another whole Country of Peloponnesus (excepting while faintly regarding their covenant with siegon and Corinth) with the lile of Eu- Ptolomy, was visited by an Egyptian Fleet, bes, and many places of the firm Land, wherewith Ftolomy, in his own person easily were by those means won to be his intrue reduced them to a more settled order, putand vehement affection, ready to do or fuf- ting fome to death, carrying others away fer any thing for him that had made so evi- priloners, and leaving a Lieutenant of his own dent ademonstration of his readiness, to give them the liberty in deed, which others had Country. With the same Fleet he ran along promifed in idle words. Many States desi- the Sea-coasts, wasting a great part of Caria promised in tale words.

ous of the same benefit, would sain have and Cilicia, with the spoils of which he enfoused their good will; but they were kept riched his followers, and returned loaden to inby Cassanders Garrisons, who was too wife Cyprus. Demetrius the Son of Antigonus, to trust them loose. Therefore Antigonus hearing frequent reports of the miteries, made shew as if he would pass over into Ma- wherewith his Fathers subjects were oppressedon: by which terror he forced Cassan- sed, made all haste out of syria to the relicue, der to repair thither in all hafte, with the best taking only hishorses, and light-armed foot of his strength, leaving many good Towns with him, because the business required ex-of Greece to weakly guarded, that well they pedition. But in vain did he tire himself might takecourage to help themselves, if and his followers, in hasty seeking of one, that any foreign succour appeared. The aid which by lanching out into the deep, could in a they defired was not long wanting. The few minutes delude the labour of fo many Lieutenant of Antigonus, taking the advan- days, if need had so required. Answerab'e to tage of Cassanders departure, entred the the vanity of this expedition was the success. Country; drave his Garrisons out of divers For Ptolomy was gone, before Demetrius Cities; forced the Governor of Athens to came into Cilicia. Neither was it certain, enter into league with their Lord; wan the whether having lightned his ships of their Citadel of Thebes, and set the people at liber- burthen in Cyprus, he would return upon ty. This last action was somewhat remark-those maritime Countries, or make towards able. For Thebes had not long before been Syria, where his coming was expected. He raifed out of her old ruines by the meer was indeed gone into Egypt, and there with power of Cassander; of which act he was Seleucus was describing a Royal Army, which accused by Antigonus, as if it had been some he levied with all convenient speed, for hainous crime. Yet now the same Antigonus the recovery of Syria. This was more than winneth the City, and the love of the In- Demetrins knew. Therefore he was fain to habitants, only by expelling him that was chuseout of uncertainties the most likelitheir Founder. So much are men readier to hood, and return the way that he came, with thank the Increaser, than the Author of their all his companies, which were fitter for sergood; and rather to look forward upon vice in the open field, than to be bestowed in those hopes, which vainly they extend be- Garrisons among the Cilicians. He had fcarce. Xxxx 2

fearer refreined his men and horses in Syria, sance, the greater number holding better when the news arrived of Ptolomies coming out, the error of Demetrius, who upon no with a puillant Army, to give him battel, necessity would needs fight a battel with Hereupon he called to countel his principal disadvantage, began to appear by his losses. friends, who advised him to give way to the He had committed himself to Fortune, hatime, and expect some better opportunity ving more to lose by her than he could get: in the future, being a young man, and weak- but in this fight the was idle, and left all to ly furnished with means to resist such ancient be decided by strong hands; unless it may and famous Generals, as Itolomy and Seleucus. This couniel feemed rather to proceed men, by the loss of his Elephants, was bad from the cold temper of those aged men luck. Those beafts were in that kind of that gave it, than from any necessity grow- War hardly to be resisted on plain ground; ing out of the present business. For Demetrius confidering himfelf to be the Son of Antigonus, and now General or his Fathers Army, thought his own title weighty enough to be laid in ballance against the bare names ken. This disaster caused the horsemen of of those two great Commanders. Neither Demetrins to faint. They had laboured hard, found he much reason that should move him and prevailed little, till now perceiving that to diffrust his forces, as intufficient. His men all must lye upon their hands, who were ill were better exercifed than the enemies, and able to make their own places good, they promited as much as could be required began to shrink, and many of them to pro-Therefore perswading himself, that such vide for their safety by timely slight, which ode's of number, and of great fame, would example the rest quickly followed. When rather ferve to adorn his victory, than hinder Demetrius had stroven fo long in vain to him in obtaining it, he resolved to put the make his men abide, that he himself was matter to tryal, without expecting the ad-likely to be loft; he was fain to give place vantage of more help. So animating his to the stronger, making a violent retrait as Souldiers with hope of spoil and rewards, far as to Azotus, which was about thirty he abode the coming of the Enemics at Ga- miles from the place of Battel. A great part zd, with purpole to encounter them, as foon of his carriages was in Gaza, whither some as they had finished their wearisome jour- of his company turned aside, hoping to save ney over the Defarts of Arabia.

a Province as Egypt, came so well provided ction, and the loss of the Town. For, whilst of all necessaries, that their Army felt not they, forgetful of the danger, had filled the any great grievance of the evil way, when ftreets with sumpter-horses, and cloyed up battel was presented them, which confident the gates, thronging, some to get in and ly they undertook. In all things else they fetch; others, to carry out what they had had the odds of Demetrius; of Elephants already loaden, Ptolomy's Army brake in they were utterly unprovided. But how to without refistance, taking them with their deal with those Beatts they were not ignorant. They had prepared akind of Palilado. fastened strongly together with chains, and best part of syria, a Province more easie in tharpened in tuch a manner, that the Elephants could not feek to break uponit, without receiving much hurt. Therest of their forces (which (belides that they had advantage in multitude ) were heartened with many fortunate fervices, by them performed that year, whilit the enemies had wearied themselves, either with vain journeys, or long and dulling expectation) they disposed in fuch order, as belt answered to the form. wherein Demetrius was embattelled. The right began, and was maintained with equal courage, for a long time, each part striving more to win honor, than to fatisfie any other passion, as having little cause of hatred, or revenge. But after fome continu-be faid, that the terror brought upon his and therefore at the first they made great poil amongst Ptolomy's men. Afterward teeking to break thorow the Palifado, they were forely hurt, and every one of them tafuch goods, as in haste they could pack up. Ptolomy and Sciences issuing out of forich This foolish covetousness was their destrugoods and the City altogether.

This Victory restored unto Ptolomy the those times to get, than to keep; and opened the way unto all the greatness of Seleucus. For between Gaza and Phanicia no place offered refistance. In Caloffria and Phanicia, some Towns held out a while but were soon taken in by Ptolomy. Among these were the great Cities of Tyrus and Sydon; of which sidon was given up by the Inhabitants; Tyrus by the Garrison, falling to mutiny against their Captain, who trusting to the strength of it, had made great vaunts, but was pardoned by Ptolomy, and honorably entertained in respect of his fidelity.

6. VII.

CHAP. V.

on of Seleucus.

try his own fortune; which he found fo did. Nicanor, to whom Antigonus had comtry and that recovering first his own mitted his Army in Media, joyning unto province, he became at length mafter of the himfelf, out of Perfix and other Countries, better part of Alexanders purchases.

confitted of no more than eighteen hundred out of that which he had won. foot, and two hundred horse, a number too Against this power, Seleneus had only fmall to have been placed as Garrison, in four hundred Horse, and tomewhat above fome one of those main great Cities, against three thousand Foot, wherewith to oppose nome one of those many great black. But himfelf: his large Conquest of unwarlike which ne carried it into the night roma. But little force is needful, to make way into fitness having yielded him many loving ftrong places, for him that already ftands trong piaces, for min that already training pieces are obtained. A liver of Tigh's, he with The name of Scheuur was enough; whom the Babylonians had found fo good a work of the with the with the place where his refiftance was expected, into certain was considered. fection fo general, it was not a safe course for yielded unto selencus: whose gentle dethe Antigonians, to thrust themselves into meanor, after the victory, drew all Media, the Towns of most importance: for every sustana, and the Neighbour Provinces, to man of them should have been troubled acknowledge him their Lord without any with daily enemies in his own lodging. It further stroke stricken. remained that they should issue forth into mia and Babylon.

minion. In the Countries about Euphrates he (as it ought) the calculation of Bunting; had not done the like; for his own great Army lay between them and all enemies. How Seleucus recovered Babylon, and made Therefore when the victory at Gazat had himself Lord of many Countries in the opened unto Sciences the way into those highest Asia. The Bra of the Kingdom of parts, he found little impediment in the the Greeks, which began with the Domini- rest of his business. Having now gotten what he fought, it behaved him to feck how he might keep his gettings; for his own forces With fuch prosperity, seleucus took were too small, and his friends were ill able to lend him any more. That which his leave of him, and went up to Babylon, to friends could not do for him, his enemies all needful help, came, with ten thousand This expedition of Seleucus was very Foot, and feven thousand Horse, either to frange, and full of unlikelihoods. His train fave all from being loft, or to drive Selencus

Governor, that none of them would find marifhes not far off; where he lay fecretly courage to refult him; but left that work to waiting for some advantage. Nicanor Antigorus his own men, wishing them ill to thought that he had been sled, and was the fpeed. Some of the Macedonians that were less careful in fortifying his Camp. In recomin those Countries, had the like affection; pence of this vain security, his Camp was others made a countenance of War, which taken by furprize, the first night of his arriby easie compulsion they left off, and fol- val; the satrapa, or Lieutenant of Persia, lowed new Enfigns. This added courage to together with fundry of the Captains, were the people, who came in apace, and submit- slain; he himself was driven to slee for his ted themselves joyfully to Seleucus. In a de- life into the desarts, and the whole Army

This victory of Seleucus gave beginning the field, and try the matter by fight. But unto the new stile of, The Kingdom of the the treason of one principal man, who re Greeks, an accompt much used by the Greeks. volted to the enemy, with more than a thou- Chaldeans, Syrians, and other Nations in fand Souldiers following him, fo difmayed those parts. I will not make any long difthe rest, that they did no more than seek to putation about the first year of this Eru. make good one strong place, wherein were The authority of that great Astrologer Flokept the Hostages and Prisoners, that Anti- long, from which there is no appeal, makes gonus held for his security in those quarters. it plain, that the five hundred and nineteenth page. This Castle, belike, they had not tortified in year of Nabonassar, was the fourscore and seein in times of leisure, against dangers, that were cond year of this accompt. Other inference not then apparent. Sciences quickly took it; hereupon is needless, than that note of the and so got the entire possession of Mesopota- learned Gauricus, That the first of these years - Go was reckoned compleat, at Babylon, together into Antigonus had bestowed in Media and with the end of four hundred thirty and eight and Persia, forces convenient for defence of those years after Nabonassar. With the observati-Provinces, that were the utmost of his Do- on of the Saturn, recorded by Piolomy, agrees finding the same Planet to have been so pla- advertising his Father of his misfortune, beced in the fign of Virgo, as the Chaldeans Sought him to send a new supply, wherewith had observed it, in the same year; which he might redeem his honor lost. Antigonas was from Nabona far the five hundred and upon the first news of this overthrow, had nineteenth; from Sciences the fourscore and said, That the victory which Ptolony wan fecond year; and the last of the hundred upon a beardless Boy, should be taken from thirty and seventh Olympiad. These obser-him by bearded men: yet upon desire that vations of the celestial bodies, are the surest his son, whom he tenderly leved, should marks of time: from which he that wilfully amend his own reputation. he was content varies, is inexcusable. As for such occur- to make a stand in Phrygia. Filling hearing rances in History, and the years of succeed- of Demetrius his preparations, that nevering Princes (that are not feldom ambiguous, theless follow his own business in Catalyria; by reason of unremembred fractions) if they thinking it enough to spend part of his Arfeem to behere-against, it is not greatly ma- my under cilles his Lieutenant, against the terial. Yet thus much is worthy of note; remnant of those, that had been already that these years of the Greeks were not vanquished, when Cilles too much underreckoned in all Countries from one begin-valued the power of such an Enemy. He ning; as plainly appears in the difference of thought that this young Gallant, having one year, that is found between actions, re-lately faved his life by flight, would now be lated by the feveral Authors of the two more careful of having a a fair way athis Books of the Maccabees, who follow divers back, than adventurous in fetting further accompts. He that shall adhere to the time forward, than urgent reason should prodefined by Ptolony, may apply the other voke him. In this confidence he paffed on Supputations thereunto, as being no farther without all fear; as one that were already from it, than a years distance.

720

Inccess.

go up to Babylon, with so few men as his had almost ruined: but further it enabled friend could then well spare: for had he him, to recompence the bounty of Piolony, ftayed longer upon hope of getting more with equal favour, in restoring to him cilles, Souldiers, Ptolomy could have spared him with many other of his friends, accompanied none at all. Demetrius the fon of Antigonus, with rich presents. But neither was Ptolomy having lost the battel at Gaza, received from so weakned by this loss, nor Demetrius so Ptolony all his own goods, his Pages, and emboldned by his victory, that any matter in Demetrius an earnest desire of requiting already he possessed. him, with some as brave liberality. Which Antigonus, indeed, was nothing flow in to effect, he gathered together the remain- his way towards Syria; whither he made der of his broken Troops; drew as many as all hafte, not so much to relieve his son, as could bespared, out of the Garrisons in Ci- to embrace him. For he rejoyced exceed-

Master of the field, and should meet with none, that would iffue out of their places of strength, to make refistance. When Demetrius was informed of this careless march; How Ptolomy lost all he won in Syria. What he took the lightest of his Army, and made the causes were of the quiet obedience, per- his journey with such diligence, one whole formed unto the Macedonians, by those that night, that early in the morning, he came had been subject unto the Persian Empire. upon Cilles unexpected, and was on the sudof divers petty enterprizes, taken in band den, without any battel, Master of his by Antigonus and Demetrius, with ill Camp: taking him alive, with his Soul-

This exploit served not only to repair the IN a happy hour did Selencus adventure to credit of Demetrius, which his loss at Gaza Servants, in free gift, and therewithal a of consequence thereupon ensued. For Decourteous message, to this effect: That no metrius feared the coming of Ptolomy; and personal hatred was the ground of this War, therefore he fortified himself in places of which he and his Confederates held with advantage: Ptolomy on the other fide was Antigonus; but only terms of honor, where- loth to engage him elf in an enterprize, in they would feek to right themselves after wherein he might perceive, that if the comfuch manner, that other friendly Offices, ing of Antigonus found him entangled, he without reference to the quarrel, hould not should either be driven to make a shameful retrait, or a dangerous adventure of his This Noble dealing of Ptolomy, did kindle whole estate, in hope of not much more than licia, or other Provinces thereabouts, and ing, that the young man had fo well ac-ration of this late victory, he brought fuch convenience. forces, as might serve to re-conquer all sy-pounding that course; not without remem- members. brance of the good fuccess against Perdiccas, great Province.

CHAP. V.

CHAP. V.

after him. The hot contentions for superiority between the King of Ifrael, and those quitted himself, and being left to his own ty: and how these proud Conquerors were advice, performed the office of a good Com- glad to offer it, desiring to have them rather mander. Wherefore to encrease the repu- friends than servants, for fear of further in-

It must therefore be noted, that most of ria: meaning, that the honor of all should these Countries had always been subject he referred unto the good foundation laid unto the rule of Kings, or petty Lords, whom by his son; whom from this time forwards, the Babylonians and Persans long since had he imployed in matters of greatest impor- rooted out, and held them in such bondage, that few of them knew any other Law, than Prolomy had now less reason to encounter the command of foreign Masters. This had with Antigonus, than before his coming to utterly taken from them all remembrance have affailed the Camp of Demetrius. Yet of home-born Princes, and incorporated he made it a matter of confultation; as if them into the great body of the Persian Emhe had dared more than he meant. But all pire: fo that wanting within themselves all his Captains advised him to retire into Egypt, soveraign power, or high authority, the life alledging many good arguments to that pur- and spirit of every Estate; they lay as dead. pole: which they might well perceive to be and were bereaved of motion, when that agreeable to his own intent, by his pro Kingdomfell, whereof they lately had been

Why the Persian Satrape, or Princes of in the like defensive War. So he departed that Empire, did not when Darins was taout of Spria, preserving his honor; as being ken from them, as the Macedonian Captains rather led by mature deliberation, than any after the death of Alexander, strive to lay fidden passion of fear: and he departed at hold upon those Provinces, which had many fair leisure, not only carrying his treasures ages been subject unto them, and scarce four along with him, but staying to dismantle years in quiet possession of their enemies; or fome principal Cities, that he thought most why at least they contended not (when the likely to trouble him in the future. All the terrible name of that great Conqueror did Country that he left at his back, fell pre- cease to affright them) to get their shares fently to Antigonus, without putting him to among his followers, if not wholly to disposthe trouble of winning it by pieces: so easie fels them of their new purchases: it is a quewas it in those times, for the Captain of a stion, wherein who is not satisfied, may find strong Army, to make himself Lord of a no less reason to suspect the History, than authority to confirm it. For we feldom We may justly wonder, that these King- read, that any small Kingdom, prevailing doms of Syria, Media, Babylon, and many against a far greater, hath made so entire a other Nations (which the victory of Alex- conquest, in the compass of ten years, as left ander had over-run with so hasty a course, as unto the vanquished no hope of recovery. gave him not leisure to take any good view nor means to rebel; especially when such of them) were so easily held not only by disorders, or rather utter confusion hath himself, but by the Captains of his Army ensued, by the fury of civil War among the Victors.

The cause why the Macedonians held so of Damascus; between Egypt and Babylon; quietly the Persian Empire, is well set down Babylon and Nineve; the Persans and many by Machiavel; and concerns all other King-Countries; argue a more manly temper, to doms, that are subject unto the like form of have once been in those people; which are Government: the sum whereof is this; now so patient of a foreign yoke, that like Wheresoever the Prince doth hold all his Sheep or Oxen, they suffer themselves to be Subjects under the condition of slaves, there distributed, fought for, won, lost, and again is the conquest easie, and soon assured: recovered by contentious Masters ; as if they Where ancient Nobility is had in due rehad no title to their ownheads, but were gard, there is it hard to win all, and harder born to follow the fortune of the Macedo- to keep that which is won. Examples of nians. This will appear the more strange, this are the Turkish Empire, and the Kingif we shall consider, how the several States dom of France. If any Invader should preof Greece (many of which had never pof- vail fo far upon Turky, that the great Sulsessed so large Dominion, as might cause tan and his Children (for Brethren he useth their spirits to swell beyond their ability) not to suffer alive) were taken or slain: did greedily embrace all occasions of liber- the whole Empire would quickly be won, and easily kept, without any danger of re- doth leave unto them no means, whereby bellion. For the Bassaes, how great soever to oppose themselves against the flourishing they may feem, are meer flaves; neither estate of their Prince; so would it weaken is there in all that large Dominion, any one both their power and their courage in giman, whose personal regard could get the ving him assistance, if adversity should make people to follow him in fuch an attempt, him ftand in need of them. For there is scarce wherein hope of private gain should not any one among the Turks Bassaes, or Provincountervail, all apparent matter of fear. cial Governors, that knows either from Contrariwile, in France, it were not enough whence he was brought, or from whom defor him that would make a conquest, to get scended, nor any one among them, that by into his hands the King and his Children; the loss and utter ruin of the Turkish Empire. though he further got the better part of the can lose any foot of his proper inheritance; Country, and were by far the strongest in and it is the proper inheritance of the subthe field. For, besides the Princes of the ject, which is also a Kingdom unto him, Royal blood, there are in that Kingdom which makes him fight with an armed heart ftore of great men; who are mighty in their against the Conqueror, who hath no other feveral Countries, and having certain Royal- device painted on his Enfign, than the pities and Principalities of their own, are able cture of flavery. to raise War in all quarters of the Realm ; As is the Turkish Empire, so was the Perwhereunto the remembrance of their own fian, void of liberty in the Subjects. and ancient Families, and long continued Nobi- utterly destitute of other Nobility, than lity, will always stir up and inflame them: such as depended upon meer favour of the so that until every ones piece were won, Prince. Some indeed there were of the and every one (an endless work) of the Royal blood, and others, descended from chief Nobility brought under ordeltroyed, the Princes that joyned with Darius, the son the victory were not compleat, nor well of Hystaspes, in oppressing the Magi: these affured. It is true, that such power of the were men of reputation in Persia, but their Nobility, doth often times make way for an reputation confifted only in their Pedigree, Invader; to whom the discontentments of and their safety in not medling with assairs a few can easily make a fair entrance. But of State, which made them little esteemed. fuch affiftants are not fo eafily kept, as they In what small account these Persian Princes are gotten; for they look to be satisfied at were held, it may appear by this, that the full, in all their demands; and having what Kings Uncles, Coulin Germans, and Brethey would, they foon return to their old thren, were called by the Kings, Their allegiance, upon condition to keep what Slaves, and so did stile themselves, in speakthey have, unless they be daily hired with ing unto these great Monarchs. That upon new rewards: wherein it is hard to please every light occasion of displeasure they were one man, without offending another as good handled as Slaves, it is easie to be discerned, as himself. The Turk, on the other side, in that example of cruelty, practised by needs not to fear any peril, that might arise | Xerxes upon his own brother Mafftes; from the discontented spirits of his principal which hath been formerly noted, in place men. The greatest mischief that any of them more convenient. As for the Satrape, or could work against him, were the betray- Governors of the Provinces, it is needless ing of some frontier Town, or the wilful to cite examples, proving them to have lois of a battel: which done, the Traytor been meer flaves: it may suffice, that their hath spent his sting, and must either sly to heads were taken from them at the Kings the enemy, whereby he loseth all that he will; that is, at the will of those Women formerly did hold; or else, in hope of doing and Eunuchs, by whom the King was gofome further harm, he must adventure to verned. excuse himself unto his Master, who seldom To this want of Nobility in Persia, may forgives the Captain, that hath not strived be added the general want of liberty conveby desperate valour against missortune. As nient among the people: a matter no less for making head, or arming their followers available, in making easie and sure the conagainst the great Sultan, and so joyning quest of a Nation, than is the cause assigned themselves unto any Invader ; it is a matter by Machiavel. For as Esop his As did not not to be doubted: for none of them have care to run from the enemies, because it any followers or dependants at all, other was not possible, that they should load him than fuch as are subject unto them, by ver- with heavier burthens, than his Master cautue of their Offices and Commissions. Now sed him daily to bear: so the Nations, that as this base condition of the principal men, endure the worst under their own Princes, are not greatly fearfull of a forein yoke or So that of this tameness, which we find in those that had been subjects of the Persian Kings, the reasons are apparent. Yet some be contained in good order by the Macedonians: for they had not indeed been abso-Arabians bordering upon Syria: against it as his own assured. whom Antigonus fent part of his Army ; thinking therewith to bring them under, or tory commandment, to return unto him at rather to get a rich booty. The Captains that a time prefixed: reasonably thinking (as hesent, fell upon the Nabatheans, at such time | may seem ) that in such an unsettled state of as they were bussed in a great Mart; wherein things, either the War might be ended, by they traded with the more remote Arabians | the fury of the first brunt; or else it would for Mirrh, Frankincense, and other such com- be vain to strive against all difficulties likely modities. All or most of these rich wares, to arise, where want of necessaries should together with five hundered talents of filver, frustrate the valour, that by strength of time and many prisoners, the Macedonians laid waslike to become less terrible to the enehold upon: for their coming was sudden my. Demetrius therefore leaving behind him and unexpected. But ere they could reco- five thousand foot, and a thousand horse, ver Syria, the Nabathaans overtook them, rather to make shew of continuing the War. foot, and fix hundered horse, only fifty horse thing, forsook the enterprize, and went back escaped To revenge this loss, Demetrius was to his Father. fet out with a great power: yet all in vain; for he was not refifted by any Army, but by the natural defence of a vast Wilderness, lack of water, and of all things necessary. Therefore he was glad to make peace with them; wherein he lost not much honour: for they craved it, and gave him prefents. Returning from the Nabatheans, he viewed that hope vanished.

CHARV

There perty enterpriles, with the ill fuccels Nor will be halty to shake it off, if by ex- accompanying them, had much impaired perience they find it more light, than was the good advantage against Pta'amy: when that whereunto they had been long accu- the news of selencus his victories in the high fromed. This was it that made the Gajcoignes | Countries, marredall together. For neither bear such faithful affection to the Kings of was the loss of those great and wealthy Pro-England; for that they governed more vinces, a matter to be neglected, neither was mildly than the French. This enlarged the it fafe to transport the War into the parts unitian jurisdiction in Lombardy; for the beyond Euphrates, whereby Spria, and the Towns that they wan, they wan out of the lower Afia thould have been exposed to the hands of Tyrannous oppressions: and this did danger of ill-affected Neighbours. A middle cause the Macedonians, with other Nations course was thought the best; and Demetrithat had been subject unto the posterity of us, with fifteen thousand foot, and three Alexanders followers, to serve the Romans thousand horse, was sent against Selencus. patiently, if not willingly; for that by them These forces being sent away, Antigonus did they were eased of many burthens, which nothing, and his Son did less. For seleneus. had been imposed upon them by their own was then in Media; his Lieutenants about Babylon withdrew themselves from necessity of fight; some places they fortified and kept: Demetrius could hold nothing that he got, without fetting in Carrifon more men than of these there were, that could not so easily he could spare, neither did he get much: and therefore was fain to let out the bravery of his Expedition, by burning and spoiling lutely conquered by the Persian. Such were the Country: which he did thereby the more the Sogdians, Battrians, and other Nations alienate, and, as it were, acknowledge to beabout the Caspian Sea. Such also were the long unto his enemy, who thenceforth held

Antigonus had laid upon his Son a perempand finding them weary with long marches, than to effect much, where himself with made fuch a flaughter, that of four thousand greater forces could do little more than no-

ø. IX.

A general Peace made and broken. How all the boufe of Alexander was destroyed.

Hese ambitious heads, having thus wearied themselves with uneffectual the Lake Asphaltites, whence he conceived travel, in seeking to get more than any one hope of great profit that might be raifed, by of them could hold; were contented at gathering the Sulphure. With this good length to come to an agreement: wherein husbandry of his Son, Antigonus was well it was concluded, that each of them should pleased, and appointed men to the work: hold quietly, that which at the present he but they were flain by the Arabians, and so had in possession. As no private hatred, but meer desire of Empire, had moved them to reconciliation, but only a dulness growing upon the flow advancement of their feveral hopes, that made them willing to breathe fight again. late renowned King.

Yyyy

CHAP. V.

724

All this either little concerned Antigonus; or tended greatly to his good. The young readiness to acknowledge the true Heir, had freed himself from that ill-favoured imputa- before. tion, of feeking to make himself Lord of all that Alexander had gotten.

Thelike advantage had he in that Article, Of restoring the Greeks to their liberty. This liberty had hitherto been the subject of that they had under them: fearing none other much idle discourse: but it never took effect. Antigonus held scarce any Town of arise by chance of War; wherein every one theirs, Cassander occupied most of the Coun-perswaded himself of success, rather better try : which if he should set free, he must be than worse. Hereupon all of them (except a poor Prince; if not, there was matter Lysimachus and Selencus, that had work enough of quarrel against him, as against a enough at home began to rowze themselves: Disturber of the common Peace.

between Euphrytes and the Greek Scas, toge Lieutenants were busie in Feloponnesus, and ther with a great. Army, and mony enough about Hellespont: while their Master was enter into the War; so was it no friendly | to entertaine a greater, might serve to hold up the credit of Antigonus, and to raise his hopes as high as ever they had been.

With much difadvantage do many men a while, till occasion might better serve to contend against one that is equal to them all in puissance. Cassanders friends had left Besides that main point, of retaining the him in an ill case; but he could not do with-Provinces which every man held, there were all: for, where every one mans help is nerwo Articles of the peace, that gave a fair, ceffary to the War, there may any one make but a false colour, to the bulines; That the his own peace; but no one can stand our son of Alexander by Roxane, fould be made alone, when all the rest are weary. The best King when became to full age: and, That all was, that he knew all their affections : which the Estates of Greece should be set at liberty. tended to no such end as the becoming Sub-The advancement of young Alexander to his jects unto any man, much less to the Son of Fathers Kingdom, feems to have been a an Allatique woman, of whom they had matter forceably extorted from Antigonus; long fince refused to hear mention. Therein whom was discovered a purpote, to have fore he took a short course, and caused both made himself Lord of all. But this, indeed the Child and his Mother to be slain: freemore neerly touched Cassander. For in his ing thereby himself in a trice, from the dancustody was the young Prince and his Mo- gerous necessity of yielding up his Governther: neither did he keep themin a fort and ment, which he must have done when the fwerable to their degree; but as close pro- Child had come to age. Roxane was a Laners, taken in that War, wherein they had dy of fingular beauty, which was perhaps the feen the old Queen Olympias taken and mur- caufe, why Perdiccas defired to have her Son. dered, that fought to put them in polletion being as yet unborn, proclaimed Heir to of the Empire. The mutus said and fear the great Alexander. Immediately upon the between them, rooted in congrounds, of death of Alexander, the had used the favour injuries done, and revenge expected; upon (if it were not love) of Perdicess, to the fatifthis conclusion of peace grew up faster than fying of her own bloody malice, upon staany time before, in the heave of Cassander: tira, the Daughter of King Darius, whom who saw the Macedonians turn their favou- Alexander had likewise married, according rable expectation, towards the son of their to the custom of those Countries, wherein plurality of Wives is held no crime. For, having by a counterfeit Letter, in Alexanders name, gotten this poor Lady into her hands, Prince must first have possession of Macedon: she did, by affistance of Perdiecas, murder whereby Cassander should be reduced to his her and her Sister, and threw their bodies poor office, of Captain over a thousand men, into a Well, causing it to be filled up with if not left in worle case. As for them that earth. But now, by Gods just vengeance, held Provinces abroad, they might either were the and her Son made a way, in the do as they had done under Aridaus; or bet-like secret fashion; even at such time as the ter, as being better acquainted with their neer approaching hope of a great Empire own strength. He, in the meane time, by his had made her life, after a wearisome imprifonment, grow dearer unto her than it was

The fact of Cassander was not so much detested in outward shew; as inwardly it was pleasing unto all the rest of the Princes. For now they held themselves free Lords of all change of their estates, than such as might as if now the time were come, for each man In the mean feafon, the Countries lying to improve his own stock. Antigonus his Commander, but discontented with the ill and Corinth in his own possession. requital of his fervices) whom finding short-Towns of Sycion and Corinth.

and affiftance, would all of them take heart Throne. ing it to fall into their mouthes.

their Town and Territory.

careful in following other, and some greater much moderation : but, in spight of their matters that were more fecretly to be hand-hearts, as being fet over them by Casander. matters and the liberty of Greece: yet By this base temper of the principal Cities. did the same argument minister unto Ptolo- it is easie to gather, how the rest of the Counms matter of quarrel, against both him and try stood affected. Stolomy could not see my mater and them to let their helping hands to their own taken the matter deeply to heart) that Antiquents had put Garrifons into fome Towns, implies of mony and victuals. Credible it is, which ought, in fair dealing, to be fet at li- that he had a true meaning to deliver them herty. Under colour of redreffing this enor- from thraldom; as judging the commodity. mity, he sent an Army into Cilicia, where he won four Towns, and soon after lost them, without much labour of his own or his ene that Cassander should receive thereby, who could hardly retain them, it once Antigonus After this, putting to Sea with a strong took the work in hand. But when he found Fleet, he ran along the coast of Asia, winning such difficulty in the business, he changed many places: and in that voyage allured un- his purpose: And renewing his former to him a Nephew of Antigonus (a good friendship with Cassander, he retained sycion

Before the coming of Ptolomy into Greece, ly, as falseto himself as he had been to his Casjander had been held occupied with veown Uncle, he was fain to put to death. But ry much work. For (besides his pains taken in doing these things, his desire to set the in Wars among barbarous Princes) he Greeks at liberty, appeared not so plain, as found means to allure unto himself the Lieuhe wished that it should: for their case was tenants of Antigonus, that were in Peloponno way bettered by his molesting Anti-nejus, and about Hellespont: making his gonus in Asia. Therefore to get the love of own advantage of their discontentments. that valiant Nation, he made at the last an By the like skilful practice he freed himself Expedition into Greece it felf: where ha from a greater danger, and made those murving fet free some little Islands, and landed thers which he had committed seem the less in Peloponnesus, he raised so great an expe- odious, by teaching his enemies to do the dation of finishing the long-defired work, like. Old Polysperchon, that had made so that Cratespolis, the Widow of Alexander, great a stir in the reign of Aridems, did af-Poliferchons Son, gave up into his hands the ter the death of Roxane and her child, enter again upon the Stage: leading in his hand Itolomy had conceived avain belief, that another Son of the great Alexander, and the Greeks, emboldened by his countenance meaning to place him in his Fathers and rife up in arms; whereby with little The name of this young Prince was Herlabour their liberty might be gotten ; and he cules: he was begotten on Barfine the daughbe acknowledged as Author of this immor- ter of Artabazus Persian ; but had been less tal benefit. But long servitude had well- esteemed than the son of Roxane. either neer extinguished the ancient valour of that for that his Mother was held no better than Nation: and their ill fortune, in many like- a Concubine, or else perhaps, in regard of ly attempts to recover freedom, had so tired the favour which Perdiccas, and after him their spirits, that they would no more stir in Olympias, did bear unto Roxanc. At this time pursuit thereof; but sate idly still, as wish-the death of his Brother had moved such compassion, and regard of his being Alexan-The Lacedamonians, about these times, ders only living child, had procured unto began to fortifie their Town with walls; him fuch good will, that the demand which trusting no longer in their vertue (for both Polysperchon made in his behalf, was deemed it, and the discipline that upheld it, were too very just and honorable. There were inmuch impaired) that had been a wall to deed more hearts than hands, that joyned with this young Prince: yet wanted he not The Athenians were become as humble sufficient strength of hands, if the heart of servants, as they had been in times past in- him that least ought, had not been most false. folent Masters: erecting as many statues in Cassander had raised an Army to withstand honor of Demetrius Phalereus, as there were his entry into Macedon: but little trust could days in the year. This Demetrius was now he repose in that Army, whose wishes he pertheir Governor; and he governed them with ceived to be with Hercules. Therefore he Yyyy 2

CHAP. V.

affailed Polysperchon himself with gifts and ther in Asia; hoping belike to find a new promises; wherewith at length he prevailed Husband in his Camp. But neither any of fo far, that the old Villain was contented to those brave Captains, that were, in times folmurther his Pupil; chufing rather with many curses and foul dishonor, to take the offered Lordship of Peloponnesus, and Commander of an Army; than to purchase a noble tame with dangerous travel, in maintaining being a lufty Widow, fuffered her blood fo afleep; though his loffes were hitherto the of this, turned it to a jest: faying, That she chief witnesses of his having been a stirrer in was his Sister, and must be allowed this lithese commotions. He thought it enough for berty, as her portion of the Empire. When himat the present to retain his own: and by his death the Empire lay in a manner ther efore took order for the recovery of void, and the portion due to her therein those places which Ptolomy had taken pains grew, in mensopinion, greater than it had to win. As for the rest, it no way grieved been: then did many seek to obtain her, him to fee Cassander incur the general hatred while she her self defired only a proper man, of men, by committing those murthers of with whom the might lead a merry life. To which the profit was like to redound unto this purpose did the invite Leonatus unto him that was the most powerful, or to see her; who made great haste, but was cut off have afforded them leifure , and have nus, Ptolomy, Lylimachus and Caffander , bethought the time well spent in beholding ing all her earnest Wooers. All these (Antitheir contentions. For he was throughly gonus excepted) had Wives already; Ptolo-

726

lay for the most part in Sarches: whom he rus, after whose death she came to her Bro- nus freed from blame, at the least in his own

lowing fo hot in love with her, durst then afpire unto her marriage: nor did her Brother, full of other cares trouble himfelf with providing her of an Husband. Shetherefore, his faith, unto both his dead and living far to prevail against her honor, that she supplied the want of an Husband by enter-Antigonus had not all this while been tainment of Paramours. Alexander hearing Pobligerchon and Ptolomy five at in a buffe by death cre he came to her presence. Now War against Cassander. If they would have at the last, after long tarrying, she had her continued their quarrels, he could well choice of all the great Commanders, Antigoperswaded, that when the rest had wearied my had many Wives, and many Concubines themselves in vain with long strife, his Armies whom he respected as much as his Wives, beand Treasures, wherein he exceeded them ing noted of too much dotage in that kind. all, would bring all under. According to This hindred not his fuit : peradventure it these haughty conceits, he demeaned him- advanced it, by giving to Cleopatra some hope felf among his followers; looking big upon of mutual toleration. To him therefore the them, and like a King before his time. This bequeathed her felf, and was taking her was it that caused so many of them to revolt journey from sardes towards him; when from him : but it was no great loss to be Antigonus his Deputy in that City, made forsaken by those that looked with envious her to stay, until his Masters further pleaeyes upon that fortune whereon their own fure should be known. Antigonus had now thould have depended. Against this envy of a Wolf by the ears: he neither could well his men, and the malice of others, Antigo- hold her, nor durft let her go. She would nus busily sought a remedy, such as was like not be his Wife; he had no honest pretence to give him a goodly title to the whole Em- to force her; and to keep her prisoner, had been the way, by which he might have in-Cleopatra Sister unto the great Alexander, curred a general hatred, lasting perhaps beyond her life; as the course taken by Cafhad a great desire to take to Wife. This his fander against Roxane (a Lady less respected desire was not without good hope : for how- than Alexanders own Sister) did well testifie. foever she discovered much unwillingness Therefore he thought it the wisest way to thereunto, yet was she in his power, and procure her death: for to let any other enjoy might therefore be entreated, were it only the commodity of fo fair a title to the Kingfor fear of being enforced. But it was not dom, it was no part of his meaning. To this his purpose to get her by compulsive means : purpose he sent instructions to the Governor either because his saucy, being an old man, of sardes, willing him in any case to do it sewas not over-violent; or rather because his cretly. So the sact was committed, and cerambition, whereunto all his affections had tain women about her put in trust with the reference, could have made small use of her, murther: which women afterwards were put by doing such apparent wrong. She had to death, as mischievous conspirers against been married unto Alexander King of Epi- the life of that good Lady. So was Antigoto be fo deluded. How the murther was himself to Thebes under fate conduct, only detected, we need not ask: for feldom is the Garrison in Munichy. strove to make Authors.

Alexander the great extinguished, and it was der, and so restored the City to liberty. extinguished by the hands of such as thought I think it not importinent, sometimes to noon nothing less than the execution of relate such accidents, as may feem no betthe ruines, as the sequel will declare.

liberty to Athens, expelling the Garrisons of Callander out of those parts. The immo-Antigonus and Demetrius.

the Country free.

out into loud acclamations: Demetrius Pha- till she had wound up the thred of his life, opinion: but the world was less foolish, than lereus for took the Town, and withdrew that bloody crime unrevealed, and never fo good that piece, which after a while was ill mothered, as when great persons are the won upon them by force. During the siege of Ainnychia'. Demetrius went to Megara; Thus was the whole race of Philip and whence he expelled the Garrison of Cassan-

Gods justice, due unto the cruelty of their ter than meer trifles: for even by trifles are powerful, but merciles Princes. Wherefore the qualities of great persons as well disclothe ambitious frames, erected by these Ty- sed, as by their great actions; because in rants, upon fo wicked foundations of inno matters of importance, they commonly cent blood, were foon after cast down, over- strain themselves, to the observance of gewhelming themselves or their children, with neral commended rules; in lesser things they follow the current of their own Natures. The Lady Cratesipolis lay in Patras, and had a great defire to fee Demetrius; hoping, belike, that she might by his means How Demetrius, the son of Antigonus, gave better her estate, and recover her Towns of whose Lieutenant in those places, Demetrius derate be sor decreed by the Athenians to ly bufiness pretended was love. He being One being left alive that had any title to the Kingdom; it stood with good Country of Megara, and taking a company reason, that they which were Lords of the of his lightest armed, for guard of his per-Provinces, acknowledging no Superiour, son, made a long journey to meet with should freely profess themselves Kings in her. This troop also he caused to lodge a name, as they were already in substance. great way from his Tent, that none might Yet had this name ill-beseemed the weaker, see her when she came. As closely as the buwhile the strongest of all did forbear it: siness was carried, some of his enemies had neither seemed it convenient in the judge- gotten knowledge of it; whereby they conment of Antigonus, to crown his last action ceived good hope, that the diligence of a with such a title, as if he had attained unto very few men might overthrow all the great greatness by that foul murther, the infamy preparations of Antigonus; and bring him whereof he was careful how to discharge to any terms of reason, by taking his dear from his own head. He purposed therefore fon prisoner. Their project fell but a little to undertake a plaufible enterprize, even the short of the effect. For they came so suddenliberty of Greece : whereby it was apparent, ly upon him, that he had no better shift, than that he might get fuch honor as would not to muffle himself in anold cloak, and creep only drown all bad reports, but make him away difguifed; leaving them to ranfack his be thought equal to any name of Royalty, Tent. There was in this Prince a strange whereof in feeming modelty, he was not co- medly of conditions; especially an extreme vetous. To this purpose he delivered a strong dissoluteness in wanton pleasures, and a pain-Army, with a Navy of two hundred and fifty ful industry in matters of War. He was of a fail, and fifty thousand talents of filver, unto most amiable countenance, a gentle nature, Demetrius his son: willing him to begin at and a good wit; excellent in devising En-Athens, and thence to proceed, in fetting all gines of War, and curious in working them with his own hands. He knew better how Demotrius came to Athens before he was to reform his bad fortune, than how to rule expected: fo that without refiftance he en- his good. For advertity made his valour tted the Haven; it being thought that a more active: prosperity puffed him with fleet of Ptolemy, Cassanders good friend, had over-weening, wherein he thought that he been arrived. But when it was known, might do what he lifted. His fortune was both who he was, and what was the cause changeable, as were his qualities: turning of his coming; the joy of the Citizens brake often round, like the picture of her Wheel, business at Megara; he resolved no longer to attend the issue of a siege, to assail Munychia by force, that so he might accomplish the liberty of Athens: which, until it was The great victory of Demetrius against Ptofully wrought out, he refused to enter into the City. Munychia was strongly fortified: yet by continuance of the atlault, the multitude without, through help of their Engines that scoured the walls, prevailed upon the resolution of those that lay within it, and wan the place in two days. The walls, and called away Demetrius, unto a business all the defences of that piece against the Ci- of greater difficulty; meaning to employ ty, were levelled with the ground, and so his service against Ptolomy, in Csprus. Bewas it freely put into the Citizens hands, fore his departure out of Creece, he was to whom withal was given their liberty, willed to establish a general Council, that with promise to aid them in maintain-should treat of matters concerning the com-

CHAP. V.

of any other victory gotten by Demetrius with greater skill and industry. For the Athenians, having forgotten how to employ their might appear, that as he would not perhands, laboured to make up that defect with mit any other to oppress the Greeks, so their tongues: converting to base flattery, would he be far from doing it himself. This that eloquence of theirs which the vertues was enough to hold his reputation high, manly arguments.

They decreed unto Antigonus and Demetrius the name of Kings; they consecrated mies. the place in which Demetrius leaped from

Apollo. shortly after, desiring him to relieve them it, and themselves together. with Corn and Timber to build ships; he in such manner as followeth to be shewed. Oracle: or rather so weak is great power Returning to his Camp, and finishing his in resisting the assauls of flatterv.

6. XI.

lomy in Cyprus. How Antigonus and Demetrius took upon them the flile of Kings; wherein others followed their ex-

Rom this glorious work, Antigonus mon good of the Country. About the same The fame of this action was lowder, than time Antigonus withdrew his own Garrison out of Imbros, committing their liberty entire, into the peoples hands; whereby it of their Ancestors had suited unto more among these new purchased Friends: it followed, that he should convert his forces, to the winning of ground upon his Ene-

A pitiful Tragedy had lately hapned in his Chariot, when he entred their City, and cyprus, through the indifcretion of Menebuilt there an Altar, calling it of Demetrius, laws, Ptolomies brother, and his Lieutenant The alighter; they called them by the names in that Ifle. Nicocles, King of Paphos, wasenof the gods their Saviours, ordaining that tred into some practice with Antigonus : yet every year, thereshould be chosen a Priest not so far that he thought himself past exof these gods; and further, that such as were cuse; by which considence, he was perhaps employed by their State, in dealing with the more easily detected. To cut off this neeither of these two Princes, should not be gotiation, and the false-hearted King of Facalled Embassadors, but Theori, or Conful- phos at one blow, Menelaus was sent thither: ters with the gods; like as were they, whom who furrounding Nicocles his house with they sent unto the Oracle of Jupiter, or Souldiers, required, in Ptolomies name, to have him yielded to the death. Nicocles It were a frivilous diligence to rehearse offered to clear himself; but Menelaus told all their flatteries, these being so gross. Here- him, that dye he must, and bad him come by they not only corrupted the young torth quietly. This desperate necessity caused Prince; but made that acclamation, which the unhappy King to rid himself of life : and best would have pleased the old man, to be his death struck such an impression into his of no use. For he could not handsomely wife, that she not only slew her self, but pertake upon him the name of King, as imposed swaded the wives of her husbands brethren by the Athenians, unless he would feem to to do the like. Also those brethren of Nicoapprove their vanity, in loading him with cles, unto whom Ptolomy had intended no ill, more than humane honors. Yet was he so being amazed with the suddenness of this tickled with this their fine handling him, calamity, did shut up the Palace, and setting that when their Theori or Consulters came it on fire, consumed it, with all that was in opposition that Ptolomy was like to make. Fleet, puts to Sea against Ptolomy. The Copriots did little or nothing against Most of them were Mercenaries: but all might follow some other time.

Whatsoever the crime objected was; Nigave them almost a hundred thousand quar- cocles perished as a man innocent, because he ters of wheat, and matter sufficient to make was not suffered to make his answer. Of this a hundred Gallies. So gracious was his first sad accident, though Menelaus deserved the the furthest removed occasion.

their goods were in Egypt, which was enough tokeep them faithful. Yet could not this

There fell out in this battel no unusual tokeep them faithful. Yet could not this of Sycion and Corinth.

vice; and very well furnished with Engines as great necessity required.

blame, for his rigorous proceeding; yet it on his back: in which cafe, it was very likeis to be thought, that much dislike fell also ly that all would go very ill with him. unon Ptolomy: as men that are grieved, cast Against this mischier, he bestowed ten of his anill affection even upon those that gave own Gallies in the mouth of that Haven, to keep Menclaus from illuing forth, and fetting Not long after this, Demetriss came into his horsemen on the shore, to give what af-Cprus, with a power fufficient, against any fiftance they could, he with the rest of the

729

The fight began early in the morning, him, either because they had small strength and continued long, with doubtful success. orfor that they held it a matter indifferent, The generals were not ranged opposite one whom they acknowledged as their Lord, to the other; but held each of them the left being fure that they should not themselves wing of his own Fleet. Each of them prehave the rule of their own Country. Mene- vailed against the squadron wherewith he lass therefore, out of his Garrisons, drew encountered; but the success of Demetrius forth an Army, and fought with Demetrius. was to better purpole. For his victory in one Buthe was beaten, and driven to save him- part was such, as caused others to fall out of felf within the walls of Salamis, where he was order, and finally drave all to betake themso hardly besieged, that without strong suc- selves unto speedy flight. As for Ptolomy, he cour, he had no likehood to make good the was fain to leave his advantage upon the place, much less to retain possession of the enemy inonepart of the fight, that he might whole Illand. His greatest help at the present relieve and animate those of his own which was the fidelity of his Souldiers; whom no needed him in another: wherein he found his rewards could win from him, nor good usage loss over-great to be repaired, by contend-(when any of them were taken priloners, and ing any longer against the fortune of that inrolled in the enemies bands) keep from day; and therefore he laboured only to returning to him, with the first opportunity. save himself, in hope of better event, that their resolution have stood long against the could have been expected. The occasions odds of number, which Demetrius had of men whereof were, partly the great skill in Seaasresolute, and against his terrible Engines services, which the Greeks and Phanicians of battery, if Ptolomy had not hasted to the that were with Demetrius, had above those which followed Ptolomy: partly, the good Ptolomy brought with him a hundered and furniture of the Ships, wherein confifted no forty Gallies, besides two hundered Ships of less, than in the quality of those with whom burden, for transporting his Army and Car-they were manned. Further, we may reariages. This Fleet made a terrible shew, sonably judge, that the two hundered ships of when it was described afar; though more burthen, carrying the strength of Ptolomies than half of it was unfit for service in fight Army, did not more encourage his own men, at Sea. Wherefore to make the opinion of and terrine his enemies the day before the his forces the more dreadful, Ptolomy fent fight, than breed in each part the contrary unto Demetrius a threatning meffage: willing affections, when in the beginning of the fight him to be gone, unless he would be over- they fell off, and stood aloof. For though it whelmed with multitudes, and trampled to were fitting that they should so do; yet a deathin a throng. But this young gallant re- multitude, prepossessed with vain conceits, payd him with words of as much bravery, will commonly apprehend very flight occapromifing to let him escape upon condition, sions to think themselves abandoned, Bethat he should withdraw his Garrisons out sides all this, the expectation that Menelaus, issuing with his fleet out of Salamis should Demetrius had no more than one hundered charge the enemy in the stern, was utterly and eighteen Gallies; but they were, for frustrate. He was kept in perforce, by the the most part, greater than those of Ptolomy; ten ships appointed to bar up the mouth of better stored with weapons fit for that ser-the Haven: which they manfully performed, in the prows, to beat upon the enemy. Ne- Such disappointment of expectation doth vertheless he stood in great doubt of three- much abate the courage of men in fight: score Gallies that lay in the Haven of Sala- especially of the affailants: whereas on the mis, left Menelaus with them should set up- contrary, they find that some part of their

and conceive an opinion of their own abili- with a great throng at his heels (that ferved ty, to do more than they thought upon, out well to let out his Pageant) until he came in of their not suffering the harmthat they had light of Antigonus, who could not contain imagined.

were, the fruit was very great. For Ptolomy flodemus, upon the fudden, with a high had no more than eight Gallies that accompanied him in his flight : all the rest of his uttering the greatness of the victory (with fleet was either taken or funk. Neither did as much pomp, as before he had covered it. Menelans any longer strive against the vio- with silence) in the hearing of all the peolence of fortune; but yielded up all that he ple; who with loud acclamations, gave that held in Cyprus, together with his Army, confilting of twelve thousand foot, and a thoufand and two hundred horse, and those Gallies in the Haven of Salamis. The same dejection of spirit was found in the common Souldier, as well that was taken at Sea, as that had served the Egyptian by Land; none of them repoling any more confidence in Ptolomy, but willingly becoming followers of a new Lord, whole Army they now in-depended on the event of this fight, than the Kings; it was not long eretheir fellows were Ife of Cyprus, for which they contended. ready to follow the good example. Ptolomy Wherefore the common expectation was his friends would by no means endure, that great; especially Antigonus, whomit most their Lord should be thought a mandejectconcerned, was deeply perplexed with cares, ed for the loss of a fleet; therefore they fathinking every day a year, till he were ad- uted him alfo King. Lysmachus in Thrace had vertised of the issue. In this mood Aristode- boldness enough to put the Diadem about mus foundhim, a noble flatterer, whom De- his own head. Selencus had, before this metrius had honored with the Message of time, among the barbarous people, taken these good news. Arishodemus had be-upon him as King: but now he used the stile thought himself of a trick, whereby to indifferently, as well among the Greeks and He caused his ships to ride at Anchor, a ly Cassander held himself contented with his might intimate the purport of his errand, and judgement, than in the Scenes already could be won from this demure Gentleman. past.

fears vain, do easily gather hopeful spirits, Thus marched he fair and softly forward himfelf, but went down to meet him at the Whatsoever the causes of this victory Gate, and hear the news. Then did Arivoyce falute Antigonus by the name of King; name of King, both to Antigonus and his fon Demetrius. Antigonus, in requital of the long suspence, wherein Aristodemus had held him. faid. That it should also be long ere he received his reward. But the Title of King, together with the Diademe, which his friends did set on his head, he could not wish a fairer occasion to assume: wherefore he readily accepted them, and fent the like to his fon.

When it was once noised abroad, that It was generally believed, that much more | Antigonus and Demetrius called themselves double the welcome of his joyful errand: Macedonians, as in dealing with others. Ongood diffance from the shore; he himself own name: whereby, howsoever he might landed in a Cock-boat, which he fent imme shadow his pride, he no way leffened the diately back to the ship; and so all alone fame of his cruelty against his Mastershouse. he went forward, looking very fadly, that But the name which he forbore, his sonsafno part of his tidings might appear in his ter him were bold to usurp, though with countenance. Report of his arrival (for it ill success, as will appear when they shall was not known where he had been) came enter upon the Stage, whereon these old presently to Antigonus, who sent Mellenger Tragedians, under new habits, as no longafter messenger to meet him on the way, and er now the same persons, begin to play bring fpeedy word how all went. But nei their parts, with bigger looks, and more ther any answer, nor so much of a look, as boiltrous actions, not with greater grace of the History of the Morld.

CHAP.

Of the Wars between the Kings of Egypt, Asia, Macedon, Thrace, and others: untill all Alexanders Princes were confumed.

ø. I.

The Expedition of Antigonus against Egypt, with ill success.

fuch as gave him hope to swallow them ceased when it did, and Antigonus appeared up, together with their new titles. Being in fight, from whom these over-wearied. not ignorant of his own strength, he re- thirity and Sea-beaten Souldiers received pared an Army of eighteen thousand foot. metrius was Admiral.

haste he made: thinking by celerity to pre- ill attended. cover : Demetrius himself, with the best and leaving Egypt.

LI the rest of these Kings had ta-strongest Vessels, did so long bear it up ken that name upon them, in imita- against the winde, that all his fresh water tion of Antigonus himself, as be- was spent; in which extremity, he and all feeming his greatness: which was his must have perished, had not the tempest not ignorant of the following and make him and cate of the content be able to stand, when the greatest of purpose; for Piolomy had so fortified all the them was fallen. To this purpose he pre passages upon the River of Nilus, as he affured himself either to end the war there, or parca and almy of the control of the an hundred and fifty Gallies, and a hun- weakning of the Affailants, as he should afdred ships of burthen. The Land forces terward, with a second Army ( which he he commanded in person: of the Navy De- held entire) entertain the Invader upon advantage enough. All that Antigonus When all was ready for the journey, the lought, was to come to blows speedily: Pto-Sea-men advised him to stay yet eight dayes long on the contrary, to beat Antigonus by longer, and expect the setting of the Plei- the belly. It is true that Nilus gave him waader. But his hasty desire to prevent all pre- ter enough, but wood he had none to warm parations for refistance that Ftolomy should it : and while Antigonus assaulted the Ramparations for rentrance that risonal models imputing it make, rejected this counfel; imputing it maker to their fear than skill: wherefore he departed from Antigonia (a Town which he had built in Spria, and called after his own name, that was foon changed into Se out Antigonia thrult fome affured Regiments lencia, by his mortal enemy) and came to upon the passages next the enemy, and in Gaza, where he met with his Fleet. The the mean while taken a resolution to reneerer that he drew to Egypt, the more turn, Ptolomy had turned him out of Egypt

vail more than by his great power. He | Some of them indeed he laid hands on. cansed his Souldiers to carry ten dayes pro- in the way of their escape, and those he put vision of Victuals; and had many Camels to death with extreme torments; but in all loaden with all necessaries for passing the likelihood with the same ill success that Fer-Defarts, over which he marched with no dicess had formerly done, when he invaded inall toil, though he met with no resistance. Egypt, had he not readily removed his Ar-At Mount Galfins, which is near adjoyning my further off, from the noyle of their ento Nilm, he saw his Fleet riding at Anchor, tertainment, that had already been won not far from the shore, in ill case, and many from him. To prevent therefore as well Ships wanting. It had been forely beaten the prefent danger of his stay, as the shame with foul weather, wherein some were lost, following a forc'd retrait, he secretly praothers driven back to Gaza, or scattered ctised the advice of his Councel, upon whom elsewhere into such creeks as they could re- the burthen must be laid of his entrance, and Kings; on the Directed, than on the Directory. ftor: for the honour and reputation of a At this time the City of Rhodes was very Prince is far more precious than that of a mighty, being well governed, and having Vaffal. Charles the fifth, as many other Prin-long held it felfin good Neutrality; it drew ces have done, laid the loss and dishonour he the better part of all the trade of those received in the invafion of France, by the parts, and therein a great deal of riches to way of Provence, to Antony de Leva, whe- it felf; to maintain which, and to encrease ther justly or no, I know not; but howfo-ir, it furnished and kept on the Seas a Fleet ever, all the Historians of that time agree, of well armed Ships, by which it not only that the forrow thereof cost that brave Cap- beat off all Pyrates and petty Theeves, but tain his life. Certainly to give any violent the reputation of their strength was thereby advice in doubtfull enterprises, is rather a so much increased, as all the Neighbour testimony of love, than of wisdom, in the Princes sought their alliance and confeder giver; for the ill success is always cast upon racy. the Counsel, the good never wants a Father, In this so dangerous a time (in which though a falle one, to acknowledge it. Yet they must either refuse all that sought them. I have fometime known it, that great Com- and fo stand friendless and apart; or joyn manders, who are for the present in place of themselves to some one, and thereby forego Kings, have not only been diffwaded, but the peace, by which their greatness had a Marshals Court.

ø, I I.

metrius.

deal of joy in Egypt. Ptolomy held a folemn openly and strongly. All things soon after Feast, and sent Messengers abroad, loaden ordered according to the greatness of the with glad news, to Selencus, Lysimachus, and enterprise, he employed his Son Demetrius Cassander, his Confederates: strongly encou-raging all that side, with the report of this brought such terror upon the Citizens, that his late felicity, though it appeared but in a laying a fide all respect of friendship and hodefensive War. Antigonus on the contra-nour, they offered him their affisfance and ry, flattered himfelf with another interpre- fervice against whomsoever. Demetrius, who tation, calling the joyes of his enemies for knew from whence this change came, and being but bare favers by the last bargain, an intollerable height, requiring a hunand himself, as he supposed, having lost but dred Hostages to be delivered him, and lia little time, and no part of his honour in berty to lodge in their Port as many thipsof the late retrait. Howloever it were, yet he War as himself pleased These conditions, meant to follow his affairs henceforth in more properly to be imposed upon a State another fashion; for that which he could already conquered, than on those who as not cleave afunder by great blows, he yet had heard of nothing but a constrained purposed by little and little to pare off, by affistance, restored unto the Rhodians their cutting off the branches first, to fell the lost courage, and made them resolve to de-Tree it felf with the more facility. To effect | fend their liberty to the last man: this taught which, he resolved (leaving the great ones them to infranchise all their able bond-men, to grow a while) to root up the Dependants and wisely rather to make them their felof his Enemies: Dependants, whom the low-Citizens, than to make themselves felfore-named Confederates should be forc't low-slaves with them. either to relieve, or to lose; and hereby he Demetrius having refused the fair condi-

It is indeed less prejudicial in such like doubted not to draw them into the field, cases, that errors, dishonours, and losses, be where the advantage of power, and of all laid on Counsellors and Captains, than on other warlike provision promised him vi-held, in a kind, by strong hand, from haz- grown) their affections carried them to the zarding their own persons, and yet have Egyptian: both because the greatest part of those kind of Mutiners never been called to their trade lay that way, as also for that Antigonus his disposition, greatness, and neighbourhood was fearfull unto them. This affection of theirs, with some other passages more apparent, gave argument of quarrel to How the City of Rhodes was besieged by De- Antigonus, who began to declare himself against them by petty injuries, of taking some of their ships, with such other griev-His departure of Antigonus, left behind ances, while he made a more weighty preit many dead Carcasses, and a great paration, to pursue the War against them witnesses of his own greatness, seeing they that the alteration was perswaded by fear, arose but from so little things: his enemies and not by love; raised his demands to tions offered (as the Rhodians the fearfull ones propounded unto them) makes preparation for a long fiege, and finding no ap- How Demetrius prevailed in Greece. Caspearance to carry the place in fury, he fet in hand with his Engines of battery; in the invention and use of which, he did never shew himself a greater Artisan, than in this War. But in conclusion, after the Citizens had fuftained all the affaults given them for a Officers of the City.

gotten by fetting all Greece at liberty.

ther it were not lawfull to call him a god. gods, and just with men. The Priests which attended in the Temple that they would needs be called gods.

s. 111.

fander delires peace of Antigonus, and cannot obtain it. Great preparations of War against Antigonus.

Demetrius coming with a strong Fleet and Army into Greece, quickly draye whole year, after many brave fallies out of Cassander out of Attica; and pursuing his the Town, and the famine which they en- fortune, chased him beyond the straits of dured within the Town, which had proved Thermopyle. Herein his reputation did much far more extream, if Ptolomy had not with avail him; which was fo great, that fix many hazzards relieved them, Demetrius by thousand of his enemies Souldiers revolted mediation of the Grecian Embassadors, gave unto him. So, partly by the greatness of his over the fiege; a hundred hostages they gave name, partly by force, he recovered in short him for performance of the peace made, but space all that Cassander held in those straits. with exception of all the Magistrates and and giving liberty unto the people, he bestowed upon the Athenians those pieces, Hereunto Demetrius was brought by the which had been fortified against them, to usual policy of War, and State: for while block them up. Then went he into Pelowith the flower of all his Fathers forces he ponnefus, where he found the like or more lay before Rhodes, Cassander recovered ma- easie success: for he suddenly took Argos. ny of those places in Greece, which Demetri- Corinth, Sicyon, and the most of the Counns had formerly taken from him; neither did try, bestowing liberty upon such as needed Callander make the War as in former times, it. The Town of Sicyon he translated by by practice and surprise, but by a strong and consent of the Citizens, from the old seat well compounded Army, which he himself into another place, and called it after his lead as far as into Attica, and therewith own name, Demetrius. This done, he betook greatly diffressed and endangered Athens it himself to his pleasure. At the Isthman games felf. On the other fide ( though with less he caused himself to be proclaimed Captain tucces) did Polysperchon invade Peloponnesus. General of Greece, as Philip and Alexander These dangerous undertakings upon Greece, had been in former times: whereupon (as advised the Athenians and Ætolians to di- if he were now become as great as Alexanspatch their Embassadours towards Demetri- der) he despised all others, making it a w, and adviced Demetrius rather to abandon matter of jeft, that any, fave himself or his the enterprise of Rhodes, than to abandon father, should usurp the Name of King. But the great honour which he had formerly in his behaviour he was so farr unlike to a King, that in all the time of his leafure, he Demetrius was no sooner out of the Island, deserved none other name than of a drunthan that the Rhodians erected Statues in ken Palliard. Yet were the Athenians as reahonour of Lysimachus and Cassander; but for dy as ever to devise new honours for him; Ptolomy, whom they most affected, and from among which they made one Decree, That whom they received their most relief, they whatsoever King Demetrius should comconfulted with the Oracle of Jupiter, whe- mand, ought to be held facred with the

All Greece being now at the disposition of of Hammon, gave the same fair answer for Antigonus, Cassander stood in great sear, lest Ptolomy, which they had formerly done for the war should fall heavily upon him in Alexander his Master; for as Alexander con- Macedon: which to avoid he knew no betfulted the Oracle with an Army at his heels, ter way than to make peace with his eneso was Ptolomy at this time Lord of the soil : mies betimes. And to that purpose he sent and yet was this a far more cleanly creation Embassadors; but had no better answer than that done by the Athenians, who dei- from Antigonus, than that he should submit fied Antigonus and Demetrius by decree of his whole estate to his discretion. This proud the people. A mad age it was, when so ma- demand made him look about him, and lany of Alexanders Captains could not con- bour hard in folliciting his friends, both to tent themselves with the style of Kings, but assist him, and take heed to themselves; neither found he them flow in apprehending the common danger: for Lysimachus knew that if once Cassander had lost Macedon, De- end he might not be driven to leave any the common Enemy.

Zzzz 2

734

at that time in his Town of Antigonia (a name each of them might freely apply himself that it must shortly lose) where he was care- to the tryal of the main controverse in fully providing to let out some stately game Asia. and Pageants, in oftentation of his glory. But thither was brought unto him the tumultuous news of Lysmackus his victories about Hellespont. For Cassander had committed un- How Antigonus was slain in a great battel at to Lysimachus part of his forces, wherewith to pais over into Afa, while he himself with the rest should oppose Demetrius on Europe the reit inould oppose Demerrint on Europe fide. So Lysmachus passing the Hellesport, began to make hot war upon the subjects of Armigonus; getting some of the Cities in those parts, to joyn with him by fair means: the feriour to that of the Enemy. In greatness that the subjects of the Cities in those parts, to joyn with him by fair means:

Countrey round about. tigonus made hasty journeys, and came soon adversaries: for Antigonus had of long time enough to recover his loffes, but not strong kept them under with a mastering spirit, and enough to drive Lysmachus home, or com- had been reputed a King indeed, when the pell him to come to battel. Lysimathus waited rest were held but Usurpers of the Title. for the coming of Selencus; keeping him-Likewise Demetrius was generally acknowfelf the whilest from necessity of fighting, ledged a brave Commander, having given But Babylon was far off; and Seleucus his proof of his worth in many great services preparations were too great to be soon in a of all kinds, and enriched the art of War readiness. The Winter also did hinder his with many inventions, which even his enejourney: which inforced them on both mies, and particularly Lysimachus, did much fides to rest in some quiet, without perform- admire. Selencus, who had some times flating any matter of importance. This delay tered Antigonus, and fearfully stoln away of debating the quarrel in open field, held from him to fave his life, with young Antiall those Nations in a great suspence, and ochus, a Prince not heard of before this jourbred much expectation. Yet might all have ney; and Lysmachus, that had lived long in come to nothing, had not Antigonus been so a corner, hardly keeping his own from the forward, that he refused to yield upon any wilde Thracians; wanted much in reputatipeaceable conditions. At length Selencus on of that which was yielded to their oppopeaceanie conditions.

A mighty Army of his own fites: yet fo, that as ancient Captains under (for he had gathered strength in that long Philip and Alexander, two of them were time of leasure, which Antigonus had given held worthy enough to receive any benefit him) and with great aid from Ptolomy, that that Fortune might give, and the third a was joyned with his forces.

To help in this needful case, Demotrius to make experience. was called over into Asia by his Fathers let- The Souldiers, on both sides, were for the ters: which he readily obeyed. Before his most part hardy and well exercised: many departure out of Greece, he made peace with of them having served under Alexander; Caffander, upon reasonable terms: to the though of those old Companies, the long metrius would foon be Master of Thrace. part of his Army for desence of the Coun-Neither were Ptolomy and Sciencus igno- trey; and that his journey might be without rant of that which was like to befall them, any fuch blemish of reputation, as if he had if Antigonus were suffered to put himself in abandoned his Dependants: for one Article quiet possession of those Provinces in Eu- of the Peace was, that all the Cities of Greece rope. Wherefore it was agreed, that with should be at liberty. Cassander was glad to joint forcesthey should all together set upon be so rid of an Enemy that was too strong for him. Yet would this league have done Hereof Antigonus had notice: but scorned him little good, if things had fallen our all their preparations, faying, That he would contrariwife than they did in Afa; feeing the as cafily featter them, as a flock of birds ratification thereof was referred unto Antiare driven away with a stone. With these gonus. It sufficed, that for the present, eveconceits he pleafed himself, and no way hindred the proceedings of his Enemy. He lay incumbrances else-where, to the end that

6. IV.

Ipfus,neer unto Ephefus; wherein his whole estate was lost.

winning others by force, and wasting the of name (that helpeth much in all Wars, but especially in the Civil) they were ra-To repress this unexpected boldness, An- ther unanswerable than unequal to their Prince of great hope, whereof he now came foace of two and twenty years had confumed on the enemies battel, wherefoever it lay the greatest number. But concerning their most open, he did so terrifie the Antigonians, affections, the followers of selenem were that a great part of them rather chose to easily perswaded, that in this battel they revolt from their Lord, whilest they were must either get the upper hand, or put in fairly invited, than to sustain the fury of so private with his Son whom he commended troublesome life. to the Army as his Successor: whereas in His great ability in matter of Arms. former times he had never been so jocund, together with his unsatiable desire of as towards the hour of battel, nor had Empire, have sufficiently appeared in the been accustomed to make his Son, or any whole Volume of his actions. He was other private to his counsel, before it requi- more feared by his enemies, than loved by red execution. Other tokens of bad luck, his friends; as one that could not modeeither foregoing the fight, or afterwards de- rate his Fortune, but used insolence tovised, I hold it needless to recount. Diana of ward all alike, as if it had been some Epheliss dwelt neer to the place of battel, a vertue neerest representing a Kingly Mabusie goddess in many great fights; and jesty. This was the cause that so many therefore likely to have been thruit into the of his followers revolted to his enemies; racle, had chanced.

The description of this Arracle, had chanced.

The description of the Arracle, had chanced.

The description of the Arracle, had chanced.

charged valiantly upon young Antiochus; rified upon his Son. whom when he had broken, and put to flight, he was so transported with the heat of his good fuccefs, that he never gave over his pursuit, but left his Father naked, and loft thereby both him, and the victory. For when selencus perceived this advantage, he interposed his Elephants, between Demetri-" and the Phalanx of Antigonis; and with many troops of horse offering to break upextreme danger all that belonged unto the dangerous an impression. This cowardize, Confederate Princes; whereas Antigonus or rather Treaton of some, discouraged his men could difeern no other necessity of others; and finally, cast them all into slight; fighting, than the obstinate quality of their exposing their General to the last end of Lord, that needs would be Master of all. his destinies. Antigonus was then fourscore Antiganus had about threefcore and ten years old, very fat and unweildy, fo that he thousand foot, ten thousand horse, and three- was unapt for flight, if his high spirit could fore and fifteen Elephants. His enemies have entertained any thought thereof. He were fix thousand short of him in number of had about him some of his most trusty foltheir foot; in horse they had the odds of lowers, and as many others as he could hold five hundred; of Elephants they had four together. When one that perceived a great hundred, and an hundred and twenty arm-troop making towards his person, told ed Chariots of War: which helps, though him, Sir King, Jonder company means to they little had availed the Persans, yet were charge you; He answered, Well may they; they not to be despited, in the hands of a for who defends me s but anon Demetrius will relieve us. Thus expecting to the ve-Antigonus himself, either troubled with ry last, that his Son should come to the the unexpected greatness of his enemies rescue, he received so many Darts into his forces, or prefaging little good like to en- body, as took away his lately ambitious, fue, grew very pensive, communing much in but then fearfull hopes, together with his racie, nad cnanced.

It is easie to believe, that these two so gallant Armies, containing well neer all the sarefull endeavours of their Vassals, only strength of Alexanders whole Empire, performed a notable fight, being led by such nish the least offences, than to reward the worthy Commanders, and whom the iffue greatest services: shall finde themselves upthereof did highly concern. Yet are few of on the first change of fortune, ( seeing it the particulars recorded : an easie loss in re- is love only that stayes by adversity) not gard of the much variety, wherewith every only the most friendless, but even the flory aboundeth in this kind. The most me-most contemptable, and despised of all morable things in the battel, were these: other. This Antigonus found true in part, Demetrius with his best force of Horse, while he lived; in part he left it to be veCHAP. VI

CHAP. VI.

ø. V.

736

tune, and shortly entring into quarrels.

all quite loft, was glad to fave himfelf, with and all Syria, being no otherwise divided four thousand horse, and five thousand foot, from his own Territory, than by the River by a speedy retreat unto Ephesius, whence he of Euphrates, For there had not any order made great haste unto Athens, as to the been taken by the Confederates, for the diplace, that for his fake would fuffer any ex- vision of all those Lands: because they did tremity. But whilest he was in the midst of not expect so prosperous an issue of that his course thither, the Athenian Embassa- War, which they made only in their owa dours met him with a decree of the people, common defence. It was therefore lawfull which was, that none of the Kings should for selcucm, to make the best benefit that he be admitted into their City. These were could of the Victory, at which nevertheless Embaffadours, not Theori, or Consulters others did repine; and though they neither with the Oracle. It was a shameless ingra- could nor durst accuse him of ill dealing for titude in the Athenians, to reward their the present, yet seeing the over-greatnes of Benefactor, in his misery, with such a decree: Selencus brought no less danger to the rest neither did any part of his calamity more of the new Kings, than that of Antigonus afflict the unfortunate Prince, than to see his had done, they consulted upon the same reaadverfity despised by those whom he had fon of State as before, how to oppose it in thought his furest Friends. Yet was he fain time. Neither was Seleucus ignorant of what to give good words. For he had left many they had determined; for he read it in the of his ships in their Haven, of which he now Law universal of Kingdoms and States, needflood in great need; and therefore was fain ing no other intelligence. Hereupon they to speak them fair, that sometimes had grof- forget friendships on all sides, and cure ly flattered him. But he shall live to teach themselves of all unprofitable passion: the them their old language, and speak unto hatted of each to other, and their loves bethem in another tune. When he had gotten his ships, he sailed to the Ishmus, where on the other, were found so far too light, as he found nothing but matter of discomfort. Selencus, who had to day slain Antigonus the ne round nothing out matter of disconnicted.

His Garrifons were every where broken up;

the Souldiers having betaken themfelves to disconnicted to match himsenemies pay. So that he was King only of a fmall Army and Fleet, without money or means wherewith to furtain him and his followers any long time. All the reft, or the lowers any long time. All the reft, or the greatest part of his Father's large Dominion, was now in dividing among the Conquetors, and those few places which as yet held selected his Father, to save his wife, and to differenced, as Selected his Father, to save his wife, and to the work his Father, to save his wife, and to the work his Father, to save his wife, and to the work his father, to save his wife, and to the work his father, to save his wife, and the work his wife, and to the work his wife, and the work his wi for him (having not perchance heard the her (though she were his Wife) unto him; worft of what had happened) he no way and how his paffion was discovered by his knew how to relieve: for to put himself in pulse, is generally noted by all Writers. But to the field on that side of the Sea, he had neither did this alliance between Selected no power; and to inclose himself in any of them, how strong soever, were but to imprison his fortune, and his hopes, or therein indeed to bury himself and his estate: He for the present it brought him again into therefore creeping thorow those bushes that the rank of Kings; otherwise tye any of had fewest bryers, fell upon a corner of Ly- them to each other, than the marriages bestimachus his Kingdom, whereof he gave all tween Christian Kings have done in latter the spoil that was gotten, to his Souldiers, times, namely between the Austrians, the repayed again by fmall prizes.

ces had wherewithall to busie themselves, in the partition of those Provinces, of which How Demetrius, forsaken by the Athenians their late victory had made them Lords : after his overthrow, was reconciled to Se- wherein Selencus had a notable advantage leucus and Ptolomy, beginning a new for- by being present, and Master of the field; for neither Ptolomy nor Cassander were at the overthrow given, having only fent certain OR Demetrius, at his return from the troops to re-inforce the Army which Seleucus idle pursuit of young Antiochus, finding led, who took hold of a part of Asia the less.

his own losses having been too great to be Arragonians, the French, and other Princes; neither have the Leagues of those elder In the mean while the Confederate Prin- times been found more faithfull, than those on it as a lawfull heir ; neither would Seleucw lend him any help, as by the Rule of Confederacy he should have done against the common enemy. So Plistarchus with very angry complaint, as well against seleucus as Demetrius, went unto Cassander; whither Phila, their Sister, followed him shortly, to pacifie them both, and keep all quiet; being fent for that purpose by Demeenough to deal with Caffander; and therefore glad to make use of that bond of alliance betwixt them, whereof in his own prosperity, he never took notice to the others good. About the same time he took to Wife a Daughter of Ptolomy (plurality of Wives beany good, otherwise than might seem to advance their own ambitious desires.

Seleucus and Ptolomy could both of them have been contented better, that Demetrius, with help of their countenance, should seek his fortune somewhat farther off, than settle his estate under their noses. Particular-Father-in-law upon the neck of Lysimachus; City, both by Land and Sea. or whether he were indeed greedy of the of the same latter times have been, as in the meant to keep as much Land as he could. fiories of Charls the Eighth of France, and of having already found in Cilicia twelve charls the Emperour, of Francis the First, thousand talents of his Fathers Treasure. and of the Kings of Naples, Dukes of Millan, that would serve him to make sport a while. and others, the Reader may observe : be- This refusal so displeased seleucus, that in rween whom from the year of our Lord, one angry terms he demanded the Cities of Trre thouland four hundred ninety and five, when and sidon, to be furrendred unto him; which charls the Eighth andertook the Conquest were the only places in Syria, that had not of Naples, to the year One thousand five hun- followed the fortune of the late great batdred fifty and eight, when Henry the Second tel. Instead of giving them up, Demetrius died; the Histories of those times tell us, took present order to have them better that all the bonds, either by the Bed, or by manned; and spake it stoutly, That were he the Book, either by Weddings or Sacra- overcome a thouland times, yet would he mental Oaths, had neither faithfull purpose not hire seleucus to become his Son-in-law. nor performance. Yet did Demetrius reap In this quarrel Seleucus was generally reprethis profit by giving his Daughter to his hended, as one of a malignant disposition. enemy Selencus, that he recovered Silicia that would break friendthip with his Fafrom plistarchus, the Brother of Cassander, ther-in-law for two Towns, from whom he who had gotten it as his share in the divi- had already taken more than well he knew fion of Antigonus his possessions: for the In- how to govern. But the fire consumed it truder was not strong enough to hold it by self in words, which had it fastned upon his proper forces, from him that entred up- arms, like it is that the weaker should have found friends out of envy to the stronger.

ø. VI.

How Demetrius wan the City of Athens, and prevailed in Greece, but lost in Asia. Of troubles in Macedon following the death of Caffander.

tring her Husband, that was not strong IN the mean while, the Athenians not knowing how to use the liberty which Demetrius had bestowed on them, were fallen by fedition, under the Tyranny of Lachares. Through which alteration their distempered City was so weakned that it seemed ill able to keep off the punishment due ing familiar with these Macedonians, that to their late ingratitude. This advantage had learned it in their Eastern Conquests) hastened him, whom they had once called and so was he by two marriages rather freed their God and Saviour, to present himself unfrom two enemies, than strengthened with to them, in the habit of a revenging surv. He two friends; for neither of them wished him brought against them all the force that he could well spare from other employments. which were at that time perhaps the more, because his doubtfull Eastern friends, were unwilling to give impediment to any businel, hat might entangle him in Greece. His first enterprise in Athens had ill success; a great part of his Fleet perishing in a tempest. ly, seleucus thought that Cilicia lay very fit- But he foon repaired the loss; and (after ly for himself: and Ptolomy had a great ap- some Victories in Peloponnesus, where he wan Petite (which yet he concealed awhile ) to divers Towns that had fallen from him) rethe Isle of coprus. Now whether it were so, turning to the enterprise, wasted the Counthat selenens would fain have fet his new try of Attica, and cut off all relief from the Athens was not able to feed the great bargain; he offered to buy of Demetrius for multitude within it, any long time: for it ready money, his late purchase of Cilicia. Stood in a barren foil, and wanted now the Hereunto Demetrius would not hearken, but command of those Islands, and places abroad.

d. VII.

from whence it was wont to be stored with ander, fought for the Kingdom. In this quarvictuals; being also destitute of means to rel Thessalonica the Daughter of King Philip keep fuch a Navy as might bring in fupply, whom Caffander had married, feemed better or dare to do any thing at Sea, against that affected to Alexander, than to her elder Son. of Demetrius. Yet was there some hope of suc- who thereupon grew so enraged, that most cour from Ptolomy, who (trufting thereby to barbaroutly he flew his own Mother. The win the love of Greece) had loaden an hun- odiousness of this fact gave a fair lustre to dred and fifty ships with Corn, and sent them Alexanders cause: drawing the generality to relieve the hungry City. But these hun of the Macedons to take his part, as in redred and fifty were unable to deal with three venge of the Queens death, upon that wickhundred good fighting-ships, which Demetri- ed parricide Antipater. But Antipater was us had; rather they feared to become a prey to strongly backed by Lysimachus, whose to him, and therefore hasted them away be Daughter he had married; that alexander times, as having done enough, in adventuring could not hope to make his party good with to come so near that they might be described out some foreign aid. For which cause he This brake the heart of the people, among called in both Pyrrhus and Demetrius; who whom the famine was so extreme, that a Fa- how they dealt with him, it will soon appear ther and his Son did fight for a dead Mouse, in the following Tragedy, of him and his which dropped down between them from the Brother. Their Father Caffander had been house top. Wherefore they sent Embassa- one that shifted well for himself, at such time dours to yield up the Town, and crave par- as every man fought how to get somewhat. don, having fo far offended, that out of de- in the ill-ordered division of the Empire. He speration, they made it a capital offence to was cunning in practice, and a good Soulpropose any motion of peace. Yet were they dier: one of more open dealing than were fain to abolish this Decree, rather because his Companions, but withall more impudent. they knew not what elfe to do, than because rudely killing those, whom others would they hoped to be forgiven.

The fourth Book of the first Part

the Victory, did not only forbear to take knocked his head against a wall, upon some away the lives of these unthankfull men, opinion of contempt. With Olympias he had which they had submitted unto his mercy an hereditary quarrel, derived from his Fabut out of his liberality gave them food, and ther, whom the could not abide. Her femiplaced in Office amongst them such as were nine malice did so exasperate him, by cruelmost acceptable to the people. Nevertheless ty that she used against his friends both alive he was grown wifer than to trust them so far and dead; as it made him adventure upon as he had done in times past. And there-shedding the Royall blood: wherewith, fore, when (among other flattering accla- when once he had frained his hands, he did mations) they bade him take their Havens, not care how far he proceeded in that course and dispose of them at his pleasure; he was of murder. His carefulness to destroy those ready to lay hold upon the word, and leave women and children, whose lives hindred a fure Garrison within their Walls, to keep his purpose, argues him to have been rather them honest perforce. After this he went skilfull in matters of Arms, than a valiant into Peloponnesus, vanquished the Lacedamo- man; such cruelty being a true mark of cownians in two Battels, and was in very fair ardize, which fears a far off the dangers, possibility to take their City: when the that may quietly pass away: and seeks to dangerous news of Lysimachus and Ptolomy, avoid them by base and wicked means, as cares out of his head.

two younger Brethren, Antipater and Alex- his Masters.

more wisely have made away. He deeply, Demetrius, contented with the honour of hated the memory of Alexander, that had that prevailed faster upon him elsewhere, never thinking it self safe enough, until there than himself did upon his enemies in Greece, be nothing left, that carries likelihood of called him in all haste. Lysimachus had won danger. Of Olympias and Roxane it may be many Towns in Alic; Ptolomy had gotten all faid, that they had well deserved the bloody the Isle of Cyprus, except the City of Sala- | end which over-took them; yet ill-beseemed mis, wherein Demetrius had left his Chil- it Caffander to do the Office of a Hang-mandren and Mother, that were thrairly befreged. But Alexanders children had by no Law of Whilest he was bethinking himself which men, deserved to dye for the tyranny of their way to turn his face, a notable piece of bu- Father. Wherefore, though Caffander died in finess offered it self, which thrust all other his bed, yet the divine Justice brought fwords upon his wife and children, that well Caffander was lately dead in Maccdon, and revenged the cruelty of this bloody man, by foon after him, Philip his eldest Son, whose destroying his whole house as he had done

ø. VII.

of Macedon with Lytimachus.

against Cassander, was hardly preserved, be- was, that Alexander himself was feasted and Epirus; more beholding now to Ptolomy, long) studying how to erect his own house, than to Demetrius. When he had fully re- that fell down upon his grave, ere the earth tovered the Kingdom of Epirus, and was on it was throughly settled. fettled in it, then fell out that bufiness beboth him and Demetrins into Macedon.

forced the Brethren to composition:but their composition would not satisfie Demetrins, of Pyrrhus and his doings in Macedon. The who took the matter hainoully, that he was death of Cassanders Children. Demetrius sent for, and made a fool to come so far gets the Kingdom of Macedon; prevails in with an Army, and finde no work for it. This War against the Greeks; loseth reputation in was a frivolous complaint; whereby it aphis War against Pyrrhus, and in his Civil peared, that Demetrius had a purpose to Government, and prepares to win Asia. How do as Pyrrbus had done; and so much more, all constire against Demetrius. Pyrrhus by how much he was stronger. Hereupon and Lyfimachus invade him, his Army it feemed to Alexander a wife course, to rewields to Pyrrhus, who shares the Kingdom move this over-diligent friend, by murdering him upon some advantage. Thus Demetrius reported the story, and it might be Prince Excides, which perished in War the wisest, believed it not. But the isue ing a fuckling Infant, from the fury of his Fa- flain by Demetrius; who took his part of thers enemies. When his Fosterers had conthe Kingdom, as a reward of the murder; veved him to Glaucius King of Illyria; the excusing the fact so well, by telling his own deadly hatted of Caffander would have danger, and what a naughty man Caffander hought his life with the price of two hun- had been, that all the Mucedonians grew. dred Talents. But no man can kill him that glad enough to acknowledge him their shall be his heir. Glaucias was so far from King. It fell out happily, that about the betraying Pyrrhus, that he restored him by same time Lysanachus was busied in War force to his Fathers Kingdom, when he was with a King of the wild Thracians: for therebut twelve years of age. Within the com- by he was compelled to feek peace of Demepassoffix years, either the indiscretions of his tring, which to obtain, he caused the reyouth, or the rebellious temper of his Sub- mainder of Macedon to be given up; that is, jects, drave him out of his Kingdom, and the part belonging to Antipater, his Son-inleft him to try the world anew. Then went law. At this ill bargain Antipater grievoully he to Demetrius (who married his Sifter) stormed, though he knew not how to amend became his Page, followed him a while in it: yet still he stormed; untill his Fatherhis Wars, was with him in the great Battel in-law, to fave the labour of making many of Ip/us, whence he fled with him to Ephefus; excuses, took away his troublesome life. and was content to be hostage for him, in Thus in haste, with a kind of neglect, and as his reconciliation with Ptolomy. In Egypt he it were to avoid molestation, were flain the so behaved himself, that he got the favour of Children of Cassander: of Cassander that had Berenice, Ptolomies principal Wife; so that flain his own Masters Children, in a wise he married her Daughter, and was there- course of policy, with carefull meditation upon fent home, with money and men, into (fo much the more wicked as the more

It might be thought, that such an access of tween the Children of Caffander, which drew Dominion, added much to the greatness of Demetrius. But indeed it shewed his infirmi-Antipater, the elder of Cassanders Sons, ty; and thereby made him neglected by mawas so far too weak for Pyrrbus, that he had ny, and at length hated by all. For he had no defire to attend the coming of Demetrius, no Art of Civil Government: but thought but made an hasty agreement, and divided (or shewed by his actions that he thought) the Kingdom with his younger Brother Alex- the use and fruit of a Kingdom, to be none ander; who likewise felt the aid of Fyrrbus other, than to do what a King listed. He so troublesome, that he was more willing to gave himself over to Women and Wine, fend him away, than to call in fuch another laughing openly at those which offered to helper. For fyrrhus had the audacity to trouble him with supplications, and the terequest, or take as granted, by strong dious discourse of doing Justice. He had hand, Ambracia, Acarnania, and much more more skill in getting a Kingdom, than in ruof the Country, as the reward of his pains: ling it: War being his recreation, and leaving the two Brethren to agree as well as Luxury his nature. By long rest (as fix years they could about the rest. Necessity en- reign is long to him, that knows not how to reign one year) he discovered so much of his profitable Journey into Epirus (for he had worst conditions, as made the people both wasted much of the Countrey, and brought weary of his idlenes; and the Souldiers of home his Army in good case) as of his Insohis vanity. He was freed from care of mat-lence, that grew daily more and more intoters in Asia, by hearing that all was lost: lerable. His apparel seemed, in the eyes of though more especially, by hearing that the Macedons, not only too sumptious and Fishing had with great honour, entertained new-fangled, but very unmanly; and ferand dismissed his Mother and Children. This ving chiefly to be a daily witness, how afforded him the better leifure of making much he contemned them and their good War in Greece: where he vanquished the The- opinions. Of his Souldiers lives he was retchbans, and wontheir City twice in short space, less: and suffered unwisely this unprincely but used his Victory with mercy. Against sentence to escape out of his mouth; That Lysimachus he would fain have done some- the more of them died, the fewer he was to pay. what ( the peace between them notwith- He made a mockery of Justice; and (asit ftanding) at fuch time as he was taken by were, to publish unto all his Subjects, how the Thracians; but Lyfimachus was freely little he esteemed it or them) having by a dismissed, and in good case to make resi-shew of popularity invited Petitioners, and stance ere Demetrin came; so as this Jour- with a gracious countenance entertained ney purchased nothing but enmity. Another their Supplications, he led the poor Suters expedition he took in hand against Pyrrhus, after him in great hope, till coming to a with no better, or rather with worse event. Bridge, he threw all their Writings into a Pyrrhus held somewhat belonging to Mace- River; pleasing himself, in that he could don, which he had indeed as honeitly gotten, as Demetriar the whole Kingdom; he had other men. By these courses he grew so odialso made excursions into Theffaly. But there ous, that Pyrrhus gathered audacity, and inneeded not any handsome pretence of quar- vading Macedon, had almost won it all with rel, seeing Demetrius thought himself strong little resistance. Demetrius lay then sick in enough to over-run his enemies Country, his bed: who recovering health, and taking with two great Armies. It is a common the field, had fuch great odds of strength, fault in men, to despise the vertue of those, as made Pyrrhus glad to forsake his winnings whom they have known raw Novices in and be gone. that faculty, wherein themselves are noted At length he began to have some feeling as extraordinary. Pyrrhus was a Captain, of the general hate; which to redrefs, he whom latter Ages, and particularly the did not (for he could not) alter his own great Hannibal, placed higher in the rank of conditions; but purposed to alter their ide Generals, than either Demetrius or any of discourses of him, by setting them on work Alexanders followers. At this time, he mif- in such an action, wherein his best qualities fed that part of the Army, which Demetrius might appear; that is, in a great War. His led, and fell upon the other half: which he intent was to invade Affa with a Royal Aroverthrew, not with more commendations my: wherein the fortune of one Battel of his good conduct, than of his privateva might give him as much, as the fortune of lour, shewed in single combate against Pan- another had taken from him. To this end, tauchus, Demetrius his Lieutenant; who be- he first made peace with Pyrrhus; that so ing a strong man of body, challenged this he might leave all safe and quiet at home. young Prince to fight hand to hand, and Then did he compose a mighty Army, of was utterly beaten. The loss of this Battel almost a hundred thousand foot, and twelve did not fo much offend the Macedonians, as thousand Horses, with a Navy of five hunthe gallant behaviour of Pyrrhus delighted dred fail, wherein were many ships, far exthem. For in him they feemed to behold ceeding the greatness of any that had been quality. Other Kings did imitate, in a counthat the greatness was least part of their terfeit manner, some of Alexanders graces, commendation. and had good skill in wearing Princely vestures: but (faid they) none, fave Pyrrbus, made Selencus and Ptolomy (ufpect their own is like him in deed, in performing the office forces, and labour hard with Lylimachus and of a Captain.

by the verrue of the Fpirot, than by dislike dangerous to them all, than ever was his of their own King; whom they began to dif- Father. It was eafily discerned, that if Deesteem, not so much in regard of his un- metrine once prevailed in Asia, there could be the lively figure of Alexander in his best feen before; yet so swift and useful withal,

The terrible fame of these preparations, Pyrrhus, to joyn against this ambitious Son These Rumours were not more nourished of Antigonus, that was like to prove more hague foever were of old concluded would not hearken to the good counsel of Therefore they refolved to begin with him his friends; or whether his behaviour dehetimes, and each to invade that quarter of prived him of such friends, as would dare to Macedon, that lay next his own Kingdom. let him hear the unpleasant found of neces-Issumachus came first, and against him went sary truth. Demetrius with a great part of his Army: but whilest he was yet on the way, news were phant entry into the Kingdom of Macedon: brought into his Camp, that Pyrrhus had Lysimachus came upon him very unseasonawon Berrbea. The matter was not over- bly, and would needs have half: faying, that great: were it not that minds prepared with he had done as much as Pyrrhus in the War; long discontent, are ready to lay hold upon and therefore had reason to challenge his fmall occasions of dislike. All the Camp was part of the gain. The bargain was quickly gone to Lysimachus.

CHAP. VI.

When Demetrius perceived the bad affection of his Army, he thought it the wifest way, to lead the Macedonians further off from Lysimachus their own Country-man, against Pyrrhus that was a stranger : hoping by victory against the Epirot, to recover the love of his followers, in such fort that he might afterwards at leifure deal with the other. But herein his wisdom beguiled him. For the fouldiers were as hasty as he, to meet with Pyrrbus; not intending to hurt him, but longing to fee that noble Prince, of whom they had been in former times. For they they daily heard the honourable fame. Some presently for sook his friendship, and called spake of his valour; some enquired, others Pyrrhus out of Macedon to be their Patron. answered, of his person, his armour, and Demetrius, when he went against Lysimaother tokens whereby he might be known; chus, had left a great part of his forces in as particularly, by a pair of Goats-horns, Greece, under his Son Antigonus. Therethat he wore on his creft. It was not like fore it is like, that he had soon gotten an ly, that these men should hurt him. Di- Army, though Phila his Wife ( who is vers of them stole away, and ran over in highly commended for a wise and vertuous to Pyrthus his Camp: where the news that Lady) did poyson her self, upon desperate they brought, were better welcome than grief for his misfortune. The first, upon to set eye on him. His face was not so well Caria. known as his Helmet; therefore he was ad- At his first coming into those parts, for-no fecurity for his friends in Europe, what this calamity: whether it were fo, that he

Whilest Pyrrhus was making this triumin uproar: fome wept, others raged, few or made, and the division agreed upon: each of none did forbear to utter seditious words, them being rather desirous to take his part and many defired leave of Demetrius, to go quietly, than to fight for the whole; as hoto their own houses, meaning indeed to have ping each of them, to work his sellow quite out of all, upon better opportunity.

«. VIII.

How Demetrius gathering Forces, enterprised many things with ill success, in Greece and Afia. How he was driven upon Seleucus, and compelled to yield himself. His impri-Sonment and death.

THE Athenians were as unthankfull to Demetrius in this his adversity, as their persons. For they said, and it was whom he attempted to shew his anger. true, that if the Macedonians might once get fight of Pyrrbus, they would all falute it. He began to lay fiege to their Town: him King. To try this, Pyrrhus rode forth, but was pacified by Crates the Philosopher, and prefented himself bare-headed in view whom they had made their spokes-man; of the Camp, whither some were sent be- and taking fair words instead of satisfaction, fore to prepare his welcome. The news of passed over into Assa, with eleven thousand his arrival found a general applause, and Souldiers, meaning to try his fortune against every one began to look out, with desire Lysimachus, for the Provinces of Lydia and monished to put it on: which done, all came tune seemed to smile upon him. For many about him, and proffered their fervice; good Towns, willingly, or by compulsion, neither were there any, that spake for De- vielded to his obedience. There were also metrius; only fome (and they the most some Captains that fell from Lysimachus to moderate of tongue) bade him be gone him, with their companies and treasures. betimes, and shift for himself. So Demetri But it was not long ere Agathocles the Sonw threw aside his Maskers habit, and at- of Lysimachus, came upon him with an Artyring himself poorly, did fearfully steal my so strong, that it was not for Demetrius away out of his own Camp, deferving well his good, to hazard his last stock against it. Wherefore,

CHAP. VI

Wherefore he resolved to pass through Phry- otherwise he used him with as much favour. gia and Armenia, into Media, and the Pro- as any prisoner could wish. He was kept vinces of the higher Asia; trusting to find a under sure guard in a demy-Island, wherein Kingdom somewhere in those remote quar- were goodly Walks, Orchards, and Parks ters. The execution of this councel was for hunting. He had all that he asked grievoully impeached by Agathocles: who royally, and friends allowed to vifit him, purfued him close, and cut off all his pro- at his, and their pleasure. Only his liberty visions, driving him to take which wayes was referved unto the coming of young he could, without following his intended Antiochus and Stratonica, out of the high course. In many skirmshes Demetrius vanquished this troublesome enemy; neverthenow merrily all the while (as one that quined this troubletonic enemy. Inverted now meeting an the wine (as one that left, he could not be shaken oif, but continued afflicting the poor titulary King, with much travel and blood-shed, he had sought extream famine. At length in passing the riin vain) and then dyed, leaving to his Son ver Lycus, so many of Demetrius his men were Antigonus, the same which his Father had left unto himself; that is, friends and hope. fiftance: but were driven to travel with His ashes were honourably buried in Cofuch speed as might well be called a plain rinth; his qualities have appeared in his flight. So that with famine, peltilent discases actions, and the fortune of his House will following famine, and other accidents of thew it felf hereafter, in times and places war, eight thousand of them were consu- convenient. med : the rest with their Captain, escaped into Cilicia. Seleucus had gotten possession of Cilicia, whilest Demetrius was occupied in Greece: yet was it no part of Demetrins his The death of Ptolomy, of Lysimachus, and errand, to lay claim to the Country; but with vehement and humble Letters he be-with an Army.

742

vield unto Seleucus. Seleucus hearing this, was exceeding glad, dren fled unto Seleucus for aid. and fent him very comfortable messages. But the approbation of his own humanity having spent their first heat of admiration, by his followers, was such, as renewed his began to hearken so well to Lysmachus, their jealous thoughts; and hindred him from natural Countrey-man, that they forfook admitting Demetrius to his presence, though Pyrrbus, upon none other ground than

ø. IX.

of Seleucus, that was the last of Alexanders Captains: with other occurrences.

fought his Son-in-law to call to mind their Bout the same time that Demetrius died, alliance, and to pity him in his great mifery. These Letters at the first wrought A died also Ptolomy King of Egypt, a verwell with Selencus, and he condescended to tuous Prince, war-like, gentle, bountifull, the request: yet considering further how and (which in those times was a rare com-Demetrin had carried himself, when he re-mendation) regardfull of his word. He covered strength after the battel at Ipsus, he had, by many Wives and Concubines, changed his purpose, and went against him with an Army.

many Children, out of whom he selected ptolony Philadelphus, and caused him to Many treaties were held between them; reign together with himfelf, two or three of which none took effect, through the jealouse of seleucus. Therefore meer despe- firm him in the Inheritance of the Kingdom. ration enforced Demetrius to fight like a At this, Ptolomy Ceraumus (for all of that mad man, and his furies got him some victo- house assumed the name of Ptolomy) was grieries, though of small importance. At length vously incensed. But no man cared for his fickness took and held him forty days, in langer. Therefore he went to Seleneus, who which time, a great number of his few men gave him loving entertainment. There were ran to the enemy. This notwithstanding he now only two of Alexanders Captains left, ftill held out, and once had like to have Seleucus and Lysimachus. These two needs taken Selencus in his bed, had not his com- would fight for it, who should be the longest ing been discovered by Fugitives, that gave liver of that brave Company. The true alarm. Finally, when all his Army had ground of their quarrel, was their neer furfaken him, and left him with a few of equality or strength, and want of one to part his friends to shift for himself, he was com-them. The pretence was the murders which pelled by the last of those adherents (for Lysimachus had committed upon many of even some of those few forsook him) to his Nobles, together with his poyloning 4gathocles his eldest Son: whose wife and chil-

The Macedons, after feven moneths pause,

hown we's enough before: but they die here he ended his days, and within feven him no great wrong in taking lightly from moneths followed Lyfinachus, and others him, that they lightly gave him. Listima bus of his fellows, by a bloody death, being had reigned about five years alone, when treacherously slain by Ptolomy Ceraunus, the City of Liftmachia (built by him, and whole friend and Patron he had been, Secalled after his name) falling by an earth- venty and feven year old he was, when he

Macedon, to take possession of Europe, where first purchased.

because he was en Alien. This they had there was none to withstand him. But quake, appeared by events, to have fore- fought with Lysimackus, and Lysimackus was the fall of his house. His own jea- seventy and four. With them ended the loulie, and the infligation of a mother-in-generation of old Captains, that had feen law, caused him to poyson his son Aga- the dayes as it were of another World unthocles; which drew upon him that der the Persian: yet was there lest one equal War, wherein (after the loss of all his to any of them in the Art of War: even fifteen Children that were taken away Pyrrhus the Epirot, of whom we spake beby divers accidents) he perished him fore; that is now ready to enter into war with the Romans, a more warlike people seleucus was encountred by Lysimachus than Alexander himself did ever encounters on Alfa fide, where one battell concluded Of which war, and of which people, it is the war, with Lyfimachus his death. It plea- needfull that we here make mention, as of fed Seleucus more than the victory, that he was the last of all the great Heroes that followed Alexander. For now he seemed to doms that were held by Alexanders Successions himself as Lord and Heir of all the con- fors, with less (and still decreasing) verquered World. So he passed over into tue, than was that, by which they were

CHAP. VII.

The growth of Rome, and fettling of the Eastern Kingdoms.

ø. I.

How the Romans enlarged their Dominions in Italy, from the death of Tullus Hostilius, unto such time as they were affailed by Pyrrhus.

important.

TOW Rome was founded by Romulus; After the death of Tullus Hostilius (who rome was founded by rooms. After the death of rainer confirms (who she he had reigned two and thirty years, permitting) and by many (though was burnt together with his house by lightfinall) Victories, gathered strength, and of such time as it became the Head of Prompilius by his Daughter, and not much Latium, by the conquest of Alba, in the unlike him in disposition, succeeded in the Reign of Tullus Hostilius: it hath been Kingdom of Rome. He walled the City already noted in due order of time. But about; enlarged it with the Hill Aventine, whereas now the Roman greatness begin- which he enclosed; built a bridge over Trneth to encounter the power of Grecce; bris, and the City of Offia upon the Sea, fixand extending it self out of Baly, to over- teen miles distant from Rome. Finally, whelm the Dominions of other States and having reigned 24 years, he dyed, and by Princes: I hold it convenient (as in like his last Will he lest his Children in charge cases I have done) briefly to set down the with one Lucumon, the son of Damaratus, a growth of this mighty City, in a compen- Corinthian, who avoiding Cypfelus King of dious relation of those many actions, which Corinth his tyranny, had fled into Hetruria, could not have been delivered in the ages, wherein they were feverally performed, Town he was alterward called Tarquinius. without much interruption of the History, From that City in Hetruria coming to Rome, that was then occupied in matter more and encouraged by some ominous occurrents, together with his wife Tanaquils prophefic, he grew a favourite of Ancus Martius ; Tarquinius Superbus King; returning home by his Greeian wit humouring the factions enforced her Coachman to drive his Chariof the Roman Court, infomuch, that after ot over her fathers corps: whereupon the his decease he became not only Protector to street had the denomination of Wickedthe children, but Governour to the City. Street. This Tarquine, exercising cruelty He doubled the number of Senators, and without justice, and tyranny without mercy, enlarged the Centurions of Horsemen: nei-upon the people and Senators; having tired ther was he less eminent in war, than in himself and them at home, used the same peace: for he prevailed often against the rage of treachery upon his borders. He took Instant, and from his victories, the chiefest Oriculum, Suessa, Pometia, and the Gabii. The ornaments of triumph took their original. liffue of befieging Ardea, a Town eighteen When this Lucius Tarquinius had reigned mile distant from Rome, was of bad success. 38. years, he was flain by the Sons of An- In the heat of which War, his Son Sextus cus Martius, to whom he had been left Tarquinius violently ravished that chaste Guardian. But Tanaquil his wife, perceiving Lady Lucretia, his kiniman Collatines wife: what was done, informed the people, from who in way of expiation for fo unchafte a out of an high Turret, that her Husband deed, thought good to "ash out those spots was wounded, and fick, but not dangerouf- of infamy with her own blood; fo (having ly. And withall fignified unto them, that in first bequeathed the revenge unto her fathe interim of his fickness, one Servius Tul- ther Sp. Lucretius Tricipitinus, her husband lius, whom from his birth she alwayes pro- Collatine and Junius Brutus ) she kill'd her phefied to be born to great hopes (the fon felf:whereupon (chiefly by Junius Brutus his of P. Corniculanus, and Ocrifia a well descen-resolution) Tarquinius Superbus, with his ded, but captive woman) brought up in her wife and children, was deposed and banishhouse, and husband unto her daughter, ed; and fled to Porsenna King of Hetruria for should supply her husbands place, in go- succour, in the five and twentieth year of verning the State, untill his recovery: which his reign, and the two hundred forty and government, being thus at first obtained by fourth from the building of their City: in cunning, he afterwards usurped as his right. which space Rome had scarce gotten possession He first ordained Ratements, Subsidies and on of fifteen miles round about her. Valuations of the peoples wealth; among Junius Brutus by the help of Collaine, whom, at that time, fourfeore thousand were having expelled Tarquine, and freed his mustered, of which number confisted their Country from that heavy yoke of bondage, whole Corporation; and by diffinction of inforced the people by solemn oath, never Dignities, Ages, Trades, and Offices, he man- to admit any government by Kings amongst aged the Kingdom in as good fort, as if it had them: whereupon they ranfacked their Kings been a private houshold. At length, have goods, consecrated their fields to Mars, and ing two daughters of different natures, the conferred the government of the State upon one milde and gentle, the other fierce and Brutus and Collatine. But because the name outragious: and finding also that the two of King was odious in their ears, they changfons of Tarquinius Priscus, Sextus and Aruns, ed the manner of their government, from which had been committed unto his tuition, perpetual to annual, and from a fingle Gowere of different dispositions, proportiona-vernment to a double; lest perpetual or sole bly answering to his daughters; he (willing dominion might be some motive to uluro add water, not oyl, to sire) gave the pation; and instead of Kings they called mild daughter to Sextus the hor-headed them Consuls, fignifying, as it may be interfon, and the violent, to Aruns the gentle in preted, Providers: that their titles might marriage. But whether by intended cour-remember them of their place, which was fes, or by accident, it hapned; the two to be alwayes mindfull of their Citizens welmild ones being made away, the furious na- fare. And yet was it so hard setling of tures were readily joyned in marriage: troubled waters, that the people, after this who foon concurring, and calling the Senate innovation of State, scarce daring to assure together, began to lay claim to the King-themselves of their own security, enforced dom. Upon this tumult, Servius Tullius Larquinus Collatine to resign up his authohastening to the Senate, (where he thought rity, fearing that tyranny would be herediby Authority to have bridled Insolency ) tary, and supposing that the very name and was thrown down the stairs, and going home affinity with the house of Tarquine, savoured fore bruifed, was slain by the way, when he already of their condition. In his room was had reigned 44 years. Then Tullia his substitute Valerius Publicola, who that he daughter, first proclaiming her Husband might (as his name importeth) be gracious to the people, and that he might as wen in Bruin, his enemy, in lingle combat, had goods as in person, avoid occasion of suspiring flain each other. And here the Romans, altion, caused his own house to be pulled though they lost, Ernius got the field, and down, because it was built in a place defentheir Ladies, whose Champion he was, for fible, as if it had been a Cittadel. Neither their chastity, not for beauty, mourned the was Brutus any wayes deficient in matter of loss of him one whole year. Into this place, was brane any wayes deficient in matter of lates of find one whose year, into this place, greater moment; which concerned as well for the refidue of his year, was fubrogated the peoples fafety, as their favour: for ha-ving got intelligence, that fome greener tia: and in his room (deceasing naturalwits, and in the first rank his own sons, were ly before the year expired ) Horatius Palitching after innovations, hoping to restore villus. the banished Kings; he caused them, publickly in the Market-place, to be whipt, and lackly in the Market-place, to be whipt, and then to be brought all unpartially to the against the stream, but spent the residue of block.

blemished integrity of Brutus, well appealed Mamilins Tusculanus, itomaching a-fresh at to obtain the rest.

him again in his Kingdom.

in the peoples eyes, gave liberty, in matters yet the edge of Tarquinius his fpleen was not in the peoples eyes, gave morty, in matters yet the eoge of Larquinum his spleen was not of controversite to appeal from the Consuls quite abated, though Aruns his Son, and to the people, and that he might as well in Brutus, his enemy, in single combat, had his time, which was about fourteen years. Hitherto the Romans, having by the un-privately at Tusculum. Yet his Son-in-law all inbred quarrels at home, now hereafter those old repulses, because Porsenna had imployed their military defignments against made peace with the Romans, and denved Forragners: first, for their liberty; second-further succour unto the Tarquines, mustered ly, for inlarging of their possessions; and up his Latins, and gave battel to the Rolastly, for defending their confederate Pro- mans, at the Lake Regillum; where the convinces, and extending their Empire. For flict was fierce, and the iffue uncertain, untill Rome, fituated as it were in the mid-way Anlus Posthumus, the Roman Dictator, (for between Latium and the Tuscans, having as they had created this Magistracy greater yet but narrow bounds, being in her mino- than Confuls, purposely for this war, when rity, could not but give occasion of offence first it was expected) to exasperate his Soulto her neighbours; untill by main opposit diers courage, threw their own Ensigns tion, having prevailed against her border- amidst the Enemies; and Cossus, or Spurius ers, the used them as instruments, whereby cassius, (Master of the Horie-men, an attifrant Officer to the Dictator) commanded to Their first war, in the first year of Con- take off their bridles, that they might run fuls, was against Porfenna King of Hetruria: with free violence, to recover again their who being over-perswaded by Tarquins la- Ensigns. This fight was so well performed mentation, came to Rome, together with the that a report went of Castor and Pollux, two banished King, and with great forces, to seat gods, who came on milk-white Steeds, to be eye-witneffes of their valour, and fellow In the first conslict, Horatius Cocles, having helpers of their Victory; for the General long time born the main brunt of his ene-consecrated a Temple to them, as a stipend mies on the Bridge over Tibris, at length, feeling himfelf too faint to stand against so seeling himfelf too faint to stand against so seeling himfelf too faint to stand against so many, caused the bridge behinde him to be reflected upon themselves at home; and the broken down, and with his armour leaping fixteenth year after the Kings expulsion, upinto the River, like a hunted Stagg, refresh-on instigation of some desperate banckrours, ed his hot spirits, and returned safe to his thinking themselves wrongfully oppressed fellows, with the like resolution to sustain a by the Senate and Consuls, they made an new charge. Porfenna, although by this he uproar in the holy Mount; until by Menehad well-nigh won the hill Janiculus, which nius Agrippa, his discreet allusion, of the inis the very entrance into the City, and found convenience in the Head and Belly's discord, the Victory, in a manner, affuredly his own: to that present occasion, they were reconyet admiring their valour, and terrified by ciled to the Senate: with condition, that the constant resolution of Mutius Scavola they might have some new Magistrates (who having by errour flain Porsenna his Se-created, to whom they might appeal in cacretary, in ftead of the King himself, did in fes of variance, and make them Solicitors in from of torments threatned, burn off his all their controversies, the Consuls authoown hand) he thought it not any whit pre- rity notwithstanding. This was enacted, judicial either to his fafety, or credit, to en and they were called the Tribunes of the ter league with them at the worst hand. And people. After this attonement among the Latines, concerning their bounds and try in the space of fixteen dayes. In the conlimits, and with other neighbouring States. tinuance of this Volfcian war, it was that Ap-Among these, the Volici and Equi held them pius Claudius, one of the ten men, whom they longest; who made War of themselves upon had two years before chosen Governous the Romans: whereby they lost the best of the State, and Inactors of Solons Laws City in their whole jurisdiction, Corioli.

-15

In this conquelt, T. Martins got the furname of Coriolanus: a name honourable all other Magistrates) would have ravished then, as drawn from a great Victory; al- Virginia, the daughter of T. Virginius, Capthough, by reason of the poverty of the tain of a company, and lying then in a Camp Town, a Roman General, in after times, at Algidum. Hercupon the people in an would have been ashamed of that title. But uproar took the Hill Aventine, and after vet these graces had been no occasion of dis- much variance, enforced the ten men to paragement, had he not afterwards in a great refign up their authority again to new time of dearth, advised to sell corn, which Consuls. they procured from siril, at too high a rate, to the people, whereupon Decius Mus, their to revenge old losses, drew the Romans into Tribune, in their behalf, accused him, and a new war against the Veientes and their after judgement banished him. Coriolanus adherents, upon whom, having tried their flying to the Voljei, whom lately before he forces with diversity of Captains, and variehad vanquished, incensed them to renew ty of event, they vanquished the Falisci, and their forces again; which being committed the Fidenates, and utterly subdued the Veiunto him, and to Attius Tullus, he prevailed entes. In conquering the Falifei, Furius in field, fo far forth, that he was come within Camillas shewed no less integrity than fortifour or five miles of the City. Incamping tude. For when a Schoolmaster, by trainthere, he made to sharp war, and was at such ing forth into the Roman camp, many childefiance with his Country, that he would dren of the principal Citizens, thought to not relent by any supplication of Embassa-dours, until his mother Peturia, and Volum-hostages: Camillus delivered this Traitor dours, untill his mother Veturia, and Volumnia his wife, with a pitifull tune of depreca- bound unto his Souldiers, willing them to tion, shewing themselves better Subjects to whip him back into the City; which forththeir Country than friends to their Son and with yielded unto him in reverence of his Husband, were more available to Rome than Justice. The siege of Veii was ten years, and was any force of Arms. Hereupon Coriolanus fo troublesome, that the Romans were there dismissing his Army, was after put to death first inforced to winter abroad under beasts among the Vollei, as a Traitor, for neglecting fkins (to which they were the more easily fuch opportunity: or (as others surmise) induced, because then first they received turally.

Not long after this the Veii in Hetruria, provoked the Romans; against whom the they got solarge spoils, that they consecrated Fabii, three hundred and fix in number, all their tenths to Apollo Pythius: and the whole of one Family, intreated and obtained, that people in general were called to the ranthey only might be employed, as it had been facking of the City. But yet they were no vanquished Hannibal.

troubled with the Volsci, at the hill of Aleidum, two miles from Rome; where Lucius with fucce's answerable to his expedition, Countries. Some of them lighting on Italy, themselves, they had continual War with dispersed his enemies, and freed his Counamongst them, procured from Athens (abrogating in the mean while the Confuls, and After this, either new quarrels, or defire living with them untill old age, he died na- pay) and to make vows never to return without Victory. At length winning the City by a Mine, in a private quarrel. These Fabii, after less unthankfull to Camillus for his service, fome good services, lying incamped at Cre- than before they had been to Coriolanni; mera, were circumvented, and all slain: one for they banished him the City, upon some only of that whole house had been left, by occasion of inequality in dividing the spoils: reason of infancy, at home; from whom yet he requited their unkindness with a new afterward sprang Fabius Maximus, who piece of service against the sury of the Gauls; who being a populous Countrey, In process of time, the Romans were also and very healthfull, the fathers (as some times now ) lived to long, that the fons destitute of means, were enforced to roave Minutius their Conful, with his whole Army, abroad, feeking some place where to set up had been discomfitted, had not L Quinting their rest: and withall being a Nation vaste Cincinatus chosen Dictator, and taken from in body, rude by nature, and barbarous in the plough to the highest honour in Rome, conditions, wandred as Rovers over many

CHAP VII. fer upon Cluffum a Town in Hetruria: where with their blood, forcing them to reffore of Rome having information (and being care- the spoils with advantage, and forbear the tul of her Confederate Towns) fent Embaf gold, in accepting which they had lately tation is said and the said from fuch been fornice. Further, having rid the City of injurious enterprises. But the barbarous them, he to hotly puriued them thorow a people, not regarding the meffage, upon great part of Haly, that the remainder of their Army which escaped from him, was dours, converted their forces from Clusium very small. Other Armies of the Gauls towards Rome; and giving a great overthrow unto the Romans, by the River Allia, upon cefs. They were often beaten by the Romans; the fixteenth day before the Calends of Au- especially the victories of M. Jorquatus, and goff (which day was after branded for un- of M. Valerius Coroinus (each of which in lucky, and called Alliensis in the Roman Ka- single fight slew a several Champion of the lendar) they hastned towards the City. Then Gauls) abated their presumption, and rewas Rome the true map of milery and defola- ftored courage to the Romans, Camillus, for tion. For some leaving the City; some creep- his notable service, was afterwards accounting into holes; Priests hiding their reliques; ed a second Romulus. and, every one shifting for himself ere the enemy came, Rome was abandoned as in- City, were earneftly bent to go to the Veii to defentible. The Vestal Virgins, in this tu- inhabit; but Camillus disliwaded them. mult, were fafely conveyed away; the An- About the same time, somewhat before cients of the City, gathering boldness out of the siege of Veii they changed their govern desperate fear, did put on their Robes, and ment from Consuls to military Tribunes. taking their leave of the world, did fet The government of these also, after some themselves in Thrones, in their several years, was by civil diffention interrupted:

good the Capitol. Gails, with open insolency, made their est City then in all Italy.

The people, after this destruction of their houses, hourly expecting the messengers of to that one while Consuls ruled, another death, and meaning to dye, as they had lived, while there was an Anarchy. Then the Triin State. The younger fort, with M. Manlius bunes were restored and ruled again, till, aftheir Captain, took upon them to make ter many years expired, the Confular authority was established, it being enacted, that By this the Gauls were entred the City, one of the Consuls should alwayes be a Plewho seeing all quiet, at first suspected some beian. This was after the building of the ambush; afterward finding all secure, they City 365 years. And now Rome, by suppresfell to the spoil, committing all to the fire sion of her neighbour Countries, creeping and fword. As for the old Senators, they fate | well forward out of her Minority, dares fet in their Majesty with a grave resolution; forth against the warlike Samnites, who having first reverenced them as gods, anon dwelt almost one hundred and thirty miles they tryed whether they would dye like off: situated between Campania and Apulia. men. When the City was throughly rifled, These did so strongly invade the Campanians they attempted the Capitol: which held their neighbours, that they forced them to them work for the space of seven months. yield themselves subjects to Rome, and un-Once they were like to have surprised it by dergo any conditions of Tribute, or whatnight, but being descried by the gaggling of soever else to obtain protection: which the Geele, M. Manlius did awaken, and kept Romans, although both Countries had been them from entrance. At lengtha composition their confederates, yet not willing that the was agreed upon: the Gauls being weary, greater, like fish, should devour the less and the Romans hungry. The bargain was, eafily allowed of; aiming themselves at the that the Gauls should take a thousand good situation of Campania, the abundance pound weight in gold, to desist from their of Corn and Wine, pleasant Cities and liege. Whilest the gold was in weighing, the Towns, but especially Capua it self, the fair weights too heavy: Brennus their Captain, The families of the Papprii and Fabii were casting his sword into the ballance, and with most imployed in the managing of this Wa. a proud exprobration, faying, that the van- which endured the space of fifty years. And quished must be patient perforce. But in the in this season were the Romans often times midst of this cavilling came Furius Camillus dangerously encountred by the Samnites, with an Army from Ardea, (where he had as when T. Veturius and Sp. Fosthumius lived in his banishment) and fell upon the were Consuls, and discomsited by Pontius Gauls with fuch violence, that he dispersed at Caudium, with no small ignominy : and their troops, quenched the fire of the City when Q. Fabius Gurges lost the field with Вьььь many great Victories made large amends: brought them into quiet subjection. The greatest whereof were gotten by L. Papyrius, and by Quintus Fabius Maximus.

748 three thousand men. But for those losses, ver Nar and Velia, to the Adriatique Sea.

their quarrel. But the force of the Samnites selves as mediatours between the Romans was well broken, ere the Hetrurians (the and Samnites; with a peremptory denungreater and richer, but less warlike Nation) ciation of War, unto that party which should began to stir. So the one and the other of dare to refuse peace by them tendred. These these two Countries, became at length, tribu- threats which discovered their bad affection tary to Rome. In the continuance of this long unto Rome, ended in words; but when the war it was (though in time of truce between Samnites were utterly subdued, matter the Romans and Samnites) that the Latins enough of quarrel was found to examine began to challenge equal freedom in the their ability of performance. Corporation of Rome, and right in bearing office, so that they required to have one of of theirs were robbed, and sent Embassathe Consuls yearly chosen out of them.

made offer to change their name, and to be and Apulians, joyning with the Tarentines.

the vertue of the Confuls.

were then Confuls, whom the Soothlayers as the Tarentines also were) great hope was advertised, that the side should be victorious conceived, that the Dominion of Rome which loft the General in fight. Hereupon should be confined unto more narrow Decius the Consul exposed his life to the ene- bounds than all Italy, which already in a my and purchased victory (as was believed) manner it did over-spread. by his death. In which kind of devoting himself for his Army, the son of this Decius being after Consul, did imitate his father in the Hetrurian war. But (as Tully well notes) How Pyrrhus warred upon the Romans, and it was rather the desperate resolution of these Decii, that purchased victory, by rushing into the midst of the enemies, wherein their Souldiers followed them, than any great commendation of such a Religion, as compelled a while to live in rest: which he required the lives of so worthy Citizens, to be sacrificed for their Country. The disci- have desired. He had a strong Army, and a pline of Manlius was no less resolute, than enemy. For breach of which order he caufflain a Captain of the Latins, being challenged in fingle fight.

When the Latins, the Equi, Volsci, Herwici , Campani , Samnites , and Hetrurians .

Yet the Sabines adventured to try their fortune, and found it bad. For Curius Den- defire of finding it, the Tarentine Embaffatains, the Roman Conful, wasting all their dours came very fitly to Pyrrhus : and they Country with fire and fword, from the Ri- came with brave offers, as needing no other

The last of the Italians that made trial of the Roman arms, were the Tarentines and The Sammies drew the Hetrarians into their adherents. These had interposed them-

The Romans complained that certain ships dours unto Tarentum, to require amends. This demand of the Latins was not un- Upon some wrong done to these Embassareasonable. For the Romans themselves were dours, was laid the foundation of that War. a Latin Colony; besides all which, they wherein the Lucans, Messapians, Brutians, all called Romans. But the Romans were too procured the Samnites, and other Subjects proud to admit any such capitulation. So a of Rome to rebell and take their part. But great battel was fought between them : fome experience of the Roman strength. wherein the fortune of Rome prevailed, by taught all these people to know their own nevertue of the Confuls.

e vertue of the Confuls.

Manins Torquatus and the elder Decius for Pyribus, by whose aid cheing a Greeian,

6. II.

vanquished them in two battels.

D'rrhus, forsaken by the Macedonians, and unable to deal with Lylimachus, was abhorred no less than a wifer Prince would good Fleet, which in that unfettled estate of the valour of Decius. He forbade any one things, was enough to purchase a Kingdom: to for take his place, and fight fingle with an but the fall of Demetrius had so increased the power of Lysimachus, that it was no point ed his own fon to be put to death, who had of wisdom to make an offensive war upon him, without far greater forces : Antigonus, the fon of Demetrius, held Corinth at the fame time, and some other Towns, with the remainder of his Fathers Army and treasures, with some other people, were brought un- lest in his hand. Upon him it is like that der obedience; it was a vain labour for any Pyrrhus might have won; but it was better people of Italy to contend against the Ro- to let him alone, that he might serve to give fome hindrance to Lysimachus.

In this want of imployment, and covetous

CHAP. VII. they would cast themselves under his pro- ces: than the issue of their vaunting promirection. They had in their company some of fes. He was now driven either to fet forward the Samnites, Lucanians, Messapians, and others; which promifed, in behalf of their several Nations as much as could be defired. alking what he meant to do after every of marched. the victories which he hoped to get : that contented with his own.

he prepared his Army, of almost thirty thou- nor feared him their enemy. fand men, well forted, and well trained inperson. At his coming, he found the Taarms, and making fuch a strict muster, as ly behooving to their estate.

Whilst he was occupied with these cares, Levinus the Roman Conful drew near, and derate with the Tarentines in this War.

The Lucanians were not ready to defend their own Countrey; the Samnites were careless of the harm, that fell not ( as yet ) their valour was little : all of these had been accustomed to thrink for fear of the Roman fortitude: and therefore it fell out happily, aid than his good conduct, which to obtain, I that Pyrrkus relied more upon his own forwith those that himself had brought into Italy, and the affiftance of the Tarentines, wherein little wasto be reposed; or else to This encouraged Fyrrhus, and filled him weaken the reputation of his own fufficienwith hopes of goodly conquests; that he cy, which by all means he was careful to upnightenlarge his Empire to the West, as far hold. In good time a great part of his foras Alexander had gotten Eastward; and ces, that had been scattered by foul weather fill by one victory open the gate unto ano- at Sea, were fafely come to him: with ther. To which effect it is faid, that once which he resolved to assay the valour of he answered Cyneis his chief Counsellour, the Romans, against whom he proudly

Levinus the Conful was not affrighted having won Rome, he would foon be Master with the terrible name of a great King; but of all Italy; that, after Italy he would came on confidently to meet him, and give quickly get the Ille of sicil; that, out of him battel ere all his adherents should be sicil, he would pass over into Affrick, and ready to joyn with him. This boldness of win Carthage, with all the rest of the Count the Roman, and the slackness of the Messatrev; and being strengthened with the force pians, Lucanians, Samnites, and others, whom of all these Provinces, he would be too hard the danger most concerned, caused Pyrrhue for any of those that were now so proud to offer a treaty of peace: requiring to have and troublesome. But Gyneas enquired yet the quarrel between the Romans and his further, what they should do, when they Italian friends, referred to his arbitrement. were Lords of all. Whereunto Pyrrhus Whether he did this to win time, that the (finding his drift) answered pleasantly, that samnites and their fellows might arrive at they would live merrily; a thing (as Cyne- his Camp; or whether, confidering better as then told him ) that they prefently might at near distance, the weight of the busine's do, without any trouble, if he could be which he hadtaken in hand, he were desirous to quit it with his honour; the short Nevertheles, this Italian Expedition answer that was returned to his proposition, seemed unto Pyrrbus a matter of such consequence, as was not to be omitted, in regard other: for the Romans fent him this word. of any scholastical disputation. Wherefore that they had neither chosen him their Judge,

Hereupon both Armies hastned their fouldiers: part of which he sent over before march unto the River of siris: Lavinus inhimunder Cyness, with the rest he followed tending to fight before the arrival of the Samnites ; Pyrrhus, to hinder him from pafrentines, very prompt of tongue, but in mat- fing that River, until his own Army were ter of execution, utterly careless to provide full. Upon the first view of the Roman Camp, for the war. Wherefore he was fain to it was readily conceived by Pyrrhus, that he that up their Theatre, and other places of had not now to do with barbarous people, pleasure and resort, enforcing them to take but with men well trained in a brave discipline of War: which caused him to set a was to them very unpleasing, though great- strong Corps de garde upon the passage of the river, that he might not be compelled to fight, until he saw his best advantage. But he quickly found, that this new enemy was began to waste Lucania, a Province confe- not only skilful in the Art of War, but couragious in execution. For the Roman Army entred the Foord, in face of his Corpse de garde; and their horse, at the same time began to pass the River in sundry places: which upon themselves; the Tarentines were better caused the Greeks to forsake the defence of prepared than they would have been, but their bank, and speedily retire untotheir

This audacity forced Pyrrbus to battel; wherewith he thought it best to present Вывыь 2 them. them, ere the whole Army had recovered than he could many such victories. Therefirm focting, and were in order. So direct- fore he thought it good to compound ing his Captains how to marthal his bat- with them whilest with his honour he tels; himself with the horse charged upon might; and to that purpose he sent unto the Romans: who stoutly received him as them Cyness his Embassadour, demanding men well exercised in sustaining surious im- only to have the Tarentines permitted to pressions. In this fight, neither did his cou- live at rest, and himself accepted as their rage transport him beyond the duty of a especial friend. This did Cyness, with all careful General; nor his providence in di- his cunning, and with liberal gifts labour to recting others, hinder the manifestation of effect: but neither man nor woman couldbe his personal valour. It behooved him indeed found in Rome, that would take any bribe to do his best; for he never met with better of him; neither did their desire of recoveroppofers. Once, and shortly after the fight ing their captives, or their danger, by the began, his horse was slain under him: after- riling of many States in Italy against them. wards, he changed armour with a friend ; so incline them to peace, as the vehement but that friend paid his life for the use of exhortation of Appius Claudius, an old and his Kings armour, which was torn from his blind Senator, did stir them up to make back. This accident had almost lost him good their honour by war. So they rethe battel; but he perceiving it, discovered turned answer, that whilest Pyrrhus abode his face, and thereby restored courage to in Italy, they would come to no agreement his men, and took from the Romans their with him. vain joy. The fight was obstinate, and with the greater loss (at least of more emiliais return, of the Roman puissance andvernent men) on Pyrrhus his fide, as long as tue, as kindled in Pyrrhus a great defire of only spear and sword were used. But when confederacy with that gallant City. Herethe Elephants were brought into the wings, upon many kind Offices passed between whose unusual form and terrible aspect, the them: but still when he urged his motion horses of the Romans (unaccustomed to of peace, the answer was; He must first depart the like ) were not able to sustain; then out of Italy, and then treat of peace. was the victory quickly gotten. For the In the mean feafon, each part made pro-Roman battels, perceiving their horse put vision for war; the Romans levying amore to the rout, and driven out of the field; mighty Army than the former; and Pyrrhus finding also themselves both charged in being strengthened with access unto his flank, and over-born, by the force and forces of all the East parts of Italy. So huge bulk of those strange beasts; gave they came to the trial of a second battel, way to necessity, and saved themselves, as wherein (though after long and cruel fight) well as they could, by hafty flight: in the boifterous violence of the Elephants which consternation, they were so forgetfull gave to Pyrrhu a second victory. But this of their discipline, that they tarried not to defend their Camp, but ran quite beyond it, had been: rather it gave him cause to say, leaving both it, and the honour of the day, that such another victory would be his utentitely to Pyrrhus.

over Italy; and the reputation was no less drave the Romans into their Camp, yet than the fame. For it was a matter very rare he could not force them out of it, nor

Such was the report that Cyneas made at ter undoing. For he had loft the flower of The fame of this victory was foon spread his Army in this battel: and though he to be heard, that a Roman Consul, with a se- saw any likelihood of prevailing against lect Army, should lose in plain battel, not them, that were like to be relieved with only the Field, but the Camp it felf, being daily supplies, whilest he should be driven so notably fortified as they alwayes were. to spend upon his old stock. Neither And this honour was the more bravely won could he expect that his Elephants should by Pyrrbus, for that he had with him none of alwayes stand him in stead. A little knowhis Italian friends, fave the unwarlike Taren- ledge of their manner in fight would foon tines. Neither could he well dissemble his teach the Romans, that were apt Scholars content that he took, in having the glory in fuch learning, how to make them unof this action reculiarly his own, at fuch ferviceable. Wherefore he defired nothing time as he blamed the Lucans and Samnites, more, than how to carry his honour for coming (as we fay ) a day after the safe out of Italy: which to do (seeing Fair. Nevertheless he wisely considered the the Romans would not help him, by offerstrength of the Romans, which was such, ing or accepting any fair conditions of as would better endure many such losses, peace, or of truce) he took a slight occasibe related.

ø. 111.

goes back to his own Kingdom.

Patron selenems, he prefently feized upon long, ere he flew them, and drave her into all the Dominions of Lysimachus in Europe, as exile. an the boundaries and the due reward unto him. In the pride of this good fuccess, which that had lain the Conquerour. The houses his villany found, vengeance came upon of Caffander and Lyfinachus were then fal-himfrom a far, by the fury of a Nation that len to the ground: neither was there in he never heard of. Belgius a Captain of the Macedon any man of ftrength and reputa- Gauls, having forced his paffage through tion enough to advance himfelf against ce many Countreys, unto the contines of Maramus. The friends of Lysmachus were rather cedon, fent a proud message to Ceraunus, pleased to have him their King, that had (as commanding him to buy peace with money, heprofessed) revenged their Lords death; or otherwise, to look for all the miseries of than any way offended with the odiout war. These Gauls were the race of those, ness of his fact, by which they were freed that iffued out of their Countrey, to seek from subjection, to one, against whom they new seats in that great expedition, wherein had flood in opposition. Many there were, Brennus took and burnt the City of Rome. that upon remembrance of his fathers great They had divided themselves, at their setvertue, gathered hope of finding the like ting forth, into two companies; of which in Ceranus: perswading themselves that the one fell upon Haly; the other, passing his reign might prove good, though his en- through the Countreys that lye on the Nortrance had been wicked. These affections of thern side of the Adriatick Sea, made long the Macedonians did serve to defeat Antigo- abode in Pannonia, and the Regions adjoynnus the fon of Demetrius, that made an ating, where they forced all the neighbour tempt upon the Kingdom. As for Antigonus Princes to redeem peace with tribute, as the fon of selencus, he was far off, and might now they would have compelled Cerannus be questioned about some part of Asia, ere todo: unto whose borders they came about he should be able to bring an Army neer un- an hundred and eight years after such time to Europe. Yet he made great shew of mean- as their fellows had taken Rome. ing to revenge his Fathers death: but being ftronger in money than in arms, he was content, after a while, to take fair words, and was, that he would be contented to give make peace with the murtherer. While these them peace, but it must be with condition, three strove about the Kingdom, Pyrrhus, that they should put into his hands their who thought his claim as good as any of Princes as hostages, and yield up their arms; theirs, made use of their diffention: threat-otherwise he would neither pardon their ming war, or promifing his affiftance to eve-boldness, nor give any credit to their words. ry one of them. By these means he strengthe- At this answer, when it was returned, the ned himself, and greatly advantaged his Ha- Gauls did laugh; saying, That they would questing money of Antiochus, ships of Antigostrong power of Macedonian Souldiers, and of Elephants (covenanting to have them restored at two years end) more for fear than for love : that fo he might free himfelf from trouble, and quietly enjoy his Kingdom.

on, prefented by fortune, that followeth to Thus Ptolomy grew mighty on the fudhe had gotten, by means as wicked he eacreafed.

All Macedon and Thrace being his, the The great troubles in Macedon and Sicil. How strong City of Cassandria was held by Arlinee pyrrhus, being invoited into Sicil, forfook his filter, the widow of Lylimachus, who lay ltaly; wan the most of the Ise, and lost it therein with her young children. Her he in hort space. Pyrrhus returns into Italy, circumvented by making love to her, and m poor pace. Fyrings Romans, and fo (according to the fashion of those times, (anguinity ) taking her to wife, with pro-WHen Prolomy Ceraums had traited mife to adopt her children: a promife that roufly murdered his Benefactor and he meant not to perform; for it was not

When their Embassadours came to Ptololian voyage, which he had then in hand : re- foon confute with deeds, the vanity of such proud words. It may feem strange, nu, and fouldiers of Ptolomy, who gave him that he, who had given away part of his his daughter in marriage, and lent him a Army unto Pgrrhus, for very fear ; should be so confident in undertaking more mighty enemies. The King of the Dardanians offered to lend him twenty thousand men against the Gauls: but he scorned the offer; saying. That he had the children of those, which unall the East. Thus he issued forth against all thage. To him therefore the Syracusans, Leon. the barbarous people with his famous Ma- times, and Agragentines, principal Estates of cedonians, as if the Victory must needs have the Isle, sent Embassadours, earnestly desifollowed the reputation of a great Name. ring him to take them into his protection. But he foon found his great errour when it was too late. For the Enemies were not on- fuch notable occasions of enlarging his Doly equal in strength of body, and sierceness minions, should fall out so unluckily, both at of courage, but lo far superiour to the Maecdonians in number, that few or none elcaped their fury. Fiolomy himself grievously of likelihood; or whether perhaps he bewounded, fell into their hands, whilest the lieved (as came after to pass) that his adbattel continued; and they prefently strook vantage upon Macedon would not so hashiv off his head, which they shewed to his men pass away, but that he might finde some ocon the top of a Lance, to their utter afto casion to lay hold on it at better leisure; nithment.

The report of this great overthrow filled all Macedon with fuch desperation, that the people fled into walled Towns, and abandoned the whole Country as loft. Only Softhenes, a valiant Captain, animating as many as he could, gathered a small Army, with which he many times got the upper-hand, and hindred Belgius from using the Victory at his whole pleasure. In regard of this his tumultuous, than well-ordered, or notevertue, the Souldiers would have made him King; which title he refused, and was contented with the name of a General. But (as mischiefs do seldom come alone) the good fuccess of Belgius drew into Macedon, Brennus, another Captain of the Gauls, with an hundred and fifty thousand foot, and fifteen thousand horse ; against which mighty Army, opposition, he was easily beaten, and the Macedonians again compelled to hide themfelves within their walls, leaving all their Countrey to the spoil of the Barbarians.

too little for a King of Macedon.

ried to Pyrrbus in Italy, who fought a fair them of all that they had. pretext of relinquishing his War with the Romans; had not other tydings out of sicil for Italy; but was first beaten by the Caribadistracted him, and carried him away in pur-fuit of nearer hopes. For after the death of affailed in Italy it self, by eighteen hundred Agathocles, who reigned over the whole Mamertines, that attended him in the straits Illand, the Caribaginians sent an Army to of the Country. Lastly, after he had recoconquer sicil, out of which, by him, they had vered Tarentum, he fought a third battel been expelled. This Army did so fast pre- with the Romans, led by M. Curius, who was vail, that the silicians had no other hope to victorious over him, and forc't him out of avoid flavery, than in submitting themselves Italy into his own Epirus. to the rule of Pyrrhus; whom, being a Gre- A Prince he was far more valiant than cian, and a noble Prince, they thought it constant; and had he been but a General of an more for their good to obey, than to live Army for some other great King or State, and der the conduct of Alexander had subdued under the well-known heavy yoak of Car-

It grieved Pyrrhus exceedingly, that two one time. Yet whether he thought the bufiness of sicil more important, or more full over into sicil he transported his Army, leaving the Tarentines to shift for themselves; yet not leaving them free as he found them. but with a Garrison in their Town to hold them in subjection.

As his departure out of Italy was rather grounded on head-long passion, than mature advice; fowere his actions following, untill his return into Epirus, rather many and worthy. The Army which he carried into that I'le, confifted of thirty thousand foot, and two thousand five hundred horse: with which, foon after his descent into sicil, he forc't the Carthaginians out of all, in effect, that they had therein. He also won the strong City of Eryx; and having beaten the Mamertines in battel, he began to change when softhenes with his weak troops made condition, and turn Tyrant. For hedrave Softratus (to whom this cruelty was suspected) out of the Island, and put Thenon of Siracuse to death, being jealous of his greatness; which two persons had faithfully serv-Thus were the Macedonians destitute of ed him, and delivered the great and rich a King, and trodden down by a Nation that City of Syracufe into his hands. Afterthis, they had not heard of, in less than fifty years his fortunes declined so fast, as he served after the death of Alexander, who fought to himself, and salved the dif reputation of his discover and subdue unknown Countries, as leaving Sicil, by an Embassage sent him from if all Greece, and the Empire of Persia had been the Tarentines, and Samnites, imploring his present help against the Romans, who fince Very feafonably had these news been car- his leaving Italy, had well-neer disposses one Country or Kingdom, it is to be thought, Army. that he would have purchased no less howhereof not long after he died in Argos.

Taking this fair occasion, he imbarked

ø. IV.

How Antigonus, the Son of Demetrius, delinered Macedon from the Gaules. How from Antigonus.

don; and the fortune which had accompa- gius. Their coming was terrible and sudden; nied him against Belgius, failing him in his yet not so sudden, but that Antigonus had noattempts against Brennus: the Macedonians tice of it, who distrusting the courage of his felves from the impotent rule of his Father woods adjoyning, where he lay close. Demetrius. His coming into the Country with an Army, Navy, and Treasure beseem were not hasty to pursue him, but fell to ing a King, did rather breed good hope in ranfacking the empty Cabbins of the Soulthe people, than fill them with much confi- diers; in hope of finding all that was either dence: for he was driven to use against the lost or hidden. At length, when they had Barbarians, only those forces which he searched every place in vain, angry at their brought with him, having none other than loft labour, they marched with all speed togood wishes of the Macedons to take his wards the Sea-side; that they might fall uppart. Brennus with the main strength of his on him, whilst he was busie in getting his Men Army, was gone to fpoil the Temple of Apollolo and Carriages a ship-board. But the success to at Delphos, having left no more behinde was no way answerable to their expectation. him, than he thought necessary to guard the For being proud of the terrour which they borders of Macedon and Pannonia; which had brought upon Antigonus, they were fo were about fifteen thousand foot, and three careles of the Sea-men, that without all orin the absence of their fellows: and there- ground. fore fent unto Antigonus, offering to fell him ved. He thought hereby to make them un- to the service of Antigonus. derstand how great a Prince he was, and had been directed to have conquered any how able if need required, to wage a mighty

To which end, he likewise did shew unto that he would not of War, either preceding them his Camp and Navy, but especially his nour man any man for a greater Captain, or Elephants. But all this bravery ferved only or man, hath be n no where found to kindle their greedy appetites; who see-But he never trayed upon any enterprife; ing his ships heavy loaden, his Camp full of which was, indeed, the difeate he had wealth, and ill fortified himself (asit teemed) secure, and his men, both in strength and courage, inferiour unto the Gauls, thought all time lost wherein they suffered the prefent possessions to spend the riches which they accounted affuredly their own. They returned therefore to their companions with Pyrrhus won the Kingdom of Macedon none other news in their mouths, than of spoil and purchase: which tale carried the Gauls head-long to Antigonus his Camp, THE vertue of softbenes being too where they expected a greater booty, than weak to defend the Kingdom of Mace- the victory over Ceraunus had given to Belwere no less glad to submit themselves un own men, dislodged somewhat before their to the government of Antigonus, than they arrival, and conveyed himself, with his had been formerly desirous to free them whole Army and Carriage, into certain

The Gauls, finding his Camp for faken, thousand horse. These could not be idle, der, they fell to the spoil of what they found but thought to get somewhat for themselves, on the shore, and in such ships as lay on

Part of the Army had left Antigonus, peace, if he would pay well for it; which by where he lay in covert; and had faved it felf the example of Ceranns, he had learnt (as by getting aboard the Fleet: in which numthey thought) not to refuse. Antigonus was ber were some well-experienced men of unwilling to weaken his reputation by con- | War: who discovering the much advantage descending to their proud demands: yet he offered unto them, by the desperate prejudged it unfit to exasperate their furious sumption of their enemies, took courage, and choler, by uncourteous words or usage, as encouraged others to lay manly hold upon Ceraums had over-fondly done. Wherefore the opportunity. So the whole number, both he entertained their Embaffadours in very of Souldiers and Mariners, landing togeloving and sumptuous manner, with a royal ther, with great resolution, gave so brave a feast: wherein he exposed to their view such charge upon the disordered Gault, that abundance of massie gold and silver, that they their contemptuous boldness was thereby were not so much delighted with the meat, as changed into sudden fear, and they, after a with light of the vessels, wherein it was fer- great slaughter, driven to cast themselves in-

The fame of this Victory caused all the barbarous CHAP. VII.

CHAP. VIL

were overthrown.

To (peak more of the Gauls in this place, them were flain) after a sharp fight: whereand to flew how, about thefe times, three in it feems that Antigonus keeping his Mucedo-Tribes of them passed over into Asa the nian Phalanx within the streight, and not adlefs, with their wars and conqueits there; I vancing to their fuccour, took away their hold it needles: the victorious Armies of courage, by deceiving their expectation. The the Romans taming them hereafter in the Captains of the Elephants were taken foon Countries which now they wan, shall give after; who finding themselves exposed to better occasion to rehearse these matters the same violence that had consumed so ma-got him reputation among the barbarous antigonus and his Macedonians, to their great people; yet hisown Souldiers, that without discomfort; which emboldened Pyrrhu his leading had won this Victory, could not to charge them where they lay in their thereupon be perswaded to think him a strength. Where the Phalanx could be chargood man of war: knowing that he had no ged only in a front, it was matter of extreme interest in the honour of the tervice, where- difficulty (if not impossible) to force it. But in his conduct was no better than creeping the Macedonians had feen fo much, that they ly helpfull unto Fyrrhus: though as yet he adventured to draw near in person, and exknew not so much. For Fyrrhus, when his af-hort them to yield. Neither the common fairs in Italy stood upon hard terms, had Souldier, nor any Leader refused to become fand foot, and five hundred horse: an Army to those Towns afar off in Peloponnessus, in too little to be employed, by his restless na- which he had formerly lurked, before such ture, in any action of importance; yet great-time as he looked abroad into the world, er than he had means to keep in pay. There- and made himself a King. fore he fell upon Macedon; intending to take what spoil he could get, and make An- Epirot, and caused him to forget all forrow tigonus compound with him, to be freed of his late mil-fortunes in the Roman War: from trouble. At his first entrance into this so that he sent for his Son telenus (whom he bufines, two thousand of Antigonus his soul- had lest with a Garrison, in the Castle of diers revolted unto Pyrrhus; and many Ci- Tarentum) willing him to come over into ties, either willingly or perforce, received Greece, where was more matter of conquell, him. Such fair beginnings easily persivaded and let the Italians shift for themselves, the courage of this daring Prince to fet upon Antigonus himself, and to hazard his fortune, in trial of a Battel, for the whole Kingdom of Macedon.

- < 2

It appears, that Antigonus had no defire to fight with this hot warriour; but thought it the wifest way, by protracting of time, to weary him out of the Country. For Pyrrhus had now conceived a great hope weary him out of the Country. For Pyrrhus overtook him in a streight passage, and stand him; seeing that in open fight he had charged him in the rear; wherein were the vanquished the Gauls, and beaten Antigonus, barbarous Nations in those quarters to re- Gauls and the Elephants, which were entertain their ancient belief of the Mace- thought the best of his strength; a manifest donian valour: by which the terrible and proof that he was in retrait. The Gauls verefiftle's oppressors of so many Countries ry bravely sustained Pyrrhus his impression: vet were broken at length ( when most of ny of the Gauls, yielded themselves and Howfoever the good fuccess of Antigonus the beafts. All this was done in full view of had no defire to fight against Pyrrbus; who This (as prefently will appear) was great-discovered so well their affections, that he feet unto Antigonus for help: not without his follower. All forfook Antigonus, a few threats, in case it were denyed. So was he horse-men excepted, that sled along with fure to get either a fupply, wherewith to him to The falonica; where he had some small continue his War against the Romans; or forces left, and mony enough to entertaina fome feeming honourable pretence, to for- greater power, had he known where to lefake Italy, under colour of making his word by it. But whilft he was thinking how to algood, in feeking revenge. The threats lure a fufficient number of the Ganls into which he had used in bravery, meer necessity his service; whereby he might repair his los: forced him at his return into Epirus, to put Piolomy, the Son of Pyrrhus, came upon him, and easily defeating his weak forces, drave He brought home with him eight thou- him to flie from the parts about Macedon,

This good success revived the spirits of the

6. V.

How Pyrrhus affailed Sparta mithout success. His enterprise upon Argos, and his death.

was not in all Greece, nor, indeed, in all ftoutly defended. The delperate courage of the Lands that Alexander had won, any the Citizens preserved the Town the first Leader of fuch name and worth, as deserved ay; whereinto the violence of Pyrrhus had ed to be fet up against him: which filled forced entrance the second day, but that his him with the opinion that he might do wounded horse threw him to the ground, what he pleased. He raised therefore an which made his Souldiers more mindful of Army, confisting of five and twenty thou- faving the perion of their King, than of find foot, two thousand horse, and four breaking into the City, though already they and twenty Elephants; pretending War had torn in sunder the Barricadoes. Preagainst Antigonus, and the giving liberty fently after this, one of Antigonus his Capto those Towns in Peloponness, which the tains got into Sparta, with a good strength to more some held in subjection; though of men; and Areus the King returned out it was easily discovered, that such great pre- of Crete (where he had been helping his parations were made, for accomplishment friends in War) with two thousand men, little of fome design more important than War knowing the danger, in which his own against a Prince already vanquished, and Country stood, until he was almost at home. almost utterly dejected. Especially the La- These succours did not more animate the edemonians feared this expedition, as made Spartans, than kindle in Pyrrhus a defire to avainst their State. For Chonymus, one of prevail against all impediments. But the ther Kings, being exp wat of his Coun-third dayes work shewed how great his ertry, had betaken hir to Pyrrhus: who rour had been, in forbearing to affault the readily entertained nim, and promifed to Town at his first coming. For he was so restore him to his hangdom. This promise manfully repelled, that he saw no likeliwas made in secret; neither would Pyrrhus hood of getting the place, otherwise than make thew of any displeasure that he bare by a long siege: in which tedious course he unto Sparta; but contrariwise professed, had no desire to spend his time. that it was his intent, to have two of his own Antigonus had now raised an Army, younger Sons trained up in that City, as in though not strong enough to meet the Enea place of noble discipline. With such co-my in plain field, yet able to hinder all his lours he deluded men, even till he entred purposes. This made Pyrrhus doubtful upon Laconia; where presently he demean-what way to take; being diversly affected, edhimself as an open enemy; excusing him-by the difficulty of his enterprise in hand, felf and his former diffembling words with and the shame of taking a repulse in his first a jest; That he followed herein the Lacede- attempt. Whilst he was thus perplexed, monian custom, of concealing what was truly letters came from Argos, inviting him this purposed. It had been, indeed, the manner ther; with promise to deliver that City into of the Lacedemonians, to deal in like fort his hands. with others, whom, in the time of their | Civil Diffention raging then hotly in Argreatness, they sought to oppress: but now gos, caused the heads of several factions to they complained of that , as falshood, in call in Pyrrhus and Antigonus; but the come-Pyribus, which they alwayes practifed in ing of these two Princestaught the Citizens wisdom, till it made them distrusted, for- wit, and made them desirous to rid their faken, and almost contemptible. Neverthe- hands of such powerful affistants, as each of less, they were not wanting to themselves in the two Kings pretended himself to be. Anthis dangerous extremity. For the old men tigonus told the Argives, that he came to and women laboured in fortifying the fave them from the tyranny of Pyrrhus: and affurance of prevailing.

time, otherwise than with armed Citizens : part, if they so desired.

and wonthe Kingdom of Macedon. There Pyrrhus exceeding fiercely; and no lefs

Town; caufing fuch as could bear arms to that he would be gone, if they need not reserve themselves fresh against the assault: his help. On the other side, Pyrrhus would which Pyrrhus had unwifely deferred, upon needs perswade them, that he had none other errand, than to make them fafe from Sparta was never fortified, before this Antigonus; offering in like manner, to de-foon after this ( it being built upon uneven The Argives took small pleasure in hearground, and, for the most part, hard to apling the Fox and Kite at strife, which proach) the lower and more accessible pla- of them should keep the Chickens from his ces, were fenced with walls, at the present on- enemy : and therefore prayed them both ly trenches were cast, and barricadoes made to divert their powers some other way. with Carts, where the entrance seemed most Hereunto Antigonus readily condescended, whie. Three days together it was affailed by and gave hostages to assure his word: for good will. But Tyrrhus thought it enough led to mind an Oracle, which threatned to promise: Holtages he would give none him with death, when he should behold a to his inferiours, especially meaning deceit. Bull fighting with a Wolf: and that here-This made them suspect his purpose to be upon he made retrait. fuch, as indeed it was. Yet he less regarded Indeed, the coming of Antigonus to the tended to break ere the next morning.

CHAP. I.

should be opened by night unto Pyrrhus, by been away. The tumult was such, that no his Complices within Argos: which was directions could be heard; but as some gave accordingly performed. So his Army with back, fo did others thrust forward, and out any tunult entred the City: till the the Argives prefling hard upon him, forced Elephants, with Towers on their back, cloyed the way, being too high to pass the Gate. own fword. The tops of the houses were The taking off, and fetting on again of those covered with Women, that stood looking on Towers, with the trouble thereto belong the fight. Among these was one, that saw ing, did both give alarm to the City, and her own Son in dangerous cafe, fighting with fome leifure to take order for defence, before Pyrrhus. Wherefore the took a tile-ftone, to many were entred, as could fully master or slate, and threw it so violently down on guard) being ignorant of the wayes in the dark night. The Citizens, on the other tide, had much advantage, by their knowledge of every by-pallage: and fetting up returned the Kingdom of Macedon to Antion the enemies on all fides, did put them to gonus; who forthwith possessed the Army, great loss and more trouble.

contused noise, and unequal shoutings of his and was given by Antigonus unto Helenus his own men, that they were in distress, entred the City in person, to take order for their sent home into his Fathers Kingdom of Epipediments, kept him from doing any thing of moment, until break of day. Then began he to make his pallage by force, and fo quiet possession of the possessio place. It is faid, that reeing in that place the line image of a Wolf and a Bull, in fuch po-body of her own Empire.

he was the weaker, and stood in need of litture as if they had been combatant, he cal-their opinions, than to hold them worthy of rescue, the disorder and confusion of his affurance, by giving fuch a bond, as he in- own men, with divers ill accidents, gave him reasonable cause to have retired out of It was concluded, that a Gate of the City the City, though the Wolf and Bull had it. Argor was full of ditches, which greatly the head of Pyrrhuo, that he fell to the hindred the Gaules ( that had the Vant- ground aftonished with the blow; and lythe body, and the children of his Enemy. Pyrrbus therefore understanding by the The body of Pyrrbus had honourable burial, relief, and allurance of the place. But the rus. From this time forwards, the race of darkness, the throng, and many other im- antigonus held the Kingdom of Macedon; har prevailed, that he got into the Market- the City of Rome, twallowing all up, dige-

Finis Libri quarti.

FIRST PART OF THE OF THE

Intreating of the Times from the settled Rule of Alexanders Successors in the East, untill the Romans, prevailing over all, made Conquest of Aha and Macedon.

THE FIFTH BOOK.

CHAP. I. Of the first Punick War.

ø. I.

A Discussion of that Probleme of Livie; Whether the Romans could have relisted the Great Alexander. That neither the Macedonian nor the Roman Souldier, was of equal valour to the English.

